

They're Headed North

A HUGE FLOCK of geese begins lifting off a field northwest of Wayne as they are spooked by an approaching photograph. The snows and blues in the flock numbered approximately 7,000, according to area farmers who saw them settle into a field just north of the Izaak Walton League lake northwest of Wayne early this week. Geese don't come north until spring is here, but area residents might question whether they didn't start their annual trip a little bit early this year.

POWER PLANT employees work on the large generating engine which exploded with a noisy boom early Monday morning. At the top of the picture is some of the damage caused by the explosion, insulation jarred loose from the huge exhaust tube leading out of the power plant.

Explosion Silences Generating Engine

An explosion about 7 a.m. Monday in the largest generating engine in the municipal power plant in Wayne may have caused $15,000 worth of damage and possibly considerably more, according to city Administrator Fred Brink.

The exact cause of the explosion could not be determined, he said, but it probably resulted from an accumulation of natural gas in the large exhaust tube leading from the engine to the tall silencer on the outside of the building.

The explosion damaged the outside of the engine and may have damaged the turbosupercharger on the inside, according to Brink.

The explosion which blew a piece of metal several feet long out of the silencer and across the street onto the roof of Merrill's

A plan to merge several rural school districts south of Wayne moved one step closer to reality Tuesday night when the Wayne County school reorganization committee voted unanimously to approve the proposal.

The plan now goes to the state school reorganization committee, which is expected to consider it at its April 11th meeting in Lincoln. It would then come back to the county committee for final decision.

Even if the state committee turns thumbs down on the plan, it is almost certain to succeed by the opening of school in the fall because of the large percentage of signers to petitions calling for five school districts to merge into an enlarged sixth district, according to county superintendent of schools Fred Rickers.

The petitions contained "close to 100 per cent" of the signatures of all legal voters in the six districts, making the decisions of the county and state committee little more than formalities, he said.

Such a plan needs only 60 per cent of the signatures of those voters if both committees agree to it, he noted, and only 65 per cent if either one or both disagree.

Planning to merge into school district 57 are school districts 10, 34, 40 and 69.

Those districts plan on building a new school just off Highway 15, four miles south of Wayne, according to Rickers. The school building, which will likely have three classrooms and a recreation room, would be built on the road connecting with the highway at the mile crossing, he explained.

Rickers said he could see no stumbling blocks in the way of the plan. Getting the building constructed would be the only thing which could stop the merged school district from opening in September, he said, but those involved in the merger reportedly have a commitment from a contractor to construct the building in 90 days once he is given authority to start.

Three teachers would be needed to teach the students attending the district, according to Rickers. The teachers have been selected but contracts with them have yet to be signed, according to one person attending the meeting.

The merger would be the largest one since the consolidation which resulted in forming the enlarged Winside school district in 1961. Prior to that, the Wayne Carroll merger in 1958 was the largest.

It would result in the number of Class I school districts (K-8) in the county dropping from the present 24 to 19.

"I think it's a good plan,"

Rickers said during discussion by the county committee, whose meeting in the district court room in the courthouse was attended by about 15 rural residents.

He noted that the school district will be a "stable" one as far as enrollment is concerned over the next few years. That enrollment, estimated at 52 students in kindergarten through the eighth grade this fall, will increase by six students during the next four years, he estimates.

The five committee members—Frederick Mann of rural Wayne, Milton Owens of rural Carroll, Harlin Brugger of rural Winside, Merlin Reinhardt of rural Wayne and Bob Vakoc of Wayne—voted unanimously on two formal questions they had to answer in considering the merger proposal.

The two questions asked whether the plan will benefit all the children in the district and whether the plan fits into the county's plan for reorganization of school districts.

Mann, chairman of the committee, noted during discussion that the county no longer has a school reorganization plan and that the plan which did exist at one time is now "obsolete."

Vakoc commented that it was "pretty hard to answer" the second question considering that no county school reorganization plan exists.

The proposed district would contain about 33 sections of land and have a valuation of approximately $7,526,000, according to Rickers.

The present levies of the merging districts range from a low of 28.17 for district 57 to a high of 46.99 mill for district 40.

Those figures compare with the approximate $13,810,000 property valuation and the current levy of 57.74 mills in the Wayne. See MERGER, page 8.

