

Trend in Construction Appears to Be Toward Home Building

By JIM STRAYER

The value of new buildings under construction in Wayne during the first seven months of 1975 is considerably less than for the same period for 1974, according to records of building permits supplied by city clerk Bruce Mordhorst.

Permits were issued for 10 new buildings from Jan. 1 to July 29 of this year, with a combined estimated value of $224,125. Permits were issued for 13 new buildings during the same period in 1974. Total estimated value was $467,414.

A major portion of the 1974 total, $310,000, involved only two projects, buildings for Logan Valley Implement and Emphasis Inc.

The absence of major construction projects was noted by Karl-Otto, partner in Otto Construction, dealing mainly on commercial and industrial buildings.

"I don't know of anything coming up with a big dollar volume," Otto said. "Home building is about the same as last year but there isn't much else except remodeling.

Mordhorst's figures support Otto's observations. Of 10 permits for new buildings issued so far in 1975, eight have been for new homes. Only five permits for new home building were issued during the same period in 1974.

The value of nine remodeling projects recorded for the 1974 period was $28,603. So far this year, eight remodeling permits have been issued with an estimated combined value of $23,370. One permit for building an addition, valued at $8,500 has been issued this year. None were recorded during the same period in 1974.

Bob Vakoc, partner in Vakoc Construction, primarily home buildings, said construction has picked up this year. Demand is strong now and the company has had to turn away some "rush orders," Vakoc said.

The slowdown last year in home building was a consumer reaction to higher prices, Vakoc said. "Now that the economy is looking up, people are going ahead and buying."

Bob Carhart, Carhart Lumber Company, said the sale of building material isn't quite as good as it was a year ago, reflecting the apparent overall trend toward a slow down, but more material is being sold for residential construction.

"Material costs began dropping last year, finally hitting a low point in January and February," Carhart said. Prices have moved up slightly since then but not to the maximum levels of last year.

Carhart said he believes the increased activity in home building reflects greater availability of financing, better interest rates and the public's acceptance of higher interest.

"People are realizing that the value of the commodity—money—has increased," Carhart said.

Betty Addison, Wayne Federal Savings and Loan Association, said there has been an increase in new building loans since 1974 and the real estate market in general has been twice as active.

Wayne to Get Taxi For 90 Day Tryout

Wayne will have taxi service, at least for 90 days, beginning about Sept. 1 as the result of action taken by the city council Tuesday night.

Dave Bernhardt, who completed his term as an administrative intern with the close of the council meeting, presented a proposal, he had developed to use the city's reserve amount as a municipally operated taxi.

Under terms set by the council, the taxi will probably begin operation Sept. 1, depending on the effective date of a state statute authorizing such operations. Service would be limited to within the city, including the airport, with rates set at 50 cents for regular fair and 25 cents for users over the age of 62.

Records kept during the 90 day pilot program will be used to determine if it is practical to continue the operation, possibly as a private enterprise, if a prospective operator can be found.

The council approved the transferring of property to the airport authority but a question arose over the transference of some $8,000 in the airport fund. Apparently $7,000 was transferred to the airport fund from the electric fund in 1970. Legality of the transaction was questioned because of the possibility that is violated a bonding ordinance. The council voted to transfer "all but $7,000" in the airport fund to the airport authority, pending review of the ordinance.

Action was deferred on a proposed increase in electrical rates. The council is awaiting further information concerning a contract to be offered by the Nebraska Public Power District whereby Wayne would purchase electrical power.

Councilman John Vakoc said he had compared his June power bill for the cost of 1,900 kilowatt hours with the comparable NPPD cost. According to Vakoc, cost of the locally generated power is 35 per cent higher.

Vakoc also said he had determined that his monthly bill of $43.82, was $8 less than it should have been. The council instructed city clerk Bruce Mordhorst to run a random check of 20 per cent of monthly electrical bills. See COUNCIL, page 9

Spitze Expects Increase In Fair Livestock Totals

An overall increase in livestock numbers should be evident at the Wayne County Fair this year if pre-entry registrations are any indication.

Wayne County agent Don Spitze said the number of 4-H pre-entry requests are up for all livestock classes this year.

The biggest jump is in sheep entries, totaling 66, up 38 per cent over last year. Dairy entries show the second biggest increase, up 31 per cent with a total of 67.

are brought into the county for sale to 4-H growers. Recent successes at various dairy shows has stirred increase in interest in dairy projects, he said.

A new class at this year's fair, pens of three market heaves, will be shown on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 10. Spitze said to pens have been preregistered so far.

Recovering from a decline last year, swine entries now total 116 head, an increase of 17 per cent.

Market beef and breeding heifer registrations are up 15 per cent with a total of 77. The smallest gain so far is shown in horse entries, up 10 per cent with 35 entries.

Chamber Board Wants Hearing On Road Plan

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce board of directors voted Monday to draft a letter recommending that city administrator Fred Brink request a public hearing in Wayne regarding proposed improvements to highway 15.

The proposal includes widening the road north of Wayne and adding a third access lane in front of six homes located just south of Red Carr Implement.

Wiltse said the board feels money would be better spent for additional access lanes on highway 35 east from Wayne toward the airport. "That is the direction commercial and industrial development is going," Wiltse explained. "That's where any increase in traffic will be."

The North Dakota based children's theater troupe was organized in 1971 and has performed in over 200 communities in North and South Dakota. It will visit nine North Central states this summer.

