

Sittin' Pretty

WAYNE painter Gerald Bolen hangs in a seat dangling from the end of a long boom during a rather difficult painting job on the steeple of First United Methodist Church in Wayne. A wide angle lens helps stretch the length of the boom, giving the impression that Bolen isn't too far from the clouds and bright sun in the sky. From the way he was dangling and swinging in the seat, he probably had few envious street superintendents who happened by while he was on the job Monday.

City Council 'Sold' on Nation's Bicentennial

If the success of Wayne's American Bicentennial effort depends on the sales ability of its main sponsor, it should be one of the best around. Tuesday night Mrs. Roberta Welte asked the city council for $250 to help finance the planning that is going into those Bicentennial activities. She received that amount. Then she promptly went ahead and sold each council member a $2 membership in the Nebraska Bicentennial 200 Club. For their $2 council members received a stick pin, membership card and the satisfaction of knowing that $1 of each $2 will stay in Wayne to help pay for Bicentennial efforts. Mrs. Welte, named to the city's Bicentennial post several months ago by the council, told the council that she expects to be notified within a few weeks that Wayne has been declared a Bicentennial City. The city has already received state approval for that designation, she said, and now all that is required is for the city to receive national approval. Once the city is named a Bicentennial City, the community will receive its official Bicentennial flag, she said. "I'm really having fun with the Bicentennial," she said during her bid for financial support from the council, which she received unanimously. "I hope more and more people are going to become interested." She noted that plans call for painting a large map on the north side of Kaup's TV building in downtown Wayne so historical sites in the county can be pinpointed. The map should be "something the whole town could be proud of," she said. She also handed out a list of activities which are being suggested to civic groups and other organizations wishing to help promote the nation's Bicentennial in Wayne. The suggestions include planting trees, sponsoring fiddler contests, taking on sewing projects, sponsoring hobby craft weeks, updating the county history, beautifying the city, painting fire hydrants with a patriotic theme and placing boxes of red, white and blue pennants on Main Street. A five-day Bicentennial committee is planning to hold monthly displays and activities beginning in September and leading up to the big July 3 celebration scheduled for next year. That big celebration will include such things as dances, ball games, ice cream socials, both displays and the like. Mrs. Welte emphasized that she hopes Wayne's Bicentennial effort can be kept as "inexpensive and non-commercial as possible." She said she wants to make it an "old fashioned funfest."

Council OKs Flags for Main Street

In the not too distant future, Wayne's main street will be come an avenue of flags on special occasions and holidays. The city council voted Tuesday night to purchase 25 bel- come flags and 25 American flags for display on light poles between Clark Street in the south part of the city to 14th Street on the north edge. Council voted 8-0 to go ahead with purchasing the flags, expected to cost about $130. Accessories such as brackets and holders also will have to be purchased. The vote came after Chamber of Commerce spokesman Dale Gulshall told the council that Wayne State College students are willing to help put up and take down the flags each day they are flown.

He suggested that college students be called on to fly the flags on days of special college events. Chamber members be- sided for special business promo- tions and city employees be- tapped on holidays. Councilmember Mrs. Carolyn Fitter, who has been on the main promoters of purchasing flags, said the recently com- pleted community attitude survey in Wayne revealed that many people are concerned about the apparent lack of pride local residents have toward their city. "Flying flags on holidays and special occasions would likely increase their sense of pride and show other passing through Wayne that the city is concerned with how it looks to outsiders."

Also Tuesday night, the council asked the city attorney to determine what steps need to be taken for the city to obtain bids on an approximate $87,000 purchase for the volunteer fire department.

Tuesday night that the firmen have decided that a 55 foot snr- bel unit would be inadequate. A 75 foot ladder unit would be a better purchase, costing the city less and enabling firemen to better fight fires in the tall buildings in the city, he said. "We feel we would be as far or farther ahead with the 75 foot ladder," he said.

The action came after the chief Cliff Pinkelman told the council that a 75 foot ladder, truck and additional equipment will cost about $86,700, considerably under the approximate $126,000 estimated cost of a 65 foot snorkel unit, truck, additional equipment and alterations to the present fire department building to house it. The fire department had re- quested last September that the city council begin steps toward purchasing a $98,000 45 foot snorkel and truck. However, Pinkelman said

'No Foul Play' In Man's Death

A preliminary autopsy report on a young man found dead in his car near Carroll Sunday morning shows that there was no foul play involved, according to Wayne County attorney Budd Bornhoff. The autopsy was ordered by Bornhoff after John Raff, 25, of Pierce was found dead in his car on Highway 98 about 11 and a half miles west of Wayne. He was discovered by a passing motorist about 10 a.m. according to the county sheriff's department. Raff's car was facing west on the north side of the shoulder of the road when he was discovered in the car. He was in the driver's seat.

