Faces at A Steam Show

Wayne, Winside to Vote on Fluoridation

Voters in both Wayne and Winside will get a chance in the November general election to decide whether they want to boost the fluoridation levels in their municipal water supplies.

Wayne County Clerk Morris Weible reported Wednesday that petition circulators in both communities gained enough signatures to put the issue on the ballot for the Nov. 5th election. The signatures will have to be verified by the city clerks in each community. Dan Sherry in Wayne and Marilyn Hill in Winside, before the issue can be ordered on the ballot, said Weible.

Both Weible and Sherry agreed there was little chance that the issue would be on the ballot since the petitions contained more than enough valid signatures.

Petitions in Wayne carried 530 signatures, 514 of which were valid, said Weible. A total of 471 valid signatures, 20 per cent of the 2,357 registered voters in the community, would be adequate to force the issue on the ballot, said Weible.

Petitions in Winside contained 71 signatures, one of which was not valid, according to the county clerk. A total of 47 signatures, 20 per cent of the 235 registered voters, would require the issue to be placed on the ballot in that community, he added.

Listed as circulators of the petitions in Wayne are Marilyn Otte, Jeannette Metteer, Harold Magnuson, Wesley Fritz and Kerry Otte. Winside's circulator is listed as Karen Gramberg.

State law will require communities in the state to add fluoride to their municipal water supplies if the fluoride level is less than seven tenths of one part per million (PPM). Communities will be required to boost the level to 1.0 PPM when the law goes into effect Jan. 1 unless voters decide against it at the voting booth.

Voters in Concord and Dixon rejected adding fluoride to their water supplies in the May primary election while voters in Laurel approved boosting the level in their water.

Wayne's water supply contains between 26 and 30 PPM of natural fluoride, according to the Nebraska Municipal Review, publication of the League of Nebraska Municipalities.

Winside's natural level ranges between .37 and .55 PPM, the publication reported late last year.

Levels of natural fluoride in both communities fall below the 7 PPM cutoff point written into the state law passed by the 1973 state legislature.

Petitions may be submitted by voters opposed to adding fluoride to the water supplies in the two other Wayne County communities, Carroll and Hoskins, according to the county clerk.

Carroll's natural fluoride level ranges between .37 and .43 PPM, according to the Nebraska Municipal Review, while the level in Hoskins ranges between .21 and .34 PPM.

Fluoridation of water has been a controversial subject in Nebraska communities in recent years, with a majority of communities voting against it in recent elections.

Proponents of adding fluoride stress its benefits in reducing cavities in youngsters.

Opponents say there is not enough scientific data on the long range effects of fluoride to justify its use. They note that dentists can apply fluoride to the teeth of individuals who want its benefits rather than adding it to the drinking water which is used by everybody regardless of their feelings about fluoridation.

Council Votes Against Initiating Sidewalk Work

Before any concrete results can come from the recent recommendations on remodeling Wayne's business district, property owners are going to have to show the city council they will follow through with a proposal to put in new sidewalks.

The council voted 6-1 Tuesday night to table a motion by councilman Darrel Fuelberth which would have resulted in the city paying for engineering work on a preliminary plan for tearing up old sidewalks and replacing them with new ones.

Fuelberth, who cast the lone vote to keep the proposal alive, said that would result in a cost estimate which could be presented to the business owners to see if they would be willing to go ahead with new sidewalks.

The council wants to do it the other way around — that is, to have the businessmen petition the council to create a paving district for sidewalks as proof of their intention of going ahead with the project.

The councilman who opposed Fuelberth's route said they don't want to spend tax money without being assured the businessmen would not throw out a paving district once it was created.

Vernon Russell said he "was reluctant" to spend several thousand dollars for a study without knowing for sure in advance that the new sidewalks would be installed.

Russell said he was doubtful if the majority of the property owners in the area Fuelberth was talking about would agree to go ahead with new sidewalks once they find out how much it will cost each one of them.

Although not specific, Fuelberth said he would like the paving district to include Main Street between First and Fourth Streets and a block on either side of Main. He said it could easily be enlarged to take in the Main Street area south of First or be reduced to exclude non-business areas on either side of Main.

Fuelberth is now expected to see SIDEWALKS, page 8.

Art Students Go Primitive

Primitive art is the interest of 14 Wayne State art students currently involved with a camping out class in northeastern Minnesota, near Ely.

They left Wayne Tuesday, with Carlos Frey of the WSC art faculty, to spend 10 days practicing various forms of art using native materials available in the semi-wilderness area.

Their campground is located at Camp Lake, on property owned by Ray Repplog, also of the WSC art faculty, who was there with his wife to greet the artists.

They will have numerous products of nature to work with. The land abounds with birch and spruce trees, plentiful rocks and a marshy lowland.

Pilger Shopper Claims Prize

A Pilger man, Melvin Claussen, earned $25 in Birthday Bucks in last week's drawing, a week after two rural Wayne residents split the $800 grand prize.

Claussen claimed the prize because he was the person in one of the participating businesses with a birthday closest to the date drawn at random and announced in all businesses at 8:15 Thursday night. Had his birthday matched the date drawn, he would have won the $300 grand prize.

Claussen, who was in Coast-to-Coast when the winning date was announced, may spend his Birthday Bucks coupons just like they were cash in any of the stores taking part in the weekly drawings.

As a result of the grand prize going unclaimed, it climbs to $225 in the drawing tonight (Thursday). If there is no winner tonight, another $25 consolation prize will be awarded and the grand prize will be worth $350 next week.

Thone Calls Drouth Loss in NEN 'Staggering'

By NORVIN HANSEN

Farm losses due to the drouth and depressed livestock prices in Wayne, Dixon and Cedar Counties have climbed to nearly $132 million, according to figures released this week by First District Congressman Charles Thone.

Using the commonly accepted view that a farm income dollar turns over eight times in the local economy, the three-county area has suffered a $1 billion blow to its local economy, according to Thone.

Wayne County's farm losses amount to $38,331,360 in crop losses because of the drouth and $12 million in livestock losses because of the drouth and depressed prices, Thone said.

Comparable losses in Dixon County are $24,997,753 in crop losses and $6,232,500 in livestock losses, while losses in Cedar County amount to $39,884,180 in crop losses and $10,500,000 in livestock losses, Thone's figures reveal.

Thone said that the 27-county first congressional district has suffered a $1.08 billion loss — $868,813,612 in crop losses and $208,568,200 in livestock losses.

That amounts to a staggering $8.6 billion blow to the district's economy when you consider that a farm dollar turns over eight times in the local economy, according to Thone.

