There Are Brownies and . . .

Governors' Conference Is Unique Event

The real problem in Nebraska and America today is apathy regarding public affairs, Nebraska Gov. J.J. Exon said during his address at a dinner Friday night at the Wayne State College Student Union.

Earlier Friday, Gov. Exon and four former Nebraska governors—Dwight Burney, Val Peterson, Frank Morrison and Robert Crosby—had met in panel to discuss the role of the governor in Nebraska government, and the nonpartisan legislature.

The governor's conference brought together the present and every living former Nebraska governor except Norbert Tiemann, an historic and unique event, sponsored by the WSC Public Affairs Institute.

Officials to plan realistically for the future.

The possibility of applying resident tuition rates to non-resident students, through reciprocity agreements with colleges in other states has been discussed, Exon said, adding that he wants to explore that idea.

Students often don't know what direction they want to take after graduation and now don't find the job market as attractive as they expected. Part of the realism in planning the future of college is in helping students make those decisions, Exon said.

Students also have an obligation to help provide information about how the college is doing its job, what they as students think of the curriculum.

Broadening the scope of his address, Exon said he does not believe the United States "can continue to be all things to all people."

In the last six years, the United States has incurred one-third of the national debt experienced in its 200 year history.

The governor said he is amused that New York City, in the midst of financial crisis, "is turning to Uncle Sam for help when Uncle Sam is more broke than New York City."

Exon said the challenge for the future is to straighten out what he termed a financial mess, created by both political parties.

"It's about time America faced the problem," Exon said. "We don't have to jump off the cliff but it's time we took a look at where we're going in the future."

Exon said New York City's financial crunch is beneficial in one sense because it has been highly publicized and provides a warning flag to the rest of the country.

"We can't continue to spend more than we take in, a lesson that Uncle Sam never learned," Exon said. "In that respect, he continued, "I think the people today are ahead of the politicians."

In discussing pros and cons of the nonpartisan unicameral earlier Friday, all but one of the governors present agreed that a partisan legislature is needed in Nebraska to provide legislative leadership and accountability.

Morrison said he might agree with the partisan theory if Nebraska was, in fact, a two-party state. He pointed out that Carl Curtis' Senate seat has never been filled by a Democrat and that Sen. Roman Hruska's position was last held by a Democrat 40 years ago.

Peterson, WSC distinguished professor of political science began the discussion, saying that the political party is the best device for expressing political ideals and opinions.

Candidates now run on the basis of personal popularity, Peterson said. They don't debate issues and there is no platform of agreement on programs.

There is no leadership on the unicameral floor, except by individual bill, Peterson continued. "That's why a maverick like Terry Carpenter becomes a leader."

The nonpartisan legislature has also taken away from the governor leadership of his party and made it difficult to accomplish some goals through political power.

The other governors, except Morrison, essentially agreed

Wakefield Bond Election Is Scheduled for Tuesday

Wakefield voters will decide Tuesday whether or not a maximum of $237,000 in bonds be issued to finance construction of an addition to the Wakefield Public School.

If approved, the addition will house local and instrumental music rooms, a new art center, and a classroom designed for a variety of uses.

Music activities are now conducted at the old fire hall in Wakefield. The addition would alleviate that inconvenience and also lend flexibility to use of space in the present school building.

The $273,000 price tag is the estimated cost of construction and would also supply some furnishings and equipment. The nearly quarter million dollar bond would be repaid in about 15 years.

'Bermuda Triangle' Lecture Thursday

Author-lecturer Charles Berlitz will be in Wayne Thursday to discuss his best-selling book, "The Bermuda Triangle."

The program, initially planned for last month, is one of the special program series scheduled this year at Wayne State College.

The Bermuda Triangle, also called the Devil's Triangle, Hoodoo Sea, or Graveyard of the Atlantic, is the area off the Western Atlantic where over a hundred ships and planes and a thousand people have disappeared without a trace, literally vanished into thin air.

Berlitz will accompany his lecture with slides, charts and other visual aids.

The Berlitz program, to begin at 8 p.m., will be held at Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center. The public is welcome.

GOV. J.J. EXON and Wayne State National Bank president Henry Ley exchange greetings following an introduction at a dinner Friday night. Exon and four former Nebraska governors had participated in panel discussions Friday afternoon as part of the Governors' Conference sponsored by the Wayne State College Public Affairs Institute.

CB Radio Class Slated to Start At Wayne State

A two-session community information class for persons interested in citizen band radios begins this week at Wayne State College.

