W-C School Board Okays Girls' Track

By NORVIN HANSEN

Wayne-Carroll school board members Monday night approved offering track for high school girls this spring but tabled action on offering basketball for girls next fall.

The two votes, both unanimous, came after considerable discussion about the "relative merits of various athletic programs for girls and after comments by two mothers who favor more girls' athletics in the Wayne-Carroll school system.

Mrs. Ralph Barclay and Mrs. Del Stollenberg, both of Wayne, appeared before the board to urge expanding sports offerings open to girls.

Mrs. Stollenberg noted that it is important that those sports have a "carry-over" value so the girls can use what they learn after graduating from high school. Mrs. Barclay pointed out that in time it will require hiring teachers and coaches who know how to work with girls in particular sports.

The spring track program for girls will not be a "full-fledged" one, according to superintendent Francis Haun, but will serve as a start for the school system.

Haun, noting that more than 40 high school girls have signed up for the sport, told the board that Mrs. Frank Teach of Wayne has been hired to coach the sport. She will fill in for Mrs. Ron Dalton, who has requested maternity leave beginning later this month.

Before the board's vote to table action on basketball for girls, Haun told the board that a primarily intramural program could be offered next fall which would include a few games with other schools in the area. He noted that expanding that program into one in which girls would play against other schools would require additional personnel.

During discussion of the two sports, board member Milton Giese of rural Wayne said the board should offer those sports when there are enough parents and students interested in them to convince the board that they should be included in the sports offerings.

He noted that he has not felt a great deal of pressure by school district residents to expand sports programs for girls.

Board president Irv Brandt of Wayne pointed out that authorizing a largely intramural basketball program for girls would in effect open the way for a program which would develop into one with girls' teams competing with other schools.

How soon such a program would develop and how involved it would become would depend on such things as student interest, budget and the like, he added.

Also Monday evening, the school board named Giese and fellow board member Milton Owens of rural Wayne to a committee which will study school district reorganization within Wayne County.

The two will serve on the committee along with two members of the Winside school board.

A resolution passed by the board in naming Giese and Owens to the committee notes that the Wayne-Carroll board favors "a joint comprehensive study of the need for school reorganization in the area."

Naming the two members to the committee and passing the resolution are apparently results of efforts by several rural school districts to the south of Wayne which are taking steps to form a large K-8 school district and to build a new grade school near Highway 15 several miles south of the city.

Those efforts have been going on for several weeks, but whether they can result in a new school being opened by next fall is questionable, according to local officials.

Several weeks ago, residents of school districts 8, 10, 34, 40, 57, 69 and 88 were considering merging and forming a new school district.

Checks Sent Out to Counties

School districts in Wayne, Dixon and Cedar Counties will be receiving checks totaling $282,361.64 within the next few days, according to the state department of education.

The state department has sent out state apportionment checks totaling $16,768,040.43 to county treasurers across the state for disbursement to Nebraska school districts.

The amount being distributed is more than twice the amount disbursed to school districts last year when some $7,946 million was disbursed, according to state officials.

The increase in the amount being disbursed is due to the reassessment of the valuation of school lands, a renegotiation of leases which resulted in higher rental and a higher interest rate on investments, they note.

Funds for state apportionment are raised from revenue of school lands. The money is put into a temporary school fund, from which payments are made to districts for the land within their boundaries. The remaining money is disbursed by the county superintendents of schools to school districts based on the number of persons aged five through 18 years in the school districts. That amount is $34.53 this year compared to $16.47 last year.

Amounts of state apportionment checks sent out of area county treasurers: Wayne County, $72,651.12; Dixon County, $70,789.25; Cedar County, $138,921.27.

Checks, Cash Stolen

About $7,200 in cash and checks was stolen from M&H Apco in Wayne during a break in sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning, according to the Wayne police department.

The break in took place when thieves gained entrance through an unlocked restroom on the side of the building, cut a hole in the ceiling and climbed into the office, said police chief Vern Fairchild.

Gift to WS Establishes Scholarship

Wayne State College has received $3,000 from Mrs. A. V. Teed of Seal Beach, Calif., to establish the A. V. Teed Memorial Scholarship for students entering the field of mathematics.

Mrs. Teed chose the anniversary of her late husband's birth to make the presentation, according to Charles Kay, executive secretary of the Wayne State Foundation, which handles scholarship donations.

A. V. Teed, who died in Wayne in August of 1960 at the age of 84, had served on the Wayne State College faculty from 1916 to 1936, during that time establishing the department of rural education.

Teed was born Feb. 19, 1876 in Ninevah, Ind., and was married in 1914 to the former Gail Fields of Ponca.

He began his teaching career in Jerico Springs, Mo. He served as superintendent of schools at Newcastle and Dixon, and held the position of Dixon County superintendent of schools from 1903 to 1915 when he was appointed assistant state superintendent of education, a position he held two years.

Teed was a member of the School Master's Club of Nebraska and a Kiwanis president. He belonged to the Presbyterian Church.

First Dalsgaard Concert Slated for Sunday Night

A concert performance by Danish pianist Mogens Dalsgaard has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Sunday at Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Dalsgaard, who began music lessons at age seven, now at age 32 is one of Europe's leading pianists. He is spending a month at Wayne State as a musician-in-residence.

Dalsgaard was one of the 1973 winners of the International Piano Competition at Copenhagen and Reykjavik, performing the Beethoven "Fourth Piano Concerto." Recently he has performed the Shostakovich "First Piano Concerto" with the Danish Radio Symphony Orchestra, with Maxim Shostakovich, son of the composer, conducting.

After returning to Europe in April, Dalsgaard will perform in Norway, Sweden, Germany and Iceland and will film a concert for Danish television, featuring the work of 19th century Danish composer Lange-Miller.

Sunday evening program selections for the Wayne State concert will not be determined prior to concert time, but will be chosen by the artist from works by Beethoven, Debussy, Liszt, Grieg, Nielsen, Bo, Nilsson, Gershwin, Brahms and Chopin.

