Affects Wayne County Power

NPPD Will Increase Rates

The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) board of directors has approved substantial rate increases for wholesale and retail customers, a company spokesman said Friday.

The Wayne County Public Power District purchases electricity from NPPD. Manager Cal Comstock was not available for comment Friday. According to NPPD, the increase in wholesale rates to rural power districts will be about 51 per cent. "Since wholesale power costs are only one component of retail rates," NPPD general manager D.W. Hill said, "the percentage impact of the wholesale rate increase on retail rates will be considerably less than the percentage increase of the wholesale rate itself."

Willis Meyer, president of the Wayne power district board of directors, said new rates reflecting the NPPD increase have not yet been set by the board, but agreed that the increase in cost to consumers will probably be considerably less than the 51 per cent wholesale rate hike.

Before the board can set new retail prices, a rate study will have to be completed, Meyer said. The board meets in mid-

November but Meyer said it will probably be December before the new retail rates are set.

The wholesale rate, set for a two-year period, is designed to raise an additional $2.7 million for 1976 and $24.7 million for 1977. The wholesale rate increase goes into effect Jan. 1, 1976. It is the first wholesale rate hike since 1972, according to NPPD. Wholesale rates are based on the cost of generating electricity and other generation and transmission costs during peak demand periods.

Wayne purchases power from NPPD during off-peak periods, when the company has an excess of power. City administrator Fred Brink said the purchased power now costs about 13 mills per kilowatt. With an increase of 51 per cent, the cost would be around 19 mills, Brink said.

A study is now being made of how much it costs to generate power at the city electric plant, but Brink said the 19 mill price will be less than the price of city-generated power based on previous studies.

Brink said he was notified Thursday that the NPPD board of directors had approved the final draft of a contract with Wayne which the city council will consider for ratification.

Under terms of the contract, NPPD would lease the capacity of the Wayne electric plant, using it to generate power during peak demand periods.

The city would purchase power from NPPD, attaining a lower overall power rate because power purchased during off-peak periods would be generated by less expensive means, such as hydro-electric power.

Brink said a cost analysis at the city electric plant and the NPPD proposed contract will be presented to the council at their next meeting, Nov. 10.

Wischof Convicted in Shooting

After a half-hour of deliberation the jury returned a verdict of guilty against Leonard Wischof of Wayne, charged with the shooting of his brother, Paul, in an incident on May 3.

Only three witnesses, including Paul Wischof, were called to testify during the trial.

Jury selection began at 10:15 Friday morning and the trial began at 11:15. The jury began deliberation at 3:30 and foreman Robert Petersen of Carroll delivered the verdict at 3:52.

Sentencing is pending a report by the district probation officer Leonard Wischof faces a maximum sentence of 30 year imprisonment on the charge of shooting to kill, wound, or maim. He remains free on $25,000 bond.

Witnesses in addition to Paul Wischof included Dr. Willard Wiseman, who testified that Paul suffered two gunshot wounds from a bullet not larger than .25 caliber.

According to reports filed by law enforcement officers after the incident, Paul Wischof was shot twice in the chest area. One bullet went through his body, the other lodged in his stomach.

Detective Sergeant Ron Penlerick testified that he had seen Paul Wischof's wounds. He also said that on May 4, while accompanied by other officers, he was denied entrance to the mobile home shared by the Wischof brothers at 216 Fair grounds Ave.

Leonard Wischof was holding a .27 caliber revolver which he later fired at officers, Penlerick said.

During his testimony, Paul Wischof said his brother was spinning a revolver by the trigger guard and it discharged, striking Paul.

During his final remarks, county attorney Budd Bornhoff emphasized that Paul Wischof was hit by two bullets, contending that this ruled out any possibility of an accident.

Wayne attorney Ken Swartz, appointed to defend Leonard Wischof, said there were several gaps in evidence presented by the prosecution. He pointed out that no bullets were introduced as evidence and that it was not proven that either of two revolvers entered as exhibit were fired.

One of the revolvers belongs to Paul Wischof. According to testimony, it was found in the trailer, wrapped in a plastic bag, not loaded. The other, See WISCHHOFF, page 3.