The congressman, who said he has been visiting drouth areas in his district to get a personal look at the situation, has sent an urgent request to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz to visit

Nebraska to inspect the more than $2 billion in farm losses.

"Secretary Butz would have a better appreciation of the immensity of the drouth tragedy if he would view it firsthand," said Thone.

Estimates of the farm losses in the first congressional district were made county-by-county by local agricultural agents and representatives of three U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies — the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation See "STAGGERING," page 8.

She was awarded the Ak Sar-Ben scholarship for Nebraska teachers last summer and is presently a member of the Wayne State Foundation.

She is a member of the Grace Lutheran Church of Wayne where she teaches Sunday school. She serves as a volunteer for the Nebraska Crippled Children's Society, Red Cross and the March of Dimes, and her hobbies include music and reading.

On A Diet? Don't Skip Breakfast If you are trying to shed those few extra pounds you picked up during the summer months, don't skip breakfast. Cut down on the total number of calories you have each day, but don't cut out breakfast. It has been about 12 hours since dinner and you need protein and carbohydrates at breakfast time to keep blood sugar at proper levels to avoid that mid-morning slump. Eating breakfast will also help keep you from getting hungry in the middle of the morning and indulging in snack foods which may be high in calories but low in important nutrients you need.

A nutritionally adequate breakfast that can be easily adapted to fit the nutritional needs of all family members is juice, cereal with milk, toast and milk to drink.

NOTICE Real Estate Owners Of Wayne County Nebraska law requires that all counties in the state must be finished with up-dating appraisals by January 1, 1977. Each parcel of real estate must be examined. This up-dating will consist of the viewing of all buildings on each parcel of real estate. In order to appraise a building, the lister must see the interior of the structure. We like to know as much as possible about each property so we can do a better job. All field representatives will carry letters of identification which they will be glad to show upon request. If an interior inspection is refused, it will become necessary to estimate the interior (which in most instances would not benefit the taxpayer). This up-dating will be done by local personnel consisting of two listers and the office personnel in the assessor's office. The two listers are Donald Harmeier, Carroll and Bonnie Lund, Wayne. They are being trained by the State Tax Commissioner's Office and will be assisted by personnel from that office. In order that they can do a first class job, they must have every taxpayer's cooperation. DONALD HARMEIER BONNIE LUND Inspections Will Begin The Last Week Of August In The Wayne Area. Legion Wins 3 Straight to Claim Class B Crown

By BOB BARTLETT
Wayne's legion team 15 No. 11 Wayne, winner of the Ralph Bishop League, district and area tournaments, climbed on top of the Class B pack Tuesday night when the locals won the state crown at Aurora.

Through a combination of sharp pitching and strong hitting, Wayne mastered Aurora for the second time in the double-elimination tournament to claim its first state title since 1963.

Much of the strong pitching has to be credited to Earle Overin, son of coach Hank Overin. The right-hander threw in all three games, striking out a total of 23 opponents in 14 2/3 innings while giving up only five hits.

Although Overin put in an excellent showing during the tournament, Hank was quick to point out that the win "was a team effort. Good feeling also made a bid difference in our wins," he said.

Overin fanned 10 in the opening 7 2/3 win over Holdrege Saturday night, struck out one in the finishing touches of Sunday's 6-4 win over Aurora and then fanned 13 in the 6-1 title win over Aurora Tuesday night.

Overin started and finished both the first and last games and put in a two-thirds inning stint in the second game. That second game, however, turned out to be Wayne's closest.

Aurora had a 3-1 lead after two, forcing Hank to bring in Charlie Roland to relieve starter Randy Nelson after Nelson hurt his knee.

Wayne tied the game at 3-3 in the top of the fourth before Aurora bounced back at 4-3 in the fifth on a triple and single. The locals countered with runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh to take a 6-4 command, but Aurora managed to get runners on second and third with one away, forcing Hank to make another change. Earle then came in to help lead Wayne to its second tournament win.

Unlike the first and third games, hitting wasn't the team's strong point in Sunday's first match with Aurora. Wayne only had three hits, including a double and single by catcher Mike Meyer and a single by left fielder Marty Hansen. Yet, none of the hits drove in any runs.

Center fielder Gordon Cook and Overin sacrificed in two runs while Wayne's other runs came with the help of several Aurora errors.

Wayne totaled 21 hits in three games,

11 of them in the championship game Tuesday. Shortstop Kim Baker, Meyer, and Overin led Wayne hitters with two singles each.

The 11th hit attack started with the first batter, Hansen, in the opening inning. Hansen singled and advanced to second on a passed ball before first baseman Bill Schwartz doubled to put Wayne on the board. Meyer belted Wayne's third hit of the frame, a single, to score Schwartz and give the club a 2-0 lead.

Wayne went to work again in the second, lacing out three singles and a double. Roland got the two-bagger before Overin and right fielder Jack Froehlich connected for singles. Overin's single drove in Roland for a 3-0 count.

After Overin advanced to second and third on Froehlich's single and a passed ball, Hansen grounded out to first to score the team's fourth run. Froehlich later scored on an error.

The second frame, according to coach Overin, was half of the turning point in Wayne's final contest. The other half came the next frame when Aurora's starting hurler, Greg Nielsen, gave up the mound after Wayne again ripped three singles to score its sixth run.

Meyer opened the frame with a single before taking third on second baseman Randy Workman's one-bagger. Roland's fielder's choice scored Meyer before Overin ripped the team's 10th hit of the night.

In the first game, Wayne rapped eight hits — seven of them in the last two frames — to drop Holdrege, 7-2.

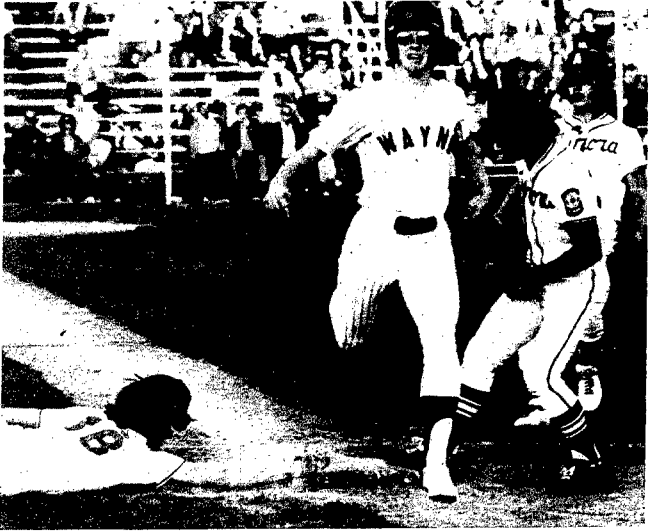

Both Hansen and Schwartz carried the big bats for Wayne. However, Schwartz's two-run single in the sixth delivered the biggest blow, erasing a 2-1 deficit.