Mrs. Glen Gathje of rural Wayne has won $5 in cash for giving The Wayne Herald a tip which resulted in the large picture of geese lifting off a field just north of the Izaak Walton League lake northwest of Wayne.

Mrs. Gathje was the first of several people who telephoned the newspaper Monday about the huge flock of geese which had settled in the area.

The newspaper offers a $5 prize each week to the person who supplies the best tip for a photograph or a news story. Persons who would like to try to win the cash prize should telephone the newspaper office, giving their name and all the information they have available.

Group to Consider Changes in 4-H Beef Auction

The possibility of changing the format of the annual Wayne County 4-H beef sale will be discussed at a meeting Tuesday evening in the district courtroom in the courthouse.

The meeting, set for 8 p.m., is for all 4-H livestock members, leaders and agents, according to county agricultural agent Don Spitz.

Spitz said the possibility of changing the 4-H beef auction to a "bonus auction" is being considered.

The difference in the two types of auctions, he noted, is that a bonus auction bids in conjunction with the county fair would permit each 4-H'er to keep his animal rather than being forced to send it to the packinghouse for slaughter at auction time.

The actual auction would be the same, with businessmen and others paying 4-Hers premium money in order to encourage them to continue in farming and cattle raising as adults.

By holding a bonus auction during the county fair, each 4-H'er would be able to decide when he would sell his animal for slaughter, according to Spitz.

Many 4-Hers would probably wait until after the fair to slaughter their animals, because they would not be finished properly and would probably suffer some shrinkage during the fair, he noted.

Along with discussion on changing the auction, so it could be held during the fair, those attending the meeting will consider a suggestion that the auction be expanded to include market swine and sheep, Spitz said. That would increase participation as far as 4-Hers are concerned, he noted, and would likely result in larger turnouts and better participation from buyers.

Those present at the meeting will also Workshops will be conducted throughout the day and a district in-business meeting is scheduled in the afternoon. At the business meeting, junior leaders from the counties in the district will be selected for membership on the advisory board, invitations will be sought by communities wishing to host the district conference next year, the date for the 1976 conference will be set and ideas for junior leader events will be discussed.

The day's convention will conclude following a meeting at 4:30 during which the junior leaders will select officers for the coming year. Officers to be named include president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, news reporter and county agent advisor. Conducting the election of officers' meeting will be Oscar Thomas, Knox County agricultural agent.

Ley Earns 'Eyes on Nebraska' Honor

Henry Ley, president of State National Bank and Trust Co. in Wayne, has been awarded the Nebraska Optometric Association's Eyes on Nebraska Award.

Presented the plaque which goes with the honor by local optometrist Dr. William Koeber on Saturday, Ley is the latest in a long line of prominent Nebraskans who have been recognized by the association for their contributions on both local and statewide levels.

The last Wayne resident to receive the award was the late Dr. W. A. Brandenburg, president of Wayne State College for 17 years until he resigned in 1973. Dr. Brandenburg, who died in January, received the award several years ago.

In nominating Ley for the award, Dr. Koeber noted that the Wayne native "has never known to refuse his assistance in any cause or project" which he thought worthwhile to local and area residents.

In addition, Dr. Koeber noted, "Although recent serious illness temporarily slowed his rapid pace, it did not deter him from accepting appointment at the beginning of 1975 to the difficult and time-consuming Board of Trustees of State Colleges."

Ley, 71, was appointed to the post of state banking director in 1964 by Governor Frank Morrison. He served that full two-year term and was reappointed for another term, resigning during his second term to run in the primary as a candidate for governor. During those years, he See LEY, page 9.

Police Blotter

A car driven by Dennis Beckman, 420 E. Ninth, struck two parked vehicles about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday on the 100 block of East Fourth. Beckman was making a left turn off Main Street onto East Fourth when his car slid into a parked car owned by Ronald Mau, 521 Walnut, and a parked pickup owned by Mrs. Santry Service, 720 Logan. The impact pushed the Mrs. Santry vehicle into a parked pickup owned by Ronald Brockman, 521 E. Sixth.

About 7:45 p.m. Monday, cars backing from parking stalls on the 100 block of West Second collided. Drivers were Kirk Wacker, 404 Logan, and Jeffrey Stingley, 936 Sherman.

