

Sholes Joins Communities Voting on Fluoridation

By NORVIN HANSEN
Voters in all five Wayne County communities will decide in the November general election whether they want to boost the fluoride level in their drinking water.

Sholes became the fifth community in the county which will vote on the issue when petitions bearing enough valid signatures were submitted to county clerk Norris Weible on Friday, the deadline for submitting them.

A petition submitted Friday morning contained 11 signatures, nine of which were valid, said Weible. He said only three were necessary since that is the required 20 per cent of the 15 registered voters presently living in the small community tucked in the northwest part of the county.

Petitions containing sufficient numbers of valid signatures have already been circulated in Wayne, Carroll, Winslow and Hoskins. Wakefield will be one of the few communities in Dixon County which will vote on the issue in November.

A law passed by the 1973 legislature makes it mandatory for communities with low fluoride levels in their water supplies to boost that level by Jan. 1.

Communities with natural fluoride levels above a certain point are not required to boost the levels in their water supplies, however.

The level in the water at Sholes is 26 parts per million (PPM), considerably under the 7 PPM cut-off point set in the state law.

Levels in the other towns which will be voting on the issue in the general election: Carroll, between .37 and .43; Hoskins, between .21 and .34; Wakefield, between .32 and .37; Wayne, between .26 and .50; Winslow, between .37 and .55.

Voters in Concord and Dixon rejected adding fluoride to their water supplies in the primary election, but Laurel voters in that election okayed boosting the level in their water.

The community of Allen in Dixon County will have to boost the level of its fluoridation, which ranges between .78 and .88, because no petitions were submitted to the county clerk by Friday's deadline.

Those communities which approve adding fluoride to their water supplies will have to boost that level to 1.0 PPM by the first of the year.

Communities which have not had successful petition campaigns to get the issue on the ballot also will have to boost the level to 1.0 PPM if their level is below .7 PPM.

Fluoridation is said by some experts to reduce the amount of tooth decay, especially among small children who drink fluoridated water from an early age. About half of the population of Nebraska is now receiving adequately fluoridated water either because of natural fluoridation or because passage of local legislation allowed boosting the natural level, according to McCook dentist Don Blank.

Blank, who is mayor of McCook, has said that fluoridating a community's water supply is safe, simple and relatively inexpensive.

He said in an article in the October issue of the Nebraska Municipal Review, official publication of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, that fluoridating equipment necessary for adding the chemical to a community's water supply is "simple, reliable and foolproof."

He noted that adding fluoride to water supplies is "by far the most economical method of having fluoride reach everybody." Repeated tests, using other methods for fluoride injection such as pills and addition to milk, have shown that other methods are more costly and unreliable.

Opponents of fluoridation, however, say that insufficient information is available to determine what fluoridation over long periods of time does to a person's body. They also note that the fluoridation equipment used to add the chemical to water supplies could break down, resulting in excessive levels of fluoride being put into the water.

Fluoridation to prevent tooth decay should be left up to parents to decide, they say, and that can be accomplished by having dentists apply fluoride directly to the teeth or in some other manner. Adding fluoride to drinking water makes everybody use it even though they may think it is harmful or unnecessary, opponents note.

'74 Community Chest Board Is Hopeful New Twists Will Leave Its Goal in Dust

Wayne business owners and managers will be given an opportunity to get the 1974 Community Chest fund-raising drive in the city off to a fast start when an advance gifts breakfast is held the middle of the month.

The breakfast is scheduled for 7 a.m. on Sept. 18 at the Birch Room in Wayne State's Student Union.

Its objectives "to permit the businessmen to make their donations to the fund that morning and to request them to conduct the fund raising efforts in their businesses if they wish to do so."

Dr. Sid Hillier, president of the Chest's board of directors, said the advance gifts breakfast will hopefully result in the drive getting a big boost almost two weeks before the community-wide effort to raise funds for a variety of programs begins.

It also will give some businessmen an opportunity to do their part in the drive by asking for donations from people who work for them.

The advance gifts breakfast is a new twist added to this year's drive by the board.

Also being considered are such things as a tricycle race between several businessmen and another tug-of-war pitting local service clubs seeking to show which one has the most "pull" in the community.

Last year's tug-of-war resulted in the Lions Club rather expeditiously, handling the Kiwanis Club, with the Community Chest ending up several dollars richer after the friendly wager was paid off by the losers.

The tricycle race being considered would give friends and associates of local businessmen an opportunity to find out just how athletically inclined some of these businessmen really are.

Board members have noted that it takes a considerable amount of ability for an adult to hurriedly pedal a tricycle down the street.

Board president Sid Hillier noted that he hopes the businessmen and community support the drive wholeheartedly so that it goes over the $11,450 goal set by the board.