No admission will be charged for the concert and the public is invited to attend.

Dalsgaard will also appear with the Wayne State Band during its concert Sunday afternoon, March 16, performing Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

'Journey' Is Final Show at WS Planetarium

The final public star show to be offered by the Wayne State College Fred G. Dale Planetarium is "Journey to the Planets." The new star show will be offered now through April 9.

Planetarium shows, open to the public at no charge, are held each Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. Evening shows are scheduled for Wednesday, April 2, and Wednesday, April 9.

Special showings can be arranged for school groups and organizations through June 15, according to Carl Rump, planetarium director. Dates can be reserved by calling or writing the planetarium.

"Journey to the Planets" will take the audience on a fast-paced space flight through the solar system to visit each of the nine planets. The presentation emphasizes the latest information about the solar system as obtained from the Pioneer and Mariner spacecrafts which have visited the four planets that are nearest the earth.

In addition, the show provides a look at the birth of our solar system and presents some ideas concerning how such varied objects as asteroids, meteors and comets have come into being.

6,300 Tags Issued

About 6,300 vehicle license tags had been issued by the Wayne County treasurer's office by Tuesday morning, a few more than has been issued the same time a year ago, reports treasurer Leon Meyer.

Deadline for owners of cars, trucks, trailers, motorcycles and other vehicles to register their vehicles and obtain the 1975 license tags was Friday. Persons who do not have their vehicles licensed as of now run the risk of being fined, according to Meyer.

Can Spring Be Far Away?

ALTHOUGH there is still plenty of snow in the Wayne area, spring can't be far away if we can believe Mother Nature. Proof of that is this bunch of crocuses sprouting from the ground next to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nuernberger at 417 W. Third Street in Wayne. The crocuses and tulips broke through the ground on Feb. 26, about two or three weeks earlier than usual, according to Nuernberger.

BILLY GRAHAM
says about the new motion picture "Time to Run"...

There is no doubt that today we see the family unit being attacked from every side, torn apart and fragmented. TIME TO RUN is a motion picture about a family, about listening, about the silences between people, the unspoken moments, and the moments of anger that don't really accomplish anything. TIME TO RUN openly offers the reality of Jesus Christ as an answer to the human dilemma.

I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully families seeing it will be brought closer together in a real understanding and communication.

I urge you to take your children... or your parents... to see TIME TO RUN when it comes to your community. You may find it more of a mirror than a motion picture!

Safety Commission Gets Tough
The Consumer Product Safety Commission is out to reduce the estimated 20,000,000 accidents and 30,000 fatalities associated with consumer products every year.

The commission has the power to set mandatory safety standards, to require manufacturers and retailers to issue warnings on potentially dangerous items, to ban, seize or recall unsafe products, to get money back for those who bought such products, and to seek fines or jail sentences for those responsible.

The products which the commission believes must be promptly redesigned to protect the users are bicycles, power mowers, TV sets, extension cords, book matches and space heaters.

If you have purchased a product which is potentially dangerous, or know of a product which has caused injury, you should write the commission in Washington, DC 20207 or contact the local field office in Denver. You can phone a complaint without charge to 800-638-2666.

Records of actions taken in the past 18 months have made the commission known as the "toughest" regulatory agency in Washington. The commission's work is of great importance in this era of consumerism.

Records of deaths and injuries associated with consumer products are reported by 119 participating hospital emergency rooms around the nation. Computer tabulations show the leading items on the list of 369 dangerous products are bicycles, stairs, ramps, landings, cleaning agents, tables, beds, footballs, swings, slides, see saws and doors made of glass other than safety glass. Drawing Prize Stays at $1,000

Wayne area residents have still another chance to win $1,000 in Wayne's weekly Birthday Bucks drawing.

Last week another $25 consolation prize was awarded, forcing yet another drawing for $1,000 tonight (Thursday) at 8:15 in all participating stores and businesses.

Winning last week's consolation prize was Mrs. Eldon Bull of rural Wayne. Mrs. Bull, director of the local Senior Citizens Center, was shopping at Jack & Jill in Wayne when the winning date was announced.

Had she been born one day earlier, she would have won that $1,000 grand prize rather than the $25 consolation prize. The winning date: Aug. 9, 1977. Her birthday: Aug. 10, 1927.

If the grand prize goes unclaimed tonight, another $25 consolation prize will be given away and the grand prize will remain at that level for still one more week.

Once the grand prize is won, however, it will drop to $300 the following week. It will climb by $25 each week there is no winner until it reaches a ceiling of $500.

Birthday Bucks given away in the weekly drawings, sponsored by the local retail association, can be spent just like cash in participating firms. There is no registration and no purchases are required to take part in the drawings. However, a person must be present in a participating business to claim either the grand or consolation prize.

Gators' Stall Trips Devils, 37-31

A PAIR of Gators attempt to block a shot by Wayne's Earle Overin (32) in district action at Norfolk High. Meanwhile, teammate Bob Keating (30) eyes the hoop despite close guarding by Wisner's Kevin McClure.

By BOB BARTLETT
Wisner-Pilger produced a major upset in Class B district tournament at Norfolk High Tuesday night by knocking off Wayne High, 37-31, in overtime.

The Gators shot only 37 per cent for the night but turned in their best effort the second half, wiping out a 16-10 halftime deficit to knot the game at 28-28 at the end of regulation time.

Senior guard Dan Kane, who pumped in 23 points for Wisner, hit seven points in the overtime to ice the victory. Kane scored two buckets to pull his club ahead by 34-29 before he and teammate Rodney Kinschuh made three of four free throws to virtually put the game away.

Wisner opened with stonewall tactics in the first quarter, limiting Wayne to a 14-6 lead. However, the Gators' man-to-man defense plus those tactics took their toll the second quarter. Wayne scored only two points, on a basket by senior Bob Keating with about two minutes left in the half.

Keating and senior Earle Overin were high for Wayne with 10 and eight points, respectively.

