Suggestions Are Offered For Added Fun at Fair

Visitors of 4-H exhibits at the Wayne County Fair, starting Thursday, will be able to see some new and unique activities if they want to look for them according to county agent Don Spitzke.

Livestock exhibit cards will contain a box showing the animal's rate of gain, designated in pounds per day.

Rate of gain has long been a factor in market beef competition in Wayne County and gain records are now part of Ak-Sar-Ben and state fair market contests, Spitzke said. As far as he knows, Wayne is the only county in which rate of gain records are required for sheep and breeding heifer competition.

Rate of gain has a considerable bearing on the profit of market projects and one thing 4-H tries to do is teach kids how to raise livestock profitably," Spitzke explained. "Rapid gain is an inheritable trait and that's why we feel it is important in breeding programs."

Exhibit cards will also list each animal's breeder. "Breeding is important to program success and we want to give credit to people doing a good job. We would eventually like to see a majority of the animals exhibited, bred by Wayne County breeders or 4-H'ers."

Ribbons displayed at livestock stalls are easily lost, Spitzke said, so a sticker the same color as the ribbon awarded will be attached to each card.

Judging may be a little easier for the audience to understand, thanks to another innovation at this year's fair. An explanation

For Grain Loss Program to Pay

The 1975 feed grain and wheat disaster program provides for payments for low yields due to natural causes, Ray Butts, Executive Director of the Wayne County ASCS reports that due to the recent hot dry weather in the area, some producers will probably be eligible for low yield disaster payments.

Farms that have feed grain or wheat allotments can be eligible for payments if their entire feed grain and wheat production is substantially below normal. Butts said a farm would be eligible for payment if the entire production is less than half of what they could normally raise on their allotment.

Producers suffering a loss and deciding not to carry part or all of the crop through to harvest must request an ASCS appraisal before making any other use of the crop. If the crop is to be harvested, the producer must present production evidence such as warehouse receipts or sales receipts.

If the crop is stored on the farm it will be measured by ASCS reporters. If the crop is not going to be accumulated, or will be stored in a hi-moisture bin, it must be appraised, Butts said.

Producers who feel they may be eligible for payment should make application at the ASCS office and check the program provisions. An accurate certification of crop acreages will be required when the application is made, Butts emphasized.

of what judges look for in an animal will be printed on the back of show programs. Members of the Teen Supremes 4-H leadership program will distribute the program.

Spitzke also suggested that fairs go might have fun if they toured barns prior to livestock shows and watch youngsters preparing the animals. "A lot of preparation is required to groom an animal for a show and it might be interesting to see how it's done."

Clubs will be in competition this year for a trophy to be given the organization which keeps its pen area the cleanest. A similar competition will be held for clubs with booths in the 4-H building.

Bus Companies Want Increase

The Nebraska Public Service Commission has received an application for an increase in rates, filed by the National Bus Traffic Association, Inc.

The application seeks a 10 per cent increase in passenger fares for several bus lines operating in Nebraska, including Arrow Stage Lines, Inc., which serves Wayne.

A second application asks for authority to increase express rates, varying from 25 to 45 per cent.

Persons wishing to express their views on either of the two applications must do so prior to Aug. 22.

Allen to Review Budget Tonight

Allen's town board tonight (Monday) will study a proposed $71,000 budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year during its monthly meeting at 8 o'clock at the village meeting room.

If members okay the budget, village residents may expect a five and a half mill levy drop from last year's levy of 35.5 mill.

Reason for the drop, explained one village official, is the retirement of pavings bonds.

CLINT NELSON and Mark Shuffelt, members of Boy Scout 174, prepare to run up the colors, including the Bicentennial flag given to Wayne Thursday night.

Wayne Rainfall Total Is 2.06

Over two inches of rain fell in the Wayne area Thursday and Friday, providing some relief for crops put under stress by hot, dry winds through most of July.

According to the weather service office in Norfolk, 1.34 inches of rain fell on Wayne overnight Thursday. Friday night precipitation was .72 inch, for a two-day total of 2.06 inches.

