McCollister Says Too Much Government Prime Issue

The prime issue during the 1976 political campaigns will be curbing the growth of government and government regulation, said senatorial candidate John McCollister in Wayne Monday.

The Second District Nebraska Congressman said concern over growth of government "and the regulatory prison we've built" is uppermost in the minds of people he has visited in 50 or so Nebraska communities.

Merchants Starting Holiday Promotions

Friday and Saturday are Coupon Days for Wayne merchants and money-saving advertising can be found in this issue of The Wayne Herald.

Merchants began Monday is using tickets for Christmas Bucks, which can be redeemed at any participating store. Tickets for the drawings are free and no purchase is necessary.

Merchants will post number lists on the day of each drawing and holders of potentially winning numbers must present their tickets at the Chamber of Commerce office no later than 8 p.m. on the date of the drawing.

Highest numbers from the list presented before the deadline, will win.

Dates and amounts for Christmas Bucks drawings are: Dec. 8 $500, Dec. 17, 18, 19, 22 $100 each, Dec. 23 $500.

Drawings for Happy Birthday Bucks will continue through the Christmas season with drawings on Nov. 28 and Dec. 4, 11 and 18.

Gifts will be open until 9 p.m. on Friday and Dec. 4, 8, 11, 16, 17, 18, 19, 22 and 23.

Stores will be closed all day Thursday for the Thanksgiving holiday and will close at 4 p.m. on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24.

Santa's sleigh will be in Wayne Dec. 8, from 2:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. to give rides to children.

things are so much different than in 1974."

"The public has become positive about wanting to curb government and regulatory powers, said the candidate for the Senate seat which will be vacated by Roman Hruska.

Continued deficit spending is also of great concern to McCollister and he believes New York City's current fiscal difficulties have proven a remarkable lesson for most members of Congress.

He pointed out that if New York City's per capita monetary deficit were applied to the entire nation, it would amount to about $29 billion. In reality, the national debt is about $68 billion.

That sobering fact, and the 1974 Budget Control Act, have led to a new strategy in fiscal planning, McCollister said. Under provisions of the act, Congress must adopt in May each year a resolution fixing ceilings for federal spending and the deficit in the year ahead.

In the fall, a second resolution must be passed, revising the congressional budget program, to reflect what the legislators have done on appropriations bills, changes in the economic picture and so-called uncontrollable expenditures.

If ceilings are exceeded, Congress must increase the deficit or lower higher taxes.

The spending ceiling in the resolution just passed was $8.6 billion higher than the figure in the May resolution and the deficit was $6 billion higher.

Senator Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said spending hikes accounted for in the second resolution came in entitlement programs and other items which Congress is powerless to control in the short run.

McCollister said, however, that under the new strategy, minority members are beginning to unify in insisting that built in costs don't automatically have to increase.

And that attitude may grow during the coming election year, McCollister said he suspects that many legislators haven't acted in that direction previously because they don't want to offend specific interests. With reelection in the offing, it is now time to deal with attention to national concern over spending limitations.

An often quoted figure for built in budget governmental costs is 79 per cent, McCollister said.

"That means they are provided for by legislation previously enacted," he explained. "But who says that is sacred. There is no reason it can't be changed."

Commenting on recently ousted Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger's statement that he considers President Ford's planned defense budget inadequate, McCollister agreed, but said the problem is bigger than that.

The United States is relatively safe now, but the situation in relation with the Russians becomes more and more perilous, the Congressman said, and if current trends continue, the country could find itself substantially inferior in all aspects of defense in five years.

That would impair detente, McCollister said, because the concept is dependent on maintaining equality with the Russians.

While agreeing that the present defense budget is inadequate, McCollister said every element of government must lighten its belt and despite his

Livestock Losses Not Known But Many Farmers Searching

It's too early to tell just how hard last week's blizzard hit livestock producers in Wayne County and surrounding areas but local veterinarians said Monday that some losses have already been reported and many farmers were looking for missing animals.

Finding missing animals could prove a difficult task because many are believed covered by snow in creeks and gullies and others may have strayed considerable distance in the storm.

The latter point is illustrated by the experience of Dennis Junck, who farms northwest of Carroll. Junck reported 21 head of cattle missing after the storm. The mixed lot of beef and dairy animals was later found, alive, southwest of Winslow, in Stanton County, about 17 miles directly south of Junck's farm.

Wayne veterinarians Ken and J.J. Liska and David Sworek said about 100 head of yearling cattle belonging to Melvin Malerhenry strayed into Hoskins during the storm.

Confirmed reports of livestock losses were scanty Monday but the Wayne veterinarians reported that one client had lost 22 pigs which piled up during the storm and smothered.

Dr. James Busby of Wakefield knew of only one farmer who had lost livestock. About 20 hogs and 20 sheep. Snow blowing in an open shed covered the hogs, and the sheep died from exposure to the storm.

Dr. Liska also pointed out that farmers will lose financially because of added labor losses in weight gain.

Dr. N.L. Dittman of Winslow said he received an unconfirmed report that one farmer had lost 11 cattle. He hadn't received any other reports of major losses but said large numbers are missing.

Use of the graph teaches the principles of scale drawing. Mrs. Denesia said, and compass and protractors are used to ensure proper spacing and angle for the intricate designs, teach the use of those basic geometric tools. Accurate measuring is needed to plot the holes, which are numbered and connected according to a formula.

String art is also used as a teaching tool in seventh and eighth grade classes. Mrs. Denesia said, but the work becomes more complicated. There, students must plan their own design without benefit of a scale drawing.

String drawings may be intricate geometric designs of one color against a complimentary cloth background, or the brightly colored yarn can be used to "draw" objects in several colors. Figures include peacocks, clouds and pandas.

Volunteers Needed

Mrs. Beverly Scovil, director of the newly organized Predict and Prevent program, a pre-school program of the Wayne Carroll school system, is asking for volunteers to make a house-to-house canvass in the Wayne area.

Predict and Prevent is funded by Title VI B through the State Department of Education and is aimed at helping children of pre-school age who have special needs.

According to the director, the volunteers are needed to inform residents about the project and to find children who might qualify for the special services.

Mrs. John Barr and Mrs. Glen Ellanson, who are in charge of recruiting volunteers, said about 25 individuals are needed to assist in the canvass planned for Dec. 8-19. Anyone interested in helping during the canvass should call 375-2758 or 375-4011.

Volunteers will meet at 2:00 p.m. Dec. 4 at the Wayne State College Library to see a film and receive instructions.

A Long Way to Go

THE OWNER of this vehicle wasn't the only driver in Wayne Sunday who was faced with the awesome chore of digging out his car in order to travel around town. After last week's seven to 20 inch snowfall accompanied by stiff north winds which caused heavy drifting, numerous drivers in Northeast Nebraska Tuesday were still trying to uncover their vehicles before another snowstorm hits the area.

Tribute to Duke Ellington Is Planned As Part of Jazz-Rock Performance

December will be ushered in by music at Wayne State College, according to music professor Dr. Raymond Keltton.

A jazz rock ensemble concert has been planned for Dec. 2. The college concert band will present a Bicentennial concert the following day and both groups will perform on tour Dec. 4 and 8, with appearances scheduled for Tilden, Elkhorn, Valley, Osmond, Butte, Lyons, Oakland, Tekamah.

Dr. Keltton calls the Tuesday evening event a sports music double header. The jazz-rock ensemble will perform at 9:15 p.m., following the Wayne State basketball game with Mount Marty College at the Rice Auditorium.

The Wayne High School stage choir, directed by Larry Stratman, will make a guest appearance singing "Mercy, Mercy, Mercy." "I Won't Last a Day Without You," and other numbers.

Members included in the jazz-rock ensemble numbers will be the Beale favorite, "Eleanor Rigby," and a tribute to Duke Ellington which includes "Mood Indigo," "In a Sentimental Mood," and "It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing."

The Wednesday program by the concert band will be at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre. Band members have dedicated this concert to their parents and will honor them at a Parents' Day reception to follow the program.

The concert will feature wind and percussion music from the Revolutionary War period to present day, including Blitk's "American Civil War Fantasy."

from the Civil War period. Soloists will include Jerri Paulson, senior music major from Council Bluffs, Ia., playing Kennan's "Night Soliloquy," Dr. Keltton, director, who will leave the podium to perform a euphonium solo, "Carioca."

Weible Buys Winside Bar

A native of Wayne, Charles Weible, is the new owner of the Poppin' J Bar in Winslow.

Weible, 22, purchased the bar from former owner Erwin Jaeger who has moved to Arizona. Weible is operating the business, and now expects to take over complete operation this week if the state liquor commission approves his request for a liquor license. Earlier this month the Winslow town board gave its approval during its 115 regular monthly meeting.

Weible was born and raised in Wayne and graduated from Wayne Carroll High School in 1971. Prior to buying the Winslow bar, he was a carpenter in Norfolk and in Denver.

Weible, who is not married, is the son of Wayne County sheriff and Mrs. Don Weible of Wayne.

String Art Is Useful Teaching Tool

String art is an increasingly popular handicraft, but Mrs. Charles Denesia, sixth grade mathematics teacher at the Wayne Middle School, also finds it a useful teaching tool. Art and mathematics might seem widely separated subjects, but the skills involved in constructing the intricate string designs and patterns entail a fundamental understanding of geometry. Mrs. Denesia said her students find string art an exciting way to learn about the subject.

The first step is to pick a pattern, plotted on a quarter inch scale grid. Students then

Kiwanis Popcorn Sale Is Changed

The cold, snowy weather Monday forced members of the Wayne Kiwanis Club to postpone their annual popcorn sale until next week.