Bond Issues Dumped At Laurel, Wakefield

At Wakefield, voters narrowly defeated a proposal to issue up to $1,000,000 in bonds for a new high school. See ISSUES, page 8.

Deadline Nears for Licensing Bicycles

About 700 to 800 bicycles in Wayne have yet to be licensed this year, reports police chief Vern Fairchild. Deadline for licensing bikes is May 31. Fairchild noted that licensing bicycles is primarily for the benefit of the owners, since it enables police to check their files when a bike is reported missing or stolen. Fee for licensing bikes each year is 50 cents. Owners may take their bikes to the local police station anytime during the day to purchase licenses. When licenses are purchased, police record such information as the color of the bike, serial number, type of brake and the like, according to Fairchild. Since many people can't remember or don't have that information written down, it is very difficult for them to describe a bicycle if it is ever missing, he noted.

Ambulance Hurdle Still Facing Wayne's City Council

By NORVIN HANSEN Although everybody involved seems to agree that an ambulance should be operated out of the new hospital under construction in Wayne, getting them to agree on how that should be done is proving to be a difficult hurdle to leap. After a lengthy discussion during Tuesday night's city council meeting, the council voted 5-2 to postpone action on the subject until a future meeting, leaving the city not much closer to getting that hurdle behind it than it was several weeks ago. The vote to postpone action came in a 5-2 vote to table Darrel Fuetberth's move to go ahead and purchase a new ambulance and give it to the Beneficence Sisters of Norfolk, which will take over and operate the new hospital once it is completed later this year. Only Fuetberth and Mrs. Carolyn Fitter voted against tabling the motion in an attempt to force a vote by the council. They were overruled by Ted Bahe, Ivan Beaks, Vernon Russell, John Vakoc and Leo Hansen. Councilman Jim Thomas took part in none of the discussion or voting concerning the ambulance subject. Married to the administrator of the present municipal hospital, he had earlier cited the possibility of a conflict of interest as his reason for letting the rest of the council take some action on the subject. The council's decision to wait until some future time to resolve the ambulance problem came after considerable comment by council members, the mayor and two local doctors. Mayor Freeman Decker said the "only equitable" thing for the city to do is to purchase a new ambulance and give it to the Wayne Hospital Foundation, which in turn would give it to the Beneficence Sisters. The city should also provide a second ambulance as a back-up unit, he noted. Both Dr. Robert Bentback and Dr. Willis Wiseman agreed that the city needs adequate ambulance service and that the best possible way to provide that service would be by having the ambulance operated and staffed out of the new hospital. Dr. Wiseman, however, recommended that the city consider purchasing a vehicle which permits doctors and others more freedom in treating injured and sick persons at the site or on the road. He said the present ambulance is "inadequate." No city the size of Wayne should be satisfied with a unit which is not better suited to transporting sick and injured people to hospitals for treatment. Several council members who voted against further consideration of the subject pointed to an opinion from city attorney Budd Bornhoff as reason for their refusal to go ahead with purchasing a new ambulance. Bornhoff has determined that it would be illegal for the city to purchase a new ambulance for the hospital without retaining more control over its use than was suggested by former hospital administrator Charles Thomas. Thomas, who will be administrator of the new hospital in Wayne when it is completed, had told the council that the city will have to donate a new ambulance to the hospital, which will in turn maintain all records and handle all policy decisions concerning its use. Councilman Bahe said the city can not "give away" willy-nilly "an ambulance without retaining some control as to how it is operated. He said he would consider resigning from the council rather than being forced into signing an agreement which the city attorney feels is illegal. Bahe suggested during the meeting that the city take over operation of the ambulance, staffing it with trained personnel from the Wayne area. He noted that the council would be very interested in learning if there are enough adequately trained people in the area to staff an ambulance if the city takes over its operation or if there are enough people who would be willing to take the required training. Bahe also noted that he could not vote to give the hospital an ambulance if the city could not require that either it or the back-up unit would remain in the city at all times to provide protection to the people who are paying the taxes to purchase and operate it. "I'm afraid that sometime we're going to have an emergency and not have it. See HURDLE, page 8."

