The program emphasized fundamentals of political organization and the election process. Volunteers from seven counties attended the day long event with sessions presented including precinct organization, voter registration, fund raising and special balloting processes.

In addition to Thone, other Republican dignitaries included Mrs. Pat Smith, national committee woman, and Lloyd Herbener, Republican state executive secretary.

All classes except kindergarten will be on a shortened basis that first day. Haun noted, and no hot lunches will be served.

Wayne High students are to meet in the high school lecture hall at 8:50 a.m. Sept. 2 for discussion of a variety of subjects.

Classes will run for the following time periods: 9:33-9:47, 9:50-10:04, 10:07-10:21, 10:24-10:38, 10:41-10:55, 10:58-11:12 and 11:15-11:30. School will be dismissed at 11:30 and busses will begin taking students home at 11:40 said Haun.

Balloon Days Will Offer Kids a Lofty Experience

Stores taking part in Balloon Days are also giving out free tickets for the balloon ride. Dr. Richard Jaworski of Blair is the owner and pilot of "Euphoria," more commonly known as the Big Red Balloon because of its appearances at University of Nebraska Lincoln football games.

The giant, ripstop nylon bag is 60 feet tall and 50 feet in diameter and is lifted by 56,500 cubic feet of air heated by a propane burner.

The balloon weighs only 500 pounds but has a lifting capacity of 1,400 pounds. Gibson's manager, Dennis Townsend said Jaworski will be able to take about five or six children aloft at once if weather permits. High winds would ground the balloon, Townsend said.

Jaworski, a nuclear engineer, is licensed by the Federal Aeronautics Administration (FAA) as a hot air balloon pilot. All flights must comply with FAA regulations.

Jaworski has reached all 48 states.

Laurel Calf Sale To Be Saturday

The fourth annual Laurel 4-H calf sale will be held Saturday in the city baseball park.

The evening sale and afternoon judging contest are open to members of 4-H beef clubs in Dixon and Cedar Counties. Entrants must have already shown their animals at a county fair.

Registration begins at 10 a.m. Saturday morning at the Laurel Sales Co. and closes at 11 a.m.

The beef judging contest will begin at 1 p.m. in the city park. A barbecue, costing $1.50 per person, will also be held in the city park, beginning at 6 p.m. The calf auction will start at 8 p.m. in the baseball park.

School superintendent Francis Haun said Monday that a representative of the Lincoln architect firm retained by the board will present a revised plan for the track facility. Estimated cost of building the track, based on the initial plan, would have been about $280,000. The board rejected the proposal at that meeting at being too expensive.

About $53,000 of that amount would have been incurred by extensive earth moving entailed in locating the track and football field slightly north of the present practice field. The board had directed that the new plans be drawn which would eliminate much of the earth moving.

If the new plan is approved, Thursday, the board will probably consider advertising for construction bids, Haun said.

Social Security Man Schedules Wayne Visit

Mike Zeorlin of Norfolk Social Security Office will be at the Wayne senior citizen center Tuesday morning from 9 to 11.

Anyone not able to get to the center can call him at 375-1400 and he will usually be able to make a visit in the home.

Zeorlin said persons who don't have a birth certificate can obtain one by contacting the state Bureau of Vital Statistics at the Capitol Building in Lincoln. Birth records have been kept there since 1905. Zeorlin said a birth certificate is required when applying for Social Security payments.

Archbishop Will Dedicate Providence Medical Center

Archbishop Daniel Sheehan of the Omaha Diocese will give the address at dedication ceremonies for the Providence Medical Center, Sunday afternoon in Wayne.

The American flag will be raised over the $1.6 million hospital at 1:30, followed by an invocation, given by Rev. Robert Haas, president of the Wayne Ministerial Association.

Mrs. Richard Keidel, president of the Wayne Hospital Foundation, will welcome guests. Speakers will include Wayne Mayor Freeman Decker; Wayne State College president Dr. Lyle Seymour; Dr. Robert Benthack, chief of staff at the medical center; and Mother Imelda Koch, representing the Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk, who will operate the hospital.

Archbishop Sheehan will then make the keynote address and will bless the hospital, following the formal ribbon-cutting ceremony.

An open house will follow, until 5:30 p.m., including guided tours of the hospital plant, and refreshments.

The Sunday ceremonies will represent the completion of an extended effort to provide a medical center to replace the old Wayne Hospital building, built in 1942.

The Wayne Hospital Foundation was formed in 1961 to deal with the problem of continuing medical care. It was realized early in the 1970's that a new medical center would be needed. An effort to form a hospital district with taxing authority was abandoned early in 1971 when objections were raised at a public hearing.

Later that year, the Benedictine Sister agreed to provide half the total cost of a $1 million hospital if the Wayne area would raise the remainder and agreed to allow the sisters to operate and maintain the hospital.

Land for the project was acquired when the board of trustees of the state colleges gave eight acres of land adjacent to the Wayne State College campus on the condition that the facilities be made available to students attending the school.

The initial $500,000 was raised in a few months but interviews with other communities convinced the board that additional funds would be needed and over $880,000 was eventually raised. In addition, $383,300 was obtained in federal Hill-Burton funds.

The medical center now has beds for 30 patients but adequate service facilities were provided to allow for eventual expansion to 50 beds.

THIS IS how the Providence Medical Center looks from the upper floors of Bowen Hall on the Wayne State College campus. Dedication ceremonies for the hospital are scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

When Wayne's entire police force consisted of Bill and his German shepherd (Bill didn't even have a car?)

Utility Bills Putting WSC In Money Bind

Wayne State College may have problems paying off revenue bonds for dormitory construction if it is also required to pay utility bills, according to Dr. Max Lundstrom, vice president of administration.

Lundstrom said bonds for dormitory construction were written on the basis of the annual $42,893,085 for 1975.

The decrease came in the value of personal property, which dropped from $11,629,020 in 1974 to $10,372,835 in 1975.

The drop in personal property value was caused mainly by decreased numbers of livestock and also because of a lower value per head of livestock.

The number of cattle in Wayne county dropped from 88,765 in 1974 to 79,047 in 1975. Hog numbers also took a significant plunge, from 63,281 to 50,853.

The commissioners decided to request three cars with mobile radio units, salary for three additional deputies, a base radio unit, and other equipment needed for the added manpower.

Under the system, the Wayne County sheriff's department would be responsible for law enforcement in all county municipalities except Wayne, which will retain its police force.

Council of Governments administrator Steve Martin of Norfolk said the State Crime Commission's division of communications will probably be required to first approve the requested radio gear.

The entire application will then be considered by the Region-11 25 Crime Commission, probably at their meeting early in October.

The regional body will forward the application and their recommendations to the State Crime Commission grant review committee for consideration, probably late in October. Martin said it will probably be November or December before notification is received concerning the application.

At a public budget hearing Tuesday afternoon, the commissioners approved a $1,836,600 budget for fiscal 1975-76, some $5,900 higher than the originally proposed budget.

County clerk Norris Weible said the increases were made when it was discovered that an additional $5,000 would be needed to cover cost increases in employee insurance. An additional $900 was needed to operate the district probation office.

Weible explained that the state pays salary for probation officers. The $12,900 allocated covers office and operating expenses, and most of that amount will be returned in payments from other counties in the 12 county district.

Senator Murphy Is Guest Of Wayne Kiwanis Club

"Probably the largest problem we have—and it's our own fault—is that we have far too much government."

This was the theme senator Robert Murphy declared in a talk to Kiwanis Club Monday noon. The South Sioux City, who represents the 17th district, including Wayne County, cited numerous examples of what he called governments intruding too much into citizen's lives and in the process costing too much.

He mentioned a proposed state health insurance bill which he said would cost about $55 million "and it's unbelievable what it would provide."

Murphy said there is a telephone number in Omaha which citizens can call if they need help, and they will be referred to some 400 state agency offices in Omaha.