Pilger got a real soaker overnight Friday, 2.61 inches according to the weather service report. Wakefield received 4.60 inches of rain Friday.

Area Students On Dean's List

Jay Williams of Wayne was among 294 students included on the second semester dean's list, just released by the College of Engineering and Technology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Williams is a sophomore studying civil engineering. David Witt of Winside and Kenneth Breikreutz of Wisner were also included on the list. Witt is a senior on construction management. Breikreutz, a sophomore, is studying electrical engineering.

A grade point average of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale is required to qualify for the dean's list.

Error Found in Electric Bills

Wayne city councilmen were notified Thursday that the city has probably lost from $2,000 to $3,000 over the past 19 months, due to a malfunction in the machine which computes electric power bills.

John Vakoc informed his fellow councilmen Tuesday night that he was undercharged $8 on his July bill. The council instructed city clerk Bruce Mordhorst to check the billing machine.

Mordhorst said a check of July bills revealed a program billing error for rate R-2, residential customers with electric water heaters.

The error occurred when usage exceeded 800 kilowatts in one month, Mordhorst said. The correct rate is 2.75 cents per kilowatt used over 800. The machine was billing from 2 to 2.25 cents per kilowatt when usage exceeded the 800 mark.

Only about 100 people fall in the R-2 classification and most consumers exceed the 800 kilowatt a month mark only during peak usage periods in the summer or winter, Mordhorst said.

All bills for July were checked except for one of 10 billing districts which was computed after the error was discovered and the machine was correctly programmed.

Mordhorst said 44 customers were undercharged in July, for a total loss of $244.37. Errors ranged from nine cents on a bill for 810 kilowatts to $13 for a customer using 3,747 kilowatts. He emphasized that all errors found were in favor of the customer.

The machine was reprogrammed in December, 1973, the last time city electric rates were increased, Mordhorst said the program has probably been incorrect since then and estimated the total loss to the city at between $2,000 and $3,000.

Each month, 10 per cent of the electric bills are checked through a random sampling process. However, the error rate was only about 3 per cent, Mordhorst said, based on total See BILLS, page 8

1975 Crop Loan Rates Announced

Commodity Credit Corporation recently announced the loan rates for 1975 crop grains, Ray Butts, executive director of the Wayne County ASCS, said that loans are available to all producers this year. Compliance with USDA programs is not a requirement for loan eligibility.

The loan rates for 1975 crop grains are: barley — $8.50; corn — $3.08; grain sorghum — $1.72; oats — $5.54; rye — $8.40; and wheat — $14.31.

The current interest rate on CCC loans is 6.125 per cent a year. Butts explained that the interest rate can change on Oct. 1 and Apr. 1 of each year. CCC reviews their borrowing costs every six months and adjust loan rates to reflect any changes in their costs.

To receive a farm stored loan, a producer must come in to the ASCS office and certify the amount of grain he has in the bins he wants loans on. The loan will usually be made on the spot, Butts said. Warehouse loans can be made by bringing in the warehouse receipt from an approved warehouse.

A Hoskins man was involved in a motorcycle-pickup fatality accident Thursday afternoon on Highway 13, about a mile east of Hadar.

Stephen Grothe, 23, was driving a pickup when his vehicle collided head on with a cycle operated by Eugene Yantzie, 24, of rural Norfolk.

Damage 'Light' In Belly Landing

No one was injured in a wheels up landing at the Wayne Airport Thursday morning, according to airport manager Al Robinson.

Robinson said Dean Krueger of Omaha landed a Cessna 310 twin engine aircraft at 9:15 Thursday morning, apparently forgetting to lower the landing gear. Neither Krueger nor the one passenger aboard were injured.

The plane slid on the grass Robinson said. He termed damage to the aircraft as light, confined mainly to the propellers and radio antennae.

Help Needed To Locate Missing Dog

Nine-year-old Jill Mosley of Wayne may have to undergo a series of painful rabie shots if a dog which bit her isn't found by Tuesday.