"The drive takes the place of nine individual fund-raising efforts, and that alone makes it worthwhile to support," Hillier noted. If it were not for the Community Chest, local businessmen and residents would be asked numerous times during the year to support the agencies and groups which receive Chest funds, he said.

If the $11,450 goal is reached in this year's drive, these are the amount which will be distributed: $2,600 to the city recreation program, $2,000 each to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, $1,400 to the Salvation Army, $745 to the local Senior Citizens Center, $700 to Red Cross, $500 to the Arthritis Foundation, $300 to cystic fibrosis research and $10 to the Florence Crittenton Home in Sioux City, a home for unwed mothers.

The real drive for Chest funds will begin Sept. 30 following a kick-off breakfast for board members, their lieutenants and the workers who will be going out to ask residents for donations to the fund. It is hoped more than 700 persons will attend.

That breakfast also is scheduled for 7 a.m. in the Birch Room with another showing of the film on the Community Chest scheduled during the gathering.

Speaking to both groups will be Hillier and drive chairman Ernie Thayer, president of First National Bank of Wayne. Ernie Thayer with this year's drive will be Bill Workman, manager of Energy Systems. See Chest, page 5

Sen. Chambers To Talk at WS

State senator Ernest Chambers of Omaha will speak at Wayne State College Wednesday night at 7:30 in Ramsey Theatre of the Peterson Fine Arts Center.

His talk is open to the public, no admission charge, according to Dr. Charles Hepburn, chairman of the Social Sciences Department, which sponsors the visit of senator. Chambers is a well known political figure. Chambers is a candidate for governor, running as an independent against Gov. J. J. Exon and Republican challenger state senator Richard Mervel.

This will be Chambers' first visit to Wayne State in several years. On his last appearance, before he ran for the Legislature, he talked to a packed house in Ramsey Theatre.

Cool Weather Nips Hopes

That cold snap early last week which resulted in thermometers dipping to 30 degrees in Wayne — and possibly lower in some lowland areas in the area — probably hurt crops quite a bit, reports Wayne County agent Don Spitz.

Spitz said he had numerous reports of area soybean crops being hit "pretty hard" by the frost in some areas.

He said early reports indicated that the bean and corn crops in the low areas near Wakefield and around Hoskins were among the hardest hit.

The loss killed some bean crops, halting any further growth, but some crops were far enough along that the frost didn't damage them too badly, he noted.

Some corn in the area was damaged, adding to farmers' woes following a summer of severe drought, Spitz said. Hurt the most in the area was the late corn crops, which started to revive late this summer after rains finally fell in the area, he noted.

The frost will mean that much of that drought-damaged corn is not going to go ahead and mature as expected, giving farmers a silage crop of less value than they had hoped for, he added.

Bold Designs

A CRANE installs light poles at the site of the new car dealership being constructed on the west edge of Wayne, creating some bold designs against the sky. The 30-foot poles at the Coryell Auto Co. lot will give off a new type of lighting which is said to be more natural looking than some presently used. The auto dealership will move from its location in downtown Wayne to the new facilities when they are completed in coming months.

Local 4-H's Get Special Honors at SF

Two Wayne County 4-Hers received special honors during the state fair in Lincoln where they had their entries selected for special treatment after the fair.

Sandra Jacobmeier's preschool toy, a doll, was chosen to be used on a television program aimed at showing the creativity displayed by youths in making their toys. The toy will be used during one of the regular programs conducted by Ren Daley, family life specialist with the University of Nebraska extension service.

And Kenley Mann's poster promoting 4-H was named to go to Washington, D.C., to take part in a special contest.

The two youngsters are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Jacobmeier of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mann of Wayne.

Wayne County's dairy five-stock judging team, which came in second in the 4-H contest during the state fair, placed first in the state in the Ayrshire division.

The team narrowly missed claiming the overall first place honor, scoring two fewer points than the winning team.

Members of the team were Kris Anderson and Mike Sprouls, both of Wayne; Dwight Anderson of Laurel and Diane Puls of Hoskins. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sprouls, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Puls.

Results of area youths at the state fair:

Demonstrations: Blue — Shirley Krensang and Marilyn Strete, both of Hoskins as team.

Horse Show: Jana Lange, Hoskins, third in four and five year old geldings, 10th in harness showman ship.

Pole Bending: David Fleer, Hoskins, fourth.

School Board To Consider Outside Advice

The Wayne-Carroll school board will be asked tonight (Monday) during a regular board meeting whether it will authorize hiring professional help to study developing school property into new facilities.

Superintendent Francis Haun will ask the members if they want to get an outside opinion on using existing school property for such facilities as an all-weather track, tennis courts and softball diamond.