The senator said he did not vote for—and still does not approve—the Legislature's 403 bill which requires school districts See MURPHY, page 8

Assessor: 1975 Valuation Down

The assessed value of property in Wayne County dropped $478,180 in 1975, according to County Assessor Doris Stipp.

The 1974 valuation was $43,371,265, compared to $42,893,085 for 1975.

The decrease came in the value of personal property, which dropped from $11,629,020 in 1974 to $10,372,835 in 1975.

The drop in personal property value was caused mainly by decreased numbers of livestock and also because of a lower value per head of livestock.

The number of cattle in Wayne county dropped from 88,765 in 1974 to 79,047 in 1975. Hog numbers also took a significant plunge, from 63,281 to 50,853.

Sheep dropped from 1,271 to 1085 and their value three less horses—403—assessed this year.

Wayne school district 17 had an increase in valuation, climbing from $13,810,195 to $14,321,310. Sholes district 76 had a slight increase, from $1,003,870 to $1,009,605.

Mrs. Stipp said construction, including two large manufacturing buildings, a new motel and a building housing and implement dealership, accounted for most of the increase in the Wayne district.

Winside district 9SR, Hoskins district 9 and Wakefield district 60R, all suffered decreases in valuation, reflecting the smaller livestock numbers, Mrs. Stipp said.

Owners were able to exempt, 37.5 per cent of the valuation on machinery, livestock and business inventories this year, Mrs. Stipp said. Exemptions were started three years ago at 12.5 per cent and have increased by that amount each year. The exemption next year will be 50 per cent.

A total of $268,340 in livestock and machinery was exempt this year in Wayne County, at a rate of 37.5 per cent. The 1974 total, with a 25 per cent exemption rate was $2,556,055.

The 1974 grain tax was $30,804.66, compared with $28,998.74. The grain tax is an excise tax.

Below is a breakdown of valuations, comparing 1974 to 1975:

No one is ever said to "progress downward" by falling over the side of a cliff. The climber "progresses" upward while making his way slowly toward the summit, working against gravity and a difficult terrain. When he slips he does not "make progress in a reverse direction"; he merely falls. So it is with life. All worthwhile progress involves working against obstacles and overcoming resistance to succeed where success is not easy. Our service to the families which come to us does not end with the funeral service but continues during the period of adjustment for as long as needed. The Wiltse family has stressed service to families of this area through three generations.

Reeg Keeps Hold Of Club Golf Title

Perennial champion Bob Reeg held on to his Wayne club golf title Sunday with a 27-hole total of 109.

The win marked the fourth year in a row that Reeg has taken the championship flight in the annual late summer Wayne member golf meet.

It was consistency that won again for Reeg as he shot 9-hole rounds of 36-38-35 to outdistance Jim Marsh, at 112, by three strokes.

Mark Schram looked to stop Reeg's win streak at three as Schram fired a 72 on the first 18 and led by two strokes going into the final nine.

Reeg picked up one stroke on the first four holes of the final round but then the roof fell in on Schram as he soared to an 117 on the sixth hole.

Reeg's 109 was one over par and the same score he won his first tourney title with three years ago. Last year Reeg finished at 107 and two years ago he finished two under at 106.

That Time Of Year Again

MONDAY BROUGHT the first day that football practice is allowed by Nebraska prep teams and throughout the state the story was pretty much the same as old hopefuls started their three weeks of training in preparation for the season's openers on September 5. At Wayne Carrol High School, gridders take a few laps during the opening session of drills with ten year coach All Hansen Monday afternoon.

Turkey Hunters To Start Late

Fall turkey hunters will have to wait a few days after the initial application period opens September 1 for the information sheets sent to permit vendors by the Game and Parks Commission.

The season will not be set until August 26, and it is expected to take until about September 5 before the sheets can be printed and distributed to the state's 1,200-permit vendors. The late date for setting 1975 hunting seasons is caused by the delayed schedule on the federal guidelines for waterfowl hunting.

During the first days of the application period, hunters may rely on information in the media in filling out their forms. However, the September 15 end of the initial application period should give hunters plenty of time to put in for permits after the information sheets are available.

Hunters who had fall permits last year are not eligible to apply for shotgun permits during the September 15 period, but they may put in for any remaining permits September 20-29. The archery turkey season opens October 11, and the shotgun hunts commences October 25.

Sportsbeat

By Bob Bartlett

Bob Bartlett is still on vacation this week and Dan Vodvarka is filling in for the sports beat and writing this column.

THIS HAS got to be one of the roughest weeks of the year for high school athletes.

It's bad enough that summer is about over and school is less than a week away but then football practice is thrown in. And not just once a day but twice.

Getting up early in the morning in an effort to try and get in shape and then getting back on the practice field in the evening when the August sun is at its worst can take a toll out of anybody.

But for all the strain and sore muscles, there is nothing like two day practices to build a team both physically and mentally. And the dividends on the work being done this week will begin being paid off once that first weekend of September rolls around.

Then the players find out why they are going through so many conditioning drills.

Prep football in this state has to be the most grueling sports weatherwise. The pre season training starts in the heat and humidity of summer and usually by the end of the season the temperatures are down to the 30's and sometimes there's snow thrown in for color.

Gridders are not alone of course in beginning practice this week in Nebraska high school athletics. Girls volleyball teams are organizing as are boys' cross country, tennis and girls' golf squads.

LAST WEEK it was my first opportunity to become "somewhat" involved in Nebraska Coaches' Association all-star basketball camp.

The people of Wayne who helped out with the camp and organized activities for the prep cagers should be more than proud of the welcome this community gives the North all stars each summer.

From what I heard, the players and coaches were all impressed with their stay in Wayne.

Unfortunately, the Wayne luck wore off this year as the South triumphed 109-99 last Friday in the annual prep summer cage classic in Lincoln. A defensive game it was not as both teams set all-time scoring marks for the seven-year-old cage series. The North had won the last four games in a row.

Prior to the game last week, South head coach Jim Morrison of Howells talked about the problems of putting together a team with just one week of practice. Morrison said that of course taking 12 players from 12 different teams and getting them to work together is a trick but after two or three days of three a day practices, they come around.

"After all, we have some of the best players in the state. They're all smart kids and catch on fast."

Adjusting his coaching approach was a problem, however, Morrison pointed out. "I'm used to working with teams and preparing them for an entire season. Now you're just working with them for one game and then they are gone," he pointed out.

Morrison's assistant coach was Ed Coleran of Spalding Academy. Ed is the grand old man of Nebraska prep coaching with over 40 years at Spalding Academy and a total of 61 cage wins.

That total is far and away the most wins by any Nebraska coach and may never be topped.

Talking to the two coaches about basketball last week, Coleran commented about the height of the North squad and then added, "you know I have a tall player coming back at Spalding next year and I just can't quite get him to go both ways with the ball. I wonder how I should work him in practice," the white-haired coach said.

After 61 wins and 40 years, Coleran is still looking forward to next year. That's what keeps him young and in the business.

I WAS surprised to see over 43,000 people come out to the Colts-Falcons game in Lincoln last weekend.

If that many fans show up for a game between two of the weakest teams in the National Football League, then maybe they could fill the place with an Oakland-Pittsburgh match up for example next season.

Anyway, I think the idea of trying to get a pro team with a lot of former Huskers on it isn't that good of an idea. The Colts started off with four Huskers and showed up with three as Joe Ordu was placed on waivers a couple of weeks ago. I think it's a safer bet to get two top flight teams than teams loaded with ex-Huskers.

Still the contest gave a lot of Cornhusker fans a chance to get their lungs in shape for Nebraska's string of five opening home games this fall.

All-Star Action

NORTHEAST NEBRASKA prep cage star Pete Tipton of Hartington (32) looks over the hands of Aurora's Doug Sweeney and Omaha Central's John C. Johnson in last Friday night's all-star basketball game at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln. The North squad, on which Tipton was playing, lost 109-99 to the South in the Nebraska Coaches' Association's seventh annual game. The loss snapped the North's four-game win streak in the series. Tipton finished the game with five points as he hit on five of six free throw attempts.

