

Wayne, Winside Students Named 'Family Leaders'

Students from Wayne and Winside High Schools have been named 1974-75 Betty Crocker Family Leaders of Tomorrow. They are Pamela Glassmeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Glassmeyer of rural Wayne, and Linda Holtgrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Holtgrew of Winside.

Both seniors won the honor following a written examination last month. As a result, each is eligible for state and national honors, including over $15,000 in college scholarships.

State Family Leaders of Tomorrow receive $1,500 college scholarships while second-place winners receive $500 grants. A $1,000 nutrition scholarship also is available again this year from General Mills. The winner of this grant is a participant in the Betty Crocker Search who is planning a college major in nutrition or a related field, ranks among the highest in his or her state on the overall examination and scores highest on the included nutrition questions.

New Sky Show Slated For WSC Planetarium

A new sky show will open Sunday in Wayne State College's Dale Planetarium. Its title is "What's Your Sagittarius?" an innovative treatment of astrology which planetarium director Carl Rump says was developed by faculty of the Richland College planetarium at Dallas.

Wayne State's presentation will be a national premiere outside Richland. Rump said the show will go on to other colleges.

At Wayne, Rump will offer "What's Your Sagittarius?" on Sundays at 3:30 p.m. and Wednesdays at 7:30 from Jan. 26 through Feb. 23, in Carhart Science Hall.

Rump says this is the show and its purpose. "While many people feel that they do not believe in any form of astrology, there is hardly an adult alive who does not know his birth sign and who has not occasionally read his horoscope.

"Although astrology is centuries old, it is currently enjoying a high popularity, particularly in this country. One reason that horoscopes have persisted for many centuries is that people want to believe their future is predestined."

"What's Your Sagittarius?" traces the historical development of astrology and through use of the planetarium's star field and planet analogs, the show demonstrates the working

New Officers Are Picked At First National Bank

Bob Reeg has been named vice president and senior installment loan officer at First National Bank.

The bank's board of directors named Reeg to the post during a meeting Tuesday.

The board also named Dale Stoltenberg assistant vice president and agricultural representative.

The two fill posts left vacant when Lee Foote, former agricultural representative and vice president, left the bank to become president of a bank at Manning, Ia. last October.

Reeg, 26, is a native of Wayne and a graduate of the University of Arizona where he earned his bachelor of science degree in finance. He has been associated with the local bank for five years and has worked in the bank's various departments. He and his wife, Joyce, have two children.

Stoltenberg, who lives with his wife, Norma, and their three children on a farm near Carroll, has been with the bank since October. Local Women Get to See Legislature in Aciton

By LAVON BECKMAN

Interesting, educational and informative were just some of the views expressed by the more than 500 women who took part in legislative day at the state capitol in Lincoln Thursday.

The program, sponsored by the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs, gave members the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the unicameral system, legislation and problems facing Nebraskans.

Women from across the state arrived at the capitol about 9 a.m. where Governor J. James Exon was on hand to greet them in the east chamber. Exon assured the women that only by being interested in government and the interpretation of the issues that were being brought before them would they be better able to do their parts as informed citizens.

"The number of people who have voluntarily come demonstrates that there is little if any apathy in the state of Nebraska," he said.

After being given instructions for the day, women proceeded to the legislative chambers for the opening session of the legislature where for two and a half hours they watched as their state senators conducted business of the state, including the introduction of several new legislative bills. Many women were able to meet personally and question state senators representing their districts during a noon luncheon held at the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel at which about 35 senators were guests.

The afternoon was spent at the capitol where they attended one of four committee meetings being held on government, military and veterans affairs, urban

According to the couple, who manage the citizens center, there is plenty yet to do to make the center more suitable for senior citizens. Area residents 55 years or older are welcome.

OBSERVATIONS

Guest comment:

College is important... but so are others

Because I believe that elected representatives should be held accountable for their actions, I would like to offer an explanation for my recent negative vote on the $768 donation made by the city to the Wayne State Foundation.

I'm sure that my action will be misinterpreted and construed by some to mean I do not recognize the importance of Wayne State College to our community. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I do not, however, believe that the city council should make contributions of this nature with city funds. There was a time when I personally felt that donations to the college for its promotion were in order. Since being on the council my personal opinion has changed, however, and I can now see that we are getting into a very gray area, as to whether we, as the council, are not perhaps encroaching upon a decision which would be better left to the discretion of private businesses and individuals.

There is no question but what our community relies heavily on the economic impact of the college. My contention is that there are other factions who also contribute to Wayne's economy and who also might be deserving of a donation for their promotion.

Associations such as cattle and hog feeders might greatly appreciate donations to help them promote their industries. Few could deny the impact they have on the economy of Wayne.

My reasoning follows that rather than the council getting into the arbitrary business of selecting recipients of municipal donations, we simply steer clear and tend to more appropriate matters.

This item was not on the council agenda for the evening so I was not forewarned and did not seek out public opinion concerning it. It is, however, an annual item and I invite any reaction from my ward so that I'll know better what to do the next time.—John Vakoc, fourth ward councilman.