Haun also will ask board members whether they wish outside help in studying the traffic flow in and around the school grounds in an attempt to improve the safety to drivers and pedestrians.

Also scheduled for tonight's meeting, which begins at 8 p.m. at the high school, is discussion of accepting bids for garbage collection at the schools. A new firm is now doing business in the city, prompting Haun to consider letting the service by competitive bidding.

Other items on the agenda include discussion of the school staff, school enrollment, school district valuation and mill levy, bus routes and bids on color television sets.

ERNE THAYER BILL WORKMAN

Head of Black Studies At UNO to Talk at WS

Lillian D. Anthony Welch, chairwoman of the Black Studies Department at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, will make a two speech appearance Tuesday at Wayne State College.

The first, at 2 p.m. in the Birch Room of the Student Center, will deal with "Black Women: Culture and Value Transmitters."

Then she is scheduled to address the first meeting of a new WSC course, Women's Studies, at 6:30 in Room 103 of Connell Hall. Her topic: "Black Women and White Women: Americans and Africans."

On following Tuesday nights of the Women's Studies, a dozen additional speakers will present lectures in total. Dr. Monte McLain, associate professor of history, arranged as an interdisciplinarian course.

The public is invited to attend both talks by Ms. Anthony Welch. Dr. McLain said.

Mrs. Anthony Welch has lectured extensively in the United States, Canada, Asia and Africa, taught in secondary schools of this country and three years in Egypt, and published articles on black women and myths that surround them.

She has taken various groups of students to Africa for work-study and research, designed and taught an Afro-American studies department at the University of Minnesota and served as director of the Minneapolis Civil Rights Department.

Enrollment At WS Tops Predictions

Wayne State College enrolled more students than it expected in the academic year 1973-74 just ended, Dr. Stanley Willis, provost, said Friday.

Total enrollment in all forms was 5,743. That represented 104 per cent of the 5,501 predicted more than a year earlier for budget planning.

A breakdown by terms shows 1,993 for the fall term a year ago, less than the projected 2,006 students, 1,874 for the winter term, up from the projected 1,802, and 1,886 for the combined third- and summer terms, up from the expected 1,693.

Enrollment for the fall 1974 term was about 1,800 Friday, already above the estimate made several months ago, and registration will continue more than a week yet, Dr. Willis said.

For planning, the college had predicted 1,770 this fall.

"We have begun to package."

Seniors Picked for WHS Annual Posts

Seniors have been named to head the Wayne High School annual staff this year, reports sponsor Bob Porter.

Named Thursday were editor Terry Bigelow and business manager Carol Peterson. Working with them will be assistant editor Judy Janke, a junior, and assistant business manager Cary Kinslow, a sophomore. Helping Porter as sponsor will be Ron Nielsen, freshman, English teacher who is in his first year of teaching in the Wayne-Carroll school system. Nielsen replaces Sandra Elliott, who is teaching only half-time.

Sunday Off-Sale Beer Is City Council Topic

City councilmen in Wayne Tuesday night will discuss the possibility of permitting off-sale beer business on Sundays.

Discussion of the subject will take place during the council's regularly scheduled meeting, slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the council's chambers at the city auditorium.

Already permitted in the city on Sundays is sale of beer on the premises of taverns, but prohibited is selling beer to take out on that day of the week. The council earlier this summer agreed to permit local bars to stay open for on-sale beer business on Sundays if they wish.

Also scheduled for Tuesday night's meeting is discussion of changing the polling places in the city for the November general election. That proposal was made shortly before the primary election last spring, but not enough time remained before the election for it to be done.

Other items on the agenda include a resolution authorizing the county attorney to put the fluoridation issue on the November ballot. Petitions containing enough valid signatures of persons in the city of Wayne who want the issue on the ballot have already been submitted to the Wayne County clerk.

Wayne, like most other communities in the state, will have to boost the level of fluoride in their drinking water beginning next year unless voters decide in an election that they do not want fluoride added.

Petitions seeking the issue put on the ballot also have been circulated successfully in Winslow, Hoskins, Carroll, Sholes and Wakefield.

Retirement benefits for city employees, parking in the Knott addition to Wayne and utility benefits allowed city employees also will be discussed during Tuesday's meeting.

Passes Available

Residents of the Wayne-Carroll school district who are 65 years of age and over are eligible for a lifetime pass which would permit them to attend all home events sponsored by the school district, reports high school principal Donald Zeiss.

Zeiss said those who wish to obtain the passes should call the school to make application. He urged them to apply for the passes now since the football season has already started.