GREATEST DISCRIMINATION against women today is in the courts, said Ellen Sim Dewey, a speaker at the Women's Day symposium at Wayne State College.

Greatest Discrimination In Courts: NOW Speaker

Discrimination against women in America — does it exist? "Yes" was the firm answer from speakers on a Women's Day forum Wednesday at Wayne State College.

Where is the greatest discrimination? "In the courts," said Ms. Ellen Sim Dewey, legislative chairperson of the Omaha Chapter of the National Organization of Women (NOW).

She cited Nebraska's no fault divorce law as "a rip off which, in effect, legally abolishes marriage."

Because the law eliminates the need to establish fault, it means one spouse can unilaterally end a marriage, Ms. Dewey said.

Ms. Dewey said, as a result, women have been the major victims, especially those married for many years.

Ms. Dewey, who had just returned from the controversy, marked NOW convention in Philadelphia, explained what NOW is and is not.

"NOW is for equality of women, not for liberation. 'There is a difference.' Equality means 'the same rights for women,'" she said.

"NOW is not hung up on getting all women into jobs." See NOW, page 3.

Agri-Business Meeting To Focus on Livestock

Businessmen who supply goods and services for farm use are invited to a meeting Wednesday night which will focus on the livestock industry.

Wayne County agent Don Spitzke said the purpose of the meeting is to provide information which will help agribusinessmen provide better service to farmers. The meeting is open to anyone, he added.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 on the third floor of the Hahn administration building on the Wayne State College campus.

A similar meeting last year emphasized crop production, Spitzke said. This year, Cooperative Extension service livestock specialists will provide information on current developments in livestock production.

Specialists at the meeting will be Vernon Krause, beef; Don Kubik, dairy; and Bob Fritsch, swine. In addition, Spitzke will summarize for the agribusinessmen what services are available to them through the extension service.

A new and innovative service which became available in the local area last summer is a portable computer terminal at the Northeast Station near Concord.

The terminal, which will be demonstrated at the agribusiness meeting, fits into a brief case-size carrier and plugs into a standard electrical outlet. It is See AGRIBUSINESS, page 3.

Minimum wage proposal criticized

WASHINGTON — Are you getting tired of noble-sounding proposals from the politicians that never seem to turn out right in practice?

Well, here's another one for you: The "Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1975," introduced by Rep. John H. Dent (D-Pa.).

On the surface, this bill would raise the minimum wage for most workers to $3 on January 1, 1977. Thereafter, the rate would go up automatically with rises in the Consumer Price Index, with an added one percent bonus increase each time it does.

The bill would also specify a rate for overtime work (over 40 hours a week) of 2.5 times the base rate (it's now 1.5). And "flipped" employees — waiters and waitresses, etc. — would receive the full minimum wage in addition to their tips. (Under the present law employers may use tips to offset 50 per cent of the minimum wage.)

Sounds alluring, doesn't it? After all, how can anybody be against a raise for those at the low end of the wage scale.

But in practice, such laws accomplish nothing at best and at worst can actually hurt those they are supposed to help. To see why, take a close look at the major premises of this bill:

1. Income for workers at the bottom of the wage scale can be raised by a law requiring employers to pay more.

What if the employer doesn't have the money? The government isn't proposing to give it to him. And with labor costs accounting for 70 to 80 percent of the cost of most products and services, most employers would have difficulty swallowing a big increase. Such a boost would increase production costs without increasing productivity thus raising prices and contributing to inflation.

Of course, there is another alternative for the employer. He can try to maintain production with fewer people. In this case, it will be the low-skilled who are the first to be laid off. An employer just can't pay workers more than their work is worth.

(If the "official" minimum wage rate is lower than the rates established by the marketplace, then it doesn't do much good or much harm either — except to make the least skilled even less attractive to potential employers.)

2. Nobody should have to work at an income below the poverty level.

The official "poverty level" is calculated for a family of four. What about the single teenager who's living at home and looking for his first job? He or she needs experience and training. But an employer who must be trained is not able to pull his weight immediately.

If employers are forced to pay the unskilled as much as it would cost them to hire the skilled, then obviously they'll hire the skilled in preference. That's why we have such high unemployment rates among the ranks of teenagers.