Experts estimate that more than half the U. S. crop output would be lost if there were no insecticides to combat the roughly 700,000 species that fly or crawl.

Three State Veterans Help LH Girls Track

With three state track qualifiers returning, Laurel High figures to be a contender this season in girls track. But coach Carol Woodward isn't relying just on those three girls to make 1975 a winning season.

The state veterans are senior Kathy Maxon, junior Julie Hirschman and sophomore Patti Stark. Of the three, Stark finished in the top five in the state Class C meet, earning fifth in the 880-yard run. Hirschman will again compete in the long jump, and Maxon, who has gone to state two straight years, will run the 400-yard dash.

Woodward also has hopes for the mile relay foursome of Stark, Maxon, Kelly McCoy and either Debbie Olsen or Susan Stark. This is the first year for girls to compete in the mile relay.

"We have three strong legs in the mile relay. I'm hoping we can take advantage of them," the first-year coach said of Stark, Maxon and McCoy, a sophomore.

A total of nine letter winners are on this year's squad of 15. They are McCoy, Julie Buss,

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"But now is Christ risen from the dead..."
Bible, New Testament

For Christians, Easter is the happiest, the most joyous, as well as the most significant holiday of the Church Calendar. Easter celebrates the immortality of Christ as exemplified by His resurrection from the dead. Without Christ's resurrection, He would be another very wise, compassionate man; with it, He is the Son of God.

Easter means life after death, a concept which makes life more bearable for those who have lost loved ones and are left to continue alone. Their loneliness is only temporary.

The world needs the kind of hope that the Easter Story provides.

WSC Group to Perform At 16-State Convention

The Wayne State College madrigal singers are one of a few musical groups in Nebraska selected to appear at the 16-state convention of the Music-Educators National Conference in Omaha today (Thursday) to Sunday.

Also performing during the convention will be six students from Wayne High School, members of the all-state orchestra and chorus selected by audition last fall.

The convention of music teachers from north central and southwestern states is expected to attract more than 4,000 members. More than 100 performing groups involving about 7,000 students from public schools and colleges, will take part in the convention program.

Conference speakers will include Jesse Owens, track star of the 1936 Olympics, but most sessions are devoted to musical performances.

The session to be done by the Wayne State madrigal singers is on "Teaching Sight Reading in the High School Choral Rehearsal." It will include sight singing using the numbers, letters and syllables approach, demonstrations from a sight singing book, and illustrations of specialized drill techniques, directed by Dr. Cornell Runestad.

The novel feature of this approach, Dr. Runestad said, is that it is designed for use in the choral rehearsal instead of individualized instruction. The session repeats a demonstration given some years ago by Dr. Runestad's high school choir from Kenosha, Wis., as a national convention that attracted national attention.

This is the second convention appearance for the WSC madrigal singers this school year. Last November they presented a program on how to do an Elizabethan dinner at the Nebraska Music Educators Association convention in Scottsbluff. Wayne State's Omaha performance is scheduled for 10 a. m. Sunday in the city auditorium. Convention programs also are scheduled in Hilton and Paxton Hotels.

Singing in the all state chorus will be Kay Pierson, Mark Cramer, Beth Baier and Deb Wolke. Playing viola in the all state orchestra will be Mary Ream and Kim Kugler.

Those six, all seniors at Wayne High, will perform with their groups Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

It will be the first time the all state musical groups have been reconvened for performances following their presentations at the annual Nebraska Music Educators Association's annual convention. That convention was held at Scottsbluff in November.

HEALTH TIP

Cigarette smoking is frequently mentioned in conjunction with cancer and heart diseases, but smoking may cause an eye disease called amblyopia.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that some individuals are sensitive to tobacco and develop an impairment of vision called amblyopia. The impairment is the result of external smoke irritation, but due to absorption of toxic substances such as grain or wood alcohol, tobacco or drugs which affect the nerves in the eye's retina. The condition improves and the patient may recover completely when the cause is removed.

Council Telecasts Forced to Cease

Telecasts of Wayne's city council meetings have been discontinued temporarily by the Wayne State broadcast department.

Charles Stelling, director of information services, explained that lack of student personnel and inadequacy of television equipment dictated the shutdown of council coverage.