Just dessert: In 1971, Bob Berew of Ohio created an 830 pound sundae, containing 32 flavors and 50 pounds of chocolate fudge.

Camp Facilities To Close Sept. 2

Lodging and modern camping facilities at Nebraska state park areas will close on September 2, according to Dale Bree, assistant director of the Game and Parks Commission.

Camping facilities at Two Rivers State Recreation area will remain in operation until cold weather, since the area stays open for trout fishermen and waterfowl hunters.

The same is true of the camp ground at Louisville State Recreation Area. The modern campground will remain open as long as weather permits, and fees will continue to be collected.

Cabins at Fort Robinson State Park will reopen September 26 to October 5 and October 24 to November 7 for the firearm antelope and fall turkey seasons. Both Chadron and Fort Robinson state parks will reopen overnight facilities November 7 through 17 for the firearm deer season.

The closing of modern facilities will not affect primitive camping. State parks and recreation areas will remain open.

BODY'S LARGEST ORGAN Skin is the largest organ of the human body.

Commission Will Regulate Seasons

Regulations for Nebraska's 1975 waterfowl, upland game, fall turkey and crow hunting seasons will be set by the Game and Parks Commission at an evening meeting in Lincoln on August 26.

Scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., the meeting will feature a public hearing on the seasons, at which the general public and the Commission's wildlife biologists will present testimony. The same hearing will also deal with trapping regulations, including the addition of racoon and possum to the list of furbearers covered by seasons and regulations.

The mid week meeting is necessary because the Commission must take action on the waterfowl season as soon as possible, and the federal guidelines for waterfowl hunting will be available on August 26. The evening meeting was set to allow as much public participation as possible.

Other items on the agenda for the evening include a report of the Commission's habitat committee, a discussion of proposed development at Lake McCaughy by the Big Mac Development Corporation, and a briefing on the relocation of Niobrara State Park.

The Commissioners will also meet the next morning to discuss the agency's budget.

Homer Holds Edge In Playoff Series

With a 4-3 win Sunday at home, Homer held the upper hand in the championship round of the NEN playoffs going into Wednesday night's action at Newcastle.

The championship series is a best of three games affair. Homer raced to a 4-0 lead behind the pitching of Dale Marjinson before Newcastle could score three times in the ninth inning.

The winners got a lot of help at the plate from former Nebraska Cornhusker gridders Ed Homer, native Brent Longwell. Longwell had three hits including a double.

Newcastle 000 000 603 - 3-8-3
Homer 001 220 01x - 6-9-2

Both teams got into the final round of Northeast Nebraska League action by sweeping their semi-finals series 2-0.

Last Thursday night, Homer bombed Pender 15-0 to end that series and Newcastle topped Dakota City 11-0.

Health Tips

The heart is the hardest-working muscle in the human body. It works continuously, day and night, from birth to death, pumping blood to all the body's cells and tissues.

The Nebraska Medical Association joins the Heart Association in recommending heart and health examinations regularly. A heart examination is simple and painless, yet it is a valuable safeguard against heart and circulatory diseases, especially for those over 40.

A regular heart examination provides your doctor with the opportunity to keep a close check on the condition of your heart and blood vessels.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's a spewing smokestack. It's litter in the streets. It's a river where fish can't live.

You know what pollution is. But not everyone does. So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.

Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

Fastest Gaining Steer

THE TOP steer in rate of gain competition among Dixon County 4 H's was shown Tuesday by Doug Ricketts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ricketts of Ponca. Average gain was 3.394 pounds a day.

The first accident insurance policy was issued in 1864. It had a two cent premium and a $1,000 benefit, but covered only the period—that the insured walked from the post office... to his home!

Thone

Thone told reporters he expects opposition to an amendment he will introduce to a bill which would create a federal consumer protection agency. The amendment would require government agencies to determine what impact regulations they propose would have on the economy. The Congressman said he doesn't believe a consumer protection agency is needed because consumer rights are already protected by some 900 government agencies, including the Federal Trade Commission. If he is not able to attach his economic impact amendment to the bill, Thone will seek other means to introduce the measure. Asked if he thought the President Ford's proposed $2 tariff on oil would pass a court test, Thone said it will be a close legal question and is impossible to predict. Although he doesn't fully support the tariff, Thone said it was probably the only tool available to the President to force Congress-act on comprehensive energy legislation. Emphasis should be placed on energy conservation, Thone said, adding that he doesn't think high fuel taxes or rationing will be necessary. He said any energy legislation enacted should also provide incentives for the development of alternate sources such as nuclear, solar and geothermal energy and coal. While addressing the luncheon audience, Thone said the American people "have had it" with what he called the "terrible centralization" of government and over-regulation of commerce which he said adds to inflation and stifles free enterprise. The packers and stockyard amendment recently defeated in Congress is "not dead by any means," Thone told the audience. He said the measure, introduced by him, was defeated mainly because a portion of it would have been too expensive to administer. He said the amendment would be revised after his return to Washington. "I think we'll get it back on the track."

Addressing party matter, Thone told the Republican volunteer workers he had been "very encouraged" by President Ford's actions in recent months. On the local level, Thone said he is aware of the problems of party volunteer workers. He said he is also aware of G.O.P. national and state problems but said he thinks the party can accept the challenge, roll up its sleeves and do alright in the 1976 elections.

He said several states—among them New York, California and Colorado—went this localizing route a decade ago, and now they find the handicapped who received local care now are being found in "flop houses." "I don't think the state can afford this kind of care," Murphy said. Problems besetting the Legislature are being the subject of senators to cope because of their complexity and also because of the time available, Murphy said. "It is time Nebraska should have full-time legislators. We are losing some fine young senators who just cannot afford to spend the time," he said. Though he declared the salary "is not a problem for me," it is for some. He noted that his salary figures out to 17 cents a year for each of his constituents.

Kiwanis is planning its annual White Elephant Sale Sunday, Sept. 7, with Deryl Lawrence as chairman. Kiwanis and local residents are asked to contribute items from home or business that they no longer need, such as appliances, furniture, tools, home furnishings. These will be auctioned, the proceeds helping to finance Kiwanis community projects.

principle and interest bond payment. The additional 75 per cent goes into reserve, maintenance and contingency funds. Lundstrom said that in the late 1960's with dorms operating at full capacity, the college could easily meet the 125 per cent test. The legislature decided state colleges were prosperous enough to pay their own dorm utility bills. Occupancy is now at about 60 per cent, Lundstrom said. Under terms of initial bond contracts, the dorms should be able to meet the 125 per cent test at the occupancy level, but with the state paying utility bills, which amounts to about $200,000 anually. Principle and interest payments on bonds are about $350,000 a year. "We can last a number of years because of the surplus we have built up," Lundstrom said. However, "increases in utility rates or further decline in dorm occupancy" would hasten the time when the college will need help from the Legislature to pay utility bills. Alternatives would be in creasing dorm fees or refinancing the bonds but Lundstrom said neither appear feasible. "I think we've already priced some kids out of the dorm and it doesn't appear feasible to refinance the bonds, because of the higher interest rates." The interest rate on the bonds is now 4.75 per cent, Lundstrom said the rate would be about 7 per cent if the bonds were refinanced.

High school counselor Ken Carlson said students new to the school system should register at the high school Aug. 25 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Middle school students in grades seven and eight should report to the gym through the south doors to pick up their schedule cards, he added. They are to report to class at 8:50 a.m.

Kindergarten students attending school in Wayne will attend from 8:30 to 11 a.m. or from 12:30 to 3 p.m., depending on which section they are in. Carroll kindergarten students are to attend from 12:30 to 3 p.m., on September 2 with rural youngsters being picked up on a special kindergarten route.

Copies of the bus routes for students will be mailed to parents the week of August 25.

School lunches for the coming school year will be five cents more per day than they were last year, $2.75 per week or $55 for individual meals.

