Another Paper Drive Slated

Members of Boy Scout Troop 175 in Wayne will conduct their monthly newspaper drive Saturday, with collections beginning about 8 a.m. Residents of Wayne, Winside and Carroll are asked to tie or box their old newspapers and place them on their curb or front porch so they are easily visible to the Scouts as they canvass the communities. Chairmen of this month's drive are Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Glass.

Smokers Puff Along at Record Rate in County

What changes, if any, have residents of Wayne County made in their smoking habits in recent years? Have they cut down on cigarettes? Are they smoking more or less than people in other parts of the county? For a time, following the Surgeon General's report, issued about 10 years ago, that smoking was a hazard to health and was responsible for 41,000 lung cancer deaths a year, some local people swore off completely, some cut down on the number they smoked and some turned to cigars and pipes as a substitute. More recently, however, despite the barrage of medical reports in subsequent years linking cigarettes with heart disease and other illnesses, they have been puffing away at a near record rate. Figures released by the government, by the Tobacco Tax Council and by others depict the trend in each section of the nation. Cigarette sales in Wayne County in the past year came to approximately 1,160,000 packs, according to a breakdown of regional totals reported by industry sources. In terms of the local population over age 18, this was equal to 167 packs per person. It was a lower rate than was found in most areas. The average throughout the United States was 214 packs. It was 174 in the West North Central States. Although most health authorities believe the case against cigarettes is strong, says SMOKERS, page 5

Gift to Hospital Honors Ringers

The Wayne Hospital Foundation has received a large cash donation to equip a patient room at the new hospital in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ringer, longtime Wayne residents. The donation was made earlier this month by Mildred Ringer of Omaha, daughter of the former Wayne couple. "Mother and Dad loved Wayne, and I think they would be humble but pleased that their service to Wayne would continue," she said in a letter accompanying the donation. Martin Ringer served in the local fire department for more than 50 years, served as mayor See GIFT, page 7

Kids Invited to Enter Annual Poster Contest

Local and area youths are invited to enter a poster contest being sponsored by the Wayne State College Theatre department for their coming children's show, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." The play is scheduled to be presented March 31 April 4 at the WSC Ramsey Theatre. The contest, held annually for the past nine years in connection with the children's production, is open to youths in kindergarten through eighth grade, according to Dr. Helen Russell, head of the colleges theatre department. All entries will be on display in the lobby of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center during the run of the play. First and second place winners in each grade division will receive cash prizes. Posters are to be drawn or painted on 11 by 14 inch paper and must contain the name of the play and the dates, time and place of its to be presented. Schools with students participating in the contest are to select the best entry from each grade. Entries are to be submitted to the WS Theatre Department by Wednesday, March 26. Judging will be done by members of the college art department and will be based on originality and artistic achievement. Performances for this year's show have been scheduled for 1 p.m. March 31 and April 1, 2 and 4, 10 a.m. on April 1 and April 3, and 8 p.m. on April 3

Tickets Going Fast for WHS's 'South Pacific'

Some tickets are still available for Wayne High's production of the hit musical "South Pacific" Friday and Saturday nights in the lecture hall. Curtain time both nights is 7:30. But tickets are selling fast, according to director Larry Stratman, and those wishing to see either production should purchase them as soon as possible. Tickets are available at the high school from 8:15 to 8:50 a.m. and from 4 to 4:45 each school day. They are selling for $1.75 for adults, $1.25 for students. Some tickets may be available at the door for each production, he said. Actors in the musical, based on James Michener's Pulitzer Prize winning novel, "Tales of the South Pacific," are polishing off their parts after presenting the musical to elementary and middle school students Wednesday afternoon. The musical revolves around a Frenchman, Emile de Becque, who falls in love with Nellie Forbush, an Army nurse stationed on an American air base in the South Pacific. Mark Cramer plays the Frenchman and Kay Pierson has the role of the Army nurse. Scott Havener plays Lt. Joseph Cable, the "new man on the rock" who is persuaded by "Bloody Mary" (Gigi Gollubsch) to visit the island of Bali Hai so she can introduce him to her daughter, Liat (Becky Allen). The zany antics of Luther Bliss (Bob Bergt) and Skipper (Rod Hoops) keeps the island commander, George Brackett (Phil Koerber), and his assistant, William Harbison (Mike Schmoldt), on their toes and usually after Bliss. There are only 425 seats available for the musical, so those wanting to make sure they see the production should purchase their tickets in advance. Stratman said.

BOB BERGT, right, tries to convince his commander, played by Phil Koerber, that if it was an accident Bergt fell out of an airplane over one of the Islands in the South Pacific. That is one of the scenes from Wayne High School's production of "South Pacific." The musical will be presented Friday and Saturday nights.

Dance Marathon Goal Is Cash To Fight MD

Get out your dancing shoes and prepare for a 30 hour dancing marathon this weekend when Omaha radio station WOW and Alpha Beta Sigma Fraternity at Wayne State attempt to raise funds to fight muscular dystrophy. The marathon starts at WS's Rice Auditorium at 6 p.m. Friday and goes until midnight Saturday, with participants getting a four hour break at 4 a.m. Cost to enter is $5 per couple, with all proceeds going to the fight against muscular dystrophy, said dance chairman Tim Wacker. Couples who want to enter the contest should contact Wacker at the fraternity house at 820 Nebraska, where couples can pick up pledge cards to list their sponsors. "The pledge card system is like the one used for the Hike for Hope. Each couple entering is expected to get people to pledge so much money for each hour the couple dances," Wacker said. Trophies and prizes will be awarded the three couples who raise the most money. Two $50 savings bonds will be given to the winners, two $25 bonds to the second place couple and $20 in cash to the third place couple. The dance floor won't be limited to participants only. Anyone can enter the auditorium for $1 to watch, or dance. Wacker said refreshments will be available. Music will be provided by Bob Halverson and his Blue Ribbon Special and two groups composed of Wayne State students: The Wrecking Company and Webster's New Wave. In between, announcers from college See MARATHON, page 7