3. High enough minimum rates for overtime will encourage employers to hire new people rather than working their present employees longer. Most overtime work is a something thing. It comes and goes. Even at very high legislated rates for overtime pay, it still wouldn't pay an employer to add new full-time employees to his staff just to handle a seasonal peak or temporary backlog.

The effect of this kind of law is really counterproductive. If the cost of overtime pay is especially high, then the work will be given only to the most highly skilled, most productive employees — either that, or the overtime hours will be eliminated altogether, and services reduced.

Nor does the damage end with the above list of disadvantages. Worst of all, this bill would start a rapidly escalating cycle of inflation that could only end in a spectacular collapse. If the minimum wage goes up automatically with the consumer price index when prices rise, then the real other pay would rise, too, to maintain differentials up the line. An automatic rise in labor costs would cause another rise in prices, and so on.

Representative Dent is walking through a powder mill with a lighted match, looking for ways to be kind to the workers there. — Richard Lester, U.S. Chamber of Commerce president.

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

WILL WONDERS never cease? You may recall that I wrote a few weeks ago about cobble corn, now I understand researchers are working on featherless chickens.

These glad tidings were revealed in a news release from the National Geographic Society. The featherless birds aren't new; research has been going on since 1953. Broilers without feathers would be easier to process and save in preparation costs.

There are some problems, however. The naked birds are extremely nervous and prone to develop stomach ulcers, and shiver if the henhouse temperature dips even slightly. (Spend a night naked in a henhouse and I imagine you'd probably shiver, too.)

PROM CONSTANT rushing around to keep warm, they also eat more than other chickens and naturally, it costs more to keep their quarters adequately heated.

On the other hand, under the right conditions the featherless birds have been found to weigh more than conventional chickens fed the same test diet and yield up to 16 per cent more meat.

(Presumably, all that running around makes them more muscular and less fatty than regular birds.)

And there is always the chance they might thrive in sunny southern climates, but I doubt if we'll ever see them in Nebraska.

CHICKEN RESEARCHERS should turn their attentions in another direction as far as I'm concerned. In 1973, a four-legged chicken was hatched near Indianapolis, Ia. Just think of all the Sunday dinner squabbles that could prevent.

THERE'S A NEW WORLD champion corn grower, according to FS Service, Inc. a farm supply cooperative. Herman Warsaw of Saybrook, Ill., harvested 338 bushels of corn from one test acre with a harvest population of 33,000 plants in 28-inch rows. An FS spokesman said this beats the previous record of 306.6 bushels of corn per acre from 4.4 acres, set by Orville Monrifi of LaSalle, Mich., in 1973.

STILL HAVEN'T received any "Do you Remember" items. I hope no one is being shy about sending them in. It's a popular feature and one we can't continue without our readers' help.

JUST A REMINDER: register early if you would like to attend the Farmers Appreciation Night dinner, Nov. 14. The event is sponsored annually by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and has become more popular every year. Dinner chairman Dr. Ken Liska is expecting a record number of farmers and businessmen to attend and tickets are limited to 500. Applications are available at participating businesses.

I HOPE EVERYONE enjoyed the special Halloween feature in Thursday's paper. I'd like to thank Morris Jacobsen for bringing the stories in and the School District 51 students for writing them. Wish we could have printed them all but space limitation just wouldn't allow it.

Farmers advised to reduce plantings

Nebraska farmers and most of the nation's farmers who are making plans for next year would do well to include contingency plans for reduced crop plantings.

The simple fact is that to realize anywhere near the returns necessary to cover their inflated production costs, U.S. farmers must export two-thirds of this year's wheat crop, half of their soybeans and at least one-fourth of their feed grains. The domestic market will not absorb such quantities of production this year or next. Production without a market will not yield a satisfactory income nor is it useful of human and natural resources.

While the Ford Administration maintained its moratorium on export sales, the Soviet Union was buying soybeans, wheat and feed grains from other world sources. News reports indicate Russia has purchased 25 million metric tons, including 9.8 million tons from the U.S., of the 40 to 45 million ton crop shortage this year.