AMERICAN LEGION baseball action in the Ralph Bishop League, officially starts the first week of June, but Legion followers won't have to wait that long to get a glimpse of some top-notch playing.

On May 28 the eight-team Chuck Ellis memorial tournament gets underway at Wakefield with some of the "best ball teams in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa" slated to compete in the four-day tourney, said Paul Eaton, in charge of this year's meet.

Defending champion Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson will return along with teams from Wayne, Coleridge, Norfolk, Sioux City Heelan and Sioux Falls. New to the lineup are Sioux City North and Fremont. North replaces Wakefield and Fremont replaced West Point.

Games slated for May 28 are North vs. Coleridge at 6:30 p.m. and Sioux Falls vs. Fremont at 8:30. The following night at 6:30 Norfolk and Heelan tangle, with the Wayne-Council Bluffs match to follow. Semifinals are at 6:30 and 8:30 May 31. Finals will be held June 1 or 2, depending on the teams.

More later.

League, it looks as if the loop will lose teams in both Midget and Legion divisions. Winside and Bancroft are dropping from the Legion ranks due to lack of players. Bancroft, however, will merge with Pender. Unsettled is the entry of the Waitstill Lyons team.

The remainder of the league includes teams from Wayne, Laurel, Wakefield and Wisner.

In the Midget division, Winside will drop out, also because of lack of players. That leaves the loop with seven teams—Wayne, Wakefield, Laurel, Wisner, Bancroft, Pender and Waitstill-Lyons.

A NOTE to Wayne youths interested in playing Midget ball this summer: Practice starts Monday night at 6 o'clock at the city ball park. All boys who will not reach their 17th birthday before Aug. 1 this year are eligible to play Midget ball, said team manager Hank Overin.

All Wayne youths intending to play Legion ball who are not out for the Wayne High team are encouraged to join in Midget practices. Overin added. Practice will be held Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 6:30 p.m.

Overin also is extending an invitation to Winside players who would like to play on Wayne's Legion and Midget teams. For more information, contact Overin.

CONTRIBUTIONS for the Wayne town team continue coming in. As of Tuesday, about $500 had been collected, but that is far short of the $1,400 goal. If you would like to contribute, send your donation to me.

ON JUNE 1 the Wayne Country Club will hold its fourth annual Memorial Day golf tournament. Over $2,500 in prizes will be awarded plus plaques to flight winners. There will be 18-holes of handicap play and a nine-hole championship round.

Senior Randy Pinkelman finished second in the Class C division with 209 points out of a possible 300. Fourth was Marty Butts with 205, and eighth was Steen Anderson with 184.

Pinkelman scored 94 of a possible 100 points shooting from the prone position, 70 while kneeling and 45 while standing. Butts collected totals of 87-68-50, and Anderson collected 75-51-58. The winning score was 211.

Allen Native Graduates

Brian Linafelter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Linafelter of Allen, graduated from Morning-side College in Sioux City Sunday afternoon.

A graduate of Allen High School, Linafelter received a bachelor of science degree with a major in elementary education.

He was one of 218 students to receive their degrees during the commencement exercises. The total included 80 bachelor of arts, 116 bachelor of science, 19 bachelor of music education and three bachelor of music degrees.

Guest speaker during the ceremonies was Dr. Glenn Leggett, former president of Grinnell College. He was one of four persons who received honorary degrees from Morningside during the afternoon activities.

Shrine Bowl Selects Hansen for Grid Tilt

A member of Wayne High's 1974 football team has been selected to play on the North squad in this year's Shrine Bowl all star football game Aug. 9 at the University of Nebraska Memorial Stadium in Lincoln.

He is Marty Hansen, son of Wayne High football coach and Mrs. Al Hansen of Wayne. The senior was named Saturday by Shrine Bowl officials.

Hansen is one of seven players competing for the starting end slot. During the grid season, the 5'11, 170-pound senior was a running back, quarterback and receiver, leading the Blue Devils in six of 10 offensive categories.

He was the top rusher with 846 yards in 139 carries for a 6.1 yard average, and he caught 15 passes for 218 yards.