The dog, described as about 14 inches tall with brown and black long hair, bit the Mosley girl on the nose while she was playing in Bressler Park about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Wayne police, the dog had a red collar and was pulling a chain leash, possibly two chain leashes linked together.

Anyone who might have seen the dog is asked to contact the city police, said sergeant Ron Penlick.

"We don't want to arrest anyone, just get the dog into custody so perhaps the girl won't have to undergo the shots," he pointed out.

A reward is being offered by Jill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mosley, for information leading to the location of the dog.

'Over-65 Growth Is Boon to County's Economy'

Wayne County's over-65 population is growing in importance — numerically, economically and politically.

The latest figures show that this age group has been one of the fastest growing and that its influence at the polls and in the market place has been increasing proportionately.

About one out of every eight persons, locally, is now 65 or older.

Nationally, there are now more than 22 million men and women in that age bracket. They represent 10 per cent of the total population. In Wayne County, they represent 12.2 per cent.

For many of them, income is the No. 1 problem. Initiating during the past few years, has made it difficult for people on small fixed incomes to make both ends meet. All in all, about 17 per cent of those over 65 cannot get along without public assistance, according to the Department of Commerce.

The bulk, on the other hand, are managing satisfactorily on their own. Many of them have income from one or more sources — social security, pensions, interest, dividends, annuities and, frequently, from wages.

About one out of every five are in the labor force. Their earnings account for a third of all the income of older people.

In Wayne County, the latest government figures show, 43.7 per cent of the men over 65 and 13.8 per cent of the women are in the labor force. Most of them hold part-time jobs.

Although the median income of families in the over-65 category is only around $6,500, it adds up to an impressive $70 billion or so in the aggregate.

That is money that gets spent promptly for food, housing, household operations, medicines, clothing and the like.

The size of this spending power has led industrial firms to cater to their special tastes and wants, devising products to suit them.

Politically, too, their influence has become strong, not only because of their number, but because most of them go to the polls on election day. About 70 per cent of persons over 65 vote, a far greater proportion than in any other group.

They have been raising their voices in Washington, lately, seeking a better national health program and the right to earn more than $2,520 a year without loss of social security benefits.

Guest editorial: Who should control Beef Board?

Discussions and maneuvering going on in the House of Representatives relative to the beef commodity checkoff bill illustrate clearly why farm producers should have referendum rights in any checkoff legislation.

The House Agriculture Committee recently voted 11 to 7 to add an amendment to H. R. 7656, the livestock checkoff bill, to require that the Secretary of Agriculture conduct a referendum of cattle producers before issuing any orders implementing the checkoff program if the legislation is approved. The amendment calls for votes to be cast by at least 50 per cent of the cattle producers who would be registered with the Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service in person or by mail to vote in such a referendum during a period ending not less than 10 days prior to the date of the referendum. Two-thirds of the producers voting in the referendum would have to approve the checkoff program.

Subsequently, however, Rep. Frederick Richmond of New York took the committee he had intended to offer an amendment to the bill to provide that 50 per cent of the membership of the Beef Board be made up of consumers or representatives of consumer organizations. He requested that the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee hold up the bill and give him the opportunity to offer his consumer amendment. The committee rejected Richmond's request.

This isn't suddenly something new. When hearings were held on beef checkoff legislation back in April, Carol Foreman of Consumer Federation of America, said in a printed statement that retail beef prices were too high and that a beef promotion program would add to consumer costs. She charged that the "consumer education" portion of the bill amounted to slick advertising and sales promotion.

She was quoted as follows: "The bill's definition of consumers education as 'any single action to advance the image or desirability of beef' is an insult to the consumer's intelligence. In its present design the bill serves merely to perpetuate existing misinformation at the expense of both the cattle producers and the consumer." She insisted that membership on the board include consumer representation.

The implications are clear. The consumer interests don't want a checkoff program that will promote the sale and consumption of beef, and they will try to head off this bill unless the Beef Board is loaded with consumers, not beef producers.