The Soviet Union is normally the world's largest wheat producer. Logically, the Soviets will buy what they need in their poor production years and trim their purchases accordingly when they have surpluses. U.S. producers should not overlook the fact that their record supplies have been used by the State Department, Labor Department and George Meany and the AFL CIO for their own purposes.

Farmers talked about reducing their wheat, soybean and feed grain plantings this past year, fearful of the effects of over production. At the time, the Ford Administration was reassuring them that if they went for all-out production, they would have unfettered access to foreign markets.

They planted 361 million acres of crop land this year, some 30 million of which falls in the category of marginal land which from a conservation and yield standpoint, should have been put to less intensive purposes.

They increased their corn acreage by more than a million acres, to 66,573,000 acres and produced, at all time, record corn crop of 5.7 billion bushels. They increased soybean acreage from 52.4 million acres to 53.5 million acres and produced a crop of 1.4 billion bushels, the second largest crop on record. Sorghum grain farmers increased their acreage from 13.9 million acres to 14.8 million acres and produced a 785 million bushel crop.

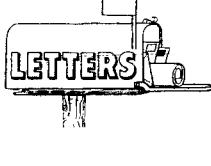

And, they harvested 68.8 million acres of wheat this year as compared to 65.4 million acres in 1974 to 53.8 million acres in 1973, and produced an all-time record crop of 2.1 billion bushels. Until announcement in July of the 9.8 million metric ton sale of wheat and feed grains to the Russians, there were predictions that the price of corn would drop below $2 per bushel. Wheat had already declined well below the $3.25 per bushel figure which is generally considered as cost of production at today's inflated expenses.

Despite a 30 per cent increase in production costs over the past two years, farmers are getting some 25 cents per bushel less for wheat than they did a year ago, 56 cents per bushel less for their corn, 62 cents per cwt. less for their grain sorghum, and more than $2 per bushel less for their soybeans. Think what the declines would have been if that 9.8 million metric ton wheat and feed grain sale had not been made to the Russians!

It should now be evident after four major governmental interventions in just over two years that the advantages of a "cheap food" policy have dominated the Nixon and Ford Administrations, and that the export markets have been restricted to manipulate domestic farm commodity prices.

There is no point in expending high priced fuel and fertilizer on marginal land and investing in costly equipment to farm all those extra acres to produce for politically depressed markets. — M. M. Vankirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

OBSERVATIONS

Ambulance belongs at hospital

The Wayne city council has agreed to a plan to provide standby ambulance service, at least until April.

By then, hopefully, the new ambulance will have been purchased and turned over to Providence Medical Center. That will be the second emergency unit provided by the city. Council sentiment seems to be that at that time, city responsibility for ambulance service should end.

That seems only reasonable. With two ambulances, the hospital will have a standby unit and the city should be relieved of that responsibility. Presumably, if a dire emergency ensues while both units are engaged, the city will still be willing to help. Any sensible governmental body, or individual, will lend a hand when life is at stake.

But as a matter of regular, ongoing service, it doesn't make much sense for the city to stay in the ambulance business after the new vehicle is turned over to the hospital. — Jim Strayer.

Food stamp reform needed

Congress should act now to end "obvious abuses" of food stamps, says First Congressional District Representative Charles Thone. It's high time something was done.

Thone was appointed in October as a member of a Food Stamp Study Group. A staff has been hired to prepare a study which the Congress can use to make a report on the food stamp program.

It will be February or March, 1976, before the staff can complete its report and April or May before a bill to reform the food stamp program could be out of committee.

Thone isn't content to wait until well into next year for such a bill. He believes Congress should act now, and to that end is co-sponsoring a bill to enact food stamp reform measures.

The bill would save taxpayers at least $1.2 billion a year but at the same time would increase benefits for the neediest families and individuals.

Something needs to be done with a system which allows some families with incomes over $12,000 to receive food stamps while other families earning considerably less pay taxes toward its support.

The idea behind food stamps is sound, but like many other government programs it has grown into a monster which needs to be cut down to size. — Jim Strayer.

ARTESIAN WATER POWER FOR FLOUR MILLS

A unique source of power has come to the attention of the Nebraska State Historical Society — artesian water wells which flowed with sufficient force to operate flour mills at Niobrara, Lynch, and the Santee Sioux Agency in the 1890's. All were located in Knox and Boyd counties of northeast Nebraska.

