

No Promises Made But Outlook 'Good' For County Law Consolidation Plan

Student Report: Pollution Lower But Still Serious

Pollution levels in regional streams are lower this year than last year but pollution remains a serious problem. That is the finding of Wayne-Carroll biology and environmental students who periodically collect samples of water from creeks, rivers and lakes in the surrounding area. The program was started several years ago and continues under the direction of instructor Verne Mills. During the past summer, students collected water samples from sites on the Logan Creek

Council Member Did Not Request Property List

An error was made in Thursday's story in the Wayne Herald concerning discussion of the city council meeting about transfer of property from the old Wayne Hospital. The story reported that council members John Vokoc and Mrs. Carolyn Fitter had asked for a listing of property transferred and the disposition of the items. Mrs. Fitter said Thursday that she did not ask for such a list but rather had asked for clarification of the request by Vokoc. In a related matter, the Wayne Hospital Board will meet today (Monday) at noon at the Providence Medical Center dining room. According to Mrs. Marjorie Thomas, who has been serving as administrator for the Wayne Hospital, the board will release assets of the old hospital to the city. She said the city council must make the transfer to Providence Medical Center

ITUCOLN, NEBR., 68508
Approval of a request for funds to finance law enforcement consolidation in Wayne County will probably depend on the availability of money, Ken Willey of the State Crime Commission said Friday. Willey, deputy director of planning for the State Crime Commission said Friday. Willey, deputy director of planning for the State Crime Commission, was a speaker at a law enforcement workshop in Wayne, Friday.

Sponsored by the Region 11 and 25 Joint Planning Commission and Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, the workshop at the Wayne State College student center was designed to provide information about acquiring federal grants for law enforcement. About 50 county and city officials and law enforcement officers from the eight-county planning region attended the day-long seminar. Willey said in an interview before the workshop began that the State Crime Commission strongly favors law enforcement consolidation programs. Such programs haven't been in existence in Nebraska long enough to draw any conclusions, Willey said, but so far, there haven't been any negative reports.

Although Willey can't say how state crime commissioners will vote on the applications, he did provide some encouragement. "As far as I know, no application for consolidation of law enforcement services has ever been turned down in the state." Wayne County has one important thing going for it, not found everywhere, Willey said. "The cooperation between the sheriff's office and the Wayne police department is excellent. You don't find that everywhere." The deciding factor in the county application will be how much money the commission has available, Willey said. Sheriff Don Weible is presently preparing the application and said Friday it looks like the request will probably be for about $50,000. That would cover expenses for hiring and outfitting three deputies, purchasing three cars equipped with radios, and the purchase of a new base radio set. The additional manpower would provide police services in Winside, Carroll and Hoskins. If the project is approved, federal funds would cover 90 per cent of the cost the second year and 30 per cent the third year.

backed up that statement, with a qualification. "Some people have thought they had a consolidation plan, but didn't," Hesser said. "But so far, every application, which meets guidelines for consolidation has been approved." During the day-long workshop, Hesser spoke on several aspects of grant application including the application process at region, state and federal levels, and budgeting and reporting requirements by local government. Willey presented an overview of law enforcement planning, gave insights concerning what programs funds have been allocated and what local government should do in law enforcement planning. Dick Mueeting, consultant to Region 11 and 25, explained the preparation of project proposals. Each county in the eight county region has two members on the regional commission and two members are appointed at large. Wayne County representatives are Wayne police chief Vern Fairchild and county clerk Norris Weible. In addition, state probation officer Dick Brown of Wayne is a member at large.

WAYNE COUNTY SHERIFF Don Weible and Ken Willey, deputy director of planning for the State Crime Commission, discuss the application Weible is preparing to request financing for consolidated law enforcement in the county.

White Horse Drill Team Is Next for Bicentennial

The White Horse Patrol from Sioux City, IA, will present a 40 minute precision drill show Oct. 5 at the Wayne County fairgrounds. Sponsored locally by the Wayne Bicentennial committee, the patrol will present a variety of mounted acts including drills to music, a square dance and a "high school horse with a college degree". Tickets will be available at Wayne stores and will be sold door to door. Advanced sales tickets will cost $1. Gate entry for the afternoon show, beginning at 2:30 will cost $2. Children under six are admitted free. The Bicentennial committee has a number of other activities scheduled. Wayne State College Circle K members will be giving fire hydrants a new look by painting them in patriotic designs. Wildcat Daze at the college

Oct. 18 will have a Bicentennial theme. WSC professor Dr. Cornell Runestad will present a 90 minute, Bicentennial music, furnished by the J.C. Penny Foundation, at concerts March 12 and 13. The next Bicentennial committee meeting will be Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne Woman's Club Room at the city auditorium. All clubs and organizations are invited to attend.