Parents wishing information on obtaining free lunches may pick up application forms from building principals. Income eligibility for free lunches is printed in a separate article.

In agricultural production, Nebraska was in a considerably less favorable position than the country overall when compared with April, 1974. The opposite was true in the construction industry with Nebraska apparently better off than the nation as a whole. Nebraska doesn't have much manufacturing, but what does exist is diversified and seems to be doing well.

The latest figures available for individual counties compare 1973 with 1974. Wayne County had a dollar volume of $25,171, 171 in 1974, compared to $21,157,000 in 1973 for a 19 per cent increase. The increase, when adjusted to allow for higher prices, was 6.2 per cent. Dollar volume in Dixon County was up slightly $10,644,000 in 1974 compared to $10,345,000 in 1973 a 2.1 per cent increase. However, when amounts are adjusted to allow for price increases, an 8.8 per cent physical volume is revealed.

CHAMPION HEIFER in rate of gain competition at the Dixon County Fair was shown by Raymond Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Deibert Jensen of Wakefield.

IRS QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. Is my tax return audited before a refund is sent to me?

A. No, but the IRS does a preliminary check of your return for mathematical correctness and completeness. The IRS also has an "Unallowable Items Program" to see if a return has a claim for items the tax laws clearly do not allow, or if all the forms needed to support amounts claimed are attached to the return.

Q. Can the "Unallowable Items Program" delay my refund?

A. Normally, the program at most would only delay payment of part of your refund. When a refund is due, and a return contains an unallowable item, the IRS withholds only the portion of the refund affected by the unallowable, and a letter from the IRS service center is sent to the taxpayer explaining the difficulty. The part of the refund that is not questioned is sent to the taxpayer after normal processing of the return.

Q. What if disagree with the IRS finding of an item as unallowable?

A. When a taxpayer disagrees and provides information to show that the item is allowable, then the part of the refund that has been withheld is released. If the taxpayer doesn't provide information to cause the IRS service center to reconsider its finding, then the matter is referred to the taxpayer's IRS district office. District office employees will then arrange a meeting with the taxpayer to resolve the matter.

Q. Other than failing to include a form with a tax return, what are some of the common unallowable items?

A. Some taxpayers err and don't deduct $100 from each single casualty loss they suffer on non-business property. (Publications 547, Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts, and 584, "Workbook for Determining Your Disaster Loss," provide helpful information and are available free of charge from the IRS.) Other taxpayers make a mistake by subtracting from their income the payments they've made on their life insurance or home owner's insurance premiums. These personal expenses are not deductible. Still others deduct their entire medical and dental expenses, when they should deduct expenses only to the extent they exceed 3 per cent of the adjusted gross income on line 15 of Form 1040. And some taxpayers do not realize that they may include payments for medicines and drugs in their medical expenses only to the extent the costs exceed 1 per cent of adjusted gross income.

Q. How does the IRS select returns for audit?

A. The answer to this question lies in the purpose of an audit — that is to make sure that the correct tax is paid, not a penny more or less. Consequently, the IRS tries to identify tax returns most likely to have errors. Primarily, the IRS uses a computer program called DIF (Discriminant Function). DIF actually is a series of mathematical formulas that score various items on a return and how the items relate to each other. Normally, high DIF scores point to a high probability of error. IRS employees check returns selected by DIF to learn if local or other factors have created a high DIF score on a return that otherwise would not require an audit.

Q. Is there anything I can do to avoid selection of my return for audit?

A. No, not absolutely. Both DIF processing and random sampling make it possible for any return to be audited. On occasion, audits result in refunds, rather than tax bills. Moreover, taxpayers who prepare their returns carefully, and keep good records to back up the entries on their returns, needn't worry too much about an audit.

Q. How does the new tax law affect deductions for child care expenses?

A. The section of the new tax law which affects employment-related child and dependent care expenses applies to taxable years beginning after March 29, 1975. Thus, for calendar year taxpayers, this change will be effective starting with calendar year 1976. The maximum deduction is still $400 a month for child care expenses. However, the maximum adjusted gross income (AGI) you may earn and still qualify for the maximum deduction has been increased from $18,000 per year to $35,000 per year. If your AGI exceeds $35,000 per year, your otherwise allowable expenses for child care must be reduced by half the AGI over $35,000. Therefore, if your AGI is $44,000 or more per year you will not be able to deduct any employment-related expenses for child and dependent care.

Q. When will the new Federal withholding tax tables begin to affect my paycheck?

A. The new withholding tables reflecting standard deduction changes, personal exemption tax credit and earned income credit take effect on May 1, 1975. However, many employers may find it difficult to compute payroll checks with the new tables so quickly. The result is that a little more in Federal taxes may be taken out of your paycheck under the old tables until your employer can begin using the new withholding rates. This could mean you may get a little more back in any refund due you from 1975 Federal income taxes.

ME EXTENSION NOTES By Anna Marie Kreifels

The Dangers of Botulism Botulism is a food poisoning type of disease. It results from eating food products in which the bacterium, clostridium botulinum, has grown to produce a lethal toxin. We hear a lot about botulism poisoning during canning season. Homemakers who understand the cause can easily prevent botulism. Clostridium botulinum is a common soil organism. Washing garden produce does not remove all of the bacteria, therefore, these organisms are present in many foods being canned. Clostridium botulinum produces extremely heat resistant spores. These spores cannot be destroyed by boiling foods at 212 degrees F. A temperature of 240 degrees F. is required to destroy the spores. In home canning, the only way this temperature can be obtained is with a steam pressure cooker. This equipment is essential for canning corn, peas, beans and other non-acid or low acid foods. Botulism producing organisms grow in the absence of air, in non-acid or low acid liquids, and where temperatures are warm. Since home canned foods are not refrigerated, any spores that live through the canning process will be able to grow and produce the disease causing toxin. Prevention of botulism from home canned foods rests with the homemaker who does the canning.

OBSERVATIONS

Hospital is symbol of cooperation

The open house and dedication Sunday of the Providence Medical Center will mark an end and a beginning for Wayne area residents.

Completion of the new hospital culminates an intense area-wide effort which began late in 1971. When the doors of the center are officially opened, it will mean the beginning of a new era of medical care for area residents.

The two events are tied together by the spirit of cooperation and giving which made the hospital possible.

The new hospital is impressive but even more impressive is the story behind it. Late in October of 1971 plans were announced for a new $1 million medical center in Wayne with half the cost provided by the Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk. The other half would be raised through contribution.

Four months later, not a half-million, but $865,692 had been contributed or pledged by financial institutions, service clubs, corporations, collegiate organizations and private subscription. Over half the amount was raised through 1,400 pledges from individuals.

The fact that that much money was raised in that short of a period is astounding and a feat that probably couldn't be duplicated in many localities.

It is impossible to commend everyone who contributed in one way or another to the fine facility which will be dedicated Sunday. A few come to mind easily: the Benedictine Sisters, members of the hospital foundation through the years, the various chairmen during the fund drive and the state college board of trustees who agreed to give the land upon which the building is located.

A complete list would be virtually endless but the hospital will be a symbol in years to come of the unselfish "let's get-things-done" spirit which made it possible. — Jim Strayer.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

Thoughts for today

Dear "Would Go"
I have given your recent letter, concerning Sunday, a great deal of thought. You realize, of course, that Monday thru Friday are out as replacements for Sunday because of school and work. Some churches do use Saturday. However, I observe that their members have the same problems you do. Anyday, Saturday is the "only day you have to enjoy yourself" so it won't work in your case, and that brings us back to Sunday.

Now, we might be able to place Sunday somewhere else in the week, like between Monday and Tuesday or elsewhere. I don't believe you or the rest of the world would go for that as it would do away with even the two day weekend. Really, I don't believe another day is the solution.

Well, now let's look at your "on Sunday problems." The service times could be set earlier on my "that would never do since you can't get up early enough now. Perhaps, afternoon services, no, you have company then. Say, since "it is almost impossible to get up on Sunday morning," how do you ever manage to get the dishes done, the house cleaned and the biggest dinner of the week cooked by 12:00 o'clock?