Commissioners Give Nod to County-Wide Law Program

Wayne County took its first official step toward county-wide law enforcement Tuesday when the commissioners voted 3-0 to go ahead with it if federal funds are available. Represented at the meeting were Hoskins, Winside and Carroll. "We're ready for it," commented Vernon Hill, board member at Winside. County-wide law enforcement has been in the wind in Wayne County for about the past two years, according to officials, but Tuesday's action is the first concrete step toward putting it into effect. If the county and the three communities go ahead, each town would pay $9 per resident per year to help finance it. The cost of the program above the contributions of the communities could be financed 75 per cent with federal funds and 25 per cent with county funds, according to Steve Martin, director of the Mid Elkhorn Valley Council of Governments. Martin told the commissioners and the eight representatives of the three communities that there would be little difficulty in getting the program federally financed the first year and possibly after that. He said it was "almost automatic" that funding would continue beyond the first year. However, county sheriff Don "Butch" Weible said obtaining federal funding through the state crime commission for the first year is not as easy as it may sound. He also noted that funding might not be available beyond that first year, forcing the county and communities to finance the program by themselves if funding is not available. Weible, who has held meetings with representatives of area communities on the subject of county-wide law enforcement in the past couple years, said he was in favor of it. "I think it's the coming thing," he noted. Weible pointed to Kearney County as having a county-wide law enforcement program that seems to be working efficiently. Kearney County, slightly larger than Wayne County but with a smaller population, has four men working under the sheriff in policing the county and five towns. Not involved in the program is Minden, the county seat, according to Weible. The program in Kearney County has been in effect for about the past two and a half years. Although total cost of such a program in Wayne County was not detailed at the meeting, cost to the individual towns apparently would be based on their populations as of the 1970 census. Winside would pay $4,077, Hoskins $2,439 and Carroll $2,115 each year based on their populations of 453, 271 and 235 as of 1970, according to county clerk Norris Weible. Each community is now expected to sign an inter-local agreement committing them to participating in a county-wide law enforcement program, according to Martin. Then federal funds can be applied for which would help finance the cost of the program above what the communities would contribute to it individually, he said.

County Board Approves Bicentennial Chairmen

Wayne County Commissioners Tuesday agreed to name Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jones of rural Carroll as chairmen of the American Bicentennial activities in the county. The commissioners' action came at the request of Mrs. Roberta Welle, chairman of the bicentennial activities in the city of Wayne. Mrs. Welle, housemother at Morey Hall on Wayne State's campus, told the commissioners that her bicentennial committee hopes to involve the whole county in bicentennial activities during coming months. The activities should be county-wide rather than limited to one or two communities in the county, she said. "We keep forgetting that we don't want this to be just a city thing," told the commissioners. Wayne's bicentennial committee will next meet at 7:30 Friday evening in the city auditorium in Wayne. The meeting is open to anybody in the county interested in planning activities, projects or programs which would mark the second hundred years of existence of this nation, according to Mrs. Welle. Also Tuesday, the commission's tabled action on a request from Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Wayne for $250 to help clean up LaPorte Cemetery southeast of Wayne. County clerk Norris Weible said it is likely the commissioners will approve spending the money on that project.

'Government Day' Set for Tuesday

High school juniors from Wayne and Winside will gather at the Wayne County courthouse on Tuesday for the annual County Government Day. The day's activities will include registration beginning at 9:30 a.m., general assembly, a program and administering of the oath of office in the morning. Following dinner at the Vet's Club in Wayne, the students will report to the offices they were elected to by their classmates. An assembly at 3:30 in the afternoon will conclude the day's activities. County Government Day is sponsored jointly by the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary. Wayne County posts and units participating this year are Wayne, Winside and Carroll. Winside High juniors have already elected their representatives. They include county clerk Dave Mann, register of deeds Cindy Thomas, assessor Keith Sushel, clerk of district court Bob Bowers, treasurer Cheryl Fahrholz, superintendent of schools Sheryl Peterson, judge Jerry Alleman, sheriff Bob Hoffman, deputy sheriff Brad Brockman, attorney Deb See GOVERNMENT, page 5

The Object of Attention
YOUNG MICHAEL KAUP, six-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kaup of Wayne, was the object of attention when he drew out the name of the person who won the $200 prize given away by the Chamber of Commerce as a climax to Wayne's Spring Expo '75 Saturday night. The name he drew was Stan Hansen, a farmer, east of Carroll. Young Kaup hands over the winning registration slip to Jack Manske as Darrell Moore looks on. Manske and Moore were overall chairmen for the exposition. They estimate the exposition attendance at more than 3,000 and possibly as high as 5,000. Other pictures, page three of section two.

Winside Preacher-Cop 'Helping People'

By BOB BARTLETT
Being both a policeman and a preacher isn't difficult. Fact is, there's hardly any difference between the two, says Clarence Feasel of Winside. "You're working with people," he said. "In both cases I'm trying to help people, not prosecute them under the law or point out their faults while in church." Feasel, who took over as full-time policeman in Winside last month, smiles when people ask him if he could shoot anyone since he is an ordained minister. "That's a misconception, believe it wouldn't shoot anyone. It happened in the Bible where the Lord used force to keep the law. So I'd have to use my gun if it were necessary," Feasel emphasized. Feasel was ordained two years ago after graduating from Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Mo. What makes that unusual is the fact he never graduated from high school. "I was kicked out of 10th grade when I broke a boy's arm," Feasel reflected about his boyhood in Los Angeles. Although the 41-year-old father of four (and one on the way) doesn't have a church, he has given sermons at Grace Bible Church in Wayne. His plans are to continue working as a policeman and a minister. Feasel first got police experience in 1955 when he worked for a private company in Los Angeles. Besides guarding businesses, he also worked in bars breaking up fights. His job as a private cop ended three years later. However, Feasel also worked for an armored car company in the mid-1960s. Feasel believes his title of "policeman" is a little confusing. "Actually, I've been hired to watch the kids so they don't get into trouble," he pointed out. Kids aren't the problem, Feasel went on, but grownups are. "Grownups have the attitude they know the law and can get away with breaking it if they are careful." Not very many adults have been careful in the past month, Feasel said. Of the approximate 15 citations he issued, all were See PREACHER-COP, page 5

Guests, registered by Heddy Hefer of Coleridge, were ushered into the church by Keith and Kent Roberts. Florene Huffman of Fremont sang "Wedding Song" and "Theme from Romeo and Juliet," accompanied by Dawn Kai of Pender. The Rev. K. deFosse of Wayne officiated at the double ring rite.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldin Roberts of Wayne greeted the 75 guests who attended the reception which followed in the church basement. Gifts were arranged by Connie Roberts of Wakefield and Donna von Glan of Breda, Ia., sisters of the bride and groom.