The stories from different countries are presented through the use of acting, pantomime, music, puppets and creative dramatics. The players will present their show on a portable stage so that children can sit close to the stage and become involved in the action of the stories.

Today will be the only Wayne performance for the troupe sponsored by the Wayne County Mrs. Jaycees.

Allen Man Injured In Car-Cycle Crash

A 70-year-old rural Allen man remained hospitalized Tuesday following a car motorcycle crash about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Gary Lanser, who suffered a head concussion, broken hand and ribs and extensive leg cuts, was driving a motorcycle on a Dixon County road about one and a half miles southeast of Allen when his cycle and a car driven by Duane Mitchell collided.

According to the Dixon County sheriff's office, the motorcycle struck the left front corner of Mitchell's car. Both drivers were rushed to the Wakefield Health Care Center by the Allen-Martingburg rescue unit. Mitchell, 20, also of rural Allen, wasn't injured.

Appointments Announced by WSC

Administrative appointments necessitated by the recent structural reorganization at Wayne State College were among those approved by members of the Nebraska State College Board of Trustees at their Friday meeting.

Wakefield Driver Hurt In Accident

Mrs. Cheryl Krusemark, 26, of rural Wakefield, received a sprained shoulder as a result of a one-car accident about 1:45 Saturday afternoon, according to the Wayne County sheriff's office.

The report stated Mrs. Krusemark was traveling west on a county road southeast of Wayne when the car she was driving met a windrow just over the crest of a hill. She and the driver of the windrow, Erwin Botzger of rural Wakefield, both swerved to the right and avoided collision.

The car hit some debris and Mrs. Krusemark lost control. The vehicle traveled to the bottom of the hill and rolled on its top in the ditch on the north side of the road.

Mrs. Krusemark was taken to the Wakefield Health Care Center where she was treated for injuries and released. Her two children were not injured. The automobile was reported as a total loss.

Pair of Japanese 'Neighbors' Meet at Wakefield Farm Visit

Ted Carlson and Kimihiro Ishizuka live 15 minutes apart by train in Japan but the two first met Monday night on a farm near Wakefield.

Ishizuka arrived at the Northeast Station Saturday morning with a contingent of 10 Japanese students who are staying with Dixon County families for three weeks as part of a cultural exchange program.

Carlson is a Wakefield native who teaches English in a Japanese women's university. Ishizuka's hosts, the Lloyd Roebler family invited Carlson to their home Monday night when they learned he was visiting his sister Evangeline and her husband, Carl Bard, of Wayne.

A 1948 graduate of Wakefield High School, Carlson first went to Asia in 1963 with "Christian Missions in Many Lands. After working in Malaysia, Thailand and Hong Kong, his group arrived in Japan in 1964, distributing Christian literature at the Olympic games held that year.

Carlson now lives in Urawa City, north of Tokyo. During conversation Monday, Carlson and Ishizuka discovered that their homes are fairly close.

"I don't own a car because the public transportation in Japan is so good," Carlson. "Everyone figures distance by how many minutes it takes to travel on the train. Kimi (an Americanized nickname given Ishizuka by the Roebler family) and I figure we are about 15 minutes apart." Carlson said he has met other Japanese exchange students during past visits to Wayne and Dixon Counties but their homes were usually so distant to maintain close contact. He and Kimi plan to visit each other after they return to Japan.

Kimi, 15, is the oldest of the 10 students staying with Dixon County families. He is a first year student in middle school, a three year equivalent to junior high. His father works for a See NEIGHBORS, page 9

The Wayne County Jaycees will serve at a free watermelon feed following the flag raising.

Northwestern Plans to Expand Base Rate Area

Northwestern Bell Telephone Company is hoping to expand its Wayne base rate area to include industrial sites on the east of town and the new Providence Hospital.

M.D. Smith, manager of the company's Wayne office, explained that the base rate area now conforms roughly to the city limits. Customers outside the area must pay a mileage charge, about 35 cents per one-eighth of a mile, for one- or two-party service.

No mileage rate is charged for eight-party service outside the base rate area, Smith said.

The industrial area east of town isn't included in the base rate area now," Smith said. "We wanted to include it, to make the area more attractive." He said the expansion of service would also include the new hospital building and some homes near the Wayne County fairgrounds.

Protest to the proposed expansion must be filed with the Nebraska Public Service Commission by Aug. 25.

Pender Clinic Starts Visiting Nurse Program

In an effort to provide better health care and cut the cost of medical care, the Pender Clinic P.C. has instituted a visiting nurse program.

Mrs. Gwen McGhee of Allen, R.N., will be available to call in the homes of patients where services can be rendered which would have otherwise required a visit to the office, longer has vital stay or nursing home care.

Mrs. McGhee said the program will include making maternity calls after a new baby has been brought home and taking blood samples of diabetic patients for testing, practices which formerly required a visit to the doctor's office.

"The visiting nurse does not substitute for the doctor," said Mrs. McGhee, "but instead gives nursing care, certain routine laboratory test and other services that would have required a visit to the office, longer hospital stay or nursing home care."

Persons interested in the service should ask their doctor about it during their next clinic visit or call Mrs. McGhee.

