Rides on Sleigh, Drawing Slated for Wayne Monday

Wayne will have something for both youngsters and their parents Monday.

For the youngsters, rides on Santa's mobile sleigh.

For the parents, an opportunity to win $500 in Christmas Bucks.

Monday, you see, kicks off the community's drawings for the coupons which can be used just like cash in most businesses and firms in the city.

A special treat during the day will be free rides on the 42 foot mobile sleigh that will be in the city from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

The sleigh, which can give rides to approximately 45 children at one time, includes reindeer in the front which "lope" as the sleigh moves along.

Children may ride on the sleigh by going to the corner of Second and Main anytime during the afternoon and evening.

Parents, and other shoppers in the area, can have their fun by seeing if they hold one of the possible winning tickets in the drawing for $500 in Christmas Bucks.

A list of 50 numbers drawn at random earlier in the day will be posted in all participating stores at 1 p.m. Monday. The shopper holding the ticket high est on the list will win the $500 in coupons if he or she is at the Chamber of Commerce office at 8 p.m. that evening.

Monday's drawing is the first of seven drawings for Christmas Bucks to be held during the Christmas shopping season.

Drawings for $100 will be held on the 13th, 16th, 17th, 18th and 20th and a final drawing for $500 will be held on the 23rd. Those drawings correspond with the night stores will remain open during the evening for the convenience of shoppers trying to get their last minute Christmas shopping completed.

Of course, stores will also remain open on Thursday evenings. On those nights, shoppers will have an opportunity to win Birthday Bucks, coupons similar to Christmas Bucks in that they can be spent just like cash in any sponsoring businesses.

Santa's sleigh, which travels about the state giving rides to youngsters, is equipped with a portable top for stormy weather. It includes a recording system which plays Christmas carols as it drives around the community.

Bequest Adds 600 Books to WSC Library

Another recent bequest has added approximately 600 books to the Wayne State College Conn Library.

The books are from the private collection of the late Fred S. Berry, prominent Wayne attorney until his death in 1948. Berry was a member of the Nebraska State College Governing Board from 1921 to 1931. Berry Hall, the WSC dormitory which opened in 1960, is named for him.

Berry's wife, Nell D. Berry, died in March of 1971, and the books became the property of WSC this year.

After cataloging and evaluating those books which can be utilized here will be put on the library shelves. The remaining volumes will be put on a trade list which is circulated to other libraries.

—When Milo Kremke's news store and Starr West's Rainbow Shine Parlour each occupied adjacent half lots, forcing Starr to limit his customers to size 9, otherwise Milo would get the business?

Choir, Singers At WS Await Annual Event

The Wayne State College concert choir and madrigal singers will present their annual Christmas concert Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Fine Arts Center.

Dr. Cornell Runestad, conductor, built the program around the idea of Christ's birth as being the light of the world, unifying the concept with a narrator, soloists, professional, antiphonal effects and choral numbers, all related to the idea of light.

The program includes the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah" by Handel and "And Then Shall Your Light Break Forth" from "Elijah" by Mendelssohn.

Dr. Robert Johnson of the communication arts faculty will narrate passages from Old Testament prophecy and the Christ mass gospel from Luke. Jan Dickinson of Pierce will be organist for hymns sung by the audience. Sylvia Truby of Randolph and Claudia Mallatt of Laurel have solo roles.

"It is the first time we have tried to unify a program through both text and music," Dr. Runestad says. See EVENT, page 5.

Mrs. Alvern Anderson

Hoskins Farmer Is Honored for College Service

Retired farmer Clarence Schroeder of Hoskins has been honored for his outstanding contribution to Westmar College at Le Mars, Ia., by being named a life trustee.

The trustee designation is a two-fold honor. It gives the board of trustees a way to recognize contributions board members have made in the development of the college during their years of active service on the board and it allows the individual board member not from counties active on the board a way to keep a close tie with the college.

Schroeder served as a center elected trustee on the board from 1960 through 1970. He was on the executive committee from 1966 to 1969.

'Bucks' Total Passes $700

Wayne's weekly Birthday Bucks prize climbs to $725 this week, the amount going to the person whose birthday matches the date announced in all participating stores this evening (Thursday) at 8:15.

In last week's drawing, held Friday night because stores were closed for Thanksgiving on Thursday, Mrs. Alvern Anderson of Wakefield won the $25 consolation prize. Shopping at Bill's GW when the winning date was announced, she was the shopper with a birthday closest to the actual date drawn at random earlier.

