Poor Pillsbury Man

BY LYNETTE HANSEN
Grade 8

The following story was one of several written by School District 51 students as part of a language class. For more Halloween stories, turn to page three of section two.

It was Halloween and I was going trick or treating. I was going to this certain house. I heard a lot of noise. I knocked at the door and the people asked me inside. A girl named Sally was there and she wanted me to stay over night. I called my mother and she said I could.

We went up to her room. After we had talked awhile, we fell asleep. This is when my dream started.

I heard a loud bang in the closet down stairs. I opened it and out came the remains of the Pillsbury Dough Man. I think all of a sudden I fell in the dough, and Dracula was hanging from the chandelier, looking down at me. He said, "Where is Pillsbury Dough Man. I want to punch his stomach." He helped me out and in the room there was lots of newsmen looking at the press.

Then I went upstairs to watch the late, late movie on T.V. in the hall. I turned it on and this is what I heard:

"Flash Pillsbury Dough Man was kidnapped. The thieves were poking him in the stomach. All at a sudden he blew up from laughing so much. The interior of the house is tilted. Workmen will tear it down tomorrow. Please, no sight-seers."

I woke up the next morning and ran downstairs. It had just been a dream and I was glad.

Farmers Night Chairman Expects Record Number

Wayne Chamber of Commerce members will honor farmers for their contributions to the community by sponsoring the fifth annual Farmers Appreciation Night dinner, Nov. 15 at the Wayne State College Student Union.

Dinner chairman Dr. Ken Lisika is expecting a record number of farmers and businessmen to attend the dinner. Maximum capacity for the Student Center is 500. Lisika said, and he is expecting a full house.

Last year's record attendance was 450.

Farmers wishing to attend should sign up early. Lisika said, because of the limited number of seats available. Applications can be obtained at participating businesses. Tickets and name tags will be mailed prior to the event.

Chest Drive Near Halfway Of '75 Goal

With about 33 per cent of the cards yet to be turned in Tuesday night, Wayne's Community Chest fund drive stood at about 50 per cent of its goal.

A total of $6,350 had been collected Tuesday evening, about $50 short of this year's goal of $132,900, according to Marilyn Barbart, secretary treasurer of the drive.

Workers in the drive who have not finished contacting individuals for donations to this year's drive are being urged by drive officials to finish that job by Friday so the drive will not drag into another week.

This year's fund drive will help finance nine different agencies. Including two local ones which aim their activities at the elderly and the youth.

If the drive reaches its goals. See CHEST DRIVE, page 12

Tots Treated For Burns

Two young boys were treated Monday at Providence Medical Center in Wayne for burns received in unrelated accidents.

Jeremy Tramp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tramp, was treated for what Dr. Robert Bentback described as fairly extensive first and second degree burns on his chest, abdomen and arms. The 16-month-old boy was transferred to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Lincoln where he was listed in good condition Tuesday afternoon.

She replaces Ron Millage who resigned effective Oct. 17 after a year as director. He has returned to the Raskin Packing house in Sioux City where he has worked previously. Millage said at the time of his resignation that he hopes to enter social services work with the state of Iowa.

Miss Ohling is a native of Steamboat Rock, Ia. She studied pre-physical therapy and received a bachelor of arts degree in American studies in August, 1973 from Mankato State College at Mankato, Minn. She was employed as a physical therapy assistant at the Aldora, Ia. Community Hospital before joining the Rehabilitation Services workshop staff.

In addition to Wayne and the sponsoring Wisner-Pilger band, Springfield Plattview, Aurora, and Wahoo Neumann were Class B schools gaining the top rating.

County Planners To Set Policy For Land Use

Members of the Wayne County Joint Planning Commission Tuesday night will review information regarding land use now being collected by State Office of Planning and Programming (SOPP) employees.

The SOPP workers are taking an inventory of land use in the county, noting the location of industrial sites, public facilities and other factors vital to land use planning.

The planning commissioners will review the information and begin establishing a land use policy for the county.

At the commission's October meeting, chairman Phil Olsson of Carroll ratified the contract with SOPP for planning services. With the help of consultant Jeff Poley, the commission will formulate a comprehensive plan for Wayne County. See PLANNERS, page 17

Council Split on Liquor Tax

The Wayne city council Tuesday night voted to recommend to the State Liquor Commission that Class C liquor licenses be granted to Korn's Nu Tavern and Les' Steak House.

However, they failed to pass a proposed ordinance to set the occupation tax rate on that type of license.

It passed on final reading at the next council meeting, the tax ordinance would establish the occupation tax at the maximum allowed by state statute — twice the amount of the license fee.

In addition to establishing the tax rate for Class C licenses, the proposed ordinance would also increase the tax on other licenses, now set below statutory limit.

The measure failed to gain the necessary three-fourths vote which would have allowed final reading at the Tuesday night meeting. Negative votes were cast by council members Vernon Russell, John Vakoc and Jimmie Thomas. The councilmen have questioned whether it is fair to levy that high occupation tax against establishments selling liquor when no similar tax can be assessed against other businesses.

Monies from the tax go into the city's coffers, the licensing fees go to the school district.

The council recommendation that Class C liquor licenses be granted to Korn's Nu Tavern and Les' Steak House should mean the two businesses will soon receive the licenses from the state. The liquor commission has final say on such matters, but usually follows the recommendations of municipalities if no objections are filed.

Approval of both recommendations was pending over Russell's dissenting vote.

Granting of the licenses will mean battle club liquor licenses can no longer be issued in Wayne, although those establishments now holding such licenses will be allowed to keep them until they expire May 1.

The owners of the Black Knight lounge and bar and the El Toro lounge have also applied for Class C licenses. Public hearings on the two applications were scheduled for the next week. See COUNCIL, page 12

Gift Shop Now Open

MRS. GORDON Nuernberger arranges a display of some of the items offered at the gift shop at Providence Medical Center. The shop opened Oct. 10 and is operated by the hospital auxiliary. Gift shop chairman Mrs. Robert Bentback said most of the gifts are hand made and are donated to the auxiliary. Included are stuffed toys, stained glass figurines, dolls, hanging plants and a variety of other items. Volunteers from the auxiliary unit open the shop from 1:30 to 3:30 and from 6:30 to 8:30 every afternoon and evening. All proceeds go toward support of the hospital. Gift shop committee members in addition to Mrs. Bentback are Mrs. Cal Ward, Mrs. Carl Lentz, Mrs. Orval Brandstetter, Mrs. Lyle Seymour, Mrs. Al Cramer and Mrs. Cliff Walt.

Report: Local Families Moving Into Higher Income Brackets

Because most Wayne County residents are earning more than they did in other years, and because more women are working and bringing home pay checks these days, many local families have moved into higher income brackets.

To the extent that the added cash helps them to cope with the never ending rise in the cost of living, it is a good thing to the extent that it puts them into more costly tax brackets, it is bad.

Some local families, whose earnings had, gravely been below $8,000, have graduated to the $10,000 and over level. Their former spots have been taken over, in the progression, by those who had been receiving less than $8,000.

Just where they stand, currently, is brought out in a copyrighted report issued by Sales Management. It details, for every section of the country, the percentage of families that fall within each income bracket.

In Wayne County, it shows, 55.1 per cent of the local households had disposable incomes in the past year, after payment of their personal taxes, of $8,000 or more.

This was a greater proportion than was found in many parts of the country.

The purpose of the survey was to gain a better understanding of each community's purchasing power than was revealed solely through its average income figure.

It shows whether there are a small number of high-income families making up for a large number with small incomes or whether earnings are more equally distributed.

The breakdown figures for Wayne County show that 19.4 percent of the families had after-tax incomes of $5,000 to $8,000 in the past year, that 17.2 percent at the $10,000 to $15,000 level and that 21.7 percent had incomes above $15,000. The remaining families had $5,000 or less after taxes.

Because the survey takes into account only cash income, it does not do full justice to farm communities, where income-kind and lower living costs are an important factors it is noted.

Although incomes have been on the rise for most Americans, so have rising expenses. Nationally, there was a net loss of nearly five per cent in buying power last year.

Mrs. Marks said she favors the NSEA's endorsing the presidential candidate who takes the most favorable stance for education. That isn't likely to be President Gerald Ford, according to Mrs. Marks, who described the President's policies as "not favorable to education."

Kern Swartz, a Wayne attorney, also addressed the District III teachers regarding the Federal Privacy Act of 1974.

Halloween Happenings Planned

The Wayne Herald and the Morning Shopper will sponsor the annual free Halloween Costume Party Friday afternoon at 4 at the Gay Theater in Wayne.

Costumes will be judged at 4 by members of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center. Prizes will be awarded for the best overall costume, the scariest costumes for girls and boys and the funniest costumes for girls and boys.

The matinee movie will feature Don Knotts in "The Ghost and Mr. Chicken." Admission is free and all youngsters are invited to attend.

The Mrs. Jaycees are also sponsoring a Halloween happening. Their Haunted House doors creaked open Wednesday at the city fire hall and will be open today (Thursday) and Friday from 6 to 9 p.m.

Admission price is 50 cents. Included in the Haunted House tour is a cemetery, a maze, hearse horseman and other creatures calculated to give "the scare of a lifetime."

Adults will have their special Halloween event, too. Saturday night, at the Wayne Lions Club masquerade dance.

The event will feature the band, Grand Junction, performing at the Wayne National Guard armory from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Advance sale tickets, available from Wayne Lions, cost $1.50. Tickets at the door are $2.

Chairman Larry Skokan said the dance is open to everyone and costumes are not required.

Like to learn how to can peaches? Or maybe plant a garden, sow a pair of peas or find out what type of trees would probably do well in your yard?

Information on those and several hundred other topics is probably as close as county agent Don Spitz's office.

In fact, the county agent has on hand at any one time, 627 different bulletins issued by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, on topics connected with agriculture, home economics and lawn and garden care.

"We're part of the University extension service," Spitz explained, "and our main function is providing information."

Extension staff members are constantly updating old bulletins and writing new ones. About 1,400 titles are available at any one time.

Space limitations prevent keeping copies of all bulletins on hand, but many of them, on say, sugar beets, aren't applicable to this area. Spitz and home economist Linda Sanders try to have available the bulletins they think will be most in demand.

Despite the variety of bulletins available, Spitz estimates that probably 90 per cent of those distributed by his offices would probably involve 18 individual bulletins.