A pop-top view

THE round pop-tops on these cans of beer fade into globs of white against a stark black background in this photograph by a Wayne Herald photographer. The black and white effect of the picture is a result of doing away with the dot structure normally necessary in reproducing photographs in a newspaper, giving an unusual look at a rather commonplace item in today's society.

OBSERVATIONS

Time is slipping by

City councilmen in O'Neill are getting into the swing of things as far as the approaching bicentennial of this nation is concerned. The council has voted to pay for the pasting used by members of the Ranchland Art Group in their efforts to turn the fire hydrants into Minutemen. The art group decided to go ahead with the project in appreciation of the Chamber's help with an art show at the high school. With only a few exceptions, there is a surprisingly large lack of interest being shown by Nebraskans toward the country's celebration of its second hundred years of existence. A few communities have tackled special projects connected with the bicentennial, but hundreds are leaning back and letting the days slip by without doing anything. Unless we are mistaken, Wayne and the surrounding communities are among those hundreds. Somebody in this and area communities should spearhead some projects with a bicentennial flavor to them. It would be a time-consuming task with its share of headaches, but it would certainly be a worthwhile one. — Norvin Hansen.

Tsk, tsk, that's too bad

The speeding and parking tickets the Wayne policemen have been handing out in recent days are resulting in some complaints from local residents. Although many people think the number of tickets being handed out is quite large, that isn't the case, says police chief Vern Fairchild. He said the number of parking tickets is running about normal for the start of college. It is greater than a few weeks ago, but that is largely due to the tickets being handed out to college students unfamiliar with or unconcerned about local parking rules and regulations. The number of speeding tickets being handed out is greater than a few weeks back, according to the police chief, but it is not a large increase over what were being handed out. The increase is the result of the department's concern with speeding on local streets along with a prod from the mayor, the chief said. It's interesting that one weekend radar stand in the west part of the community resulted in issuing tickets to quite a few drivers who were anything but teenagers, the chief said. The youngest driver was 23 years old, the oldest was 52 and the average age was 34, he noted. Said Fairchild: "How can you expect the kids to obey the speed laws if the adults don't?" We say keep on handing out those tickets. As for those people complaining about getting those tickets, we can offer little sympathy. — Norvin Hansen.

Not a bad idea

An ordinance being considered by a city councilman in Omaha merits consideration by other communities. The ordinance would require separation of newspapers from other garbage destined for the landfill. Citizens would have to stack newspapers next to their garbage cans, and the garbage collectors would then place the papers in separate bins or trucks so they could be sold for recycling. And the beauty of the proposed ordinance would be the ease of enforcement. Those who refuse to separate their newspapers would find their garbage still there after the collectors went through their neighborhood. It wouldn't be too long before the people got the idea — they'd separate the newspapers or their garbage doesn't get picked up. Says councilman John Miller, who is considering introducing the ordinance: "It might sound corny, but I honestly believe there is an obligation to put back in the earth what has been taken out." Miller acknowledges the monthly collection drive for newspapers conducted in Omaha since March. But he notes: "I look up and down my street on the day of collection and there are maybe two or three people who have set their papers out." The director of the monthly drives,

Mrs. Les Anderson, supports that comment. She says the drives result in about 308 tons of newspapers being collected each month, but there is an estimated 1,700 tons which isn't collected. That mountain of newspapers must be finding its way to the garbage dump through regular garbage collection. Luckily, Wayne has a monthly collection drive for newspapers. We have local Boy Scouts and their leaders to thank for that. However, we would guess that, like Omaha, there are many people who do not take the time or effort to collect their newspapers so they can be picked up by the Scouts and sold for recycling. We hope that the percentage of people who don't cooperate isn't as large as it is in Omaha where 85 per cent of the residents stuff their newspapers in their garbage cans rather than putting them aside for the monthly drives. We don't like to see ordinances pile upon ordinances in this or any other community. But this proposal seems like a good one to us. There are too many people who apparently don't give a damn about our environment. Maybe an ordinance like the one being considered in Omaha would be the way to get around those thoughtless persons. — Norvin Hansen.

A closer look...

By Norvin Hansen

WHEN I saw those three kids overturn their paddle boat in the lake as I drove up to the cabin, I thought, "Ah, for once somebody else is going to have the headaches during my vacation."

That was a couple hours before my wife locked us out of the cabin with a pan of grease threatening to catch on fire on the stove inside. So I jogged down to the foot bridge and back to the cabin, finally found my set of car keys hidden under the hood (the two other sets were, of course, locked in the cabin) and drove faster than I should have over to the office to get a spare key. The cavalry arrived just in time, avoiding a fire which, with my luck, would have cut down the cabin facilities at Niobrara State Park by one.