The locals, finishing the season with an 18-5 record, couldn't hit from the outside. Senior guards Marly Hansen and Rick Mitchell only made one basket between them.

Both clubs had a chance to win the game late in regular action. Wisner had the ball with about 1:30 left until a turnover with 30 seconds remaining gave Wayne the ball. The Devils ran the clock down to nine seconds before calling a timeout, but that strategy failed when Wisner intercepted a pass just before the buzzer sounded.

"There's a certain rhythm to the game, but we just lost ours," admitted Devil coach Bill Sharpe. His club shot 22 per cent from the field and 31 per cent from the free throw line.

"I expected Wisner to try something like this (a slowdown game) because if they tried to run with us, they would have been beaten," Sharpe reflected.

Last year Wisner also played the role of spoiler in district play by eliminating Wayne in first round action.

Tonight (Thursday) at 8 o'clock Wisner takes on Harlington Cedar Catholic, a 70-45 winner over Randolph Tuesday. Monday, West Point Central Catholic defeated Tekamah Herman, 77-58, and tonight at 6:30

A Wayne bowler, Gene Cornett, is third in the singles division of the state bowling tournament at Fremont.

Cornett rolled games of 201, 213, 217 for a 431 scratch score. Combined with his 63 pin handicap Cornett has a 694 after the first weekend of the six week tourney.

Virgil Oberg, Wahoo, and Mike Miller, Omaha, are first and second with 716 and 697 scores.

Nebraska championship — third in a row — into the battle. Last year Wayne finished fifth in the eight-team seven-state regional. Dickinson placed fourth.

Seedings were assigned to slates in the order of their placing in last year's regional. That puts William Penn of Iowa No. 1, going for a repeat title and considered a strong favorite to win again. The Penn record: 26-1. The one loss was to J. F. Kennedy College, and one Penn win came over the defending national champion.

If Waynd downs Dickinson, second-round pairing will match the Wildcats against either William Penn or the University of Kansas at 9 p.m. Friday in KU's Allen Gym. Wayne's first round will be played in Robinson Gym.

A Wayne loss tonight will mean a 4 p.m. Friday game in Robinson Gym against the Penn Kansas loser.

All eight teams continue Saturday, playing out to eighth place.

Wayne State's campus radio, KWSC-FM (91.9), will broadcast all the Wayne games live.

Leading Wayne in scoring and rebounding are freshmen Connie Kunzmann of Everly, Ia., averaging 19 points and 13 rebounds.

THERE'S a possibility 11 of 12 Lewis and Clark Conference schools will field girls' basketball teams next fall.

In addition to Allen; Newcastle and Ponca, which had girls' basketball this year, Homer, Winside and Coleridge favor starting teams if their school boards approve, said Jim Winch, athletic director at Winside High and conference statistician. Still, considering offering girls' basketball are Wausa, Hartington High, Walthill, Winnebago and Wynot. Osmond was the only conference school to veto an idea during a recent pool meeting.

Also considering having girls' basketball is Wayne High. During Monday night's meeting, the board tabled action on offering a primarily intramural program next year. A final decision may be made at next month's board meeting.

A year of intramural ball would help girls develop necessary skills to play competitive ball, pointed out WH athletic director Harold Maciejewski.

Both Mac and Laurie High superintendent Jim Lofquist agree that if schools want the sport next fall, school boards are going to have to okay it now so schedules can be set up.

Laurel, also undecided about having a girls' team next fall, has an intramural program. The decision to have a girls' team at Laurel may be made at a school board meeting Monday night, Lofquist said.

Wakefield High also is undecided about the girls' sport for next fall, according to athletic director Lyle Trullinger. "Nothing has been decided yet," he said, pointing out that if nothing is decided soon it is doubtful the sport will be offered next fall.

I QUESTION whether Wayne should wait a year before starting a girls' team if the board decides to have intramural ball next year and have games the following year. The city recreation program has offered girls' basketball for quite some time, and I would think that experience would be enough for the girls to play competitively. Fact is, there probably are enough girls in city recreation ball who are good enough to make Wayne a contender in Northeast Nebraska.

ON THE topic of girls' track, Mac said Wayne will have a team this spring. Some 45 girls had signed up by last week. Mrs. Linda Teach will be in charge of the program, and a tentative schedule includes meets at Winside April 1, at Schuyler April 19, at Wakefield April 29, and the West Husker Conference meet May 2 at Wisner Pilger.

Wayne also will have a junior high track team under the direction of Richard Mettew and Paul Eaton. More later.

IT'S NOT hard to understand why Winside High's wrestling team sent eight grapplers to the state meet and came home with the Class C trophy when you look into the family history of some of the wrestlers.

No less than five members of this year's team had brothers compete in previous state finals — Gregg Lage, Dwight Lienemann, Keith Suehl, Bob Bowers and Kevin Cleveland. Last year Gregg's brother, Doug, took first in the 132-pound division and Dan Bowers, Bob's brother, was third at 185. Two-years ago Ed Lienemann, Dwight's brother, was second at 185, and Steve Suehl, Keith's brother, competed at 138. In 1972 Larry Cleveland, Kevin's brother, was second at 185.

FOLLOWING the state wrestling meet, both wives of Winside coaches, Sue Barclay and Nana Peterson, agreed, "Don't know if I could go through it again!"

TO HONOR Winside's wrestling team, the Winside Community Club is raising money to erect a sign on Highway 75 near Winside. If you'd like to donate, contact Mrs. Lester Grubbs, club secretary.

Meyer Carries 28-6 Mark Into NAIA Mat Tourney

Jim Meyer carried fine credentials into the NAIA national wrestling tournament. He has won his last 19 matches in a 28-6 season as Wayne State's winningest performer.

The 126-pound senior, who learned wrestling at Wayne High, will lead a five-man crew to the nationals, opening today (Thursday) at Morningside College's Altee Gym in Sioux City. The meet continues through Saturday night.