A Good Place to Be

YOUNG READERS found the public library a good place to spend a hot summer afternoon. About 40 youngsters attended the summer reading club closing party Monday afternoon and received treats as a conclusion to the two-month program. Looking over the awards they received for completing the program, above from left, are Kristy Dohrman, Amy Jordan, Ann Sorenson and Paula Koplin. At right, young Penny Parge gets ready to sink her teeth into a cool ice cream treat. Sixty children were enrolled in the program this year according to Kathleen Tooker, librarian. Of those 60, 40 completed at least 15 books, qualifying them each for a paperback book. Theme for this year's program was "Giant Giraffe." Student helpers were Jennifer Johnson, Joanne Wacker, Susan Jacobmeier and Renee Milligan. Many readers completed and reported on more than 15 books, receiving a new paperback to keep for each 15 they checked out and read. A total of 950 books were read and reported on. The top three readers were Paula Koplin, 50 books; Lori Sorenson, 48, and Penny Parge, 47. Top reader in grades one through three was Paula Koplin and top reader in grades four through six was Mike Keck, who read 75 books. Others who completed the program were Jennifer Breitkreutz, Kristy Dohrman, Kurt Fritz, Dean Furbush, Danny Gross, Francine Gross, Amy Gross, Vier Johar, Jassi Johar, Blaine Johs, Amy Jordan, Steven Keck, Jeff Keidel, Don Larson, Peter March, Lisa McDermott, Janice Mills, Ken Mills, Christy Neisius, Craig Neisius, Marcia Nelson, Carla Otte, Colleen Otte, Julie Otte, Stephanie Peters, Chuck Peters, Lisa Potts, Julie Potts, Valerie Rahn, Teresa Rother, Shelli Schroeder, Rebecca Schmidt, Ann Sorenson, Andrea Tooker, Julie Weiner and David Zahmsner.

Courtesy Coffee Given Saturday

A courtesy coffee honoring Mary Preston of Wakefield was held Saturday afternoon in the Marvin Victor home at Wakefield. Co-hostess was Mrs. Rolfie Lange of Wayne.

Miss Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Preston, and Scott Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Nelson, all of Wakefield, will be married this weekend at the Wakefield Presbyterian Church.

The 22 guests who attended Saturday's coffee, introduced themselves by reading a recipe which they presented to the honoree. Each guest embroidered their name on a patchwork quilt block which they will later piece together and tie for the bride-elect. The bridegroom's mother received a prize for having the longest name to embroider. Prizes in pencil games were won by Mrs. Dick Wacker, Mrs. Henry Wacker and Mrs. Harvey Larsen, all of Wayne.

Corsages were presented to Miss Preston, the bridegroom's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Willis Nelson and Mrs. Henry Wacker, and the bridegroom's sister, Barrie Nelson.

Decorations were in light green and apricot, colors chosen by Miss Preston for her wedding. Barrie Nelson served punch and Mrs. Willis Nelson poured.

Foundation Picks Local Chairmen

Mrs. Donald Kliver of Allen and Mrs. Richard Janssen of Carroll have been named local chairmen for the 1975 Breath of Life campaign to light children's lung disease.

The announcement was made by James R. Demman, DDS, president of the Nebraska chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The newly appointed chairmen will lead local volunteers in raising funds during September, Cystic Fibrosis Month, to support the research and care for children affected by cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and other lung damaging diseases.

Cystic fibrosis, an incurable genetic disease, is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for cystic fibrosis. It is believed that one in 20 persons in the U.S. may carry the CF gene, usually without knowing it because of improved therapy and constant research.

Many cystic fibrosis patients are living beyond infancy and into their teens and young adulthood.

200 at Festival

Hubbard Midgets Knock Allen Out of Playoffs

Hubbard exploded for five runs in the fifth with two away. The visitors took advantage of a double and two Allen miscues for five runs to jump into the lead.

Allen finishes the season with a 9-4 record.

Hubbard Midgets Sunday night knocked Allen out of the semi-finals of the seven-team Northeast Nebraska Little League post-season playoffs with an upsetting 6-2 victory at Ponca.

Allen, which collected only four hits, left 10 players stranded on base, including having the bags loaded in third, fifth and seventh frames.

Twice Allen had the bases loaded in the fifth, but scored Shortstop Paul Mallette, who came home on Overin's hit singled in his first time off the plate, then stole second and third.

Center fielder Gordie Cook notched the Legion's second run after walking, taking second on a passed ball and dashing home on a sacrifice by winning pitcher Dave Hix. After stealing second and going to third on the lead baseman Dave Nuss' single, Overin scored on a wild pitch.

Wayne added its final three in the seventh off a single and two Hartington errors.

Sandwiched in between the first and seventh frames, the Legion scored single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings on three singles. Catcher Mike Meyer singled in Cook who earlier doubled; Overin drove in left fielder Jack Froehlich who had walked, and first baseman Bob Keating picked up an RBI when he scored Nuss who had doubled.

Hix, who gave up only two hits, struck out 10 Hartington players before he exited the game in the bottom of the sixth.

With the bases loaded, Hix walked in Hartington's second run of the night, forcing coach Hank Overin to call on Mallette to take over. Mallette finished with four strikeouts.

Hartington scored one run in the opening frame when second baseman Jody Kathol singled, advanced on a sacrifice by center fielder Collin Becker and scored on a Wayne error.

Pete Tipton started on the mound for Hartington, giving up eight hits before teammate Joel Ankeny took over in the fifth inning.

In the club's first meeting Sunday night, the locals breezed past Hartington, 14-2.

Overin again carried the hot

bat with a two-run home run in the six-run sixth inning that all but locked up Wayne's second victory in the five-team district meet.

Mallette, who returned to action after suffering a head cut in the base collision with first baseman Bob Keating Friday night against Wynot, struck out seven Hartington batters. Hix replaced him in the sixth and struck out four. Both gave up a total of three hits.