Cattle producers who will be paying the costs of the entire program through a checkoff system on every head they sell would hardly stand over to turning the Beef Board hitched to the consumer groups. Any commodity checkoff program is for one purpose...to provide money for research and promotion of a specific commodity. Otherwise, why have a checkoff program at all? Unless producers of a commodity control their own program, then they will be wasting their time, effort and money.

The referendum provision in H. R. 7656 must remain there. Only in that way can producers be sure that consumer-oriented members of Congress do not usurp their checkoff funds on behalf of other interests. If this happens, by referendum the producers can vote to discontinue the program without dependence on any further action by the Congress. — by M. M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

THE FEDERAL Energy Administration said in their "Energy Reporter" newsletter that we could be in for a shortage of natural gas this winter.

Curtailments for the coming winter are estimated to be in the 15-20 per cent range, compared to an 8.10 per cent shortage last year.

Curtailments have already shut down industrial plants in some state, according to the report. Natural gas is also an essential feedstock in the manufacturing of petrochemicals and fertilizer.

FAIRTIME is just around the corner for Wayne County. Across the county, 4-H'ers are grooming livestock including swine, sheep, beef and dairy cattle and horses for the big event.

Some of their southern brethren have taken to exhibiting another type of critter, according to an article in the August Argosy magazine.

It seems the latest craze in show animals south of the Mason Dixon line is the possum. Prize possums are groomed and exhibited at shows the same way Nebraskans prepare less exotic livestock. Bloodlines are registered and purebred possums are valuable. The price tags on national grand champion animals run in five digit figures.

KAY HAS been bugging me to trim up a little and I suppose she's right but she went too far last weekend when we visited our parents in Fairbury.

A Sunday picnic was topped off with home cranked ice cream. I got the first dish and immediately noticed that something was missing. It tasted flat. It took some questioning but she finally admitted she had forgotten to put in the sugar. Would you believe homemade diet ice cream?

TAXI SERVICE is returning to Wayne around the first of September. The city will operate the service for a 90 day trial period. There's no way of telling how successful the program will be; but it is certainly worth the effort to find out.

Prices seem reasonable. — 50 cents regular fare and 25 cents for users over 62. Details concerning scheduling and a definite starting date will be announced soon.

SOME MORNINGS it just doesn't pay to get up early. I came to work early last week, had been at the typewriter for a few minutes — and found myself in the dark.

Some folks, I know, would say that shouldn't be a handicap, they think I've been in the dark for a long time. But, take my word for it, it's hard to write a story when you can't see your notes.

The lights came on again and I proceeded with my labor. Things still weren't going as smoothly as I thought they should so I decided what I needed was a cup of coffee.

Mistake Number Two. I Measured some instant coffee into the cup, put a dime in the machine and pressed down the handle for hot water. Remember those old commercials about "a-cup-and-a-half"? I got the whole pot.

When I let up on the handle, the water kept pouring out. My first instinct was to grab the trash can to catch the excess flow. That idea quickly lost its appeal as I formed visions of myself standing there bawling when the rest of the crew came in at the still distant normal opening time.

Remembering the power outage a short time before, I was inspired to unplug the machine. The unwelcome flow stopped. The experience shot my composure and I didn't get much done until everyone else arrived. Like I said, some mornings, it just doesn't pay to get up early.

OBSERVATIONS

Nuclear increase welcomed

The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) has received approval from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to increase the generating output of its Cooper Nuclear Station near Brownville.

Output is expected to jump from 50 per cent of generating capability to 60 per cent, for a total output of approximately 460,000 kilowatts.

The increase is good news for NPPD customers. Nuclear power costs about 1.5 mills per kilowatt to produce, compared to costs as high as 22 mills per kilowatt for generation involving use of fossil fuels.

Added costs of power production are passed directly to users. The increased nuclear generation will lower overall production cost for NPPD and lower the added cost passed to customers, including the Wayne County Public Power District.

