3 More Area Communities To Decide on Fluoridation

Voters in Carroll, Hoskins and Wakefield will join those in Wayne and Winside in voting on whether to add fluoride to their water in the November general election.

Wayne County clerk Norris Weibell said petitions from both Carroll and Hoskins have been submitted to him with enough signatures to put the issue on the fall ballot. The petitions submitted last week, were validated over the weekend, he said.

Carroll's petitions carried 36 valid signatures after two were determined invalid, he said. Hoskins' petitions contained 43 valid signatures after six were determined invalid.

Petitions from Wakefield, validated earlier this week, contained 139 valid signatures after they were submitted with 177 signatures, according to Dixon County clerk Esther Brennan. The petitions now have to be verified by the clerks in each community, something which has already been done with the petitions from Wakefield, before the issue can be ordered put on the November ballot, Weibell said.

Petition circulators in Carroll were Jens Jorgensen, Dennis Rohde, Alice Rohde and Leonard Halleen, according to the county clerk, while Irene Fiet cher was the only circulator of petitions in Hoskins.

Petitions in Wakefield were circulated by Chancey Agler, the county clerk said.

Petitions had to contain signatures equal to 20 per cent of the registered voters in each community at the time they were submitted to the county clerks in order to put the issue on the ballot, Weibell noted. Minimum number of voters necessary to put the issue on the ballot in the three communities was 31 at Carroll, 25 at Hoskins and 123 at Wakefield, the county clerks said.

Communities across Nebraska will have to add fluoride to their water supplies come the first of the year if that level is below the level specified in a state law. However, voters can petition that the issue be put on the November ballot to let the communities decide whether they wish to boost the level of fluoride in their drinking water.

State law will require communities in the state to boost the fluoride level if the level is less than .07 of one part per million (PPM). They will have to boost the level to .10 PPM when the law goes into effect Jan. 1 unless voters decide against it at the voting booth this fall.

Concord and Dixon voters decided in the primary election not to boost the fluoride levels in their water supplies. Laurel voters approved adding fluoride in spring voting.

Present fluoride levels in area communities, according to the Nebraska Municipal Review:

Wayne, between .26 and .50 PPM; Winside, between .37 and .55 PPM; Carroll, between .37 and .43; Hoskins, between .32 and .37; Allen, between .28 and .48.

Five Wayne area communities have realized more than $5,000 as a result of agreements leasing their electrical distribution systems to Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), according to Ralph Beermann of Dakota City, member of the NPPD board of directors.

The communities and their latest payments include Allen, $2,216.72; Hoskins, $1,460.01; Concord, $808.33; Dixon, $548.34; and Waterbury, $296.49.

The money represents one-half of the annual payments made by NPPD under terms of the lease agreements. The payments made for the first half of 1974, Beermann said.

'Chest' Goal Is $11,450

Volunteers will be shooting to collect $11,450 in this year's Community Chest fund raising effort as a result of board action last week.

The board Friday set the $11,450 goal and figures each participating agency will receive if the goal is reached.

This year's drive is scheduled to begin Sept. 30 and run about two weeks. An effort will be made to collect a portion of the goal prior to the drive following an advance gifts breakfast on Sept. 18.

Headed up the drive this year will be local banker Ernie Thayer.

Following are the amounts which will be distributed to participating agencies if workers reach their goal: Wayne recreation program, $2,600; Boy Scouts, $2,000; Girl Scouts, $2,000; Salvation Army, $1,400; Senior Citizens Center, $745; Red Cross, $700; Arthritis Foundation, $550; Cystic Fibrosis, $300; Florence Crittenton Home in Sioux City, $150.

The Arthritis Foundation is a new agency which will benefit from this year's drive. The foundation replaces the USO, which was dropped by the board earlier this year.

Consignment Sale Added to Kiwanis Auction

There will be two changes in the annual Kiwanis white elephant sale next week.

Instead of holding the sale on a weekend, the club has moved the sale to a Thursday night, Sept. 12, so more people will be able to attend the sale, said Steve Schumacher, co-chairman of this year's project.

The second change will be the addition of a consignment sale, with 10 per cent of the proceeds going to the club. "We decided to have a consignment sale in conjunction with the regular auction in hopes more people would attend," said co-chairman Bill Workman.

The consignment sale will last from 3 to 7 p.m., with the regular auction slated for 7 to 9 p.m. All goods will be auctioned off unless owners of consigned goods don't want their merchandise sold at auction.

Pickup service, for both donated and consigned goods is available by calling 375-1411, 375-1735 or 375-3330. However, See Auction, page 9.

Wayne Man Charged in New Mexico

A Wayne man has been charged and released on bond following a shooting incident on Interstate 25 north of Albuquerque, N.M., Monday, according to the Sandoval County sheriff's office.

Thomas McCright, 20, was charged with disorderly conduct and freed on bond after being arrested a short time after drivers of two cars reported to law officials that their vehicles were hit by gunfire while driving north of Albuquerque, no one was injured, officials said.

McCright told law officials he was in the Navy at San Diego and was traveling to Denver, he said he left San Diego Sunday morning on his motorcycle and drove to Albuquerque and then to Santa Fe. He told officials he doesn't remember anything after arriving in Santa Fe.

Wayne Policeman Graduates at GI

Robert Selig, a patrolman in the Wayne police department for about the past 12 months, graduated from the six-week basic law enforcement school at the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center at Grand Island on Friday.

Selig, who joined the local police force last fall, is the first local policeman to go through training at the center. A 1968 graduate of Meridian High School at Tobias, Selig spent about four years in the Air Force and was in charge of security police at Keesler Air Force Base at Bixby, Miss., before being discharged.

Friday's class was the 21st to graduate from the training center.

MARK FIKKERT

Out-of-Towner Wins Prize in Weekly Drawing

A Morningside resident, Mark Fikkert, won last week's $25 consolation prize in Wayne's weekly Birthday Bucks drawing.

Fikkert was at Coryell Auto when the winning date was announced, and since he was the shopper present in one of the participating firms with a birthday closest to the date drawn at random, he won the consolation prize.

This week's grand prize climbs to $350, with the prize being awarded if there is a person in one of the participating businesses with a birthday matching the one picked at random. If the grand prize is not claimed, another $25 consolation prize will be awarded and the grand prize will climb to $375 next week.