Hansen, who was named to the West Husker all conference football teams in 1973 and 1974, will be competing with an East Husker nominee for end-tut, Hartington Cedar Catholic's Bill Pinkelman.

Another East Husker player selected for the all star game is tackle John Hovekost of Scribner. Representing the Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference are guards Roger Fuchs of Randolph and Doug Schmech peper of Bloomfield. The annual Shrine game features some of Nebraska's top high school players. Profits from the 17th annual game go to the Shrine's hospitals for crippled children.

Hansen will report to the North camp at Midland College in Fremont on July 26. North head coach is Larry Jacobson of Omaha Burke High School.

JILL STENWALL, Winside High School

Before Jill Stenwall started girls high school track this season, the Winside High junior had several goals—first, to break the state shot put mark (which she has done); second, to go over 45-feet in the shot (which she has done); and third, to try for the national shot put record of about 57 feet (which she has).

"That kind of determination is what makes Jill this week's Athlete of the week."

Three weeks ago the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stenwall set a state record in the shot with a toss of 44-3/4. But she wasn't satisfied. She wanted to break 45 feet.

Last week she achieved that goal with a heave of 45-3/4 during the Class C district meet at Wisner, earning her a third trip in as many years to the state girls high school track and field tournament.

Canine Deadline Trots By

Owners of dogs in Wayne will now have to pay a penalty when they take their dogs in for licenses, according to city clerk Bruce Mordhorst.

Mordhorst said the deadline for licensing all dogs in Wayne was Saturday. About 125 dogs had been licensed by that time, slightly more than half the number which were licensed last year.

Licenses will now cost dog owners $1.50 for males and spayed females and $4.50 for unspecialized females. The fee is 50 per cent higher than it was before Saturday's deadline passed.

Dog licenses are available at the city clerk's office.

Licenses enable local authorities to contact dog owners if their dogs are picked up running at large. If owners can't be contacted within a few days, their dogs will be destroyed, said Mordhorst.

THESE 48 youngsters (count 'em if you don't believe us) graduated from the annual junior fire patrol Monday evening in Wayne, ending a nine month course which started in September. Actually, a total of 50 youngsters graduated from the class, but we can't figure out where those other two kids are.

50 Youngsters Graduate From Wayne's Jr. Fire Patrol

Fifty fifth grade students in Wayne got a special treat Monday night — a ride around the city on the fire trucks and a lunch of hot dogs and pop.

The ride and treats helped mark the end to a nine month junior fire patrol course the youngsters just completed.

During the course, offered each year by the local volunteer fire department, the Middle School and St. Mary's students received instruction on everything from how to use fire extinguishers to how to protect themselves and others in case a fire breaks out.

They also learned about fire inspections, rescue first aid and the operations of a fire department.

Local firemen Dean Brugge and Gary Stegner were co-chairmen of the course, which included monthly meetings beginning in September.

Helping them out with organizing the course was Bob Stanley, local fireman, who conducted the classes.

Named winners of the trophy presented each year to the class having the best attendance record at the meetings was the St. Mary's fifth graders.

The class had 100 per cent attendance at six of eight meetings.

Receiving their graduation certificates Monday evening:

St. Mary's Class — Michael Sieler, Mary Garvin, James Sperry, Mary Henderson, Alan Lindsay, Mark Meyer, Billy Vrtiska.

EXTENSION NOTES

Baking Soda - Formerly known as saleratus, baking soda has many uses around the home. It's probably first thought of as a leavening agent, to leaven cakes, containing acid ingredients such as buttermilk, vinegar, molasses and fruit juices. Baking soda is also used along with cream of tartar or baking powder where the amount of acid in the ingredients being combined varies a great deal. The amount of acid can vary a lot when such ingredients as chocolate, brown sugar, honey, sour cream, apples, etc. are used together.

WSC Drama Students Seek Summer Rainbow

Again this year several Wayne State College students are spending the summer weeks in pursuit of that glorious rainbow associated with the theatre.

The students — about 15 of them — are part of the Indiana summer theatre group called the Nettle Creek Players.

The summer theatre program runs from May 1 through Aug. 20. Students may participate in the program for up to eight hours credit by enrolling through the WSC department of continuing education. Tuition is $15.50 per credit hour for Nebraska residents, and registration fee is $10.