Production at the plant was cut back by the NRC on April 26 following the discovery of vibrations in the reactors instrumentation tubes. According to NPPD spokesmen, the tube vibrations do not affect the safety of the plant and General Electric, manufacturer of the plant's reactor, has designed mechanical fixtures to solve the problem.

The opportunity of replacing expensive, fuel generated power with increasingly cheap nuclear will become relatively important as fossil fuels become more precious.

As yet, we aren't close to finding practical alternatives to petroleum fuels for some applications, such as powering automobiles and farm equipment. We need to use fuel substitutes where application is now practical.

Nuclear generation of electricity is one such application available now. Development has been slowed by safety and environmental concerns. Such concerns are important but should be kept within limits of realistic necessity. Hydroelectric generation capacity is limited, the tapping of solar and geothermal energy for commercial power production lies in the future. Nuclear energy is viable as a replacement for fossil fuels now. — Jim Strayer

Two Victories Would Even Tankers' Record

Victories this week could even Wayne's swim team record a 4-4 if the tankers get past Wasua and West Point.

Wednesday night at 6 o'clock Wayne is slated to host Wasua and Saturday the locals again are moe against West Point. That meet is scheduled for 10 a.m.

Paced by its undefeated diving team and four double winners, Wayne won its second dual with a 339-130 decision over Elgin on July 23.

Nine divers making up that portion of the team are Ken Daniels, Tracy Stoltenberg, Peg Pinkelman, Lesa Barclay, Cindy Lindner, Jeremy Edmunds, Jeff Edmunds, Jay Stoltenberg and Sue Proett.

Leading Wayne in the swimming events were Nuss, Barclay Lavonna Sharpe and Tracy Stoltenberg, each with two wins. Nuss won the back and breaststroke in the senior division; Barclay in 15-17 butterfly and freestyle; Sharpe in 13-14 backstroke and freestyle, and Stoltenberg in 11-12 butterfly and freestyle.

If your boat should capsize, remain with it. The floating hull is much easier to locate than a swimming person, and the shore is often much further away than it appears.

Victories Could Put Allen Club in Post-Season Race

Long-shot Allen-Marlinsburg could figure to be a contender in the post-season playoffs in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League pending the outcome of their last two outings.

Sunday night the area club was slated to host Dakota City and Thursday-travel to Pender. Victories would give Allen a final 8-9 mark and increase the chances of a three-way tie for fourth place if Wayne and Pender teams lose their final two contests.

Thursday night, Allen chalked up its second straight win with a 6-3 decision over Ponca.

Winning pitcher Neil Blohm rapped a two-run homer in the opening frame before Allen struck in the seventh with four more runs.

Ponca tied the match at two-all with single runs in the third and frames. In the top of the seventh, the visitors scored another run for a 3-2 advantage.

With one out and the bases loaded in the seventh, second baseman Kevin Hill walked and Blohm went to first when he was hit by a pitched ball to score two Allen runs. Catcher Lee Schupp then doubled in a pair of runs.

Blohm fanned 12 Ponca batters. He also finished as the team's top hitter with a homer and a single in three at bats.

Hansen Gets Starting Nod

Barring any injuries, Wayne High's entry into this year's annual North-South Shrine All-Star football game will be among players in the starting lineup.

North coach Larry Jacobsen of Omaha Burke announced last week the Marty Hansen will start at the split end position when the North squad faces the South this Saturday, Aug. 9, at 2 p.m. at the University of Nebraska Lincoln Memorial Stadium.

Hansen and Dan Steiner of Columbus, Soutas are the only two players from Northeast Nebraska to get a starting offensive assignment.

Homers by Paul, Saul Lead Wayne Past Pender

Home runs by catcher Denny Paul and pitcher Roger Saul Thursday night guided Wayne to a 7-1 victory over Pender and gave the locals a fighting chance to possibly win a berth in the four team post-season playoff in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League.

Paul blasted a two-run circuit hit over the left fence in the second frame for Wayne's 2-0 lead and Saul connected for a solo shot in the fourth for a 4-0 command. Wayne had scored one run to the third frame.