Schwartz drove in Hansen and third baseman Randy Nelson after both had singled. Schwartz then scored on another single, this time by Meyer.

Wayne put together another three-run attack in the seventh when Hansen singled to score Workman, who had earlier walked. Nelson's hit then scored Hansen before he later scored on a balk.

Holdrege took a 1-0 lead in the first. Wayne tied the match in the third and the Holdrege's third baseman, Jeff Betcher, homered for a 2-1 lead.

Wayne finishes the season with a 23-7 record.

NEN Playoff Finals Start Tonight

Wayne and Homer will open a best of three series for the North east Nebraska Baseball League playoff title tonight (Thursday) at Wayne after both clubs advanced to the finals Sunday night.

Homer beat Newcastle, 6-1, with the aid of Bob Jacobson's home run, double and two singles, while a trio of two-run singles — two by first baseman Dave Schulte — powered Wayne past Dakota City, 11-1, at Wayne. The wins were the second in a row for the two clubs.

Schulte's first single came in the bottom of the fourth when the locals took a 2-1 lead. Both second baseman Randy Helgren and right fielder Mic Daehke scored after getting up in an error and walk.

Wayne jumped out to an 8-1 margin in the seventh with the aid of Schulte's and catcher Denny Paul's two-run singles. Also scoring were Helgren on a steal and Paul on an outfield error.

A pair of run-scoring singles by Helgren and left fielder Mike Creighton and a fielder's choice in the bottom of the eighth by Daehke shut the gate on Dakota City.

Dakota City scored its only run in the top of the fourth on an error. With two out, starting hurler Randy Benish had a full count on catcher Mark Stinger when Benish made a diving catch to stop Stinger's grounder.

However, Benish's throw to first was low, allowing a runner to score from third.

Benish took the win on the mound, going seven innings before center fielder Bob Weisenberg took over.

Shortstop Terry Luft, Helgren

and Schulte led Wayne batters' each with two hits in five at bats

MONDAY WILL be a busy day for football coaches around the area.

Besides the five area high schools opening grid drills, Wayne State will start workouts in preparation for what is labeled as one of the toughest — if not "longest" — seasons for coach Del Stollenberg.

The Wildcats open the season Sept. 7 at William Penn at Oskaloosa, Ia., and stay on the road for three more games before turning home Oct. 5 to face Dakota State. Seems like a long time before the Cats return home to play, but that's the way it will be this year. Wayne only has four home matches out of 10 games.

The Wildcats will travel roughly 3,100 miles, including a 1,000-mile round trip to Black Hills State at Spearfish the last game of the season.

The first two games, however, probably will give the Cats their severest test. William Penn, nationally ranked in past years among the top 10 small colleges in the nation, is sure to be in the upper bracket again this year, said assistant coach Marion Hayser. Next on the list will be potent Northern State at Aberdeen.

Peru State may be stronger this year with its heavy recruiting, and not to be overlooked are Doane, Chadron and Kearney. Other teams on the schedule include Midland and Iowa Wesleyan.

ABOUT 100 athletes are expected to suit up when drills open Monday. However, including about 30 lettermen, half of which are starters from last year's 6-2-1 team.

The offense will outnumber the defense in returning lettermen, with nine vying for positions on the offense and about six returning to the defense.

Wayne should be able to move the ball as well in the air as on the ground, since Stollenberg will have four veteran quarterbacks — senior Ken Denham, juniors Dave Miller and Rick Benedetto, and sophomore Brad Hahn. Among the runners in the backfield will be Brian Moeller and Dean Ott.

Among defensive starters may be pro prospect Stan Lewis, a 6-5, 245-pound Chicago native will man one of the end spots. The other position will perhaps go to letterman Tom Allie.

WHEN drills open, Stollenberg and Haayer can look forward to having a well coordinated staff ready.

Graduate student Terry Christensen and Doug Barry, financial aids director at the college, will be helping on offense. Defensive coaches will include veteran Ralph Barclay and Mill Peiers, who isn't a regular staff member. New to the lineup will be George Bizak, a student assistant who has one more year of school left but isn't able to play football because he has used up his eligibility.

TURNING TO the sport of the season, namely baseball, Wayne's town team has a chance to secure the first of two wins needed to take the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League playoff title tonight (Thursday) when the locals host Homer. The clubs finished the season one-two in the league after they ended the regular season in a tie and Wayne knocked off Homer in a playoff game.

If fans want to see a game, tonight's the chance. Maybe a championship game is what it'll take to get the badly needed Wayne support.

I'M SURE the team will get plenty of support from one person, whether he's there or not. He's Andy Manes. Andy, who owns a local pizza business, doesn't always make it to the games, but when he does the fans and players know it.

When Wayne players are at bat, he gives them an extra incentive for a run-scoring hit — a hot-out-of-the-oven pizza or a free beer.

Andy's not the only Wayne businessman willing to give a helping hand. There are plenty others — just check the outfield fence to list just a few.

Washington — In the first years of American independence, July 4 was celebrated by erecting bunting-draped Liberty Poles in public squares. National Geographic says. Similar to May Poles, they honored the Liberty Tree, a large elm in Boston's Hanover Square under which the Sons of Liberty held meetings until British troops cut it down after the Boston Tea Party.

IRS Q&A

Q. My wife and I are legally separated, but I still pay for her support. Can I claim her as a dependent?

A. No. A wife is not considered a dependent. You are permitted an exemption for her only by reason of the marital relationship. Thus, if you were divorced or legally separated at the end of the year, you may not claim her exemption, even if you contributed all her support.

Q. After an audit, the IRS disallowed some of my deductions. I paid the tax, but I still think the IRS was wrong. So I filed a claim for refund. How long do I have to wait before I can file suit in Federal court?

A. Claims are usually processed shortly after they are filed. If your claim is rejected, you will receive a statutory notice of disallowance of your claim. If the IRS has not acted on your claim within six months from the date you filed it, you can then file suit for refund in your United States District Court or in the U. S. Court of Claims. you can obtain information about procedures for filing suit in either court by contacting the clerk of your district court or the clerk of the Court of Claims, 717 Madison Place, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20005.

Shades of '47

THIS IS exactly what the ears of corn — if you can find any — look like in Wayne area fields this year, reports Arnold Marr, district soil conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service office in Wayne. The only thing unusual about this picture is that it was taken in 1947. Stamped on the back "The stalk of corn is of normal size and growth, but the ears indicate poor pollination due to hot, dry weather burning up the tassels and killing the pollen. Tassels can be seen in photo." Marr, who found the photograph while going through some of his files, said you could take a similar photograph in almost any field in the area and the ears of corn would look just like this.