The device which harnessed this type of energy was the Pelton Wheel (named after its inventor), against which a jet of water from a well was directed. Unlike the huge water wheels usually associated with water-powered flour mills, the Pelton is a metal disc 2 to 8 feet in diameter to which cups are riveted at intervals on the rim. Water issuing at high pressure against the cups turns the wheel. Pulleys on the axle supporting the wheel carry belts to the machinery which processes grain into flour.

In the collections of the Society as a gift of Willis Nabby, Omaha, is a Pelton Wheel, a type generally associated with mountainous regions where high heads and low flows of water are common. Of Rocky Mountain origin, this wheel is 2 feet in diameter with cups the size of halved egg shells riveted at 3-inch intervals. It had not been considered pertinent to the history of milling in Nebraska until research in the Society's photo collection turned up the information that a 4-foot Pelton was indeed used by the Niobrara Mill Company. A second photo in a book on artesian wells corroborated the wheel's use in areas where water flowed with force from drilled wells.

A check of Society micro-filmed newspapers published in Niobrara produced the following ad in the March 22, 1895, issue. "Artesian Roller Mills, artesian water power complete through-out, capacity 50 barrels (of flour daily), Niobrara Mill Co." Soon Niobrara was using artesian water power to generate electricity and to pump the city's water supply. Theorizing that artesian power might have been used elsewhere, researchers found that nearby Lynch was also using underground water as a source of energy. The artesian well at the Santee Sioux Agency permitted extended usage of artesian water beyond milling operations: for irrigation, fire protection, and general household supply.

The Department of Water Resources and the Conservation and Survey Division have come up with two articles on artesian wells at Niobrara, both by George E. Condra (1869-1958), geologist at the University of Nebraska, who donated the picture to this Society which initiated research into this source of power.

The well drilled at Niobrara about 1894 was 656 feet deep. The pipe for casing the well passed through 40 feet of soil, 160 feet of Niobrara chalk, 210 feet of Carlisle shale, 32 feet of greenhorn limestone, 85 feet of Graneros shale, and entered the Dakota sandstone at 527 feet. One-hundred-and-twenty-nine feet farther down a strong flow of water was hit which when confined would reach 210 feet high. The water had a temperature of 75 degrees, flowed at 2,500 gallons per minute, and when allowed to run freely, formed a fountain 80 feet high.

Mr. Nabby's Pelton Wheel will be displayed at the Nebraska State Historical Society-operated Neligh Mills in Neligh with other equipment found in early Nebraska mills.

belonging to Leonard, is the gun supposedly used in the shooting. Swarts also contended that Wischof's firing at police was an involuntary reaction after being sprayed with Mace, a type of tear gas.

Paul Wischof's testimony was confusing, Swarts said, adding that Leonard Wischof neither threatened nor indicated any intent of hurting his brother. Paul testified that the first shot discharged while Leonard was playing with the gun, Swarts said.

Bornhoff replied, saying that the best possible evidence had been presented, "an eye witness by the man who shot."

Following the reading of the verdict, district court judge George Diltrick commented that it is unusual to complete a criminal case in one day but that this was accomplished because of the small number of witnesses.

"I would have found no fault if you had found the defendant not guilty," Diltrick told the jury. "And I find no fault with your finding him guilty."

Leonard Wischof has filed a civil suit in district court against William Woehler, owner of the trailer court where the Wischof brothers' trailer is located.

The petition alleges that Woehler interrupted utility services to their trailer during the period when Paul was in jail. From the shooting incident and Leonard was being held pending trial.

A temporary injunction has been filed directing Woehler to continue utility services pending settlement of the case.

Woehler said Friday afternoon that "following two or three previous incidents" he had told the brothers he would no longer be able to furnish them with space for their trailer if there were any more problems.

Utility services were curtailed during the brothers' absence, Woehler said, as a precaution against freezing pipes.

—NOW is not a man-hating, child-hating, marriage-hating organization. "We believe marriage is necessary for most of us."