Members are expected to gather at Peoples Natural Gas Co. at 208 Main about 5 p.m. Monday to begin the door-to-door city canvass, according to chairman Len Meyer.

Each box of popcorn, which sells for $1.25, contains five packets of popcorn, salt and cooking butter. This year the club hopes to sell about 400 boxes, with the proceeds to help sponsor Kiwanis activities for children in Wayne.

Irrigation Clinic Planned

Various aspects of irrigation in Nebraska will be discussed during a clinic Dec. 12 at the Wayne city auditorium.

Dale Stoltenberg, Wayne First National Bank agricultural representative, will welcome participants at 9:30 a.m. Registration for the clinic, sponsored by the bank, will be at 9 a.m.

Immediately following will be address on irrigation potential in northeast Nebraska, by Vincent Draxson, director of conservation and survey division, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Steve Oltmanns, manager of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, and Dean Axthelm, UNL Extension water resources specialist, will discuss the ground water control bill and its application to irrigation.

Rounding out the morning to noon will be Phil Henderson, Extension economist, discussing the economics of irrigation.

Continuing in that vein, Robert Hatch, second vice president of the Omaha National Bank, will begin the afternoon session at 12:45 by talking about financing alternatives for irrigation equipment.

At 1:15, Verne Climer and Vernon Hokamp will discuss their experience with irrigation while managing farms. George Rehm, district extension agronomist, will conclude discussions at 2:30 on the topic of soil fertility and cultural practices.

Flea Market Nets $200 For Wayne Lions Club

The Wayne Lions Club raised over $200 Saturday and Sunday at their Annual Flea Market, held at the Wayne city auditorium.

Market chairman Charles Maier said the money will be used to support Lions community service projects, including upkeep of the camping park adjacent to the municipal airport, and the purchase of gifts for residents of the Wayne Care Centre, a project approved at the club's meeting Nov. 18.

A total of 33 tables were rented by exhibitors who displayed wares at the flea market. Displays included the annual book sale conducted by the Wayne High chapter of the American Field Service, an organization which sponsors for foreign exchange students attending the school.

Out of town exhibitors came from Fremont, Sioux City and Norfolk. Other items displayed at the market included antiques, spoon jewelry, and Indian turquoise jewelry, and lapistry.

Carlos Frey of Wayne gave pottery-making demonstrations throughout the two day event.

Nancy Schuster of Wayne received the door prize Saturday, a kerosene lamp donated by Dale Johansen of Wayne. A turquoise ring, donated by Mrs. LeRoy Simpson of Wayne was won Sunday by Jerry Langston, also of Wayne.

Maier said attendance was steady all day Saturday, totaling about 700. Sunday visitors totaled about 100.

Additional Education Boosts Local Income

From a dollars and cents viewpoint, does added education pay off for Wayne County residents?

Can local people who complete their high school and college education expect to make more money during their lifetime than those who do not?

The commonly held assumption that more schooling produces big economic advantages has been challenged in a research study just completed at Harvard University.

It finds that the job market for college graduates has gone "from a major boom to a major bust" in recent years.

Also contends, "because of the failure of the economy to expand sufficiently to provide high paying jobs for the growing number of university graduates, the return on the college investment has fallen significantly." The authors are Dr. Richard Freeman and Dr. J. Herbert Holloman.

On the basis of national findings compiled by the Department of Commerce, it appears that the average Wayne County man with four years of college can look forward to making about 58 per cent more during his working career than a high school grad.

By the same token, local men who have graduated from high school have lifetime earning prospects that are 39 per cent greater than those of elementary graduates.

Other studies, however, while not denying that the job problems exist, maintain that a good education continues to be very worthwhile financially.

Since the figures are averages they do not reflect the fact that some people with limited education make more than some college graduates do.

In Wayne County, the latest figures show, the median years of education being acquired is 12.2, as compared with the median in 1960 of 10.8.

Of the local population over 25, 54.4 per cent are high school graduates and another 10.4 per cent, college graduates. Denying that a college education has declined in economic value, Allan W. Ostar of the American Association of State Colleges refers to a Carnegie Commission study which found that college graduates earn more, have steadier employment, better fringe benefits and are more likely to be satisfied with the work they are doing.

Dedication of Pipe Organ, 85th Anniversary Planned at Redeemer

By LAVON BECKMAN
Dedication ceremonies for the new 19-rank pipe organ at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne will be held next month, according to the Rev. S. K. deFreese.

Ceremonies will begin Thursday evening, Dec. 4, with an 8 p.m. organ recital by Paul Manz, well-known recitalist, church musician and composer.

The celebration will continue Sunday, Dec. 7, when Dr. Reuben T. Swanson, president of the Nebraska Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, will be guest speaker at the 9 and 11 a.m. worship services. The 85th anniversary of Redeemer Lutheran Church will also be observed during the day and formal dedication of the organ will take place at the 11 a.m. service.

A potluck dinner will follow the 11 a.m. service in the church basement.

There will be no Sunday school classes that day. Steve Carman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carman of Wayne, will present at special program of recital music at 10 a.m.

Special music for both worship services will be provided by the senior choir, under the direction of Kenneth Gansbom. Ted Bahe will be organist for both services.

According to Pastor deFreese, the public is invited to attend the Sunday celebration and the recital program Thursday night by Manz.

Manz, who is a professor of music and chairman of the Department of Music and Fine Arts at Concordia College in St. Paul, Minn., also serves as organist-choirmaster of Mount Olive Lutheran Church in Minneapolis.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, he received his master's degree at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., and was the recipient of a Fulbright Grant for study at the Royal Flemish Conservatory at Antwerp, Belgium, where he earned the first prize in organ and improvisation "with highest distinction." His teachers include Flor Peeters and Helmut Walcha.

He has performed extensively throughout the United States, Canada and Europe and, as a teacher, has frequently lectured at church music seminars, on summer professorships, at regional and local workshops, and on conducted tours of the Organ Lots of Europe.

His recital Thursday night will include "Prelude and Fugue in G" by Dietrich Buxtehude, "O Lamm Gottes Unschildig," "Toccata and Fugue in F" and "Prelude and Fugue in E" all by Johann Sebastian Bach, "Cantabile," by Cesar

PAUL MANZ, well-known recitalist, church musician and composer will take part in dedication ceremonies next week of the new pipe organ at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Manz will also appear in concert Friday night, Dec. 5, at the Wayne State College Ramsey Theatre.

Redeemer Church received the new pipe organ in July after nearly three and a half years of planning by a committee formed in October of 1971. Committee members visited churches in Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa before choosing the Schlicker Organ Co. of Buffalo, N.Y.

After meeting several times with a company representative to custom design the organ for the church, the memorial pipe organ committee ordered a "tracery" type pipe organ which uses the mechanical action of the sliding-plane and levers to control pipes.

According to Pastor deFreese, the design is similar to that used in some pipe organs since the 15th century. The approximately 1,000 pipes in the organ are arranged in 19 ranks, with the majority of pipes composed of an alloy, primarily tin. A few pipes are wooden, traditional of pipe organs dating to the 15th century.

The large number of pipes allows for flexibility in the types of arrangements which can be played and allows for variation of dynamic volume, achieved by adding higher pitched stops, rather than more wind, to the tonal ensemble.

The organ contains two keyboards, a 32-note pedal board, a swell pedal and a general crescendo pedal. Pistons are situated under each manual to change combinations.

Dimensions range from a 16-inch pipe in the pedal bass to a half-inch in the manual treble.

When talking about the new organ, Rev. deFreese is proud to add that since the founding of the congregation, Redeemer Lutheran has had only four organists.

Mrs. S. Piepenstock was the organist from the founding of the congregation. She continued until her daughter, Mrs. M. L. Ringer, was old enough to take her place. Both played the church's first organs from which the power was furnished by foot pedals, then the lever method of an assistant inflicting the bellows of the organ. In 1939, the electric organ brought its own power.

Present organists at Redeemer are Ted Bahe and Mrs. William Kugler.

Redeemer Lutheran Church had its beginnings in 1889 when a meeting was held in the August Piepenstock store for the purpose of organizing an Evangelical Lutheran congregation. A constitution later was accepted and a call was given to the Rev. J. F. Mueller. A temporary meeting place was purchased at 416 West First St., where the congregation worshipped for 10 years.

In September of 1899 a growing congregation necessitated the building of a larger church. Henry Koch, a member of the congregation, was named builder of the new church, located at 419 West First. A parsonage was erected east of the church in 1902.

By 1945 the congregation had outgrown the church. A gift of a new church site offered by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Meyer was accepted, and the congregation became incorporated to build a Redeemer Lutheran Church. Ground breaking for the new church at 502 Lincoln took place on June 2, 1946. A parsonage was purchased at 421 Lincoln. Expansion continued at the church and in April of 1964 dedication of a new parish unit was held. A new parsonage, located south of the church, was constructed in 1963.

Pastors of Redeemer Lutheran include J. F. Mueller, 1889-1890; Emil Ashbrand, 1890-1896; A. Graber, 1896-1901; J. H. Karpenstein, 1901-1912; R. Moehring, 1912-1919; H. A. Teckhaus, 1919-1936; W. F. Most, 1936-1942, and the Rev. S. K. deFreese who came to Redeemer Lutheran in 1942.

Rudolph Beiswenger

Funeral services for Rudolph Beiswenger of Wakefield were held Tuesday at St. John's Lutheran Church of Wakefield. He died Saturday at the Wakefield Health Care Center at the age of 61 years.

The Rev. Roland Holling officiated and pallbearers were Benton Nicholson, Charles Soderberg, Clarence Nelson, Ray Lund, Sid Preston and Hans Stark. Burial was in the Wakefield Cemetery.