Money Missing

Between $25.30 was reported missing from a soft drink vending machine at Phillips 66 Service, 613 Main. Station owner Ed Grashorn told police Thursday that he discovered the money missing about 5:50 p.m. Grashorn believes that someone must have used a key to enter the vending machine since there were no visible signs of a break in

'75 Community Chest Board Aims to Meet $12,900 Goal

The near success of last year's Community Chest fund raising drive in Wayne, has prompted the Chest's board of directors to continue the same format when the 1975 campaign officially gets underway next month. Prior to the official kickoff, Wayne business owners and managers will be given an opportunity to get the fund-raising drive off to a last start when an advance gifts luncheon is held at the end of this month. The luncheon, which is scheduled for Sept. 30 at the Birch Room in Wayne State's Student Union, is the only major change in this year's program. Last year a breakfast was held. "It was decided to change the advance gifts meeting to a luncheon to honor more businessmen would attend," said John Polts, board vice president. During last year's breakfast between 20 to 30 businessmen attended, he said. Purpose of the luncheon is twofold: to permit the businessmen to make their donations to the fund that afternoon and to request them to conduct the fund-raising efforts in their businesses if they wish to do so. Last year's drive netted about $17,000 of its $11,950 goal, according to board secretary-treasurer Marilyn Carhart. This year's goal will be $12,900. If the $12,900 goal is reached in this year's drive, these are the amounts which will be distributed: $3,000 to the city recreation program; $2,500 to the Boy Scouts; $2,400 to the Girl Scouts; $1,400 to the Salvation Army; $700 to the local Senior Citizens Center; $700 to the Arthritis Foundation; $500 to Red Cross; $300 to the cystic fibrosis research and $200 to the Florence Crittenton Home in Sioux City, a home for unwed mothers. About 950 of the 1,265 individuals and businesses who were contacted last year, contributed, according to Mrs. Carhart. In a breakdown of that figure, 11 gave $100 or more; 37 gave $50-99; 85 gave $25-49; 93 gave $15-24; 175 gave $10-14; 569 gave less than $10. Over 200 didn't donate. The real drive for Chest funds will begin Oct. 11 with a kickoff breakfast for board members, their captains and the workers who will be going out to ask residents for donations to the fund. That breakfast is scheduled for 7 a.m. in the Birch room with a showing of the film on the Community Chest scheduled during the gathering. President of the Chest's board of directors, Kern Swartz, an attorney for a local law firm, and drive chairman, Bill Workman, manager of Energy Systems, will speak to both groups. Helping Workman with this year's drive will be Don Zeiss, Wayne Carroll High School principal. If all the workers canvass the area, board members are hopeful the drive will meet this year's $12,900 goal within two weeks after the kickoff breakfast. Serving on the board are Dave Ley, Kay Swerczek, Bob Reep, Bob Bartlett, Laura Franklin, Neil Dinges and Dick Manley.

Leland Herman Selected For Ak-Sar-Ben Award

Leland Herman of Wayne is one of four Nebraskans selected to receive an Ak-Sar-Ben Agricultural Achievement Award this year. The presentation will be made at a dinner Sept. 22 preceding the 7:30 p.m. performance of the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock show and Rodeo in Omaha. Leland is presently serving as a chairman of the board of the American Polled Hereford Association. Long a proponent of the breed, Leland first began raising polled Herefords in 1941. "I've probably been in the business as long as anyone now operating in the state," he said. In addition to his present office, Herman has held the following posts: vice chairman and member of the American Polled Hereford Association board of directors, president of the Nebraska Polled Hereford Association and president of the Wayne County Farm Bureau. He is now president of the Wayne County Agricultural Association and has served on the organization's board of directors. As owner of Hervalde Farms he has exhibited polled Herefords successfully throughout the continent. Two Dixon County families will join an elite group at the Ak-Sar-Ben dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kneiff and Michael D. McCabe, all of rural Newcastle, will be named as Nebraska Pioneer Farm Families. Recipients of the award must live on land owned by their family for 100 or more years. The Sierra Club Will Meet The Sierra Club's Elkhorn Valley Group will meet on Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the Birch Room at Wayne State's student center. The evening's program will include a slide presentation by See SIERRA, page 10.

Sunny September

OVERNIGHT LOWS in the 30 degree range have made night a bit nippy this week but sunny September afternoons have been just right for outdoor physical education classes at St. Mary's Catholic School in Wayne. At left Wayne State College student Neil Lazon explains a game to Laura Keating, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Keating, and Kathy Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guyton. Below, a misstep during a game of "Duck Duck Goose" put Shannon Dorsey into a hands and knees scramble, pursued by class mate Mark Wurdinger.