Students of broadcast have done the Council telecasting as a volunteer duty, additional to class assignments, Stelling said. The whole operation for each council meeting requires four or five hours, sometimes longer, he noted. This includes more than an hour for set up and take-down of equipment, which must be hauled from the college each time.

Quality of picture and sound have been less than perfect at times, Stelling said, because televising equipment is inadequate.

Despite the shortcomings, council telecasts apparently have had many viewers, Stelling said. Officials of Wayne Cable vision, which carries the program on Channel 10, say they have received quite a number of telephone calls and letters from subscribers saying they appreciate the telecasts.

Stelling said the college will consider whether it is feasible to resume coverage of the City Council next fall.

Army Program Offering Rank For Training

High school graduates who have received vocational training may qualify for entry into the Army at an advanced rank and pay grade, announced SFC Les Montgomery, Army representative for the Wayne area.

Montgomery said that under the Army's Stripes for Skills program, if you've had training as an electrician, mechanic, machinist, typist, stenographer or accountant, you could be enlisted into the Army at one rank higher than normal.

You would earn another promotion upon completion of basic training and eight weeks of successful performance in your skill field, he added.

In addition to those vocations, you also may be eligible if you've had training in radio, textile equipment fabrication, welding, carpentry, masonry, pipefitting or plumbing, Montgomery said. He noted that electronics skills are desirable, especially in data processing and business machines.

A complete listing of all jobs and further information about the new Stripes for Skills program is available from Montgomery at the Army Recruiting Station in Norfolk.

'Brazilians Under Restrictions'

Many restrictions were placed on people who live in Brazil after the 1964 revolution, said Daniel daSilva, but those restrictions will gradually relax as time goes on.

Speaking at Monday's Kiwanis luncheon in Wayne, the Wayne High Field Service student pointed out that Brazil's present government is neither a dictatorship nor a democracy. "Be cause of our troubling economy, the government had to place some restrictions on the people to prevent such things as strikes," he said.

daSilva, who lives with the Deardil Hamm family in Wayne, added that since the 1964 revolution Brazil has shown a yearly economic growth of 10 per cent. "As the economy grows, the government will ease its restrictions," he said.

Although Brazil is primarily an agricultural and cattle growing country, daSilva pointed out that it is a lot like America. We have automobiles and big cities. The main difference is we have a larger percentage of poor

DANIEL daSILVA people in our country than America has."

Preparations for the annual Wayne Kiwanis Henry Barquist will be starting soon. Chairman of the April 28th dinner to honor Wayne High students for academic standing are Dale G. I shali and Francis Haun.

Persons 65 and older can claim an additional $750 tax exemption.

China — Delicate but Durable Many people assume china is very breakable because of its lightness and translucency. The opposite is true. China is much more durable than heavier types of dishes, such as stoneware or earthenware. China is heated to a high temperature, and the particles are fused into a solid body, making it more resistant to chipping and cracking. Even though it is more durable, it is breakable.

There are different types of china and variations in quality. Fine china is translucent and lightweight. But not all china is fine. Thick, opaque china is the kind we see in restaurants. When selection fine china, the first thing you look for is translucency. Hold a plate up to the light and see how clearly the shadow of your hand shows through it. Look across the surface of the plate at an angle and see if it is free from waviness, bumps or tiny "pinholes." A smooth, lustrous glaze enhances the beauty of fine china.

Bone china is a kind of fine china to which crushed bone has been added. This makes the china very white. The durability, elegance and beauty of fine china make it the most expensive of all tableware.

WITH THE PRICE OF PROTEIN THESE DAYS YOU CAN'T AFFORD NOT TO RAISE ALFALFA. SELECT THE FINEST... SEXAUER ALFALFAS.

With the shortages and the rising costs of chemical fertilizers, farmers are now taking another look at crop rotation... nature's way of replacing nitrogen in the soil. And the cheapest way to get nitrogen back into the soil is to plant alfalfa. Alfalfa builds up soil fertility through nitrogen fixation. The superior line of Sexauer Alfalfas not only produce the much needed nitrogen in your soil, but out-yield most common varieties of alfalfa. Sexauer Alfalfas start off fast in the spring, recover fast after each cutting and have large leaves with finer stems for a lush hay crop with higher protein value. You may pay a little more for Sexauer Alfalfas, but the increased yields they produce as well as their soil building capabilities will cut your overall costs. Plant Sexauer Alfalfas in 1975. We have an alfalfa developed just for your specific growing conditions.