As a result, another $25 will be added to this week's grand prize total, bringing it to $725. If there is no grand prize winner again this week, another $25 consolation prize will be awarded and the grand prize will climb to $750 for next week's drawing.

Coupons given away in the weekly drawings may be spent just like cash in any of the participating stores or firms. Area residents need not make purchases to qualify for the weekly drawings, but a person must be present in one of the participating stores when the date is announced in order to win.

Penn Honored

Robert Penn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Penn of rural Wayne, has been named to the latest edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Penn, a student at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, is one of 16 nominees from the university. He will receive his doctor's degree in May.

Carroll Kids To Present Concert

Kindergarten through fourth grade students at the Carroll Elementary School will present a program of Christmas songs Monday evening at the Carroll city auditorium.

The public is invited to attend the 8 p.m. presentation. "Everywhere, Everywhere, Christmas Tonight." The program will include melodies and carols from Germany, Holland, England and France.

Youngsters who will dress in appropriate costumes to give readings on foreign Christmas customs and celebrations will be Rebecca Janssen, Karen Longe, Lennie Schmale, Brian Loberg, Sharon McLain, Curtis Brockman and Jodi Olson.

Vocal music instructor is Mrs. Randy Helgren.

Winside Auditorium Is Site for Election

The Winside village board has designated the village auditorium as the polling place for Tuesday's special election, said board chairman Dallas Puts following Monday night's board meeting.

The auditorium will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. so all Winside residents will have a chance to vote on whether they want to fluoridate the town's water.

'And Here We Have . . .'

IN the eternal battle between winter and summer, life and death, here is a crucial scene from the rock musical, "Celebration," now showing at Wayne State. Steve Placek, left, playing jaded millionaire Edgar Allen Rich, shows one of his lucrative products, an artificial flower, to idealistic gardener Dennis Wingerling, in the role of Orphan. Watching hopefully from behind is the other male lead, Joel Miller as Potemkin. "Celebration" has three more performances: Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8 in the Mangerie Room of the Student Center. Because of limited seating, reservations are encouraged. Tickets available by phone or visit to the drama office in the Fine Arts Center during afternoon.

'Success' Trust Fund Gets Boost of $2,085

The trust fund set up to keep staff members of Wayne's Project Success abreast with latest developments in the field of specific language disabilities grew by more than $2,000 Monday night.

Wayne-Carroll school board president Dr. Irvin Brandt accepted a check for $2,085 from the Project Success-Community Council and parents, bringing the total in the trust fund to $5,085.

Presenting the money during the school board's regular meeting were Mrs. Dick Keidel, mother of one of the students in the school's unique program, and two teacher aids, Mrs. Robert Haas and Mrs. John Barr, who work with teachers in helping students in the program.

The tax exempt trust fund was established in 1970 with an initial gift of $3,000. Interest from the fund is to be used to send teachers and others working in the program to conferences and meetings so they can keep up on developments in teaching students with specific language disabilities.

Officially named the F. R. Haun Trust Fund for Specific Language Disabilities, it was established to recognize the efforts of the Wayne-Carroll superintendent in starting the See TRUST FUND, page 5.

Goodies From Santa!

AS USUAL, Santa Claus appeared as a climax of the annual Christmas tree lighting and carol sing at Wayne State Monday evening. And as usual, he found himself swarmed by kids, including some who looked very much like college "kids." Among those waiting eagerly was Brent McLaws, nearly 5, in the arms of father Monte McLaws. About 300 attended the Willow Bowl ceremony, sponsored by the Faculty Wives and Women.

Wayne-Carroll Board Okays Purchasing Bus

Although bids turned in were higher than had been budgeted for, the Wayne-Carroll school board Monday night approved purchasing a new $4 passenger school bus.

Total low bid on the bus came to $12,729, nearly $2,000 more than the $11,000 the board budgeted for earlier in the year.

Superintendent Francis Haun told the board members that they "don't dare go over our budget," but he noted that he could take money from other funds in the budget to help pay for the bus.

He pointed out that a year ago the school board purchased a new bus for $10,080 without trading in an existing bus as the school will do this year. That new bus, however, was a 48-passenger one, he said.

The school board received only one bid on the chassis for the new bus. That bid, from Workman Auto Co. in Wayne, was for $6,187.

The board received four bids for the bus body, the low one of $7,542, coming from an Omaha firm for a Superior body. The Omaha firm will allow $1,000 trade-in for the 1965 54-passenger bus currently being used by the school system.