The class, to be conducted by Charles Ahlvers of Wayne, has been prepared by the WSC principles of adult education class under the direction of Dr. Howard Schmidt, associate professor of industrial education.

The two sessions are scheduled for 7 to 9:30 p.m., Nov. 24, and Tuesday, Nov. 25. Participants will meet at Room 103 in the Bentback Hall of Applied Science. There is no charge for the class.

The Principles of adult education class will offer another two-session course, "Ladies Night Auto Clinic," early in December.

WAYNE STATE College public administration student Dave Bernhardt chats with former governor Frank B. Morrison during social hour at the Wayne Country Club.

Fire Damages Carroll Home

A fire in a chimney spread between an upstairs floor about 5:15 p.m. Tuesday, causing considerable damage to the Rex Chapman residence in Carroll.

Firemen from Carroll battled the blaze for about an hour before it was extinguished. Cause of the fire was believed to be an overheated wood stove.

Although the house also sustained water damage, the Chapmans are living in their house. No one was injured.

Education Week Features Open House, Book Fair

The "opening ball" will sound at 6:50 Tuesday night for parents attending the Wayne High School open house.

Parents will pass through a facsimile schedule which their children follow each day, meeting teachers and receiving some regular classroom instruction.

The periods will each be 15 minutes long, with three minutes between classes, running roughly from 7 to 9 o'clock.

At 8 p.m. students will be inducted into the newly revived Wayne High chapter of National Honor Society.

Also scheduled for the evening is a demonstration of the Apollo exerciser, originally used by America's astronauts and now in use by high school athletes.

The environmental education class from last summer will present some of their findings regarding the environment of northeast Nebraska. Bev Merriam, school librarian and media specialist, will give demonstrations of audio-visual equipment in use at the school.

The open house is being held as a part of American Education Week, Nov. 16-22. Principal Don Zeiss said parents are welcome to visit the school at any time and are especially urged to do so during the special week.

A student book fair is also being held during the week. Parents and visitors will be able to browse and purchase books during the open house and students will be able to do so throughout the week. The book fair will include attractive new books from a variety of publishers.

Rains Helpful, But

The inch-plus of rain received locally Nov. 8 and 9 has improved the subsoil and soil moisture content in the area, county agent Don Spitz said, "but we've still got a long way to go."

Spitz pointed out that the long, soaking rain is the type of moisture needed because there is little run-off. Evaporation loss at this time of year is negligible, he added.

The precipitation will be valuable to trees, shrubbery and wheat, Spitz said, but enough moisture to soak the ground down to at least three feet is needed in order to have good planting conditions in the spring.

Which Way to Concord?

IF YOU'RE not sure where the town of Concord is located, you might have a little trouble following the directions posted on this sign near the junction of Highways 15 and 116 about 10 miles north of Wayne. For those persons who aren't quite sure how to get to Concord, don't pay attention to the sign. Just follow Highway 116 a couple of miles.

State Civil Defense Agency Offers winter safety tips

Indian Summer was nice but driving to work early Wednesday morning was enough to convince anyone it is over. Nebraskans will accept that fact as inevitable. We're used to rough winters and anyone who has lived here long figures they know how to cope with it. Therein lies a danger, however. Being accustomed to winter weather can result in a false attitude. And because of that, every year, someone ventures out into weather when they should have stayed inside, and ends up stalled or stuck on a deserted highway. That can be serious, according to the Nebraska Civil Defense Agency. They offer these common sense tips on what to do if stranded in a snow storm: Don't panic. Work slowly. Over exertion and over exposure are enemies here. Over exertion from attempting to manually push a car or shovel heavy drifts during critical winter weather such as strong winds, blinding snow and bitter cold, can lead to heart attack. Stay in the vehicle. Disorientation occurs quickly in blowing and drifting snow and it is easy to become lost when walking for help. The vehicle offers the best protection and is most likely to be discovered by highway maintenance crews or law enforcement officers. If caught in a major blizzard mental condition yourself to staying in the vehicle for some time. The survival rate for those who follow this advice is extremely good. A winter storm car kit is easy to assemble and doesn't take up much room. Items should include blank ets, matches, candles, pocket knife, first aid kit, flashlight, wind scraper, and a supply of high calorie, non-perishable food. Booster cables, tow chain, fire extinguisher and catalytic heater are other items which should be considered. A window should be kept slightly open to provide fresh air. Blowing and drifting snow can seal off vents, leading to oxygen starvation. Carbon monoxide is a silent killer and the motor should be run sparingly, and only with a downwind window open. Turn on the dome light at night to make the car visible to work crews. Move arms and legs vigorously occasionally to stimulate circulation. If there are several persons in the car, don't all sleep at the same time. By Jim Strayer