A good promotion

We have heard nothing but good comments about the week-long pork promotion sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and made possible by participating businessmen.

Numerous people attending the Area Swine Day in the city last Tuesday mentioned the promotion, complimenting those responsible for conducting something which emphasizes the economic importance of area farmers and feeders. Some issues of the newspaper which included advertisements of local businesses which promoted pork last week will be sent to the state and national offices of the pork producers' associations to show those officials what a community can do to boost a segment of agriculture which is important to the area.

The promotion prompted a letter from a specialist at the Northeast Station near Concord, a person who is very closely in touch with what's happening to the swine industry these days. That complimentary letter appears elsewhere on this page.

To me, this is the kind of business promotion that has some meaning to it. If you feel the same way, make sure you mention it to the store owner or manager the next time you stop in his place of business. He needs encouragement from his customers if he is to back similar promotions in the future.—Norvin Hansen.

Rural zoning has more good points than bad

After listening to what was said at Tuesday's public meeting in Wayne on county zoning, we are convinced more than ever that Wayne County should take steps to zone all rural land within its boundaries.

For those of you who have yet to make up your minds on the subject or who oppose rural zoning, we would like to touch on a few of the things said at Tuesday's meeting.

—It's "not true" that farmers will have to meet different standards on such things as plumbing and wiring once zoning rules and regulations are drawn up, said Steve Oltmans, director of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District.

According to a survey of Nebraska-Lincoln extension publication, "The Why and How of Rural Zoning in Nebraska," "It is important to note that Nebraska law provides for the regulation of nonfarm buildings. Building codes enacted as a part of rural zoning apply only to nonfarm buildings. Nebraska's enabling legislation for zoning defines nonfarm buildings as all buildings except those utilized for agricultural purposes on a farmstead of 20 acres or more which produces $1,000 or more of farm products in each year.

In practice, this means that in Nebraska nearly all farm buildings are exempt from building codes.

—It's "very important to remember that you have grandfather rights," Oltmans replied when asked what effect rural zoning would have on a farmer operating a feedlot. The grandfather right is the right to continue legal activities which existed before zoning regulations, according to the UN-L publication. Although a feedlot operator could continue his operation under the grandfather right, he might not be able to expand if that area of the county is not zoned correctly, according to Oltmans.

—Knox County got one of its biggest boosts toward rural zoning when a farmer woke up one day to find that somebody was going to build a pig raising facility across the road from his new home, according to the chairman of the Knox County board of supervisors, Max Copper. That farmer objected strongly and, luckily, succeeded in convincing those involved to build the facility on another site, he said.

—Another boost for Knox County came when developers began selling lots along the shore of Lewis and Clark Lake without adequate planning, according to Copper. Before long, those people who purchased lots were demanding services and facilities which the county could not afford, he noted.

—If a county zoning plan is going to be successful, it's got to involve local people," Oltmans emphasized. Local people—farmers, feeders, businessmen, community representatives and others—are the ones who spend hours and hours drawing up the comprehensive plan and zoning regulations, resulting in something which reflects the needs and wishes of the people living in the county. Somebody else doesn't come in and dictate how the county should be zoned or what should be written into the regulations.

—"We should be able to learn...not to make the mistakes" made by the people who live in the heavily populated areas of this nation, Oltmans said. Among those mistakes has been the painfully obvious lack of planning in growth and expansion.

—Northeast Nebraska is "faced every day" with such problems as mobile home developers expanding into rural areas and people putting septic tanks in areas where they will cause problems, according to Oltmans. Rural school boards certainly have a fear of a large trailer court springing up in their districts, and we should all have a fear of septic tanks being installed where they could cause pollution.

—If (rural zoning) is just as good as you want it to be...there's nothing better than local control if the people have the backbone to enforce it," Oltmans pointed out when asked if rural zoning can be enforced. Local people are the ones who draw up the rules and regulations, local people are the ones who live in the area, and local people are the ones who enforce those rules and regulations if they want to.

—If we keep putting off rural zoning, it won't be long before "the federal government comes in and tells us to do it," according to commissioners Floyd Burt, who has spoken out in favor of rural zoning many times. There have been rumblings of exactly that in Washington in recent years, and we don't anticipate them to cease now.

Rural zoning is not a cure-all, and we don't mean to depict it as such. However, we feel there are more arguments in favor of it than there are against it. We recommend that the county commissioners waste no more time in taking steps to implement it in Wayne County.—Norvin Hansen.

Pork producers do appreciate city promotion

Concord

Dear Editor: I want to express a sincere thanks on behalf of all Northeast Nebraska pork producers for the outstanding efforts of the news media and the Chamber of Commerce in your recent "pork week" promotion. This is an excellent illustration of what can be done, and the results as measured in goodwill were obvious when listening to the producers at the Tuesday meeting. Hopefully, this was the first "annual" Wayne pork week and that the future efforts will be equally productive.—Bob Fritschen, district extension swine specialist.

FINISHED reading "Alive!" by Piers Paul Read the other night. If you're looking for something to do besides watching "Mod Squad" late at night, pick up that book at the local library.