When the new bus will be delivered is a question mark, however, Haun told the board that some schools are still waiting for buses which they ordered a year ago.

Also Monday night, board president Dr. Irvin Brandt accepted a check for $2,085 from the Project Success-Community Council and parents. The money will be added to the F. R. Haun Trust Fund for Specific Language Disabilities, a fund set up See SCHOOL BOARD, page 5.

WAYNE-CARROLL school board president Dr. Irvin Brandt and Mrs. Dick Keidel hold the $2,085 check given to the F. R. Haun Trust Fund for Specific Language

Holly scored 142 points out of a possible 150 at the show sponsored by the Sioux Valley Kennel Club of Sioux City, Iowa.

Des is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Williams.

Event

The madrigal singers will present a group of carols from various countries selected from the Elizabeth Christmas Dinner they will perform the evenings of Dec 12-15.

School Board

(Continued from page 1) in 1970 to help send staff members of Wayne's Project Success to conferences and meetings so they can keep up on what is going on in the field of specific language disabilities.

The board also gave approval to spending about $300 for materials so students in Ted Blenderman's high school art class can build two large murals for display in the high school.

The student-designed murals—one depicting activities in action and the other titled "Education Makes the Past The Future"—will be made of ceramic tile on sheets of plywood. The murals will be six feet by eight feet when completed.

The board also learned that school officials plan on holding all winter sports events in the high school auditorium now that new bleachers have been installed.

Wayne State's Rice Auditorium will be reserved, however, in case parking problems develop, according to Haun.

—Heard a report by high school science teacher Verne Mills on the environmental studies class held last summer. Unique in that it was held in the summer, the class included work in the school as well as field trips to Logan Creek, Ponca State Park, the national forest at Halsey, and other places. Mills called it "one of my most enjoyable classes."

—Taking the six-week course were Marty Butts, Marvel Carlson, LeeAnn Foot, Kevin Hansen, Lori Lesh, Ann Rees, Robin Mosley, Tim Wert and Cathy Winkelmann.

—Discussed at length parent-teacher conferences on the elementary, middle school and high school levels. The board agreed to have Haun and elementary principal Richard Mettner plan to hold additional parent-teacher conferences later in the year at the request of parents. Conferences will likely be held only for parents requesting them, according to Haun.

—Learned that board member Margaret Lundstrom will join Brandt in attending the negotiations workshop scheduled for Thursday and Friday at Kearney. The two are on the committee which will negotiate with teachers on the salary schedule for the 1975-76 school year. The third person on the committee has not been named yet.

The class, new this year, is part of the school's career education program, which attempts to bring the community to the classroom and take the classroom to the community. According to Mrs. Witte, the 22 students enrolled in the various classes are "eager" to learn. "I want to teach the kids that you don't have to spend a lot of money to buy new furniture. Actually, it would take less money to build something new rather than buy it," the Concord resident pointed out. Sewing a cover for part of her project is Diane Carr, left. Above, Robert Cramer and Mrs. Witte carefully cut material to cover a chair.

'In Washington' 'You've got to be a little wacky to be President'

By RON HENDREN
WASHINGTON — Eighteen years ago the only presidential candidate ever to visit Southern Pines, North Carolina laid himself down on the living room floor in the home of a friend and — at five in sneakers, slacks, sport shirt and v-neck sweater — allowed as how he wasn't sure he wanted the presidency badly enough. He was a man who, by all accounts, sought his own counsel, thought his own thoughts, wrote his own speeches and spoke his own words. The rigors of campaigning, he said, simply didn't allow him enough time to be alone, to think, to do justice to the challenge.

Recently, one of the Democrats' leading contenders for 1976 said publicly what Adlai E. Stevenson Jr. had said privately ly many years before, and to just about everybody's astonishment withdrew from the presidential race. Said an aide to Sen. Walter F. Mondale (D-Minn.), I guess he just "didn't want to spend the next two years living in Holiday Inns."

Not to cast aspersions upon the Senator's candor — certainly two years shaving in front of Holiday Inn mirrors is a peculiarly discouraging prospect — three other equally persuasive reasons for his dropping out come to mind.

First, being the front runner in the upcoming 26-state Democratic primary circus is tantamount to sticking your wrists and jumping into shark-infested waters. More than courting disaster, it is beating it soundly about the face and mouth to get its attention.