Also competing for Wayne are Craig Heliweg, 124-pounder; David Prescott, 112-pounder; Herb Harris at 158, who is 11-8; Mike Reidmann at 177, 16-6; and Fred Spale, 190, 12-8.

Meyer has the best Wildcat prospect for advancing to higher plateaus of national combat, says coach Marion Haayer, who describes Meyer as a hard worker in practice, an intense competitor in meets. His only losses were against major university opponents in the UNO, Central Missouri and Northwest Missouri tournament.

Meyer gained Wayne's only individual title Saturday in the NAIA district meet at Midland, fashioning major decisions of 16-3 against Chadron's, Earl Jones and 11-1 against Per's Gary Lesong. The champion ship was Meyer's second in district.

Wayne finished fourth among six teams as Peru took the team titles with 130-1 points. Kearney State pulled a surprise by tying Chadron for second at 107-1. Wayne scored 70-1, Midland 65, Concordia 26. A week earlier Kearney had placed fourth behind Wayne in the conference tourney.

Fred Spale lost the 190-pound championship match to an old nemesis, Kent Coleman of Peru.

Area Natives Guide Regional Tilt Quints

Two Northeast Nebraska natives, now college basketball coaches, will meet Saturday night in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's regional playoff at Doane College in Creston.

Don Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Meyer of Wayne, will pit his Hartman University Pipers of St. Paul, Minn., against the Doane Tigers, coached by Wakefield native Bob Erickson. The winners will advance to the national tourney in mid-March.

Meyer, who started on Wayne High's 18-0 club in 1961-62, coached his Pipers to a 16-10 record this year. Erickson's club is 16-8.

Before going to St. Paul, Meyer was an assistant coach at Utah University. He played basketball and baseball at Colorado State before graduating in 1968.

School Board

Board member Dorothy Ley of Wayne noted during discussion of naming the committee members and passing the resolution that it will be beneficial to "get a dialog" going with people who live in rural school districts around Wayne.

Giese agreed with her on that point, but he noted that the Wayne-Carroll school board is going to have to be able to offer those rural school districts something in return if it expects them to join the higher-taxed Wayne-Carroll school district.

In other action the board:

- Reviewed information which shows that Wayne High graduates attending the University of Nebraska-Lincoln are receiving higher grades than other high school graduates.
- Voted unanimously to increase the number of social studies and science/math hours required for graduation from Wayne High. Total hours required in social studies will be 30 rather than 20, with five of them being for an American government class, and total hours required for graduation, 180, was not altered. The changes, which will be in effect for the class of 1978 and possibly for the class of 1977, will mean that students will have to attend Wayne High for at least seven semesters.

Approved the calendar for the 1975-76 school year. The vote was 4-1 with Mrs. Ley casting the one vote against approval. Voting in favor of it were Giese,

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"Books are true levelers. They give to all who will use them the society, the spiritual presence, of the best and greatest of people."

William Ellery Channing

"Books are true levelers. They give to all who will use them the society, the spiritual presence, of the best and greatest of people."

William Ellery Channing

Doubly blessed is he who will spend some time with good books. Not only does he miss some of the drives that passes for entertainment on TV, but he also enriches his mind while educating himself in a thoroughly enjoyable way.

We can learn from the wisest men who ever lived. Books grant us the privilege to enjoy an acquaintance with the "best and greatest" of humans.

Whatever the cost of the funeral selected by a family, we have never given less than the most complete, most understanding service of which we are capable. We have only one grade of service... our best!

Police Work Leads Local Man to Radio

Working in radio broadcasting wasn't Theodore Storck's only job before moving to Wayne from California recently. Storck, who owns KTCH radio in Wayne, was police officer with the 7200-man Los Angeles police department.

Storck, who has a master's degree in journalism, officially ended his time with the Los Angeles department Monday. Storck was in a group of 87 who attended the department's training camp. By the time the 20 week course was over, only 63 passed. "They harass you a lot because they want you to be able to take a lot of harassment when you become a professional cop," Storck noted.

LA's heavy smog and eight million population were two reasons Storck decided to move to the Midwest. "In Los Angeles there are about 69,000 burglaries a year," he noted. "That's about one every 15 minutes."

Bob Jordan, chairman of this year's pancake feed, reported during Monday's luncheon the club made about $700 on last month's project.

During the club's board meeting, members voted to allocate $50 for reviving the college Kiwanis branch, Circle K. Heading Circle K is Frank Teach. Also, members okayed spending $250 for club members wanting to attend the international convention in Atlanta June 22-24.

LA's heavy smog and eight million population were two reasons Storck decided to move to the Midwest. "In Los Angeles there are about 69,000 burglaries a year," he noted. "That's about one every 15 minutes."