Rudolph Carl Beiswenger, son of John and Freida Bohn Beiswenger, was born Oct. 23, 1914 at Battle Creek. On Feb. 10, 1944, he was united in marriage to Ruby Shurts at Wilmington, Del.

He is preceded in death by one sister. Survivors include his widow, and one daughter, Carol of South Sioux City.

John Brudigan

John Brudigan of Norfolk died Nov. 11 at a Norfolk hospital at the age of 83 years. He was born Jan. 16, 1892 in Wayne County, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Brudigan.

He farmed south of Wakefield for a number of years until 1952, when he moved to Norfolk. On Oct. 1, 1952, he married Ella Marquardt at Norfolk. He was employed by the Norfolk Livestock Market until retiring in 1974.

Funeral services were held Nov. 13 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Norfolk, with the Rev. Milton Weishahn officiating. Serving as pallbearers were Elwin Nelson, Marvin Brudigan, Wallace Meyer, Wallace Giese, Erwin Longe, Arnold Brudigan, Frank Brudigan and Rallie Longe. Burial was in the New Lutheran Cemetery, Norfolk.

Preceding him in death were his wife on Dec. 21, 1973, three brothers and seven sisters. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Arnold (Nelda) Hammer of Wakefield, and Mrs. Hubert (Eleanor) Nettleton of Norfolk, eight grandchildren, seven great grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Meia Frey of Corcoran, Calif., and Mrs. Rosa Baker of Wayne.

Wilma Roberts

Funeral services for Wilma Roberts of rural Wayne were held Monday at the Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne. She died Friday at Providence Medical Center, Wayne, at the age of 48 years.

The Rev. S.K. deFrees officiated and pallbearers were Paul Dangberg, Don Luft, Leslie Alleman, Elmer Wacker, Arlin Thies and Alfred Schutt. Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery, Wayne.

Wilma Dorothy Roberts, daughter of John and Mina Kruse Dunklau, was born Sept. 18, 1927 near Wayne. She was united in marriage to Eldin Roberts Oct. 25, 1947 at Wayne. She graduated from Wayne State College in 1957 and received her Masters Degree in 1971. She taught school in the Wayne area for 15 years and was a member of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne.

She is preceded in death by her father and two brothers. Survivors include her widow, Eldin, four sons, David of Jacksonville, N.C., Barwell of Fremont, John of Wayne, and Joseph of Lincoln, one daughter, Mrs. Terry (Sherill) Beckenhauer of Broken Bow, four grandchildren, her mother, Mina Dunklau of Wayne, three brothers, Kenneth, Alden and Marvin, all of Wayne, and one sister, Mrs. Harvey (Ruby) Kammann of Holdrege.

Elmer Bauermeister

Funeral services for Elmer Bauermeister of rural Wayne were to have been held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne. He died Saturday at Rochester, Minn., at the age of 63 years.

The Rev. Donizer Peterson officiated and pallbearers were Donald Bauermeister, Ray Koch, Eugene Gotsch, Jerry Bauermeister, Donald Bauermeister and Merlin Heinemann. Interment was in Hillcrest Cemetery at Park Cemetery, Norfolk.

Elmer Reinhold Bauermeister, son of Fred and Louisa Boldt Bauermeister, was born Jan. 28, 1912 at his parents' home in Stanton County. He was baptized and confirmed at St. John's Lutheran Church in Stanton.

He farmed with his father until he was united in marriage to Gesine Heimerann Jan. 24, 1933 at her parents' home near Wayne. The couple farmed near Norfolk until Jan. 27, 1958 when they moved to Wayne County. He was an art instructor at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Wayne.

He is preceded in death by one granddaughter. Survivors include his widow, one son, Vernon of Wayne, one daughter, Mrs. Donald (Joann) Nau of Wayne, six grandchildren, three brothers, Ruben of Chillicothe, Mo., Roy of Belden, David of Loveland, Colo., and two sisters, Mrs. Louie (Esther) Koch of Stanton and Mrs. Karl (Viola) Gotsch of Norfolk.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wittse

"A young man who has both the learning of books and the learning of doing things with the hands need not worry about getting along in the world."

William S. Knudsen

The world is big enough and complex enough so there are places for all types of skill. At one end of the spectrum we have a common laborer who can offer only his muscles and must be told exactly what to do. At the other end, we find academic types whose theoretical knowledge is vast but have scant ability to apply it.

Knudsen, as head of General Motors, had opportunity to note that the combination of theory with practical experience usually assured success.

Our ability to serve with compassion and sympathy is based on our experience and professional competence.

Opening Tilts Frustrating for Cats, Wildkittens

Two road games this week will give Wayne State's men's basketball team a chance to break the win column before its home debut next Tuesday.

Games at Northwestern of Orange City, Ia., Tuesday and the University of Nebraska at Omaha Saturday lead up to the Dec. 2nd home opener with Mount Marty at 7:30 in Rice Gym. That will be a basketball doubleheader—the men's game following the women's—before the home opener at 5:30 against USD—Springfield.

Both Wayne basketball teams lost their first games over the weekend. The men saw victory slip away, 62-60, after a valiant comeback against Briar Cliff Saturday at Sioux City. The women took an 87-62 spanking from Northwest Missouri State at Maryville Sunday.

Wayne-Briar Cliff combat, though marked by typical first-cagers' home opener, turned into a physical struggle from the start. Defense was stiff both ways, but Briar Cliff's frequent use of the zone kept Wildcat field shooting at a low rate of 24 per cent in the first half.

The Chargers went to intermission with a 37-27 lead and quickly stretched the gap to 14 points shortly after the break. Shooting at a 30 per cent clip through the second half, Wayne pulled into ties at 55 with 6 1/2 minutes to go, then 57-57 and 59-59 at 4:21. With about three minutes remaining, the Cats went into a stall game and finally, at 1:16, drew a Charger foul. Rick Anderson went to the line and hit a double foul. That meant a center-court jump, and Briar Cliff got the tip. The Chargers charged and Mack Jones hit a fielder to put the Cliff ahead, 61-60, with 23 seconds left.

Coach Jim Seward called a timeout out of 46 seconds. Then came a critical officiating call on the throw in a double foul. That meant a center-court jump, and Briar Cliff got the tip. The Chargers charged and Mack Jones hit a fielder to put the Cliff ahead, 61-60, with 23 seconds left.

A wild flurry followed until Wayne pulled for a foul with three seconds left. Randy Dek ken cashed a free throw for the final 62-60.

John Redmond, who averaged 17 points last year, started right off with a game-high 22 points. Rex Presslor was the only other in twin figures at 12. Briar Cliff spread around its scoring, with four hitting between 10 and 14.

At Maryville, Wayne's coed cagers matched field goals with Northwest each hitting 27. But the host Bearkittens almost wore a path to the free throw line and scored 28, exactly 20 more than Wayne's eight charity shots, and that was the difference in score.

Connie Kunzmann topped Wildkitten point production with 15 while Cathy Betz and Becky Kelly each hit 12.

Another Missouri trip comes this weekend when the Wildkittens compete in the eight-team Turkey Tournament at Southwest Missouri State, Springfield.

WS Grapplers Finish Sixth In NW Tourney

After two days of snow in Wayne, wrestlers of Wayne State suddenly found more than enough heat Friday and Saturday—in the Northwest Missouri State tournament in Maryville.

Delayed in departure from Wayne, the Wildcats arrived about an hour before meet time. It turned out that the University of South Dakota also had a travel fiasco and arrived with little to spare.

As a result, Wayne and USD were paired in seven first-round matches, according to assistant coach Bill Morrison. And when the last match was done, South Dakota claimed the championship. That gives a good indication what happened to the Wildcats in the first round: only

DICK AND DEE PFLANZ

Sportsbeat

By Bob Bartlett

THE WAYNE HERALD this year will discontinue its publication of a basketball insert on West Husker Conference teams. The decision to stop what was a bi-annual roundup on the eight hoop foes was made last week by Herald business personnel after several weekly newspapers in some of the towns balked on the idea of roundup stories.

Last year was the first time the Herald published a basketball insert. Everything seemed to go pretty well. Fact is there were quiet a few good comments about the publication.

One of the problems about publishing a basketball insert this year is conflict with team schedules. Some teams will have been playing before the insert is out. As a result, some of the material might be outdated.

Before the approach of the basketball season, staff members were discussing the possibility of including stories on Allen, Laurel and Winkler together with stories on West Husker teams Wayne and Wakefield. Again that idea was nixed because we would be covering only part of the teams in two other conferences, namely the Lewis and Clark Conference (Allen and Winkler) and the Northwest Nebraska Activities Conference (Laurel).

Although the Herald will continue its coverage of the five area teams, plans now are to have team pictures on a congratulation page for basketball and wrestling squads in the two Wayne County high schools, Wayne and Winslow.

IN MONDAY'S edition of The Wayne Herald, we had a roundup story on Laurel's basketball quint. What we didn't have, though, was a team playing schedule. Now that coach Joel Parks has made that available, here it is:

December — 5 Norfolk Catholic, 12 Hartington Cedar Catholic, 16 at Wayne, 19 Emerson-Hubbard, 29 30 at Randolph Holiday Tournament.

January — 59 Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference Tournament at Bloomfield, 13 Stanton, 16 Neligh, 17 at Creighton, 23 at Crofton, 24 at Wakefield, 27 at Randolph, 30 O'Neill February — 6 at Bloomfield, 13 at Plainville, 17 at Hartington High, 20 Plover.