IN THE FRONT ROW of this graduation class at Wayne State's summer commencement are some of the 31 students receiving master's degrees — a number exceeded only by the 36 a year ago.

HAROLD W. ANDERSEN, president of the Omaha World-Herald, has some 2,000 listeners as he talks at Wayne State's summer commencement Saturday. Too many people are not listening to the other fellow's point of view, he said.

HAROLD W. ANDERSEN, president of the Omaha World-Herald, has some 2,000 listeners as he talks at Wayne State's summer commencement Saturday. Too many people are not listening to the other fellow's point of view, he said.

JOAN SVOBODA of Wayne received her master's hood from her business major adviser, Dr. Neil Swanson.

Graduation Speaker: Emotions No Substitute for Brains

Harold W. Andersen, president of the Omaha World-Herald, addressing summer graduates at Wayne State College, wrapped up his reflections on national conditions with one title word, "Listen."

He told the 127 graduates in an audience of about 2,000 that "as a subtitle to that single word of advice, 'listen,' I might add 'the other guy just might be right' or 'you just might be wrong.' My second related theme might be entitled, "emotions are no substitute for brains."

Too many people, Andersen said, are not listening to opposing points of view and are reacting emotionally instead of thinking things out.

To illustrate, Andersen recalled response to the World-Herald editorial in May requesting President Richard Nixon's resignation. Phone calls started early in the morning, he noted. Some of them came from people who admitted they had not even read the editorial, but who were willing to criticize just the same.

Only one reader, Andersen said, conceded that he disagreed with the editorial but certainly agreed with the right to say it.

Andersen elaborated on the World-Herald's stand concerning the Watergate affair and on Nixon's part in it.

Of the aftermath, he said, "it will all perhaps have been worthwhile if we have learned how not to let such a thing — or such a combination of things — ever again taint our national political life. I think Watergate, in an ironic way, may well have helped establish a new 'cleaner than a hound's tooth' standard of morality in national affairs."

Andersen mentioned abortion and busing as controversial issues that have also been enmeshed with emotionalism, and he noted regretfully that intellectual bigotry and narrow-mindedness are not the exclusive property of the less well educated.

To their shame a number of college campuses across the land have denied a platform to speakers espousing views which, quite simply, some of the more activist students just did not want to hear," Andersen said.

There has never been greater need, he said, for open-minded thinking, less heat and more light, than now with conflicts between the Irish Turks and Greeks, Arabs and Israelis, North and South Koreans, North and South Vietnamese.

Concluding, Andersen told the WSU graduates, "if we are to persuade more of the American people to figuratively take their hands from their ears, leadership should and must come increasingly from those like you assembled here today — men and women who can prove the quality of their intellect and value of their education received on this campus — by listening fairly and open-mindedly to the other fellow's point of view, and by persuading others to do likewise."

Drouth Opens Way for Financial Help at WS

Because Nebraska has been declared a drouth disaster area with potential federal aid to farmers, students also now have new opportunity to get financial assistance at Wayne State College.

Doug Barry, director of student financial aids at WSC, said the federal Basic Education Opportunity Grant now will be available to farm students who might not have qualified earlier. This includes those who previously applied but were denied because family income was above the minimum for a grant.

The BEOG is open to anyone who did not go to a post-high school institution before April, 1973, Barry said. This would include supernumeraries who received BEOG aid last year as freshmen.

Students who already have qualified for BEOG might get more aid by submitting a supplemental application, Barry said, if their family financial status has worsened.

BEOG aid is based only on financial need and can go as high as $850 a year, renewable for a second year. It is not available to juniors or seniors.

Deadline for applying to receive BEOG aid in the 1974-75 academic year is Dec. 31, 1974, but Barry encouraged students to apply as soon as possible.

Complete information may be obtained from Doug Barry, Administration Building Room 208, Wayne State College.

Exon seeking replacement for DPI head

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — The Exon administration began searching for a new Institutions director with the announcement that Dr. Jack Anderson was quitting.

some stormy sessions as the 1973 Legislature debated whether to confirm his appointment by Governor J. J. Exon. Anderson's critics accused him of dealing in an arbitrary manner with patients and subordinates. The DPI chief resented that some staff members didn't like to be held responsible.

would be his recommendation that the institutions director be a psychiatrist, although he said he was sure some persons with administrative backgrounds would be considered.

Penal Reform Sought
A plea for penal reform has come from a rural Nebraska couple who were held as hostages for 29 hours last winter by an escapee from the Nebraska Penal Com-plex.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rutz of Dawson said they hope there will be changes in Nebraska's penal system to "rehabilitate, rather than merely incarcerate." The hope was expressed in the claim the couple filed recently with the State Claims Board for $146.31 to cover damages to their farm home, expenses for two trips to Kansas to pick up their car and for medical expenses.

days and terrorized a wide area of Nebraska and Kansas.

While Fritz was free, he also held Oshkosh couple captive for 16 hours, raped the woman, shot a farmer near Auburn and kidnapped a Hiawatha, Kan., couple.

A hearing on the Rutz claim will be held by the board soon, probably late this month.

Conference Is Held
A three-day conference was conducted Monday through Wednesday in Omaha under the sponsorship of national rural electric associations with leaders from around the nation speaking on rural development.

The theme was "Back to the People." The program included information on how rural residents could help themselves in housing, water, sewer, jobs, building improvements, streets and many other areas.

Directory Is Available
The State Department of Economic Development has prepared a current listing of Nebraska manufacturers and their products.

The publication, containing data on nearly 1,800 manufacturing firms, consists of an alphabetical, geographical and product listing of the companies.

The department says the directory allows firms to determine new markets and new sources of supply. It also gives an industrial prospect a summary of the existing industry in a particular community.

The directory is available for $7.50 through the Department of Economic Development, Box 94666, State Capitol, Lincoln, 68509.

Pershing Committee Meets
A University of Nebraska committee has begun its study of the uses to which the facilities of Pershing College at Beatrice could be put if NU were to accept an offer of the campus as a gift.

First on the committee's agenda is an assessment of the cost to put the physical plant back in working order.

Thoughts for the day

THURSDAY He never gives us the privilege to come up higher without stretching out to his hand to lift us up. Romans 4:4. Even so we shall walk in newness of life.

FRIDAY The preaching that this world needs most is the sermons in shoes that are walking with Jesus Christ 1 John 2:6. He that saith he abideth in him ought himself also to walk even as he walked.