Got a Question? Extension Service Bulletins Probably Have the Answer

ANOTHER BULLETIN is posted by county extension secretary Mrs. Dorothy Grone. The office has available over 600 bulletins on a variety of home economic, agriculture and horticulture topics. State-wide distribution of bulletins by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service totals over two million annually.

In agriculture, for example, popular titles would include "Herbicide Use in Nebraska"

Home economic bulletins in demand would include "Freezing Fruit and Vegetables" and "Sewing Women's Slacks."

Most popular horticulture bulletin is "Broadleaf Trees in Nebraska"

In addition to variety of topics, the bulletins also run the gamut in both makeup and content. The simplest are 40 tin are folded, four-page pamphlets. At the other end of the spectrum, a 56 page book on broadleaf trees is done in a slick-page magazine format complete with four color photos of each tree and color maps showing where each variety thrives.

And Nebraskans do ask for the extension bulletins, in large numbers. Last year, 2.8 million were distributed in the state. Records haven't been maintained at the county level but Spitz said the annual number for Wayne County would be in the thousands. January, February and March are the months of heaviest demand because many people coming to the court house to pay taxes will stop in at the county agent's office and pick up the bulletins they want for next year.

Spitz said, however, that it isn't necessary to come in person. A telephone call or letter will suffice. Often, bulletin titles and numbers will be referred to in magazine articles, particularly in farm journals, and requests for specific bulletins will be made.

But if someone asks for a bulletin by subject matter only, that's fine, too. Spitz said, He or secretary Mrs. Dorothy Grone, who handles a majority of the bulletins requests, can usually go to a catalogue and find a title to fit the subject.

While the number of requests is already high, Spitz thinks more people could make use of the bulletins.

"I think just about anyone could come in here and find a bulletin of interest to them. The range is that broad."

"The way I feel about it is, the bulletins are doing absolutely no good sitting on the rack," he continued. "We want to get them into the hands of people who can use them."

The level of content is also wide-ranged. Information is some bulletins is for beginners, such as how to plant a garden, while another details the principles of genetics in crossbreeding, which makes for college-level reading.

PEOPLE

Home Extension Clubs Extend 'Come Join Us' Invite to Homemakers

If you're interested in "building a better way" in your personal, family and community life, join a home extension club.

That's the message home extension club members are sending as they extend a "come join us" invitation to residents in the area. Using the theme "Build a Better Way," homemakers presently enrolled in clubs are launching a membership campaign and calling attention to the merits and satisfactions they've gained through membership in home extension clubs.

"We want people to know the kinds of activities going on in home extension clubs and make it known that everyone is welcome," said Mrs. Richard Longe, Wayne county member ship chairman.

"Many persons think home extension clubs are limited only to rural homemakers. This certainly isn't the case," Mrs. Longe said. "We have exciting programs for clubs in both the rural and urban environment, and there are activities that should be of interest to homemakers of any age," she added.

Mrs. Longe went on to explain that through involvement in a home extension club, individuals can enrich their personal and family life as well as improve their homemaking skills.

The membership chairman said every year leader training programs are available to home extension clubs in the area from the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service. Club representatives may attend these sessions and present the information to their club members.

Program topics include food and nutrition, consumer practices, textiles and clothing, family economics, home furnishing and housing.

Another idea being stressed is that educational programs offered by the Cooperative Extension Service are open to anyone on a non-discriminatory basis, regardless of race, color, national origin or economic status.

Persons interested in starting a home extension club or becoming a member should contact their county extension office.

He also talked briefly on the current situation in the Middle East and Korea and answered questions put to him by the women.

The Wayne Woman's Club presented the speaker with a gift of $50 for the Wayne State Foundation. Peterson serves as president of the foundation and is distinguished professor of political science at Wayne State College.

Preceding Peterson's talk, music chairman Mrs. Hazel Smith introduced Mrs. Keith Kopperud and accompanied her as she sang three selections popular 50 years ago.

Stalk Rental Prices Suggested

"Grain farmers who plan to rent stalks out for pasture or sell them to be chopped and moved may find there is no going rate."

According to Phil Henderson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural economist, the old 10 cents per head per day rule of thumb was prevalent when hay was worth $20 a ton.

"Since the use of stalk pasture is a substitute for feeding hay, it seems logical to relate the per head per day charge to the price of hay," Henderson advises. "If hay is worth $40 a ton in a particular area, my recommendation would be to think in terms of 20 cents per head per day."

However, rates were quoted more often in dollars per acre in an extension service survey last winter of stalk pasture charges in the different crop reporting districts of Nebraska. The per head per day charge tends to protect the buyer, Henderson says, because if it snows, the buyer can pull the cattle out and won't be charged for feed the animals can't eat.

The survey showed that apparently very few corn stalk or milo stubble fields are rented in the southeastern, south central or panhandle areas of the state.

Average rates for dryland ranged from $2.06 per acre in the northeast area to $5.00 in both the east central and south central. For irrigated land, $2.25 was the low (southeast) and $13 the high (west north central), per head per day rates varied from 10 cents in the south central to 20 cents in the west central.

In years like 1975 when ear drop has been excessive, an increase in per acre rental rate might be justified, especially in area where there is a high demand for winter feed. The price could be adjusted by checking the price of corn locally and taking one-half to one-third the per-bushel price.

times the excess bushels on the ground. Add that to the rate for a field with normal ear drop. Of the small number of renters renting or selling milo stubble, rates quoted were slightly lower than for dryland corn, Henderson adds.

He suggests that those planning to sell stalks to be chopped and removed consider the following:

1. Removing the crop residues also removes nutrients that would be plowed under and returned to the soil.
2. Organic matter is also removed; this is a more important consideration on some soils than others.
3. Removing the stubble reduces the amount of snow that is caught and held, affecting the soil's moisture level.
4. The land is then more subject to erosion. "You might want to consider selling two rows and leaving two rows alternately across your fields," suggests the NU economist.

The fertility value alone should make you charge $7.50-10 an acre, dried in eastern Nebraska; $12-13 on irrigated land if all the plant material is removed, he calculates. "That's assuming the corn is of normal maturity. Drought-stricken corn might be worth more on a per ton basis because there are more nutrients left in the plant."

"Everything considered, a ballpark figure would be about $10 per acre on dryland and $15 on irrigated land.

DON'T FORGET TO WATER YOUR TREES

Trees, like any living, growing thing need moisture throughout the year, not just when they leaves are green.

The drought condition of the area this fall could result in the loss of many trees and shrubs. All broadleaf trees and shrubs planted within the past three or four years should be watered thoroughly. Water a soil area around the base of the tree approximating the circumference of the crown of the tree. Most water absorbed by a tree is taken up through the small root hairs at the ends of the large roots. For this reason, water applied a few feet from the base of the tree is most effective. Water should be applied before ground freezes.

A garden hose with a small amount of water running for three or four hours until the ground is thoroughly soaked is effective.

Evergreens, even older established trees, are particularly susceptible to winter drying and need moisture even more than broadleaf trees and shrubs. In jury occurs in late winter or early spring before new growth starts, when we have rather warm dry days together with strong winds. These conditions result in a desiccation for the foliage because the trees are not able to replace the moisture lost through excessive transpiration.

Tree losses in farm wind breaks and home plantings can be very extensive and costly. The damage shows up early in the growing season. The trees may put on new growth, using up what reserve food is stored in the roots, and then begin to decline. Injured trees may only have dead tips or entire branches will turn brown and die.

For evergreens that are already established the following steps can be taken to prepare them for winter and prevent winter injury.

Crop, Rangeland Conditions Called Near Explosive

With dry, windy weather which has caused near explosive condition on Nebraska crop and rangeland, motorists driving in or near grassy fields are warned of the fire-starting potential of vehicle exhaust systems.

Donald E. Westover, fire management coordinator with the University of Nebraska Department of Forestry, said vehicles driving or idling in grassy areas can easily start a fire if the grass is long enough to come in contact with part of the exhaust system.

"Fire danger has been either extreme or very high throughout the state very day for the past two and one-half months, Westover said. Coupled with this hazardous condition is an influx of farmers, hunters, campers and other visitors taking advantage of a warm, open fall to be out in timber-dry fields and rangeland."

Many 1975 automobiles and trucks are even more likely to start fires because of the catalytic converters used in exhaust systems, Westover said. The problem arises when engines are malfunctioning due to prolonged idling or simply not being "tuned" properly, he explained.

"U.S. Forest Service test have revealed tailpipe temperatures in excess of 1,200 degrees F. on converter-equipped cars with malfunctioning engines. Temperatures of only 500 degrees F. will ignite grass in a field," he warned.

"This means that all vehicle exhaust systems, with or without catalytic converters, have the potential to ignite dry grass, Westover emphasized. He urged all persons having occasion to drive in grassy areas to avoid fall grass whenever possible.

This and That...

from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

Water the trees thoroughly in the fall.

Soak the ground around the trees before it freezes. Continue watering during the winter months whenever the ground thaws out and water will be taken in.

Mulch around trees to prevent deep freezing. Even if the soil moisture is good, evergreens have difficulty getting enough through frozen soil.

In summary, broadleafed trees and shrubs less than four years old and most evergreens need additional moisture this fall. This added moisture may be the best thing you can do to insure healthy trees and shrubs next year.

"Let them pick up the grain that is easiest to find and then follow with the cow herd."

If you prefer to use corn stalks just for the cow herd, it is probably best to graze younger cows ahead of older cows. "Younger cows need better feed than older cows, except the very old which really should be sold for slaughter with cow prices as they are and replaced with young cows."

"Besides, younger cows are less likely to founder than older cows that are more greedy and

Grazing Said Best Way To Utilize Dropped Ears

A higher than normal ear drop means there are some corn fields around with 15 or more bushels of grain per acre that can be recovered by turning cattle into the field.

Corn borer damage, extremely dry weather and high winds joined forces to cause the ear drop, notes Paul Guyer, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension livestock specialist.

"Yearling or 2-year-old finishing cattle probably can make the best use of this," Guyer suggests. "Cattle should be green—just starting on feed—and should be trained to eat corn off the cob by feeding ear corn or chopped ear corn for a few days in the lot before turning into the field."

"And remember, don't turn hungry cattle into the fields. Make sure their bellies are full first," he cautions.