I also notice that when fishing and boating are good, your husband gets the "cleaned and the yard done on Saturday and everyone is up and gone by daylight on Sunday. You don't arrive home until very late Sunday night, yet your husband hasn't been late or absent for work on Monday in years. How does he even make it there by eight o'clock when none of you can make church by ten?

It appears that things are not impossible when you want to do them. To be very frank, the REAL reason you don't go to church is not because the day is wrong but because you want to do something else instead. I'm very sorry about that — but there is nothing I can do since I will not force you to "seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

Sincerely yours,
God

Out of Old

Every small town in Nebraska has its football legends and heroes — just like the "Big Red" of the "U" in Lincoln.

The first attempts at the game in the Nineties and the early years of this century were met with mixed reactions, support from the young men (at school and also the town sports) and opposition from those who agreed with the calamity howlers who campaigned against it as brutal.

The "patent insiders" (the pre-printed sections of most small-town newspapers bought from some metropolitan publisher) of the Chadron Journal of 1900-1901 carried gruesome yet humorous cartoons of football players. This apparently signified the newspaper's opposition to the sport. The front page, however, gave serio-comic coverage of Chadron's first game. Typical of many sports reporters of the time, "the game was the thing," and to the Journal newsmen—the score seemed secondary. But if he looks closely, the reader will find the outcome of the game played in Chadron on November 1, 1901.

Last Friday afternoon half the population of Chadron wended their way out on the flats south of the city to witness the line-up on the gridiron for the first time of the Academy Stalwarts and the Chadron Coyotes, it being the occasion of a series of games this season which will no doubt fill the annals of history with gore and bloodshed.

The crowd evidently wished to see a repetition of Custer's last battle or some other such noted engagement, for when at times during the game seventeen or eighteen men would tangle up in a surging mass of brutality, with the blood streaming from a professor's classic chin and from noses of various nationalities, and with patches of skin as large as forty cents off both sides of men's faces, even ladies, in their excitement, would rise to the toe-tips of their dainty boots and remark joyfully, "Isn't it lovely! Punt him hard, kick him in the dinner, run back with the ball, away back, and sit down," and in fact all other expressions which would tend to excite the ferocity of the antagonists.

"From the way an academy boy gathered the pigskin in his mitts and made the famous Brooklyn loop toward the enemy's country, it looked as if there would have to be another Schley inquiry but when Capt. Paul Eckles got on starboard, blanketed his wind and grabbed him around the spinal column, he immediately said "king's excuse," fell on the ball and the stuff was all gone except Eckles stood on his face until the remaining seventeen men could come running forward and to the same.

"Brilliant individual plays were made by Bud Stevens, D. B. Stevens and Capt. Eckles in the Chadron team, and Sprague and Prof. Herbert in the academy team. Features of the game were a magnificent kick to goal — which missed the goal — the peculiar large-hog-like grunt of the Chadron team, which might have been taken for a "roo", and the quack, quack, quack, of the "Academy Ducks."

"The scarlet and cream ribbons and orange and black pennants were every where in evidence, some of which will no doubt be saved until the next time, which will probably occur some time the latter part of this month. The returns showed the Chadron team a majority of five."

The Stalwarts of the Academy were given a chance to even the score on November 15 but failed.

"The second game of football between the town team and the academy team was played last Friday afternoon. It was a good game, so say the boys who did not lose too much of their cuticle or get the extremities too badly twisted out of shape. At any rate the gridiron was kept hot and the pigskin was doing lots of business. The score showed the Chadrons to be winners at the rate of 11 to 0."

Sports enthusiasts will find the files of the state's newspapers at the Nebraska State Historical Society a delight to read. Football was a different game back in the days of the flying wedge — and no helmets were required.

A Free Press Protects Your Free Speech...

Judges are jailing reporters with increasing frequency, because they refuse to reveal news sources. The result can only be a drying up of these sources of information and impede your right to know what's happening in your government.

Everyone also has the right to know what's being offered in the marketplace. The right of choice in all goods and services keeps the system of competition working for everyone's progress.

Here's What James A. Garfield 20th President of The United States said about the importance of a Free Press:

Here's What Abraham Lincoln 16th President of The United States said about the importance of a Free Press:

"Not for his own sake alone, but for the sake of society and the good government, the press should be free. Liberty is the strong bond which unites the people and their government. Authority should do no act that will not bear the light."

"Let the people know the facts, and the country will be safe."

The next time you get mad at a news story, remember that a free press provides you with the information that keeps our country free.

Ervin against consumer bill

Retired Senator Sam Ervin, Jr., of the country lawyer from North Carolina and a hero of the Watergate investigation has roused himself to speak out against the creation of a federal "consumer protection agency."

Congressman Charles Thone also opposes the bill, saying that, with 900 federal agencies already looking out for consumers, another one isn't needed.

"Senator Sam" sent the letter to Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Texas), chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, on June 23. Rep. John Erlenborn (R-Ill.) put it in the July 21 Congressional Record. A condensed version is presented here because of space limitations.

Dear Mr. Chairman:
I am one of the people of the United States. I respectfully ask that you hear my concerns.

The federal bureaucracy has become like the third curse of Moses — a suffocating plague of frogs brought forth from out of where they belong into the villages and the very houses of the people.

My concerns about the creeping intrusion are well illustrated by the proposed Consumer Protection Acts of 1975 which are being considered now by one of your subcommittees.

These proposals would add yet another self-willed federal agency to the burgeoning mass that now exists. A review of the current bills, H.R. 7575 and S. 206, shows both bills contain all that was revolting in their unsuccessful predecessors. And, sadly, there are even new dangers in these 1975 versions. If one of these bills should be passed by Congress, it will demonstrate that the national legislature has lost touch with reality.

These bills simply cannot withstand rational scrutiny. One need only consider their premise: Because the bureaucracy has become too pervasive to enable consumers to appear before existing federal agencies, it is proposed that Congress create yet another federal agency before which consumers also will not appear.

It cannot work. There is no such thing as a single, clear-cut interest of consumers in government decision-making. I am well aware that, during the hearings in the House, last Congress, Ralph Nader offered what he said was an example of an interest of consumers, which was "quite clear." His example? Mandatory installation of seat belt devices in automobiles!

Can he not see the danger of his own thinking? He is not really supporting an advocate of the views of the missing consumers. He is supporting an advocate only of consumers who agree with the advocate.

Further, the danger of this authoritarian approach is severely compounded by the extraordinary powers the bills would confer on the new agency, powers put there to assure that the positions advocated by the agency get implemented.

The new bureaucracy would have all the rights of a regulatory agency, yet none of the responsibilities. Indeed, it seems that the immensity of these powers is finally being discovered by some of the ardent supporters of a new consumer bureaucracy.

Organized labor saw to it that a complete gag was put on the new consumer bureaucracy's intended advocacy in labor-related matters. Then came the broadcasters who proved to a majority of the Senate that the consumer unit could, and probably would, put them out of business at license renewal time. Their special interests were exempted.

If labor unions and broadcasters deserved protection from this new bureaucracy, farmers must need equal protection through a majority of the Senate, and so farmers received a broad special interest exemption.

Following these, a host of narrower special interest exemptions were put into S. 200. If the trend continues in the House, we may see created a consumer agency with nothing to say. This would be a refreshing approach to creating federal bureaucracies. Maybe such an agency would have time to listen to the people.

In summary, Mr. Chairman, the bills before you are not merely bad bills, they are dangerous bills poorly conceived.

I ask you to do everything within your power to see that these bills suffer the fate of their predecessors.

Since I consider this bill one of the most unwise legislative proposals ever made to the Congress, I ask that this statement be made part of the hearing record before your Committee. Sincerely, Sam J. Ervin, Jr.

New State 4-H Leader Puts Focus on Youngsters

Although it may be hard to remember in the showing, Dr. Bill Caldwell stresses that 4-H is trying to develop a youngster—not a pig or a steer or a dress. He says the focus should be on the youngster, not the project.