The winning date will be announced in all stores sponsoring the weekly drawings tonight (Thursday) at 8:15 p.m.

WS Graduate Studies Help 'Close the Gap'

Enrollment in graduate studies at Wayne State College has shown marked gain the past two years, a report from the registrar's office revealed last week.

Although total enrollment has dropped each year since the fall term of 1970, the increase of graduate students is helping to close the gap.

A comparison of figures for just the past two years shows that graduate student enrollment has climbed each term. There were 50 more graduate students during the first term this year than the year before; 38 more during the second term; 37 more during the third term, and an impressive 34 more during the summer session.

Of the 1,012 students enrolled at WSC during the summer session this year, 445 of them were graduate students. According to Dr. Ed Elliott, dean of special studies at WSC, there are a number of contributing factors to the bright graduate enrollment picture.

"We have begun to publicize and to do a lot of recruiting at graduate level," Elliott said.

"And I have substantial data from students who have graduated from our programs to show that the quality of instruction here helps bring people back," he added.

Another factor, according to Elliott, is the renewed interest on the part of secondary school boards to have their teachers continue their education programs.

Wayne State College is making it easier for the graduate student to attend classes. Graduate courses are being offered at more convenient times, such as the weekend workshops held both on and off campus, and the courses offered in various area locations throughout the year through the office of continuing education, Elliott said.

Phlebitis Halts Walk by Dyas

Hess Dyas, Democratic Congressional candidate who has vowed to walk across Nebraska's First District, is recuperating at his home in Lincoln after a leg ailment abruptly halted his walk near Emerson last week.

Dyas, 37, is suffering from phlebitis, a condition which former President Richard Nixon reportedly was afflicted from when he made his trip to See Walk, page 9.

Wayne, Allen 4-H'ers Win 1sts at State Fair

Four H'ers from Wayne and Allen proved during the state fair at Lincoln that they are no pushovers when it comes to identifying insects and music.

Michael Rethwisch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Rethwisch of rural Wayne, won the first place trophy in 4-H insect identification competition with an impressive score of 97 out of a possible 100.

He barely edged out Joe Yost of Omaha, who scored 96 points to edge up to runner-up spot after taking third place a year ago.

Those two and Wesley Siebrass of Blue Hill, who scored 90 points for third place, won trophies presented by the Nebraska Pest Control Association.

Allen's Lori VonMinden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marie VonMinden, scored highest among 32 who competed in the 4-H music identification contest, earning herself the gold medal.

And earning the third place bronze medal in the competition was Ann Muller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Muller of Wakefield. Her placing gave

RETHWISCH, VONMINDEN

Dixon County 4-H'ers two of the top three medals awarded in the competition.

Participants were required to identify various songs and write a 75 word paragraph about a composer.

A Wayne County dairy judging team came close to bringing home a first place in state fair competition and earning a right to represent Nebraska in the National 4-H Dairy Judging Contest at Columbus, Ohio, later this year.

The team of Kris Anderson and Mike Sprouls, both of Wayne, Dwight Anderson of Laurel and Diane Puls of Hoskins scored 1,561 points, two See State Fair, page 9.

Season Tickets For WH Games Now on Sale

Fans of Wayne High's football, basketball, wrestling and volleyball squads can now purchase season tickets at either the elementary, middle school or high school buildings, reports high school principal Donald Zeiss.

Zeiss said the tickets cost $10 for students and $15 for adults, a considerable savings if a fan plans on attending very many sporting events. It would cost students $15.75 and adults $26.25 to attend all the scheduled home activities during the year, he noted.

Tickets may be purchased at the principal's offices until Friday, Sept. 13, the day of the varsity football team's first home game. The team plays at South High City Friday night, then hosts Blair Friday of next week.

Nordstrand Is Dean at WSC

The Wayne State faculty gathered Tuesday for pre-class meetings, with 14 newcomers and a new dean.

President Lyle Seymour announced an appointment of Norman Nordstrand as dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. He replaces Dr. Irvin Brandt, who earlier was appointed to a new position, director of institutional planning and development.

Nordstrand has been chairman of the department of humanities the past year. Previously he had been dean of arts and sciences when the college was organized in four schools, and he also directed Wayne's international programs.

No successor as chairman of humanities has been named.

For the opening faculty meeting, the Rev. James Allen, pastor of Zion Baptist Church in Omaha, member of that city's Human Rights Council and a former teacher, spoke on education and race relations.

The institution of racism, segregation and discrimination is alive in the United States, he said, and minorities still are subject to closer security for hiring and promotion.

"Higher education is to be commended for opening doors. It has the greatest congregation of disciplined minds and has helped produce laws for human rights," Allen said.

The difficulty is that human attitudes remain unchanged in racial concepts, and it's harder for individuals to change than for organizations, he said.

Allen suggested two recommendations. That college faculties should See Dean, page 9.

FIVE NEW teachers reported to Winside schools for the first day of classes last week. They are, from left, Lorraine Petersen, Betty Monroe, Ron Hajeck, Ruth Puls and Terry Munter. Jaycees Help Raise $1,000 to Fight MD

Scientists and doctors trying to find a cure for muscular dystrophy will have more than $1,000 to use in their fight thanks to the Wayne County Jaycees and several Jaycee chapters in Northeast Nebraska.

A total of $1,075.28 was raised by the local Jaycees through three fund raising efforts — their benefit softball game, an area drive for recyclable aluminum beer cans and the National Labor Day telephone which they took part in.

The telephone, hosted again this year by comedian Jerry Lewis, resulted in $869 being pledged by local and area residents, said Mrs. Bob Dolata of Wayne, who helped her husband in organizing and running all three fund-raising efforts.

"We want to thank all those who called in their pledges, and especially the several youngsters who went out and collected for us," she said Tuesday following the all-right stunt by Jaycees manning the telephone to take pledges during the telephone.

"The kids did a tremendous job," she commented. "It didn't matter if they collected a dollar or a quarter — it all helped."

That telephone, carried over a Sioux City television station, resulted in more than $16 million being raised nationally, according to Mrs. Dolata. The total went over the $13 million goal telephone workers had set.

The Wayne County Jaycees manning the telephone in their club house from 10:30 p.m. Sunday until 5:30 Monday afternoon took 110 pledges from local and area residents.