'Report Changes in Marital Status If You Get SS Income'

People getting monthly supplemental security income payments should report promptly to social security if they get married or divorced, if they separate and intend to remain apart, or if they've been separated for six months or more. The amount of the supplemental security income payments people get can change if they marry, and the amount due a wife or husband can change depending on whether they're living together or apart, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

A temporary separation of less than six months generally won't affect supplemental security income payments, he said, but people should report to social security if they begin living together again after a separation.

Payment amounts also may be affected by annulment or by the death of a wife or husband. Prompt reports of changes help social security get the right supplemental security income payments to the right people on time, while failure to report changes may result in an over payment that will have to be paid back, according to Branch.

Changes can be reported by calling or writing any social security office. A written report should include the name of the person affected, the correct social security claim number under which payments are made, the change being reported, the date the change occurred, and the signature and address of the person making the report.

Wayne Attorney Is Choice to Organize Law Day Activities

Wayne attorney Ken Swarts has been named chairman for Law Day 1975 in Wayne County, according to Ted Stouffer of Omaha, state Law Day chairman.

As chairman, Swarts will coordinate activities being scheduled throughout the area in commemoration of the 14th annual observance of Law Day on May 1.

The theme for Law Day 1975 is: "America's Goals: Justice Through Law." Programs planned around the state include school assemblies, mock trials, courthouse tours, luncheons, programs in community organizations and other events.

A statewide Law Day dinner will be held in Lincoln in connection with the dedication of the new University of Nebraska College of Law, United States Attorney General Edward Levi will be the featured speaker at the dinner.

A Law Day Exposition is also being planned which will include a display of art, artifacts, documents and memorabilia relating to the legal profession and the judiciary in Nebraska. The display will open in Omaha and will later be shown at selected locations around the state.

IRS Q&A

Q I sold my house several months ago, but I've been having trouble finding a new one. How much time do I have to acquire a new house in order to qualify for postponement of tax on the sale of my old one?
A The gain you realize on the sale or exchange of your personal residence is not taxed at the time of sale if within one year before or after the sale you buy and occupy another residence, the cost of which equals or exceeds the "adjusted sales price" of the old residence.
If you are constructing a new residence, construction must begin before the sale of your old residence or within one year after. The residence must be occupied within 18 months after the sale.
The running of the one year or 18 month period after the sale of your old residence is suspended while you serve on extended active duty in the Armed Forces. The suspension applies only if your service begins before the end of the one-year or 18-month period. The length of this suspension plus the initial period cannot extend for more than four years after you sold your residence unless you spent time on active duty in a combat zone.
Q My employer reimburses me for business travel. Does this reimbursement have to be reported on the tax return?
A Reimbursements and allowances for expenses you pay or incur for travel in connection with your employment must be included in your income tax return unless:
1) You are required to do so, make an accounting for such expenses to your employer;
2) You do not deduct such expenses on your return; and
3) The sum of such expenses equals the total amount of reimbursements and allowances.
If you include the allowance or reimbursement in income, you may deduct your allowable expenses to the extent of the allowance or reimbursement.

IRS: Check Over Your Tax Return Before Mailing It

Everett Loury, IRS district director for Nebraska, cautioned taxpayers to check over their federal income tax return carefully before mailing it to the Ogdin Service Center.

Loury said that taxpayers who take those extra few minutes often find errors in arithmetic or other mistakes which must be corrected in processing and could delay issuance of refunds.

Nebraska taxpayers he said, should make certain they enter the correct social security number, use correct figures from tax tables and schedules, attach all necessary documents and sign the return if they want a prompt refund.

Loury also urged taxpayers to attach the pre-addressed table in the space provided on the tax return they file with the IRS to assure correct identification of the return.