Wayne pounded out eight hits, including a pair of singles by Meyer in four at bats.

In other action Sunday night, Wynot eliminated the Wakefield Legion from the double elimination tourney with a narrow, 2-1 victory.

Wakefield had a 1-0 lead after the "first frame" when Shortstop Mike Soderberg singled, stole second, advanced on a sacrifice by second baseman Tim Rouse and scored on an error by Wynot first baseman Tim Brunning.

The winners evened the match in the bottom of the third with a run by third baseman Dave Hans. In the fifth, Wynot took the lead when Hans who has walked scored on a Wakefield error.

Monday night Hartington blanked Wynot 4-0 to advance to the finals.

Allen Edges Above .500

Allen Martinsburg edged above the 500 mark in North east Nebraska Baseball League play Sunday night with a 7-0 blanking of Decatur.

Now holding a 3-2 mark in the second half league standings, Allen scored seven runs off seven hits behind the strong hitting of catcher Lee Schupit and pitcher Jeff Mahrt. Both had two hits.

Mahrt, recruited from Sioux City last week, blasted a single in the fifth and the game's longest hit—a run scoring triple in the three run seventh inning.

Shortstop Gary Troth led off the sixth with a walk. Two strikeouts later he scored on right fielder Dave Diediker's double. Mahrt's three bagger drove in Diediker before Mahrt scored on second baseman Loren Book's single.

Schupit, who doubled in the third, ripped a single in the two run ninth frame. He stole home after Decatur walked two to advance Schupit to third. Tim Hill, who was Allen's first player to walk that frame, scored on first baseman Steve Diediker's one bagger.

Tonight (Thursday) Allen hosts Ponca.

Time to Spruce Up

ABOUT 85 volunteers helped Monday to ready the Wayne County Fairgrounds for the four day annual event that is scheduled to start next week. The cleanup project involved sweeping out many of the 4-H building, mowing grass and an overall spruce up, according to fair board secretary Marilyn Koch. Koch hopes the same number if not more volunteers will show up for the post-fair cleanup, which will be on Aug. 11.

Authorized Brink to advertise that space now housing city offices will be available for rental after offices are moved to the old Wayne hospital building. Brink had informed the council that an inquiry had been received about the possibility of renting the space for a beautician's shop.

Passed a resolution to seek an attorney's opinion concerning the legality of Wayne County contributing $7,000 toward an ambulance for the new Providence Hospital. Budd Bornhoff, attorney for both the city and county, had issued an opinion in behalf of the county that the previously committed financing would not be legal. —Heard Brink's report that the city had been advised, its insurance policy does not cover damage caused by an explosion in the light plant.

Turned down a request by Doug Finn for a moving permit. —Directed Bornhoff to rework proposed ordinances concerning delinquent payment of electric, water and sewer bills. Action on the subject was tabled until the next meeting.

Passed an ordinance outlining advanced publication of the council agenda in order to conform with a new state statute.

Spitze: People Have Misconceptions About 4-H

Many people have the misconception that the primary aim of 4-H clubs is to serve as vocational educational programs, said Wayne County Agent Don Spitze.

"Our primary objective isn't just to train boys about livestock raising and girls about cooking, but to help develop (character) boys and girls," he told Wayne Kiwanians Monday.

Another misconception people have is that 4-H membership is for rural youths only. Spitze said about 20 per cent of club members in Wayne County live in towns. In Nebraska, he went on, about 50 per cent of 4-H members live in town.

Spitze pointed out that about 40 per cent of 4-H youths are involved in livestock projects. The experience will pay off especially when many 4-H'ers enter their livestock in the Wayne County Fair, scheduled to start next week, he added.

The 4-H livestock sale will undergo some changes this year, he said. Instead of the annual sale being limited to market beef, the sale will be open to sheep and hogs, he said.

New this year will be the market beef sale which will be during the fair instead of several weeks after the fair. Also new will be the bonus action that will allow exhibitors to retain ownership of their animals.

Spitze said the auction is designed to allow businessmen to bid on the base price on an animal after the packer has established a base price.

The price given by a packer doesn't mean the packer necessarily will buy the animal, the agent noted. The purpose of the base price is to give the bidder an idea of the current market price.

Federal pay incentives questioned

By Richard L. Leshér, president United States Chamber of Commerce

When asked to describe "the single-most serious deficiency" in the U.S. Postal Service, Senator Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) replied: "The main problem is that the Postmaster General does not have his own money invested in it."

What the Senator meant, of course, is that any management becomes much more concerned about cost control and efficiency when it has a direct financial incentive to do so. And therein might lie a clue to better control of the federal budget.

In private industry, a manager gains fame and success by contributing to an increase in profits. There are many paths to that objective, but they all amount, in one way or another, to increasing efficiency; that is, to serving the customer better at a lower relative cost.

In a bureaucracy, though, the incentives are entirely different. The importance of a bureaucrat is measured by the size of the budget he commands, and by the rate of its growth. Congress contributes to this order of precedence in the federal government by using the size of appropriations as an indication of its degree of concern for hot national problems.

Now, highly motivated, capable people will seek to advance by the rules of the game they are playing. And there are a lot of good people in the federal bureaucracy. So, it is only natural that they should strive mightily to increase — not reduce — their budgets. As long as that is the best route to higher pay and promotion, how can we expect them to behave otherwise?