Although not an exceptionally well written book, you probably won't quit reading it until you're completely through.

The book tells the story of young men who survived for 10 weeks in the Andes Mountains in South America after their plane crashed and left them injured, isolated and without food. Most of the people aboard the plane died, many of them in the wreck or in an avalanche, but those who survived did so because they resorted to eating the flesh of their dead companions.

To say the least, the book is a sobering one, prompting all kinds of questions in the reader's mind. But by the time you are through with the book, you find yourself less and less repulsed by the survivors' actions. Although the writer isn't arguing any case, he makes it plain that there would have been no survivors had they not taken that drastic step.

SHOTGUNNING: A former Tekamah judge whose "bread and water" sentence during Prohibition gained national attention was buried in Tekamah last week. He was Orville Chaff, 81, a former Burlington judge who once told reporters that "a man with a lot of rot gut whiskey in him is better off living on bread and water for a spell." During Prohibition, he adopted a plan of sentencing habitual liquor offenders to 60 days in jail, the last 20 on a diet of bread and water. Two farmers who were sentenced to 40 days on bread and water appealed to the state supreme court, the high court upheld the decision. Richard Alexander of Pilger has been named president of the Nebraska Breeders and Feeders Association. Also elected: Curtis Graff, Bancroft, vice president, and Dr. Paul Buyer, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension beef specialist, secretary treasurer. New directors: Bill McQuistan-Pender, and Mel Kuska, Fairmont. New directors of the Pierce County Livestock Feeders are Gerald Kruger, Randolph, Marvin Koehler, Pierce; Dennis Wragges, Pierce; Warren Renter, Plainview; Arnold Gutz, Osmond, and Dwayne Gansbom, O-mond.

THE WOMEN from the Northeast Nebraska Porkettes Association who put on the dinner during Tuesday's Area Swine Day in Wayne took quite a ribbing. They served chili and sandwiches, but the pork producers who turned out thought they should have served some nice thick ham sandwiches. It won't happen again, I'm betting.

WASHINGTON—The Arabs have taken a rough beating in the press recently as the villains of the mideast oil swindle. When President Ford spoke at the energy conference in Detroit this September, he said that the U. S. would not tolerate the use of natural resources as a political weapon, and that in the past, nations had gone to war for less. Clearly this was a rebuke directed at the Arabs. It was unfair, though, in furthering the notion that the Arabs are the chief agitators in the oil cartel.

Consider for a moment who benefits the most from these new oil prices and who has pushed the hardest for raising them. It isn't the king of Saudi Arabia. The news reports indicate that he is virtually indifferent to price hikes and would just as soon get rich on $7-dollar oil as on $11-dollar oil. His country doesn't need the extra money and can't use it. But this is not the case with the Shah of Iran. The Shah isn't an Arab, but he's generally believed to be the key instigator of price hikes. Last December the Shah held an oil auction at the peak of the energy when some industrial countries were ready to do almost anything to get another barrel of oil. The purpose of the sale, Iran, said, was to discover the real market value of Persian Gulf crude. In that auction, oil sold for $18 to $20 dollars a barrel, about twice as much as it costs today. Iran used this figure in meetings with the oil producers to argue that prices should be raised. They were. Unlike its Arab neighbors, Iran has a fairly large population—as the financial experts put it, a large absorptive capacity. This means the Shah will be able to spend most of the money he's making today, and he intends to do just that.

If the Shah plays such a key role in the oil cartel, why has he been so little criticized? One can only speculate about the answer, but it isn't hard to do. Iran has been regarded for years as America's fortress in the Persian Gulf. Had it not been for the timely intervention of the CIA in the 1950's, the Shah probably wouldn't be in power today. The ambassador to Iran right now is former CIA director Richard Helms. The single largest buyer of American arms and ammunition in the world is Iran. The State Department says that in four or five years the number of American technicians, defense contractors and industrial engineers working in Iran will quadruple. Iran sells oil to Israel. For all these reasons the United States hesitates to speak strongly to the Shah.

In the Persian Gulf we can see a very special kind of revolt taking place today. What we once considered a puppet government is learning to pull strings. Itself and manipulate the puppeteers.

Iris Society Testing New Introductions

The Elkhorn Valley Iris Society has announced that over 60 new iris introductions for 1974 are being grown and tested in area club member's gardens.

The new varieties, created from iris hybridizers located throughout the country, are being grown in the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson and Mrs. N. S. Pederson of Norfolk, Larry Harder of Ponca, Gene Gaddie of Stanton and Roger Nelson's Iris Country garden in Wayne.

Select new varieties include the heavily ruffled, navy blue Five Star Admiral featured in Gaddie's garden, the autumn colored caramel brown and rose blend Autumn Leaves on display in Pederson's garden, and the Queen of Hearts, a medley of coral cream and buff with a red beard, being grown in Nelson's Iris Country garden.

Iris growers interested in obtaining more information concerning the new varieties should contact president Roy Johnson of Norfolk.

The Elkhorn Valley Iris Society will hold their first meeting of the year sometime in March.