Maine governor wants higher government standards

The following remarks were made by the nation's only independent governor, James B. Longley of Maine. We think you will find his views of interest: "I submit that government must start applying some consumer standards to itself. As a service organization, as it is supposed to be, Government is failing miserably and it cannot continue to let down the people it is supposed to be serving. Consumerists need to redirect their efforts. If the same consumer standards were applied to government as government applies to business, we'd close down 20-30 per cent of government. "Government must start telling the taxpayers what services are available for the money. The citizens of the United States are fed up with hidden costs and cost overruns. In short, politicians are going to have to start putting price tags on their promises and office holders, particularly legislators and congressmen

Looking to remain in office, must put price tags on their programs. "In some programs such as food stamps, we may have waited too long to ignore warning signals. Here we have a program started in 1962 with good intentions to help poor families put food on their tables. Thirteen years later we hear Carl B. Williams, the deputy commissioner of Welfare, say, 'and I quote, "As it now stands, the system is just a mess that the Government has practically abdicated its responsibility for seeing that the money gets to people who really need it." And, we hear the Secretary of the U.S. Treasury say that the program has become a haven for the chisters and rip-off artists.' "The Social Security program is fast reaching a point of crisis where those paying for the program can no longer support the benefits coming out the other end. In 1960, a total of 70 million dollars went to 222,000 beneficiaries. This year, $65 billion dollars is being paid to more than 30 million recipients. In the last five years alone, Social Security increases totaling nearly 70 per cent have been voted, and increase even greater than the rise in the cost of living. "In 1940, 35 million taxpayers contributed to Social Security and benefits went to 222,000 beneficiaries. A ratio of 150 workers to one retiree. "By 1950, the ratio had dropped to 14 to 1, some 48 million workers and 3.5 million recipients. "By 1960, the ratio was dropped to a little over 5 to 1 and presently some 95 million workers are providing benefits to 30 million retirees... about a 3 to 1 ratio. Taking into consideration the uncertain labor market that could make the work force lag even farther behind the growing number of recipients, many experts say that the ratio could be down to 2 to 1 by the end of this century.

"While we must attempt to make changes in individual programs such as Social Security and poor stamps to salvage them, in the end it is the system with its spend, spend, spend philosophy and its programs without price-tags that needs to be changed. "Citizens aren't cheating the system, as much as the system is cheating the people. The system is breeding the cheaters and abusers who end up abusing it, but the real cheaters are the politicians who promise, promise, promise to get elected and then spend, spend, spend to stay in office. "The important question then is whether or not the system can be changed. I say that it can. In Maine, we are taking the system apart and putting it back together again and as a result I think we're making great progress in bringing programs under control and making them more accountable."

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

Anyone who doesn't believe being a mayor or city councilman is tough should consider what happened in Fullerton recently. Everything was ready to begin putting fluoride in the town's water supply on a Thursday and the announcement was made in the paper. After presstime, however, the equipment failed to work and the start up was delayed. Bright and early Thursday morning the mayor and council members started getting phone calls from water users, complaining about how lousy the water tasted. Interest continues to grow in Nebraska regarding the crossing of buffalo and cattle to produce an animal which will provide tender meat at a lower cost. My first experience with one of these critters, a beafalo calf on a farm just north of Petersburg, Beafalo are a registered breed of three eighths beef, three eighths buffalo and one fourth Charolais. The latest venture I've heard of is a cattalo experiment at Ceresco. A cattalo is the result of a straight buffalo-cow cross. Cattalo have the characteristic buffalo hump, although it isn't as pronounced. The beafalo calf, on the other hand, looked like any other calf, at least to my inexpert eye, except that coloration was different and the coat was thickened. Both hybrids are said to gain fast on grass, with more marbling than buffalo meat. The owner of the beafalo calf was enthusiastic about the breed's future but skepticism is wide spread and it will be some time before we see if the hybrids have any commercial value. I apparently misunderstood sheriff Don Weible regarding three accidents which occurred Nov. 6. In the Nov. 10 issue of the Herald, I reported the mishaps occurring in the morning hours. They actually happened around 4:30 in the afternoon. The Knights of Ak Sar Ben are again asking for nominations for their annual Good Neighbor Awards. Nominations are invited from news papers, radio and television stations, Chambers of Commerce, agricultural extension agents and other interested groups and individuals. Nominations should cover some outstanding deed or service performed without thought of personal or financial gain during 1975. Nominations should be sent to Ak Sar Ben Good Neighbor Award Committee, 63rd and Shirley Streets, Omaha, NE 68106. Nominations must be postmarked not later than Feb. 2, 1976. Can't say for sure but it appears the supply of police chiefs is about twice as good as the supply of chefs. Last week, The Wayne Herald staff placed ads for a chef for Les' Steak House in the Minneapolis, Minn., Yankton, S.D., and Des Moines, Ia., news papers. There was a mistake in the Des Moines Register, however, and the ad came out asking for a chef Les Lutz, owner of the steak house, said Friday he had received 54 applications for a police chief position, but only three for a chef.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