All of which brings me to the topic of the federal pay scale. Whether it should be increased, decreased, juggled or left alone is the subject of much debate in Washington these days.

Average pay for a worker in the private sector in 1973 was $8,900 a year. Average pay for a federal civil servant at that time was $12,984. While that sounds as though the government worker is overpaid, defenders of the system point out that the mix of federal jobs is not the same as that in the private sector.

On the other hand, critics of the system say that while federal pay has been raised to make it "comparable" to pay in certain private-sector jobs, federal fringe benefits are considerably better than those available elsewhere, making the total package favor the civil service.

And another across-the-board civil service pay raise is in the offing, with debate centering on whether it should be

5 per cent, as the President proposes, or 8.66 per cent, as advocated by the Civil Service Commission and the Office of Management and Budget; or something else.

Meanwhile, the salary at the top levels of the civil service has been frozen, for a variety of reasons, at $36,000 for the last five years.

Personally, I suspect that the average American taxpayer thinks the civil service pay scale looks pretty generous already. And yet, I'm sure most people would agree that what any individual civil servant makes, within reason, is less important than the total cost of the system. Which is what started me thinking about incentives.

Right now, those people stuck at the $36,000 ceiling can't have much of an incentive of any kind. But just giving them a straight raise will perpetuate the old system, where more people get more money by hiring more people to spend more money.

Well, aren't we smart enough to devise some system whereby the pay of the top civil servants, at least, is determined in part by their ability to increase output on the same budget, or maintain output on a lower budget? It might pay to give it some thought.

Controversy over school plumbing

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — Standards against which Nebraska's elementary schools will be judged for state approval have been adopted by the State Board of Education.

The standards, known formally as Rule 14 in the State Department of Education, go into effect immediately, but the department won't cite any school districts for violations this coming school year.

Citations will be made next year, but districts which don't comply will go on probation for another year.

So, it would be three years before any penalties are levied against school districts which fail to meet the standards.

Under the statutes, schools which don't meet basic approval standards aren't eligible to receive state financial allotments.

The standards cover a wide area of subjects — library holding, teacher-pupil ratios and textbook vintage are examples.

But the item which caused the most discussion during the State Board of Education meeting dealt with running water and flush toilets.

Marilyn Fowler, a board member from Lexington, said she didn't understand how some districts could resist the directive that school houses have indoor plumbing. She said it didn't seem like much to do at a time when Russian and American spacemen were shaking hands.

"I just cannot feel that we're such a backward state that we could think of sanctioning almost primitive conditions for our children," Mrs. Fowler said.

Complaints about the requirement came, basically, from the schools in the northwestern corner of the state where water is difficult to find, she was told. Mrs. Fowler said the school should be moved to where there is water, then.

Willard Waldo of DeWitt, the chairman of the board, said he had sympathy with the complaints because water sometimes is difficult to find in the southeast corner of the state, too.

"Running water doesn't mean a better life or better health," Waldo said. "Maybe some things are more important to those people than running water."

Mrs. Fowler said she thought it was basic.

The standard was left as it was after Waldo was told there are provisions for hardship cases. School districts which find any of the standards unreasonable in their situations may appeal to the board for special consideration.

Although there was concern about the water by some school officials and a few other points were raised during hearings conducted across the state, the standards met general acceptance, the State Department of Education staff said.

The staff told the board it is the intention to work with schools to help them meet the standards, not to use the standards as a weapon to eliminate rural schools.

which now are exercising the option — Omaha, Lincoln and Bellevue — and cities which don't want to lose a potential source of additional revenue.

The three cities which now piggy-back a 1 per cent municipal tax on the state's 2.5 per cent tax have said they intend to do everything they can to keep the taxing authority. They say they would "fill" or exceed property tax ceilings if they had to make up the lost sales tax revenues through the property taxes.

Duis says, however, that the sales and income taxes ought to be state sources of revenue. By letting cities levy a one per cent sales tax, the state is, in effect, limiting its use of that revenue source because any increase in the state portion of the tax rate hits purchasers in Omaha, Lincoln, Bellevue and any other city to adopt the sales tax harder.

While a 2.5 per cent state sales tax might be politically acceptable statewide, for example, it would be a 4.5 per cent tax in cities with the local tax.

Duis, one of the sponsors of the state school aid bill in the 1975 Legislature, said the effect on sales taxes in the three cities was one reason that bill couldn't be passed over a veto.

City Tax Questioned

Efforts are expected during the 1976 Legislature to repeal the city sales tax option.

Senator Herb Duis of Gothenburg says such an attempt "very definitely" will be made.

But the chances of success will depend upon the fight put up by the three cities

PSC Studying Change

The Nebraska Public Service Commission is studying a request from the state's railroads for permission to double the allowable shrinkage in grain shipments.

The railroads now are allowed losses of one-eighth of one per cent in transit. They want a one-fourth of one per cent allowance.

FRIDAY — Remember your life is to be a singing life. Colossians 3:14. Singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

SATURDAY — We sigh, and look back, Jesus sighed, and looked up. Mark 7:34. Looking up to heaven He sighed.

SUNDAY — Choose a Church and Attend. The less real religion a church has, the more buzzards and "entertainment" it takes to keep it running. Luke 19:46. And my house shall be a church of prayer.

MONDAY — Home is a place where we are treated best and grumblers most. Psalm 127:3. Unless the Lord builds the house, they labor in vain who build it.

TUESDAY — Some people pray and talk cream, but live skimmed milk. Colossians 1:10. So that you may walk in a manner worthy of the Lord.