Blue Devil's 'New Defense' Shines in Win Over Neligh

By BOB BARTLETT
Credit Ron Carnes with some major changes in Wayne High's defense that helped produce a 71-35 win over Neligh Friday night.

Carnes, assistant to coach Bill Sharpe, is responsible for juggling Wayne's man-to-man defense so its full-court press caused Neligh to turn the ball over 31 times.

"Our press rattled Neligh, and once a team is rattled, it's hard to stop," Sharpe pointed out after his club won its eighth game in 10 contests.

The shift in defense also helped produce balanced scoring as several players cashed in on Neligh miscues.

Senior Earle Overin led Wayne's scoring parade with a season-high 17 points while Rick Mitchell pushed in 15. Jack Froehlich had 12 and Marty Hansen had 10.

"This is the best game we've played on both ends of the court," Sharpe said, adding that anytime you have four players in double figures, you're doing real well.

Senior Bob Keating, seeing action for the first time in a week after a bout with the flu, almost became the Devils' fifth man in double figures, scoring eight points. "Bob would have had more if our press didn't work so well," Sharpe admitted.

Keating opened the game with two quick inside layups to put the locals into early command. Overin and Mitchell took over second-half scoring leadership as Overin hit six baskets and three of four free throws; Mitchell was four for four from the line and made four baskets.

Rebounding also was a factor as Wayne pulled down 46 cars to Neligh's 35. Froehlich led the Devils with nine while Mitchell had eight and Keating and Overin finished with six each.

The Devils got off 10 more shots than Neligh to end up with a 41 per cent clip compared to Neligh's 37 per cent. Wayne made 28 of 69 attempts. Neligh 22 of 59.

"The principle behind the press is to first stop your man, then double-team him," Sharpe said, adding "that's just what we did to make our game work well."

Monte Lowe's 19 points and Mike Sharer's 18 led the junior varsity past Neligh, 62-36, for a 5-3 record.

Wayne jumped to a 19-0 first period lead and took a 38-14 halftime edge.

"We've been battling the flu, which is one reason we had to use some of the varsity players in the reserve game," Sharpe said. Both Lowe and Sharer are members of the varsity squad, as are Paul Mallette and Dave Hix, who scored seven and six points.

Frevert, Hoffman Lead Wildcats Over Wynot

Tyler Frevert pumped in 22 points and Bob Hoffman added 18 to lead Winside to its second win of the season Friday night, a 55-45 victory over visiting Wynot.

Frevert cashed in 16 the first half to lead the Wildcats to a 26-9 halftime margin before Hoffman dropped in 12 the last two periods.

"Our defense played a heckuva game," said coach Kortin Lutt after his club upped its record to 2-6. "Our man-to-man press enabled us to limit Wynot to just nine points the first half while the rebounding took care of the rest of the game."

Hoffman led on the defensive boards clearing 11 of the team's 42 rebounds. Freshman Cliff Tillema had 10 while Terry Lühr had eight. "Both Tillema and Lühr did a good job defensively for us, especially in rebounding," Lutt noted.

Both clubs hit about 40 per cent of their shots, but Winside cashed in on 19 of 49 attempts. Hoffman led teammates with 10

Devils' Lower Weights Continues Strong Look

Wayne High's lower weights continued to look strong near the end of the dual season when Kirk Echtenkamp and Randy Surber pinned two Tekamah-Herman opponents during Thursday's meet at Wayne.

Echtenkamp (98) pinned Steve Tierney in 3:12 and Surber (105) stopped Perry Palmer in 2:42 to score 12 of the team's points in the Blue Devils 39-18 loss.

For Echtenkamp, the win was his second by a pin and fourth overall; Surber won his 10th match against two losses.

Senior Don Nelson also notched his 10th win, pinning Tekamah-Herman's 155-pounder Dan Farber in 4:12.

Another senior, 185-pound Reg Godsey, suffered his first loss since the Tekamah invitational earlier this month, falling to Terry Tilson, 2-0. Godsey has been wrestling well the last part of the season and is coming on strong now, said head coach Don Koenig.

Although Wayne lost its sixth dual in seven starts, Koenig noted that the addition of a pep band and more Wayne fans helped to fire up the Devils against a strong Class B Tekamah team. "I hope we have as good a turnout for Tuesday's home match against Wakefield," Koenig added.

Wakefield and Wayne were scheduled to wrestle Monday night in the Devils' gym, but they agreed to change the date.

Norfolk Hands Laurel 1st Loss

Norfolk High handed Laurel freshmen their first loss of the season Thursday, 68-51.

Laurel was behind by as much as 24 the second half before the Bears, led by Dave Lindgren, high point man with 26, rallied to 11 going into the final period.

"We closed to seven points but their press really stopped us most of the game," said coach Don Ferguson. The game had been postponed from Tuesday.

Also scoring for Laurel were Mike Martin with 11, and Bob Dahlquist and Toby Cunningham with six each.

The 31 Bears travel to Plain view Wednesday.

Wayne Coeds Trample UN-L

Losing a game the week before apparently did not set well with Wayne State's women cagers. Friday night they avenged that lone loss of the season by trouncing the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, 72-44.