Cattle will need from one to one and one-half pounds of protein per day while grazing, he adds.

Best use of the corn residues will be made if cattle are allowed to graze about a week's supply of grain and then moved to a fresh area. "Don't graze an area heavily," the NU livestock specialist says. "Let them pick up the grain that is easiest to find and then follow with the cow herd."

more accustomed to eating corn."

Both young and old cows should find adequate nutrition in the early stages of grazing because of the grain available. After most of the grain and leaves are gone and cows are forced to eat mainly stalks, about one pound of protein supplement should be fed.

During later grazing, cows should also be getting a phosphorus and mineral supplement. Vitamin A also needs to be given if cows continue to graze to within 60-90 days of calving.

Stalk Rental Prices Suggested

Rent stalks which plan to rent grain out-for-pasture or sell them to be chopped and removed may find there is no "going rate."

According to Phil Henderson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural economist, the old 10 cents per head per day rule of thumb was prevalent when hay was worth $20 a ton.

"Since the use of stalk pasture is a substitute for feeding hay, it seems logical to relate the price of stalk to the price of hay," Henderson advises. "If hay is worth $40 a ton in a particular area, my recommendation would be to think in terms of 20 cents per head per day."

However, rates were quoted more often in dollars per acre in an extension service survey last winter of stalk pasture charges in the different crop reporting districts of Nebraska. The per head per day charge tends to protect the buyer, Henderson says, because if the cow, the buyer can pull the cattle out and won't be charged for feed the animals can't get.

The survey showed that apparently very few corn stalk or milo stubble fields are rented in the southeastern, south central or panhandle areas of the state.

Average rates for dryland ranged from $2.06 per acre in the northeast area to $5.00 in both the east central and south central. For irrigated land, $2.25 was the low (southeast) and $13 the high (west north central), per head per day rates, varied from 10 cents in the south central to 20.8 cents in the west central.

In years like 1975 when ear drop has been excessive, an increase in per acre rental rate might be justified, especially in an area where there is a high demand for winter feed. The price could be adjusted by checking the price of corn locally and taking one-half to one-third the per-bushel price.

Area Extension Specialists Are NCEA Officers

Two extension specialists employed at the Northeast Extension Station near Concord were named as section officers of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Association (NCEA) at the organization's annual meeting in North Platte Oct. 22.

Don Kubik, area extension dairy specialist, was selected as a new section board of directors member.

Gladys Stout, home economist in expanded nutrition, is section chairman.

Marlyr Low, Madison County agent, is the new NCEA president. Jayne Bierman, area extension agent for Hamilton and Merrick is vice president.

times the excess bushels on the ground. Add that to the rate for a field with normal ear drop.

Of the small number of respondents renting or selling milo stubble, rates quoted were slightly lower than for dryland corn, Henderson adds.

He suggests that those planning to sell stalks to be chopped and removed consider the following:

1. Removing the crop residue also removes nutrients that would be plowed under and returned to the soil.
2. Organic matter is also removed; this is a more important consideration on some soils than others.
3. Removing the stubble reduces the amount of snow that is caught and held, affecting the soil's moisture level.
4. The land is then more subject to erosion. "You might want to consider selling two rows and leaving two rows alternately across your fields," suggests the NU economist.

The fertility value alone should make you charge $7.50-$8 an acre on dryland in eastern Nebraska; $12-13 on irrigated land if all the plant material is removed, he calculates. "That's assuming the corn is of normal maturity. Drought-stricken corn might be worth more on a per ton basis because there are more nutrients left in the plant."

"Everything considered, a ballpark figure would be about $10 per acre on dryland and $15 on irrigated land."

"The nutrients in milo might make it worth a little more per ton, but there would be less tonnage so the overall price would be a little less per acre," he concludes.

DON'T FORGET TO WATER YOUR TREES

Water the trees thoroughly in the fall. Soak the ground around the trees before it freezes. Continue watering during the winter months whenever the ground thaws out and water will be taken in.

Mulch around trees to prevent deep freezing. Even if the soil moisture is good, evergreens have difficulty getting enough through frozen soil.

In summary, broadleaved trees and shrubs less than four years old and most evergreens need additional moisture this fall. This added moisture may be the best thing you can do to insure healthy trees and shrubs next year.

A garden hose with a small amount of water running for three or four hours until the ground is thoroughly soaked is effective.

Evergreens, even older established trees, are particularly susceptible to winter drying and need moisture even more than broadleaved trees and shrubs. Injury occurs in late winter or early spring before new growth starts, when we have rather warm dry days together with strong winds. These conditions result in a desiccation for the foliage because the trees are not able to replace the moisture lost through excessive transpiration.

Tree losses in farm wood breaks and home plantings can be very extensive and costly. The damage shows up early in the growing season. The trees may pull or show growth, using up that reserve food stored in the roots, and then begin to decline. Injured trees may only have dead tips or entire branches will turn brown and die.

For evergreens that are already established the following steps can be taken to prepare them for winter and prevent weather injury.

Crop, Rangeland Conditions Called Near Explosive

With dry, windy weather which has caused near explosive condition on Nebraska crop and rangeland, motorists driving in or near grassy fields are warned of the fire-starting potential of vehicle exhaust systems.

Donald E. Westover, fire management coordinator with the University of Nebraska Department of Forestry, said vehicles driving or idling in grassy areas can easily start a fire if the grass is long enough to come in contact with part of the exhaust system.

Fire danger has been either extreme or very high throughout the state every day for the past two and one-half months, Westover said. Coupled with this hazardous condition is an influx of farmers, hunters, campers and other visitors taking advantage of a warm, open fall to be out in tinder-dry fields and rangeland.

Many 1975 automobiles and trucks are even more likely to start fires because of the catalytic converters used in exhaust systems, Westover said. The problem arises when engines are malfunctioning due to prolonged idling or simply not being "tuned" properly, he explained.

"U.S. Forest Service test have revealed tailpipe temperatures in excess of 1,200 degrees F. on converter-equipped cars with malfunctioning engines. Temperatures of only 500 degrees F. will ignite grass in a field," he warned.

"This means that all vehicle exhaust systems, with or without catalytic converters, have the potential to ignite dry grass," Westover emphasized. He urged all persons having occasion to drive in grassy areas to avoid tail grass whenever possible.

Scores of wildfires have kept rural firemen busy this month, with one blaze burning 18,000 acres and another 6,000 acres, Westover concluded.

Grazing Said Best Way To Utilize Dropped Ears

A higher than normal ear drop means there are some corn fields around with 15 or more bushels of grain per acre that can be recovered by turning cattle into the field.

Corn borer damage, extremely dry weather and high winds joined forces to cause the ear drop, notes Paul Guyer, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension livestock specialist.

"Yearling or 2-year-old finishing cattle probably can make the best use of this," Guyer suggests. "Cattle should be green-just starting on feed, and should be trained to eat corn off the cob by feeding ear corn or chopped ear corn for a few days in the lot before turning into the field."

"And remember, don't turn hungry cattle into the fields. Make sure their bellies are full first," he cautions.

Cattle will need from one to one and one-half pounds of protein per day while grazing, he adds.

Best use of the corn residues will be made if cattle are allowed to graze about a week's supply of grain and then moved to a fresh area. "Don't graze an area heavily," the NU livestock specialist says. "Let them pick up the grain that is easiest to find and then follow with the cow herd."

If you prefer to use corn stalks just for the cow herd, it is probably best to graze younger cows ahead of older cows. "Younger cows need better feed than older cows, except the very old which really should be sold for slaughter with cow prices as they are and replaced with young cows."

"Besides, younger cows are less likely to founder than older cows that are more greedy and calving."

Stohler to Receive 2nd National Award

Dixon County extension agent Roy Stohler next week will receive his second national honor for outstanding contributions to the Nebraska 4-H program.

Stohler, who also is the area youth specialist in Northeast Nebraska, will receive a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension agents during its annual meeting on Wednesday at Louisville, Ky.

Earlier this month, Stohler was one of two Nebraska county extension agents who received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents. Stohler was recognized again for his achievements during last week's Nebraska Cooperative Extension Association meeting at North Platte.

Utilization of feed grains from all positions during the past quarter totaled 2.5 million tons, down 20 per cent from 1974 and the lowest utilization for this period since 1948.

Old crop corn stocks in all Nebraska locations totaled 29.9 million bushels, down 33 per cent from last year. This was the smallest crop year carryover since 1948. Farm stocks of 17.1 million bushels were off 44 per cent and oil farm stocks were 16 million bushels, 35 per cent below last year.

Small stocks of 5.4 million bushels of all grains were down 54 per cent. Oats stocks of 24.9 million bushels were 2 per cent above last year. Barley stocks were up 8 per cent at 1.6 million bushels.

Wheat stocks in Nebraska totaled 80 million bushels, down 4 per cent from the same period last year and the lowest stocks since 1952. However, last stocks were up 7 per cent from last year.

Old crop soybean stocks on September 1 were 8.1 million bushels, up 42 per cent from last year and the highest 16 per cent carryover in Nebraska since 1970.

AS FAR as Wayne State athletic director LeRoy Simpson knows the Nebraska College Conference will retain its same four state colleges next season, namely, Kearney, Chadron, Peru and Wayne.

Simpson said that Kearney's entrance into the newly formed Great Plains Athletic Conference won't hinder the Antelope's participation in the NCC. Kearney last year scheduled the remaining four teams in the Great Plains loop for this year's grid season, and thus far hasn't created any problems completing the NCC slate.

Creation of the new five-member Great Plains League was announced two weeks ago by Brandon McDonald, president of Kearney State and head of the new organization. Members of the new group are Kearney and four Kansas schools, Pittsburg State, Emporia State and Fort Hays State colleges, and Washburn University of Topeka.

Wayne State has a chance to join the new league, but college officials are rejecting the offer because of travel costs and lack of fan interest. Simpson pointed out.

"The travel costs would be prohibitive," Simpson said, adding that a possible cut in state college funds for next season would definitely hurt any future long distance travel plans. He went on to say that Wayne State fans thus far this season have shown more support through increased home attendance.

Two years ago it appeared that Wayne might drop out of the Nebraska league to form a new conference with several South Dakota teams. Those plans fell through after some school balked on meeting dates to help organize the league. If the new league would have been formed, the schools involved would have been Black Hills State at Spearfish, Northern State at Aberdeen, South Dakota State Tech at Rapid City, University of South Dakota at Springfield, Dakota State at Madison, Chadron State and Wayne.