Ron Wachholtz, who taught several years at WSC, is producer of the Nettle Creek enterprise. Michael Palumbo, a member of the WSC music department, is musical director for the theatre company.

The troupe plays in a tent set up on a lot of Hagerstown, Ind., a small town located about 15 miles from the Ohio border.

The tent will hold about 280. A Coast Guard approved personal flotation device can save your life, but only if it is worn.

COOKOUT SAFETY
Cooking on a grill can be a lot of fun — if you practice safety. After lighting the fire DO NOT stand over or downwind from it. A high volume of carbon monoxide results from the combustion of charcoal. Wait until the coals are cooked with white ash before cooking. This should take from 15 to 30 minutes depending on the charcoal.

REMEMBER: SAFETY FIRST IN COOKOUTS!

Arts degree, majoring in broadcasting in the future, airport manager Allen Robinson told Wayne Kiwanians Monday.

But the airport needs more navigational equipment if it is to meet future demands, he went on. That equipment includes a radio that puts out a signal allowing pilots to find their way to the airport during poor weather conditions. With that type of equipment, the airport could attract more aircraft owners and possibly other businesses which use a plane in their work, Robinson said.

Although the monthly rental fee is $50 for such a radio, Robinson said the cost could be easily paid if more aircraft owners started using Wayne's facilities. "In a short time we could double our fuel sales and possibly rent more hangars," he said.

Robinson, who took over as Wayne's airport manager earlier this year, said seven of the 10 hangars are rented at the cost of $45 per month.

The number of rented hangars is up five since it came here, he noted, adding that the ratio of possibility that all 10 hangars could be occupied if the airport gets the navigational equipment.

Vietnamese refugees — why admit them?

By RON HENDREN

The more Americans died, more land was ravaged, more billions spent in a cause that was wrong from the start and doomed even earlier.

Second, we could never understand why, with all of our help, the South Vietnamese could not become, as we fancy ourselves, masters of their own destinies. We gave them half a million of our own soldiers, the funds to field the best equipped army in Indochina, bought for them the fourth largest air force in the world and tried to re-green their bomb-cratered, burnt-out land with billions of dollars. And what did they do but copy us—built tennis courts, established their own intricately organized black market mafia, used high positions to embezzle millions. It was in many respects the American way, I suppose, but it was not exactly what most of us had in mind.

Third, while Vietnam does not represent our first loss, as some have suggested, it is the most thorough bashing we have ever sustained, not militarily, so much, but ideologically. Many of us view it, incorrectly I think, as a direct and incontrovertible thrashing of the highest principles we hold dear. And that is hard to take.

Fourth, many of the Vietnamese who now seek to make this land their own, not of choice but of necessity, are the very ones who in the eyes of many of us paved the way to their own (and our) defeat. They are the leaders, the "high risk" evacuees who faced certain recrimination, even death, if they were abandoned to the Communists. Why not leave them to the fate they constructed for themselves?

There are many reasons why not. The arguments that Vietnamese immigrants amount to only a fraction of, say, the number of Cubans we admitted to this country, that they will have no perceptible impact on the unemployment problem, that they will melt into the population within a few months or years, that it is a means of assuaging our guilt—these are all the wrong ones.

No, we should welcome them because there is no place for these people under Vietnam's new regime. There is no doubt—and let us have no illusions to the contrary—that many of the evacuees would have been exterminated had they remained in Saigon.

There has been enough killing in that part of the world, enough hatred over this bitter tragedy to last this age and the next. Now we have an opportunity to save lives. And that is why we should welcome these people. Because saving lives is one of those highest principles my British broadcaster friend was talking about when he said that the bitterness was natural but that it was temporary.

It is natural to leave people trapped in a burning building when you have the time and the means to get them out.

had promised he would veto some of the pending measures and the senators were sure he would keep his word.

The governor is allowed to keep a bill five days, after which he must sign it into law. Let it become law without his endorsement or veto.

In the past, Exon has occasionally provided vetoes before his deadline as a courtesy to legislators who want to have a crack at overriding prior to adjournment. But Burbach was trying to avoid having to rely on the governor's generosity by building into the schedule adequate time for full gubernatorial consideration before he makes his sign or veto decision.

Wednesday of last week was a good example of how hectic it can get when a Legislature is working under the gun.

That day's session started at 9 a.m. and didn't end until 7:30 p.m. There wasn't even a lunch break for about a score of senators who were guests of the National Guard for a noon-hour helicopter tour of Omaha's tornado damage.