Among those were several challenges — including Wayne Mayor Freeman Decker's challenge to the local Lions Club to match a $50 donation by the Kiwanis Club, which Decker belonged to. The Lions resulted in pledging just $11, according to Mrs. Dolata, but Decker may end up providing several dollars out of his own pocket to meet the $50 he pledged for the Kiwanis club.

Decker appeared on the Sioux City television broadcast briefly during the telephone, helping spur local and area residents to call in their pledges to the Jaycees.

Among the persons pledging the most were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moller of Wayne, who pledged $35 during the telephone, Mrs. Dolata noted. Making $25 pledges were Donald Merriman, Gene Fletcher, Allen O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kuhn and Robert Sherry, all of Wayne, and Tom Fredrickson of Laurel. Twenty dollar pledges came from Wayne's Russ Tiedtke and Laurel's Leon May.

The local Jaycees pledged $52 as individuals during the telephone, to make sure there would not be a time when the local collection point did not report pledges to the Sioux City television station, Mrs. Dolata said. Although Saturday's drive for recyclable aluminum beer cans didn't raise as much money as the telephone, it was still considered a success, according to Mrs. Dolata.

Goal of the drive was to fill a pickup with empty all-aluminum beer cans and that goal was reached, she noted.

A total of 710.5 pounds of aluminum brought into Wayne during the drive, resulting in See Jaycees, page 9.

The bridegroom's attendants were Bill Wiechert of Lincoln, Jim Collins of Minneapolis, Verlyn Carlson of Fremont, and Terry Kardell of St. Paul, Minn.

Guests were ushered into the church by Dick Albrecht of Thurston and Ron Larson of Wakefield. Candelights were Rich and Stacie Jensen of Lyons, nephews of the bride.

The Rev. Dan Emerson, of Dassel, Minn. officiated. Organist, Clinton Carr of Emerson, presented the prelude and postlude, and accompanied congregational singing. He also accompanied trumpeter Roger Lueders of Sioux Center, Ia., for the processional and recessional. Tim Fretheim of Sioux City provided guitar accompaniment as the groom sang "Let Us Climb the Hill Together," and for the couple as they sang "Ain't Jesus Good."

For her wedding day the bride selected an antique satin gown in floor length styled with an empire waistline and gathered skirt. The bodice featured a sheer daisy-figured overlay. The train, designed of sheer overlay, matching the bodice, was edged with daisy-trim. The daisy-trim was repeated on her fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies.

The men wore yellow jackets and shirts with green daisy boutonnières.

Following a buffet reception at the church, the couple took a wedding trip to Missouri and are at home in Emerson where the groom teaches vocal music.

AREA CLASS C football coaches anxiously await the opening of the season for several good reasons. One being the starting of a new rating system that should come closer to picking a true state champion than any prep picker has devised.

The experimental system will go on trial this year to see if it works, with Class C chosen as the "guinea pig."

Because of its size, 128 schools, the class will be divided into two groups of 64, based on the larger and smaller schools. For all area Class C coaches—Doug Barclay, Winside; Bob Bozied, Laurel; John Torczon, Wakefield and Ron Wecker, Allen—that means their teams will be among the smaller teams.

Here's a look at the rating system. Teams will receive points for wins, losses or ties. Against an opponent with a winning season record (based on last year's performance) a team would get 50 points for a victory, 40 points for a tie, 30 points for a loss. Against an opponent with a .500 or worse season record, a team would receive 40 points for a victory, 30 points for a tie and 20 points for a loss. An additional five points would be offered for each game with an opponent in a larger class, 10 points for one two classes larger. A bonus for unbeaten teams would be in the form of two points for each victory, one point for each tie. Total points would then be divided by the number of games for the team's ranking. The top ranking team in each of the four districts advances to the playoffs.

Like I said, it's only experimental this year, so forget about a playoff.

REGARDLESS of a playoff or not, all four coaches still are enthusiastic about the system. All agree it's a good chance for their schools to show that their teams could be among the top 10 in the state.

Wakefield's John Torczon only regrets that the program wasn't implemented last year. According to his calculations, the Trojans would have been second even though they had a 4-3 record. The only team ahead of the Trojans was undefeated Oakland, Torczon pointed out.

The rating system, based on one presently used in Iowa, isn't without flaws. As Allen's Ron Wecker pointed out, there's a possibility several of the top teams in the state could be in one district. Yet, only one team can represent the district in the playoff. However, that's the breaks of the game, he added.

ANOTHER POINT Torczon brought out as a result of the rating system is the strong possibility of the Husker Conference ending because of the mixture of the Class B and C teams. Torczon theorized that the Class B schools in the West Division—Wayne, Columbus Lakeview and Hartington Cedar Catholic (possibly Madison if it should go up in boy population this year)—would want to drop some of the conference teams and add Class B schools.

The only problem one of the area coaches has to face right now is the possibility his club will no longer be in Class C. Wecker pointed out that the past two years Allen has missed the cutoff point between C and D by one or two boys. Two years ago Allen had 58 boys—one higher than the minimum; last year the school had 62 boys—two above the minimum. Sometime this week or next, Wecker will know for sure if Allen remains Class C.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL: Besides Wayne's Mike Dunklau, Charlie Brockman and Kerry Jech listed on college football rosters, other Wayne and area players are also making college rosters. They include, Doug Soderberg, Wakefield, playing for Kearney State and Larry Shupe, Wayne, playing for the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

Shupe transferred to UNO this summer after he was offered a scholarship. The 6-5, 240 pound sophomore will be competing for a tackle spot.

Soderberg comes in at 6-0, 175 pounds. The KS information sheet lists him as one of 28 candidates for offensive back positions.

SEPTEMBER 28 has been designated "Hunting and Fishing Day" in Nebraska. Its purpose is to call the public's attention to the role of the hunter and fisherman in conservation and sound fish and wildlife management.

Juniors, Sophomores Top Allen Girls Volleyball

Juniors and sophomores will lead Allen's girls volleyball team this season under new head coach Steve McManigal.

Juniors outnumber the other classes with eight, six of whom are among the top players on the squad. They include Diane Witte, Karl Erwin, Joy Kier, JoAnne Roberts, Cathy Smith and DeLinda Kluever. Top sophomore prospects are Lori Erwin and Peggy Taylor.