Nixon's war on crime is grinding down

WASHINGTON—Richard Nixon's War on Crime, much like his predecessor's War on Poverty, has failed to stand the test of time. Both Lyndon Johnson and Nixon armed themselves with benevolent intentions, blazng rhetoric and billions of dollars and, reminiscent of Don Quixote de la Mancha, set out to conquer poverty and crime, respectively. Both wars had similar strategies: draw the enemy in money. Each had a clear-cut political purpose. Johnson sought to please Democratic liberals, while Nixon went after Middle America. Only the rhetoric was different, with Nixon appealing to our fears rather than our hopes. The Nixon domestic war machine in the last 1960's and early 1970's developed characteristics which would have been comic were the stakes not so high. As they are during the war on poverty, state and local governments soon realized that a depthless, breathless treasure chest of federal funds was at their disposal, in this case to "fight crime". Thus, many police departments armed themselves with heavy weaponry, even armed personnel carriers. They stockpiled crime fighters' gadgets that served no purposes except those of the entrepreneurs who always seem to smell out government stupidity before the rest of us. For several years it was deemed political hari-kari to question the wisdom of this funding. Nor politician from Bella Abzug to Ronald Reagan wanted to be "soft on crime." But now, there have been two little-noticed indications that the War on Crime, at least as we have known it, may be coming to an end. President Ford's crime fighting budget request for the coming fiscal year amounts to a decrease from last year when inflation is taken into account. Furthermore, key War on Crime agencies like the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will suffer overall budget cuts of up to 12 per cent in the Ford Democrats on Capitol Hill, who ultimately must approve the federal budget, are expected to follow the President's lead and permit these reductions to stand. The second indication comes from a Government Accounting Office report on the $30 million Justice Department Pilot Cities Program (reminiscent of L.B.J.'s Model Cities Program). Started in 1973 and designed to last five years, the Pilot Cities Program pumped money into eight cities in an effort to develop new and more effective crime-fighting techniques. The GAO study found that nothing useful ever emerged, prompting Justice to phase out the program early, leaving 110 million unspent. Perhaps we are maturing to the conclusion that social ills are not conquered by five-year blitzkrieg attacks cured by hastily conceived, massive injections of federal funds. In fact, they are never completely conquered or cured at all, but we are learning that they can be minimized through enlightened policies and responsible spending over the long haul. In the case of crime, two good places to initiate that long process of reform are the courtroom and the prisons. Swift and sureness of apprehensions—even the intimidation of being chased by an armored personnel carrier—provide little deterrent when the criminal knows that the courts and the prisons are in such disarray that conviction is unlikely and punishment improbable. Prison officials will tell you that one of the reasons offenders are released too soon is because our facilities are jammed to the gills—there's nothing to do but let some go. Judges will tell you that one of the reasons prosecutors can't get convictions that stick on serious crimes is that too much police, prosecutor and court time is sent on so-called victimless crimes. Rehabilitation experts will tell you that we aren't even at the point of effectively determining who can be rehabilitated and who cannot, much less doing something about it. The problem, again, overcrowding and understaffing. Thus those who could be helped are neglected, while those who for all practical purposes are beyond the fringe are released. Perhaps we will begin to address these, the real problems, now that we are backing away from the policy of spending our billions fighting windmills.

About the author

The following article and accompanying myths-truths about food have been prepared by Tama Krause of Wayne for presentation in her class on food nutrition. A registered dietitian who teaches classes at Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College in Norfolk and Wayne State College, she and her husband have lived in Wayne since August. Prior to that they lived in Lincoln for about five years. Her husband is beef specialist at the Northeast Station near Concord. A native of Wichita, Kans., Mrs. Krause made the information available to The Wayne Herald to focus the public's attention of food fads and misinformation during National Nutrition Week all this week.

Food faddism is dangerous as well as expensive

By TAMA KRAUSE

Abundant claims are being made by health food faddists that our food supply has been robbed of nutrients—that it is unwholesome and causes disease.

Enriched bread is said to be much poorer in nutritive quality than whole wheat bread. Some nutrients are destroyed in milling, but they are replaced synthetically, and synthetic nutrients are exactly the same as natural ones.

Some faddists claim white bread is nutritionally poorer because enzymes are destroyed in grinding. Well, enzymes are also destroyed in baking so the end result is the same in both kinds of bread. Besides, enzymes are proteins, and when we eat them we break them down for use as amino acids just as we would any other protein.

Canned and frozen foods are accused of having lost much nutritive value in processing. Commercial canning stresses quickness in all processes and actually destroys fewer nutrients than the slow cooking processes used in home preparation. Quick frozen foods are equal to and perhaps higher in nutritive value than fresh foods which have not been handled quickly and carefully from farm to consumer.

Faddists do not confine their claims to refinement process alone. Many claim that a particular "health" food or combination of foods will prevent and/or cure diseases such as arthritis, cancer, diabetes and heart disease. Use of the word "health" implies health-giving curative properties beyond the normal nutritive qualities to be expected of a food.

One of the most serious hazards of food faddism is that it delays people from obtaining medical attention they may need.

Economic extravagance is another consequence of faddism. We currently spend millions of dollars on "health" foods. We pay from 30 per cent to 100 per cent more for organically grown foods than for their non-organic counterparts. Why? Partly because people want simple cures for their problems, and they don't have scientific knowledge to see through the faddist's claims.

Examples of our susceptibility to claims are evident in a recent multi-star study. Three-fourths of the public incorrectly believed that supplemental vitamins furnish energy. One fifth thought arthritis and cancer are partly caused by vitamin and mineral deficiencies, and 26 per cent reported using nutritional supplements without a physician's advice, expecting observable results.

Claims are made that "organically grown" foods are superior nutritionally to those grown with chemical fertilizers. However, plants use only inorganic forms of plant food—nitrates, potassium, iron and phosphate. Therefore, organic fertilizers must be broken down to these inorganic substances before they can be used by the plant. Organic farming techniques also increase the risk of contamination which could lead to food poisoning.

Along this line, also, are claims that depleted soil is causing poor nutritive value in our crops. Actually, if soil is deficient in nutrients, it is the yield that is hurt. There will be less food produced but that produced will not have suffered in quality.

Pesticides and food additives are accused of poisoning our food supply. The Food and Drug Administration regularly conducts "market basket" studies in 18 regions of the U. S. A. food supply sufficient to feed an average teenager for two weeks is purchased, prepared for eating and analyzed for over 50 pesticides, etc. We know considerably more about food additives than we do about naturally occurring toxicants in food.

There are many fat diets not in circulation, usually aimed at quick weight reduction. Some of the most popular ones are the grapefruit diet, water diet, and Alkin's diet. Most quick-reduction diets never get past the point of loss of a few pounds of water. Often they are so monotonous one cannot stay on them more than a few days. If they do succeed in weight loss, they teach no changes in dietary practices. The dieter, therefore, returns to former eating patterns and excess weight returns. I cannot possibly cover all areas of misinformation, but the following is a list of fairly common myths and explanations based on facts.