In Monday's story, Parks talked about his two opening ball games with Norfolk Catholic and Cedar as being the toughest on the schedule. Both of those games will be played on Laurel's court, though Parks earlier said the Cedar game would be played on the Trojans' home floor.

NEXT WEEK'S Second Gridders meeting should be chock full of information about Wayne State's winter sports programs. After a two week layoff due to the weather cancelling last week's meeting and Thanksgiving today (Thursday), I'm sure basketball coach Jim Seward and wrestling coach Marion Hayer will have plenty to say about their teams. Seward's club should have four games under its belt before the Dec. 27th weekly meeting. Hayer's grapplers also should be well into the season.

Not to be forgotten are certain area basketball and its coach, C. I. Willoughby. Hope coach Willoughby will be present at the meeting to give members a rundown on his squad.

In addition to the college lineups, club officials are hoping basketball and wrestling coaches at Wayne High will be present to talk about their squads. Like I said, next week's meeting should be interesting. If you'd like to attend, drop by the Cornhusker Cafe at noon. We meet downstairs. Cost is only $2 for the meal

New F32 All Winter Radial

For A Firm Grip On Winter Without Studs

This is The Ice Radial Goodyear advertises on network TV. The Ice Radial that handles snow and slush — without metal studs. One reason is a tread compound so flexible it flows right on working when the weather hits zero. Another reason is Flexion cord round far pound, five times stronger than steel. Double Flexion cord bells and radial construction help keep the tread in firm, shoulder-to-shoulder contact on winter roads. Price reduction on entire line.

Use F-32 Radials on front wheels too for the best performance in all kinds of winter driving conditions.

Sharpe: Desire, Quickness Are Big Factors for '75 Blue Devils

Going into his fourth season at Wayne High, basketball coach Bill Sharpe admits that the beginning of this year seems like his first season here at the helm.

"When I came here I didn't know exactly what I'd have. This year it seems like the same thing — I'm not sure what I have," Sharpe said, noting that Monday was the first day of full practice after last week's snow-storm halted workouts for two days.

For sure Sharpe will have an abundance of senior talent and enough underclassmen to mold a respectable if not surprising ball club.

Seniors returning from last year's 18.5 club are Paul Mallette, Rob Mitchell, Mike Sharpe, Monte Lowe and Dave Hix. Lowe and junior Tim Koll will bring in the height for this year's club. Lowe stands at 6:3; Koll is 6:4.

"Height-wise, we'll be alright," Sharpe pointed out, adding that Hix is 6:1, Mallette is 5:11, Rob Mitchell is 5:10 and Sharpe is 5:9. This year's team won't match last year's club in height, but it will be quicker than the 1974-75 team, Sharpe said. "To me, quickness is a lot more important than height," he added.

Other players figuring to give the team a little quickness are juniors Aaron Nissen, Mark Brandt, Mike Wieselser and Jon Lay.

Sharpe is hoping that his team's quickness will make up for the experience Wayne lacks. Most of this year's varsity players saw only reserve action last year, with the exception of Mallette, who started during last year's Wayne State Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The quickness will be especially needed on defense to keep Wayne in the running until the offense gets a couple of games under its belt. Although the Devils play four of their first five games at home, before the Wayne State Holiday Tournament, Sharpe believes the kind of competition will be an early test for the team's defense.

Wayne opens on Friday, Dec. 5, with Blotz. The Bears should be as good as last year's club, having lost very few players. Next on the agenda is a Dec. 12th home clash with South Sioux City. On Saturday, Dec. 13, Wayne goes to Columbus Lakeview, then returns home to face rugged Laurel on Tuesday, Dec. 16, and Wisner-Pilger on Friday, Dec. 19.

"If the kids play the way they have been in practice, they could really surprise a lot of people," the coach noted. "They work hard, both individually and as a team. They have faith in themselves."

Question marks still linger about Sharpe's starting lineup. One, how long will Mallette be out of the lineup with his injured arm he suffered in a grid contest against Hartington Cedar Catholic? First medical reports showed the Mallette only had a badly bruised shoulder. Later reports confirmed that the arm has several small fractures. The kind of offense Wayne will run is another question facing Sharpe. With the height of Lowe and Koll, Wayne might go to a double-post offense. Both are interchangeable at the center spot, Sharpe noted, adding that if his club wanted to run on offense he might put Lowe at center and use Koll at forward.

The main question, though, is the offensive's ability to overcome its lack of experience. "We'll find out soon enough."

The rest of Wayne's schedule after the holiday tournament: January — 9 Madison, 16 at Stanton, 17 Bloomfield, 23 at Hartington Cedar Catholic, 30 Pierce, 31 at Schuyler. February — 2, 3, 5, 6 at West Husker Tournament, 10 Randolph, 13 at Creighton, 20 Tekamah-Herman.

Seven Returning Lettermen Bolster WH Grappling Team

MONTE LOWE

ROB MITCHELL

Wayne High wrestling coach Don Koeng this year may be fielding one of his best grappling squads in recent years.

Koeng has seven returning lettermen — the most he has ever had — including seniors Ken Daniels and Les Thomsen who completed in the Class B state wrestling tournament last season.

Both three-year lettermen will give Koeng's crew the leadership needed to help produce a strong season, the coach pointed out. Daniels will be competing this year either at 126 or 132 pound divisions while Thomsen will go 145 or 155.

Koeng said during Monday's Wayne Kiwanis Club meeting that Daniels, Thomsen along with sophomores Kurt Echtenkamp (105) and Kelly Hansen (132) "should get the points for us. The boys should be the nucleus of the team."

Koeng also has other returning lettermen including senior Tom Maier (167) and juniors Bryon Wacker (112) and Rick Straight (185). Although Wacker is the leading contender for his weight class, the coach noted that four other grapplers are in the running for that position. They are Duane Kay, Mark McCrigh, Jeff Edmunds and Robert Fler. Chances are the four who do not make that weight will vie for the 119-pound position, one of those weight classes which are open.

The other open weight class, heavyweight, remains a big problem, Koeng said. Last year Wayne went most of the season without a true heavyweight wrestler. Often the coach had to call on wrestlers from a lower weight to wrestle. The same outlook is possible this year, he added.

For the first time in a long while Koeng will have more 98 and 105 pound grapplers than he has ever had, thanks to Wayne's junior high wrestling program started two years ago.

Six of 10 freshmen will be working out for the lower weights, among whom are Dusty Rubeck, Ward Wacker, Bob Fler, Rich Luft, Terry Hamilton and Larry Hank. "The junior high wrestling program really makes a difference this year," Koeng smiled, pointing out more are learning about the sport.

Also, expected to give Wayne added strength in the lower weights is Jeremy Edmunds.

Wayne High's schedule includes only four home matches while the Devils travel to five away duals and four invitationals.

Wayne's schedule:
December — 6 at Blair Invitational, 9 Randolph, 11 at Blair, 19 South Sioux City, 20 at Pender Invitational, January — 3 at Tekamah-Herman Invitational, a Wisner-Pilger, 13 at Neligh, 16 Albion, 22 at Tekamah, 27 at Wakefield, 31 at Albion Invitational, February — 3 at Schuyler, 6-7 Husker Conference Tournament.

Five Cats Gain All-Star Honors

one who's his opener, 190-pounder Mike Riedmann, a senior. He went on to second place.

Freshman Dwight Linemann of Winside picked up where he left off as a state high school champion last winter. He garnered a third place at 177 pounds, a considerable feat since he switched from football to wrestling only two weeks earlier.

Paul Sok, a junior transfer, finished in fourth place at 134. Wayne totaled 22 1/2 points for sixth place among eight teams.

Pat Donohoe made a powerful impression on Nebraska college football fields this fall. Result: the Wayne State middle guard was the only unanimous choice of coaches for the Nebraska NAIA all-star football team.

Donohoe, senior from O'Neill, also was a repeater, one of six second-timers on the 26-player dream team announced last Thursday.

Five Wildcats rated honorable mention: on offense, senior tight end Jerry Bayse of Glenwood, Ia.; senior guard Willie Bailey of Aurora, Ill., and tailback Brian Moeller of Scribner; on defense, senior tackle Mike Schuster of Dubuque, Ia., and senior end Bob Meyer of Scribner.

The nine NAIA coaches chose 11 seniors, nine juniors, three sophomores for the all-star squad. They passed over four who made the team last year, and they added a specialist honor this time to recognize Chadron State's nationally ranked punter, Duane Fritz.

In its all-star selection, the Omaha World-Herald Monday named three "Cats" players to the top offensive and defensive squads.

Mintken and Anderson were named offensive end and center. Donohoe was picked for the line. Honorable mention went to Bayse, Bailey, Miller and Moeller on offense, and Schuster, Riedmann and Wagner on defense.

BIGGEST WINKER: The record for putting 24 tiddlywinks from 18 inches is 21.8 seconds by Stephen Williams of Altrincham Grammar School, England.

Guest Attends
Papa's Partners

By Mrs. Dudley Blachford 585-2588

Marie Schutte hosted the Papa's Partners Extension Club last Tuesday afternoon with eight members answering roll call. Mrs. Dea Karnes was a guest. Mrs. William Schutte conducted a question and answer period on "The Right to Die." Mrs. Karnes won the door prize. Mrs. Earl Mattes will be the Dec. 17 hostess with a Christmas party and gift exchange.

Surprise Guests
The Noel Isoms were Sunday supper guests in the Clarence McCaw home. Guests later to surprise the Isoms, who are leaving soon to make their home in California were the Gerard Stanleys, the Clayton Stingleys, the Leroy Peniericks, the Fred Frahnans and the Marion Quists. The evening was spent playing cards and a cooperative lunch was served.