BICENTENNIAL flag presentation ceremonies at Hartington have been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 26, at the public school auditorium from 1 to 2 p.m. A representative from the State Bicentennial Commission will be on hand to make the presentation. ABOUT 325 Cumming County 4 H members attended the fall Achievement Night Nov. 6 at the city auditorium in West Point. A CUMING County farm family, Mr. and Mrs. Otwin Schlueter of rural Pender, were featured as the Farm Family of the Week on WQWT Channel 6 in Omaha Friday, Nov. 14. Schlueters were interviewed by WQWT Farm Director Arnold Peterson during the farm portion of the noon news. Schlueters farm 160 acres of land, the main crops being corn, soybeans and alfalfa hay. There is also a broome pasture for cattle. Schlueter handles between 500 and 600 feeder pigs per year and has a membership in a co-op farrowing complex. He is also the treasurer for the co-op. In addition, the farmer feeds between 200 and 500 head of yearling helters a year. JIM MCHENRY officially took over his new duties last Monday morning as City Police Officer in Wisner. McHenry, 31, comes to Wisner from Snyder where he had five and a half years experience in police work. He will be working with Wisner Police Chief Bob Meyer. FOUR Cumming County 4 H boys will compose the 4 H Livestock Judging team to represent Nebraska in the National 4 H Judging contest in Louisville, Ky., on Nov. 18. Team members making the trip to Kentucky are Layne Anderson, Oakland; Dave McGuire, Wisner; and Mike Hagedorn and Tim Schroeder, both of West Point. The Cumming County judging team won the right to representing Nebraska last September by out scoring 63 other county judging teams at the State Fair in Lincoln. TWO-way radios for the Plainview Public School's fleet of school buses will be installed, following a decision by the board of education. The radios will be used to provide safety measures in the event of a bus breakdown or calling buses back in the event of inclement weather or storm connected problems. THE SENIOR class of Beemer High School will present their class play, "Taming the Brat," on Nov. 21. The play, directed by Daniel Otto, begins at 8 p.m.