At 4:15 p.m., the senators were due at a motel for a steak dinner courtesy of the Nebraska Association of County Officials. The steaks had to be put in the warmer because the lawmakers were still in the chamber at that time dis-has said all session should be increased from 10 per cent to 13 per cent.

When the bill finally got its first floor hearing, there was a motion to raise the rate only to 11 per cent. That failed. Another motion proposed 13 per cent. That failed. A motion suggested a limit of two per cent for the sales tax (now pegged at 2 1/2 per cent). That failed. And still another motion called for a 3 per cent sales tax. That, too, failed.

After all the amendments had been shucked, there was an attempt to move the bill off first reading. And that failed.

The vote was 21-21. The tie meant that the income tax issue would wait until the spending bills had been decided because there were senators who said they couldn't justify raising a tax without assurance that spending plans would require the boost.

One late development—the Omaha tornado—could require the tax raise by itself. There was a bill offered to give Omaha $10 million to restore public property smashed by the tornado.

Gov. Exon had requested and President Ford had declared that the tornado-struck area was eligible for federal disaster relief.

Legislation racing down home stretch beginning with a corrosion of the individual values of the citizens. Has the United States entered an irreversible "bread and circus" era? Has our national self-indulgence gone so far that we cannot accept the hard truth and clamor instead for pleasing and comfortable "answers"?

I hope not. But I don't know.

Statistics show we enjoy the best standard of living in the world's history. But life is no rose garden. Somewhere it always seems to even out at the end. So let's not away our eyes, watered glasses and get back on course.

We aren't where we are today through a historical accident, because of our temperate climate or our abundant natural resources. They help, but that basis for our national success has been the energy and productivity of our working force and the basic morality and self-discipline of all our people. Our economic system and limited government have fostered initiative and production.

Recently House Republican Leader John Rhodes visited Communist China. He reported his admiration for the dedication, price and productivity of the Chinese workers of the regimentation, individual self-expression denied. But clearly "the good life" of material progress is coming for the people of China.

The discipline of the Chinese work force has already accomplished great things. It is different entirely from the familiar self-discipline found in this country. Yet in an era where self-discipline is becoming an increasing scarce commodity, one asks: Will regimentation and imposed discipline be the only way we can sustain our affluent standard of living?

This is no idle question. Among the major industrial nations, the U.S. is dead last in its rate of real growth. Productivity is way down. Our capacity to create new jobs is inadequate. Our economic policies founder on the rocks of public apathy.

This is not a time for easy answers. There will be hard choices, unpopular decisions, courageous votes. But if we seek to save what we have.

It's always easier to give up responsibilities than shoulder them. Although it runs counter to everything in our heritage, it would be far easier to delegate the decisions for running the country, the economy and our individual lives to others. Why bother?

The day is coming when the people will insist in discipline to harness the prodigious capacity of "great" country. When that day comes, individuals must be ready to forego their lax ways, their self-indulgent immorality, their insistence on something for nothing. Self-discipline is necessary to save our system from becoming the tool of an elite or a dictatorship of the right or of the left. Democracy and the free enterprise system demand individual self-discipline. Individual self-discipline.

died by the federal government and its private enterprise competitors was greatly increasing.

According to the U.S. General Accounting Office, most of the business that the Postal Service has lost to its private enterprise competitors has been in cases where the distance between origination and delivery has been within 600 miles.

Unless the Postal Service makes drastic changes, the new bulk mail handling system will continue to lose business to its competitors.

For the same size and weight packages, private enterprise companies are offering better service, "speedier" deliveries, less damage to parcels and much lower rates. On July 1, 1975, the U.S. Postal Service will be four years old as an independent entity. I suggest that the U.S. House and Senate could observe this anniversary most appropriately by again making the Postal Service management accountable to Congress.

Postal Service pricing itself out of business ive with the Postal Service.

More than 20 million percent use is by the U.S. Department of Treasury. Treasury officials report that in some cases the Postal Service is three times as high—in addition to being much slower—than the private enterprise companies.

Many federal entities make little or no use of competitors to the Postal Service. If they all used those delivery services as extensively as Treasury, the Postal Service might lose the better part of a billion dollars a year in revenue.