Coach G. J. Willoughby described the Wildkitten play as "aggressive" with "good team effort and balanced scoring." That contrasted with a lackluster performance the previous week when Westmar beat Wayne by six points.

Against UN-L, four Wayne coeds scored 10 or more — Martha Schrick with 16, Connie Kunzmann 14, Mary Steinauer 12 and Lori Langel, 10.

Wayne led at the half, 40-17, then raced on to make the season record 71 before Saturday's game with a strong Northwest Missouri State invader.

Wayne's junior varsity, in its first game, defeated UN-L 64-51, with Peg Yockey hitting 16.

4 Cat Matmen Are 1st in State

Four Winside High wrestlers are first in their weight divisions in the Omaha World Herald's first Class C wrestling ratings of the season.

They are Bob Bowers, (105), Keith Suehl (112), Gregg Lage (138) and Dwight Lienemann (167), who tied with Rick Rosencquist of Raymond Central.

Also listed among the top five in each weight class are Brad Brummels (126) and Mike Anderson (hwt), both of Winside, and Pat Nicholson (155) of Wakefield. Anderson is second, Nicholson third and Brummels fifth.

Of the six area matmen listed in Friday's ratings, three had undefeated marks. They are seniors Lage and Anderson and junior Keith Suehl. The others have one loss.

Wakefield Frosh Win

Wakefield's freshman basketball team broke into the win column for the first time in four outings Monday, downing Lyons by 48-27.

Balanced scoring turned the tide for coach Ernie Kovar's frosh as three players scored in double figures — Paul Dahlgren with 15 and Craig Nelson and Val Johnson with 10 each. Others scoring were Jeff Simpson with eight, Larry Lundine with five and John Viken with two.

Saturday afternoon the Trojans lost their third game, 46-39, to Pender.

"We were playing better, but our defense lagged a bit," Kovar said. Johnson and Dahlgren were high with 16 and 13 points while Jeff Simpson and Craig Nelson had four each and Jeff Peterson had two.

Frigid First Quarter Sinks Eagle's Hopes

Winnepago's 12 point first quarter margin turned out to be the difference in the visiting Indians' 52-40 win over Allen Friday night.

Allen, 0-9, only connected on one of 20 shots the opening frame to trail 14-2 going into the second quarter before coach Bryan Brede's Eagles played creditable ball the remaining three quarters.

"We couldn't hit the broad side of a barn that first period," Brede confessed after his team finished with a 30 per cent shooting for the night.

"We outplayed Winnepago the rest of the game. Even stole the ball about 50 times, but we just couldn't overcome that lead," he added.

Senior Dave Dunn, who scored Allen's only basket in the first quarter, sparked the Eagles with 12 points in the second half, pumping in six each period.

"Dave was coming off a sprained ankle so I didn't play him too much during the game," Brede said.

Allen's second leading marksman, senior Don Kluever, added 10 points. Brian Hirschert, who netted eight points, led the Eagles in rebounds with eight of the team's 28. Paul Snyder, Dunn and Shawn Persinger had six each while Kluever finished with five.

"If we would have started out like we did against Ponca (last week), we would have beat the heck out of them," Brede noted.

In reserve action, Allen fell 26-17 after trailing 10-2 at the half.

Westmar Invades Erie

A triple-header of basketball is on the Wayne State home card Tuesday, with Westmar the foe in all three.

Starting it off, the women's team will play at 4 in Rice Gym, followed by the men's junior varsity at 5:15, then the men's varsity at 7:30.

And on Wednesday, Westmar wrestlers will invade Rice for a 7:30 p.m. dual with Wayne.

Defense Leads Trojans to 9th Win

Joe Coble's basketball philosophy is to play hard, steady defense and let the offense take care of itself.

The likelihood anyone will question that philosophy seems doubtful after Coble's Wakefield Trojans claimed their ninth win in 10 games with a come-from-behind win over host Madison Friday night, 63-57.

Wakefield didn't do anything different with its man-to-man defense except to show more determination in the last period to overcome Madison's four-point lead, Coble said.

With just under four minutes left in the game, Wakefield carved out a nine-point Trojan lead on Madison's turnovers.

Offensively, three players turned the game around for Wakefield in the fourth. Alan Johnson threaded the basket for eight points while Don Myers and Scott Mills hit seven each.

But not all the credit goes to those three. Coble pointed out Junior Tim Rouse played the best all-around ball, game, he said, adding that although Rouse scored only five points, he had 10 assists. Both Mills and Johnson also were credited by Coble with good defense work.

Laurel Ends 3-Game Drought

After a three-game losing streak, Laurel High Friday night picked off stubborn Crofton, 60-52, in a Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference battle.

The host Bears fought back from a dismal first period — making only three of 15 tries for a 12-7 deficit — to pull into the lead, 25-23, at the half. Sterling Stolpe, Gregg Pippitt and Tim Anderson helped put the Bears in front as Stolpeaced six points and Pippitt and Anderson contributed four each.