—Being a good homemaker is an honorable career. "Some men make excellent homemakers, too, and if they want to be a homemaker, why not? But they ought to marry a woman willing to earn a living," Ms. Dewey said.

—NOW wants equality of men and women, not domination by women. It is not necessary that women do the same work or activities that men do, but do what they are fitted to do, Ms. Dewey said.

When a student asked what the NOW stance is on the equal rights amendment (ERA), Ms. Dewey declared, "Top priority." But she said ERA would be "only a symbol"—specific legislation will be needed to achieve equality.

Earlier on the forum, a representative of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women had explained its purpose and activities. Ms. Marianne Baskin, administrative assistant on the commission, said it provides a center for gathering information on opportunities for women and complaints of discrimination. It has no enforcement powers, she said, and it is funded by the state.

Another speaker, Les Zanotti, representing Management Recruiters of Omaha, said he observed a big change in management attitudes toward women—much more favorable on the compliance of women in executive positions.

His firm specializes in finding women for such jobs. The best opportunities currently are in business, professional and technical careers. A new and growing field is in para-legal jobs, he said.

Liberal arts graduates are less in demand now than five years ago, but there are openings for such graduates with the right qualifications, Zanotti said.

"Personally sometimes is a more important asset than a college degree... you have to market yourself," he said. Such details as the first handshake, appearance and language are important.

Kern Swarts, Wayne attorney, discussed changes in law affecting women. He pointed out that American Law is derived mainly from English common law, which was strong on Primogeniture, the concept that the eldest child, especially son, inherited the estate of one or both parents.

American law has changed gradually to correct inequalities for women, but still retains inequalities, Swarts said.

Citing several court decisions, some in conflict, he said society eventually will have to decide this question: Is there a difference in the sexes to justify a difference in laws?

Ms. Ruby Pedersen, associate professor of English at Wayne State, dealt with the status of women in education. Citing many statistics, she noted that most college faculties have a disproportionately small ratio of women teachers, and even smaller ratio in administrative jobs.

"Recent statistics indicate the proportion is going down, not up," she said. At the secondary and elementary levels, there are few women in administrative positions, she added.

If the first barrier should fail for any reason, three other barriers would have to fail before plutonium could be released to the air or water outside the containment.

The four barriers are (1) the ceramic nature of mixed plutonium-uranium fuel, (2) fuel rod cladding, (3) the reactor vessel and piping which form the boundary of the coolant system, and (4) the containment building itself, which is constructed by reinforced concrete several feet thick.

CLOSED FOR THE SEASON SEE YOU NEXT YEAR!

IT WAS a night of frustration Friday for the Al Hansen coached Wayne Blue Devils as they fell 22-7 to host Hartington Cedar Catholic Wayne's Annie Lowe (89) stretches for a pass but fails to hold on during the action while Mark Brandt (75) breaks away for a good gain during the first half (center) Hartington defender Dan Norcker (75) and Tim Prunning (75) give chase. Late in the ball game Hansen (right) stands hands on hips and yonders what went wrong as Cedar Catholic rolls to a big win in Northeast Nebraska prep football this year.

Hartington Catholic Ends Devils' Grid Dreams

By DAN VODVARKA
Hartington Cedar Catholic opened its bag of tricks early this Halloween.

On the opening kickoff of its Northeast Nebraska prep football shoot-out with Wayne Friday night, the hosts scored on an 88-yard scamper by star running back Jeff Leise and then proceeded to notch a 22-7 victory.

With a West Husker conference title, a playoff position and a perfect season all on the line, the host Trojans opened the contest with a fake reverse play on the kickoff. A number of Wayne Blue Devils went for the fake and Leise slid and scampered down the right side lines for the score.

The win was the biggest in Hartington Cedar Catholic football history. It clinched the Trojans' winningest season in its eight years of existence and finished the regular season with a 9-0 mark for coach Dick Fitzgerald. The win crowns the Trojans as the West Husker Conference champs and probably puts them in the first ever Nebraska Class B football playoffs.

For Wayne under coach Al Hansen, it was the first regular season loss in two years. The Devils might still have some post-season action coming up depending upon Hartington's chances of making the playoffs. If the Trojans make the state playoffs, then Wayne will represent the West Husker division in the loop playoffs this week.