Sunshine Club
Members of the Sunshine Club met last Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Oliver Noe. Mrs. Garold Jewell became a member and Mrs. Rodney Jewell was a guest. Mrs. Fred Frahm won the door prize. Members and their husbands will hold a supper at a restaurant Dec. 4.

Jazz-Rock

Dr. Robert Johnson, WSC professor in communication arts, will be program announcer and will serve as narrator for Gullis' "ABC Lincoln, 1863," a musical rendition of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Also featured will be Richard Rodgers' "Victory at Sea," excerpts from the music composed for the NBC documentary depicting the United States in World War II. The entire performance will perform in Clifton Williams' "Concerting for Percussion and Piano." Featured percussionists will be Pam Jones of Olathe, the Brad Weber, Reginth Mary Brown and Melanie Edmonds, Wayne; Rod Huskey, Coon; Alan Sipes, Okeola, and Debbie Crumbliss, O maha.

The concert will conclude with the popular Sousa march, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The public is invited to attend the Tuesday and Wednesday evening program. No admission will be charged.

Other concert band members from the Wayne area include Kay Piector, Chuck Pearson and Jane Pina, Wayne; Dave Brazo, Pender; Darvin Kuhn, Emerson; Debra Green and Vicki Bolivar, Norfolk; Perry Chaboun, Warner; and Connie Wingoc, Packer.

String Art

Lettering is also possible and at least one student, Kara Kugler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kugler, is showing pride in her community by constructing a string "Wayne Nebraska" sign which she plans to use as a wall plaque.

Sixth graders in the middle school are divided into three classes and only one class has worked on the string art so far this year.

The other two groups will have an opportunity to try their hand later this year. Plans are for the class now engaged to finish their projects before the end of the semester. None of the students were saying much Monday and Mrs. Denesla didn't want to give away any secrets but she pointed out that the string pictures do make nice Christmas presents.

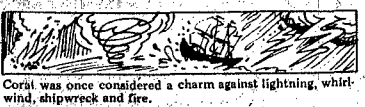

Some people say that if you eat peas on New Year's Day, you will have good luck all year long!

Police Blotter

A pickup operated by Joseph Joseph, 206 E. 11th, and a car driven by Steve Wilkins, Spruce, collided at the intersection of 5th and Main Streets about 11:30 p.m. on Nov. 26.

McCollister

concern regarding the Soviet Union, he is unwilling to increase the defense budget at the rate Schlesinger asked because of its impact on the budget deficit. Regarding agricultural policy, McCollister said a policy of full farm production should continue and farmers should be taken to ensure a market for products. He specifically ruled out, however, commodity credit surpluses. "That is a guarantee of low prices for a long time. Instead, the government should do everything possible to encourage overseas sale of products. In balance of payments, dollars received for farm exports make possible purchasing of foreign commodities including oil. McCollister said he doesn't foresee a time of severe food shortage in the U.S. and farm products will continue to be an important export. The senatorial candidate favors the decontrol of prices for oil and natural gas. Controls on use of petroleum resources are needed and he prefers to let that be done through the free enterprise system, letting supply and demand set a price which will encourage conservation. Numerous programs have been authorized to encourage development of alternative energy sources. The terrible problem in that area is lack of risk capital. McCollister said, because the government is siphoning off potential capital to finance government debt. McCollister agreed with the recent statement by South Dakota Congressman that Ronald Reagan's candidacy will be good for the Republican party. Reagan has traditionally a voided attacking political opponents but, instead, addresses issues and his discussion of current issues should be helpful.

Corat was once considered a charm against lightning, whirlwind, shipwreck and fire.

Ralston Man's Christmas Seal On Display

The original design of the 1975 Nebraska Christmas Seal created by Mitch Berger of Ralston is on display in Washington, D.C., along with all seals of other states and territories. Twenty talented children from all over America joined singer Vikki Carr in Washington, D.C. on Nov. 13 to open an unusual art show that will launch the 1975 Christmas Seal campaign against lung diseases.

The ceremonies took place at the National Collection of Fine Arts where the original Christmas Seal paintings created by the youngsters are on view in a special exhibition co-sponsored by the American Lung Association and the museum. Miss Carr is serving as National Christmas Seal Chairman.

Traveling from as far as Alaska to help the annual effort against emphysema, TB and other lung diseases, air pollution and smoking, were 20 young artists from the 54 children whose paintings are reproduced in miniature on the traditional seals mailed to more than 60 million US homes and businesses.

1975 marks the first time in nearly seven decades that children's art appears on the seal.

and the first time the Christmas Seals have included a scene representative of each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Samoa Guam.

For the youngsters, the gallery opening will represent their first sight of their creations in nearly two years. Because of production schedules, the paintings had to be collected during November and December 1973. Thousands of children in grades kindergarten through six took part then in the children's Christmas Seal art project co-sponsored by the National Art Education Association. After preliminary selection in each state and territory, a nationwide selection committee chose the final 54 to appear on the seals.

"These Christmas Seal greetings from the children of America are especially appropriate now as the American Lung Association begins work on important new programs aimed at improving the lung health of children," says Jack L. Hoffman, ALA President.

Hoffman said a curriculum project to teach primary grade children about the importance of healthy bodies, and the threats cigarette smoke and air pollution present to the lungs is now being developed with the cooperation of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Just one disease - asthma - afflicts two million children under the age of 16," said Hoffman. "In recent years, new information and new treatments for asthma have been developed.

The American Lung Association aims to support research necessary for future strides, and to provide parents, teachers and physicians with recent information about asthma."

An outspoken advocate of the rights of the nonsmoker, Vikki Carr said children can be especially vulnerable to the hazards of second-hand smoke. If more adults were aware of the effects on their children, they would be more considerate about smoking in their presence, Miss Carr said.

The 1975 Christmas Seal paintings will be on display at the National Collection through Jan. 4.

VA Office Says Number Needed

Veterans or their dependents writing or submitting claims to the Veterans Administration should be sure to include their VA claim number, often called a "C number," as the nearly 100,000 case files located at the Lincoln VA Regional Office are filed numerically by claim number, making it impossible to locate a file by name only.

According to James C. Smith, director of the VA regional office, nearly 20 per cent of the mail being received lacks any identification which causes long delays in answering letters or in taking action on the claims.

With mail volume quite often exceeding 1,000 letters per day, much valuable time of employees is wasted attempting to identify correspondence.

Should the veteran's claim number be unknown, other information such as Social Security Number, Service Serial Number, Date of Birth, etc. are helpful when asking the computer for the claim number.

State Legislature must cut own budget, too

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN—The Legislature, accepting at least part of the advice of Gov. J.J. Exon, reduced some state agency budgets by three per cent during the special session.

One of those budgets was the Legislature's own. The lawmakers have to eat $85,000.

That's not going to be a breeze, as was made evident last week by the Executive Board of the Legislative Council convened to look for some places to do a little trimming.

Board Chairman Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha had a spot picked out that would chop $30,000 off the spending list. Mahoney said the Public Works Committee didn't need to go ahead with plans to hire a consultant to study the procedures of the two biggest public power districts used to determine their rate structures.

But Mahoney found Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook, sponsor of the study project, wasn't willing to give up easily. As it turned out, Lewis could afford to protest because he had the majority of the votes on the board agreeing with him. The motion to go ahead with the project won, 63-1.

Mahoney said it was a "witch hunt" which could hurt the two districts—the Nebraska Public Power District and the Omaha Public Power District—when they go to the national money market to sell bonds.

Financiers, Mahoney said, might be reluctant to give a high credit rating to power entities under "investigation" by the Legislature.

Lewis said the concern about credit ratings is "bogus"—that's always thrown up by the districts when the Legislature starts inquiring about their activities.

What's more, Lewis said, he didn't like their term "investigation." He said what he wants the state to hire the consulting firm of O'Brien & Gere to do is study the rate setting mechanics, so the lawmakers can better understand them.

Lewis said the power rates in Nebraska will be climbing sharply early next year and citizens will, for good reason, be expecting their legislators to know whether hikes are justified.

With a state population of 1.5 million, he said, the $30,000 study works out to about two cents per Nebraskan. And that, Lewis said, is a reasonable expenditure, considering the price of electricity.

So—if the Legislature is going ahead with its $30,000 power rate-setting study—where will the $85,000 in cuts come from?

Chairman Mahoney said it will have to come out of some of the services to which senators have become accustomed, such as having personal secretaries they can keep on the payroll year around.

Mahoney said secretaries could all be laid off for six weeks to cover the budget reduction. Or, one secretary could serve several senators, instead of each having his own.

Travel would be more restricted, including trips to Washington and to regional and national conferences, Mahoney said. He specifically mentioned trips to California to recruit physicians, a reference to the flights by several senators earlier this year to the Vietnam refugee camp to look for doctors.

Another cost cutter, several senators said, could be a reduction in the $3.37 hourly wage paid to the pages, the college age employees who run errands for the lawmakers.

There was an attempt to whack that wage back to $2.50 per hour but it failed to get enough support because a majority of the board felt the pages should be included in an overall personnel policy established in the face of the budget shrinkage.

The Legislature, of course, wasn't the only state agency which found three per cent Exon-Legislature budget cuts difficult to handle.

Still, administrative budget chief John Jacobson said last week he didn't expect any of the agencies which fell the budget knife to be asking for deficit appropriations when the 1976 Legislature convenes.

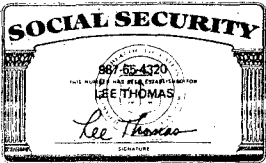

A deficit appropriation is an emergency authorization to get an agency through the fiscal year because its basic budget won't stretch far enough.