The next day was a lot better. I figured nothing could go wrong with one of those gaddle boats, even though I saw one swamped the day earlier, so my six-year-old boy, Scott, and I rented one at inflated prices for an hour of paddling leisurely up and down the nice lake. Of course, the wind came up moments after we boarded the ship and my boy insisted that we head straight into the wind. I knew those muscles were in my legs, but I never thought they were that flabby.

You could probably guess what happened next.

The chain came off the blasted sprocket and there we sat, floating toward the shore as our time ran out. Luckily, a couple kids came along to rescue us. But then the kids had to challenge us to see who could ram the other the hardest. My kid got a kick out of that, my muscles got tired and the chain came off the damn sprocket half a dozen times.

Well, the next day was even better. We took a ride across the Mighty Missouri on that ferry east of Niobrara. We ended up stranded on the South Dakota side for about three hours while the captain of the vessel worked and worked to replace a fan belt. That's where I got the sunburned nose.

I won't dwell on some of the other misfortunes that beset the Hansen household during our few days at the park. Like the dog falling in the lake and messing up the fishing (a couple years ago it was my boy who pulled the trick). Or like the open door which silently let in four thousand bugs one night. Or like the walk around the lake which turned into an endurance trek with one youngster riding piggyback and the other slipping from my arms.

BUT all in all, the vacation was a pretty good one. At least it was better than the time my wife and I were stranded with a newly born child, somewhere between Amesworth and Johnston after the engine in our Volkswagen went klunk klunk pssssss while driving down Highway 20 in 90 degree weather. That trip ended with a ride back to Wayne on a bus to buy a new car. And it was a lot better than the time our little boy came down with a fever just before we rented a cabin at Chadron State Park. That vacation ended abruptly with a trip back to Wayne to see the family doctor.

ACTUALLY, the state park at Niobrara is an excellent place to spend a few days. The park is clean and well kept, the air-conditioned cabins are just about perfect, the water in the lake is surprisingly clean and the swimming pool up on the north end is just the place to cool off after a few hours of fishing.

Don't believe anybody if they tell you the park is going to the dogs because of the rising water level. It just isn't true. The park is in as good condition as any others around the state.

Some of the homes in Niobrara are looking pretty shabby, however, probably because their owners know that the town is going to be moving up the hill to escape the rising water. But even at that Niobrara is a nice town, a river town with pieces of the past existing right next door to modern stores. It will be a shame if the water ever creeps up to drown the community.

If you get up that way, make sure to drive a few miles east of Niobrara to see Maiden's Leap, a large rock formation with an Indian legend connected to it. That's where the young Indian girl jumped to her death. Can't remember whether she killed herself because her lover spurned her or because he was killed in a war.

SAW the Earl Beeks family at the park while we were there. Former Wayne residents, they now live in O'Neill. Also saw the Ralph Etter family out for a Sunday drive, and greeted a hello to Ray Bulfs and Bob Sherry as they canoed by my boy and me as we wrestled with that paddle boat. The place must be a popular spot for area residents.

SHORT STUFF: Wayne State graduate Vicki Miller of Neligh is a reporter, feature writer for the Norfolk Daily News. An April graduate, she was editor of the college newspaper one term during her senior year.

California Governor Ronald Reagan will speak at a fund-raising luncheon for Congressman Charles Thone at Norfolk Sept. 28. The Republicans will meet at the Norfolk airport, outside if the weather is nice. Luncheon tickets are $10 per person, with a ticket campaign to be held in 10 counties in this corner of the state. Thone, a native of Hartington, faces Democrat Hess Dyas in the November general election. My money's on Thone.

Parmida, Inc., owner and operator of 177 Gibson Discs Center reported that its second quarter sales were the largest single quarterly sales in history. Net sales were $51.5 million for the three months ending July 31, an increase of 28 per cent over the same period a year earlier. The store in Wayne is among the chain.

College scholarships ranging from $500 to $5,000 are being made available to high school seniors again this year under the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living. Area schools should have information available for interested students.

If you want to quit smoking, a series of programs scheduled by Nebraska ETV may be right down your alley. The series starts tonight (Monday) at 8 p.m. and runs through Friday. It will be repeated Sept. 23-27.

MUSTACHES are getting to be popular in the local school system. Sporting them this year are middle school principal Loren Park, athletic director Harold Maciejewski and high school guidance counselor Ken Carlson. Everybody to their taste, I guess.

By Carl Marcy, former Chief of Staff of Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "The United States Government does not lie or intentionally mislead." I was so instructed by a Foreign Service Officer in 1942.