Wayne finishes its regular season an 8-1 mark.

Things just didn't seem to want to go right for the Devils in over at quarterback for Wayne and drove the Devils in eight plays for the score with Brandt scoring from five yards out.

Early in the second period Wayne looked to take the lead as the Devils drove to the Trojan two yard line. On fourth and two however, Trojans Ray Shelton, Tim Leise and Bill Wieseler stopped Brandt for no gain or yardage.

What proved to be the biggest defensive play of the night for the winners.

After recovering a Wayne fumble late in the half Hartington drove for the go ahead score with 7:21 left in the half.

The hosts drove 33 yards with 1:00 pound quarterback Tom Schreffler going the final 19 yards for the score. Schreffler was hit three times on the scoring run but stayed on his feet and found pay dirt. The Trojan signal caller then fouled Tim Leise on a pass for the double PAT.

At Hartington's 16th Wayne and Hartington had a total of 100 yards on eight event plays. Hartington kicked 28 for the second half. Brandt returned the kick to the 50 yard line but the first play, Rob Mitchell, the ball and Hartington had the ball.

The play proved crucial as the hosts held on to their position for the rest of the night. Wayne's offense was being held to almost no yardage in part of the second half. Hartington ramped in Wayne territory.

Two Hartington field goals at attempts were good from inside the 25 yard line in the third quarter. Finally, early in the final stanza the Wayne defenders began to tire under the constant pressure.

Getting the ball on the Wayne

27 yard line after a punt and a penalty, Hartington drove quickly for an insurance touchdown with 9:07 remaining in the game. Jeff Leise, who entered the game with 860 yards rushing on the year, finally started to hurt the Devils. He rambled for seven yards and then 15 yards before scoring on a 20 yard scamper to put the game out of reach.

Wayne drove late in the game but it was all in vain as the Devils' luck and time ran out.

Hansen said that the Devils' second half plans were to run night at Hartington. "But that opening fumble put us in the hole and we never got started," the coach noted.

Hansen also said that the Devils' not only missed Mitchell's offensive talents but also his leadership abilities on the field.

Talking about the winners, Hansen pointed out, "They were up for us and they are a fine team."

Rick Straight led the busy Wayne defenders with 10 tackles while Mike Wieseler and Doug Straight had nine stops each.

Mitchell was Wayne's leading ground gainer with 39 yards as the Wayne offense got only 53 total yards in the second half with most of the yards coming in a late futile drive.

Logan View Wins Husker VB Title

If there's any consolation in Wayne High taking second during Thursday night's Husker Conference playoff, it's the fact that coach Mavis Dalton's girls may meet conference champion, Hooper-Logan View again this week.

Both clubs help to make up the eight-team Class B district volleyball tournament which is scheduled to get underway on Thursday at Wisner Pilgr. If both win their first rounds, they will meet at 7 p.m. in semifinal play.

During the conference playoff at Wayne, Logan View made use of its height and team play to down Wayne, 15-8 and 15-12, in a two-set match that lasted only 40 minutes.

Hooper's leading pointmakers Tamli Benne, Kay Sommerer and Marcia Mueller, who each had eight points for the night, helped to break a 5-5 deadlock in the first set with their strong sets and good spikes as the visitors took an 11-5 lead. Wayne trimmed the lead to 13-8 on the serving of sophomore Kelly Frevert and the spiking of Mary Kovensky before Hooper led the win.

Wayne shook off its poor serving in the first set to take a 10-6 second set lead. Leading Wayne's surge were Julie Kovensky, Mary Kovensky and Krls Nedergaard. Julie Kovensky, who led Wayne servers with five points, guided Wayne to an 8-6 lead with three straight points. Nedergaard, who was second with four points, pushed the locals' lead to 10-6.

Logan View rallied behind its tall 5-9 spiking leaders Sommerer and Susan Henneman to tie the gap at 12-12. Benne served the victor's last five points for Hooper's ninth win against three losses. Wayne's record is 13-2.

Schuyler Hands Wayne 1st Loss

Visiting Schuyler Tuesday hand Wayne's eighth grade football team a 12-0 defeat and ended the locals' grid season record at 3-1-1.