Stolpe and Pippitt, who finished one-two in scoring, led the Bears' second-half charge as Stolpe cashed in 10 points for the fourth consecutive game, shooting 76 times and hitting 25 for 32 per cent. Crofton hit on 17 of 42 for 42 per cent.

"It's a win," Parks noted. "We're capable of playing better ball. Maybe now we can start to show that improvement."

Although the Bears are 1-2 in league play and 9-5 overall, Parks admitted that "we're going to play one game at a time," instead of looking to be the league spoiler. "We want to work on our game in hopes we can improve for districts."

Laurel's junior varsity pushed its win streak to eight with a 61-55 win.

The JV's, led by Cleve Stolpe with 15, held a 20-point cushion at one time before the visitors put together two 20-point quarters to nearly erase Laurel's lead.

Wakefield Seeded First In West Husker Tourney

Number one-seeded Wakefield will play Stanton in the first round of the second annual West Husker basketball tournament when the four-day tourney starts Monday, Feb. 3, at Wakefield.

The Trojans, holding an 8-1 record going into Wednesday's seeding meeting, plays winless Stanton, 0-9, at 8 p.m. Action opens with Wisner-Pliger (2-5) facing fourth-seeded Madison (4-5) at 6:30.

Wayne, seeded third and holding a 7-3 mark, takes on Emerson-Hubbard, 3-8, in the second game Feb. 4 at 8 p.m. Hartington Cedar Catholic, seeded second with an 8-2 record, goes against Columbus Lakeview, 3-5.

Semifinal action starts at 6:30 and 8 p.m. Feb. 6. Consolation final and championship games are slated for the same time Feb. 7.

College Tankers Defeat Kearney

Wayne State swimmers made easy going of a dual meet that was supposed to be close Friday when they beat Kearney State here, 67-46.

Wildcat tankers won seven of 11 individual events — Bob Floerchinger coping three, Dave Just and Lance Clay two each. Floerchinger won the 200 and 500 freestyle and the 200 butterfly. Just led the 50 and 100 free, Clay the 1,000 free and 200 individual medley.

For Kearney, Craig Fullerton, a former Wayne Stater who transferred to Kearney after his family moved there, won both one-meter and three-meter diving.

With both teams short of swimmers, Wayne did not enter the medley relay, and Kearney skipped the freestyle relay.

The meet was a rescheduling of a weather-out Dec. 14 meeting. Both Wayne and Kearney teams were scheduled to compete in a double dual with South Dakota State at Brookings Saturday.

Farms, Food Subject of Wayne State College Workshop

A workshop asking "Who Will Control Our Farms and Food?" will be held at the Wayne State College Birch Room Wednesday, Feb. 12.

Vacant farmsteads which dot the Nebraska countryside and the dramatic increase in the size of farms and ranches imply that land ownership has become concentrated among a declining number of farms in recent years. The relationship between ownership and control of agricultural resources has also changed. These factors emphasize the importance of the question — who will control our farms and food?

The workshop, sponsored by the Department of Agriculture Economics at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will be conducted by Duane Olsen from the university. The session will run from 9:30 a.m. to about 3:30 p.m. with an hour break for lunch.

All interested persons in the area are invited to attend. No fee will be charged.

Don Spitzer, Wayne County extension agent, or Allen O'Donnell, instructor at WSC, may be contacted for further information or registration details.

UN-L Expert Knows What He'd Plant

If Don Sander were going to farm in eastern Nebraska this summer, he knows what he would do.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agronomist listed some definite dryland farming decisions. "I wouldn't plant corn, but I would plant sorghum or soybeans, and cover — spring grain. I would control weeds either full or band over complete field, or only (next to rows), depending on the funds. I would reduce tillage and plant populations and I would definitely soil test and delay application."

He based these recommendations on three factors — a short age of farm and seed, drought and prices. As for those fluctuating prices, he said, "Everything that comes up must come down. And farmers have to be realistic about that and take it into consideration. Sander outlined his viewpoints on management decisions for 1975 for participants of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Days in Lincoln last week.

The key to sound management decisions, said Sander, is to base those decisions on the probability of an event occurring. In other words, be ready for other drought, check soil moisture and come to a conclusion based on probabilities. Sander designated the last part of April as decision time. By that time, a certain percentage of rainfall will have come so that a farmer can decide what his chances are of receiving the required rainfall for the rest of the growing season.

To make a well informed management decision, farmers must know their soil moisture and understand their cropping alternatives, said Sander. They must choose the best plant populations and decide on a fertilizer program.

Ak-Sar-Ben Offering Grants to 4-H Groups

The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben is offering grants totaling $3,000 to 4-H clubs interested in working on community projects, according to Kenneth Schmidt, associate state 4-H leader.

Purpose of these grants is to help local groups with community projects they otherwise would not be able to do, Schmidt pointed out. Four-H groups may request for as little as $20 or as much as $300, depending on the need, he added.

Deadline for filing applications with county extension agents is April 1.

The total of eight schools received good ratings, including Allen and Winside.

Other school attending were Hartington, which placed third, Homer, Wynot, Walthill and Coleridge. Not present were Newcastle and Wausa.