Both sophomores and freshmen have six each out for the team. The seniors number two, with Lesa Carpenter and LeAnn Lubberstedt also vying for a starting spot on the A squad.

McManigal takes over for Lorna Stamp. Although this is his first year coaching volleyball, McManigal feels his girls have a good chance to take the Lewis and Clark Conference. "If we work as a team we'll win," he said.

Allen has three girls ranging about 5 feet 9 inches to give the club some height in the front line. They are veterans Kari Erwin, Roberts and Lori Erwin. Allen opens its season Sept. 17 at Ponca. The rest of the schedule includes:

September—24 at Wallhigh, 30 Oct. 1 at Newcastle invitational.

Laurel Going to Wishbone Offense

Laurel High football coach Bob Bozied isn't afraid to try new ideas, and Bozied is going to do just that in his first year at Laurel. He's going to try a wishbone offense.

We're not big but we do have quickness," he said, pointing out that speed will be the key to whether or not his wishbone is effective this season.

Experience could be one factor that may make Bozied's plans work. He has 17 seniors and 11 juniors to form part of the nucleus with 13 sophomores and 11 freshmen anxious to earn a spot on the starting line.

Nine seniors probably will get a chance at a starting spot when Laurel opens its season Friday at home against Madison. Vying for the backfield positions will be veterans Sterling Stolpe, Rob in Gado, Phil Dalton, Don Diedrich, Mark Anderson and Jack Coughlin, all seniors. Mark McCoy will be the only junior trying out for a running back slot.

If McCoy makes the backfield, he won't be the only underclassman behind the line. Bozied has a junior and sophomore bidding for the quarterback job. Right now junior Brad Erwin appears to have the inside track for that post since he has had some experience, but that doesn't necessarily mean sophomore Gordon Kartell isn't in the running, Bozied said.

All of Laurel's backfield personnel weigh in the 150-165 pound range, the exceptions being 180 pound Stolpe and 175-pound Mark Anderson. Of the two "heavyweights" Stolpe has the best speed, Bozied pointed out.

In order to make Laurel's offense more effective Bozied is counting on passing to help move the team. Junior Greg Pippitt will be one of the leading receivers at the tight end slot. Working with Pippitt will be letterman Scott Thompson.

"I'd like to have a balanced game, but the wishbone is set up for more running," Bozied confessed about his game plans. Working with the first year head man are John Jonas and Tom Bell, both defense and offensive line as well as lineback coaches and Don Ferguson, end coach.

Pre season talk has Plainview favored to repeat as the No. 1 team in the nine-member North-east Nebraska Activity Conference.

Rest of Laurel's schedule: September—13 Plainview, 20 at Randolph, 27 Creighton. October—4 Neligh, 11 Bloomfield, 18 at O'Neill, 25 at Pierce. November—1 at Wausa, 8 Crofton.

Guessers' Meet Slated Today

Anyone interested in joining the Second Guessers may attend the meeting. The only cost is for the meal. There is no membership fee.

Here Some Health Tips...

Disturbances produced by emotional stress are just as real and painful as those caused by a diseased organ. The ultimate results may be far less serious if properly treated, reports the Nebraska Medical Association.

When a physician is unsympathetic toward a patient with such disturbances, the patient often goes from one doctor to another in the hope of being told that some correctable physical condition is responsible for his symptoms.

If he looks long enough, the patient can often find a callist unscrupulous enough to tell him what he wants to hear. Sometimes unnecessary therapy is carried out to "cure" him. Unfortunately the "cure" seldom cures permanently and the treatment may have serious consequences.

The Nebraska Medical Association notes that psychiatrists are often able to treat patients with depression and anxiety as office patients.

Most of these patients are suffering from some emotional disturbance, often characterized by abnormal anxiety or depression, or both. This condition in which one or more functions of the body are upset by emotional disturbances, is called a psychosomatic illness.

The medical association recommends you talk with your family physician, who can recommend treatment for what is usually a temporary condition or refer you to someone more specialized.

Causes of Poor Pickles

This being such a dry year many homemakers are having problems making pickles. Dry weather can be the cause of many irreversible problems—Cucumbers may be bitter, and once a cucumber tastes bitter it can not be improved by pickling.

Dry weather does not account for all poor quality pickles, and perhaps you've wondered why pickles become shriveled, soft or slippery, dark colored or hollow.

Shriveling may result from using too strong a vinegar, sugar or salt solution at the start of the pickling process. If very sweet or very sour pickles are desired, it is best to begin with a diluted solution and gradually increase to the desired strength. Overcooking or overprocessing may also cause shriveling.

Soft or slippery pickles usually result from microbial action which causes spoilage. Microbial action may be caused by too little salt or acid, insufficient heat treatment, moldy garlic or spices, or perhaps a jar not being sealed airtight. It may also be caused by not completely covering the cucumbers with brine during fermentation or having some salt scattered through out the brine during fermentation.

Always remove cucumber blossoms completely before fermentation, otherwise they may contain fungi or yeasts responsible for enzymatic softening of pickles.

Darkness in pickles may be caused by using iodized salt, using ground spices, too many spices or overcooking. Minerals in water, especially iron or the use of iron utensils, can also cause dark pickles.

Hollow pickles seem to be another common pickle making problem. It usually is a result of poorly developed pickles, holding cucumbers too long before pickling, too rapid a fermentation or the brine being too strong or too weak.

If you would like information on making pickles and relishes, write me for bulletin EC 74-959 at the Northeast Station near Concord or get one from your county extension office.

Thought for Today
By Rowan Willse

"Ability is of little account without opportunity."
Napoleon
Ability can be a natural gift or come as the result of hard, practical study and experience. Opportunity to capitalize on this ability is largely of the individual's making and can, in most cases, be prepared for in advance.
People may find themselves placed in areas where their abilities are seldom utilized and often unrecognized. This lack of opportunity must be resolved by the individual who recognizes the nature of his ability, will make a determined effort to change location or circumstances so that opportunity in his field will exist.
Prudent people select their mortician in advance of any emergency. Come in and get acquainted. We offer a complete course. At Willse Mortuary, we are always available to answer any question regarding funeral services.

Job Agency in City Is Unique

A new employment agency that is unusual in this part of the country is operating in Wayne. A story in last Thursday's Wayne Herald about the Brooklyn Manufacturing Co. plant under construction here reported that hiring would be done through EMCO, INC., operated by Orval K. Brandstetter of Wayne.