Weeds in Strawberries
Strawberries are a popular fruit to grow in a garden, but unfortunately weeds can be a problem in strawberry patches. Mulches of straw or black plastic can help with the weed battle. Plastic works best when strawberries are maintained as bushes in rows. Pinch off runners to develop large, healthy bushes. Dacthal is a chemical that does a good job of controlling

'Grasshopper Threat Is Present in NEN'

The grasshopper disasters of the 30's and 40's aren't going to return to Nebraska this summer, but if conditions are right, the grasshopper population could have a sizable impact on crops and range land, says Jerold Bell, assistant professor of entomology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

We had heavy grasshopper populations last year in crop land and range land, so the potential is there," he said. "The weather this spring will be the dominant factor. Cool, damp weather in late May and June (hatching time) will be the big deterrent."

Ornith conditions are conducive to grasshoppers, he noted, and this double threat could really cause problems for farmers in Northeast Nebraska and along the Platte River. "But," he said, "in a normal growing season crops can keep ahead of grasshoppers."

Crops most susceptible to grasshopper infestations are alfalfa, corn, sorghum and soybeans. But Bell added, "They'll eat practically anything. For range land, they're not fussy about which grass to eat, but they do prefer the better grasses."

Bell recommended malathion and sevin as basic chemical treatments against the insects, stating that farmers will get more efficient control with these chemicals if they are used when the crops and hoppers are small.

'Humor Helps' Topic of NEN Feeders' Speaker

"Humor Helps Us Handle It" is the main speaker's topic at the annual Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders' banquet to be held Saturday, April 12, in Wayne.

Dr. LaVern Freeh of the University of Minnesota will be the main speaker. The banquet is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Center. A social hour will be held beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne fire hall.

Advance purchase of tickets is advisable because only 500 tickets will be sold this year. Tickets may be purchased from the following associations: directors Bob Boals, Rodney Bonderson, Dave Denker and John Servino of Dakota County; Dean Dahlgren, Tom Gustafson, LeRoy Koch and Bill Wellenstein of Dixon County; Leon Bruns, Harold Hermeibracht, John Kruse and Fred Tremayne of Thurston County, and Clifford Baker, Byron Janke, Darrel Rahn and Norman Wickman of Wayne County.

Dr. Freeh is head of the office of special programs and assistant director of the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Minnesota.

A native of Harvey, N. D., Freeh received his bachelor's degree from North Dakota State University and his master's and doctorate from Michigan State University. Following graduation from North Dakota State, Freeh taught vocational agriculture and coached high school football. While doing graduate work at Michigan State, he served as

LENRD Board Is Considering Boundary Change

The board of directors of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District last week postponed action on the proposal to alter the boundary line between the LENRD and the Middle Missouri NRD.

The proposed change would result in the village of Emerson being placed completely in the LENRD rather than being split between the two.

The board agreed to have a committee study the proposal further before taking action. Also during their meeting, the directors authorized bids to be taken on aerial photograph for survey purposes on potential flood control reservoirs on Silver Creek and West Pebble Creek in Dodge County near Scribner.

Also discussed was the proposed Willow Creek flood control and recreation project near Pierce. The project would involve construction of a large earthen dam and a 1,100 surface acre lake for flood control and recreation.

Two landowners in the area of the project appeared before the board to object to the project. Support came from other landowners and Pierce businessmen. The board's next meeting is scheduled for April 24 at West Point.

POCKET MONEY PARTS Less than $150 a year

Valley Water Drives are the kings of low cost center pivot operation. Owners get the same big yields as the owners of expensive center pivots and operate and maintain them for peanuts.

It's been going on for better than 20 years. Because it's water driven and mechanical, parts are simple, costing from a few cents to a few dollars. The actual drive train rarely, if ever, wears out, so you don't pay for expensive components. You don't need costly electricians. Farm workers make needed adjustments and repairs. When you buy, you'll save up to $9,000. No wonder it adds up to more profits in your pocket. VALLEY

Date Set for Bid Letting

Bids for Hoskins' new sewage treatment facility will be let April 28 during the town board's monthly meeting.

The board is seeking bids on both a mechanical treatment plant and a lagoon system before submitting them to the federal government to decide which one to construct, according to board chairman Jim Miller.

Board members reviewed plans for the new facilities during their meeting Monday evening.

If the federal government okays one of the plans, federal funds would pay 75 per cent of the total cost, with the state and Hoskins splitting the remaining cost.