Adult Class Meets Tonight

The first meeting for an adult education class in Wayne meets tonight (Monday) in room 202 of the Wayne Carroll high school. The course is aimed at qualifying people to pass a certification test so they can receive a high school equivalency diploma. Mrs. Leola Moller will be instructing the course, which will cover subjects including language, arithmetic, social studies and science. Classes will meet weekly on Monday nights from 7 to 9.

Wayne Considered for Drug Center

Wayne city and Chamber of Commerce officials could shed no light on a report that Wayne is one of at least two communities being considered as a possible site for an extension of the Valley of Hope chemical rehabilitation center in Norton, Kan. According to a story in Thursday's edition of the Frontier and Holt County Independent, published in O'Neill, that city and Wayne are being considered for the project. Three members of the Norton Center and a sister from Long Pine spoke to nearly 50 persons from O'Neill at a special meeting to outline the work of the hospital which treats primarily alcoholic addiction but also handles drug addicts. The community selected would be required to raise $400,000 locally to build and maintain a 72 bed facility for three years, after which it should be self sufficient. Valley of Hope is incorporated in Nebraska as a non-profit corporation. With centers in Norton and Atchison, Kan., and Cushing, Okla., Valley of Hope treats patients at a cost of $25 a day, although spokesmen said no one is turned away for inability to pay. The center wants to establish a center in Nebraska and O'Neill and Wayne are among communities being considered. See CENTER, page 10.

Plans for a new lagoon sewer system at Hoskins were okayed Thursday night during a public hearing. Next step is to issue warrants for $28,000 to purchase about 18 acres of land for the new sewer to be located west of town, according to board officials. Hoskins has until Sept. 25 to issue the warrants or possible have to have the land repurchased. Earlier, the land owned by Walter Fenske was appraised at $1,500 an acre by three land appraisers. The additional $28,000 tacked on to the estimated cost of the lagoon brings the total to about $130,000. During Thursday night's meeting, board members said they felt that the additional amount would not have to come from the sewer use fund. Right now monthly sewer use fees are $3. No starting date for construction by a Pender firm has been set.

The county recently completed a road structure in section 36 of Chapin precinct known as the Theis-Nieman structure. This was constructed instead of replacing a bridge. The estimated cost of a new bridge was $30,000. The cost of the road structure was $9,411. Through the cost-sharing program of the Lower Elkhorn NRD on road structures the payment to the county was $4,411. A total saving of approximately $25,000 to the county. The Soil Conservation Service designed the structure.

Construction is beginning on the first major flood control reservoir in the Elkhorn Basin with authorization of bids for the Maskenthine Flood Control and Recreation Project near Stanton.

Nearly nine and one-half square miles of rolling cropland will be controlled to protect the town of Stanton, as well as, reduce flood damages on down the Elkhorn River.

A contract for clearing the flood pool was awarded to R & K Construction of Stanton with Thiesen Brothers of Norfolk the low bidder on the dam construction.

Assistant Manager Glenn Spreeman explained that "allowing timeout for being shut down for winter weather construction should be completed by the end of July, 1976."

Recreation construction will then continue in 1976 and 1977. The Maskenthine Recreation will most likely be opened to the public in 1978.

HEALTH TIP
FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION
Shock should not be confused with simple fainting or natural apprehension and anxiety which often accompanies injury. The Nebraska Medical Association (NMA) says traumatic shock is a very serious condition.

Traumatic shock is caused by the failure of enough blood to circulate through the body. It may accompany serious burns, wounds or fractures. In most instances, traumatic shock is caused by loss of large quantities of blood or body fluids either externally or internally.

A shock victim may be pale, cold and have moist skin. He may have vacant eyes, a weak and rapid pulse, and be nauseous or unconscious.

The NMA suggests these first-aid measures for shock while medical help is sought. Keep the patient lying down and quiet. Cover the patient to keep him warm and treat him carefully and gently. Stimulants are of no value in traumatic shock. You should give first aid for the underlying injuries, however.

Observes Birthday
Erwin Record, Osmond, and the Doug Hanks family, Stanton, were Sunday supper guests in the Wayne Hanks home honoring Julie Hanks of Stanton for her tenth birthday.

The Harold Meyers, Hillsboro, Ore., were Tuesday and Wednesday visitors in the Gilmore Sals home. He is a cousin of Gilmore.

The Fred Eckerts, Northfield, Minn., are spending a few days in the home of their daughter, The John Bowerses.

Willow Bowl Pops Concert Is Thursday

A pops concert in the Willow Bowl Thursday evening will be the season's first performance of the Wayne State jazz band. Townspeople are invited to join colleagues at the 6-45 concert of music in the lighter vein.

Director Ray Ketton suggests the audience might want to bring along blankets and a picnic lunch — and kids and dogs are welcome.

Soprano Connie Webber of the WSC music faculty will solo in Gerwin's "Summertime."

"It's a Grand Night for Singing," and selections from "Sound of Music." She also will lead a sing-a-long.