A Look at Irrigation in Wayne County

Irrigation in Wayne County is quite limited, with less than 30 irrigators in the county. However, the recent dry years, plus development of equipment that will irrigate our rolling hills has greatly increased interest in irrigation. For these reasons, a study of irrigation practices, costs and returns on irrigated fields of 23 county farmers in 1974.

In any type of economic analysis you have to assume some average prices because it would be difficult to obtain actual costs for each operation on each individual farm. These average costs also make for a better comparison between fields.

For all tillage and harvesting practices I used an average custom rate charge. Yearly irrigated fixed cost, including depreciation, taxes, interest insurance and repair was computed by multiplying 15 times the average 1974 complete cost of an irrigation unit for this area. Amount of labor used to irrigate was based on a North Dakota study and labor was figured at $27.5 an hour. Land was appraised at current market value and a land charge of 7 percent of this value. This charge would include interest of investment plus taxes.

All other costs, such as fuel for pumping, fertilizer, herbicide, insecticide and seed, was the actual amount the farmer used. Market price of corn has been quite erratic, so I used the figure of $3.15 per bushel, which was the price of corn on the day I made the computations.

George Rehm, area agronomist at the Northeast Station near Concord, and I harvested sample yields dried to No. 2 corn. We took two sample yields for each soil type. Although sampling isn't as accurate as harvesting and weighing the entire field I found that many cooperators reported harvested yields very similar to our sample yield.

The yields ranged from a low of 32 bushels per acre to a high of 143 bushels, with an average yield of a little less than 100 bushels. The three lowest yielding fields had the same problem — many ears failed to pollinate.

Agronomists had not been able to solve this pollination problem on any one thing — it's probably a combination of excessive heat, time and amount of water, plus maybe an unknown or two.

Some other reasons for low yields include rootworm damage, lack of enough water, first irrigation too late and erratic or low plant population.

Plant population varied from 23,000 down to about 13,000 plants per acre, with an average of 18,000. These are plant populations at harvest time, and a good average to shoot for is 18,000 to 20,000 per acre.

Fertilizer costs were extremely variable and ranged from a high of almost $69 to a low of $9.90 per acre. There are several reasons for this. One farmer reported that his per acre cost last spring was 50 per cent higher than the cost in the fall of 1973.

It was also due to soil type, previous fertilizer and cropping history. Some of the higher fertilizer costs could have been reduced by $20 or more per acre without hurting yields by eliminating some of the micro nutrients as well as the amount of fertilizer.

With the exception of one or two fields, most weed control programs did a good job. But the control of rootworm was another story. Loss of yield due to rootworm ranged from none to an estimated 30.40 bushels per acre. This loss occurred despite use of a variety of different insecticides. Agronomists have agreed that in the future all corn planted before May 10th should be treated at cultivation time rather than planting time.

Comparison of irrigation fuel pumping costs is difficult because units included diesel, electric, gasoline and liquid propane. Different types of irrigation units also made a different in pumping costs. Units included volumetric guns, self propelled volumetric guns, center pivot, low-line and pumping from wells of different depths and in one case, a creek. Fuel costs varied between $6.81 and $27.50 per acre. Between 6 and 12 inches of water was applied to each acre.

Total cost of establishing a complete irrigation unit varied from over $50,000 for a diesel-powered center pivot to a less expensive low-line unit for about $25,000. These were average 1974 prices and included cost of well, pump, motor, pipes and irrigation system.

All fixed and variable costs per acre ranged from a high of $250 per acre to a low of about $150, with an average of $195.

For the most part, the average per bushel cost of $1.99, although it ranged from $1.32 to $5.44. Average management returns averaged well over $100 per acre.

This one-year study would seem to indicate that by applying 9-12 inches of water at the right time, using a good fertilizer, and weed-control program, having an adequate plant population a farmer should average between 120-140 bushels per acre in an average year.

Projecting yield averages are dangerous because many things beyond a farmer's control can happen to hold down yield, including insect damage, mechanical breakdowns, excessive heat which prevents pollination, freeze, high winds which cause uneven irrigation, etc. The excessive heat and drought of 1974 undoubtedly cost many irrigators 20 or more bushels per acre regardless of what they did.

Prospective Plantings
Nebraska farmers as of Jan. 1 intend to plant fewer acres of corn and sorghum but more acreage of soybeans, oats, barley and sugar beets this year, according to Doug Murfield, division director of the State Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Actual plantings are subject to departures from prospective plantings as farmers evaluate this report and other factors at planting time, he said.

Corn producers expect to plant 6,600,000 acres in 1975, 3 per cent below last year.

Sorghum growers plan to plant 2,170,000 acres, 2 per cent below 1974.

Soybean plantings, if materialized, would be a record 1,350,000 acres, 12 per cent above the previous year.

Oat plantings intentions, at 750,000 acres, are up 9 per cent from 1974.

Barley planted acreage intentions of 35,000 acres, a 6 per cent above the previous year.

Overall crop acreage is expected to total a record 95,000 acres, 15 per cent greater than in 1974.