Simpson said that Wayne officials are looking to join a new league or help to form one with schools near its size. Right now, though, any new league formation for the Wildcats is "pure speculation."

I HOPE Wayne High volleyball fans show their strong support tonight (Thursday) for the Husker Conference title match between Wayne and Hooper-Logan View when the teams meet at 7:30 in the high school auditorium.

From all appearance, Wayne should be the stronger of the two. But as coach Mavis Dalton has pointed out all season, never take any opponent as an easy victory.

Last year Wayne finished third in the West Husker tournament. They bettered that mark last week with the division crown after topping Wakefield in the finals of the eight-team tournament at Columbus Lakeview.

There's every reason to believe that if Wayne, 13-1, triumphs tonight, the girls have to be one of the favorites in their district and a strong contender for state Class B honors.

WINSIDE'S Gregg Lage appears to be on his way to adding versatility to athletics at Nebraska Wesleyan in Lincoln for the next few years, according to Wesleyan officials.

The freshman, who was a state Class C runner-up in his weight class in wrestling and second in the state Class C mile last year, is trying cross country for the first time.

Lage has responded with several top-20 finishes and could be a factor in Saturday's Nebraska Interscholastic Athletic Conference meet which climaxes the season at Fremont, the coaching staff reports.

Coach Woody Greeno's harriers have finished no worse than fourth in this year's invitational. Wesleyan has won the Concordia Invitational and a dual against Doane. The latter schools will join NWU in the NIAC meet Saturday with other league teams from Midlan, Dana and Hastings Colleges.

Laurel Travels to Bloomfield For Bears' Final Season Game

Laurel will be going for its third straight win Friday night and its sixth overall when coach Bob Bozied's Bears travel to Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference foe Bloomfield.

A victory Friday would end the Bears' 1975 grid campaign with Laurel's best record in three years under Bozied. Going into that match with Bloomfield, Laurel carries a 5-2-1 record.

The fifth win came last week when the spirited Laurel team trounced visiting Wausa, 22-13, on a pair of short-yard touchdowns by junior halfback Mike Dalton and a two-yard sprint by senior Mark McCoy, all in the second quarter.

Trailing 7-0 going into the second frame, the Bears offense under the direction of quarterbacks Brad Erwin and Gordon Kardsell, sliced holes through the Vikings' defense from the line and tore apart Wausa's secondary with three big touchdowns.

McCoy's 25-yard kickoff return following Wausa's touchdown set up Laurel's first scoring drive from about midfield.

Erwin connected with end Greg Pipplitt on passes of 20 and 12 yards to help put the Bears at Wausa's four-yard line where McCoy took it in for the score with about 11 minutes left in the half. The two-point pass attempt to Kardsell failed.

Thanks to a fumble recovery by McCoy, the Bears were again on another scoring march from midfield, only two and a half minutes after they had scored their first TD.

Erwin plays later Dalton banged into the end zone from three yards out and grabbed an Erwin pass for the two-point play to put Laurel in front, 14-7.

Laurel's second scoring drive, which chewed up almost five minutes, bogged down near Wausa's 10-yard line where quarterback Kardsell was thrown for a 17-yard loss. Erwin came back in the game and immediately spotted Dalton for a 25-yard aerial to put the Bears into scoring range.

With 1:10 left in the half, Dalton's two-yard sprint into the endzone made the score 20-7. Erwin then lofted a pass to Pipplitt for the two-point play.

Wausa, which is one of the leading passing teams in the Lewis and Clark Conference, opened up the air lanes in the first period for the game's first score.

Quarterback Kim Johnson found his favorite target, junior Gary Skalberg, for an 18-yard bomb to put Wausa at Laurel's 35. About four plays later, Johnson hit Skalberg for a 19-yard touchdown with about two minutes left. The kick by Raymond Ruppert was good.

Against Laurel's defensive unit, the Vikings staged their second touchdown with 7:26 left when Johnson bulled over from the one.

Laurel's balanced offensive attack netted 170 yards on the ground and 197 in the air. Dalton picked up 137 rushing yards while McCoy had 77. Erwin was six for 13 attempts with only one pass intercepted.

Defensively, seniors Steve Thompson and Roger Kvoles again were the main stalwarts in Laurel's line. Thompson made 15 stops and Kvoles had 12. Dan Nelson and Mark Martindale had nine and seven tackles for the night.

Prep Picks:

3 Conference Titles On Line

Three conference titles are on the line Friday night to highlight the end of regular season action in prep football. Wayne goes to Hartington Cedar Catholic in a struggle for the West Husker crown. Creighton visits No. one Plainview in the Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference, and Homer hosts top-ranked Ponca in the Lewis division of the Lewis and Clark Conference.

Looking at the Wayne game, a Blue Devil victory means a lot more than winning the division and being eligible to play in the Husker Conference playoff. A win keeps Wayne's hopes alive for a berth in the four-team state high school playoff.

Both Wayne and Hartington Cedar go into Friday's match with 8.0 records. Wayne's latest victory came over Pierce. Hartington got by Wakefield.

Plainview and Homer are the only other undefeated clubs in loop playoffs. The 8.0 Pirates, who are 6-0 in the league, travel to once-beaten Creighton. A Plainview loss would leave the NENAC with two first-place teams. However, Creighton would win the title.

Although Homer is 6-0 for the season, the Knights are in second place in the Lewis division. Reason: the 7-1 Ponca Indians are 4-0 in the division while Homer holds a 3-0-1 mark.

Homer's second-place standing could change with a victory. For the first time this season all my prep picks were right on the money. The wins gave me a 6-0 record for the week ending Monday night. Overall, my record stands at 27-9-2, or 75 per cent.

Recapping the six games, Laurel beat Wausa, Wayne smothered Emerson-Hubbard, Winside defeated Coleridge Allen lost to Bancroft and Hartington Cedar got by Wakefield. This week's selections (winners in boldface):

Wayne at Hartington Cedar Catholic — Devils have too much going for them to blow this game. Wayne's offense should be ready to score one of its biggest victories. Defense will show how it can handle Cedar.

Wakefield at Emerson — The Trojans almost proved that they had what it takes to nearly topple unbeaten Hartington CC. As Wakefield assistant coach Joe Coble said after Friday's game, "It's very important to end the season with a victory."

Winside at Osmond — Wildcats sew up second place in the Clark division rather handily. Allen at Walthill — Walthill is just too strong for injury-riddled Allen.

Laurel at Bloomfield — Bloomfield hasn't won a game this season. The Bees won't find their first victory against an up and coming Laurel squad.

Slow down in wet-weather — your car may go skidding — without your permission. Even a thin film of water on a roadway can cause tires to hydroplane uncontrollably, at speeds as low as 40 miles per hour.

Wayne Favored To Win Husker Volleyball Title

If a season record is any indication, Wayne High's volleyball team has to be the favorite tonight (Thursday) to win the Husker Conference title.

The 13-1 Blue Devils, fresh off three straight victories last week to win the West Husker, face East Husker representative Hooper-Logan View, which has an 8-3 mark. Game time is 7:30 at Wayne High auditorium.

Wayne's starting six-girl line-up includes the same six who have started for coach Mavis Dalton the past two seasons. They are senior Susan Jacobmeier, Kris Nedergaard, Mary Kovensky, Julie Kay and juniors Stephanie Dorcsey and Julie Kovensky.

Although Jacobmeier is the starting server during the season, coach Mavis Dalton pointed out that all six starters are "equal in serving."

Hooper coach Bonnie Ahrens named senior Kay Sommerer as her top server. She has scored on close to 90 per cent of her serves.

Sommerer and another senior, Susan Henneman, will give Hooper a slight height advantage at the nets. Both stand at 5-9, about a half-inch taller than Wayne's tallest player, Kris Nedergaard.

Besides Henneman and Sommerer, who also lead Hooper's spiking game, senior Kay Heitsch and junior Tami Benne, Grace Barling and Marcia Mueller makeup Hooper's starting six.

Tickets for the playoff can be purchased tonight at the game. Cost is $1.25 for adults, 75 cents for students. Only persons with 1975-76 Husker Conference passes will be allowed to see the game for free, said principal Don Zeiss.

For those persons who can't attend tonight's match, the game will be broadcast over Wayne radio station KTCH-FM.

Stoltenberg: Pass-Minded Northwestern to Give WS First Real Air Challenge

When Wayne State and Northwestern College football forces collide Saturday afternoon, the impact will test two nationally ranked units — Wayne's defense and Northwestern's offense. The 1:30 match at Orange City, Ia., will be their first.

Statistically, it's one to consider. Here's why: the most recent national NAIA charts, issued before last Saturday's games, show Wayne's total defense ranked third among Division II teams (the smaller colleges) while Northwestern's offense ranked fifth. The Wayne rushing defense was fifth, and Red Raider passing offense fourth.

Last week's 28-7 Wayne win over Peru improved the Wildcat figures in both total and rushing defense. Before Peru, Wayne's total defense had averaged 180 yards, its rushing defense 81. Now those averages are 166 and 70, respectively, after the Wildcat put Peru six yards in the hole on running plays and gave up 76 yards by air.

As for Northwestern, current statistics are not available. But the Raiders got a 35-7 win Saturday over Bethel, which had a nationally ranked rushing average of 285 yards.

Coach Del Stoltenberg expects pass-minded Northwestern to give Wayne its first real aerial challenge of the year. The Raiders' senior passing duo of quarterback Dennis Young and split end Gary Vetter own a joint record of 285 yards.

Wayne, of course, has a record-setting receiver in split end Maurie Minkten, who reached another record against Peru. His four catches for 72 yards lifted his season to 682 yards, exceeding his own mark of 643, set last year. Early this season he broke the Wayne career pass receiving yardage record. But good as his statistics are, they still trail those of Vetter.

Minkten scored two touchdowns on passes of 21 and 23 yards from quarterback Dave Miller. Another Miller strike went to tight end Jerry Basye in the end zone for 25 yards. All of these came after tailback Brian Moeller scored Wayne's first TD on a one-yard run in the first period. Kevin Mahberg kicked See CHALLENGE, page 10.

Winside Reserves Beat Wausa, 8-6

Winside recovered a blocked Wausa punt and turned it into the reserves' only score for an 8-6 victory last week.