The win boosted Wayne's record to 8-7 and tied Pender for fourth in overall league standings. After Sunday's games — Wayne at Homer and Pender at Weaclar — both clubs, will wrap up the season on Thursday with Wayne at Newcastle and Allen-Marlinsburg at Pender.

Wayne finished with a total of 10 hits against Pender's 10. Third baseman Terry Lutz, first baseman Fritz Weible and Paul each had two hits. All three collected their final hit in the two-run eighth.

Lutz opened the frame with a single and scored on Weible's triple. A single by Paul drove in Weible for a 7-0 Wayne lead. Wayne had scored a run in the sixth when Lutz was safe on an outfield error and later scored. Pender stopped Saul's shutout hopes in the top of the ninth when shortstop Larry Gerch walked and scored on center fielder Randy Olson's single.

Saul finished with 14 strikeouts.

WSC President Views Space Launch

The second opportunity to watch a space launch came to Wayne State president Lyle Seymour when he saw the Apollo-Soyuz takeoff at Kennedy Space Center July 15.

A couple of years ago he witnessed Skylab II heading for orbit. On both occasions he was invited by former classmate and Wayne resident Ray B. Larson, vice president of Rockwell International Corp. and manager of its command and service module programs.

Larson, whose father was railroad depot agent in Wayne, attended Wayne State for two years in the early 1940's, when Seymour was also a student. Larson went on to graduate from the Naval Academy, later took engineering courses at the University of Southern California and California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Seymour, among other Rockwell guests, arrived three days before the launch and learned about the forthcoming U.S.-Russian space link-up in extensive briefings by Rockwell personnel. By chance, the WSC president encountered Alan Shepard on the Saturday before Tuesday's launch and spent some time talking with the Apollo astronaut.

Dr. Seymour recalled that he had little chance to visit with friend Larson — for good reason. As chief of Rockwell's space hardware operations, Larson had plenty to do in advance of the launch. Then immediately after Apollo rocketed into space, he and other key managers flew to NASA's space center at Houston, Tex., which took command of the mission shortly after takeoff.

For the spectator, how did the Apollo launch compare with Skylab II? Seymour said the Skylab I rocket which lifted Apollo was less powerful than the Saturn V which hurled much heavier Skylab into space. Still there was the same "rumble and vibration" and "the same fascination for spectators."

Several hundred invited guests — including the Seymours — watched three miles from the launch site. But thousands of spectators congregated for miles around on Cape Canaveral, and there were hundreds of boaters off the coast. Except being farther, they had excellent view of the spectacle.

Dr. Seymour is scheduled to talk to Kiwanis Club today (Monday), recounting details of his second safari to a space launch.

Soybean Committed To Meet on Aug. 15

The first meeting of Nebraska's newly-appointed Soybean Development, Utilization and Marketing Committee has been scheduled for Friday, Aug. 15, at the department of agriculture office in Lincoln.

Members of the committee appointed by Gov. J. James Exon, are: Elmer Block of Roca, district 4, three-year term; Edwin Damkroger of Beatrice, district 5, three-year term; Kurt Blankmeyer of Dakota City, district 1, two-year term; Carl Gangwisch Jr. of Shelton, district 6, two-year term; John Lueschen of Wisner, district 2, one-year term; and Ralph Raikes of Ashland, district 3, one-year term.

When terms of the original committee members expire, all appointments will be made for three-year terms.

At the Aug. 15th organization meeting the six governor-appointed members will elect a seventh member, who will serve at-large.

The committee will administer the collection and allocation of funds under Nebraska's newly enacted soybean checkoff program. It is expected that the collection of checkoff funds for research and market development activities will get underway this fall.

Part of the money may be used to help develop new soybean markets in the Midwest, according to Eugene Glock of Rising City, president of the Nebraska Soybean Association. Expanding poultry production in the Midwest, along with rising petroleum exports, make the area an excellent potential market for U.S. soybeans, he said.

Jim Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Chapman of Carroll, returned home on July 11 from Germany where he was stationed with the United States Army. Chapman received his discharge after three years of service.