The day ended with a visit to the governor's mansion where the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs presented Mrs. Pat Exon with a 1975 bicentennial federation plate. A tour of the mansion included a visit to the famous Doll's Room where small replicas of each of the 32 previous and present first ladies are on display. The doll's facial contours reproduce as nearly as possible those of the first lady's, and the dolls are outfitted in gowns styled after those worn by the first ladies at their inaugurations. Dedicated about 14 months ago, the room was funded by the Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

Mrs. William Hasebroeck, wife of the state senator from West Point, initiated the idea of legislative day to acquaint women with the "very unique and ingenious" Nebraska government.

"Only as they know our government better and know the hard working state senators can they appreciate it better," said Mrs. Hasebroeck, who termed the day a "feminist success."

Representing the Wayne Women's Club at the state capitol were Mrs. Minnie Rice, Mrs. Vernon Prodoehl, Mrs. Chris Tietgen, Mrs. Leila Maynard, Mrs. Ray Schreiner, Goldie Leonard, Mrs. Val Dammie, Mrs. Wilmer Griess, Mrs. Beryl Harvey, Mrs. Mabel Sorensen, Mrs. Alvin Daum, Mrs. Walter Spillinger, Mrs. Mark Cramer, Mrs. Pflueger and Mrs. Albert G. Carlson.

WS Grapplers Fall Below .500

Wayne State wrestling hopes to reach a .500 dual level founded Tuesday on a 29-6 loss to Northwest Missouri State at Maryville.

Winning for Wayne were dependable Jim Meyer, on a 10-7 decision at 134 pounds, and Herb Harris, 15-6 at 167.

"We just ran into a fired-up team," said coach Marion Hayer. The Bearcubs have been having their troubles, too, and apparently got their desire up for a home crowd.

Heavyweight Charlie Brockman, of Wayne, in his first collegiate match took a loss by fall, and Doug Lake of Winside went down on a 10-6 decision. Both freshmen have been troubled by injuries.

Saturday at Yankton, Wayne blitzed Dana, 48-0 in a triple dual, beat Yankton, 19-18, but lost to USD-Springfield, 18-13.

Triple winners for Wayne were Meyer, going for 142 for the day, Harris at 158, and Kevin Kane at heavyweight. Kane did not go to Maryville because of a minor injury.

Hartington Stops Winside Jr. High

Hartington's junior high spoiled Winside's season debut Thursday by taking a pair of seventh and eighth grade basketball games.

Hartington stopped Winside's seventh grade, 36-10, before whipping the eighth grade, 54-29.

Randy Willis and Mitch Pfeiffer led Winside with 12 and 11 points against Hartington's undefeated eighth grade. Joey Brummels added four and Paul Roberts scored two for Winside.

Bob Hawkins led the seventh grade with four while Todd Hoeman, Jon Langenberg and Rick Bowers scored two each.

"It is the consumers who are hurt when the rates are held down so the utilities have to postpone construction and also pay higher interest charges... Is it not great that we have friends like these who need enemies?" — Prof. Ross J. Winham, University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration.

WS Seeking Participants In Institute

Wayne State College is inviting area individuals to participate in the Nebraska European Institute to Germany July 1-30.

The educational institute, available for up to six hours of college credit, will cost participants about $865, including tuition, round trip fare from Chicago, room and board, all scheduled tour fees and tips.

The program offers Midwest teens the opportunity to travel and at the same time study the German culture and language. No knowledge of the German language is necessary for participation in the program.

The academic portion of the institute will be held near Bin Gen, with classes running from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. daily. Afternoons will be devoted to sight seeing in the surrounding area. Weekend tours to such places as Frankfurt are also scheduled, and other trips, including a weekend in Munich and a visit to the Black Forest, will be optional.

After leaving Chicago, four participants will spend an afternoon sightseeing and the night at Amsterdam before proceeding to Koln. From there the group will go to Koblenz and then on to the Bingen-Mainz area.

Academic coordinator for the program is Allen Ahlers from Fremont.

Those interested in the Nebraska Germany Institute should contact Dr. Rafael Sosa, director of the Nebraska European Institute at Wayne State.

Applications for admission to the program should be in by March.

Thought for Today

By Brian McPride

"The worst education which teaches self-denial is better than the best which teaches everything else and not that..."

John Sterling

The importance of learning... and accepting... self-denial as a major factor in success in life should not be underestimated. In an age in which self-indulgence... doing "one's own thing"... is widely accepted as the new way of life, self-denial seems to have gone out of style.

The willingness to deny oneself the pleasures of today for the more lasting gratification of tomorrow is virtue common to those who have achieved greatness in all walks of life. The principle may be hard to teach but the best education will attempt to do so.

Let us explain the advantages to you in making arrangements prior to need. Stop in at our office or phone us and we will visit you in your home, as you prefer.

FAT KAT DRIVE-IN

FREE SNOW TAKE SOME PLEASE!

Yup, That's the Truth

A LARGE pile of snow on the north side of the Fat Kat in Wayne prompted this sign outside the business. It probably correctly reflects the feelings of most businessmen and residents of the city and area. It's doubtful if it will result in the pile getting any smaller, however.