2nd Guessers Cite Overin, Bressler, Schmitz

"I didn't know what was going on until Merf (Ellis) kicked me out of the Boys' Club and told me to go to the dinner," smiled Hank Overin after he and two other individuals were honored during the Second Guessers' annual all-sports banquet Monday night.

Overin, who directs the Boys' Club as well as the city recreation programs, was honored along with John Bressler, and Henry Schmitz during the banquet honoring Wayne High and Wayne State athletes, student managers and cheerleaders.

The club presented Overin a watch and, through donations, a $150 check. Bressler received a watch, Schmitz a gold blazer sportscoat with Wayne State emblem.

Overin, involved with Wayne's recreation program since the late 1950's has coached Wayne's Midget and Legion baseball team to numerous titles, including the state Class B Legion title last year. He also guided the town team to several league titles.

"One thing you have to promise me Hank," said awards chairman Bill Workman after Overin received a standing ovation, "is that you'll take this money and spend it on a two-week vacation away from here. But don't stay away too long. Wayne needs you."

Workman pointed out, is a long-time backer of high school and college sports. "I don't think John has missed a college activity since he's been here," Workman said after the club named Bressler the "No. One Second Guesser of them all" and made him the first recipient of the Second Guesser of the Year award.

Schmitz, Workman said, "is another loyal college fan who has been faithful to the growth of sports at Wayne State."

Schmitz, who received a standing ovation from WS athletes, is retiring this year after more than 16 years of college custodian and lately as athlete equipment manager.

Over 400 high school and college athletes, student managers, cheer squads and parents attended the feed at Wayne State's Student Center. Guest speaker Ray Stevens, sports broadcaster with WOW-TV in Omaha, pointed out that there are different types of sports banquets, but Wayne's is special in that it honors both male and female athletes.

It is good for girls to compete in sports, he said, but girls and boys competing against each other could ruin the fun that comes from sports.

Stevens stressed that athletics is good for the "body, mind and morals." Enjoy the sport for what it is, he said, but don't stay in it when it becomes a drug.

Following Stevens' talk, the Second Guessers gave him a Wayne State coat.

During the dinner, Wayne State coaches named their outstanding athletes for fall and winter sports.

Receiving top awards in football were Dean Ott on offense, Pat Donohoe on defense, both

Devil, Trojan Cagers Gain All-Loop Honors

Two Wayne High cagers and a Wakefield were named to the West Husker all-conference basketball team and Wayne's basketball coach was named coach of the year during a league meeting Tuesday night at Wisner Pilger.

Named to the 10 player squad were seniors Bob Keating and Jack Froehlich of Wayne and Don Myers of Wakefield.

Also making up the top 10, picked by West Husker coaches, were Brian Oswald, Madison; Dane Kane, Wisner; Rick Thomas and Darrel Ricker, Columbus Lakeview; Scott Sorensen, Emerson Hubbard, and Dick Uhlig and Tom Schieffer, Hartington. Cedar Catholic, Uhlig and Schieffer are the only juniors.

"The coaches decided to pick the best 10 players in the league and not have an honorable mention team," said Bill Sharpe voted the league's top coach.

Sharpe directed his club to an 18.5 record — the best in his three years at Wayne. His team also won the West Husker title in February.

Workouts Start Soon

Spring football workouts start Monday for Wayne State gridder. Sessions will continue for three weeks in preparation for the annual varsity alumni game April 12 at Memorial Stadium.

Six Swimmers Heading for Lincoln Open

Six members of Wayne's swim team will head for the Great Plains Open at Lincoln Friday through Sunday.

The six, Lesa Barclay, Randy Pinkelman, Penny James, Peg Pinkelman, Cindy Lindner and LaVonna Sharpe, will compete with about 700 youths.

Last week all six placed at the Millard meet that drew swimmers from 16 teams.

Randy Pinkelman led the squad with sixth place finishes in the 100 yard backstroke and 100 yard breaststroke in the boys' senior division. Leading the girls was Lesa Barclay, fifth in the 13 1/4 year old division of the 100 yard backstroke.

Barclay also swam on the girls' freestyle and medley relay teams which finished sixth and seventh. Also on the medley team were Penny James, Peg Pinkelman and Cindy Lindner.

LaVonna Sharpe, Lindner and Pinkelman also swam on the freestyle team.

Softball Team Opens at JFK

With only two starters returning from last year's state college softball championship team, Wayne State faces a rebuilding year when the Wildkitties open the season Tuesday at John F. Kennedy College in Wahoo.

Pitcher Mary Gerken and shortstop Deb Thurness will form the nucleus of coach G. J. Willoughby's club that will be made up of 14 newcomers and four players who have seen previous action.

Joann McElvogue and Phyllis Koeneke are returning after some playing experience last year. Also returning are Suzie Scheel and Jane Clark after a year layoff.

Among the Kutties of Assum a marriage cannot be dissolved once the wife has born a son.

Bids for Fish Available Soon

Applications for fish to stock private ponds in Nebraska soon will be available at the Game and Parks Commission in Norfolk and the Soil Conservation Service office in Wayne, according to the commission.

Formerly, private waters in Nebraska were stocked by fish from federal hatcheries. However, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has discontinued production for private ponds.

To qualify for stocking, a pond must be at least one-half acre in size and at least 10 feet deep over one-quarter of its surface acreage. A pond must not be older than two years and must have no fish present prior to stocking. In addition to fish, the landowner will be given a sign stating that his pond stocked with fish provided by the commission and that it is open to fishing with permission.

The first fish will be provided in the fall after needs of public waters are met. Bluegill will be provided to pond owners in September at the rate of 500 per surface acre and largemouth bass the following summer at 100 per acre.

The maximum number of fish the commission will supply will be for live acres. Owners of ponds larger than five acres will have to make up the difference with fish purchased from private hatcheries.

Winside Sending 9 to Omaha Meet

Winside will be one of 45 high school track teams competing in Friday and Saturday's indoor meet at the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

Nine Winside cindermen will enter the open meet that will feature about 675 athletes from Classes A through D. As expected, Omaha schools probably will dominate the meet, said Winside coach Carter Peterson, "but we're hoping some of our track peeps will make the top 10."

Aiming for a second straight appearance among the top mile finishers is senior Greg Lage, who finished seventh last year.