What is EMCO? Brandstetter describes it as a "personnel supplier" different from the usual employment agency which only refers job seekers to employment and charges for the service.

EMCO actually is the employer of personnel working for companies which contract with Brandstetter. EMCO will hire workers to fill a firm's needs, pay their wages, keep records, pay withholding taxes — that is, perform all personnel functions that a company usually does. Also, EMCO will discharge employees if the company finds them unsatisfactory. That company, however, will direct employees in their work.

Companies contracting with EMCO pay a lump sum for wages and benefits, plus a fee for EMCO service.

Brooklyn hopes to have its Wayne plant ready for production early in November.

Brandstetter came to Wayne in 1942 to operate the John Deere Implement Company. He sold it about three years ago, went into insurance sales, and last January expanded into the personnel supplier enterprise, headquartered at 110 Main Street.

He said there are a few employment agencies of this type elsewhere in the nation, but it is relatively new and rare in the Midlands.

Enrollment Dips In Area Schools

Student enrollment at Winside and Allen High Schools are down from last year, officials report.

Winside shows the smaller decrease of the two, losing only four students from last year's total of 347 students. According to superintendent Don Leighton, there are 136 students attending kindergarten through sixth grade and 207 students in grades seven through 12.

At Allen, the number has dropped from 307 to 282. There are 114 students in grades one through six, and 168 in grades seven through 12.

The cost ranges between $18,200 a year, Koch said. But cost alone isn't the biggest factor in setting up the fair. It takes teamwork, he pointed out.

There are 15 board members, including four officers. Each member handles one or more of the 25 departments, which require about 50 volunteers for each department.

Koch pointed out he started planning for the 1975 fair during this year's fair. "When I found out it's too late to implement an event that would have been a good program for this year. In other words, I've already started."

Funds from county and state taxes as well as contributions from Ak-Sar-Ben help make the fair possible each year, Koch said. Although each fair loses money, Koch is hoping that in the future the fair will be able to "break even."

Some of his future plans include new lights and bleachers in the show arena and continuation of a five-year plan to plant trees (started this year with the help of Boy Scouts in Wayne).

Before Koch's talk the Rev. Doniver Pedersen was elected to the board of directors to replace Duane Upton, who has moved to Norfolk.

Auction

Stan Baier of Wayne will serve as auctioneer.

During the club's Tuesday meeting, Marilyn Koch, secretary-manager of the Wayne County Fair gave Kiwanians an insight into the planning of the annual fair.

The joint U.S. Philippine exercise involved 14 ships, 120 aircraft and 10,550 Navy men and Marines.

The 10-day exercise provided essential training to ensure the operational readiness of participating forces, primarily in the area of amphibious operations.

The money may be used by the communities in any way they desire, Beermann noted.

Under the terms of the lease agreements, NPPD deeded the electrical distribution system property within the corporate limits over to that community at no cost.

NPPD operates the electric system and makes all additions and improvements to the property to maintain efficient service, and NPPD pays the community 10 per cent of the adjusted gross revenues realized within the corporate limits.

Money turned over to the cities and towns by NPPD at this time does not include the annual five per cent in lieu of tax payments required by Nebraska statutes.

In addition to the money realized, the agreements between NPPD and the state's cities and towns also provide for a one-third discount on the electricity consumed by governmental agencies within the corporate limits.

TV Notebook

By Larry Turner

Sometimes it's necessary for the ad men to remark on "cut-off" in order to convey their message in a way you'll accept. Beer, for example, can be a major problem if you're trying to photograph a glass of it under hot studio lights. The head goes flat in a hurry and the brilliant lights shining through the beer make it look watery and unappetizing.

So, when the commercial involves a look at a glass of beer, you probably see a glass of light-weight motor oil topped with a delicious appearing head of foamy detergent. That's another reason why no one breaks the rule and drinks the beer in the commercials.

There's one rule we NEVER break... we give your TV set the same care and attention we would our own when you call us for TV service. Usually we can make all needed repairs right in your home. Call today.

ROBERT HEWITT

Winside Hires New Policeman

A native of Dunlap, Ia., Robert Hewitt, has been hired as Winside's new police officer. Hewitt, 37, is a 1973 graduate of Wayne State College and a 15 year Army veteran. He and his wife, Chantip, and their son, David, 17 months, live south of Winside.

Hewitt replaces Mark Herbey, who resigned Aug. 15 to attend law enforcement school at Slough City.

Qualifications Same For Disability Aid

As Social Security

The definition of disability is the same for the aid to disabled under the new federal supplemental Security Income program as it is for social security, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

"The major differences in the two programs is the lack of a waiting period and the inclusion of a means test in the aid to disabled program," he said.

"When you become so severely disabled, either physically or mentally, that you are unable to do a substantial amount of work for what appears to be at least 12 months, you would be considered disabled under both programs," said Branch.

"Aid to disabled can be paid to disabled people even though they never paid into the social security program. However, their income and resources must be low," Branch added.

More information on disability payments under either the social security program or the aid to disabled is available from the social security office at Norfolk.

VA Q&A

Q. Does the Veterans Administration, which advocates hiring veterans, practice what it preaches?

A. It certainly does. More than 82 per cent of the VA's 87,000 full-time male employees are veterans - more than 70 per cent of them Vietnam era veterans.

Q. How many Vietnam-era veterans has the Veterans Administration placed on college campuses to expedite educational assistance checks to veterans and otherwise assist with veterans' affairs?

A. Almost 98 per cent of the 1,300 "vet reps" working in this new campus program are Vietnam-era veterans.

This and That...
from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

SEEDING LAWNS
Now is a good time to seed a new lawn. Mulching a newly seeded lawn will keep it moist, reduce soil erosion and help the lawn get a head start over the weeds.

Straw is the most commonly used mulch and should be spread over the newly seeded area at the rate of one bale per 1,000 square feet. The straw should be free of weed seeds. Oat straw is preferred because wheat straw usually contains some wheat which will establish itself in the lawn.

After straw is in place, it should be established by rolling and watering. About 50 to 65 per cent of the straw mulch should be carefully removed with a rake or fork when the grass is 1 to 1 1/2 inches high, permitting greater light penetration and insuring rapid, uniform establishment.