Out of Old

Nebraska

Louise Pound(1872-1958), scholar, teacher, author, folklorist, and amateur sports enthusiast, was a vibrant and vigorous woman. The archives of the Nebraska State Historical Society contains a letter written by her in 1956 in which she responded to a request for information about her athletic feats. These are her notes as written. "Did not enter many events. Played occasionally when near the locality where events took place. "TENNIS. Local women's singles, 1890. Women's state champion, 1891, 1892. University of Nebraska champion in men's (sic) singles, 1890-92. Winner second place in men's intercollegiate singles, also doubles, 1891. Winner, with Charles Foster Kent (professor of religion at Yale) of Wayne County, New York, 'gentlemen's doubles' from a team from Rochester, 1894. When attending a summer session, University of Chicago, 1897, winner of women's western championship in singles, defeating several state champions and the national champion of the year, in straight sets, to do so. Winner women's singles and doubles, Heidelberg, Germany, 1899, 1900. Winner Lincoln city championship with Guy Williams in men's doubles, 1913. Also central western championship, with Carlisle Neely, in women's doubles at Kansas City, 1915; also women's western championship with Miss Neely in women's doubles at Chicago, 1915. Played by invitation in several men's Nebraska state tournaments, exiting to the winner in each instance. "Gave up tennis in the second decade of the century. Bio-focal glasses wrecked my ground strokes. Whatever I hit went into the net. "GOLF. Ranking woman player in Lincoln, 1909. Winner of the title whenever she entered in these years. Won first city championship, 1917. Won state golf championship, 1917. Played a number of times (outside tournaments in Lincoln or Omaha) with Mrs. Mark Levings many times state champion, delightful to play with, never lost to her. "SKATING. Figure skating possible on small ponds near Lincoln. Despite the ankle-length skirts of these days I learned ed the grapevine, grapevine and scissors. double Philadelphia grapevine, Mattee cross backward, etc. etc. Could walk, two-step, skate the 'on the Richmond' etc., etc. Oved much to the example and encouragement of dance steps to Thomas Hickey, manager of the Lincoln ball club of those days and an expert roller skater. I was told that I had a monopoly on the state of fig. skating on the ice. No competitors, in 19th century Nebraska. Title, if I had it by default. "CYCLING. Much in vogue at the turn of the century. Won a string of Century Road Club bars awarded by the Chicago Club for riding a hundred miles in a day. I have forgotten the number of hours allowed. Only women in the state with a string of these. Also I had a Rambler gold medal for riding 3000 miles in a fixed number of months. I have forgotten the time prescribed. "I was asked by the physical education department at the University of Nebraska to help along women's basket ball, then coming into wide popularity. Served as manager and coach (amateur). In our collegiate matches we played by men's rules. The less skillful played by the conventional court rules. Teams with which we played and won including the Haskell Indian girls, Missouri University, and Minnesota University. The latter team was coached by the trainer of the men's team. When outsiders and a few others protested that girls were 'too frail of health' (no team members' health was ever harmed) and 'too easily upset emotionally' to engage in competition in athletic sports, Nebraska's intercollegiate and other matches were given up. "I had some experience in soft ball coaching, skiing on neighboring hills, riding and swimming at one time had the high diving record. "In February, 1954, I was elected the first woman member of the Nebraska Sports Hall of Fame. The first member was Grover Cleveland Alexander, baseball pitcher. Next came football players, runners, etc." I was preceded by Joe Stecher, the wrestler.

Five Devils on West Husker Team

Led by two-time West Husker all-conference selection Paul Mallette, Wayne High landed five players on this year's all-loop football team.

Mallette, who guided Wayne to an 8-1 season before teammate Monte Lowe took over the last game, was one of three seniors winning division honors. Also picked were Lowe and Larry Creighton and juniors Mark Brandt and Mike Wieseler, who helped to make up the 22-man all-conference team.

Hartington Cedar Catholic dominated the roster with seven players. The division-winning Trojans were led by the conference's player of the year, senior quarterback Tom Schieffer, who led Hartington to a 7-0 league record and a 9-1 overall mark, including a berth in this year's state Class B football playoffs.

Besides Schieffer winning player of the year accolades, Hartington first-year coach Dick Filzgerald was picked as the division's coach of the year.

Madison was second in the balloting with four players. Stanton had three. Wisner, Emerson-Hubbard and Columbus Lakeview had one player each. Wakefield was the only one of the eight West Husker teams which didn't place any players on the all-loop squad.

In past years coaches have selected a player for each position on the offensive and defensive squads. The format change was made this season so that more players would be recognized from the division schools.

Mallette finished as coach Al Hanson's top passer and second leading yard gainer. He picked up 794 yards in the air while he Hartington Cedar was second with four while Wakefield, Stanton and Columbus Lakeview had three each. Wisner and Emerson had two each named to the second team and Lakeview had one.

Balance Will Be Strong Point For Wakefield Wrestling Team

Balance is about the best word that can describe this year's wrestling team at Wakefield High School.

Tom Trullinger, letterman sprinted over the 13 weight classes will give what coach Lyle Trullinger believes will be the "best balanced team we've had."

That balance, Trullinger went on, will be the strong point for this year's grappling team. "We'll definitely be as good as a lot of people around here," he pointed out.

Trullinger figures that his squad will be a little bit stronger in 1976. "We don't have a great return returning," Trullinger said, adding that last year

The lower weights will be manned by Bill Newton at 98, Terry Borg at 112, Lyle Borg at 119 and Brian Newton at 126. Wrestling in the middle weights will be Domsch at 132, Kurt Dolph at 138 and Sherer at 145. Gustafson will wrestle at 167, Greve at 185 and Hale at heavy weight.

Freshman Steve Oberg

was the first in four years that Wakefield hasn't had a state champion.

"We've always had someone who would return with only three or four losses. But this year we don't have anyone like that," the coach said.

Trullinger, in his eighth year at Wakefield, figures most of the matches will be one or two point decisions. "I don't think we'll have very many fast pins."

Assisting Trullinger this season will be Wayne State student Tony Brown.