WEDNESDAY — At a church meeting everyone was asked to write down their denomination. One man wrote, Baptist.

"I thought you were a Presbyterian," said one.

"I am, but I didn't know how to spell Presbyterian."

"Well, why didn't you just write a 'P'?" I thought about it, but I was afraid everybody would think I was Presbyterian.

OBSERVATIONS

Good time to check earnings

Social Security will be 40 years old in August. The Social Security Act became law on Aug. 14, 1935.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt called it "a law which will give some measure of protection to the average citizen and to his family against... poverty-stricken old age."

That prophecy has been questioned in recent years. As the birth rate decreases and the nation's population growth declines, many persons are asking how Social Security can continue to function when the ratio between retired and working age people is closing.

The adequacy of the system has also been questioned as many retirees count

Have you even wanted to be a volunteer fireman or a member of the ambulance or rescue squads? You should know that the life is not as exciting as movies and television might make it appear.

When the fire whistle blows, Ogallala, Brule, Paxton, Arthur or other fire department members respond, day or night, Sunday or holidays, summer or winter, worn out or relaxed.

Having a call for help come in during the winter on a cold night in Nebraska we are ready to call "Wildfire" or something. We turn over in bed and go back to sleep, realizing the firemen cannot do that.

We are warned to stay off the highways because of hazardous conditions. Some people do go out — rescue and ambulance personnel. Why? Because they are needed.

In all cases the firemen and rescue or ambulance squad members serve without pay. They do a job that has to be done, often in the face of danger from weather elements or from fire.

But that is not even a fraction of what firemen and rescue or ambulance squad members do. They go out more often on pretty routine calls that often just interrupt their day's activities or cause them to change plans for relaxing with the family at the lake.

Now we are down to the basic fact — answering calls is not all that is required of them. They have to take training to be qualified to use the equipment and do the work that is expected of them. They must attend meetings and take instruction, devoting their own time and energy.

Dedicated men and women belong to the rescue or ambulance squads and at the police departments of this area. They would have to be dedicated to devote so much time to serving others, especially knowing that the job they do is a job that not everyone can do and not all of those capable of doing it are willing to do.

That is the main point: They are willing! Thank goodness for them. What would we do without these volunteers who serve so much and get so little credit and no pay? We do not ever want to find out.

While they may never battle flames in a towering inferno, they are still firemen who have dedicated time and energy to becoming qualified to do a job and do it well. They may not be called out for a major disaster but the rescue squad and ambulance squad get calls to serve in places where to a few individuals there is a major disaster... and when something happens to you or your family it is major.

We are glad these volunteers do not refuse to go because they have already put in a full day's work or because it is a holiday. They are too fine a bunch for that... and we are truly grateful for each one of them! — From the Keith County News, July 24, 1975.

A Wayne woman, Mrs. Kathleen Frevert, won the $25 consolation prize in the weekly Birthday Bucks drawing which is sponsored by participating local businesses.

Mrs. Frevert, whose birthday falls on Oct. 15, 1937, was at Fredrickson Oil Co. when the winning date of Aug. 14, 1975 was announced. Had her birthday fallen on the winning date picked at random, she would have won the $500 grand prize.

The weekly drawings are open to all local and area residents. No purchases or registrations are required, but a person must be in one of the stores making the drawings possible, to win either the grand or consolation prize.

If the top prize goes unclaimed tonight (Thursday) at 8:15, it will remain at that level until somebody does win it. Each week there is no winner, a $25 consolation prize is awarded.

The Birthday Bucks given weekly winners may be spent just like cash in any of the stores making the drawings possible.

Sorensen to Head Swine Agency

Dick Sorensen of Wayne was elected to head the Nebraska Specific Pathogen Free Swine (SPF) accrediting agency at the annual George A. Young Conference, in Lincoln July 21-22.

Nebraska has the largest agency among the 21 states enrolled. Serving with Sorensen will be Max Gemar, Suttton, vice president; Gerald Royal, Palmyra, treasurer and Tom Socha, Lincoln, secretary-manager.

Continuing on the board of directors will be Lloyd Eberle, Bradshaw and Brian Riddell, Oakland. Jim Volk of Battle Creek was elected as a new director and Willard Waldo of DeWitt will continue as Nebraska's representative to the national organization.

The national SPF organization also met and elected officers at the conference. Newly elected national officers are Don Heinrich, Noblesville, Ind. president; Kent Frerichs, Wilmont, S.D., vice-president and Merle Cox, Conrad, Ia., executive secretary.

Pork producers in SPF raise swine that must meet specific health requirements and performance testing standards. The Nebraska SPF program began in 1958 and now has 60 herds enrolled.

Wayne, Dixon County 4-H'ers Planning Bicentennial Theme

You don't have to go to the history books to learn about the skills, life styles and handicrafts of Nebraska's pioneer families. Just plan to visit the 4-H exhibits at county fairs across the state this summer.

Bicentennial projects and exhibits in food and nutrition, home living and clothing are involving 4-H'ers in some of the skills and practices of their pioneer ancestors.

Fairgoers in Wayne and Dixon Counties will be able to view some of the 4-H exhibits that will carry a Bicentennial flavor, according to the Wayne County extension officials.

Booths with various Bicentennial displays will be on review during Wayne County Fair on Aug. 7, 10, and at Dixon County Fair on Aug. 18-20.