Food myths . . . and truths

- 1. MYTH: There is danger in eating wrong food combinations, for example, milk and fish, or cherries and milk. TRUTH: Combinations of uncontaminated, unspoiled food taken in moderate amounts should not harm the normal, healthy individual.
2. MYTH: Lemons, oranges, etc. cause "acid stomach" or make the body acid. TRUTH: The presence of hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice is normal and thus acidity in the stomach is a normal condition. Most fruits have an alkaline metabolic residue.
3. MYTH: Cheese is hard to digest and/or is constipating. TRUTH: Cheese is a concentrated, nutritious food. Normally over 90 per cent of the CHO, protein and fat consumed are digested and absorbed.
4. MYTH: Grape juice, beef juice, tomato juice or beets make rich red blood. TRUTH: Many nutrients are needed to build tissue. A variety of foods is "good insurance" for securing a variety of nutrients.
5. MYTH: Celery and fish are brain food. TRUTH: One particular food is not used to build a specialized tissue.
6. MYTH: Milk, potato, bread, and water are "fattening." TRUTH: No food in itself is fattening. Calorie intake above metabolic needs results in weight gain. Water retention in edema increased pounds, but with medical treatment the excess water is removed from the tissue and the weight of the water is no longer registered on the scales.
7. MYTH: Vegetable juices are more nutritious than vegetables. TRUTH: The juice made from a vegetable would not contain anything more than the original vegetable contained.
8. MYTH: Diabetes is caused by eating sugar. TRUTH: Insufficient secretion of insulin is the etiology. Treatment includes CHO regulation.
9. MYTH: Starve a fever and feed a cold. TRUTH: Metabolism is increased in fever, and if food intake is not sufficient, the body tissue will be used for fuel.
10. MYTH: Toast has fewer calories than bread. TRUTH: Heat browns the starch particles on the exterior of the slice but does not change the caloric value.
11. MYTH: Eating of food grown on depleted soil causes malnutrition. Chemical fertilizers "poison" the crops. TRUTH: If a soil is poor, the crop yield will be poor. With the exception of iodine, there is little variation in the nutrient value of the food produced (Using iodized salt provides iodine.) Crops grown on chemically fertilized soil are not nutritionally inferior. Nutritive value is influenced more by variety than by soil fertility.
12. Cooking and processing of foods destroy nutritive value. TRUTH: Some methods of cooking may reduce nutrient value. Research has developed food-processing methods designed to preserve nutrient value or to restore nutrients to food. Frozen and canned foods are processed at the peak of their nutritive value and some items are enriched or fortified.
13. MYTH: Physical activity increases the need for meat, eggs and other protein foods. TRUTH: Protein needs are based upon age and normal weight. Those growing new body tissue need more protein-rich foods in relation to weight. Physical activity requires energy (calories) — not protein specifically.
14. MYTH: Meat tenderizers cause gastric ulcers. TRUTH: Most meat tenderizers are made from papain, an enzyme found in papaya, and do soften tough meat tissues; Cooking inactivates the enzyme.

State school aid issue is back in legislative spotlight

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — Back into the Nebraska legislative spotlight moves state school aid, a veteran performer on the Unicameral stage. Last week, the education committee without a single member voting in opposition—decided to give its endorsement to LB 368, sponsored by senators Herb Duis of Gothenburg and Gerald Koch of Ralston. The revenue committee, meanwhile, took testimony on two bills which deal with school financing strictly through the tax route, both giving income taxes a bigger role to play and decreasing the property tax share. There wasn't any immediate action on those two bills which deal with school financing strictly through the tax route, both giving income taxes a bigger role to play and decreasing the property tax share. There wasn't any immediate action on those two bills, LB 506, flying under Waverly senator Jerome Warner's flag and LB 362, the property of senator George, "Bill" Burrows of Adams. Burrows is a member of the education committee and he withheld voting on the Duis-Koch school aid bill, contending he would prefer the approach contained in his LB 362, but announcing that he might become a supporter when the floor debates start. Two other education committee members were absent when the vote was taken on advancing the Duis-Koch measure to the full Legislature, but all five of the other members supported the move. That puts the school aid issue back where it has been since 1967 and probably longer—at least since the state sales and income tax system and the original school aid program were enacted. The biggest school aid ruckus was last year when a bill was passed which would have boosted the state's contribution to the financing of public elementary and secondary education by $100 million from the present $55 million base. Like others in each of the three previous years, governor J. J. Exon fired a veto at the 1974 measure, LB 772. But, although there had been close calls before, the legislature last year overrode the school aid veto—only to be overruled itself in the general election. The issue got to the voters through a petition campaign which put a referendum on the ballot, and LB 772 went down the drain. Because of that experience—in which the voters spoke firmly—there had been speculation that school aid legislation would have a rough time in the 1975 session, making the education committee's solid support of the Duis-Koch proposal significant. The bill doesn't propose state aid increases at the rapid pace contemplated in last year's LB 772, which would have reached full funding in two years and would have required immediate and steep hikes in the sales and income taxes. The proposal is to keep the basic school aid program used now, to distribute $55 million from the state to the school districts and increase the funding by $15 million each year until the state is picking up about 40 percent of the operating costs. The present $55 million in aid is equal to about 15 per cent of the current costs of operating the public schools, so there is a ways to go and—with double-digit inflation it will take a while before the $15 million increments get the state up to 40 per cent. Adoption of the Duis-Koch proposal, however, would increase the state's obligations—along with the other appropriations—enough to require an increase in the income tax beyond the 13 percent rate Exon wants and likely would force the 2.5 percent sales tax rate to jump as well.

No way, the governor said in effect. Exon wouldn't absolutely promise a veto of the bill if it passes, but he said he didn't see how he possibly could support it. That could lead to another—the fifth in a row—overide drama on school aid. The other two bills would affect income taxes. Burrows wants to have the school districts levy a tax on adjusted gross income and use that revenue instead of property taxes to finance budgets set by the local boards. The state would administer the tax, but it would be a local levy with rates varying among districts. Burrows said as few deductions as possible would be allowed, broadening the base of taxpayers. Warner's proposal deals differently with income taxes: He would have the state establish a separate income tax—in addition to the one already operating—with the revenues returning directly to the taxpayer's home school district. A combination of the local property tax revenues and the money from the income tax would be used to match the state aid program. He said the bill would answer critics who say property value isn't a good measure of wealth by adding in income factor.