Wakefield's schedule: Invitational, 9 at Wisner-Pilger, 12 at North Bend Invitational, 16 at Pender, January-7 Stanton, 10 at Winside Invitational, 13 at Hartington High, 14 Hooper Logan View, 20 West Point, 24 at Oakland Craig Invitational, 26 Wayne, February-7 at Husker Conference tournament at Wayne State, 10 Winside.

BORG GREVE

appears to be the leader for the 105-pound opening. At 126 pounds, sophomores Brent Meyer and Mike Leonard are battling for the job, and at 155, sophomore Dean Sharp and junior Dan Byers are vying.

Also out for the team are freshmen Mark Muller, Verdel Ekberg and juniors Ryan Trullinger and Roger Leonard. The weak point for Wakefield will be the lack of a returning state contender. "We don't have a great return returning," Trullinger said, adding that last year

'Opponents Seldom Face Defense Like Wayne's'

Wayne State football for 1975 has to be analyzed as one of those might have been years.

It ended at 5-5 but coach Dot Stollenberg, talking to the Second Guessers Club Thursday recalled pre-season hopes this way.

"We were optimistic with the talent we had. We thought it might go 7-3, even 8-2 or with some breaks, all the way."

So what might have been?

Several key players might not have been injured or ill, missing one or two games. Some of them most of the season. Several turnovers might have been avoided. There were 15 fumbles, 12 of them lost and 24 pass interceptions. A few critical penalties might have been avoided.

Of course, there were a few officiating calls that Wayne might have been different. A conspicuous case of the roughing the kicker penalty which gave Northwestern a mid field first down and soon a touchdown in its 12-7 win. An official later admitted it was a wrong decision. True, Northwestern might have scored anyway, though not likely with about two minutes left in the first half.

True also that losing opponents probably could cite some might have been.

One thing opponents could say with certainty. They seldom had encountered any defense like Wayne's.

Time and time Wildcat defenders stalled drives. Result Wayne ranks sixth in rushing defense, 67.3 yards a game, on the current NAIA national chart including all teams, among Division II teams. Wayne is No. Two on total offense. The Wildcat rank 10 among all teams.

A measure of Wayne defensive grit is the fact opponents tried 10 field goals (made three). That's more attempts than usual, meaning the foe had to settle for less than a touchdown

Moeller, Donohoe Receive Awards

Two Wayne State football players, tailback Brian Moeller of Scribner and middle guard Pat Donohoe of O'Neill, received the Mike Wise memorial award at halftime ceremonies of the Wayne Black Hills game.

WSC coaches annually select the players they think best typify the attitude and football performance exemplified by the late Mike Wise. No. 1 rusher and most valuable player on offense for Wayne in 1971. He died in the summer of 1972 following a tractor accident on his family farm near Avoca, Ia.

NEN VB Hopes Ride on Wayne

Northwest Nebraska's hopes for a state volleyball champion Saturday was all on one team, Wayne High School.

The Blue Devils were the only team to advance into the second round after staking a win in Friday night's opener at Scotts bluff. Two other NEN entries, Wakefield and Madison, were eliminated.

Wayne mastered Syracuse in two sets, 15-9 and a close 15-13. At the outset of both sets, the taller Syracuse club jumped to a good lead, forcing coach Mavis Dalton's team to come from behind.

In the first set, Wayne tied the match at three all, and with the serving of Julie Kay made the score 10-3. Syracuse rallied to within one point, 10-9, before the Devils settled down behind Julie Kovensky's serving to seal a victory.

In the second set, Syracuse built a 5-0 lead, Senior Mary Kovensky's serving brought the Devils back in the game.

Saturday afternoon Wayne was scheduled to face Ogallala. The winner of that match was to have faced the winner of the Lexington-Waverly game Saturday night for the Class B state title.

In Class C action, Wakefield fell in three sets to Ansley, 15-6, 7-15, and 9-15.

Coach Ernie Kovar's club jumped to a 10-1 lead in the first set to give the appearance that his club would have little trouble advancing to the second round. The taller Ansley team was nervous and couldn't control Wakefield's serves. However, in the remaining sets, Ansley regrouped to shut off the Trojan attack.

Laurel Lands 3 on NENAC All-Loop Team

A Laurel High player named to the offensive unit and two teammates were selected to the defensive unit on this year's Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference all loop team.

The trio includes senior Steve Thompson, who was picked as one of seven offensive linemen and seniors Mark Martindale and Roger Kvois. Martindale was named as a defensive lineman and Kvois was named as a defensive linebacker.