Second, even if there were a prayer of surviving the sharks, Mondale does not have and probably could not get enough money to stay afloat throughout the marathon. Not, for that matter, does or could any other candidate. The Democrats simply haven't come up with anyone so far worth writing home to mother about.

This means, third, that the 1976 Democratic convention will probably be brokered, with no first round winner, for the first time in 24 years.

And so, without spending any more nights in Holiday Inns, the man who doesn't want the presidency badly enough may still have as good a chance in 1976 as did Adlai Stevenson, the man who didn't want it at all, in 1952. It is not likely that that fact has escaped Mondale's attention entirely.

Nonetheless, the Senator's stated reason for throwing in the sponge merits reflection. We just rid ourselves of a man who the facts show wanted the presidency much too badly. In his stead, we have a man who didn't seek it at all — and who, so far, hasn't shown much indication that he knows what to do with it. And now we have a man who says, Yes, it would be all right to be president, but I guess I just don't want it badly enough. Somehow, that's got a nice, balanced ring to it, particularly in view of the fact that the man is not altogether unqualified.

But no sooner had Mondale pronounced his decision than many of my colleagues were saying: Aha! That proves it! We're pulling our candidates through too much physical and mental abuse, making them run around for two years before the elections.

Well, maybe. You've got to be a "little wacky to be president anyway, and so long as we're going to let wackies people run amuck, there's some merit to making them do it together and in full public view and for a long enough period so we can determine just how aberrant their behavior is likely to be should they be elected.

Whether that means 26 state primaries or 14, or whether they should be held at the same time or staggered, I don't know. Frankly, I don't think it matters that much, and certainly Walter Mondale's throwing in of the sponge is not of itself reason to get unduly wrought over the rigors of presidential politics.

After all, he is not the first man who said he didn't want the office, or didn't want it badly enough. And we know what all the others who said it really meant.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

—Oklahoma Gas and Electric Co. publication
 "A...newspaper ad placed by Mobil Oil Corporation is a real grabber. At the top is a picture of a portion of a crowd at a sporting event. The headline reads, 'This many Americans didn't die in January and February, thanks to the 55 mph speed limit.' The ad copy goes on to say that 1,880 fewer people were killed on the nation's highways in the first two months of 1974 than in 1973. There were 40,000 fewer disabling injuries this year than in January and February of last year. The National Safety Council says that most of the reduction is due to the reduced speed limits, although there was admittedly less traffic this year. Maybe the 'energy crisis' has accomplished something positive after all. Too bad we couldn't do it with common sense first."

OBSERVATIONS

It's our city

Now that the winter's first real snow has fallen in the Wayne area, drivers will have to start using something other than their normal senses as they maneuver through the Second and Third Street intersections on Main Street in Wayne.

The snow, ice, mud and sand make the driving lanes painted on the street very difficult — if not impossible — to see.

That's why we hope city officials will do everything they can to get overhead signs erected at those intersections so motorists will know that left turn lanes exist there. Those signs, which could easily be made here in Wayne if they are absolutely unavailable from the state, would not have to be any larger than the ones hanging over the street at the corner of Seventh and Main Streets.

We realize that the city is currently in the process of trying to obtain traffic signals for those two corners which would make the signs unnecessary. However, those efforts have been going on for some

Too much of many good things can be harmful

Wayne

Dear Editor:

A severely retarded citizen has donated to the Wayne Public Library his copy of "Fluorides and Human Health," which consists of articles by 29 specialists.

Of special interest to me as a reader seeking the truth would be Chapter 8, "Fluorides and General Health," which shows a map of areas in the U. S. where the concentration of "natural" fluoride is much greater than the 1 PPM recommended for sound teeth and bones. One such area covers a strip of northeastern Nebraska.

The people in those regions are not "forced" to drink their own "natural" water. Their laws permit them to import or produce distilled water to dilute the "natural" fluoride as much as they wish. Anyone with the brains of a stillborn rabbit must realize that no one is "forced" to drink artificially fluoridated water, and anyone exhibiting such cloudy "reasoning" should not be trusted in any public issue. Examples of such emotional and irrational "thinking" are legion.

Before municipal water was treated, no citizen was "forced" to drink it without first treating it himself. Home-filters were often used, and the safest measure was boiling. In the 1870s in Europe every railway station had a tank of boiling water and travelers would detain long enough to fill their samovars and add some tea leaves for flavor. They were not stupid enough to believe that they were "forced" to drink "natural" water either boiled or not boiled, but they had the choice of taking or avoiding the risk of typhoid.