The new State 4-H leader and assistant extension director was just transplanted from Purdue University to the Nebraska sod this week and has carried with him a positive philosophy on the 4-H program. Said Caldwell, "I don't see formal and informal education as being competitive, the youth programs can work into action during his high school teaching days when he applied both 4-H and scout training to his class requirements.

The Indiana native focuses much of his time on youth, especially with three youngsters of his own. He and his wife Joyce are the parents of Scot, nine; Heather, five; and Nicole, three. As for family interests? "You name it," says Caldwell.

The family has tried to explore a different hobby every year, which has developed into a cabinet full of fossils and a full-blown fascination in the age old art of rock-hounding.

The new 4-H leader comes to Nebraska from his position at Purdue as assistant state Extension leader-youth, where his major responsibility was to organize and develop new and expanding youth programs. He specialized in single young adults, 4-H science programs, multi-sensory teaching materials and leadership training and development.

Disease of the Week: Powdery Mildew

As summer begins to fade, our trees, shrubs and other ornamentals often become infected with powdery mildew. High humidity, heavy dews, frequent rains, cool nights and moderate daytime temperatures at this time of the year favor the development of mildew. The disease is seen as gray to white powdery mold that grows superficially over the leaves of susceptible plants.

Many shrubs, trees and flowers are susceptible to mildew. Clematis, dahlia, peony, philox and sweet pea are some of the common flowers attacked by mildew. Susceptible shrubs include lilac, dogwood, hawthorn, rose and spirea. Powdery mildew may also attack such trees as apple, ash, birch, cherry, elm, maple, oak and poplar.

The best control measure is application of protective chemicals before any signs of mildew appear. If this is not possible, plants should be sprayed or dusted immediately after mildew is detected. Recommended fungicides include sulfur, Phaltan, Karathane, or Benlate.

Fungicides should be applied at seven to ten day intervals. Thorough coverage is necessary to achieve good control. The addition of the commercial wetting agent of liquid household detergent will provide better coverage. Due to foliar injury, applications of these fungicides should be avoided when temperatures exceed 85 degrees.

For additional information see "Indoor Gardens with Controlled Lighting." U.S. Department of Agriculture Home and Garden Bulletin No. 187, available from Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office.

No Harvesting Problems

"Pick Your Own" is an important method of selling fruits and vegetables in Wisconsin that could be adopted to Nebraska. Farmers often have acres which could produce cash crops such as strawberries, raspberries, apples, sweetcorn and tomatoes but harvesting problems are imposing. "Pick Your Own" relieves the farmer of many problems involved in the conventional methods of harvesting and selling these crops.

There is a demand for fresh fruits and vegetables near population centers. Consumers consider "U Pick" an excellent method of obtaining quality products at a fair price.

Why not consider "U Pick" next year in your farming operation? Contact your county Extension agent for information on specific crops.

Dixon Belles 4-H Club met Aug. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Harold George home. Janet Walton led in games.

President, Anna Borg called the meeting to order and pledges to the flags were given. Secretary, Adal Kessinger called roll which members answered by telling what they liked about the county fair. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A thank you from the senior citizens was read. The group decided to send three dollars to Neihardt Center, Bancroft, which the club visited July 19. Sharon Taylor demonstrated how to finish a seam.

The Dixon County Fair was discussed and plans were made for the booth. A committee was appointed to cut letters for the theme, "Yesterday and Today," in the Bob Taylor home Aug. 14. Shelly Taylor led in group singing. Alice and Carolyn George served refreshments.

Next meeting will be Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. at the Northeast Station, near Concord.

Rose Selections Made for 1976

Backyard farmers, add a special touch to your landscape and gardening plans by including some of the 1976 All-American varieties just announced. The Bicentennial Year awards went to America, a large-flowered salmon climber; Cathedral, a golden apricot Floribunda; and Seashell, a peach and salmon hybrid tea.

The All-American Rose Selection group is a non-profit research organization that tests new rose varieties. In their test gardens are roses from all over the world that are tested for improved flower quality and disease resistance.

All-American rose selections are noted for their reliable performance, so ask your nurseryman about them.

Plant Can Endure Low Light

Green plants play an important part of interior design today. Whether as accent plants or filler, they help to create a sense of natural environment. Often the desired locations for plants in the home have light intensities as low as 25-50 foot candles but many green plants will not survive this.

Here is a list of some which will endure low light: Variegated, Chinese and golden evergreen; Bromeliads; Dieffenbachia; India and Showy Rubber plant; Neanthe bella and Kenelia palm; over leaf pepperomia; heartleaf philodendron; and Sansveiria.

Social Security Is Now Paying Over 31 Million

Social security is 40 years old this August, and "the program has matured with our growing and changing Nation," according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

The Social Security Act became law on Aug. 14, 1935. President Franklin D. Roosevelt called it "a law which will give some measure of protection to the average citizen and to his family against poverty stricken old age."

In the beginning, social security benefits were for retired workers only. "Over the years," Branch said, "the law has been amended so that now monthly benefits are paid to eligible retired and disabled workers and the families and to dependents of deceased workers who worked long enough in jobs covered by social security."

Originally, social security covered jobs in commerce and industry only, and about 26 million workers had the protection. Today, more than nine out of 10 jobs are covered, and about 100 million workers and their families — have social security protection.

Survivors benefits for dependents of deceased workers were provided for by a 1939 amendment to the law. Disability insurance was added in 1954 to give workers protection against loss of earnings due to disability.

Social security benefits are based on work and earnings. The first benefits were paid in 1940 to about 222,000 people. The average monthly payment was about $22 to a retired worker and $47 to a widowed mother with two children in her care.

Today social security pays benefits to about 31 million people. The average monthly payment is about $202 to a retired worker and $472 to a widowed mother with two children in her care.

Under a 1972 amendment, social security benefits are now tied to the cost of living. "Unless a general social security benefit increase is enacted," Branch said, "benefits are increased automatically once a year to keep pace with price increases of 3 per cent or more."

Social security benefits are funded by contributions from workers, employers, and self-employed people. Employees and employers each contribute 5.85 per cent of the first $14,100 of yearly earnings from work covered by social security. Self-employed people contribute 7.9 per cent.

The Social Security Administration handles Medicare, which started in 1965, and the supplemental security income program, which started in 1974.

Over 23 million people have Medicare, which helps pay the health care bills of people 65 and over, of disabled people who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many people with chronic kidney disease.

Semester in Copenhagen

Wayne State College, responding to the growing need for international communication and understanding, has offered a variety of international summer institutes for several years, and now has scheduled still another type of international education program.

The State University Study Program (SUSP) in Denmark was approved for WSC this past spring and will be offered in the 1976-77 catalog. Students acting promptly can still be accepted for the fall term which begins this September, according to Dr. Ed Elliott, vice president for academic affairs at WSC.

Through the SUSP, a Wayne State student can take a complete semester of work at the University of Copenhagen or the University of Aarhus. Courses are taught by English-speaking Danish professors.

Wayne's involvement in the SUSP originated through the acquaintance of Dr. Elliott and Knud Helm-Erickson who is director of the Danish International Student Committee (DIS). DIS serves as the international agency for the Danish universities and other institutions of higher learning. The State University Student Program in Denmark represents a special arrangement among the American institutions, the Danish universities and DIS regarding transference of credits and grades and cooperation in the matter of tests and examinations.

The program is particularly suitable for sophomore or junior students. Those most apt to benefit from the program, noted Dr. Elliott, are the students interested in the arts or humanities, those who anticipate involvement with a culture different from that in which they were raised, or students with an interest in the international scene.

Students must enroll in the program through a U.S. state supported college or university which will in turn work through one of four coordinating universities. The State University of New York, Eastern Michigan University, Northern Illinois University or Washington State University.

If sufficient interest is indicated, said Dr. Elliott, Wayne State College may also become a coordinating institution.