The Department of Correctional Services is expected to request a deficit appropriation, but Exon had predicted that would be necessary because of increasing prisoner populations.

The governor also will recommend deficit appropriations to cover greater state contributions toward state employee health insurance programs. The premiums will jump significantly at the first of the year and Exon has said the employees shouldn't have to pay the full extra load.

Jacobson said the deficit appropriation requests with administration endorsement should total less than $1 million.

Congressman Les Aspin is at it again. The Wisconsin Democrat, who served as a systems analyst in the Pentagon under Secretary McNamara and thereby acquired some of the expertise he's been using in criticizing the Defense Department, has fired another salvo at the Navy. This time his complaint is not so much overspending as underplanning, though he indicates the latter could lead to extravagance.

The Navy clings persistently to a goal of a 600 ship fleet by 1985. Aspin calls that a "pipe dream" which "cannot and will not be achieved." His authority is study prepared under the auspices of a lively bipartisan group of some 130 representatives who call themselves Members of Congress for Peace Through Law.

Aspin says the Navy target can be questioned on two grounds: desirability and feasibility. He may zero in on the former in a later report but his one concentrate on what he concludes is the Navy's staggering lack of realism in planning.

At the end of fiscal 1975, the Navy counted 496 ships in the fleet. But, he finds, "to attain 600 ships by 1985 would require a shipbuilding program of 45 ships per year" from 1977 to 1980. By current building schedules, Congressman Aspin calculates about 87 new vessels will join the fleet by mid 1980. But estimates of the number of ships that must be retired each year range from 18 to 30

So even under the most optimistic estimates of the Navy itself, the total number of ships in the fleet by the end of fiscal year 1985 would be 555—45 short of the goal.

"These estimates suggest," says the Aspin study, "that naval planning, which has been predicated on growth to 600 ships, deserves careful reexamination." That's putting it politely. The desirability of such size is another matter and, as I suggested earlier, Congressman Aspin may make that the subject of another report. Granted the Soviet Navy is growing, is there something magical about the total 600? Does the Red fleet, now or in the foreseeable future, have anything approaching the capability of the U.S. Navy?

One alternative in reaching its goals, Aspin concludes, "may be for the Navy to alter the type of ships it purchases and to focus on smaller, conventionally powered, less expensive vessels. This might allow for some increase in force size even with limited budgets. However, with its aircraft carrier orientation and with legislated requirements to build nuclear powered major surface combatants, the Navy seems unlikely to move in such a direction.

Meanwhile the Navy forges ahead building Trident submarines at a cost of more than a billion dollars a boat—more than the entire expenditures of the U.S. government in 1915. We've come a long way in 60 years, baby.

And of course the new Tridents won't provide any deck space for go-go girls, like Miss Cat Futch to stand on and do their topless thing for the crews—by Edward A. Morgan

OBSERVATIONS

Hurrah for the farmer

Hurrah for the American farmer! In the period between 1952 and 1972 the number of farms dropped from 5,200,000 to 2,900,000 in the United States. Nonetheless, the number of bureaucrats in the Department of Agriculture increased by nearly the same proportion—up from 78,000 to 225,000.

Just think how much cheaper our food would be and how much more the farmer could net from his crops, without these nonproductive bureaucrats "skimming the cream."

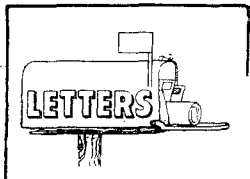

Still, the American farmer is free enough to out-produce collectivized agriculture in the rest of the world. A mere four percent of working Americans feed us—with more available for export—whereas the Russians cannot feed them selves with one third of their working population on the farms and twice as much land to farm. Yet our farmers do it in spite of U.S. government freezes, phases, fines and stringent controls.

Hail to the American farmer! He seldom complains, never goes on strike and he does not ask for food stamps. He is doubtless the world's greatest producer of goods regardless of the field of endeavor.

We took the country away from the Indians, who scalped some of us, and turned it over to the politicians who skinned the rest of us.

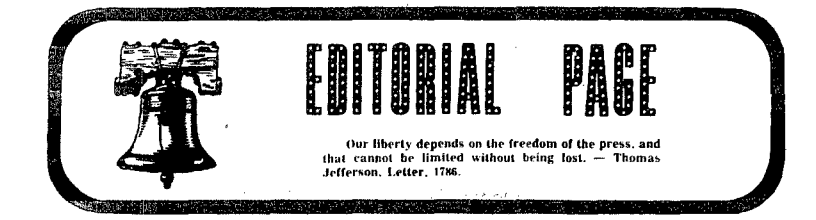

I think we should give it to the farmers who have been feeding us. Hurrah for the American farmer!—Stout City Journal.

Patron dissatisfied with mail service

Dear Editor: I am very puzzled as to why postal rates keep rising — when something like this happens.

We are rural residents Friday afternoon — after the snowplow had opened our roads, my husband went to the postoffice and asked for our mail. He was told there wasn't any. We realize no mail had come into town, but why weren't we given our Wayne Herald and Shopper? Instead, we had to go to the store and buy a copy of the Herald. Can someone explain this to us? — Rural Patrons Route No. 1.

'Un' natural gas shortage predicted

By FRANK ZARB
Federal Energy Administrator

An "un" natural gas shortage is brewing in the United States... "Un" natural because it's not simply a question of too little gas to go around, but a question of government regulations inhibiting optimum production and distribution of the gas we already have.

The problem is that government regulations on the books since 1954 have been preventing interstate pipeline distributors from getting the gas they need from producing states and delivering it to their customers in consuming states.

The regulations do this by keeping the price natural gas producers can charge to interstate distributors at a level far below what they can charge to distributors who ship only within the state where the gas is produced.

As a result, most newly discovered natural gas reserves have been sold for distribution within producing states, while the market share of interstate pipelines has declined.

Now the nation faces the irony of having surplus supplies of gas in its few key producing states, while the rest of the country must deal with painful shortages this winter and next.

The answer seems simple enough—just change the regulation so interstate distributors can pay the same rate as distributors within the producing states for newly produced gas. This would enable them to buy and deliver the newly produced gas the rest of the country desperately needs.

Unfortunately, what seems simple is not always so. Many people oppose removing price controls (deregulation) on newly-produced interstate gas because it would raise the price of natural gas.

Our figures show that deregulation of new gas would cost the average gas consumer about 6 cents per thousand cubic feet of about $10 in the first year of deregulation. But what would the consumer get for this new price? And more importantly, what would we get without it?

With deregulation, consumers could face a future confident that natural gas producers would have incentive to increase production and that this production could flow from producing states to the homes, offices and factories of consuming states.

Without deregulation, consumers would be assured of a low price for a fuel they would not be able to get because it would become uneconomical to produce. By trying to protect consumers with price regulations the government has already drastically limited the amount of gas available for consumption.

In every year since 1968, American consumers have been using more natural gas than producers have been able to find in the form of new reserves. Continuation or extension of price regulations would worsen this trend by reducing return to producers and encouraging consumers to use even more gas.

Bluntly put, the choice in natural gas regulation is not between cheap gas or expensive gas; it is between deregulation of new gas to bring on new supplies and encourage conservation, or continuation of regulations which are bound to cause increasing shortages in the years to come.

The Bible - - universal gift to mankind

National Bible Week began Sunday, Nov. 23, and ends Sunday, Nov. 30. The following editorial, written by Miami Herald editor Don Shoemaker, is provided by the Laymen's National Bible Committee, Inc., in cooperation with major faith groups.

Whether the Bible is the full and true word of God, as many Christians believe; or whether it is the history of a religion, as all scholars acknowledge; or whether, finally, it is to be held simply as great literature, as agnostics and writers agree, it is to all mankind a universal gift.

No other book has been translated into nearly every language and dialect. No other book appears, in one version or another, in so many homes and inns and even hovels.

The Bible's very antiquity, which stretches back in the Old Testament to some date between the sixth and eighth centuries, is at once mysterious and electrifying. In the main, the "preservation" of the hundreds of sacred manuscripts which were in fact lost is a strange triumph of the perseverance of the human heart and mind. To think, further, that the Bible is the first printed history of man, surviving natural catastrophe and the collapse of civilizations, which one may hold in his hands must make the senses tingle.

It is a universal book, yet 66 books in all, from Genesis to the sermons, from the "Preparation of the Old Testament," according to the fabulous encyclopedia, the Scofield Reference Bible, to the "Consummation of the Apocalypse."

As such the Bible is the human story, in its scope a chronicle of the family of man as awesome and compelling as an historical novel. The intense study of it, as Samuel Taylor Coleridge wrote, "will keep any writer from being vulgar in point of style."

But we miss the majesty of this book if we regard it only as a book and anything less than the consensus of man as related to God. James Cardinal Gibbons found it in all candor, "full of obscurities and difficulties not only for the illiterate, but even for the learned." Pope Leo XIII thought that it's "sacred writers" could have made mistakes but they "render in exact language, with infallible truth, all that God commanded, and nothing else."

In keeping, then, both scripture and man in the flesh, the Bible is a book of both comfort and despair, of love and the love and voluptuousness, of the nobility of a human spirit, of the clarity and brutality written in a manner which both enthralls scholars and challenges them to try to improve — vainly I think — on its language. It is a very part of the vernacular of the last 20 centuries.

Anyone who can be without it through ignorance of its pageantry or scorn of its religiosity is sorely deprived.

Thoughts for today

THURSDAY — Happy Thanksgiving Day! To begin tomorrow's day, you must get out today hand in hand with God. James 4:4: Yet you do not know what your life will be like tomorrow.