It's hard, even impossible, to eradicate any species of microorganism, and certain precautions are accepted by persons who are content to follow the advice of those who have spent many years studying health and disease. The safest thing now is immunization, yet there are religious sects whose members will not permit a dangerously ill child to be treated, and they of course oppose preventive measures. Could any person be more egotistic than to think he knows more than a physician when his own little child is suffering? Some biases are trivial, such as the sect whose members KNOW that an aluminum pot poisons food.

In towns which, in their wisdom, vote down fluoridation, the worst result may be more work for busy dentists, and more fractures for oldsters. It's not so good to find an old person whose bones have become so brittle that he or she cannot be safely rolled over in bed. There are many treatments which need to be taken with care. Too much of many things can be harmful. Take the lady who heard about germs and that household bleach kills them. So she put some in the baby's bath. It killed the germs, very dead, but it also killed the baby. The doctors labored to save the poor, little child, but the best they could do was to relieve suffering and watch the baby die slowly.

It will be interesting to see how many people want to look into "Fluorides and Human Health." One opponent produced a brochure, and after reading it, one reader claimed it was full of inaccuracies and misleading statements. The opponent of fluoridation then admitted she had not read her own brochure but was free to accuse some proponents of being subsidized by the federal government. —Abe Iglo Kerr.

How we compare

Compared to other cities in the state, Wayne hasn't been doing very well in raising money in its annual Community Chest fund drive.

Here's how some of those communities fared last year:

- Sidney, with a population of 4,400, raised $13,000.
- York, with a population of 6,780, raised $22,716.
- Nebraska City, with a population of 7,400, raised $21,251.
- McCook, with a population of 8,280, raised $40,380.
- Norfolk, with a population of 16,400, raised $67,000.

Meanwhile, Wayne had difficulty getting close to the $10,000 mark in its 1973 fund drive. The community has a population of slightly over 5,400.

We realize that many of the communities have strong industries which give their fund drives a big boost each year. However, we don't feel that alone is the reason they are able to raise so much more money per resident than Wayne.

Exon's motto for state budgeting: Austerity

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — The word in state budgeting, as governor J. Exon begins his second term, is "austerity."

The newly re-elected chief executive used the term for the first time during a recent speech before the Nebraska Tax Research Council.

"The executive budget that I will be presenting in January will be a very austere budget indeed because I think government should start furnishing the lead if we are going to do something in the fight against inflation."

The definition of austere, however, took a while to come out. The austerity won't come out of the pockets of state employees, whom the governor said are "certainly one of the lowest paid groups of government employees of all the states in the Union."

Budget increases to help increase wages enough to cover at a minimum cost of living hikes, the governor said, will cost at least $12 million, and maybe as much as $13 million.

Austerity, however, does mean stip pickings for what Exon calls "special interests." Such groups, he said, are going to be "wanting all kinds of money for all kinds of different things, and we are not going to be able to provide all that money, unless we face up to the fact that if we do we're going to dictate a tax increase in November of next year (when 1976 sales and income tax rates will be set)."

An austere Exon budget means all of the "legitimate needs" of the state will be met.

But, when asked to expand on that, Exon said it could also mean that there will be cutbacks in some state programs.

The tax rates for 1975 will be 2 1/2 per cent for sales and 10 per cent for personal income. Although Exon voted against the 10 per cent rate when it was established Nov. 15 by the State Board of Equalization, he said his budget proposals to the 1975 Legislature would be geared to the revenues of that rate in hopes, he said, that it could be preserved through 1976.

Safety Campaign Stressed

The highway safety campaign is in its stretch run, with the possibility of a significant reduction in traffic fatalities.

Not since 1965 has Nebraska recorded fewer than 390 deaths from highway accidents during a calendar year.

There is a chance that mark can be beat this year if motorists cooperate in the last days of 1974.

The 1965 total was 386. That's much better than the recent totals. Last year, for example, there were 433 deaths on Nebraska's public roads. The 1972 total was 485 and the 1971 figure was 490.

It is possible, then, to "save" 100 lives this year, compared with the drivers' 1972 performance.

Nebraska's news media will be helping the state government in a campaign to keep motorists aware of their responsibilities. Newspapers will carry stories about the effort and spot announcements will be aired by broadcast outlets.

The Governor's Committee on Highway Safety says there is increasing concern about carelessness by drivers around school buses. Fatal accidents also are on the increase on the state's primary and secondary road system.