Schuyler scored in the second and fourth periods on running plays of 35 and 30 yards. The final score came in the closing seconds of the game when a runner broke through Wayne's 11 man defensive line.

"Schuyler's the best team we've played this season," said coach Duane Blomkamp. Several times Wayne had the ball inside the opponent's 20, but lost it on downs.

Jeff Zeiss was Wayne's lead ing ground gainer with 48 yards. Rick Johnson led the defense with 14 tackles.

WAKEFIELD'S Brooks Myers (22) dives just in time to deflect a Jerry Jensen aerial to Emerson receiver Kevin Peterson (88) during second-half action Friday night.

Emerson Stuns Wakefield With 24-15 Upset

By BOB BARTLETT
 Emerson Hubbard Friday night snapped a losing streak that stretched nearly two and a half seasons when it upset visiting Wakefield, 24-15.

The Pirates, who were 0-8 last year and went into Friday's match carrying the same record, gave their fans something to cheer about in the final season for both West Husker Conference foes.

For Emerson, the victory also meant that the Pirates would finish seventh in the eight team division with a 1-6 conference mark. Wakefield, on the other hand, slips from seventh to last place with an 0-41 division record and a 2-6 1/2 overall mark.

The see saw battle never was settled until the closing minute and a half when Emerson's Dave Heeny intercepted a Mike Soderberg pass on Wakefield's 14 yard line. Three plays later quarterback Jerry Jensen took the ball in from the one with less than 45 seconds left to seal the victory.

Wakefield and Emerson exchanged scores throughout the first half. The Trojans struck first on a 24 yard field goal attempt by junior Brooks Myers with eight minutes left in the first stanza.

About six and a half minutes later Emerson took advantage of a poor Myers punt that only traveled eight yards. The pirates took over at Wakefield's 29 yard line and six plays later Jensen threw a seven yard touchdown strike to senior end Kevin Peterson for a 6-3 lead. The two-point try failed after each of Emerson's touchdowns.

The Trojans marched the ball 70 yards with about eight and a half minutes left in the half to forge back into the lead, 9-6, on a five-yard scamper by Wakefield's leading rusher, junior Dan Byers. Byers had 50 yards for the night.

Helping on that touchdown drive were Soderberg's key passes to senior Scott Keagle for 22 yards and senior Tim Rouse for 10 yards to set up Wakefield's scoring drive at Emerson's 10.

Four minutes later Emerson again was knocking at the door after sophomore Ed Casey grabbed another Wakefield aerial and gave the home team the ball at Wakefield's 40. The Pirates' top rusher, Russ Fuchser, who had 89 yards, went 12 yards for the touchdown and a 12-9 halftime lead.

The exchange of six pointers continued in the third quarter. Emerson again capitalized on a Wakefield misgave when Virgil Hesse pounced on a fumbled kickoff by Rouse to put the Pirates at Wakefield's 26 yard line. Two plays later Heeny hit runningback Bill Hayes for a 14 yard touchdown and an 18-9 lead.

Byers put his team back in the game with a 14 yard touchdown reception with 4:10 remaining in the third stanza.

Although Wakefield dominated the final statistics, the Trojans lost the game on costly turnovers. Twice the area club lost the ball on fumbles and twice Soderberg was intercepted.

Leading Wakefield's defense was Kurf Dolph with 10 tackles. Steve Greif had six.

Laurel advanced to the second round against top-seeded Pierce after the Bearettes won their first match in almost two years. Laurel topped Neligh Tuesday night 15-8 and 15-11 for the team's first win in nine outings.

The win was the Bears' sixth against a loss and a tie, for Laurel's best record in nearly five seasons.

McCoy scored on touchdown jumps of 37 and five yards in the first period before a Brad Erwin drive led to a Doug Thompson two-point pass play, gave the visitors a 14-0 lead going into the second frame.

An Erwin keeper for one yard with about a minute left in the half pushed Laurel's lead to 20-0 before the veteran signal caller rifled a two-point pass to Greg Pipplitt.

The game's second leading rusher, Mike Dalton, got into the scoring act with a little over nine minutes remaining in the third quarter when Dalton ramblined 11 yards into the end zone. The PAT failed.