Also competing in the mile will be senior Terry Lühr.

Only addition to Winside's lineup will be Brad Brummels in the hurdles. Brummels and Dwight Lienemann will compete in the 176-yard low hurdles.

Lienemann also will enter the 60-yard high hurdles.

Others entering: Lage, Lühr, Dave Mann and Jerry Allemen in the two-mile relay; Lage, Mann, Lienemann and Tyler Frevert in the mile relay; Lühr, Mann, Lage, Allemen or Frevert in the two-mile medley relay; Mike Anderson and John Mangels in the shot.

Not competing will be sprinters Wayne Smith and Kerry Lühr.

THERE WEREN'T any parties or cheering sessions last year when Allen High School's girls trap shooting team won its division in the state meet.

After all, Allen had the only girls team in the meet. This year may be the same. "It doesn't look like there will be any other girls' teams entering the state meet," said Noelyn Isom, director of Allen's girls and boys teams.

Isom's girls have been priming for the April 12-13 meet at Norfolk since early January by using the high school gym.

"The girls are showing a lot of improvement. They're learning to follow through with their shots, taking the right stance while gaining confidence," Isom explained.

How does an indoor trap shoot work, especially in a high school gym? Shotgun shells are loaded with powder and wad only. When the girls shoot, the powder forces the wad out. By watching the direction of the wad, the girls learn what they are doing right or wrong.

Girls stand at one end of the gym and wait for a numbered signal from a blind in the middle of the floor telling them which number to aim at on the other side of the gym. That makes hitting the target tricky since shooters have to make quick decisions.

Only one returning "veteran" will be on Allen's team. She is Chris Young.

However, Isom is optimistic about his other girls: Roxanne Moore, Cathy Smith, Diane Wittie, Kari Erwin, Cathy Matcom, Colleen Blohm and Shirley Peterson.

GETTING READY for the meet takes more than just practicing indoors three hours every Thursday night. It also means getting enough money to enter.

Isom figures the total cost to enter will be about $600. $16 entry fee for each member of the two boys and one girls team and another $24 each for shells. Each team has five shooters.

To raise money, shooters are planning a rummage sale March 29 at 2 p.m. behind the school. The kids want to earn the money themselves rather than have merchants and others donate, Isom said. Any items people would like to donate for the rummage sale will be welcomed. Isom added. Youths are willing to pick up items.

NOT to be forgotten is the boys teams at Allen.

The entire A squad except for one will be returning. Heading that list is Brad Chase, third in the state in the high school division last year. Other returnees: Rick Chase, Todd Koester and Stan McAfee on the A squad, and Vic Schultz and Loren Book on the B team.

Altogether, 22 boys are out for the team.

A word of explanation: The teams have nothing to do with the high school itself. That's just the division. Also planning to enter the state meet are shooters from Wayne More about them next week.

A BIG thank you to Wayne Second Guessers and donors for making Monday's second annual all-sports banquet possible. Well over 400 attended the dinner to honor Wayne High and Wayne State athletes (male and female), cheer squads and student managers.

WS Varsity Grapplers Fall to Alumni, 18-9

When it was finished, every body agreed, "Let's do it again next year."

This refers to the Wayne State Varsity alumni wrestling dual staged Tuesday night as an unofficial finale for the winter sport season.

It turned into a fun affair that either team took lightly. There was, after all, something like pride involved, and in this respect the varsity had to swallow some. The alumni came out on top, 18-9.

Four matches ended on 43 decisions, and only two were as much as three points apart.

One of the 43 results terminated the liveliest battle, featuring longtime rivals Jim Meyer and Larry Kersten. Two seasons back, senior Kersten and sophomore Meyer vied for the 126 pound job. The more experienced Kersten usually winning challenge matches.

In the season just ended, Kersten often took time out from a job and college classes to give Meyer practice competition. Rugged competition and it paid off for Meyer as he placed fourth in the national tournament.

On Tuesday night they went at it again. Two or three seconds from the end, they were tied 2-2, but Kersten had enough riding time for a winning point. One strand later, however, Meyer gained a lightning reversal, and won 4-3. That close all the way.

Ironically, it was Kersten who planned the alumni varsity dual. He even brought his brother Bob, also a talented grappler, now an assistant coach at Dakota State, to compete at 118 pounds. Bob derailed Mark Ellis, 1-1.

Another lively scrap came at 190 pounds, matching three time national champion Ken Monroe against the varsity entry, Fred Spale. Monroe, now a Norfolk policeman, has kept fit as ever by assisting with high school and college wrestling here.

It was the same Monroe style of four Wildcat seasons, contently moving, striking. But Spale, an uncommonly strong athlete, did not yield easily, and when the time ran out, Monroe had a 5-2 decision.

In other matches:

The varsity got wins from Craig Hellwege, 7-5 over Erv Robbes at 134 pounds, and Herb Harris, 4-2 over Mitch Emery at 167. The alumni victories: Kent Irwin, 4-3 over Jim Kahnk at 150, Vince Emery, 6-3 over Bob Buck at 158; Steve Gregory, 4-3 over Mike Reidmann at 177, and Donny Reid, 3-1 over heavy weight Chuck Covey.

So the alumni won six, the varsity three. There was no match at 112.

WINSIDE policeman Clarence Fessel says he enjoys working with people, both on the streets and in a church as a minister.

Congratulations!

Make Up '75 Golf League

Wayne Country Club men's golf league will open with 34 teams again this year when golfers start league play April 23.

A total of 137 signed up for the 20 week league, with four golfers on each team. Teams were selected Friday night.

Despite the loss of 16 golfers from Stanton since Stanton has its own course this year and another nine golfers who quit or moved out of Wayne, the league was able to keep the 34 team league in fact, said club secretary treasurer Bob Reeg.

Following the end of season play in August, the top four teams in each division will compete for the league championship.

"When an adult received a ticket he tries to abide, saying he didn't see the sidewalk because of the snow. But when a youngster is ticketed, he rarely makes any alibis, Fessel said.

"I think grownups are too quick to judge youths. I think a lot of parents should look at themselves first. That's one thing I've learned by working with people."

Smokers

(Continued from page 1) smoking has been well proved, the tobacco industry maintains that the evidence is merely statistical and that no cause and effect relationship has been properly documented.

Despite the steady increase in taxes imposed on cigarettes by federal, state and many local governments, making smoking more costly, sales have been on the rise in the last few years and are within two per cent of their all-time high.