Penal Job Study Asked

The 1975 Legislature will be asked to take a look at the qualifications that should be required of the warden of the State Penal Complex.

Some senators emphasizing they aren't meaning to be personally critical of new warden Robert Parratt say they think the statutes were stretched and, maybe, broken when he was appointed.

The laws say, as interpreted by some senators, that job applicants must meet specifications for the posts in which they seek to serve. The administrative guide lines for warden specify a college degree. Parratt didn't graduate from high school.

But Parratt has had long experience in correctional work and state personnel chief William Peters said experience could be substituted for educational training in some cases. The attorney general's office also said that was technically in regard to application of that law and that guidelines to Parratt — because the penal complex was under the state department of institutions at the time the guidelines were written.

But senators Wally Barnett of Lincoln and Ernest Chambers of Omaha say they aren't satisfied and they want additional legislative consideration given to the issue.

State correctional services director Joseph Vitek, who selected Parratt as the successor to Charles Wolff, said a replacement needed to be made quickly because of the dangers of letting a penal institution go very long without a permanent warden. Parratt had been serving in an acting capacity after Wolff left to join the correctional program in Virginia.

Chambers, however, said Vitek's decision may make it tougher to administer the prison population. Inmates, he said, won't see why they should follow rules when Vitek doesn't.

I don't believe in breaking rules for the sake of breaking rules," Vitek said, "but I believe in flexibility."

That time is past

We hope everybody had an opportunity to read the article by Marilyn Fowler, president of the Nebraska State Board of Education, in Sunday's Omaha World-Herald.

In speaking about the voters' rejection of LB 772, the state aid to education bill, she said:

"It must be obvious to the voters, now that they have studied LB 772, that to create a bill to give equal distribution of funds to 1,200 unequal districts is expecting the next impossible. We must have school districts that are more nearly equal."

Inequality is our No. 1 problem. Examination of the present district structure should get top priority. It is most unfair that the people in over 900 districts have only one-half local control. People in Class I districts (K-8) have no voice and no vote for their secondary students.

"This should be corrected in the next legislative session. These districts should be included in K-12 districts so that all would share in the decision making and the financial support of all their students, both elementary and secondary.

"Each local district that has no voice or no vote for their secondary pupils should decide for itself which K-12 district is its natural home district and where it wants to send its secondary pupils. If should then become a part of that district.

"The Legislature and the governor then

'Little Relief in Shortages of Major Farm Supplies Next Year'

"Little relief from shortages of major farm input supplies is expected for next year. However, looking further down the road, farmers and ranchers should see an end to tight supplies of pesticides, machinery, spare parts and other production needs," Ray Butts, executive director of Wayne county ASCS office said this week.

For the short run, however, higher prices are seen along with difficulties in obtaining most farm supplies. Butts noted "Even though realized net farm income is declining in 1974, farm prices remain strong, and farmers will be customers for continued large quantities of inputs for the upcoming planting season, according to a report of the Economic Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Butts said. Fertilizer information should be available in a couple of weeks, he said, but here is the USDA's assessment of other items on the shopping list of farm inputs that producers will need to purchase.

Petroleum fuels—Earlier this year, nearly every state report of severe shortages of gasoline, diesel or LPG. However, supplies throughout the spring and summer were adequate. The fuel supply outlook for farmers is good, with the mandatory fuel allocation program promising 100 per cent of needs.

Machinery—With net farm income expected to decline in 1974, relatively high interest rates and high levels of sales in the past year, demand for new machinery is expected to slacken by mid-1975. Prices in 1974 are up about a fifth over 1973.

Baling wire and twine—This past year saw extremely tight supplies of wire and twine in over 30 states. Prices are up significantly. Wire is 7 1/2 times year earlier levels, and twine prices are up four times. The situation seems to be easing somewhat with the resumption of operation of a major wire manufacturing plant and increased twine imports.

Pesticides—Farmers this Spring saw shortages of pesticides for cotton, wheat and soybeans along with unusually high prices. For 1975, supplies look slightly improved over 1974 because of availability of feed stocks and increased allocation levels to petrochemical producers. Prices will increase next year. How much depends upon demand and pesticide production levels.

Transportation—In 1973, the record movement of grain into export encountered numerous transportation bottlenecks. This situation is not expected to be repeated in the 1974-75 marketing year because the backlog of grain for shipment has been worked off and there also has been a 10 per cent increase in the covered hopper car fleet this year. If many farmers continue to hold grain for higher prices, this also would tend to spread transportation requirements.

