Let's fly the American flag

A Wayne resident is upset because another national holiday, Veterans Day, has come and gone without the American flap being displayed on the city's Main 11 Street.

If prompted the person to write a letter to the editor, one of several received by the newspaper on this subject in the past year or so. That letter appears elsewhere on this page.

rine newspaper on his subject in the past year or so. That letter appears elsewhere on this page.

The letter writer has some valid complaints to make. It does seem hard to believe that the community can't afford to fly the American flag on such national observances as Veterans Day, Memortal Day, Fourth of July and the like.

One reason why the flag was not flown last Monday was the few flags the local Chamber of Commerce has left. Each time the American flags or the welcome-flags are displayed, especially when they are left-up-overnight, some of them are stolen. The Chamber now is down to I American flags and displayed, especially when they are left-up-overnight, some of them are stolen. The Chamber now is down to I American flags and three welcome flags. According to the Chamber, those II would not have been very impressive had they been put up on Veterans, Day.

We have come around to the conclusion that flying the American flag — and possibly the welcome-flag — should be a responsibility of the city rather than the Chamber. All Wayne residents should take pride in the American flag flying along Main Street on special occasions, and all Wayne residents should share in the cost of purchasing those flags and taken down. It doesn't seem logical to put that financial responsibility on the shoulders of local businessmen.

For less than $1,000, the city could purchase enough American flags for all of Main Street from one end of the community to the offier. And a city fruck and a couple employees could certainly be spared for the liftle firme required to put those flags up and taking them down several times a year.

—The problem of flag stealing could be several times a year.

The problem of flag stealing could be reduced a great deal, if not eliminated, by simply raising the brackets that hold the flags higher on the poles and making sure the police on duty are especially vigitant when the flags, are flying.

Norvin Hansen.

Let's decide something

Lord, we hope the city council can decide something preity soon as far as two-hour parking and parallel parking are concerned in the downtown business district.

are concerned in the downtown, business district.

It can do that by giving full consideration, to the recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce and the local businessmen concerning those two issues. The council new knows that the Chamber's board of directors and the Chamber's retail committee support fully the end of the experiment with parallel parking on several Blocks of streets and a return to diagonal parking. Their reason for supporting that is simple. It would mean miore parking in the central business district for shoppers. The council may know by its next meeting how the Chamber and the business financian stand concerning reinstifting two-hour parking restrictions in the main business district for Chamber's board has alreedy gone on record in main business district. The Chamber's board has already gone on record in favor of two-hour perking with three warning tickets being given in a three-hourit period and a court summons being given with the fourth violation. Whether the miglority of the businessmen agree with that stind a not clear.

We think parallel parking in the business district is good, but we are not so opposed to diagonal parking that we would stand in its way if most-business-men-feel the extra parking-spaces are necessary. It is a busy lime of the year of many merchants, a time of the year when they can make up for some of those slower summer months, and we can understand their concern for providing parking jor customers. If they can show a need for the additional parking and if the experiment with parallel parking did of show a great reduction in the number of accidents, we think the council should go along with their wishes.

We also think the council should go along with their wishes.

We also think the council should go along with their wishes.

We also think the council should provide the parking back into effect. Restrictions on the length of time people can park in the downtown would help increase the number of perking spaces available by making sure people don't park in one spot-all day long while they on to work, drink coffee or play card. And we don't think three warnings within a three-month period is out of line. Those who get that fourth one within that time period should be anyon of Norvin ever the provided on the parking and nobody else.

STREET AND sewer work on a three-block stretch of Hoskins' main street is about-one-third complete as workman from a Norfolk firm started pouring another part of the eight-inch concrete street last week. Despite old winds and chilling temperatures, work should be completed by the end of the month, village officials said.

FREDRICK "FRITZ" RIETH. Concord volunteer lireman for over 40 years, received another honor, during-Tuesdayinghi's VFD meeting. The Nebraska State Volunteer Fireman's Association listed Fritz on the honorable mention schroll for his "outstanding firemanship" Fritz, a member of the Concord VFD for 43 years before retiring last year, says "it's quite an honor...I don't even care-lifting misspelled my first name." His first name is spelled with an "h" instead of a "k". Also, outstanding is spelled with an ""." During Concord's monthly meeting the board okayed the addittion of Melvin Baumgardner and Herm Utecht to the department.