Laurel also had three players on the honorable mention list. They include seniors Jon Erwin, Mark McCoy and Dan Nelson. Under the direction of coach Bob Rozied, Laurel finished the 1975-76 season with a 6-7 record, the best mark since 1970.

Guessers Pick Meyer

The final Second Guessers Athlete of the Week award in college went to Wayne State Senior Bob Meyer.

Meyer, a 6-2, 215-pound defensive end, was one of the mainstays in Wayne's 23-14 win over Black Hills, which ended the Wildcats' season with a 5-5 record, said coach Del Stoltenberg.

A Husker all conference selection, Meyer graduated from Scribner in 1971 and was named to the Nebraska All-State honorable mention list in Class B prep football after spending two years at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Meyer started playing ball at Wayne State in 1974.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Meyer of Scribner, Bob is married. Bob and his wife, Pat, live in Wayne.

MEYER

Opponents

Another measure of defense opponents averaged 12.7 points. Only two scored more, unbeaten William Penn, 28.14 over Wayne, and Northern 15.17. Wayne averaged 17.7 points.

Fact is, the Cats excelled the combined foe in most important statistics. They outgained in total offense, 301 to 128 yards, outdawned, outscored, fumbled less.

The opposition did better on return yardage and punt yardage, also converted a higher ratio of extra points.

Offensively, the pass receiving of split end Maurice Whitlock and the passing of quarterback Dave Miller look honors. Minikin caught 41 passes for 809 yards, breaking his own season record of last year. Curiously the 809 yards exactly matched Miller's.

Wayne's passing yardage of 1,487 may be an all time record. That compares with 1,387 in 1967 when Steve Guntner set a WSC pass record of 1,305 yards. Guntner was the only regular passer.

He played only two years at Wayne and set a career passing record of 2,205 yards.

This year Miller finished a four year career by exceeding Guntner's record on his last pass, a 53 yarder for the winning touchdown. That lifted him to a career total of 2,218 yards. He connected on 109 of 330 and 20 went for touchdowns. He had 10 interceptions.

Four year teammate Rick Benedito, who alternated with Miller as starting quarterback, finished with 1,665 yards passing on 147 completions and 334 throws, 18 for touchdowns and 33 intercepted.

Coach Stoltenberg often referred to the two quarterbacks as "both No. one." Here is a statistical proof to accentuate their similar passing performance. In total offense, Miller finished with 2,145 yards, Benedito a yard less at 2,144.

Tailback Brian Moeller led Wayne rushing with 698 yards, though he missed nearly all of one game with illness and was below par two games afterward. Runnerup in rushing was Mike McMahon, 294 one in the last game because of early injury. Second best pass receiver was Jerry Basye with 22 catches for 378 yards.

Workouts Continue For Blue Devils

The second week of workouts for Wayne high basketball and wrestling squad continue this week.

According to head basketball coach Bill Sharpe, 24 players have reported. The breakdown by grades shows that Sharpe has eight seniors, juniors and sophomores.

Wrestling coach Don Koehnig, has 27 grapplers out for the season. Freshmen number 10 while seniors and sophomores each number seven. There are three juniors.

LOWER-ELKHORN NRD SETS RULES FOR GROUNDWATER RUNOFF ENFORCEMENT
Following a public hearing on November 20, 1975, the Directors of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District adopted rules and regulations to implement and provisions of the Groundwater Management Act (LB 577) as passed by the 1975 Nebraska Legislature. The enforcement rules adopted refer specifically to the excessive runoff of irrigation water. Below are several commonly asked questions about the Groundwater Management Act.

HOW IS THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE GROUNDWATER MANAGEMENT ACT (LB 577) TO BE HANDLED?

The adopted rules list nine rules that the Lower Elkhorn NRD must follow to comply with the groundwater legislation. In general, each NRD is compelled by state law to enforce the provisions of LB 577. Action can be initiated in the District court of the county in which any violations occur.

IF YOU SEE AN IRRIGATION WATER FLOWING OFF IRRIGATED LAND, CAN YOU MAKE A COMPLAINT AND TO WHOM?

Anyone who can show that run-off water affects him or the NRD Board on its own motion can file a written complaint against a groundwater irrigator alleging a violation of NRD rules. A complaint can also be filed if an irrigator is operating an illegal well. All complaints must be filed at the NRD Office where the alleged violation occurs.

AFTER A COMPLAINT HAS BEEN FILED, A PERSON WHAT ENFORCEMENT METHODS CAN BE USED?

Cease and desist orders can be issued for the operation of an irrigation water or the construction of an illegal well (one that is not registered or failure to make a report when required).