That statement made today would arouse a roar of incredulous laughter, as it did a few years ago when I told a group of Washington officials of that incident which I experienced as a young State Department lawyer during World War II. At that time I had responsibility to prepare a formal answer to a charge that an American officer, in violation of the Geneva Prisoners of War Convention, had threatened a German prisoner with a pistol. Out of patriotic motive, and innocence, I prepared a statement which was to be sent to the German government, through the auspices of the Swiss government. My statement papered over the incident so that it would not appear, contrary to fact, that a United States official would violate a solemn treaty obligation meant to be applicable to the treatment of prisoners-in-time of war.

My disingenuous draft statement was stopped and the note, which Secretary of State Hull sent forward, told the truth. By law (the Truth in Lending Act), banks are required to tell borrowers the true rate of interest being charged; drug manufacturers are required truthfully to label their products; perjury is a felony; and the citizen swears his income tax form is true.

But what of government? What of government officials? In 1641 Sir Henry Wotton said an ambassador is an honest man sent abroad to lie for his government. Throughout history there has been general acceptance of the idea that princes, potentates, kings, sovereigns, or governments can do no wrong — that they are not bound by those principles of honesty which bind the family or the domestic society together. There has been one standard for the individual, another for the state.

In short, while a private individual might lie and be in violation of the law or the ethics of the society, states, on the other hand, could lie to their citizens, and get away with it. States could lie to each other and either get away with it, or if caught, the lie was viewed as a generally acceptable practice for states.

Perhaps the time has come when the standards of government in dealing with their citizens, or with other governments, must be changed. Honesty may be the best policy, if a government can't tell the truth, then it is better to say nothing. In the world of Abraham Lincoln: "If you once forfeit the confidence of your fellow citizens, you can never regain their respect and esteem. It is true that you may fool all of the people some of the time; you can even fool some of the people all the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time."

PLAINVIEW area farmers will be honored during the 12th Annual Farmers Night at Plainview Tuesday evening. Sponsoring the event are the Plainview Jaycees. Highlight of the evening will be presentation of the annual Jaycee awards, including the one going to the outstanding young farmer.

RANDOLPH'S public school enrollment stood at 218 after school opened last week. That is down from the 739 students enrolled in the previous school year, according to superintendent Neil Kluever.

A $500 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for recent vandalism at a bridge construction site just northwest of Wakefield.

The Dixon County sheriff's office reports that a crawler owned by the county was sent over an embankment at the construction site, with minor damage being done to the equipment. Other vandalism has taken place there, the sheriff's office says.

SAYS Dick Lindberg in his "Nearby News" column in the Cornhusker County Democrat: "You can tell when summer's almost over — they're closing up the dealers and going back to the main roads."

GRASSROOTS OPINION

Virginia, Ill., Gazette Times "The day has long passed when government is a function that is to be run by a few... the day arrived a long time ago for people to become involved, and it is so important for many to become involved just for the very salvation of a small community."

Corvallis, Ore., Benton County Herald "One of the finest sides to living is liking people and wanting to share activities in the human enterprise. The greatest pleasures come by giving pleasure to those who work with us, to the person who lives next door, and to those who live under the same roof. Entering into this human enterprise, feeling oneself a part of the community, is a very important element which generates happiness."

High Point, N.C., Enterprise "Ah, there's good news tonight from Moscow. A little noted item of news under a Paris dateline reports that the Russians have discovered a real cure for baldness. The Institute for Natural Medicine at Baku claims that 80 per cent of completely bald men leave their confines with a new growth of healthy hair. The miracle, says the news report, is produced by a new oil product called Natifan. Scientists described it as a highly potent aromatic carbohydrate which promotes blood circulation and improves the metabolic process of the body. We ought to be able to forgive the Russians' inability to put a man on the moon if their other sciences are that well advanced."

TWO OF Wayne High's leading runners, Mark Brandt, top, and Rod Hoops break through South Sioux's line for gains in the season opener for both clubs. Brandt, the most elusive runner on the squad, tries to zip around a Cardinal defender, while Hoops bulldozes his way for big yardage.

Snyder, Chase Combine For Victory

A pair of one-yard plunges by senior quarterback Paul Snyder and a 38 yard romp by Rich Chase powered Allen to a 23-6 victory over host Winnebago Friday night.

Snyder, who was second in rushing with 34 yards in nine attempts, capped a 31-yard drive in the first stanza, then belted across in the third frame to complete a 41-yard march.

Allen kicker Loren Book made both those attempts, missing only once when the Eagles, led by the game's No. 1 rusher, Chase, scored in the second frame.

Chase, who averaged 13 yards in each of his five carries, crossed the goal line with 9:34 in the first half to give Allen a 13-0 lead. Then Book redeemed himself by sailing the ball through the uprights for a 30 yard field goal with just three seconds left in the half.