Another feature will be Leroy Anderson's "Bugler's Holiday," a specialty of the trumpet selection with Les Owen, Patricia Schumacher, Steve Lussier, Jim Conley, Bruce Classen, Debbie Freeman, Janelle Grotjohn, Curtis Jeffries and Daneze Kuhn.

The jazz band's program also includes selections from "Man of LaMancha," Carter's "Overture for Winds," and a variety of current pop hits, such as "The Horse in Mercy," and "Say, Has Anybody Seen My Sweet Gypsy Rose?"

Expert Says Harvesting Grain Cheapest With High Moisture

Harvesting corn or milo as high moisture grain is the cheapest way, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension livestock specialist.

"Higher and higher fuel costs make it more important that harvesting, processing and storage costs be kept low," believes Paul Guyer.

"Field losses are minimized, cost of drying is eliminated and expensive processing is not required with high moisture grain. And feed value is increased in milo, when it is stored as ground high moisture grain. Feed value of shelled corn appears to be improved some, when you store and feed it as whole grain."

Other advantages named by Guyer include greater use of stalks and stubble by grazing livestock, or earlier plowing, and less weather problems compared to later harvest.

Major disadvantages are that processing, if needed, adds an extra operator at harvest time, and the grain can only be used one way - it must be fed to livestock, preferably within a few days.

Guyer sees the farmer feeder as having a distinct advantage in reducing feed costs for beef cattle when compared with operators of large lots where corn is fed in flaked or other highly processed forms. "Since farmer feeders are raising their own grain, they can design systems to cut their total harvest and storage costs, whereas most large operators must buy most of their feedstuffs."

High moisture corn can be stored ground in trench bunker or upright silos, or whole in oxygen limiting bins or silos. It can also be put in the various types of storage in dry, treated with moisture, or in bunker silos if mixed with 10 to 15 per cent high moisture, finely chopped roughage.

High moisture corn stored whole appears to have greater feed value than dry corn or high moisture corn ground as it is harvested and stored.

High moisture corn stored ground does not produce as rapid gain as dry corn in high concentrate rations. To overcome this problem, Guyer says feeders have 1 added 25.40 per cent.

CROP Committee Meets Thursday

The area CROP committee will be making plans Thursday morning for a "hunger walk" in October.

The committee, meeting at 10 a.m. at the Evangelical Free Church in Concord, tentatively plans to have the walk Oct. 19 from 1:30 to 6 p.m., beginning and ending at the Dixon County Fair Grounds.

Rev. Bob Neben of the United Methodist Church in Laurel is chairman for the committee. He said it is hoped that there will be participants in the walk from Wayne, Wakefield, Allen, Dixon, Laurel, Belden and Concord communities.

The language of the ancient African kingdom of Meroe, which flourished between 600 B.C. and A.D. 400, was written in hieroglyphics that showed a strong similarity with the Egyptian.

College Bound? Don't Forget Entrance Tests

Wayne Carroll High School seniors who will be college bound next fall are asked by guidance counselor Ken Carlson to contact him as soon as possible about ACT or SAT test registration.

Carlson said that many colleges and universities, including the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, require students who plan to apply for financial aid to have completed by January 1974, all necessary forms including the required entrance test.

Because the two tests are given only a few times each year, it is important that the first possible date - October for the ACT and November for the SAT - be used for financial aid applications. Carlson suggested that students complete application for the two tests before the end of September. Sept. 27 is the ACT registration deadline.

Carlson also urged all seniors in the top one-fourth of their class, scholastically, to register for the ACT test. Completion of the test is a requirement in order to apply for the University of Nebraska Regents Scholarship program.

The Regents scholarship program awards thousands of dollars in tuition each year to Nebraska high school students who do well on the test. Date for the test is Oct. 18 at Wayne State College.

Wayne Man Stricken While Attending Camp

National Guard Sergeant Dennis Spangler of Wayne is recuperating at home following his release from Providence Medical Center where he was treated for sleeping sickness.

Spangler, a full-time employee of the National Guard, is administrative and supply technician for the Wayne unit. He contracted the disease while attending camp at Camp Ripley, Minn.

Doctors have ordered a 30-day recuperation period and Spangler is resting at home. His wife said Friday he was hospitalized at Camp Ripley for two weeks, then transferred to Providence Medical Center in Wayne. He was released Aug. 28.

According to reports, two or three Minnesota men have died of the disease Mrs. Spangler said that as far as she knows, no other Nebraska Guardsmen were afflicted.

The Omaha World Herald reported Friday that encephalitis is suspected as the cause of death of an elderly Sutton woman and a Gothenburg boy.

Dr. Paul Stoess, head of the Nebraska Health Department disease control division, said there are probably 50-60 cases of encephalitis in Nebraska but not all have been reported.