Coarse burial of a lawn netting is frequently used on steep slopes where seed washing and soil erosion are severe problems. The burial bag can be cut open and pegged down at the corners.

CARE OF ROSES
Roses need at least one inch of water per week. Additional mulch should be added if the present supply is getting thin. Good mulch conserves moisture and helps keep the soil cool.

If you are going to fertilize your roses you should do so immediately. Fertilizing later stimulates growth that may not harden enough by winter.

One half cupful of a balanced low analysis fertilizer per plant is adequate, but do not use fertilizers high in nitrogen.

Several tablespoons of soluble polish may be added in September to help harden the bushes for winter.

Spraying every week or after each rain is necessary to keep disease under control. Do not spray when the temperature is above 85 degrees to prevent burning of the foliage. Alternate chemicals so disease organisms don't build up a resistance to a particular chemical.

Faded blooms should be picked to stimulate new flowers. For extra nice roses, start pruning 40 to 50 days before picking. Prune lightly to allow the strong buds to develop, and remove all side buds.

Late summer care will insure fall bloom and prepare the plants for winter.

KEITH GILSTER

Gilster Named To Judge at NEN Hog Show

Keith Gilster, extension livestock specialist at the University of Nebraska, has been named to judge the Northeast Market Hog Show in Laurel, on Monday, Sept. 16.

Gilster, a native of Pender, received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from Nebraska and his doctorate from South Dakota State. He has taught and coached college livestock judging teams at New Mexico State University and South Dakota State University. Gilster is a recognized authority on live animal evaluation, having judged at numerous county, area and state fairs in the Midwest.

The Northeast Market Hog Show, an annual event held in the livestock sale barn in Laurel, is open to crossbred and purebred producers in Wayne, Cedar, Dakota, Thurston, and Dixon Counties. A complete set of regulations governing the show may be picked up at county agent's offices or at the Northeast Station east of Concord.

On Camera

THE WAYNE County Jaycees and the members of KMEG TV softball team split a doubleheader during the Aug. 25th benefit game at Wayne to raise funds for muscular dystrophy. KMEG took the first game, 10-7, in five innings, before the hosts took their second win of the season, 9-7. There was plenty of action for both clubs as a member of the television crew filmed highlights. Sparking first game action were Wayne's battery of Bob Woehler, foreground and catcher Bob Dalata as the pair tried to stop the visitors from scoring. Dalata appears to have tagged out a KMEG player in attempt to stop him down while Woehler tries to retrieve the ball.

'Now Is Ideal Time To Improve Lawns'

Does your lawn look thin, patchy and like midfall after a football game? Now -- before Sept. 15 -- is the ideal time to improve the looks of your lawn, says Dr. Brent Hoadley, horticulturist with the University of Nebraska extension division.

Here's what Hoadley says: Your lawn may need to be rebuilt. This would be true if the lawn is less than 50 per cent desirable grasses, if uncontrollable weeds grasses are present or if the basic soil structure, slope, etc., is inadequate for development of a good lawn.

If you plan to reestablish a completely new lawn, ask your county agent for E. C. 68 1212 "Building a New Lawn." If more than 50 per cent of your lawn area is acceptable, renovate your lawn now by reseeding into existing lawn areas to improve the overall quality. This is quite different than reestablishing a whole new lawn with seed or sod.

Steps to renovate your lawn: Determine and correct cause of turf deterioration, the most common of which are original poor choice of grass seed, improper cultural practices (mowing, watering, fertilizing), diseases, insects, chemical burn (salt, dog injury) and thatch.

Eradicate undesirable weeds with cultivation or proper herbicide. Loosen topsoil (seedbed) with lawn renovation equipment. Have a soil test and correct any pH or fertility problems.

Seed the renovation area, preferably with a seed drill to get the seed in contact with the soil.

Roll the area to further increase soil seed contact. Thoroughly soak the area with one to two inches of water. Avoid applying water so fast that seed will be washed away. The soil should be irrigated regularly one or more times a day to keep the soil surface wet. This renovated area may require regular water daily for a two to four week period (just lightly wet the surface).

After the renovated turf area has been mowed once, apply an additional one-half pound nitrogen per 1,000 square feet to enhance establishment.

Helping Hands

The Helping Hands 4-H Club held a family picnic Aug. 25 at Brossier Park in Wayne. Eight families spent the afternoon visiting and swimming.

Eleven members and their leader, Mrs. William Holtgrew, met Aug. 28 in the Lester Grubbs home with Mary Bowder as hostess.

Guests were Mrs. Donavan Leighton, Mrs. Allen Schrant, Mrs. Lester Grubbs, Mrs. Robert Jensen and daughter and Mrs. Adolph Meyer.

Ribbons received from the fair were shown. A group discussion was held on comment sheets concerning the clothing members made at the fair. Fair premiums were received.

The group decided to hold meetings in 1975. Mary Bowder served refreshments. News reporter, Lori Meyer.

Labor Man Coming

An interviewer for the Norfolk labor office, Marvin Rapstein, will be in the basement of the Wayne County courthouse on Wednesday of next week from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. the morning to help any local or area resident with problems they may be having with employment.

Vote on Joining Schmit's Suit Facing Feeders

The Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association (NENLFA) at its Sept. 9 outlook meeting will vote on a proposed motion to give state Senator Logan Schmit a donation for the lawsuit he has filed against A&P and Sateway stores.

The meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the Paddock steak house in South Sioux City. Schmit's class action suit alleges that Sateway and A&P have conspired to set prices in Nebraska and thereby have damaged the livestock industry.

In order to make this a successful class action suit, Senator Schmit is required by law to notify in writing all members of the class. In this case the class is individual livestock feeders in Nebraska. The notification "problem" will be quite costly and difficult because of the absence of a complete list of names of every Nebraska feeder, according to Schmit.

The NENLFA itself cannot be a party in this suit because the association has not suffered a financial loss. The association can, however, help Schmit through financial and personal time donations, said association president Tom Gustafson of Wakefield.

The outlook meeting will be

Procedures Set For Helping Feeders

Procedures for exchange of information at the county and state levels between farmers needing feedstuffs for livestock and those having feed available, primarily forage or silage, have been established by the state USDA emergency board.