The Postal Service has spent about a billion dollars for a new bulk mail handling system, which is scheduled to go into service late in 1975. By the Postal Service's own estimates, the service provided by its new system will be slower for packages going less than 600 miles than the service presently being offered by private companies.

For very short distance shipments, the new bulk mailing system will provide slower service than the Postal Service now offers. The billion dollars has been spent to build 21 large plants and 12 auxiliary centers that will handle bulk mail only. Plants in this area are located in Des Moines and Kansas City, and an auxiliary bulk center is in Sioux Falls. Typically, a package will go from a post office to a regional mail center, to a bulk mail center, to another bulk mail center, to another bulk mail center, to another sectional mail center, to the post office of destination. Since many packages that are now handled four times with the present system will be handled eight times under the new system, I don't see how the Postal Service will reach its goal of reducing parcel damage.

Between 1963 and 1973, the volume of bulk mail handled by the Postal Service (and its predecessor, the U.S. Post Office) declined by 40 per cent. This was during a period when the total amount of bulk shipments han-died by the federal government and its private enterprise competitors was greatly increasing.

According to the U.S. General Accounting Office, most of the business that the Postal Service has lost to its private enterprise competitors has been in cases where the distance between origination and delivery has been within 600 miles.

The summer program also includes 49 students who will be participating in on-the-job work experience in various businesses and industries around the state as a required part of their training. These students are taking farm and ranch management, radio and television repair, commercial-residential electrician, automotive mechanics and electrical utility linemen programs.

Persons may register at the student services offices of the college, where career and education counselors are available for consultation. The college catalog and summer class schedule, listing courses, instructors and class hours, will be mailed upon request.

Student-Built House Slated For Auction

An all-new design has been used for the student-constructed Northeast Technical Community College house to be auctioned off Sunday following an open house for the general public.

The open house will begin at 12:30 p.m., and Pilger auctioneer Orville Lage will conduct the public auction at 2 p.m. in the Construction Technology Shop on the school's main campus at the northeast edge of Norfolk, where students constructed the three-bedroom house during the past year.

This fourth house built inside the shop, which has airplane-hangar doors, was completely redesigned this year by the college's architectural drafting department. The size, 28 x 50 feet, has been increased by 100 square feet to a total of 1,400 square feet.

New features include a larger living room with a woodburning fireplace featuring hearth, mantle and wood trim to the ceiling of finished ash and oak, which is also used in the cabinetry and trim throughout the house.

Helping construct the house have been Vaughn Glassmeyer, Wayne; Russ Johnson and Merle Kaulman, both of Wakefield, and Tom Anderson, Laurel. Anderson is a freshman at the school; the other three are seniors.

The Wayne (Nebr.) Herald, Thursday, May 15, 1975.

Under 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act, retail, service or agricultural employees may employ up to four full-time students at 85 per cent of the federal minimum wage by filing an application with the Secretary of Labor.

Too Little for the Job

A WHEELBARROW seems out of place amidst piles and piles of debris and rubbish cleaned up following the tornado which tore through the Chester Marotz farmstead Tuesday afternoon. The tornado ripped much of the roof off the barn in the background, stripped trees and damaged the Marotz home, out of the picture at the right. It also damaged other buildings and killed several head of livestock. Severely damaged in the storm were other farmsteads in the southwest part of Wayne County.

This and That...
from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

DON C. SPITZ

WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Shortage
There is a real shortage of college-trained graduates in agriculture. Some schools have had to close their vocational agriculture program because no teachers were available. Those interested in the two-year NU School of Technical Agriculture at Curtis must be at least 16 years old and have a high school diploma. For the college level, it is recommended that high school students concentrate on three units of mathematics, particularly algebra, and four units of English. Math is stressed due to the business and technology end of agriculture.

Costs vary according to the institution. Officials quote the tuition and room and board costs at Curtis as $430 a quarter, while NU will cost around $900 a semester. It is recommended that students figure on around $2,000 cost for one year, including room and board, books, tuition and fees.

Minimum Tillage Pays
Because more and more Wayne County farmers are trying minimum tillage, I'd like to report on the results of a national survey. This survey indicated the following advantages of minimum till over a system using the moldboard. Each time a farmer plows, one inch of water is lost in the western Corn Belt-Cropping Area. NU soil engineers generally advise against plowing in favor of some type of minimum till plan. Minimum till is time saving for the farmer, an especially important factor in Nebraska because of the cold, wet spring season. Minimum till keeps a trash cover on the soil and prevents soil losses, especially sheet erosion which can occur this time of year with spring rains on plowed ground.