Brian Foote blocked Wausa's punt in the third quarter and Joedy Brummels pounced on the pignik in the endzone for a 6-6 ball game. Runningback Eddie Morris took a pitchout from quarterback Paul Roberts to score the two-point conversion. The win evened Winside's final season record at 2-2.

"Our defense did a heck of a job stopping Wausa," said coach Carter Peterson. Tim Koil led tacklers with 17 takedowns.

State College Enrollment Is Up

Combined enrollment in Nebraska's 32 colleges and universities is 6.2 per cent higher than last year's figure, according to a report released by the Nebraska Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

The report includes all students taking work credit toward bachelor or graduate degrees and students in organized programs of less than four years not chiefly creditable toward a bachelor's degree. Also included are special or unclassified students taking such work, regardless of intention concerning degree diploma or certificate.

Students enrolled in non-credit adult education courses and courses by mail and television are not included.

The total of 75,429 students enrolled in college and universities in the state represents a 4.98 per cent increase over last year. Figures for 1974-75 included 33 institutions. John F. Kennedy became defunct during the summer.

The increase for women students was higher than for men, 7.9 per cent compared with 6 per cent. Full time student numbers increased by 5.1 per cent; part time enrollment is up 8.8 per cent.

Tickets Offered For Elizabethan Christmas Meal

Tickets for this year's Elizabethan Christmas Dinners at Wayne State College will go on sale Saturday, according to Dr. Cornell Runestad, director of the Madrigal Singers.

Those who attended last year will receive an order blank by mail. Other may buy tickets — $5.75 each — at the music office in the Fine Arts Center or order by mail. No phone reservations will be accepted because of heavy demand for tickets.

Dinners are scheduled four nights, Dec. 11-14. Following the precedent of three previous years, the 1975 version of Elizabethan Dinners will again recreate English Christmas customs in combination with the traditional Christmas cuisine of that country.

'Ah, Wilderness'

Drama To Play

At WSC Campus

The National Players return to Wayne State College Wednesday evening for a performance of the Eugene O'Neill comedy classic, "Ah, Wilderness".

The production is directed by Peter Peterson Fine Arts Center. Tickets will be available at the door for area residents.

When O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness" first appeared in 1933 — during dismal depression years — it created something of a sensation, a bit of brightness. A brief synopsis of the story explains why and also suggests why the play remains timely in 1975. The plot goes this way:

An ordinary American family lives in a large small-town of Connecticut in 1906. An average family, faced by average problems, they are typical in their humors and vexations. What concerns them most is the youthful fervor of Richard, a high school senior and a rebel; he reads Swinburne, Shaw, Wilder and Omar Khayyam: And his mother therefore worries.

He hates capital and his father is therefore disturbed. He is also passionately in love with a neighbor girl. The scraps of Swinburne that he sends the girl alarm his father, who forces her to break with Richard in melodramatic style.

Being young and arrogant, Richard runs amuck to spite her and becomes drunk in the local bar with a strange lady. Her parents are sure their world has come to an end.

But the young girl friend manages to prove her devotion at a moonlit rendezvous and Richard is himself again. After everything has settled, the father and mother, begin to remember they were once young, too.

WINSIDE'S DEFENSE led by Tyler Frevort (7) and an unidentified teammate, halt Coleridge runningback Brian Smith (44) to little yardage in their play Friday night as the Wildcats stormed past the Bulldogs, 20-6. Rushing in to help on the tackle are Wildcats Bob Hoffman (81) and Brad Brockman (77).

Cats Stomp Coleridge, 20-6

After stumbling through the first half with a 7-6 lead and four lost fumbles, Winside awoke in the second 24 minutes of action to grab the 20-7 Lewis and Clark Conference win.

The hosts kicked off to start the second half and held Coleridge. On the Wildcat's first possession, they marched 75 yards to score on a 31-yard TD pass from Bryan Denklau to Tyler Frevort. The score came with 6:47 left in the third period and Cliff Tillima's kick made the count 14-6.

Winside struck again the next time it had the ball as the Cats put together a 65-yard drive late in the quarter to up the margin to 20-6. This time the score came again through the air as Denklau found Bob Hoffman all alone in the right corner of the end zone for 11 yards and a final point of the ball game.

Coleridge threatened with less than five minutes to go in the game inside the Winside 10-yard line but the Winside defense, led by Hoffman, John Gallop, Neil Wagner, Brad Langenberg and Frevort held the Bulldogs out of the end zone.

The contest opened amid a snow shower as the Nebraska weather turned cold on the next-to-last regular season weekend of the Nebraska prep football year.

But the cold 20-degree air didn't slow the Winside offense in the early going as the Wildcats took the ball and scored with only 3:02 gone in the contest.

Winside took the opening kick in a 49-yard drive with senior running back Brad Brummetts slipping and striding the final 40 yards for the score. Tillima's kick made the score 7-0.

But from there on the Winside offense went flat as the Cats gave up four fumbles before the half. Two of the miscues simply turned over the ball but two were costly.

With 7:55 left in the half, Brummetts couldn't find the handle on a Denklau pitch and Coleridge recovered on the Cat four-yard line. Two plays later sophomore Brian Smith scored on a one-yard plunge.

Winside responded to the visitor's challenge by driving to the Bulldog 11-yard line in the final minutes of the half but the drive was stopped by Winside's fourth fumble of the half.

Brummetts led the balanced Winside running game with 98 yards on 15 carries while Monte Pfiffer had 50 yards on 14 carries and Denklau had 52 yards on 14 carries.

Wagner and Hoffman shared the defensive spotlight as they were both in on a total of 14 tackles.

Last year's conference champs close their 1975 grid campaign with a road trip to Osmond Friday night. The Cats will carry a 6-2 overall mark and a 4-1 Clark division record into the game as coach Ron Peck finishes up his initial season as a prep coach.

Allen Falls to Bancroft, 46-0

Bancroft rolled up 345 offensive yards Friday night en route to a 46-0 whitewashing of Allen.

Behind its first-string offense, Bancroft scored all its points in the first three quarters. The visitors had a 13-0 first quarter score, then added 19 more in the second frame for a 32-0 halftime command.

Bancroft's second quarter out-pot was aided by Allen's loss of four players. Seniors running back Charlie Ferguson and center Lindy Koester were taken out of the game with a broken collar bone and a possible front knee ligament, respectively. Two other players were ejected from the game for sportsman-like conduct.

Leading Allen rusher was senior Steve Shortt with 27 yards. Vernal Roberts and Kevin Hoehnslein led tacklers with 12 and 10 stops. Rob Cook had eight.

Friday night Allen, 2-6, will close its season at Walkhill, stats.

UN-L Snaps Coeds

As the old saying goes, win strings end sometime. For Wayne State volleyball that time came Saturday at Kearney.

First the University of Nebraska-Lincoln dealt Wayne a loss, 15-2 and 15-3. Then the Wildkittens rallied to beat Coleridge, 15-12.

Whites Sew Up 7-8 FB Crown

The White team Tuesday night sewed up the championship title in seventh and eighth grade recreation football with a 14-6 victory over the Blue squad.

Posting its third straight win against no defeats, the Whites took a 14-0 third quarter lead before the Blue rallied in the fourth.

Runningback Bryan Aguirre in the first quarter scored from three yards out to give his club a 6-0 lead. In the third, quarterback Jere Morris threw a 20-yard touchdown strike to Mike Miele. Miele also threw a pass and Morris took the ball in for the two-point play for a 14-0 lead.

With four minutes left, the Blue team got a break when Ted Biggerstaff pounced on a fumble at the Whites' 40. Three running plays by Keith Turner put the ball at the 10. Two plays later Turner scored from the one.

Tuesday night the Whites take on the Golds at 8 o'clock in the final game of the season for both teams.

Outstanding players for the Whites were Morris, Aguirre, Macke, Rob Harmer, Brent Frevort and Brent Holdorf. For the Blues, were Turner, John Kluge, Doug Prelett, Richard Glass and Brian Trogan.

Last week the Blues picked up their first win in four games with a 14-6 win over the Golds.

Turner scored touchdowns on a 40-yard pass from Kluge and a two-yard run following Carr's 18-yard blast. The first extra point attempt was good on Kluge to Proett aerial.

Steve Sorenson scored the Golds' TD in the fourth quarter when Kevin Scrambled 23 yards to put the ball at the one.

Going into next week's games, the Golds are 1-2.

Wayne Retains No. Six Rating

Going into the final game of the season Friday, Wayne High retains its No. six ranking in this week's Omaha World Herald Class B top 10 prep football ratings.

The Devils, who are 8-0 after Monday night's victory over Pierce, have scored 211 points for the season and have given up only 34 points.

Age Lincoln Plus X leads the charts. Holdrege is second followed by York, Lexington and Waverly.

In the district playoff standings, Wayne again is the leader in District Three with 41.3 points.

The other three top district teams are Holdrege with 45.7 points; Plus with 44.1; and Waverly with 43.8.

Challenge

(Continued from page 7) Wildcat defense kept Peru deep in its own territory for all but a few plays, and those few barely crossed midline, except one time late in the game. Then a wild center snap on a Wayne punt attempt fell into Peru possession on the Wayne six.

Three plays later quarterback Bob Rosenbeck scored Peru's only touchdown on a two yard keeper. Dale Patton kicked the point.

Wayne defensive backs had a fine time intercepting passes, four of them in seven previous games. They had pirated only one. Craig Slepicka grabbed two errant Peru aerials. Bill Kull and Ray Wagner one each on the other hand. Peru picked off three Wayne passes, running the opponent season total to 18.

Miller logged a fine passing game with eight for 19 and 147 yards. Both were the only one-spot for total offense with 635 yards in six games. Quarterback Rick Benedetto totals 610 in eight games.

Moeller got back into form with 85 rushing yards after two sub par games following illness.

The game's second TD followed a fumble by Chadron quarterback John Glenn as he was attempting to pass. The fumble was recovered on the CSC line with Erhart crossing the goal line from the one three plays later. The winners scored again just a few moments later when they blocked a Chadron punt and recovered it in the end zone. Their final TD came after Kent Krause intercepted a Chadron pass on the Eagle's 22 and quarterback Kevin Mahring hit Joe O'Neill with a scoring pass on the next play.