The biggest increase since 1970 has been among teenage girls. They are now smoking nearly as much as the boys.

How much does the average Wayne County smoker spend for cigarettes? Approximately $74.50 a year, it is estimated.

The total bill, for the community as a whole, was close to $517,000 last year.

Feathers Fly At Hearing On Morning Dove Bill

Unicameral in Action By Ivy Harper

LINCOLN — Friday afternoons at the Legislature are usually quiet. But schedule a morning dove bill for public hearing and the feathers start flying.
 LB 142 — the morning dove bill introduced by senator John DeCamp and heard before the constitutional, revisions and recreation committee Friday — is the bill that has been vigorously debated the past several years. This time support and opposition for the proposal to include the morning dove as a game bird was organized and vocal.
 At the packed public hearing on the floor, emotions ran high, but much of the testimony sounded entertaining.
 Roy Speece, a utility manager from York, offered senators, press and visitors samples of smoked dove pemicans.
 While everyone was munching their delicacies, Speece criticized those who oppose the bill because they think the bird is a dove of peace. According to that logic, Speece said, "we shouldn't raise sheep because of the 'poor, lost sheep' reference in the Bible."

 Supporters cited several reasons for wanting the status of the morning dove changed from a songbird to a game bird. A wife of a Goodyear executive in Lincoln said hunting brought her family closer together.
 Opponents said they did not want hunters killing the birds because they are beneficial to farmers. One farmer said morning doves are the only birds which are entirely good for the farmer.
 He also stressed that the hunting season would be increased, creating further problems in hunter-farmer relations. He said a proposed amendment by DeCamp to eliminate roadside shooting would not discourage hunters.
 DeCamp said that most of the opposition at the hearing was aimed at farmer-hunter relationships, and had "absolutely nothing to do with the morning dove."

 He suggested that those persons should really be concerned with LB 220, a bill which proposes increasing fines for hunters caught violating regulations.
 Dorothy Wheeler, a state employee, charged that she has heard in the corridors of the statehouse that officials of the state game and parks commission had accepted gifts by groups interested in passage of the bill.
 She cited statistics from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service that the dove population in Nebraska has decreased five per cent in the last several years.
 DeCamp said those statistics had been taken out of context and that he had figures showing morning doves had increased in states where they are game birds.
 According to DeCamp's bill, the state game commission would regulate the hunting season, probably beginning in September.

science category although others can be added if there are sufficient entries.

College and high school teachers will judge the projects, basing their decisions on the reports to be read by the students. In the afternoon, winners from each category will present their papers to the entire group.

The conference begins at 9 a.m. in Carhart Science Hall and will run through 3 p.m., with the final meeting set for the Hahn Assembly Hall.

The meeting of the Hal Shots 4H Club was held March 11 in the Lloyd Straight home. President, Doug Straight, called the meeting to order. Secretary, Alan Ekberg, read the minutes of the last meeting.

Record books were distributed to the club members. The group filled out membership forms which were sent to the county agent's office. Lester Hansen gave a demonstration on Resource Conservation. Mrs. Lloyd Straight served lunch.

Readers speak out:

'Rural schools are very special'

Wayne Dear Editor: I'm written in defense of the rural schools. The editorial in the Monday, March 17, issue of the Wayne Herald has prompted my writing. I do not intend to inter any criticism of the city schools, but only wish to relate to you some of my impressions of our country schools. Rural schools are very special in their own right. Let's look at some of the plus factors — things in their favor because of fewer students. Christmas programs are magic times. Every child must take a part — several of them, in fact — if there is to be any program at all. What a delight to find that Johnny really can sing and Mary really can act. And are those parents proud, not to mention the teachers, when it is all over. Study habits are usually excellent with rural students, developed partly because they must patiently wait through several classes before it is their turn to recite. And second graders know all about fifth grade studies because they have been listening in for the last two years. But in the area of human relations the rural school environment excels. Big children helping little ones, smaller boys and girls learning to play with the older ones — these are everyday happenings in a rural school. Patience and tolerance are goals that must be achieved if rural students are to live and work together harmoniously each school day. As a rural school teacher I get to know my students extremely well. Because little Johnny is with me all day, I really know his strengths and weaknesses, his likes and dislikes, and what he needs help with most. I learn to love, cope, laugh and cry together. And out of our close proximity springs a bond — a bond between us that leads to all those memories (hopefully good) but memories, anyway, that shall never be forgotten.

I hold my head high when I claim I'm a rural school teacher. I'm proud of my students and their achievements. City parents, your schools are fine — support them — but think before writing off rural education as inferior. It's only as good or as bad as the people involved choose to make it. And that can be said for any school any place. — Judy Peters.

(Editor's Note: Among other things, the editorial referred to contained this comment: "I don't think they (our children) can receive the kind of education they need for today's society in one-room or two-room rural grade schools." The editorial was written by Herald editor Norvin Hansen.)

Winside teacher given thank you

Wayne Dear Editor: I would like to congratulate and thank Mrs. Marian Iverson for placing a plaque in the Winside school to honor the top students who earn academic achievements in each graduating class for the next 17 years. These students, as well as the athletes who have won honors, have definitely worked hard to win their honors — and should be given recognition.

Perhaps some of us should present the school a plaque to honor some of our very dedicated school teachers — such as Mrs. Iverson, and one who retired a year or two ago and is living in Winside. Thanks again to Mrs. Iverson for being so thoughtful. — Arlene Zofka. (Editor's Note: Mrs. Iverson, who presented the plaque to the school earlier this month, has spent the last 14 years teaching in Winside. She has been a teacher for 27 years.)

'Progress was fine until ...'