Allen controlled the ball game most of the time, admitted first-year head coach, Ron Wecker. The first time the Eagles led the ball they scored, he pointed out, adding it was Chase's runback to the 31 that contributed to the first touchdown.

Wecker added that Allen's offensive line guards Randy Gensler and Don Kluber tackled South Sioux and Dave Dunn were very instrumental in the win.

Although the offense moved the ball quite well, Wecker noted he was especially happy with his defense one area where he thought his team would have problems.

Chase, who also plays safety, broke up some key passes, helping hold Winnebago to only two completions in six attempts. Defensive tackle Don Kluber led the Eagles in tackles with two individual drops and eight assists. Both Gensler and Snyder garnered eight each, with Smith getting seven.

The major flaw in Allen's defense came in the third frame when Winnebago's leading rusher, Everett Levering, ran 42 yards for the home team's only points. Levering finished the night with 69 yards in nine attempts.

Devils' Ground Game Rips SSC

By BOB BARTLETT
Rushing statistics: Marty Hansen, 13 carries for 117 yards; Mark Brandt, 11 carries for 75 yards; Rod Hoops, 13 carries for 47 yards.

Added up, that's 239 yards on the ground — almost all of Wayne's 286 total yards gained during Friday night's 24-6 blasting of South Sioux City.

Ask that same trio how it was done and the answer won't be "all by themselves." It's teamwork, pointed out quarterback Paul Mallette in the closing seconds of the Blue Devils' first game of the season.

Both the coaching staff and running backs credit the offensive line with doing a good job of opening holes for the belly and power plays.

"The compliment is one of high regard, considering that the line only had two veterans returning. Senior center Mike Meyer and end Earle Overin were the only returns with varsity experience, said assistant coach Ron Carnes. That proves the rest of the line did an excellent job of blocking and opening the holes.

Plays by tackles Dave Sherry and Gordon Emry, and guards Don Nelson and Rick Mitchell were labbed as the key in Wayne's opening win over the Class A club — the first win over a higher class school in almost 15 years, pointed out coach Al Hansen.

The win was sweet in many ways. Hansen's 26 and 37-yard scoring punts in the first and second quarters gave life to the underdog Blue Devils. The senior running back also aided with three PATs and a 33 yard field goal in the third quarter to help assure the victory.

Hansen scored the first — with 4:29 on the clock on a pithout from Mallette around the right end. Two minutes later sophomore Mark Brandt got into the scoring act with a 29-yard sprint on a left end sweep. That second TD was setup when Meyer pounced on a loose Cardinal ball on the 29 yard line.

Hansen punched across the goal line with 1:50 in the half on an off tackle power play after Hoops flattened one Cardinal defender and Hansen shook off three others.

"We were trying to experiment with our offense in that first half," coach Hansen admitted after noting that Wayne did very little passing.

The experiment was successful, Wayne doesn't have to rely on one person to carry the ball, said Carnes. "We have three or four people who can do the job."

The Devils completed three of eight passes for 47 yards, and coach Hansen hopes to improve this week in preparation for Friday's home encounter with Class B powerhouse Blair.

Hansen said he was pleased with his defense, which held the Cardinals to just nine yards on the ground the second half.

"South Sioux had 95 yards in the second quarter, which is why they totaled 118 for the night," Hansen pointed out, explaining that South Sioux was able to run more draw plays since the team's leading left linbacker, Hoops, was out of the game.

Hoops came back in the game later to lead tacklers with 11, including five solos. Hansen had nine while Rick Mjchell and Gary Hansen finished with seven and six respectively.

Leighton Optimistic About '74 Volleyball

With only one returning letter winner Winside volleyball coach Don Leighton shouldn't be expected to be too optimistic about the upcoming season, but Leighton doesn't always do the expected.

Encouraging is how he describes the season, with 15 juniors and seniors bidding for starting jobs on the six girl varsity volleyball team.

Veteran senior Patty Mann leads the group, and four seniors and four juniors are among the top prospects for filling the five positions.

Transfer student Karen George, a senior from Columbus Lakeview, has the most experience next to Mann. The small blond (5'3") packs a strong serve in addition to having plenty of hustle. Leighton pointed out while at Lakeview she played mostly B reserve teams but got some varsity experience.

Other senior prospects include Trena Kleensang, Robin Keenan and Lynne Bruggeman. Juniors are Tammy Gramberg, Deb Albrecht, Jill Stenzell and Cindy Thomas.

How well Winside's team does depends on "how they mold," Leighton pointed out. "We could have a good team by midseason, depending on how they develop."

Altogether there are 41 girls out, including 11 sophomores and 15 freshmen.