FRIDAY — Leave tomorrow's trouble to tomorrow's strength, tomorrow's work to tomorrow's grace, and all of it to tomorrow's God. Proverbs 22:1: Do not boast about tomorrow, for you do not know what a day may bring forth.

SATURDAY — The path of the world seems pleasant enough, if you don't stop to think where you're going. I John 2:17: And the world is passing away, and also is its lust; but the one who does the will of God abides forever.

SUNDAY — Choose a Church. And Attend Services as often as possible. But when a month old, hard to cut, harder to eat, and hardest of all to digest, Job 22:7: To the weary you have given no water to drink, and from the hungry you have withheld bread.

MONDAY — God's love will lead out of our hearts if we are not watchful into prayer. Ephesians 5:1: Walk in love, just as Christ also loved you.

TUESDAY — A wise man is like a pin: his head keeps him from going too far. Proverbs 23:7: Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding.

WEDNESDAY — A man was asked to lead the congregational singing. "I can't do it," he replied. "Can't you try?" the piano player said she played on all the black keys — and on the white keys — and I still sang in the cracks."

Air Force Is Seeking Musicians

Air Force recruiting service is seeking qualified musicians for the Air Force Band and field bands, officials at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas, announced. The Air Force band needs vocalists, and violin, viola, cello players, and other instrumentalists to fill positions in the Washington, D.C., area.

Directors of the Air Force Singing Sergeants and the Strolling Strings will travel to locations throughout the United States to audition potential candidates, officials stated. In addition, musicians and vocalists may travel at their own expense to Washington for a personal audition, or to a base where an Air Force field band is located. When auditioning, applicants should take their own instruments and any music they will best demonstrate their musical capabilities.

At present, 17 Air Force bands throughout the United States and overseas have their own symphonic concert, dance, and show bands, and other musical ensembles.

Musicians who qualify for an Air Force Band will be getting the musicians most precious asset—experience. High quality professional performances include all periods and styles of music.

Persons interested in auditioning for the Air Force Band or one of the field bands should contact Sergeant Ron Marshall, Air Force recruiter, 511 Norfolk Avenue in Norfolk, or call 375 3818.

Weible Ends Stint As Law Officers' Association Head

The 21st annual statewide conference of the Nebraska Sheriff's and Peace Officers' Association, held in Norfolk Nov. 16-18, came to a successful conclusion under the leadership of president Don Weible of Wayne County.

The theme of the educational conference was "cooperation communication between the various branches of law enforcement." All types of law enforcement officers and members of this unique, statewide organization were present.

Paul Douglas, Nebraska attorney general, was the banquet speaker and congratulated the officers on their increasing desire to improve themselves and to become more professional in their approach to our ever increasing crime problems locally and nationwide.

The association elected sheriff Lloyd Pontine of Clay County as 1976 president.

Pontine announced that the officers had selected Grand Island as the site for the 1976 conference.

USDA: Balance Needed In Farming Strategy

An economic simulation model stretching to the year 2000 has shown that improved economic prospects for rural areas depend upon a balanced development strategy, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported today.

The computer-based model, fashioned by the Economic Research Service (ERS), explored various methods by which rural areas could achieve economic growth in step with urban areas by the year 2000.

Single rather than mixed strategies, when played out on the computer simulation, achieved income goals but tended to produce undesirable side effects relating to unemployment and migration on both urban and rural areas, according to ERS. Simulations which taxed the urban sector and transferred that capital to rural investments indicated that relatively small rural gains were

Professor Seeks Rare Beef Twin

A heifer born twin to a bull isn't too unusual, but if she's able to produce a calf, she's a rarity.

Such animals are being sought by Dr. Franklin Elridge, University of Nebraska-Lincoln animal science professor, who is doing research on the chromosomes of these females.

Elridge estimates, "In over six million cattle in Nebraska, there are probably no more than 800 such animals entering herds each year, since most owners would not keep these animals and attempt to breed them."

If enough of these females can be found (Elridge is hoping for 200), his research may lead to a diagnostic test that would help producers determine if a heifer twin to a bull was fertile.

The NU animal scientist explained, "In cattle, about 90 per cent of all heifers born twin to bulls are non-breeders. These sterile twin heifers are known as freemartins. The loss of fertility is apparently caused by a fusion in the blood supply of the female's reproductive tract. The males are fully fertile, though. "Because of the common blood supply," he continued, "both the male and female twins have a mixture of white blood cells. When these cells are examined in the laboratory a mixture of male and female cells are found in each animal."

"Normally, all the cells of a female have two X chromosomes, and all the cells from the male have one X chromosome and one Y chromosome. In these bisexual twins, both individuals have a mixture of XX cells and XY cells."

"Whenever a female calf is born twin with a male, the owner wonders whether he should keep the animal for breeding," Elridge said. "He only has a 10 per cent chance that the heifer will be fertile, but he may be willing to risk keeping her if she is from one of his better cows."

Sometimes an examination of the heifer's external reproductive tract by a veterinarian will provide the answer. Often though, the reproductive tract will appear normal and the heifer still will not breed, he said.

"It has been assumed, but not proven that any heifer twin with this XX and XY mixture would be sterile. If that were the case, a laboratory examination of the blood would quickly tell if the heifer were sterile."

"But first we must show that all these 'mixed blood' heifers are sterile, and the best way to do that is to examine the blood of a large number of fertile females born twin to a bull."

Elridge asked that any dairyman or beef cattle producer who has a cow in his herd that was born twin to a bull and had produced a calf please contact him at the Department of Animal Science, University of Nebraska, Lincoln NE 68503; phone (402) 472-3095.

Higher Yielding Hybrids Predicted

How to squeeze more bushels of corn out of each acre. That's a tough question that has produced specialists sharpening their pencils. And it has crop scientists taking a hard look at what they can do to the ear producing plant to enhance its productivity.

Since the advent of hybridization, corn yields have increased at an average rate of two to three bushels per acre each year. USDA officials are proud to graph this 45 degree curve. But this unprecedented efficiency by American farmers has some food forecasters worried about corn yields 10 years from now.

Can we feed increasing numbers of people if corn yields level off? How long can the magic two to three bushel increase in yield last? Will farmland average 200 bushels per acre by 1985? And what type of hybrids will farmers be planting to get these bigger yields?

Some of these considerations were discussed by Dr. Basil Tsoltsis, director of corn research for DeKalb AgrResearch Inc. And it appears the two to three bushel increase in corn production should continue for at least the next 10 years, provided farmers and crop scientists do everything right.

Higher yielding hybrids are on the way," he says. "We're confident we can continue to make hybrid combinations available, which are significantly better than those farmers are planting today. The new hybrids will encourage farmers to beef up management skills too."

Corn breeding today is based on the unique theory of heterosis," Tsoltsis explains. "It means that when we cross two parent lines together in order to make a new hybrid combination, we're looking for a certain amount of yield kick."

From a corn breeding standpoint, Tsoltsis views the new higher yielding hybrids coming from two areas of plant science: (1) development programs which search for good source populations which can be used to make new hybrids, and (2) updating current technology about corn physiology.

Agriculture Department Sixth Report Available

During fiscal years 1971-75, staff years devoted to rural development information and technical assistance climbed from 3,200 to 5,513, a gain of 77 per cent, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reports.

This increase in staff years devoted to rural development and significant achievements in 10 program areas are noted in USDA's sixth annual report on information and technical assistance published today. The report is issued to Congress each year in compliance with Title IX, Section 901 (d) of the Cultural Act of 1970.

The report for fiscal year 1975 points out that USDA and the state cooperative extension services assisted in more than 100,000 different community projects during the year. Some 44,000 feasibility studies and more than 100,000 conferences and meetings related to rural development were conducted.

Accomplishments cited are in organization and leadership development, comprehensive planning, community services and facilities, housing, health and welfare, manpower development, recreation and tourism, environmental improvement, business and industrial development, and rural cooperatives.

Single copies of the report are available from Information Staff, Rural Development Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Dairymen Meet

The dairy farmer members of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. of district 89, north-central region, held their annual district meeting at the Wagon Wheel Supper Club in Laurel on Nov. 13.

The meeting was presided over by district officers, chairman Wayne Lund of Laurel, and secretary Edgar Wuebgen of Wymont. Entertainment prior to the meeting was provided by the Laurel Senior High Swing Choir.

Reports were given by Gib Millnitz, Nebraska division manager, and Robert Iseberg of the North Central Region staff. Bob Anderson, a representative of the Nebraska Cooperative Council, gave a report on the importance of LB 387 regarding double taxation of cooperatives.

District officials elected were Wallace Anderson, Laurel; Gary Frericks, Coleridge; Rodney Hanson and Leonard Sudbeck of Hartington, delegates.

Lyle Marolt, Hoskins; Gerald Meyers, Hartington; Jim Warner, Allen; and Dennis Gruenke, Winslow, are alternates.

Elected chairman was Dean Wilkerson, Coleridge; vice chairman, Vic Kneische, Wayne; secretary, Gerald Stanley, Dixon; and resolution committee member, Francis Arens, Fordyce.

"At DeKalb we're increasing by 10 percent about higher yielding hybrids of the future," the corn breeder explains.

Source populations contain huge reservoirs of genes, complex units in cells which determine heredity. Plant breeders call source populations the starting point in corn breeding because they're used to develop inbred lines which eventually become the parents of future hybrid combinations.

"One of the most important observations we've made is that a hybrid which displays high levels of hybrid vigor results from crossing inbreds derived from unrelated source populations," Tsoltsis explains. "In other words, the more different the parents, the better odds for yield advantage."

"The key to higher yielding hybrids is the present work seed companies are doing to diversify source populations with vast genetic diversity."