Wayne Dear Editor: Recently in the Wayne area an example of local residents working together to improve and secure their children's education has progressed rapidly. This in a time of inflation would occur at little or no additional taxes. All residents involved have indicated their preference, and it was mutually agreed to proceed with unification of the districts and construction of a new school. Those residents not wanting to be included should have found it easy to transfer elsewhere, since the local town schools seem anxious to enlarge. Apparently, lack of good legal counsel or proper procedure by the districts wishing to unify has allowed progress to be delayed and disrupted by some higher authority within our government. Now the town school boards have taken this opportunity to start a "dialogue" with people in these rural districts. I wonder whom they are intending to help? It's interesting that even down to grassroots government "big brother" assumes he knows what's best and applies his pressure. Grass Roots. P.S.: After reading your latest editorial relating to rural education ("Model T's and rural school," March 17), I have to ask: How can a new Cadillac make a Ford a better driver than a Model T? I know for sure it would cost a lot more! I would risk a bet that a list of the top 10 per cent of local graduating classes over the past years would show a surprising per cent of the kids have been rural education. If the new car or old car theory holds water when applied to our children's education, then I think the government should also close the local town schools. Require the kids to attend one super modern NE Nebraska school located in Norfolk where every possible educational device and method can be used on our children. I sincerely believe in giving our kids a good education, but I think more important than fancy frills when the kids are young are the following — a sense of importance and security in the closeness of being among neighbors and friends during the first years, and avoiding the clamor and regimentation of cafeterias, PE programs, bells, etc. (enough time for that later). Very important to me is the last real chance I have to influence the manner in which my children are educated and prepared for their lives.

'Questions need answers'

Wayne Dear Editor: Sally Gavit recently wrote a letter to the editor concerning girls' basketball at Wayne High. The letter was interesting to me, and I commend her for having the maturity to make a decision and express the same. As a school board member I would like to express some views and ask some questions. It would be great if we could always know and do the thing which would make every one happy and which would also be for their betterment. Many things that look like the right thing to do today turn out to be the wrong thing. Many things that look new and exciting today turn into a drag or a shabby mess. This may not always be because of what is done but the way in which it was done. Perhaps it was started without being carefully planned and thought out. Many problems can be foreseen and avoided if we will do some looking and observe mistakes others have made. I was born and raised in Wayne. I am sure I have seen about as many sports events of all kinds in Wayne as any other person my age. I love sports. If someone else has seen more, I would like to ask you, when did you sleep? I also do not have any grand, great sounding philosophies about sports, such as they build character, leadership abilities, etc. Some do come out of sports fine, others become bums. It still mostly depends on the guidance and teaching these young people get at home. Sports should help the human relations part of a student's development. Unfortunately every person needs this help but under our athletic programs only a small percent can participate. The children that need this help the most are the ones who do not participate at all. We run, run, run the well coordinated boy and let the rest sit. If this type program is implemented for the girls, will it be such a thing of value or will it be duplicating another mistake? I believe a girl has every right a boy has. That is, she has a right to all the care, love, proper teaching and guidance that if it is humanly possible to provide, if instituting a full-fledged girls' athletic program is the major thing lacking in our girls' lives. I am for it. If interschool athletic games of all kinds will make them better citizens, I am for it. If hauling them many miles on buses several school nights, a week will contribute to the knowledge we want them to have, I am for it. Generally, things that are started on a trial basis or in a small way have a history of growing into the whole thing. So let's take a look at a full-fledged girls' basketball program. First, I made the motion to start girls' volleyball. It is not a hard contact sport and the facilities available at the excellent leadership of Mrs. Mavis Dalton, it has been successful. Girls' track will be a bit more difficult until the district comes forth with some more tax money for a track, etc., but it is still possible, for the determined participant, as we now operate. Girls' basketball will be something else. It hopefully would include many girls. If we go the interschool competition way, it will mean sharing our gym or finding another one. Will games be scheduled the same night as boys' games? Do we have enough buses to go two different directions the same night? Do we play another town's boys' team and girls' team the same night? If so, do we just have first team games? Do we budget as much money for girls' BB as boys? If so, do we split the budget we have now or do we double the budget? If athletic programs are for the development and betterment of the student, we should have a program in which every student has equal opportunity and time made possible to him or her. (Inter-racial?) If athletic programs are for fun, the same should be true. If athletic programs are for feeding our ego (parent, child, coach), then maybe we are all caught up in a mass exercise in futility. I am sure that a comprehensive plan answering these and other questions would receive serious consideration by the school board. We may be the last school in the conference to have a girls' athletic program. However, maybe we can have the best and most beneficial one. — Wilbur Giese.

Wrangle over special education funds continues

CAPITOL NEWS LINCOLN — One of the wrangles of this legislative session has concerned the effort to get state financial aid to local schools to support programs for educating handicapped children. In 1973, the lawmakers defied special education — as the programs are called — should be provided for every child, whether he has mental or physical handicaps or not. To encourage development and establishment of special education programs, the Legislature said the state would provide 90 per cent of the extra costs a school district incurs. The bill was LB 403 — a number that state officials and school administrators have been using frequently in conversations recently because of the tangle of red tape over funding the bill. There was $8.6 million made available for this fiscal year, but the first two of the quarterly payments got high centered because of administrative difficulties. There were problems in determining how much the state actually owed certain school districts because their detailed programs weren't submitted and there weren't complete records on the number of handicapped children involved.

The 1975 Legislature finally had to rush through an emergency payment of $2 million (part of the $8.6 million) under special allocation procedures to prevent the folding of programs in some areas. That was a patch on the problem, but a long-range solution still is pending. The Legislature's special education committee gave Chairman Frank Lewis of Bellevue authority to draft into bill form a plan he has proposed for more permanent handling of the LB 403 funding problems. Whereas the original bill was keyed to programs — with the state paying 90 per cent of the extra costs, a figure it has been most difficult to determine — the Lewis plan would distribute the state money on the basis of so many dollars for each type of handicapped child the school is educating.

Veto Survives Another school matter, the lawmakers vetoed the governor in the session's first veto showdown. At issue was LB 122, which would have required that all teachers have completed a four-year college education. Governor J. J. Exon had vetoed the measure on grounds that it would work a hardship on some teachers and some school districts.

Supporters claimed there were ample safeguards to protect those districts and teachers — a majority of the senators agreed. There were 27 votes (against 20 opposing ballots) to override the Exon veto. But it takes 30 votes — three fifths of the elected membership of the Legislature — to pass a law, notwithstanding objections of the governor. So, the LB 122 override effort failed. The bill had passed originally on a 35-5 tally.