SATURDAY The face is made every day by its morning prayer. Acts 2:15. But saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

SUNDAY We can never fail if we cling to the living God. We can never run dry if we are drawing from the fountain. Romans 14:6. He who observes the day, observes it for the Lord.

MONDAY Successor is the day whose first victory is won in prayer. Exodus 34:2. Come up in the morning and present thyself unto me in the top of the mount.

TUESDAY Our hands are now sowing seeds for that great harvest. Galatians 6:7. Whosoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

WEDNESDAY A little lad of six was invited out to lunch in a neighbor's home. When all was seated at the table the food was served. The little boy was puzzled, and with the frankness of a child, asked the host, "Don't you say any prayer before you eat?" The host was highly embarrassed over the boy's blunt inquiry and mumbled, "No, we don't take time for that." The lad was silent for a time then said, "You're just like my dog. You start right in it." 1 Thessalonians 5:18. In everything give thanks, for this is God's will for us in Christ Jesus.

YOU AND YOUR CAR
By the Automotive Information Council

Rail vs. Highway Transit
Is rail transit a more efficient form of commuter transportation than buses and cars? The answer is as complex as the country's transportation problem, and factors such as system capacity, practicality, cost and energy requirements have to be taken into consideration.

Considering just practicality and capacity, rail transit systems have the highest passenger carrying potential of any mode of transportation — between 40 to 70 thousand riders per hour. One rail line can move three times as many people as a three-lane expressway when the system is operating at maximum capacity. However, rail transit is like a rifle shot, of necessity confined to moving large numbers of people along relatively restricted corridors. Highway and street transportation on the other hand, provide more a shotgun approach, and are more flexible in meeting the transportation needs.

The problem in most towns and cities is that people and businesses have been fanning out in all possible directions from the central business district, rendering the rifle shot rail system impractical. As a matter of fact, only two of the nine rail transit systems currently operating — New York and Chicago — carry peak loads that even approach their capacity.

The general concept of rail mass transit is that most people live in the suburbs and commute to the central city to work. The fact is that in our 125 largest metropolitan areas, 36 per cent of the population already live and work in the central city, 34 per cent live and work in the suburbs, five per cent work outside the metropolitan area. Only 18 per cent live in the suburbs and work in the central city and seven per cent live in the city and work in the suburbs, so just 25 per cent of the people could use direct line rail transit service. And the trend, according to experts, will continue to be away from the central business district.

One expert predicts that three-fourths of the urban areas with 100,000 or more population will decrease in density in the next 20 years, and that 23 of the 28 urban areas with more than one million population also will decrease in density.

OBSERVATIONS

It's proof of our strength

It's really quite sad to hear some of the comments made by Wayne area residents when the subject of Watergate and its aftermath, the resignation of President Richard Nixon, comes into the conversation. Some of them: "If Nixon was guilty of those things, what about Johnson (or any other president)?" "You aren't going to put a stop to all that; it'll keep going on." "The Democrats were the ones who were behind the whole thing." "What about Chappaquiddick?" "The press is just getting too powerful." "He was just trying to do his job so it doesn't matter if he broke the law."

When you look at those comments individually they start falling apart pretty quickly. It doesn't really matter if previous presidents were guilty of similar misdeeds. What matters is that the American public found out about one president who was guilty of them and decided that they should be stopped. If politics is threaded through and through with some of the things which became apparent after the Watergate fiasco, then we had better start doing something to clean it up. Instead of closing our eyes and saying there is nothing that can be done to make it any different. The press, primarily a few energetic newspapers in the East, were primarily responsible for getting Watergate brought out into the open, and the only people who control the press are the people who own the newspapers. Nobody, certainly not the Democratic Party, is dictating to those newspapers what to write about. Senator Kennedy's fiasco was a person

And it does matter that laws were broken by the highest executive officer in the land. The question is: a great deal, for no man can put himself above or outside the law. If that happens, you no longer have government by law but government by man. Another word for that is dictatorship.

Rather than feeling depressed by this whole affair which has come to be known as Watergate, the American people should feel good inside. It's proof that our government does work. Even in the most difficult times imaginable. — Norvin Hansen.

IRS Gives Farmers Tips On Keeping Tax Records

Farmers don't need a green thumb to reap tax savings, but they do need accurate records, says the Internal Revenue Service.

The income tax law does not require an elaborate system of bookkeeping and most farmers probably do not need one, the IRS notes. All the law requires is that a taxpayer's records adequately reflect income declared and deductions and credits taken.

Here's what the IRS says about farmers and taxes:

A typical set of records in use on a farm might include the following: farm income and expense record, depreciation record, employee compensation record and business checkbook.

The income and expense record lists cash farm receipts by date, item, quantity and total dollar amount under headings corresponding to the most common income sources for a farmer, such as livestock purchased or raised for resale and commodity credit loans.

This daily account book also lists cash farm expenses in much the same way under such typical expenditure headings as feed purchased, supplies, taxes and insurance.

The heading for receipts and expenses can be conveniently taken from Schedule F, the farm

This and That... from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

NITRATES

I've had a number of farmers ask me what the nitrate level has been on corn sent into the University of Nebraska lab.

On a statewide basis about 30 per cent of the samples have nitrate levels that could cause problems. The few tests results I have back from Wayne County farmers show a big variation, but none was in the danger category. This doesn't really mean much because there is such great variation from field to field.

Samples of corn or sorghum can be sent through the Wayne County extension office for testing.

SILAGE

Even with the recent rains it's doubtful that much of the corn will make much grain. This means that one of the best methods of salvage is silage.

It's important that the corn be left in the field to mature as long as possible. Much of the corn now will have 80 per cent or better moisture. Drought-stricken corn will contain the highest feeding value when ensilaged at about 65 per cent moisture. At that moisture level, the amount of protein, fat nitrogen-free extract and ash compare favorably with other common forage feeds.

If the plants are burned at the top and fired at the bottom so that only a third of the plant is still green, the corn should be harvested at once before much of the digestible nutrients turn into indigestible fiber.

GRASSHOPPER CONTROL

Furadan has been approved for use on alfalfa for grasshopper control. The rate is 2 to 4 ounces active ingredients per acre using the Furadan 4 flowable. This would be one-fourth to one-half pint of the formulation. Restrictions limit application to one per season, and a period of seven days between application and harvest.

Furadan should be quite effective against grasshoppers, but other chemicals for grasshopper control include Seven, Malathion and Deazolin. Be sure and check the label for restrictions on their use.