The final three Wayne scores came in the second period and were set up by the Wildcats' swarming defense that overwhelmed the CSC offense consistently.

The junior Eagles played much better in the second half. Chadron's TD came on a 29 yard pass from tailback Jesse Hamer to split end Dan Runner, who made a diving catch in the end zone. A 20-yard run by Ron Hoffman and a 12-yard jaunt by Jerry Armstrong preceded the six points. Both Hoffman and Armstrong are fullbacks.

The game was the final one for both teams. Wayne got its first win in four starts. Chadron lost all four.

Winside Spikers Beat Newcastle

Winside's volleyball team ended their season with victories Tuesday night over visiting Newcastle.

Led by servers Cindy Thomas, Deb Albrecht and Tammy Kall the varsity dominated the Red Raiders in three sets, 15-7, 3-15 and 15-12. Senior Jill Stenwall led the spiking game for Winside. Darci Janke and Barb Peter did a good job of replacing starter Tammy Gramberg who missed action because of a back injury said coach Don Longmeyer.

Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Norfolk High auditorium, the Wildkittens take their 6th varsity record against Battle Creek in the first night of district volleyball play.

The reserve team posted its seventh win in 11 outings with 15-5 and 16-14 set wins. Top servers were Jennifer Longmeyer and Aileen George.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"Our thoughts are our best friends and our worst enemies. A thought can do us more good than a faith full friend. It can do us more harm than a brick."

Dr. Frank Crane

We are what we think especially those concerning ourselves. We can make us great or be our undoing. The thoughts we have at time of triumph or of trial reveal a great deal about us.

It's probably a good idea to try to control our thoughts. Perseus practice would help us to have only noble thoughts of which we could be proud and eliminate those unworthy thoughts we wouldn't confess to anybody.

We are always available to answer any questions you may have regarding funeral services. We'll visit you in your home, if you wish... just phone.

White, Gold Teams Battle on Tuesday

The White and Gold teams in the fifth and sixth grade city recreation football league will square off Tuesday night at 6:45 for the league title.

Both clubs held 21 records after the White club beat the Blue team 16-6 Tuesday night for its second win. The Gold team was idle. The Blue record drops to 1-3.

Tim Heier and Jim Sperry scored for the Whites. With three minutes left in the first quarter Heier zipped into the endzone from four yards out and Rocky Schultz added the two point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

In the fourth, Sperry ran 40 yards to paydirt and Heier scored the point after for the final score.

The Blue team jumped off to a 6-0 lead in the first period on Mike Kock's score.

Top Blue players were Tod Pfeiffer, Tim Rother, Al Lind say, Chad Dorsey, Kurt Janke and Keck. Top White players were Mark Meyers, Bob Fairchild, John Schroeder, Sperry and Schultz.

Last week the Golds were victorious with a 20-6 win over the Blues.

The Golds broke a 6-6 halftime score with a pair of touchdowns in the second half. Scott Bowers went one yard on a keeper and quarterback Mills threw the conversion pass to Tod Davie for a 16-6 third quarter score. With about two minutes left in the game a Mills to Davie pass covered 65 yards and the winners' third TD.

Jeff Mohr halted the Blues' late scoring threat with an interception.

The Blues opened the scoring on a 75 yard kickoff return by Pfeiffer. The Golds answered back with a 65 yard return by Mills.

Outstanding Gold players were Mills, Davie, Bowers, Mohr, John Jacobmeier and Mark Hummel. For the Blues were Janke, Dorsey, Rother, Pfeiffer, Tony Mau and Tom Sperry.

Hunters Find Success

Five local hunters last week bagged their limit during the first weekend of the shotgun turkey season.

Second Guessers Honor 3 Athletes

A pair of Wayne High players and a Wayne State player last week were honored as the Second Guessers' Athletes of the Week.

Senior Monte Lowe and junior Mike Wieseler were tabbed for their leadership against Emerson-Hubbard and Columbus Lakeview and senior Mark Anderson was selected for his play against Kearney State.

Against Emerson, Lowe caught four passes for about 80 yards, including two aerial touchdowns in the Blue Devils' 38-8 conquest on Wednesday, Oct. 22. Wieseler, who netted 62 yards rushing against Lakeview on Friday, Oct. 17, played his best defensive game of the season, making 11 tackles, said coach Al Hansen at last week's noon meeting.

Anderson, a three-year veteran center, had one of his best games against Kearney, said coach Del Stoltenberg. Son of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson of Chicago Heights, Ill., mark made the 1974 Nebraska College all-conference team and the NAIA district dream team.

Parents of top prep selections are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Al Wieseler, all of Wayne.

"Our thoughts are our best friends and our worst enemies. A thought can do us more good than a faith full friend. It can do us more harm than a brick."

Dr. Frank Crane

We are what we think especially those concerning ourselves. We can make us great or be our undoing. The thoughts we have at time of triumph or of trial reveal a great deal about us.

It's probably a good idea to try to control our thoughts. Perseus practice would help us to have only noble thoughts of which we could be proud and eliminate those unworthy thoughts we wouldn't confess to anybody.

We are always available to answer any questions you may have regarding funeral services. We'll visit you in your home, if you wish... just phone.

Council

Regular council meeting, which will be held Monday, Nov. 10, rather than the regular Tuesday night scheduling.

An ordinance proposing that city administrator Fred Brink's salary be raised to $26,700 also failed to gain final passage. The council vote was split with Kavoc, Russell, Thomas and Caroline Filler voting against it. Final reading of the ordinance will be at the next council meeting, Nov. 10. An even split then would mean mayor Freeman Decker must cast the deciding vote.

Specifications and estimated costs on three items were approved by the council and Brink was given authority to advertise for bids.

Included are a fire truck, estimated cost $90,000; ambulance, estimated cost $22,000, and a police cruiser, estimated cost $5,500.

The council voted against approval of specifications and advertising for bids for an industrial tractor with an estimated price tag of $19,000. Brink was directed to check the possibility of purchasing an agricultural tractor.

A college student working as an administrative intern will assume a variety of duties under a proposal by Brink to provide temporary service with the ambulance purchased by the city and operated by Providence Medical Center.

The intern will be available to drive a city-owned station wagon for taxi service, if Public Service Commission approval is granted, and would also operate the vehicle as a standby ambulance when the regular ambulance is engaged.

The taxi-ambulance system will be in effect until April 1. The ambulance for which bid letting was approved will also be operated by Providence Medical Center.

According to a letter from hospital administrator Charles Thomas, the city had agreed to provide standby ambulance service. The council members did not recall the agreement but decided to provide backup service until the new ambulance is purchased.

Brink was authorized to negotiate with Kelly Well Co. of Grand Island for repairs to the city swimming pool. Kelly quoted Brink a price of $3,718 to overhaul the filtering system, compared with the $3,580 pool company.

Both prices include labor and replacement of 30 filtering units. Actual cost would be reduced if some filtering units are okay.

Brink recommended contracting with the Kelly Well Co. because they have specified the use of heavier pipe and all-stainless steel fittings. Brink will also negotiate with the firm for work on the pool pumping system. Kelly's quoted price is $4,647, compared with $4,738 for Bon-sall.

Action was deferred regarding the renovation of the old Wayne Hospital building for use as city hall. The council expressed interest in having design drawn and contracting for the work locally but decided to wait until the structure is approved for occupancy by the state fire marshal's office.

An ordinance was approved authorizing the sale of about five acres of land in the city industrial tract to Nutrition Plus, The corporation, headed by Merle Sieler of Wayne, has indicated it will process gourmet steak cuts for export.

The land will be sold for $12,263. If 30 per cent of the city's registered voters disapprove the sale, the ordinance becomes void and the land cannot be offered for sale for one year.

The same procedure will be followed regarding the sale of about 24 acres of city property in five tracts.

Bids totaling about $34,600 were taken at an auction Friday morning. The council directed city attorney Budd Bornhoff to draft an ordinance to authorize the sale.

to be used as a guideline for development over the next 20 years.

The Nov. 4 meeting convenes at 8 p.m. at the county court house and is open to the public.

Members of the joint planning commission in addition to Olsson are Bill McQuistan, Lloyd Behmer, Neil Sandahl, Frederick Mann, Art Behmer, Mern Morhorst, C. O. Witt and Stan ley Hansen.

Burn Victims

According to a Wayne police department spokesman, the boy's parents were heating soup on a hot plate in their room at the Elm Motel in Wayne, when the boy tipped the pan over and was burned by its contents.

Robert LaPoint, owner of the motel, said Tramp is employed by Yabco Construction in Wayne and the family was staying at the motel until they could find an apartment.

Jimmy English, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald English of Wisner, was burned in a similar accident Monday afternoon.

Exact cause of the accident had not been determined Tuesday afternoon but a neighbor of the English family said that apparently a chair the boy was standing on tipped, causing him to strike a kettle on the stove in his parents' kitchen, spilling boiling water on him.

He was rushed to Providence Medical Center and later transferred to St. Francis Memorial Hospital in West Point, where he was listed in critical condition Tuesday morning.

Dr. Bentback, who treated the boy at the Wayne hospital, said the youth had received first and second degree burns to his trunk, both legs and an arm.

Bulletins

About 100 Wayne County farmers automatically receive new farm bulletins each month, under the extension service "NebGuide" program.

The NebGuide is a large, loose leaf notebook, containing about 260 indexed farm bulletins. Each month, about 12 farm bulletins, either new or superseding old bulletins, are published. Farmers on the NebGuide mailing list automatically receive the new bulletins.

A similar system is just being started for home economic bulletins.

Spitz said bulletins could be distributed in another way if anyone is interested. The extension service will help merchants set up displays of information pertaining to their business. For example, a hardware dealer could have available bulletins on application of the chemicals.

"All we ask is that people request the bulletins," Spitz said, explaining that the extension service discourages distributing bulletins not requested.

General mailings are prohibited and businessmen would be asked to give bulletins only to customers who ask them, rather than handing them to everyone who comes in the store.

The man who built France's famous prison, the Bastille, was the first person confined there.

Chest Drive

funds will be distributed as follows $3,000 to the city recreation program, $700 to Wayne Senior Citizens Center, $2,500 to Boy Scouts, $2,400 to Girl Scouts, $1,400 to the Salvation Army, $500 to Red Cross, $700 to the Arthritis Foundation, $300 to National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation and $200 to the Florence Crittenton Home in Sioux City for unwed mothers.