Salary Data Opened An attorney-general's opinion that caused concern among some state senators and many elements of the news media has been "clarified." The first opinion held that basic information about state employees — their names and their gross salaries — would be released by the State Department of Administrative Services. Senator Wally Barnett of Lincoln was one of those who reacted sharply to that finding by assistant attorney general Marilyn Hutchinson. "Ridiculous," Barnett said. Mrs. Hutchinson last week issued a second opinion in which she said she had reconsidered the statutes cited to justify the original holding. There still are difficulties about releasing some personnel data, she said in the second opinion, but the names and salaries of state employees should be public information, after all. The opinions were written for Stanley Matzke, director of the State Department of Administrative Services. He had been asked by senator John Cavanaugh of Omaha for a list of state employees and a lot of information about them, including payroll deductions for credit union transactions. The data beyond the names and gross salaries should be given to Cavanaugh, Mrs. Hutchinson advised Matzke in the second letter, only if he shows "necessity or proper purpose." As for the basic data, she said: "There is no precedent for such disclosure in the fact that names and salaries are generally known for elected public officials. The general public has the greatest interest in this data, too, in order to preserve the general welfare, i.e. to know how the public monies are being spent and to guard against abuses of nepotism."

'In Washington' Future headline: 'SST' dredged from ocean

By Ron Hendren WASHINGTON — Recently it was reported that scientists in West Texas discovered the skeletal remains of the largest flying creature ever known. Dubbed the Texas pterosaur, the creature lived more than 60 million years ago and had a wingspan of 51 feet — larger than the F-4 jet fighter plane. Scientists think it may have fed on dead dinosaurs, an idea suggested by its long neck enabling it to probe large carcasses. The story made me think of a future report, likely to be read in newspapers of the day millions of years from now. It will probably go like this: Scientists dredging Long Island Sound today discovered the remains of what is thought to be the largest flying object in earth's history. The letters SST, deemed but discernible, appeared on the object's trunk, and experts tentatively suggest they may stand for Supersonic Transport, a kind of enormous, unwieldy flying object thought to have been the pet project of a small but powerful and stubborn group of early human beings. "Indications are the object only flew a few times," said Nobel Prize winner Thor Aviar, director of the World Anthropological Society. "We know from ancient records found in an important capital city of that era that efforts to produce the SST brought near economic ruin to what was then known as Western Civilization. "And we can tell from the object's stomach that it would have consumed energy at an enormous rate. The world was hit by a ravaging fuel crisis at about this period — they used gasoline at the time — so it was likely impossible for these early humans to keep these objects off the ground for any length of time." Scientists in Europe, however, disputed this theory late today. They claim to have found ancient newspaper accounts in an area thought to have been called Paris at the time, which reveal that an SST called Concorde received permission to land in many countries, including, in the late 1900's, a nation called the United States. "I doubt this account," said Aviar. "Even though there were a few facilities large enough to handle the Concorde at the time, we can tell from the size of its engines that it would have made more noise than even the sophisticated ear-drums of those early human beings could have withstood." Aviar also pointed out that if only one of the things had flown even a few times it would have permanently damaged the upper atmosphere in ways that would be visible even today. There are no such indications, he said. Apor Banchar, vice chairmanship of the World Historical Institute, supported Aviar's thesis, but added that he doubted the ancient fuel crisis or noise pollution had much to do with the SST's grounding. "By all accounts, humans at that time had no understanding of conservation and little appreciation of risks," Banchar said. "If they had the technology to make it, they would have flown it, unless this is one of those rare occasions when a few exceptionally advanced humans may have been able to stand firm enough to prohibit the object's production. "While it is too soon to say for certain that this is the case, I am inclined to lean in that direction," he said. Thus it is thought that this may prove to be the first recorded instance of early human beings acting responsibly toward their environment. "If so, the SST find is historic, indeed," Banchar said.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

Columbia, Miss., Columbian-Progress "One of the perversities of human nature is that often individuals blessed with many things in common, disagree violently and unintelligently upon the merits of a relatively minor matter. There seems to be a trait in many individuals that compels them to be fighting about something all the time. If no major issues appear, they vigorously pump up minor questions, arousing ill-feeling and promoting them in positions of seeming importance. Much the same characteristic is evidenced in our attitude toward the institutions of mankind. Without giving proper proportion to the great and overwhelming good many of us incline to hunt up minor irritations and, in the excitement of the search, we often lose sight of the tremendous good that exists."

OBSERVATIONS

Fairness is important I imagine that quite a few dog owners in Wayne read with interest the item in the "Courthouse News" in Monday's issue of The Wayne Herald. A local resident charged with letting her dog run at large pleaded not guilty to the charge and received a hearing before district court judge Eugene McFadden of Norfolk. The result was that she received no fine but was ordered to pay court costs. In addition, she was placed on "unsupervised probation" for six months. I would be willing to bet that the results of that hearing will do two things. First, it's going to upset a lot of dog owners who have already been taken to court and fined on a similar charge. Second, it's going to result in many more requests for hearings before the district court judge when people are charged with letting their dogs run loose. I have tried to find out if there were any extenuating circumstances which made this particular case different from numerous ones which have gone through county court in recent years. As far as can be determined, there wasn't. It was argued by the person involved that the police never captured the dog which was running loose. Rather, she said, they followed it to her home and concluded it belonged to her. In addition, she said, there is another dog in her neighborhood which resembles her dog, and there is a possibility that it was the dog running at large rather than her dog. The police seldom physically pick up a dog running about the city, according to the chief of police, but do often trail them home so they know who they belong to. And, he says, there may or may not be another dog in that person's neighborhood which resembles the one seen roaming about. Even if that is the case, others charged in the past could probably have argued the same point. I don't want to make too much of a simple misdemeanor, but it is important that all people be treated fairly when they are taken to court. If that is going to happen, the judge will likely find himself disposing of many similar cases in much the same manner. — Norvin Hansen.

Thomas McDermott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDermott of Wayne and a December graduate of St. John's University at Collegeville, Minn., earlier this year joined the religion faculty at Benilde-St. Margaret's High School in suburban Minneapolis.
McDermott, who will return to St. John's for commencement exercises on May 20, received his bachelor of arts degree cum laude, with a major in theology and a minor in secondary religious education.

While at St. John's, McDermott was active in various theological groups on campus. He was the 1972 delegate from the College of Arts and Sciences to the annual convention of the National Conference of Seminars in New Orleans.

McDermott was the manager of the student bookstore at St. John's during his sophomore year. The following year he studied Anglican monasticism as a January term project in New York State. During his last year of study, he was a teacher intern and assistant to the chaplain at Breck School in Minneapolis.

Is There A Wedding In Your Future?

You Should Be Saving NOW!