Typical fall semester courses available to a SUSP student could include Scandinavian painting, Education in Denmark, Scandinavian literature and drama, Nordic mythology, social welfare in Denmark, major political systems in Europe, European political philosophies and ideologies since 1900, European ballet, introduction to European opera, modern economic history of Europe, social and cultural anthropology, and comparative family sociology.

Farmers To Get Questionnaires

Between mid-August and Sept. the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics will be mailing questionnaires to a number of Nebraska farmers and asking for their cooperation in completing and returning them as soon as possible.

The data collected will be the basis for the September crop report, cattle on feed report, and the hog and pig report, as well as the annual 1975 small grain acreage and production report.

Doug Murfield, division director, says these reports will help remove the uncertainties about the potential supply of feed grains for 1975, especially corn. The livestock reports will provide livestock information concerning the current situation and future marketings.

Because the same crop and livestock questionnaires are mailed to all parts of the state and contain questions that apply to many different kinds of agriculture, it is only necessary for farmers to complete those sections applying to their own farming or ranching operation.

Farmers' cooperation on these surveys will mean reliable estimates of crop and livestock numbers for each county and will help farmers with their very important marketing decisions.

According to Murfield, all information supplied by farmers will be kept strictly confidential.

BALLOON DAYS

Thursday - Friday - Saturday

Do you exercise at least once a week?

The Nebraska Medical Association says that if you exercise regularly once a week you have found the secret of success to physical fitness.

It does not matter whether it is walking or horseback riding -- some form of exercise can help you keep healthy. Physical exercise should be started early in life and can be continued to advanced age, though slight modifications must be made.

To be of greatest benefit, you should exercise at least once a week. Exercise increases your lungs' power to take in air and use it more efficiently, and it strengthens your heart muscle. The medical association says the important thing is to select a exercise you like and to participate at least once a week.

It is easier to quit smoking when your whole living pattern can be changed. For instance, hospitalization often provides an opportunity or a vacation. It helps to announce that you have quit smoking so others can good naturedly remind you when you are tempted to try one again. The first day is easy. The next week to ten days are very uncomfortable. Success generally comes in three to six months. The Nebraska Medical Association points out that a former smoker's reward is improvement of both taste and smell and better health.

Honor Program Changed

A major change in the honors program at Wayne State College goes into effect this fall, according to Dr. Ed Elliott, vice president of academic affairs.

The operation of the honors program has been taken out of the hands of a committee that is non-functional, he said, and placed at division level with division heads and faculty members within those divisions.

It is now up to division heads and faculty members to spot potential honors students within their own areas and make contact with them regarding the program.

Dr. Elliott feels this change will result in more of the eligible students participating in the program and in an increased sense of quality within the divisions themselves through direct responsibility for and contact with superior students.

Eligible students are to be identified by advising coordinators or department chairmen by the beginning of their junior year, unless they are transfer students in which case they are to be identified for the honors program following their first term at Wayne State.

Eligibility for the program normally requires a grade point average of 3.0 or above with a 3.2 for the major field, computed on a 4.0 scale. A student with a strong recommendation by the department, though he has a grade point average below 3.0, can still participate if his major field grade point average is 3.5. The student must also have the recommendation of the department.

Once honor candidates have been identified they will be encouraged to participate in the honors program by Dr. Niel Edmunds, assistant to the vice president for academic affairs and director of the honors program.

In addition to their regular classes, honor students will be required to participate in an approved independent course of study (for a maximum of six credit hours) and then in the honors colloquium, during which time he works on a special project to be presented to other students in the colloquium.

In some cases, an independent colloquium project can be substituted for participation in the colloquium course.

The student who successfully completes the honors program is given special recognition during his commencement exercises, and his achievements are noted on his transcript of academic credits.

The honor student can graduate with high honors, 3.8 grade point in major field; with high est honors, 4.0 grade point in major field; cum laude, overall grade point of 3.2; magna cum laude, overall grade point of 3.5, or summa cum laude, overall grade point of 3.8.

Box 1147 Norfolk, Nebraska Ph. 371-9610

By the beginning of the 1970's, community leaders in Wayne were becoming aware that the hospital facilities in the city were inadequate.

The present hospital, built in 1942, has served the citizens of Wayne well for 30 years but now was just not big enough for the growing community.

Late in October of 1971, plans were announced for the building of a new 50-bed medical and health care center in Wayne at a cost of $1,000,000. The first $500,000 needed came from the Missionary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk. The remaining $500,000 would have to come from a public subscription fund-raising program in which Wayne area corporations, businesses, families and individuals were asked to help match the sister's gift.

The plans were jointly announced by Robert Carhart, chairman of the Wayne Hospital Foundation board of directors, and Mother Anetia Slaber, O.S.B., prioress of the Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk.

The Benedictine Sisters proposed the plan under which they would provide one-half of the total cost of the hospital if the Wayne area contributed one-half of the funds and, upon completion, the hospital would be turned over to the Sisters for operation and maintenance.

Also as part of the plan, the Board of Trustees of the State College transferred eight acres of land adjacent to the Wayne State College campus to the Wayne Hospital Foundation without charge on condition that health facilities would be available for students attending Wayne State College.

Talking about the plans to reach the $1,000,000 mark through a fund-raising campaign and the sister's gift, Carhart said, "This is the only way Wayne region families can be assured of modern medical and health care in their own area."

That dream of having a modern health care center for all Wayne area residents is being fulfilled with the Open House of the new facility Sunday, August 24, 1975.

The initial plans were for the facility to be built on the north-east campus of Wayne State College with no Wayne city or Wayne county monies involved. Both of those plans held true as the events of the next few months proved.

The new hospital would be a 42,025 square foot plant, nearly four times larger than the old hospital, and would care for twice as many patients.

Community leaders swung into action quickly. On November 1, Carhart named Adon Jeffrey, president of the First National Bank as the general chairman of the Medical Center Building Program. A week later, Carhart and Harold E. Hein, president of the State National Bank were named as co-chairmen of the pattern gifts committee.

By the 15th of the month, the fund-raising drive had gotten a big boost when Jeffrey and Hein announced subscription gifts totaling $75,000 from the two Wayne banks. The gifts represented 15 per cent of the $500,000 total.

The board of directors of the State National Bank voted a $46,500 five-year subscription and similar action was taken by the First National board of directors, who authorized a $28,500 gift. The subscriptions were prorated by the two banks on the basis of total deposits according to their last statements.

At about the same time, in mid-November of 1971, Dr. Walter Benthack became chairman for solicitation of the Wayne Hospital's medical staff and Mrs. Louise Jenness chairman for hospital employee solicitation.

Late in November, Walter Moller, realtor and chairman of the present Wayne Hospital Board, accepted the chairmanship of the special gifts division of the subscription campaign. On November 29, the Wayne Hospital Auxiliary announced a $9,000 gift to the fund drive.

December brought the announcement that Cal Ward, district extension director and superintendent of the University of Nebraska Northeast Station, would serve as chairman of the service area division of the fund drive. On December 13, the drive got another big shot in the arm as the Wayne Federal Savings and Loan Association donated $20,000 to the drive.

Association president John Bressler made the announcement as Wayne's three financial institutions pushed the fund drive over the $100,000 mark with just their subscriptions.

Students at Wayne State College's Bowen Hall turned over $30 in fine money to the fund. By December 16 the total subscriptions had reached $248,530 or 49.7 per cent of the total needed. Adding to the subscription total shortly before Christmas was a $100 gift from 100 young women of Neihardt Hall at the college.

On December 20, the halfway mark of the campaign was passed as Mrs. Jenness announced that 38 employees of the Wayne Hospital had subscribed $9,032 to the fund drive. That total marked 180 per cent of the employees goal of $5,000.

Most of the employees signed payroll deduction authorization forms for one hour per pay check for the five-year subscription period.

General chairman Jeffrey noted at that time, "All of us can look at such participation and realize these hospital employees are the people who really know how desperately a new medical facility is needed. They work under trying conditions every day."