County USDA emergency boards will act as a clearing house for livestock and grain producers in their areas, and a similar clearing house will be established by the state emergency board for providing information between counties.

It is urged that farmers, stockmen and feeders contact their local ASCS offices. ASCS representatives are being notified to call local boards together to establish a clearing house.

Donald Swoboda, acting leader of programs and reports for the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, said producers are particularly urged to list with their local ASCS offices. Any excess feed in counties that could be utilized, such as corn fields, stover or silage, and names of farmers willing to provide such excess feed to another person.

Any persons who might have livestock that need to be moved to an area of excess feed for overwintering and who are interested in negotiating arrangements to utilize such feedstuffs for their livestock.

A similar cooperative arrangement in exchanging information, involving the extension service, ASCS and other government agricultural agencies, was used successfully in the fall of 1972 in aiding farmers to locate and obtain certain equipment to harvest flattened corn and sorghum.

Youth Group Plans Sioux City Movie

OBSERVATIONS

by SENATOR WALTER F. MONDALE
Democratic Senator
Minnesota

It was adequate coverage

The person who wrote the letter criticizing the city of Wayne, the Wayne Herald and Wayne State College for not being good hosts to the 11 Japanese young people who spent several weeks in Wayne County must not have been reading the paper prior to their arrival if he thinks no coverage was given in the newspaper.

Several stories about the Japanese youths and the program under which they were coming to Wayne County appeared in the newspaper, one of them as early as several months before their arrival. Another story appeared about the time they arrived in the county, listing the youths and their host families. A large, four-column picture of one of the youths talking with three Wayne youngsters at the Japanese youths' booth at the county fair appeared on the front page of the newspaper the Monday after the fair opened.

What the letter writer apparently thought should have been done was for the newspaper to photograph the Japanese youngsters as a group and print that picture in the newspaper. This was considered. However, since we avoid using pictures of large numbers of people which show little more than the existence of people, we decided against it. We do on occasion use pictures of groups of people, but almost never are those pictures of people who do not live in the Wayne area. We can not speak for the reception given those young people by the city of Wayne or Wayne State College, but we can speak for our coverage of their arrival and stay. We think it was adequate. —Norvin Hansen.

RAIL VS. MOTOR VEHICLE

Moving commuters to and from their job in most metropolitan areas is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. Highways in many areas are inadequate to handle peak traffic loads; and rail transit systems do not offer the flexibility of movement provided by motor vehicles. While many factors affect the transportation problem, one of the more important is the economic impact of the rail vs. motor vehicle question. All U.S. metropolitan area rail mass transit systems — with the exception of Philadelphia — reportedly are currently operating at a loss and, therefore, must be subsidized by the general public whether or not they choose to use the system or, in fact, can use it because of geographic location. Money for highway construction and maintenance, on the other hand, is produced primarily by the people who use the highways through taxes paid on gasoline and tires.

Construction cost for rail transit systems is staggering in Washington, D.C., the projected cost of the rail rapid-transit system now under construction has jumped from $2.5 billion two years ago to an estimated $4 billion now. The rail system to be built in Atlanta will be so expensive, it's reported that just the annual interest on the bonds sold to finance the project would be sufficient to pay for a 50 per cent increase in bus service and let the passengers ride free. Operating costs of rail transit systems are considerably higher than bus systems. A recent Department of Transportation study shows that the annual capital cost for a rail transit car is $44,480, or $563 per seat. The same cost for an expressway bus is $6,180 or $136 per seat. Operating costs are approximately $1.97 per rail car-mile and two-and-one-half cents per seat mile compared to 15 cents per bus mile, or one-tenth of a cent per seat mile.

4-H boosters deserve thanks

Wayne
Dear Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sorenson and Broughton Food Service for making the 4-H banquet possible. And a thank you to all the other people and businessmen who gave trophies and awards. The Wayne Herald does an excellent job of reporting 4-H activities. Mr. Don Spitzer, (Wayne County agricultural agent) and his office staff also deserve a big thank you for all the help they give to the 4-Hers. Our leaders and the Teen Supremes give a lot of their time to our projects. A big thank you to all. —Angela Schulz, secretary, Brenna Go Getters

In defense of weeds we're too antiseptic

Wayne
Dear Editor:
The following is one answer to the admonition from our major: "From the Other Side of the Fence" "Henry, if you don't turn off that football game and cut the grass I'll call the sheriff." "Maybe the sheriff and his housewife could work together; my basement is a mess, too. There goes years of forbearance down the drain with one rescue squad! But, what about equal rights? A community-safe and secure under its green patchwork, trimmed and neat, when such might make some citizens nervous, poses a problem of minority rights. Some might feel cozier among hardy weeds dancing in wild disarray. And what about "the right to life?" At least something green is growing and without this faithful and hardy species the yard would be a sea of mud. Weeds add character — weeds add variety — weeds add a homespun decor not to be sneezed at. Change the lawn, you say? Oh, I say let's change our antiseptic "pride" for the right to hollyhocks. Remember, weeds are beautiful. Elizabeth Knight

Rural farm news isn't all good, but it could get lot better

Rough roads, rickety bridges jar cash out of your pockets'

Rough, rutted country roads and rickety old bridges throughout Nebraska are inflating consumer food prices, according to a report released by Better Nebraska Association (BNA). One mile of county road in every extra foot more than one fourth of the rural bridges in Nebraska are deficient by federal standards, says a study compiled by The Road Information Program (TRIP) and released by Robert Crosby, secretary and counsel for BNA. Bad roads and bridges slow the movement of farm goods to market and increase transportation costs, says the study. TRIP, a Washington, D.C., information agency, estimates that 37,500 miles of Nebraska's roads are deficient and should be improved to today's standards. TRIP says also that 6,950 bridges are substandard and should be replaced or repaired to handle the state's growing rural traffic volume.

"We need to fix the roads and bridges, not the blame," Crosby said. "Road budgets are too low to keep up with Nebraska's rural highway improvement needs."