There is probably no event that brings so much change in one's life as getting married. And, although it is one of the most wonderful happenings, the adjustments are not always easy to make.

One of the major obstacles to a happy married life is the lack of money to cover all of the many expenses that are involved in setting up and maintaining a household. The financial is overwhelming. And, money problems are well known as the cause of many arguments and breakups.

We at Wayne Federal Savings and Loan like to see marriages succeed. Based on our years of experience, we know the value of saving in advance of the wedding day. There are so many needs that must be met, and it takes more than just a few hundred dollars. To encourage young couples plan for the future, we offer savers the highest interest allowable by law. Your savings are also insured up to $40,000 by an agency of the federal government.

Don't get us wrong. We don't want to discourage marriages. We simply want to point out one pitfall that many couples fall victim to. We want to encourage happy marriages by encouraging the savings habit before the big day. A well planned savings program can be one of the most important keys to happiness.

For those of you who have a wedding in your future, NOW is the time to start SAVING at Wayne Federal. You'll be glad you did.

Swine Farrowing Tips
Here are some tips on how a little extra management during farrowing can save more baby pigs.

1. Be present when the sow farrows — allows assisting difficult deliveries, and disentangling new born pigs from the afterbirth.
2. Provide a warm, dry, draft-free nest for the pigs — pigs need 90 degrees F. for the first several days.
3. Help small pigs nurse — pigs which receive colostrum

(first milk) have a good chance to live. Pigs which receive no colostrum have little chance to live.

4. Clip needle teeth to prevent abrasions of the sow's udder and faces of pigs.
5. Disinfect navels to prevent navel infections.
6. Provide supplemental iron by the fourth day to prevent anemia. Save pigs is a good investment of time.

Feeding Ewes

The general practice of sheep producers is to overfeed ewes during cold winter months. Ewes need more energy when it's cold, but many producers are already overfeeding.

The last six weeks of gestation is a critical time, and energy should be increased to meet the demand of fetal growth.

Controlling intake is the best method of feeding late pregnant and lactating ewes. Control of intake can also balance the ration and save feed from being wasted, and it will cut down on lambing disease and save more healthy lambs.

During the late gestation period, ewes should receive a nine per cent protein ration and consume feeds amounting to 3.35 per cent of the body weight. A 160 pound ewe should eat about 4.8 pounds per day.

During the late gestation period, the ration should be increased to a 9.5 per cent protein ration, with feeds amounting to 3.54 per cent of body weight. Therefore, 160 pound ewes would be eating 5.7 pounds of feed per day. The protein may include urea up to 1/4 of the protein equivalent feed.

Spring Planting Intentions
Nebraska farmers and ranchers intentions on March 1 were to plant 3 per cent less spring sown crops and to harvest 3 per cent more acreage than last year, according to Douglas Murhelo, state statistician, State Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Combined acreage of eight spring sown crops was 10.8 million acres and hay acreage 4.1 million acres. Acreage increases were shown for all crops except corn, sorghum and potatoes.

Corn growers intentions on March 1 were to plant 6,300,000 acres in 1975, down 2 per cent from last year. Sorghum producers plan to plant 2,170,000 acres, 2 per cent less than 1974. Sorghum plantings are intended to be 1,300 acres, 2 per cent above last year. Oat acreage at 800,000 acres would be 16 per cent higher than 1974. All hay acreage to be harvested is indicated at 4,100,000 acres, 3 per cent more than last year.

The Japanese believe that the ages of 19, 33, 42 and 47 are bad luck.

Specialist: Take Advantage of USDA Revised Grade Standards

Cattle feeders should take advantage of the revised grade standards for beef recently approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, advises Paul Guyer, University of Nebraska Lincoln extension livestock specialist.

The revision become effective April 14.

"We've been holding cattle too long the past 18 months, partly in hopes of better prices and partly as a result of demand from packer buyers. Both reasons have contributed to beef prices being lower than they need to have been."

"And besides," said the NU specialist, "the practice of holding cattle costs the beef industry extra money because it was a waste. Once cattle carry enough finish for the beef to have flavor and juiciness, any weight added beyond that is practically all fat. That is fat that we don't need, and in fact don't want. The fat that is left on the retail cut we cook ends up in the garbage. Fat trimmed off the carcass is of low value, and recently has been in such excess that it can be fed back to cattle at less cost than corn per unit of energy."

The revised USDA grading standards make it possible for slightly leaner beef to qualify for the Prime and Choice grades, and establish a more restrictive Good grade. In addition, all beef graded for quality must also be graded for quantity, or percentage of retail cuts.

"So as we look at these grade changes, we can't afford to continue in our old ways," Guyer suggests. "The feeding period probably can be shortened by 10 to 20 days on cattle in the 18 to 24 month range and by as many as 30 days in 24 to 30 month-old cattle. These cattle will still grade as high or higher than they would under present grading systems."

Wakefield Resident Latest $25 Winner

A Wakefield resident, Karen Wirth, is the latest winner in Wayne's weekly Birthday Bucks drawing.

She won $25 in last week's drawing, missing the $1,000 grand prize by a matter of two days. Her birthday is December 20, 1951. The winning date announced in all participating stores last Thursday evening was December 18, 1952. She was at the Ben Franklin Store when the winning date was announced.

As a result, the grand prize in the drawing tonight (Thursday) remains at $1,000, with another $25 consolation prize being awarded if the top prize goes unclaimed yet another week.

All area residents are eligible for the weekly drawings, and no registration or purchases are required. A person must be present in one of the sponsoring businesses when the winning date is announced at 8:15 each Thursday to win, however.

Once that $1,000 prize is awarded, the top prize will drop to $300. Then, it will climb by $25 each week there is no winner until it reaches a ceiling of $500. Each week there is no top winner, a $25 consolation award will be given away.

Birthday Bucks awarded in the drawings may be spent just like cash in any of the firms helping make the weekly drawings possible.

First National Votes to Hike Bank's Capital

E. J. Thayer, president of the First National Bank of Wayne, has announced that the stock holders at their recent annual meeting voted to increase the capital of the bank by $300,000, giving the bank $400,000 in capital and $400,000 in surplus. The increase will be accomplished by a stock dividend, and the transfer will be made from the undivided profits account, he said.

Thayer noted that as the bank continues to experience excellent growth it is in the interest of good banking to give the depositors confidence by continuing to build a good, sound capital structure.