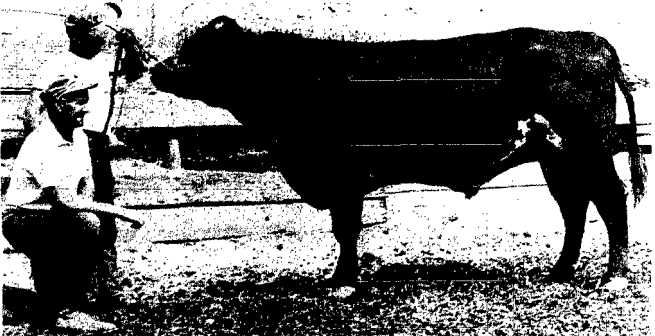

ADULT CORN ROOTWORMS

Adult corn rootworms are extremely numerous this year. Will controlling adults reduce the rootworm population the next year? Tests are inconclusive on this, but reducing adults generally reduces the infestation the following year. Whether it pays or not is still debatable.

'That's A Lot of Bull!'

LOOKING OVER a new exotic breed, a Norwegian Red, are Wayne farmer Dean Meyer, kneeling, and brother-in-law Warren Helgren of Dickson, Tenn. Helgren, a Wayne native who hasn't been back home for several years, stopped and visited friends and relatives last week after showing this three-year old, 2,200-pound bull at the Big Sky Expo in Great Falls, Mont. Helgren works at the Ridgela Farm near Dickson, the only farm in the country where Norwegian Reds are being raised. The cattle were first brought into the United States directly from Norway in the spring of last year.

'Adequate Rain Necessary for Spring Crops'

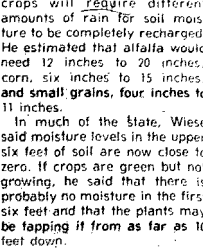

The amount of rain received between June and May will dictate whether Nebraska's farmland will have enough soil moisture for crops to get a good start next spring, reports Richard Wiese, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension soils specialist.

Wiese said drought-stricken parts of the state must receive at least average rainfall between May and September to insure adequate moisture levels.

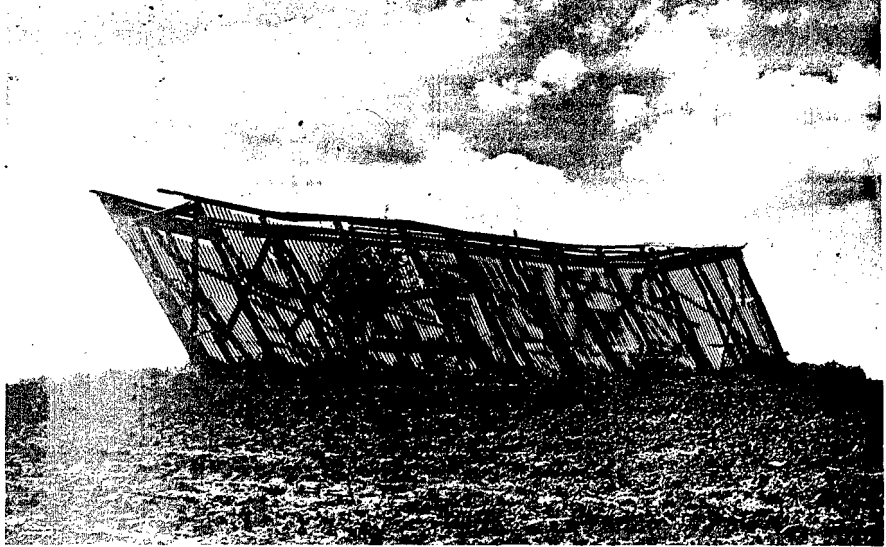

"If we get all our regular rainfall for September and May we may be able to have our (soil) moisture profiles recharged quite well," Wiese said. Snowfall won't contribute significantly to ground moisture, he added, because it takes about 12 inches of snow to equal an inch of rain.

According to Wiese, different crops will require different amounts of rain for soil moisture to be completely recharged. He estimated that alfalfa would need 12 inches to 20 inches, corn, six inches to 15 inches, and small grains, four inches to 11 inches.

In much of the state, Wiese said moisture levels in the upper six feet of soil are now close to zero. If crops are green but not growing, he said that there is probably no moisture in the first six feet and that the plants may be tapping it from as far as 10 feet down.

Some people believe that adding hay flowers to their bath will cure toothache.

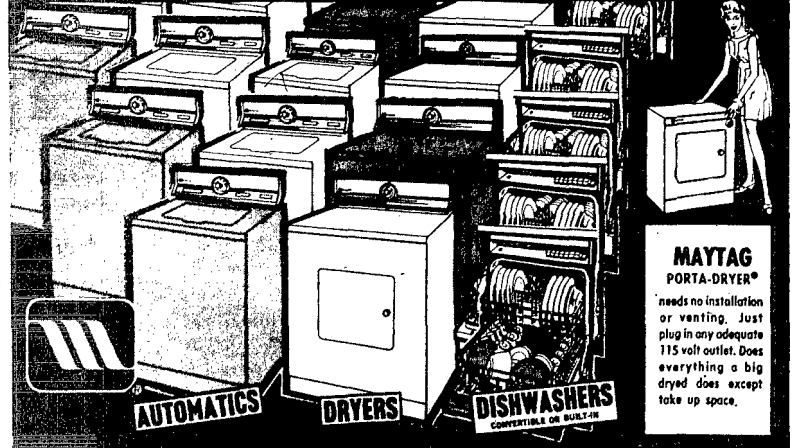

Going, Going...

AN EMPTY feed crib leans heavily to one side in a field a few miles north of Wayne, creating a stark contrast with the nearby sky. This summer's drought is causing area farmers problems because they can't find enough feed at reasonable prices to feed their herds. The drought has cost more than $2 billion to Nebraska farmers and ranchers, $50 million in Wayne County alone, according to figures supplied by First District Congressman Charles Thone. He said the county has suffered $38,331,360 in crop losses and $12,000,000 in livestock losses.

Steam Show --- '74 Version

depreciable farm assets — from buildings to machines and livestock, date the objects were acquired, their cost and salvage value, depreciation method used, and amount depreciated each year. This record will not only enable a farmer to compute depreciation deductions, but also will help him determine the amount of investment credit — the amount the law permits a farmer to subtract directly from his income taxes because of certain depreciable property used on the farm during the year.

An employee compensation record also should be kept for each employee, whether full or parttime, showing number of hours worked in a pay period, total pay and withheld deductions. A farmer should keep a similar record for himself to establish earnings for social security purposes.

The most basic business record is the business checkbook. Not only does it keep tab of what a farmer pays out for business purposes, it is the key to maintaining the farm income and expense record.