Elaine Skucius, associate state 4-H leader, said, "The Bicentennial exhibits provide an excellent opportunity for youth to gain an awareness and a real appreciation of our pioneer heritage. By developing these exhibits, 4-H'ers are finding they can actually learn some of the skills used by pioneer families."

In one of the food and nutrition Bicentennial exhibits, the 4-H'er plans a dinner menu suitable for a pioneer family. The foods in the menu must be those commonly used when Nebraska was first being settled. The 4-H'er must include the approximate time it would take to prepare the foods and also have a grocery list for the food items. The budget for the menu is $3.54.

The 4-H'er may also develop a poster, display or thought exhibit that emphasizes food in pioneer days. The exhibit could include dried or baked food, pioneer equipment used in food preparation, as well as an explanation that shows the relationship of the exhibit to pioneer living.

In the home living area of Bicentennial exhibits 4-H'ers practice some of the skills used in the heritage arts. Exhibits will include textile articles made by quilting, patchwork, applique, needle point and bobbin lace.

The 4-H exhibitor also has the choice of making articles using other techniques from the historic past such as rose maling, tole painting, rush seat weaving and chair caning.

Bicentennial influence will also be seen in many of the 4-H clothing exhibits at county fairs. In this area, the 4-H exhibitor makes a complete wearable garment that is reminiscent of the past. Along with the garment, the exhibitor must also include an explanation of the historical significance of the garment.

Many of these historical garments will also be modeled in style revues at county fairs and at the Nebraska State Fair. In this case, the garment modeled may be made by the exhibitor or it can be an actual historical costume.

Keeping the Hogs Cool

Here are some suggestions to help keep hogs cool during hot weather.

—Cool the hogs with a mist spray of one or two gallons of water per hour in sheds or in the shade. Fogger hoses work well for this purpose, especially in sheds with slotted floors.

—Outside, provide sanitary hog wallows. Large tubs of water that can easily be emptied and refilled for cleanliness.

—Erect shades consisting of six to eight inches of straw piled on wire about five feet above the ground.

—Paint the outsides of sheds white to reflect heat and the undersides, or insides, black to absorb heat. This may make a difference of 15 degrees in temperature inside.

—If hogs must be moved, move them at night or in cooler weather. For moving them in the heat of the day, use moist sand (not straw) for bedding and water. The hogs down and check them at least every hour.

—Circulate air in farrowing units.

There are good reasons why hogs overheat. When temperatures reach 100 degrees, hogs must breathe 20 times faster to get the same cooling effect as they get when temperatures are 80 degrees. This is because a hog loses 75 to 80 per cent of its excess body heat through the lungs, by cooling the body surface and movement of air. When air temperatures rise the lungs must work harder because the cooling effect of air movement and body radiation is reduced.

If internal heat builds faster in the hog than it can be thrown off, the hog becomes overheated and dies unless it's cooled down immediately.

Black Lights

Black light insect traps won't insure insect-free living. These insect traps are claimed to operate electronically by emitting ultraviolet, blue, green and white rays that attract flying insects.

A wire grid located around the light bulb is charged with an electric current that electrocutes most of the insects coming in contact with it.

According to tests, these types of traps do attract and kill some flying insects but they do not eliminate them.

Greenbugs

This is the time that greenbugs and corn leaf aphids show up on milo. The corn leaf aphids usually don't cause any trouble, but the greenbugs will.

If the aphids are bluish green, have black heads and black legs, they are corn leaf aphids. With good growing conditions, it doesn't pay to control the corn leaf aphids.

On the other hand, if the aphids are green, have green heads and legs, they are greenbugs and should be watched for evidence of causing stress on plants. When the lower two leaves on milo are drying on plants six to eight inches tall, or more than two lower leaves on large plants are growing, control likely will be profitable.

About mid July a small parasite plays an important role in greenbug control. It lays an egg on the greenbugs causing them to die. When about 20 per cent of the greenbugs are parasitized, the problem is usually solved by the parasites, and controls should not be applied.

Steps Suggested In Preventing Chemical Drift

Banvel drift symptoms are showing up on soybeans again this year. Applications made in late June and early July during high temperatures increased the problem, according to John Furrer, extension agronomist at the University of Nebraska Lincoln.

Drift damage has been observed considerable distances from the point of application. However, reports of damage are less frequent than in 1974.

Soybean injury symptoms from Banvel (dicamba) show up as puckering or crinkling of the soybean leaflets. Leaflets "cup" upward. It is apparent on newly emerged leaves seven to 10 days following drift.

Banvel on the corn leaf is converted to a volatile form. Furrer said it becomes airborne in corn fields on hot, stress type days. The chemical vapors move up and over the corn canopy to soybean and other sensitive crops. The chemical is taken up by leaves and etchings become apparent when new growth appears.

The manufacturer suggests several steps to avoid Banvel drift on soybeans.

Use coarse sprays with 20 gallons or more of water per acre applied at a pressure below 20 psi for conventional application.

Spray with the nozzles as close to the weeds as practical for good coverage. Use drop nozzles when corn is over eight inches tall.

Do not apply Banvel to field corn when soybeans are more than 10 inches tall.

Do not apply Banvel if the daily temperature is expected to be over 85 degrees Fahrenheit.

Apply Banvel when there is some air movement, but wind is less than five mph. If any wind over five mph is blowing in the direction of sensitive crops, do not spray.

Drop in Agriculture Exports Predicted for Coming Year

Although the value of U.S. agricultural exports is expected to reach a record high in fiscal 1975, economists predict a sharp decline for 1976.