Letters: 'Public officials deserve thanks'

Wayne Dear Editor: If for one wish to thank state senator John Murphy, Wayne mayor Freeman Decker, city attorney Bude Borshoff, city administrator Fred Brink, the Nebraska Public Service Commissioner and the representative from the Nebraska League of Municipalities for the fantastic reasons they gave for permitting first class cities to subsidize public transportation at the urban affairs committee hearing last week at Lincoln, LB 395, introduced by senator Murphy. The bill was held in committee to make some minor changes, such as to allow smaller towns to be able to subsidize public transportation. We left there with the feeling that the bill will come out of committee after these changes are made and will pass because so many of our citizens took time to write to various senators to let them know that "public transportation" is really needed in Wayne for the use of all persons regardless of their age. These same people wrote to their friends across the state to have them enter in this writing campaign to our state senators. Wayne can get things accomplished through citizens working and putting together to make our city a better place to go to school, to work, and yes, to retire. The public may be interested in knowing that not one soul was there to oppose the bill—Jocell Bull, Wayne County resident for over 26 years.

OBSERVATIONS

Suggestions are welcome

Once again, we are happy to devote considerable space on this page to information which one of our readers feels is important to those who live in the Wayne area. The article, of course, is the one on the inside of the page dealing with food faddism and the myths that many of us believe about food. We found the information interesting reading, and we hope many of our readers—especially wives and mothers who have so much to do with what their families eat—take a few minutes to read and ponder what the writer is saying. Those myths which are printed, just a few of the many which the author is ready to shatter, are probably believed by all too many of us. Many of those myths are funny, some of them ridiculous, but that doesn't mean they don't have their proponents. As we noted, we are happy to devote space on this page, and elsewhere in the newspaper, to subjects which our readers think should be explored in considerable detail. Sometimes we do this by tackling a subject ourselves, but other times, such as in this case, somebody else is much more qualified to discuss something than we are. If you feel there is some subject which should be explained to our readers, feel free to bring it to our attention. We may feel the same way, and it could result in an article similar to the one on food faddism.—Norvin Hansen.

Thoughts for Today

- Rules For Raising Delinquent Children. 1. Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. He will then grow up to believe the world owes him a living. 2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. This will make him think he's cute. It will also encourage him to pick up "cute" phrases. 3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21 and then let him decide for himself. 4. Avoid use of the word "wrong". It might develop a guilt complex. 5. Pick up everything he leaves lying around—books, shoes, clothes. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing all responsibility on others. 6. Let him read any printed matter he can get his hands on. Be careful that the silverware and drinking glasses are sterilized, but let his mind feed on garbage.

First Lutheran to Host World Day of Prayer

The Allen community will observe the World Day of Prayer Friday, March 7 at the First Lutheran Church in Allen at 2 p.m. with the ladies of the United Methodist Church in charge. Mrs. K. Waylen Brown will be the guest speaker.

Those attending will join millions of people in a chain of prayer spanning six continents. The 89th celebration of World Day of Prayer will be observed in 169 lands. The International Committee for the World Day of Prayer has chosen the theme, "Become Perfectly One." The worship service has been prepared by the Women's Ecumenical Prayer Fellowship of Egypt.

World Day of Prayer provides an occasion for participation in a nation wide offering which goes into a fund called Inter-continental Mission. The process by which Church Women United carries forward its stewardship through annual grants to agencies around the world in these five major concerns: higher education for women in overseas Christian colleges, preparation and distribution of Christian literature for women and children in Asia, Africa and Latin America, education for minority women in new careers and for American Indian youth, ministries among migrant farm workers and support for the Christian ministry in national parks.

In addition, offerings make possible gifts to short term projects to meet emerging opportunities and needs such as reconstruction and rehabilitation services to women and children victimized by war, ecumenical ventures and international conferences for women, pilot projects in self-help programs for refugee women, day care centers, family planning, health and nutrition education and clinics.

Does your child rub his eyes excessively, or blink or squint more than usual? These and many other points are common signs of eye trouble that parents should be alert to, says the Nebraska Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Particularly since young children usually will not complain about their eyes, the best defense is for your child to have a complete eye examination before he begins school.

DON C. SPITZE
WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Livestock is the cornerstone of agriculture in Wayne County, so it's only natural that livestock should have special emphasis in the 4-H program.

Last week I invited some men in to discuss ways of improving our beef auction. This committee consisted of Sta Baier, 4-H leader, 4-H parent and a member of the 4-H Council; Ernie Thayer, representing the First National Bank of Wayne; Dave Ley, representing the State National Bank of Wayne and a fair board member; Dick Sorenson, a Chamber of Commerce board member and a fair board member; and myself.

The group agreed that livestock production is vital to this county and that any auction or other type of incentive should have as its goal the increase in quality and quantity of 4-H livestock.

The committee recommended that we try to include other species of market animals beside beef and that there should be a sales committee to stimulate and increase the number of bidders at the auction. Also recommended was that special

4-H Beef Camp

Set April 11-12

At NE Station

The Northeast Station near Concord is accepting registrations for the 4-H beef breeding camp April 11-12.

All 4-H All 4-Hers with beef breeding projects, who are 12 years or older, are urged to attend the overnight camp which starts at 5 p.m. April 11, said Roy Stolher, Dixon County agent.

The program will cover selection, breeding, fitting, showing, animal health, nutrition and record keeping. A tour of beef research facilities is also planned.

Participants will have to provide sleeping pads, mattresses or the like. Stolher pointed out.

Other overnight 4-H camps slated for the Northeast Station are swine (April 18-19), (April 25-26), photography and entomology (May 7-10) foods (June 18-19). A home living day camp is scheduled June 24 at Wayne.