These books, if properly maintained, can yield the farmer a number of tax benefits. For instance, they will ensure that the taxpayer takes full deductions and credits. They will distinguish taxable income from receipts that should not be taxed, and help the taxpayer take advantage of the preferential tax treatment of the profits realized from the sale of certain farm assets. Most important, good tax records will help answer questions raised at an IRS audit.

USDA News

Corn Production Down

On Aug. 1, Nebraska farmers indicated they will harvest 353.4 million bushels of corn if normal conditions prevail, 35 per cent less than last year's record crop. Drought conditions caused dryland corn to pollinate poorly, sharply reducing yields and acreage intended for grain. Some dryland corn is now being chopped for supplemental feed in areas where pastures are gone. For irrigated corn, farmers have been pumping water around the clock since mid-June, causing water tables to decline more. Tractor equipment than normal, a backlog of wells requiring service, and problems in finding irrigation parts.

Farmers intend to harvest 1,650,000 acres of dryland corn for grain, down 47 per cent from 1973 and yield is forecast at 29 bushels, 46 bushels less than 1973. Dryland corn production is forecast at 47.4 million bushels, 26 per cent of the 1973 crop.

For irrigated corn, farmers intend to harvest 3 million acres yielding 107 bushels per acre. Forecasted production is 306 million bushels.

Combined acreage intended for grain is 4,650,000 acres, yield is 76 bushels and production 353.4 million bushels.

Sorghum Grain Down

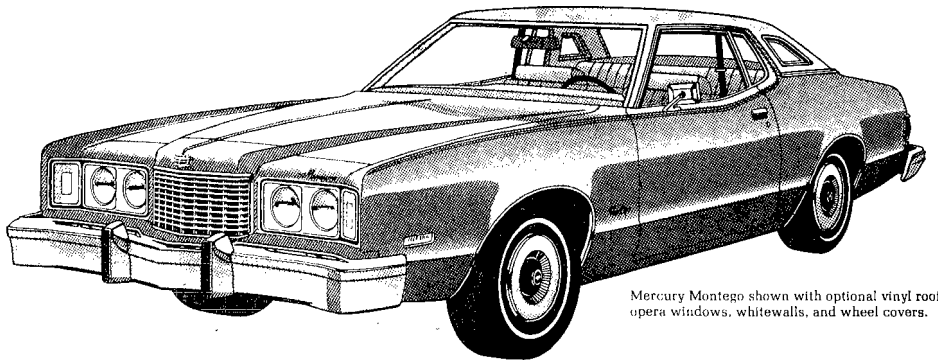

Production of grain sorghum is indicated at 83,250,000 bushels, 41 per cent below a year earlier. Yield per acre is forecast at 45 bushels, down 23 bushels from last year. If realized, this would be the lowest yield since 1959. Growers indicate they expect to harvest 1,850,000 acres, 83 per cent of all sorghum acres planted and down 10 per cent from last year's harvested acre. Hot weather and drought has slowed heading and growth, but recent rains were beneficial for head development.

Soybean Production Lower

Soybean production is forecast at 20,000,000 bushels, 45 per cent below 1973. Yield per acre is indicated at 20 bushels per acre, down 10 bushels from last year. If realized, this would be the lowest since 1956. Growers expect to harvest 1,000,000 acres for beans, 83 per cent of planted acres and a decline of 17 per cent from 1973. Hot weather and drought have reduced pod setting and slowed growth of the crop.

Fairbury Post Is Given to Wayne Native

Robert Kluge, a native of Wayne and a graduate of Wayne State College, has been named associate director of student services and director of community services for Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College at the Fairbury campus. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kluge of Wayne, he last year was selected to represent Nebraska as the state's recipient of the Education Professions Development grant which enabled him to work toward his doctorate, adult and occupational education at Kansas State University.

Kluge taught for three years in the South Sioux City school system prior to accepting a teaching position at Nebraska Technical College at Millard. In 1969, a year after he earned his master's degree at the University of Nebraska Lincoln, he was named admissions counselor in the area of students services at the Millard school.

He and his wife, the former Judith Conway of South Sioux City, and their three daughters, Kerianne, Kendra and Kauren, are in the process of moving to Fairbury.

ROBERT KLUGE

Based on the estimate that a male college graduate will, during his lifetime, earn and pay income taxes on about a quarter of a million dollars more than a high school graduate — it is believed that the $29 billion cost of three GI Bills has been repaid many times over by the 5.9 million veterans who trained at college level.

Third in A Row

DONNA JOHNSON, 19, became the third Johnson youngster in a row to receive her private pilot's license Sunday when she passed her examination at Fremont. Already holding their licenses are brothers Dale, 23, and David, 21. Young Danny, 15, will be able to keep up the tradition but he will have to wait until he turns 16 so he can solo. The youngsters have the perfect surroundings for learning how to fly — their father, Don, manages the municipal airport in Wayne.

Phone Books Going Out in Wayne Area

Delivery of this year's new telephone directory has started and will continue for the rest of this month, according to M. D. "Mike" Smith of Wayne, Northwestern Bell manager for the Wayne area.

Smith said more than 3,000 new directories will be distributed in Wayne this year. He added that anyone who does not receive a new directory by the end of the month should contact the telephone company business office.

The cover of the new directory has changed, and now shows a flight of sandhill cranes passing over a Nebraska landscape.

Once again, telephone customers are being reminded to discard their old directories when they receive new ones, since many numbers have changed, according to Smith.

Local residents had a net disposable income after taking care of their personal taxes, of more than $33,483,000, as against the previous year's $29,798,000.

The gain, 12.3 per cent, topped the United States rise of 11.2 per cent. Just what this income amounted to, on a per-family basis, is indicated by the median earnings in the area, listed at $7,684 per household. Half of them received more than this and the other half less.

Although many people, despite their increased incomes continued to hold off on their purchasing of big-ticket items because of the economic and other uncertainties of the times, other regained some of their confidence and were less restrained in their spending. All in all, it turned out to be a better year for most local merchants. They recorded a sales volume of $25,433,000, up from the prior year's $24,966,000.

Each community is given a performance rating based upon the amount of retail business actually done, as compared with its estimated full capacity.

This is done through an "index of buying power," which takes into account income, population and sales. Wayne County's index rating is .0044, which is the per cent of the nation's business it is believed capable of producing.

Since more than this was done in the past year, .0050 per cent, the conclusion is that a fair amount of the local purchasing is done by non-residents.

Study Reveals: Business Activity Clicking Along In Wayne County

Business activity moved into higher gear in Wayne County during the past year, according to a national economic report issued recently.