"The TRIP report says narrow winding roads and weak bridges keep many Nebraska farmers from using big trucks that save time and money by carrying larger loads. TRIP estimates it would cost $2 to $2.25 billion to put Nebraska's outmoded roads in suitable condition. The agency says a total estimate for bridge repair is not available. The road work would require increases in state, county and local road budgets, but the cost could be spaced over the several years it would take to do the job, the report explains. TRIP's report makes these added points about agricultural transportation in Nebraska: —Increased production of three of the state's main crops resulted in 81,613 more truckloads of farm-to-market shipments in 1972 than in 1968. —Farmers have filed proposals with the Interstate Commerce Commission to abandon 138 miles of swatline in Nebraska. If these proposals are granted, freight which previously moved by rail will be transported by truck. —Ninety-six per cent of Nebraska's country roads are unable to accommodate modern, 20-ton grain, feed and cattle trucks.

"For instance, from the beginning, national policies contributed to the development of the lion's share of the nation's nonfarm jobs in cities. This forced millions of rural people to uproot themselves from family and community ties — migrating there in search of employment. Only recently have rural job opportunities increased at a rate exceeding that of urban areas. "Per capita federal outlays in nonmetro areas are likewise less than they are in cities. This is true in spite of the fact that rural needs are greater. Nonmetro areas, for example, have two-thirds of the nation's substandard housing. "Yet the need for better housing in rural areas has not resulted in larger federal housing loan outlays there. In 1973, such loans in cities totaled $102 per capita, compared to only $60 in rural areas, including small towns. "Erwin, who is in charge of coordinating all federal rural development programs, explains, however, that this rural disparity picture is changing. He says: "There is growing recognition of the values, opportunities, and problems of the nonfarm segments of rural regions. "The official points out that passage of the Rural Development Act of 1972 and the current emphasis on development by the USDA is further evidence that a national turnaround is underway. "Federal loans and other assistance," he said, "are available to communities anxious to better their lot by encouraging and guiding development."

Farmers out-voted, out-spent'

Farmers and rural America are one and the same. Believe that and you are 82 per cent wrong. Farm people are now outnumbered better than four to one by nonfarm rural residents, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Here's the way the numbers stack up: Census officials place the declining farm population currently at less than 9.5 million — down from 15.6 million in 1960. Contrast this to the 45 million nonfarm, rural population — up from 38.5 million in 1960 — and you get the picture. Farmers are not only outvoted four to one by their nonfarm rural neighbors, but all rural Americans — farm and nonfarm alike — are outvoted three to one by city people. Figure it this way: Add the farm and nonfarm rural population together and you come up with roughly 55 million people. This is 76 per cent of the nation's total population of 212 million. "And, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Will Erwin, nonfarm segments of rural regions have, over the years, been largely overlooked. "These areas are vastly underestimated and often neglected by government," he explains. "Farmers," he said, "are mostly well liked and appreciated by nonfarmers. Food problems get the attention of Congress and government officials. But, rural Americans are often crowded out by other pressing matters.

Erwin, who is in charge of coordinating all federal rural development programs, explains, however, that this rural disparity picture is changing. He says: "There is growing recognition of the values, opportunities, and problems of the nonfarm segments of rural regions. "The official points out that passage of the Rural Development Act of 1972 and the current emphasis on development by the USDA is further evidence that a national turnaround is underway. "Federal loans and other assistance," he said, "are available to communities anxious to better their lot by encouraging and guiding development."

State patrol boss says fudging on speed limit will stop... or else

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN—State Patrol Colonel C. P. Karthaus says he'd like it if his troopers never had to write a speeding ticket. But he says they will as long as motorists exceed 55 miles per hour on Nebraska highways. Karthaus says he has found voluntary compliance with the new speed ceiling — especially on Interstate 80 — less than satisfactory. And he says he is going to keep up the extra radar pressure until he is satisfied drivers understand the troopers are going to enforce the speed limit strictly. When Karthaus announced recently there would be a crackdown on motorists who fudged on the 55 miles per hour limit, he got a mixed response from the driving public. Most letter writers, the colonel said, were supportive and understood that the patrol is sworn to uphold the laws, even those which splash 20 miles per hour from a super highway speed limit. But Karthaus said there were some Nebraskaans who accused him of ordering the strict enforcement of the limit as a means of increasing the patrol's revenue through fines, he said. If all goes by law to the common schools. Karthaus also said he isn't setting any ticket quotas for his troopers. He'd be pleased, he said, if they couldn't find any driver violating any of the traffic laws.

Road Report Issued
A report has been distributed by the road building industry which claims Nebraska farmers are burdened with many miles of deficient roads, raising the cost of Nebraska farm produce. (Report printed elsewhere on this page.)

A Washington-base organization called The Road Information Program (TRIP) estimated it would cost more than $2 billion to bring the rural roads up to standard. TRIP is underwritten by highway contractors, heavy equipment suppliers and manufacturers, and other businesses involved in highway construction. The Nebraska report was distributed under the auspices of the Better Nebraska Association (BNA), which has road-builder sponsorship in the state. The TRIP study used federal highway statistics which showed 37,500 miles of rural roads in Nebraska (about one-third of the total mileage) are substandard, reported on government data on agricultural production in the state, noted the decline of rail service and concluded that transportation of farm produce to market is more expensive than necessary because of the road situation. The situation is so bad, according to TRIP, that "many small farmers" have been forced out of business by bad roads. The report also claims many rural bridges are inadequate.

Loan Bais Claimed
The director of the State Equal Opportunity Commission says the number of single divorced women is increasing and so is their need for protection from discrimination in borrowing money. Larry Myers told the Legislature's Banking Committee that statutes defining discrimination against unmarried women by lending institutions is necessary. Senator John Murphy of South Sioux City said he was concerned about how much legislation would be drafted. Murphy said care would have to be taken so it didn't force financial institutions to make loans they weren't confident could be repaid.

Farm Bill Considered
Renewed attempts may be made in 1975 to adopt legislation controlling corporate farming in Nebraska. Senator Gary Anderson of Axtell said recently the attempts won't have much chance of success, however, unless there is a definite expression from rural areas that the legislation is needed. Anderson made his comments at a meeting at which concern was expressed by farmers in the Franklin area of Central Nebraska about plans of a corporation to establish a swine feeding operation capable of handling 4,000 hogs every six months. Local farmers were upset and urged anti-corporate farming legislation, but Anderson told them more widespread concern would be necessary in order to assure enough legislative votes. "I think the people in most areas of the state haven't been confronted with this kind of clear-cut choice as to what they want to control their agriculture," Anderson said. "Until they are confronted with it, it's pretty difficult for them to become aroused."