As far as Lewis and Clark Conference contends, Leighton goes with Osmond and Coleridge as the teams to be at with Wausa a dark horse.

The Wildkittens open their season Tuesday at Wisner. Pigeon before visiting Wayne Thursday.

The rest of the schedule:
September—16-17 Winside tournament, 19 Wynot, 24 at Coleridge.
October—1 at Osmond tournament, 3 at Wausa, 8 at Emerson Hubbard, 10 at Hartington, 22 at Osmond, 24 at Norfolk Catholic, 28 conference playoff, 29 at Newcastle
November—4-7 districts.

Neligh Fumbles Aid Cats

Winside converted two of Neligh's six fumbles into touchdowns Friday night, then held on to win its first game of the season, 12-6.

Bryan Denkflau and Dwight Lienemann put the Wildcats into scoring positions in the second quarter. Denkflau recovered the ball on the 50, and 10 plays later with the help of a 21 yard pass from quarterback Tyler Frevert to Bob Hoff man — running back Gregg Lage was able to take it over to tie the game at 6-6.

The PAT failed.

Winside took command with 10:54 left in the half after Lage hurried into the end zone from four yards out. The scoring play started on the 35 yard line where Lienemann jumped on a loose ball.

Neither team looked good in the second half. Don Winside, head man Doug Barclay. There were a total of nine give aways in the game, marking some strong offensive ground gains.

Barclay pointed out that Neligh collected a total of 205 yards to his team's 114, but mistakes took their toll.

Several breaks in the game went in Winside's favor. Just before the half, the Cats stopped Neligh with a goal line stance on the three yard line, and a strong Winside rush dropped Neligh's signal called on the line where he fumbled the ball to Mike Anderson.

Winside turned back another Warrior scoring attempt in the fourth quarter when Barclay's crew took the ball over on their 42 yard line before quarterback Tyler Frevert, who also specializes in kicking, booted the ball from Neligh's 24 yard line down to the one. "That was a big play for us since there was only three minutes left in the game," Barclay

Neligh took charge of the contest "the last in the series for the two schools" with just under three minutes into the first quarter. Neligh's quarterback faked an option play to the inside, then sprinted 57 yards for a 6-0 lead. "This was a mistake on our part," Barclay noted, pointing out both his defensive back and end were in the wrong place for the stop.

Lage finished second in total yards for Winside, collecting 49. Brad Brummetts was the top runner, going 65 yards.

Defensively, Brian Wade and Lienemann led the area team with eight and nine tackles respectively. Anderson had two fumble recoveries in addition to one blocked punt.

Laurel Falls In Triangular

Laurel's volleyball team suffered a pair of losses to Neligh and Plainview in a triangular at Plainview Thursday night.

Under new head coach Carol Woodward, Laurel split the first two games with Neligh, 15-8 and 5-15, before Neligh handed Laurel its first match loss of the season on a 13-15 game. "I thought we had it," Woodward confessed. "We were ahead 9-1 but had a let up."

Although senior Patty Jansen served nine straight points in one game, the coach pointed out that the team didn't play up to their potential.

In the second match, Plainview easily got by Laurel with games of 2-15 and 5-15.

In the only reserve game for Laurel, the area team beat Neligh, 12-8.

Tuesday Laurel travels to O'Neill before hosting Randolph Thursday.

Madison Drops Laurel, 7-0

A seven-yard blast into the end zone by Madison running back Ray Wegner with about a minute left in the game gave the Dragons a 7-0 win over Laurel Friday night.

In a game plagued by mistakes, neither team was able to get beyond the other's 30-yard line until the final quarter when the visitors grabbed one of three Laurel fumbles at the 30 and marched across the goal line.

There were a lot of mistakes the first game, said first-year Laurel head coach Bob Bozied. Each team bobbed the ball five times, with Madison losing it twice.

"However, both clubs were able to move the ball, Madison rang up 164 yards offensively for the night while Laurel had 187. Senior Sterling Stolpe led Bear chargers with 64 yards rushing and punted the ball twice for a 50-yard drive. Mark Brandt rushed for 92 yards to lead Madison running backs.

TV Notebook

By Larry Turner

On Monday evenings, when the fourth or fifth football game is being broadcast over a period of two or three days, some movie theaters advertise "NFL Night." This does not mean National Football league, as you might suppose, but "night ladies" and female-oriented pictures are featured.

Some women will just never adjust to all the football on the tube in the fall. They feel neglected and they resent the sport that so preoccupies their husbands. One doctor advises the gals to get hooked on the TV football habit, right along with their husbands in the interest of marital harmony.

When you have one of our new color TV sets, the picture is so beautiful that even the gals love the football games as well as other TV shows. Stop in and let us quote you our best deal.