Finance—In the area of farm real estate, demand for mortgage funds is moderating as real estate slows. Because of strong demand for insurance policy loans and the usury limits on interest on loans in some states, insurance companies are likely to restrict lending to farm mortgage borrowers. Federal Land Bank loans, in contrast, are up sharply. In non-real estate farm lending, for the last half of 1974, loan volume has been rising briskly. Interest rates may stabilize with prime rates lower.

reorganizational Meeting
A 4-H reorganizational meeting was held Nov. 4 in the Melvin Dowling home. Don Spitzer, county agent, was present to explain new projects which are available for new 4-H members.

New members are Mary Sue Sohier, Jane Gubbels, Sherrill Baurmeister, Dean Dowling, Kelly and Rodney Isom, Duane and Bill Leicy, Kevin and Larry Sohier and Danny McFadden.

Officers elected for the coming year were Kevin Sohier, president; Deanna Sohier vice president; Marilyn Dowling, secretary; and Dorothy Junk, news reporter.

The Christmas party will be Dec. 8 in the John Sohier home.

DON C. SPITZER
WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

This week I've asked Linda Sander, area home extension agent, to be guest columnist. Linda is now working quite closely with 4-Hers, leaders and parents in the Wayne County 4-H program.

4-H—A Family Affair
Four-H is an activity that the whole family can't help but get involved in. Parents are an important factor in the success of a new member, giving him the needed encouragement, support, interest and guidance.

Project selection is an important decision that parents can help with. Enthusiastic 4-Hers might be tempted to take projects beyond their abilities, but parents can guide their children and help them choose projects which are challenging and fit into the family situation. If parents don't feel they have the expertise to help their child in a certain project, they are encouraged to attend meetings and learn along with their 4-Hers.

An occasional pal on the back will go a long way in encouraging a member to keep trying, and a little constructive criticism from mom and dad can really be a big help.

How can the family keep from getting involved when Sis is always trying out a new recipe for their approval, Johnny's dog is learning new tricks every week and Mary uses them for an audience to practice for the speaking contest?

Do Your Thing Project
Many leaders and 4-Hers are confused about just what this project is. First, let me tell you some things it is not. It is not just one craft item you make and don't know what else to do with. It is not something you can whip up in an afternoon. It is not something you can do without planning.

The Do Your Thing project and record book are quite involved if done correctly, and for that reason we don't encourage younger members to take it. In this project, the 4-H'er decides what his project will be, how he will do it and how he will evaluate it.

A written plan for the project must be approved by the 4-H leader at the start of the project, telling what the 4-H'er will do and what he will learn.

Then a progress report is filed out to explain what was done. Parents help tell the story. The type of evaluation is decided on by the 4-H'er, but it should tell what he learned and if the project has been of value to him and others.

Anita Sandahl did her own thing by turning an old junk building into a playhouse for her younger sisters. A two-year project, it included cleaning out the junk, burning it taking the old screens to Sioux City to sell, sweeping, scrubbing and white washing the inside of the building, painting the outside and cleaning up the slope in it during the first summer.

Next summer she plans to put up cupboards, get dishes for it, make and hang curtains, move the building to a new location and plant flowers around it.

This is an excellent example of a 4-H'er doing her own thing. Anita carefully planned this out and has done a lot of work and learning.

I would suggest that 4-Hers wanting to take the Do Your Thing project be willing to plan, record their progress and evaluate what they have done.

Thought for Today
"The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story and writes another."
James Barrie
Very few of the millions of us who make up humanity write the life story we plan to write. If we intend to aspire to great accomplishments, to make great plans, to write a diary full of triumphs and achievement.
Most of us fall short of our own expectations, not so much because of lack of ability as for failing resolution. The story we write seldom the story we planned to write... and could have written... but at least we have lots of company.
Pre-need planning assures that the wishes regarding their own memorial service will be observed. Financial as well as insurance planning, well in advance of need. May we give you more information?