Question for Cow Herd Owners: Sell, Not to Sell Beef Cows?

Should the cow herd owner take his lumps now or gamble on the possibility of better things ahead?

"Cow-calf people have had a rough year with low calf prices and high feed prices," says Phil Henderson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural economist. "and many have been reluctant to sell in hopes prices would get better. Some producers held calves in hopes of receiving higher prices later, and some held on to cows that ordinarily would have been culled last fall. Unfortunately, cattle prices have not improved much since October and November, nor does it appear likely they will in the near future," Henderson observes.

"It's soon going to be time to go to pasture, and some decisions will have to be made. Pastures are short; they're going to need some good rain for the producer to be able to carry almost the usual number of cattle through the summer. This would give the person a chance at 1975 fall prices."

The ag economist continued. "But if spring rains fail to make up for the lack of subsoil moisture, the herd owner is faced with the prospect of a shortage of summer pasture, meaning that some cattle would have to be sold or high priced hay would have to be used to supplement the pastures. Neither prospect is good."

Will it be worthwhile to hang on? That depends largely on prospects for improved cattle prices this fall, Henderson believes. The price of slaughter cattle this summer and fall and the size of feed grain crops in 1975 will largely govern fall feeder cattle prices.

Costs between now and then will be about equal to the value of the calf produced if pasture has to be rented, according to Henderson.

He gave these guidelines: "Each dollar increase in the price of slaughter steers tends to raise the price of 700 pound yearling steers by about $1.55 to $1.60 per hundredweight, and the price of 400-500 pound calves by about $2.20 to $2.75 per hundred weight."

Weigh-In for 4-H Cattle Is Friday

Wayne County 4-H beef will be weighed in Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the sale barn in Wayne, reports county agricultural agent Don Spitze.

Both singles and pens of three will be weighed during the day, with animals being tagged with plastic USDA tags at a cost of 50 cents each. The tags will serve to identify the animals and will entitle owners to receive complete carcass information for an additional $1.50 when they are slaughtered. This is the second year the tags have been used on 4-H animals, he noted.

Maximum weight of pen of three steers is 2,250 pounds and maximum weight of pen of three heifers is 2,100 pounds. Each 4-H'er can weigh just one pen of three, either steers or heifers, in addition to individual beef animals, Spitze noted. The pen of three may be owned by more than one individual in the same family, he added.

Four-Hers may indicate at weigh-in time two animals from the pen of three for showing individually at the county fair. There is no weight limit on individual animals, Spitze said.

weight. Each 10 cent reduction in corn price has the potential of increasing the price of yearlings by about 70 cents per hundred weight, and for calves, approximately $1.75 per hundred weight.

"Some forecasters are talking of $42.44 cattle later this year. Compared to the recent $36 level, this would be a big increase. However, present live cattle futures quotations do not reflect any such improvement. A prolonged price of much more than $40 seems doubtful with the large beef supply still in prospect."

"The price of corn next fall depends on both the size of the crop in 1975, and the total demand. With near all our plantings and a favorable growing season, production of feed grain in 1975 could be immense. With such a crop, the corn price could drop to near the $2 level unless bolstered by increased exports."

The likelihood of cheaper feed grains seems greater than that of improvement in slaughter cattle prices, he says. Some improvement in feeder cattle prices seems possible, although future quotations do not show much change. A $40 slaughter price and $2.20 corn should permit the cattle feeder to pay as much as $33 for yearling feeders and $30.35 for calves.

"Even a $35 price for calves does not make the cowman's picture very rosy," Henderson projected. "It will take at least a ton of reasonably good quality roughage to carry a cow now till she goes to pasture. Depending on location, this might amount to a cost of $50.40."

Pasture for summer is worth another $45.50 for the cow calf pair. Add on another $10.13 for veterinary expenses and interest on the cow, and out of pocket costs on keeping a cow may amount to $100.110 from now till mid-October. That's about as much or even more than the calf is likely to bring.

He gave these guidelines: "Each dollar increase in the price of slaughter steers tends to raise the price of 700 pound yearling steers by about $1.55 to $1.60 per hundredweight, and the price of 400-500 pound calves by about $2.20 to $2.75 per hundred weight."

The NU specialist summarizes, "This lackluster prospect coupled with the possibility of another dry summer and forced liquidation of cow herds in dry areas might be good reasons for considering an immediate adjustment in herd size."

"Cow prices aren't good now, but they undoubtedly would be much worse if cows had to be sold when large numbers of cows were being marketed under pressure of drought."

Trophy Winners at Norfolk

GLENN SPREEMAN of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District gives trophies to Armin Horst of Wisner, center, and Pat Finn and his son Joseph of Carroll for taking first and second, respectively, in the purebred carcass competition during last week's annual show in Norfolk. The contest, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, was the largest ever, with 100 animals entered by some 80 feeders.

'Trap Awaits Farmers in Inflation, Recession Fight'

Farmers shouldn't let themselves fall into the trap of false economy in attempting to keep costs at a minimum during a period of inflation and recession, according to Dave Malone, associate manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association.

Inflation and recession are the two big problems in our economy today, he notes, and all businesses, including farmers, should make every effort to keep costs at a minimum without falling into that trap.

Management makes the difference, says Malone, and these are two things that every farmer should do to get the most return from his dollar invested. Determine the best varieties adapted to your area and use them, and plant 100 per cent Nebraska certified seed.

There are many sources of variety performance information available for every area of the state. The University of Nebraska, through its outstate testing program, has extensive comparisons from every cropping district in the state. Both public and private varieties are compared. Commercial companies also can provide a great deal of information on varieties in your area.

"Most agronomists and seed men will agree that if you select the best varieties for your soil and climatic conditions, for your disease and insect situations, you will have made the first management decisions toward good crop yields," he said.

"The second hedge you can make against current economic conditions is to plant all certified seed," he added. Certified seed is not more expensive when you study the alternative of bin run noncertified seed, he pointed out. The