After the first of the year (1972) contributions kept rolling in at a quick pace.

The Wayne Firemen contributed $1,500.

The American Association of University Women voted a $1,000 subscription for the new medical center.

Mayor Kent Hall contributed his entire $750 annual salary as mayor to the campaign.

The Acme Club voted to give $250 to the drive in memory of Mrs. Fred Blair, a former member.

An old fraternity friendship at the University of Nebraska, Roy Christensen, general manager of Carhart Lumber Company, and Edward Owen, president of the Paxton and Vierling Steel Company of Sioux City, helped out the fund to the tune of $5,000. Friends since their college days in the 1930's, Christensen received a check from Owen for $5,000 for the hospital fund.

The Royal Neighbors Lodge donated $100. The money represented an accumulation of 25 years of savings by the lodge.

The Wayne Jaycees pledged $1,500 to the fund, Wayne PEO chapter pledged $300 and the Wayne Lions Club kicked in with a $2,000 pledge.

On the Wayne State campus, the theatre department pledged the money from one benefit performance of Oedipus Rex.

By February 14, less than a month before the end of the subscription campaign, banner headline in The Wayne Herald told the area's residents the good news: "Over the Top in Medical Center Drive!" The total that day had reached $535,228 or 107 per cent of the goal.

But like a sub-head read, "Contributions Still Needed Even Though Goal Reached," the campaign was not yet over.

Lige Levitt, York banker and lumber company owner, spoke of York's recent drive for its new hospital. "We in York raised $900,000 which was $300,000 more than our $600,000 goal, but we have since found that we needed every dollar of the overage — and we still need more!" Levitt stressed.

So the subscription campaign, continued towards its end in early March.

In late February, the city of Laurel's chairman, William Norvell announced, $22,505 in pledges and the Royal Neighbors of America of Wayne pledged $100 to the drive. Former Kiwanian Dr. Alward E. Brown, willed $1,000 to the fund and the Wayne Kiwanis Club matched Brown's gift. Winside resident Mrs. Virginia Chapin McCain made a $20,000 gift to the fund and the Dart Industries Inc. of Florida donated $25,000 to the fund via a former Wayne resident Hamer Frank Wilson III.

On March 3, 1972, the four-month campaign was over, the result was staggering. A total of $866,602 in pledges were received as a victory celebration was held. The final total was 173 per cent of the original goal.

While the big donations marked the progress of the drive, it took hundreds of smaller donors to bring about the huge total. "But the aggregate total of hundreds of givers, more than matching the large gifts, is something for all of us to remember," Jeffrey said.

More than 1,400 smaller subscriptions represented over half of the total!

Late in March of 1972, the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges voted unanimously to deed the eight-acre tract of land to the Wayne Hospital Foundation. The deed to the land was officially handed over in October. In return for the land, the hospital agreed to provide medical and office facilities for the college, its physician, nurse and record-keeping space. In addition, the facility may be used as a laboratory by Wayne State for future health-related instruction such as nursing.

During the months after the official end of the fund drive, funds kept coming in as Bob Carhart headed up a Follow-Up Committee. Also during the spring of 1972, the Wayne Hospital put in a bid for federal funds and eventually received $384,000 through a Hill-Burton Federal grant to help in the construction.

By the middle of September of 1972, the Benedictine Sisters and the hospital staff were making final revisions of the floor plan. The Foundation had ordered outside signs for the building and surveying was being done for the layout of water lines to the new facility.

Steps leading-up the eventual ground breaking included the architects completing the drawing of building plans and the city council purchasing land for the two access roads that lead to the health facility.

On May 14, 1973 an afternoon ground breaking ceremony was held for what is to be called the Providence Medical Center. Among those helping turn over the first scoops of dirt were Dr. Lyle Seymour, president of Wayne State, and Mother Inelda Koch of the Benedictine Sisters.

By early June, another $10,000 in pledges were received since the official end of the fund drive and work on the new Center had begun. Through the next two years, work progressed on the new facility until, in August of 1975 when hospital administrator Charles Thomas announced plans for the August 24 open house and dedication.

The NRD Board That Is Sincerely Concerned About Proper Resources Development!

Seldom has a piece of legislation caused as much testimony or controversy as has LB 577 "The Groundwater Bill" which was passed by the '75 Nebraska Unicameral. Effective August 24, 1975, the bill grants rather a comprehensive groundwater management authorities to the Natural Resources Districts of the state and to the State Director of Water Resources.

While the "Groundwater Bill" was written to be as forthright as possible, the complex nature of groundwater management literally requires careful study of the bill's provisions.

Below are several of the most commonly asked questions about the "Groundwater Bill"!!

QUESTION: As an irrigator or potential irrigator, how will the "Groundwater Bill" affect you?

ANSWER: Until a "Control Area" is established, changes will be minimal. As in the past, all wells not used for domestic purposes must be registered with the Department of Water Resources, 1420 P Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508. This requirement applies to all existing, as well as, new wells. In addition, some irrigators may be required to exercise better management of their irrigation systems. By November 23, 1975, all NRD's must adopt, following public hearings, regulations to control the run-off groundwater used for irrigation. The following items must be addressed by the regulations: 1) What constitutes inefficient or improper run-off; 2) What are proper measures and procedures for preventing or controlling such run-off; 3) What are appropriate procedures for enforcement of the regulations.

QUESTION: Why should I register my well?

ANSWER: In addition to the owner of an unregistered well subject to misdemeanor charges and assessment of fines, a well that is not registered will now be considered an "illegal well" subject to orders to stop its use. Other "illegal wells" are those in a "control area" drilled without or in violation of a permit, or any well not in compliance with other laws or regulations. An example of non-compliance would be the lack of a check valve to prevent back flushing of irrigation water on wells used for application of fertilizer.

QUESTION: What is a "control area"?

ANSWER: A "control area" is established by the Department of Resources; if, following a public hearing requested by the Natural Resources District, inadequate groundwater supplies exist or can be anticipated in the reasonably foreseeable future. If a "control area" is established, that area is defined both geographically and by groundwater aquifers or veins.

QUESTION: What are the effects of a "control area" designation?

ANSWER: Permits issued by the Director of Department of Water Resources are required for new wells in addition to registration; 1) A $25.00 fee to cover costs of processing the permit and subsequent registration. Permits are not required for wells pumping 100 gallons per minute or less and used solely for domestic purposes; 2) New permits will be issued unless district rules would be violated or unless the proposed use would not be a beneficial use.

QUESTION: What type of limitations might be adopted by an NRD in a "control area"?

ANSWER: 1) Allocation — by metering devices; each well may be limited to total gallonage based on acres irrigated; 2) Rotation — a schedule of rotation based on a daily, weekly, or monthly alternation; 3) Well spacing — requiring minimum distances between wells; and 4) Prohibiting new well development on a year-by-year basis if other controls are not adequate.

QUESTION: What else can your NRD do to carry out its responsibilities in the "Groundwater Bill"?

ANSWER: 1) Adopt administrative rules and regulations; 2) Require reports on quantities of groundwater used from irrigators; 3) Conduct investigations, cooperate and contract with governmental agencies and private firms or individuals; 4) Report to Department of Environmental Control all information on groundwater pollution; 5) Issue "cease and desist" orders in case of violation.

QUESTION: What should irrigators do now?

ANSWER: 1) Be sure that your irrigation well or wells are registered with the Department of Water Resources; 2) Avoid wasteful run-off of irrigation water. Efficiency of water use will avoid unnecessary groundwater declines.

It would appear that there will not be a "control area" declared in the Lower Elkhorn NRD in the next few years. However, regulations restricting improper run-off from irrigation will be enforced.

LB 577 "The Groundwater Bill" is one of the first groundwater control bills in the nation providing primarily for local control. Only implementation will bring out any weak areas that may need clarification.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD applauds LB 577 as a step in the right direction of local controls vs. state federal controls in a field that affects everyone so closely.