PLANT TREES ON IRRIGATED LAND

Richard Gavitt—Assistant State Forester is your self-propelled irrigation system providing maximum benefits? By planting trees in the nonirrigated corners, you can better utilize the irrigated cropland for winter grazing and livestock feeding areas after the crops have been harvested.

Nebraska winters can be devastating. Extreme cold, snow with strong winds, with sudden changes in temperature can cause loss of livestock.

A livestock protection planting in corners of irrigated land should be 10-12 rows wide to be effective. The plantings should contain 8 or more rows of conifers, and be located 100-300 feet from buildings. There are many choices of design, kinds of trees and placement of windbreaks. Since trees in the corners plantings are usually irrigated, conifer trees usually grow better than broadleaf trees. Conifers provide better winter protection to livestock, are slower growing, but are longer lived trees. To provide early protection for the areas, fast growing broadleaf trees should also be planted in these areas.

Windbreak plantings can effectively reduce wind velocity to a distance 10 times the height of the trees. Therefore, when the trees are 40 feet in height the windbreak will provide wind protection to the adjoining field for 400 feet. As the trees grow, the efficiency of the irrigation system is increased by reducing evaporation from the sprinkler system and trees will stabilize the patterns of water distribution on hot, windy days. Therefore, one or more rows of hardwood species that grow 40 to 60 feet in height around the borders of the irrigated fields could effectively reduce wind velocities in the areas for distances of 400 to 600 feet. The protection would not be completely across the quarter section but it would influence most of that area.

Wind reduction also influences other factors such as soil moisture evaporation, soil and air temperatures and relative humidity. Reducing any of these factors will authorized by the NRD Board inspects the land where the alleged violation occurred. If the inspector finds the allegation to be valid, a formal notice from the NRD Board is sent to the alleged violator.

IF A COMPLAINT IS FILED AGAINST YOUR IRRIGATION OPERATION, WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?

The options open to irrigators to solve run-off problems include (1) the limitation of water pumped to prevent run-off water; (2) construction of a re-use pit with either a re-use pump or ditch to return that water to the same field or another field; (3) blocking of field rows to contain irrigation water or (4) agreement between two or more persons to use irrigation water on more than one farm.

The alleged violator may agree with the inspectors findings and submit a plan showing the District what solution is proposed or the inspector's report may be rejected and a formal hearing requested. If a formal hearing is requested, the NRD Board will have to decide if a violation has, in fact, occurred. Should the NRD determine that a violation has occurred, the violator must (within a designated time limit) submit a schedule of compliance measures.

If work required is not being carried out or a schedule of compliance approved, the NRD Board, through District court, can initiate appropriate action.

It is hoped that this brief summary of the irrigation run-off rules and regulations on the Groundwater Management Act will answer some of your questions. For further information, contact:

usually increase crop yields.

Tall hardwood trees also will reduce wind velocity in winter, and greatly increase the comfort range of cattle grazing in corn stubble, and help distribute snow evenly over the fields.

Corners also could be planted for the production of Christmas trees. Corners of 4 to 25 acres makes excellent areas for block plantings of Christmas trees.

Trees planted in the corners need care for maximum growth. Weeds must be controlled if the tree plantings are to become established and to become effective. Spraying the tree row with herbicide and mowing or cultivating between the rows will usually control the weeds. Livestock must be fenced out of any tree plantings.

Tree and shrub plantings in these corners are a benefit to wildlife as they provide food and cover.

Want to buy a widget?

When a lot of people want to buy a widget, and there are not many widgets on the market, the price of the widget goes up. That has three effects. Two out of the three benefit the consumer.

1. The widget makers get rich. This benefits the widget makers.

Read on.

2. The widget makers increase production.

3. Investors put their money into new widget factories.

Soon, there are enough widgets for everybody who wants one. At that point, the price comes down. Widget makers no longer get rich. Some even lose out. And investors try to invest in something the consumer needs more than widgets. The investor has the choice of keeping his capital in widgets or plowing it into new fields. Either choice, of course, involves risk.

A concrete parallel to our mythical widget is the ball point pen. When they first came on the market, they were in short supply and sold at very high prices. The rest is history. Mechanical ingenuity spurred on by competition has resulted in the superb pens that today sell for the price of lead pencils.

That's the real purpose of profit in a competitive economy—not to make a few people rich, but rather, to attract capital (and other resources) to the production of what the consumer wants. It's a signal system. It works automatically, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. For you.

We all profit from profits.