Heading up this year's fund drive have been Bill Workman and Don Zeiss.

Those two have urged workers to complete their solicitations for funds as soon as they can, turning their donations over to the drive captains. The captains may in turn drop donations off at either the First National Bank or State National Bank in Wayne.

Swarts said if third parties do receive permission, they must agree never to transfer the information.

Students 18 or older have access to their own records and parents must then have the student's permission to view the records.

However, the records may be disclosed without permission to school officials where the student is attending or intends to enroll, to authorized federal government representatives and in connection with the student's application for or receipt of financial aid.

Swarts advised that any personal opinion placed in the file be accompanied by documentation, adding that opinionated comment existing in files without factual backing might well be eliminated from the files.

Parents have the right to challenge material in the student's file, Swarts said.

Party Planning TIPS

Whether it's your daughter's wedding, your company's Christmas party or your club's annual dinner, when you're planning The Big Party there are a few things you should remember so that everyone, including you, will enjoy it.

HOW MUCH? HOW MANY? HOW MANY? HOW MANY? TYPE OF FUNCTION

One of the most important is to select one person to serve as contact with the banquet manager, the florist, entertainment people and others involved.

According to one party-planning expert, Jerry Temple, former Holiday Inn Innkeeper of the Year, early organization is absolutely essential to a good party.

Even before you book the room know how much you can spend, the type of function your group wants to have, a preferred and alternate date and time, and a pretty accurate estimate of the number of people expected to attend.

DEXTERITY

The name of the game is to look like a winner. And we have Dexter's most winning looks at a very winning price.

Senator dislikes 'now-you-see-it, now-you-don't' budgeting

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN—The special legislative session resumes next week, after a one-day stand a week ago and public hearings this week on the proposals Gov. J.J. Exon has made for curing the state's financial ills.

Rather than begin consideration on the floor right away, the lawmakers assigned the Exon proposals to standing committees and scheduled three days of hearings for this week.

The Budget Committee will be accepting public comments Wednesday, Thursday and Friday on the governor's plan for whittling more than $10 million out of spending authorized for this fiscal year.

Wednesday and Thursday, the Revenue Committee will take testimony on the Exon proposals for raising the state income tax and Equalization a one-year waiver from following all the rules in setting the sales and income tax rates.

The governor brought four bills (one of them was for an appropriation of $5,000 to cover the expenses of the special session) when he arrived for the address opening what the Constitution calls an "extraordinary session" of the Legislature.

He said all of them needed to be enacted to protect the state from the "twin demons of substantial tax increases and the inability to meet state obligations."

The governor added: "As we deliberate in this special session, and look forward to future regular sessions, we must insist that the plight of New York City and the federal government will not be ours."

"Nebraska can escape such situations if we are intelligently perspective, plan our work and work our plan."

"We cannot run away from our obligations by conveniently putting them off for another day. We are not going to fold the tent on legitimate Nebraska needs, nor are we going to buy a new center pole just because one has been invented."

Exon said Nebraska's financial problems, while qualifying in his opinion as the "crisis" level, aren't in the league with New York City and the federal government.

"Let we would be foolhardy not to recognize the telltale signs that emerge," the governor said. "Lack of sound management of resources and overspending must not be tolerated."

The chief executive's reference to New York didn't set well with some legislators. Sen. Roland Luettke of Lincoln, for example, said he was "incensed" that Exon would "put us in the company of New York."

There also was skepticism by many legislators that the Exon-proposed budget cuts would be made as easily as the governor wanted.

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, for example, said it is a form of now-you-see-it, now-you-don't budgeting. The Legislature and the governor fall his mainline votes were upheld by the lawmakers last spring) agreed on a budget, now a three per cent cut is proposed.

"It's bad business and poor government," Lewis said.

The appropriations items are under review by the Budget Committee, which will prepare its own report for the full Legislature when the special session gets underway again next week.

Floor action was suspended until Nov. 3 to give time for public notice of the committee hearings and for the three days of testimony.

The $10.4 million figure the governor suggested be used in reducing expenditures authorized for the 1975-76 fiscal year includes $6.9 million cut in a three per cent reduction which goes nearly across the board.

The governor said he was exempting the state aid programs for political subdivisions (what are sometimes called the property tax relief programs) since failure to allocate state aid would only mean taxes would have to be raised locally.

He also exempted the Department of Corrections because of "an ever-increasing number of inmates due to longer sentences by the courts and a higher influx of convicted felons than anticipated."

Everyone else would see his tax fund appropriations shrink by three per cent.

Exon said he only needed, to keep $400,000 of the $1.4 million he has in his emergency fund. Also, he said, there is $2.5 million more appropriated for state school aid than is needed to meet the state's $55 million commitment this fiscal year.

So, he added the $1 million from his emergency fund and the $2.5 million from school aid to the $6.9 million and wound up with $10.4 million in proposed cuts.

The object is to prevent a three per cent sales tax and a 16 per cent income tax. The present rates are 2.5 per cent and 12 per cent.

OBSERVATIONS

Caution urged for Halloween

Friday is a special night for youngsters. Halloween is a great adventure for many grade school age children, one they have been anticipating for some time.

In the hustle to get the trick-or-treat bag filled before time to go home, and the excitement of being out at night as a ghost or goblin, caution is sometimes forgotten.

Motorists should be especially careful Halloween night to guard against the youngster darting out from between parked cars enroute to the house across the street, or the little goblin running to catch up with his older companions.

Halloween should be a fun night for kids. Adults must help make certain it doesn't end in tragedy for some.—Jim Strayer

Let's cut back—but not me

Thinking back on the recent talk show that the President brought to Omaha, there is one line of thinking that seemed to have universal agreement. But it was one that just sort of came up naturally, like the popular tune, and there was no specific big proposal announced for it. Matter of fact it was played in low key—like a lonesome, weary melody, if one interprets the persons singing the tunes correctly.

The President, as well as the cabinet officers who accompanied him, struck a chord quite often that made the audience happy and always resulted in loud syndicated applause.

This was when they sang it out good and clear for having a reduction in the debt, in expenses and in effort to work for less federal control. There seemed to be a happy harmony of thought that sang it like it supposedly was and wanted to let everyone know that government spending and controls should be cut.

Only trouble was that a number of the solo questioners—perhaps we should be more honest and say just about all those who made queries—joined a chorus of requests for their own particular needs, plans and projects. Each seemed to sing out with needful request for more regular over certain things, or more money for certain projects, or for certain new programs that would control things.

The songsters didn't need a breathing exercise to voice agreement with the President on the cutbacks for the other fellow while at the same moment they sang a song of personal needs for the group they presented.—Bob Bogue, Oakland Independent

UNICEF knocked

Dear Editor: Did you know that none of the money you give to UNICEF goes for helping unfortunate children in the United States? And we have many

Last fall, when you gave the kids trick or treat money for UNICEF, did it occur that you and behind you, the U.S. government, were bankrolling the communist takeover of South Vietnam?

Nations ruled by the international communists participate in governing UNICEF activities. As of July, 1970, the executive board included from the following communist nations: Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and the U.S.S.R., according to UNICEF Facts and Fallacies, published by the United States Committee for UNICEF, 1969.

$25 billion enough for military budget

Dear Editor: Twenty five billion dollars per year should be plenty for the Department of Violence, Waste, Human Misery and Death (the military). Guns kill people. All the Military is good for is to kill people.

For the five billion people on this planet we need in these days of commensuration—a world government of the people, by the people and for the people instead of 130 of 140 different governments at odds with each other. Call it United Nations or what you will. Man's will has moved mountains. You get in this world what you try for. Where there is a will, there is a way. The world has shrunk to a governable size. Why not try for faith, hope and charity instead of fear, violence and slavery of which the Military is a symbol.—Eraie Sheffield

Circle K thanked for service projects

Dear Editor: The Circle K chapter of the local Kiwanis Club is certainly to be commended as they have added such bicentennial artistry to the otherwise dull, drab, unnoticed water hydrants of the City of Wayne. These decorated hydrants have drawn much complimentary praise from local citizens as well as travelers going through the city.

Also, this group of your folks has offered their assistance for yard work to the local senior citizens. Just one of the many groups of young citizens who are engaging in the worthwhile projects, proving that they care about Wayne and that they also "give" to the community. They deserve our thanks.—Mrs. Gene Bigelow

"Maybe we have misjudged evolution!"
"Maybe people did descend from lower animals. Some church members seem to be stubborn as MULES about church work, sly as a FOX in their business deals, busy as BEES spreading gossip, Quiet as a MOUSE in spreading the Gospel. The have eyes like a HAWK to see the mote in a brother's eye. They are eager as a BEAVER about car-be-ques. BUT LAZY as a DOG about prayer meetings. AS MEAN as SNAKES when things don't go their way. They are noisy as CROWS in calling for the church to advance. But slow as SNAILS in visiting the lost. Many are night OWLS on Saturday night. And BEBUGS on Sunday morning. Slippery as EELS on Sunday afternoon. And scarce as HEN'S teeth on Sunday night. Hazel Sarason, Thurston, Nebr.

Parity explained, one more time

"One of the greatest obstacles to progress is the economic illiteracy of the American people."—Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

With that thought in mind, Farmland News published the following article, written by Agdur B. Sogn, extension and research economist at South Dakota State University.

From time to time we are asked to explain parity, what it is and how it is determined in relation to agriculture prices. While there is no single description of parity, we will attempt at least a brief description of the concept.

In the very simplest of terms, "parity is a price comparison." However, to understand parity, two related indexes must be understood.

The index of Prices received by farmers is a measure of the changes in average prices that farmers receive for what they sell.

The index of Prices paid by farmers is a measure of changes in average prices paid by farmers for goods and services used for production and family living. It is made up of 80 or 90 items including clothing, household supplies, food, furniture and furnishings, building materials, automobiles, trucks and tractors, feed, farm machinery, fertilizer, equipment, gas, oil, tires, seed, taxes, interest, and farm wage rates.

Parity Ratio then is the relationship of the two above indexes. It measures the purchasing power of products sold by farmers in terms of things they buy compared with their purchasing power in the base period of 1910-14.

Parity for a specific time is computed by dividing the prices received index by the prices paid index. If the result is above 100, prices of products sold by farmers have more per unit purchasing power than the 1910-14 base period. If the result is below 100, products sold have less per unit purchasing power than during the base period.