Wiltse Mortuaries

On South Pearl Street had been purchased and is insured for $10,000.00.
The 1 to 6 year street plan will soon be an issue and Administrator Brink proposed developing a slide program to gratifically display items to be considered and Councilman Russell suggested that the slide program be combined with the observer valuation trip by bus.
Mr. Brink reported that Councilman Filler requested that both sides of the street 4 to 6 per block, from 1st to 14th Street, no division.
Mayor Decker announced the retirement of Dan Sherry, City Clerk, Treasurer effective January 1, 1975 who suggested that City advertise the position.
Councilman Russell suggested changes in the office set up. It was proposed that dogs picked up by the Police Department were retained long enough so some owners may not contact the Police and be arrested.
Attorney B. B. Bornhoff stated that the Hospital Agreement indicated that the Ambulance is to be used for Wayne County residents.
There being no other business to come before Council at this time it was moved by Councilman Hansen and seconded by Councilman Hansen that Council adjourn. Upon roll call all voted Yeas and the Mayor declared the motion carried.

Guests of honor at the wedding ceremony were Mrs. Ida Goeller of Pilger, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Russell Lewis Geer of Grand Island.

The entire gown was appliqued in Venice lace with narrow bands of lace extending down the front of the gown and the train. The hemline featured floral appliques. Her veil was held by an elevated Juliet cap trimmed with Venice lace and pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses interspersed with baby's breath. Her pearl earrings were a gift of the groom and she carried her great great grandmother's handkerchief.

Her attendants wore gowns of tynol red velvet styled with long sleeves, ruffled edged bolero jackets over mock halter gowns with high collars, contoured empire waists and A-line skirts. They each carried a white fur muff decorated with small red carnations. The flower girl was attired in a gown of white organza trimmed in tynol red velvet.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Linda Sander

Safe Play Needs Supervision

Even so called "safe" toys can cause accidents when children are left completely on their own. Playtime needs some supervision, and children must be taught at a very young age some "dos" and "don'ts" of playtime safety.

If there are special instructions, read them and explain them to your child. Teach your children careful use of electricity and the proper way to connect electric toys by holding on to the rubberized plug rather than pulling on the cord.

Tell your children to stand or sit still when blowing whistles or playing musical instruments. Have them tell you about broken toys, and check them often yourself to find harmful jagged edges, sharp points or small loose parts that can be swallowed.

Watch your children so they don't try to taste the glue, playdough, colors, chalk, etc.

They should be taught to carry all scissors, knives, pencils and sharp objects with the point down and away from them. And of course, traffic safety signs playing on tricycles or scooters is very important.

Any toy can be harmful when left in the middle of the floor for others to trip on, and toys break easily when stepped on or kicked. Get children in the good habit of picking up their toys when playtime is over.

This Christmas remember: The most valuable gift you can give your children is your time. They need you to show them how to help with things they can't quite get...to protect them from hazards and just to show you care. Time seems an unending commodity to children, and they don't understand why you don't have enough of it.

"Safe" toys are safe only when used properly. Take time to show your children how to play safely.

How do we know there's natural gas beneath this desert?

When you look for gas, you look for a certain kind of rock first. The rock has a distinct make-up, which can mean there's gas somewhere below.

This desert has a lot of those rocks. But we have to do a lot of studying to find just the right spot to drill a well. That can take years and millions of dollars.

Finally, if the rock is just right, and the geologists are encouraged by tests, the drilling begins.

As it drills, a million-dollar rig pumps a special mudlike solution down into the hole and back up again. If the mud comes back with traces of gas, we keep drilling—sometimes as deep as five miles into the earth.

That's just the beginning. If we find gas, we still have to build gathering lines to bring the gas to our pipeline and to your home.

But it's worth it. We need new supplies of gas to replace the reserves our country is using.

And exploring a desert is just one of the things we're doing to keep that clean, efficient blue flame burning at your house.

SEASONAL REMINDER

TO ALL RESIDENTS OF THE CITY OF WAYNE

With winter hanging over us, the Street Department again urges all residents to comply with the city ordinances regarding snow removal on sidewalks, streets, off-parking, gas station platforms, etc.

Ordinance No. 8-202 states that all sidewalks must be cleared of snow or ice to full width of sidewalk within twenty-four hours after the storm, or the city will hire personnel to remove it and bill the property owner. Also a summons to appear in court for violation of the ordinance will be issued by the Police Department. All ordinances will be strictly enforced.

In the business district, snow must be thrown into the street at least one foot from curb as soon as possible to permit removal by street crews. Only snow from sidewalk out to the street is permitted to be dumped into the street for city hauling. All snow behind sidewalks, stations, off-street parking, etc. will have to be removed by private operators.

The CITY CLERK'S OFFICE will have on hand a list of private snow removers for those interested. Also anyone interested in scooping or hauling snow may contact the City Clerk's Office.