Everett Peterson, University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension economist, said the latest issue of Foreign Agricultural Trade of the United States predicts 1975 farm exports will total $22 billion despite the recent drop in world prices.

But that mark could dip to about $18 billion in fiscal 1976, he said, due to slow recovery from the recession in developed countries, expected gains in world production, and reduced export earnings because of the sharp drop in raw material prices. Peterson said this will offset a possible increase of 10 per cent in overall export volume.

There continues to be many uncertainties involved in the fiscal 1976 forecast, however, Peterson said. The prediction assumes improved prospects for world crops not yet planted and because world grain stocks are low, prices are extremely sensitive to change, he said.

Also, many developing countries are adjusting their economies to the huge rise in petroleum prices, the decline in foreign exchange prices and the slump in demand for semi-manufactured products in world markets.

For fiscal 1976, Peterson said, agricultural imports may fall to less than $9 billion, lowest since 1973. This compares to an expected $9.7 billion this year. Agriculture's contribution to the U.S. trade balance in 1975 is expected to be more than $12 billion, a record.

Increases over last year in U.S. agricultural exports to developed nations occurred in western and southern Asia, where their value has more than doubled, Peterson said.

Overall, U.S. agricultural exports to developed countries will remain about the same as last year. He said exports to non-OPEC developing nations are expected to rise 13 per cent in fiscal 1975 compared to 1974.

Exports to OPEC countries probably will increase 70 per cent over 1974's total.

Drop Reported In Feed Stocks

Nebraska feed grain stocks (oats, barley and grain sorghum) in all positions totaled 35 million tons on July 1, according to Doug Murfield, state statistician of the State Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

This was 33 per cent less than last year and the lowest feed grain stocks in Nebraska for this date since 1952.

Feed grains stored on farms were 30 per cent below July 1, 1974 and accounted for 72 per cent of total feed grain tonnage compared with 69 per cent a year ago. Corn accounted for 83 per cent of the total feed grain stocks compared with 79 per cent last year.

Utilization of feed grains this past quarter, at 2.9 million tons, was down 50 per cent from 1974 and was the lowest since 1969.

Farm exports are off sharply to China, Russia and eastern European countries, he said.

On the world level, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that production prospects for 1975 appear much more favorable than a year ago.

It said record production of wheat and coarse grain should increase reserve stocks. Rice prospects appear improved and beef and pork supplies are large and herd numbers are growing, the report said. A slackening in world sugar demand is driving down prices and cotton prices have climbed slightly in the last few weeks, it said.

Three Sizes — One Pattern
Now a better fit, or maybe even a perfect fit, can be achieved by the woman who sews for herself. Some of the leading pattern companies are offering three sizes on one pattern. Such patterns are planned either for the woman who is a perfect size, or for those whose figure is a combination of two or three sizes.

Research shows that about 80 per cent of all women are not perfect sizes and therefore alterations are needed to achieve a good fit when sewing garments. By using one of these new "three size" patterns the home-maker can plan her alterations and cut the garment for a better fit.

Each pattern piece will have three cutting lines. For a one-size figure the appropriate cutting line would be followed on each pattern piece. A larger or smaller size cutting line can be followed where a woman's size is larger or smaller, such as at the bust, waist or hips. You can even cut between the lines for in-between size figures. Complete instructions are included in pattern envelopes.

When buying the pattern, the home-sewer selects the size combination best suited to her measurements. Size combinations are 6 8 10, 8 10 12, 10 12 14, etc.

Yardage should be purchased for the largest size a woman will use within the size range on the pattern.

Laurel Resident Selected As 'Outstanding Woman'

Mrs. Carol Mae Heitman of Laurel has been named as one of 6,000 Outstanding Young Women of America.

The Outstanding Young Women of America Program was initiated by the nation's major women's clubs. The announcement was made by the national board of advisers, which selects the award winners.

This fall, a woman will be selected as the Outstanding Young Woman for each state and the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Heitman was nominated for the award by the Laurel Tuesday Club. A member for three years, she was elected in September to a two-year term as treasurer.

Selection for the award is based on community, business and professional activities. Since moving to Laurel from Wayne in 1971, Mrs. Heitman has been active in several organizations. She has worked with the Cub Scouts of Pack 176 as a den mother for three years. Her son, Troy, 8, is a Cub Scout and Todd, 11, is now a Boy Scout.

A member of the Laurel United Methodist Church, Mrs. Heitman is chairman of the local church activities committee, treasurer of the evening circle group. She and her husband, Roger, are members of the adult fellowship group.

As a member of the Laurel Park Improvement Committee, Mrs. Heitman has helped raise $6,000 needed to match a $24,000 federal park improvement grant. She said Monday the matching funds have been raised and the committee is waiting for final approval on projects including a new shelter house, new rest rooms and playground equipment.

Mrs. Heitman's business activities include keeping books for her husband's business, Laurel Welding and for Feed Automation and Confinement Systems in Laurel. She also assisted with several activities during her husband's tenure as Laurel Chamber of Commerce president.

By Rowan Wiltse

"When man learns to understand and control his own behavior as well as he understands and controls the behavior of crop plants and domestic animals, he may be justified in believing that he has become civilized."

Elvin C. Stakman

If no more work had been done on controlling the behavior of crop plants and domestic animals than has been done for humans, we would all be continuously hungry. Man's behavior is unpredictable because it is not fully understood why nor how we may react to various situations. This may be for the best. If everyone's behavior was controlled and predictable, what a dull world it would be!