Saves Fuel
Fuel savings have been proven under various types of minimum tillage systems when compared to conventional tillage (plowing, possible disking, harrowing, planting and cultivating). Diesel fuel requirements average 3.5 gallons per acre under conventional tillage, 1.1 gallons per acre under the Nebraska-developed minimum till system and 2-gallon-per-acre-sol planting in which seed is dropped in a slit cut in native grass, and further growth of the original vegetation is controlled by chemicals.

One ironic development of the energy crisis stems from the fact that reduced automobile and airline traffic could — if continued — have an advantageous affect on the environmental-din which has been rising in recent years, officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation note.

Tip: Treat Chemicals With Caution

Lawn and garden bug and weed killers usually are not very poisonous, but they must be handled with respect to prevent illness and irritation. Fertilizer also can irritate skin and breathing the dust is unpleasant. Here are safety precautions: Read the labels on all pesticides before using and follow directions to the letter. If there is a question, consult your dealer or extension office or experienced friend. Mix sprays outdoors, being careful not to spill chemicals on the ground or grass in areas used by family members and pets. Choose calm days to spray or dust to avoid drift or mist. Blow back at you. Steer clear of adjacent vegetables which will soon be harvested. Wear rubber or plastic gloves and good skin cover (long-sleeved shirt, full length pants and a cap). For added protection, use goggles and a filter respirator. Store pesticides in original containers and in a cabinet or room which can be locked. Never store them near human or animal foods, cereal boxes, cake tins or other containers associated with food and drink. Put away pesticide containers immediately after use. Thoroughly rinse spraying equipment. When handling fertilizer, wear rubber or plastic gloves or use a barrier cream to avoid skin irritation and dryness. Don't buy fertilizer in large bags unless you are husky enough to handle them without strain.

BRYAN REINHARDT
Wayne Resident Is $25 Richer

A 27-year-old Wayne man, Bryan Reinhardt, won $25 in last week's Birthday Bucks drawing in Wayne, missing the $425 grand prize by two weeks. Reinhardt was at Wayne Book Store at 8:15 p.m. last Thursday when the winning date of April 6, 1975, was announced in all stores participating in the weekly drawings. His birthday is March 23, 1953. Since there was no grand prize winner last week, the top prize in the drawing scheduled for tonight (Thursday) is worth $450 two steps away from the $500 ceiling. Birthday Bucks awarded in the weekly drawings may be spent just like cash in any participating business. No registrations or purchases are required to be eligible for the weekly drawings, but a person must be present in a participating business when the winning date is announced to win either the top prize or the consolation gift.

Demonstrations were given by Cheryl and Sheila Koch on livestock nutrients and by Colette Kraemer on rules of a bicycle. Refreshments were served by Joni, Kevin, Colette and Kelly Kraemer. The June 4 meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Northeast Station, Concord. Lori Von Minden, news reporter. Southern forests and woodlots produce 67 per cent of pulpwood cut in the United States, 30 per cent of the plywood, and 30 per cent of the timber, National Geographic says.

A National Posture Week message presented in the public interest by...

THINK STRAIGHT AND FEEL GREAT

Posture is an acquired habit. When you are conscious of how you're standing... when you think straight... your posture is bound to improve. And good posture does as much for your health as it does for your appearance. When you do nice things for your body, it does nice things for you. Think straight.

TO KEEP THEM STANDING STRAIGHT MAKE THESE SIMPLE POSTURE CHECKS

1. SHOULDER CHECK

Have child stand straight. Both shoulders should be level. One shoulder high is an indication of problems.

2. HEM CHECK

Check a daughter's skirt hem to see if it hangs crooked—or if every new skirt purchased has to be altered on just one side.

3. BENDING CHECK

Have child bend straight forward from the waist, head level with the back and arms hanging relaxed to the floor. Check on either side of the spine to see if the muscles "bulge" up (one sign of scoliosis—curvature of the spine).

4. SHOE CHECK

Children wear out shoes in a hurry. This is expected. But if one shoe wears out well ahead of the other—especially if the wear is centered on the edge of the shoe—the possibility of spinal problems exists.

If any of these problems are present, a professional examination is recommended.