Local families which had more money at their command and were more willing to spend it were given credit for the added strength, according to the report.

The uplift their added spending gave to retail business in the area brought out in the report, called "Survey of Buying Power." It was compiled and copyrighted by Sales Management, a marketing publication.

In 11 areas presented comparable figures showing how much was earned and spent in each section of the country.

In Wayne County, it shows, incomes were generally higher than before.

It will soon be time to make plans for planting farmstead and field windbreaks next spring. We have just been informed that there will be a good supply of Clarke-McNary trees available this spring. The cost of the trees will be $10.00 per hundred. In order to have a successful planting, we strongly recommend that the site be fall plowed. This enables the soil to store all of the available winter moisture and to work into a good seed bed early in the spring.

Mr. Jim Carr, the SCS state forester made a tour of a number of our 1974 plantings this week. He stated that the survival of trees were 95 per cent or better and that the windbreaks had been kept free of weed growth.

Remember When

We Had Too Much Rain?

Another conservation construction season is approaching with the harvesting of small grain and silage crops.

A season such as the one we are experiencing shows several reasons why land properly cared for can be more profitable.

In a growing season in which rains are gentle and spaced just so to provide just the right moisture conditions, land treatment is not critical. However, when a dry planting season followed by heavy spring rains caused so much erosion, it left the land dry and eroded.

That same moisture which was in such short supply through the rest of the growing season failed to raise a profitable crop.

Reduced Tillage and other permanent conservation practices such as terracing, waterways, etc., can help even out variables of weather and rainfall amount.

Proper land treatment can cut down runoff, reducing soil loss and allowing better water intake during high moisture periods. When dry periods follow, that extra moisture can go to work helping your crops last the extra critical days until rain does come.

Check out the possible methods of implementing land treatment in your operation and watch your profitability go up!

Your New Car
Are you sure you need a new car or a second car?

You'll spend about 15.89c a mile to drive and maintain a 1974 standard size car for 10 years. This adds up to about $1,892.36 for the estimated life of the car, according to figures published by the National Consumer Finance Association.

Costs will be less if you have a 1974 compact. You'll spend about 12.88c a mile or $12,879.53 for using the car 10 years. To drive a subcompact you can count on spending 11.15c per mile or $11,153.10 over a 10-year life span of the car.

Purchase price is the first cost in the long line of costs that must be paid in operating your car during its approximate 100,000 mile, 10 year trip from the assembly line to the junkyard.

The national consumer association lists depreciation of about $4,201 as the greatest single cost. Other major costs for a 10 year period are: $4,032 for some 7,700 gallons of gas; $2,940 for maintenance, parts, repairs and tires; $1,618 for insurance, and $1,960 for garage, parking and tolls.

These cost averages will vary according to location, how the car is used, and fluctuating costs for fuel, repairs, etc. More detailed information may be found in the pamphlet, "Cost of Operating An Auto Mobile," a copy of which may be obtained by writing to Federal Highway Administration, Transportation Dept., Washington, D. C. 20590.

What Is A Teacher?

WHAT IS A TEACHER? A teacher is many things . . . She's knowledge with a smile on her face . . . Democracy with a book in her hand . . . Wisdom with a flick of white chalk-dust on her left eyelid.

She comes in all sizes and temperament . . . Short, tall, skinny, plump . . . Laughing, serious, happy and sad.

She's the future of the nation in a sack dress . . . Love with a college education.

In her everyday work week, she's expected to be: Diplomat, philosopher, politician, fight referee, pediatrician, policewoman, practical nurse — and quiz program conductor.

SHE HAS LITTLE CHILDREN in her eyes . . . And all her dreams are young dreams.

She's a psychiatrist without a couch . . . Politician without a promise . . . Baby-sitter without the right to raid the icebox.

She makes money than a dishwasher . . . Or a ditchdigger . . . or a garbage collector.

She makes less money than a woman wrestler . . . Burlesque strip-tease dancer . . . Or the woman blackjack dealer in Nevada.

Her days are filled with school bells . . . Young chatter . . . Chalk dust . . . Waving hands . . . Questions . . . and worried parents.

A TEACHER IS EQUALLY ADEPT AT: Blowing small noses, teaching fractions, putting on galoshies, finding lost mittens in dark clock-rooms — and making parents feel good at parent-teacher meetings.

She spends four years in college, studying hard, in order to learn how to: Make orange paper pumpkins at Halloween, umpire baseball games at recess time, tell young boys to throw bubblegum in the wastebasket.

IN ADDITION TO knowing all there is to know about reading, writing and arithmetic, not to mention science, biology, history and music, a teacher has to be an authority on —

Baseball . . . Grasshoppers . . . Little girls . . . Snakes . . . Young love . . . Little boys . . . and how to live three months of the year without a paycheck.

While grateful parents spend their evenings watching television, attending cocktail parties, complaining about the high cost of the school system, teachers spend their evenings correcting examination papers . . . Smiling at people at parent-teacher meetings . . . and wishing they had become stenographers.

Teachers can be found after school — Taking aspirin, picking up spitballs, washing blackboards, rehearsing plays, sewing angel costumes for Christmas pageants — and just sitting at a desk waiting for strength to get home.

TEACHERS ARE EXPECTED TO: Go to church . . . Keep out of debt . . . Have creative minds (but not disagree with the board of education) . . . stay away from cigarettes, beer and bingo games . . . and give willingly to the United Fund.

A teacher dispenses magic . . . Sells futures . . . Dreams are her stock in trade . . .

From her small classroom will come the doctors of tomorrow, the men who will go to the moon, the great artists and novelists of the year 2000 . . . The industrial tycoons and all the leaders America will need to survive in a puzzled world . . .

She's the future of the world with a ruler in her hand . . . Progress with a pencil back of her ear.

Underpaid, unappreciated at times, harried and overworked, she gains her pay in secret satisfaction . . .

Secretly, she will admit, "I have the greatest job of all . . ."

And she has . . .

Because she holds the history of the world in the palm of her little hand . . .

She's a teacher.

"Excess in anything is a defect."

The weakness of excess lies in the fact that they often cause one to lose sensible perspective. An excess of ambition, curiosity, yes, even an excess of wealth, can work against us in many ways.

We live in a society where moderation is more acceptable than the extremes of excess. Even when working towards personal dreams and goals, we must take care that a highly desirable enthusiasm does not gradually degenerate into an "at all costs" drive to attain our desires.

When we can be of help, we invite you to call on us for the understanding and sympathetic treatment that has characterized our service to this community since the first Wiltse Mortuary was founded in 1909. We are now, in our third generation of service.