What tends to make parity a little confusing is that two different systems are used to figure the parity ratio. Often times people will then quote the ratio figure that is most advantageous to their cause. The formula that we have described is the Old Formula.

There is since 1950, another formula known as the New Formula, and since 1965 this is the formula that is quoted by governmental agencies. Again in the simplest of explanations, the New Formula is calculated exactly as is the old formula except the New Formula takes into consideration the prices for the last 10 year period as well as the 1910-14 base period.

The New Formula is now by far the most commonly used and is considered by most to be most relative under modern conditions. It is important to note the New Formula does not discard the 1910-14 base period. It rather adjusts it by using the relationship of the past 10 years along with the old base.

Again let us state the above explanation of parity is simplified and the actual computation is more complicated than the above description. However, in attempting to answer some of the questions we receive, people do not want to know how to calculate parity in detail. They want to know in general terms how it is determined.

Parity can be used to decide how farmers as an average are doing based on what they sell as it relates to what they buy. Parity can be applied to income so as to provide a farmer with the relationship of his level of living compared to other occupations, or Parity can be applied to a single agriculture commodity to see how it compares in its relationship with parity and with other commodities.

This is why you see the parity ratio for corn, wheat, soybeans, cattle, hogs, or it may be for vegetables, singly or as a group. The parity is also calculated for tobacco, fruits, nuts, seeds, poultry, honey and countless other commodities.

One additional step in the parity ratio consideration is the percent of parity calculation. The percent of parity is one of the more common quotations used by our Congress and farm leaders. This comparison is after the current parity relationship is determined, then an additional calculation is made to determine what percent of 100 percent of parity the commodity is. Thus, the quotation that a commodity is 85 percent of parity.

Farmers and agricultural leaders have long known that high or low farm prices are not in themselves of any great significance. Of more importance is what farm products will buy in things needed for living and farm production.

Air Force Academy Now Open to Women

Both men and women are now eligible to apply for nomination to the Air Force Academy, said Wayne High School counselor Ken Carlson.

Women became eligible to attend the nation's military and naval academies under a measure signed into law by President Gerald Ford on Oct. 7. Primary sources for those wishing to apply are U.S. Senators or Congressmen but there are other sources as well. Carlson said interested students should contact their high school counselor or write to the Admission Liaison Office, USAF Academy, Colo. 80840 for information.

Applicants must be at least 17 years old but not over 22 on July 1 of the year they wish to enter the academy. They must meet academic and physical standards. Following successful completion of the four year academy program, cadets receive bachelor of science degrees and are commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Force.

ALLEN VILLAGE BOARD PROCEEDINGS

October 6, 1975

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Allen was held on October 6, 1975 at 7:30 p.m. in the Village Office.

The meeting was called to order by Ken Linafelter. Trustees present were: Carpenter, Ruback, Ellis and Schroeder. Present were Clerk Pearl Snyder and LeRoy Roberts.

The Chairman stated the purpose of this meeting was to canvass the Board of Trustees on Street Improvement District No. 1974-11 and for acting upon resolutions to proceed with the construction of the street improvements in said street improvement district and for the transaction of other business as may be presented to the Board.

Trustees then proceeded to canvass the written objection filed with the Village Clerk objecting to the creation of Street Improvement District No. 1974-11.

After having canvassed said objections, the resolution read by the Village Clerk stating that Ordinance 1974-11 creating Street Improvement District No. 1974-11 was passed by Board of Trustees on September 2, 1975; and published September 15, 1975; that the time required by law for written objections has passed; and, the Board of Trustees find and declare that there are 15 owners owning property directly abutting on street to be improved and that a have signed written objections to the creation of said district, which does constitute a majority and the objections filed are sufficient to delete Street Improvement District No. 1974-11. It was moved by Trustee Carpenter, seconded by Trustee Ellis, that the above resolution be adopted as read. Roll call vote, all aye, none nay. Carried.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Trustee's report read and accepted. The following bills were presented: Duane Dean Chase, services, 94.15 James R. Kingstons, wages, 429.67 LeRoy Roberts, wages, 281.72

Joycelyn Smith Pork is Nutritious and Delicious

Pork can set the pace for a wide selection of delectable dining and has an impressive nutritive value for the homemaker when planning family menus.

Today's pork is superior due to scientific breeding and feeding by the producer and closer trimming by meat packers and retailers. This means more lean pork per pound with more body-building proteins and less fat.

The mineral and iron, together with high quality protein, is vital in the formation and maintenance of red blood and in the prevention of anemia. Pork liver supplies about three times as much iron (29 mg) in available form as any other food source.

Pork is also a major dietary source of B vitamins, especially thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, essential to food utilization, appetite, skin and oral health.

Pork has been found to be one of the most completely digestible and utilized foods contrary to old time beliefs. Every cut is tender so it can be included in the diets of everyone. Strained pork products for infants provide essential nutrients early in life.

EXTENSION NOTES

With less fat and fewer calories, pork plays a particular role in any diet for weight control. Lean roast, pork chop, ham, tenderloin and picnic shoulder are under 250 calories per 3 1/2 ounce serving of cooked lean meat. When meat is included in the diet the dieter is less likely to be tired, hungry and overeat between meals.

Whether it is barbecued pork roasts, ham, bacon or left-over pork in a sandwich, you can be sure of the same outstanding nutritive values that mean so much to the health and well-being of old and young alike.

ARDATH BICHEL

$500 Grand Prize Still Unclaimed

Another week has gone by without a grand prize winner being named in the latest Birthday Bucks drawing.

Last Thursday night a Wayne woman, Ardath Bichel, won the $25 consolation prize when her birthday came the closest to the winning date of March 6, 1977. Mrs. Bichel, who was born on Jan. 7, 1927, was in Wittig's Food Center when the date was announced.

Had her birthday fallen on the winning date, she would have won the $500 grand prize.

As a result the grand prize stays at $500. Any shopper can win either the grand or consolation prize when the drawing is made at 8:15 tonight (Thursday). No purchases or registration are required to be a winner. However, a shopper must be present in one of the participating Wayne businesses when the winning date is announced.

The stork is held sacred in Sweden, from the legend that it flew round the cross crying "Stryka, Stryka," when Jesus was crucified.

WSC Public Affairs Institute Sponsors Army Panel Talk

Over 100 persons were at the Wednesday program and noted that the visiting panel members had commented on the audience interest and the quality of questions put to the panel.

The panel guests were Lt. Col. Richard Welch, Lt. Col. William R. Fene and Major Thomas H. Baird. All instructors from the Department of Strategy at the Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

The program was the first in a series planned by the recently formed Public Affairs Institute at Wayne State College. Purpose of the Institute is to promote understanding of public affairs issues through discussion and study by college students and faculty and citizens of the community served by the college.

Clifton L. Ginn, associate professor of political science at Wayne State, and administrator of the Public Affairs Institute, expressed his pleasure at the institute program.

Student Helping Advise Business

Miss Linda Nordby, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Norman Swan son of Wakefield, is one of 17 Midland Lutheran College students who will take part in a program in which student teams help small businesses tackle management problems.

This will be the third year the Fremont college has undertaken such a project, according to business and economics professor Edwin Prauner.

The Small Business Institute proves names of businessmen who have requested help with serious management problems. College students form teams of two or three and delve into budgeting, insurance, bookkeeping and other areas.

After analysis, the teams provide counseling to the business. Information concerning projects is kept confidential, Prauner said.

Members of the board of consultants will be public officials, elective and appointive. From the local, state and national levels of government.

Advisory panel members and members of the board of consultants will be made public as soon as they are announced.

The next Public Affairs Institute program will be the Nebraska Governors' Conference on State Policy, set for Friday afternoon, Nov. 14, at the Wayne State College Ramsey Theatre. Panels made up of former governors, Val Peterson, Dwight Burney, Frank Morrison and Robert Crosby will address the questions of the nonpartisan legislature as seen by the governor and the role of the governor in Nebraska government, Governor J.J. Exon will speak in the evening.

Other institute programs planned for the 1975-76 year include the Pacem in Terris IV conference in Washington, D.C. in December and a day-long symposium on the administration of justice, to be conducted by members of the Nebraska judiciary, practicing attorneys and regional law school professors and students.

The Public Affairs Institute, which is still in the organizational process, was approved for Wayne State College by the Nebraska State College board of trustees in July and is sponsored by the Wayne State social sciences division.

The institute is composed of an executive committee, an advisory panel and a board of consultants. Edwin O'Donnell, WSC associate professor of political science, is director of programs.

Final approval on institute programs lies with the executive committee, chaired by Val Peterson, distinguished professor of political science and public affairs at WSC. Other members of the executive committee are Dr. Ed Elliott, academic vice president; Dr. Charles Heppburn professor of history, and Norman Nordstrand, former dean of the School of Arts and Sciences.

Advisory panel members will be local citizens who are not a part of the college administration or faculty and who will provide ideas and advice concerning institute programs.

Report Changes Affecting SS Status

Students 18-22 getting social security checks should report changes in their earnings, school enrollment, and marital status to social security, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

Over 680,000 students 18 and over get monthly social security payments because a parent gets disability or retirement benefits or has died. Students can continue to get payments to age 22—or slightly beyond for under graduates—as long as they remain full time students and unmarried.

Students getting checks should notify social security immediately if they marry, leave school, or start attending on a part time basis. So monthly payments can be stopped, as required by law. Changes in total yearly earnings from part time or temporary jobs can also affect social security payments to students, he said.

"If you're a student getting payments and expect your earnings for 1975 will be over $2,520, you should report that to social security," he said. "Otherwise, you might get benefits you'll have to pay back later."

Social security payments are reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $2,520 in a year. No matter how much they earn for the year, people can get their full social security payment for a month in which they neither earn $210 nor do substantial work in their own business.

Students getting social security payments should also report transfers from one school to another, according to Branch.

"If you have questions about social security payments to students 18 and over, you can get answers by calling, writing or visiting any social security office," he said. The Norfolk office is at Box 389, 1310 Norfolk Avenue. The phone number is 371-1595.

The maneuvers involved air, ground and seagoing units from Turkey, the United Kingdom, Italy and the United States. They were part of a series of NATO exercises being conducted this fall under the title "Autumn Forge 75."