"We have quite a collection of varieties grown by farmers in Mexico and Central America areas regarded as the major centers for corn origin. These varieties represent survivors of the ravages of natural selection and should have a major bearing on future corn improvement work," he says.

For long-term gains in productivity, scientists must work a broader range of alternatives for the plant to produce, gather sunlight and utilize water and nutrients.

"It's going to take a real update in crop technology to come up with dramatic yield increases," Tsoltsis points out. "But we feel we are in a position to make a significant contribution to boosting corn yields."

Here's a run-down of additional technology behind those green stalks with single ears that could contribute to dramatic new breakthroughs:

- Multiple rowed corns
- More efficient use of fertilizers
- Increasing drought and insect resistance
- Corn that produces seed in tassels instead of ears
- Higher quality protein and starch levels in grain

"From a genetic viewpoint it appears there'll be a steady flow of higher yielding hybrids each year. And that's good news to any corn farmer. But planting the right hybrid is only the first big step in corn production. There are many more factors that enter into the efficient scheme—weather, adequate fertilizer supplies, disease or insect problems. Only time will tell what 1985 yields will be. However, corn researchers say average per acre yields can continue to increase."

NFO Candidate Will Appear At Farm Rally

Del Paulson, candidate for president of the National Farmers Organization, will speak at a rally to be held Dec. 4 at 8 p.m. at the Council Bluffs Holiday Inn.

Paulson will speak about his plans for a more effective NFO and there will be time for questions and discussion.

Paulson is seeking to advance the NFO through new leadership and improved procedures and policies. As president, he has pledged to provide regular financial information to NFO members. He would also limit the tenure of the NFO president and prohibit national directors from holding salaried jobs. In addition, Paulson plans to use NFO's successful programs to solve the organization's dues problems.

The NFO presidential contest will be held at the NFO's twelfth annual convention in Iwrest City, Mo., on December 10-12.

Farm Tour Planned

The Northeast Nebraska Live Stock Feeders Association will sponsor a tour of Thurston County farms on Dec. 5.

The tour will begin on the Wilbur Hayrock farm, two miles south and two and one-half miles west of Emerson, at 1 p.m.

Other stops will be at the Mike Martin farm and the George Olson farm. Storm date is Dec. 10.

Dads Helpers

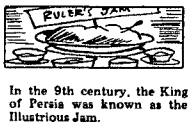

The Dads Helpers, 2-H Club met Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Northeast Station near Concord. A Christmas party was planned.

The group decided to have a grab bag gift exchange with 25 or 30 sets of the Hunt Game, Rhodes, Amelia Fritschon, Cream Hanson and Tim Bloom was set up.

Terry Rhodes gave a talk on woodwork, followed by Vernon Krause, area beef specialist who gave a short talk on beef selection and judging.

Next meeting will be Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Northeast Station with the Earl Macos and Fred Oppenhears, as hosts.

1995 may be the fastest-thing from your mind when comparing Reinke Irrigation Systems to the others. But we think of it as the last of 20 potentially good years. Years of good yields for you—good customers for us. That's why we choose to offer the "Circular" irrigation systems with the best warranty package in the business—20 year corrosion warranty on steel, and "aluminum pipe," and a 3 year warranty on all parts, including first!

We could list dozens of reasons why the features on Reinke Water Management Systems are unmatched in the irrigation industry. But you buy more than features when you invest in irrigation—you buy a company and a dealer, too. If we didn't offer "America's Finest Circular Irrigation Systems," we couldn't make this kind of offer. If we weren't your neighbor, we wouldn't want to. Brimstone Not All Down Below

Hell has long been characterized as a sea of burning brimstone. But all the brimstone isn't down there. You are in the process of using 100 pounds or more of it yourself this year — as is every other man, woman, or child in the United States.

Why all this hell on earth? Brimstone is another word for the element sulphur, and sulphur is basic to the making or growing of practically everything you eat or wear or use. It is essential, in fact, to life itself. "Mention sulphur," and people think "matches" or "molasses," or maybe skin ointments. Actually its largest use — accounting for more than half the 11,000,000 tons consumed annually in this country — is in fertilizer. So sulphur's principal job is to help feed the world.

As a plant nutrient, sulphur ranks in importance with nitrogen and phosphorus in the formation of protein in food and forage crops, and it is a component of essential vitamins and enzymes. Without it, plant and animal life as we know it would soon cease to exist. The element also is widely employed in fungicides and pesticides.

Sulphur's largest agricultural role, however, is as sulphuric acid. In this form, it is used to convert phosphate rock into phosphate fertilizers. Phosphorus, along with nitrogen, potash and sulphur, is a major plant nutrient.

It is as sulphuric acid, too, that sulphur flows through the whole economy, for it is the cheapest and most abundant acid available for the processing of the things you buy — paper, rubber, textiles, film, paint, lubricants, gasoline, steel and all sorts of chemicals.

Sulphur goes back at least 4,000 years, when Egyptian priests used the blue-green flame and pungent odor of burning brimstone in their rituals. The odor (and a bit of early air pollution) was from the resultant "sulphur dioxide." Sulphur itself is odorless and tasteless.

The association with hell no doubt comes from the common occurrence of sulphur near active volcanoes today, however. It is sulphur flipped subterranean salt domes along the Gulf of Mexico where the element is mined by melting it underground with hot water and bringing it to the surface as a liquid.

Quite a Catch

THESE WAYNE fishermen (and women) were only one short of catching their limit of 12 Spoonbill at Gavin's Point Dam. The 11 fish weigh about 275 pounds total, with the three largest weighing 48, 47 and 44 pounds. Pictured are Jim Corbit, Gary Jeffrey, Ron and Gean Mau, Allder Brander and Eunice Corbit.

AIC Says Radial Tires Are Real Energy Savers

Radial tires are important gas savers, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

AIC points out that one tire company has estimated that if all cars on the road had radial tires the nation would save 7 billion gallons of gasoline and motorists could save about $4 billion.

Today, almost 75 per cent of the cars ride on radials, so the possible savings this year is some 1.5 billion gallons of gasoline and about $800 million. These figures are based on tests which compared steel belted radials with belted bias tires, which resulted in improvements in fuel economy of seven to 10 per cent at steady highway speeds.

Because of their inner construction, radials have less rolling resistance than other types of tires. In other words, if you set up a coasting contest with two identical cars — one with radials and the other with non radials — the radial equipped car would coast further than the other. Thus, the radial car would have greater fuel economy when operating under power.

Air pressure also is important to saving fuel, both for radials and non radials, AIC points out. Underinflated tires have greater rolling resistance and therefore more fuel is needed to propel the car. At the same time, the tires are being worn out faster than they should be, so underinflation is a double waste.

Tire company tests indicate that cars with tires underinflated by eight pounds use about five per cent more fuel than tires which carry the proper inflation pressure.

AIC says it is estimated that about half of the approximately 400 million car tires on the road are underinflated, which means that half the cars — even if properly tuned and operated — aren't gaining their full mileage potential.

Since they also are wearing out faster than they should, there also is a waste of synthetic rubber used in making the tires. This rubber comes from crude oil.

Therefore, maintaining proper air pressure would be conserving petroleum on two fronts.

Guidelines Being Formed For NTCC Foundation

Northeast Technical Community College has announced that guidelines are currently being developed to award NTCC Foundation scholarships for the second semester of the 1975-76 school year.

The foundation, established for charitable, religious, educational and scientific purposes, aids NTCC in fulfilling its objectives and goals. This organization invests the contributions and bequests received, and disburses the proceeds in the form of NTCC student scholarships.

In February of this year, the foundation received a $60,000 bequest from Mrs. Nellie House Craven of Pender, Mrs. Craven, who died December, 1974 had instructed that the bequest be used to establish one or more scholarships for needy students.

To date, proceeds stand at $930, the major portion of which will be disbursed in scholarships. The 13 members currently serving on the Foundation's Board of Directors reside throughout the 70 county area served by the College. This geographically advantageous distribution of board members enables persons in this area to readily contact the Foundation concerning contributions or possible scholarship candidates.

The Northeast Technical Community College Foundation is now conducting a fund-raising drive to finance additional scholarships and fulfill the Foundation's other goals. Emil Reutzel, publisher of the Daily News, serves as president of the foundation, and may be contacted concerning contributions.

New York City Theater Trip Is Announced

Wayne State College announces the second annual New York Theater trip.

The bus will leave from Wayne Dec. 27, returning Jan. 4. Those taking the tour will have five full days and six nights in the theater capital of America.

Those going on the trip can receive two hours credit in English or communication arts, either on the graduate or under graduate level.

For approximately $170, participants will get a room in the Hotel Piccadilly (shared with three other people), tickets to three plays, and tuition for two hours credit. In addition they will buy two additional theater tickets, all meals, and other personal expenses. The total cost of trip should be from $125 to $150. There will also be time for touring New York.

Anyone interested in the trip should contact Dr. Helen Russell, Dr. Gilbert Vaughan, or Dr. Don Keck at Wayne State College.

Gourley Memorial Established at WSC

A theatre scholarship has been established at Wayne State College to honor the memory of 1968 graduate Lyle D. "Butch" Gourley. Gourley died earlier this month of a pulmonary ailment.

Gourley, who majored in theatre and library science, appeared in many WSC theatre productions, including "The Corn Is Green" as Morgan Evans, "Twelfth Night," as the comic jester, "Carousel" as the sailor, "Hello, Out There," as the boy, and in many children's plays.

At the time of his death he was assistant principal at Fort Calhoun high school, and also served as the school's athletic director, girls' volleyball coach, head librarian, play director and bus driver when needed.

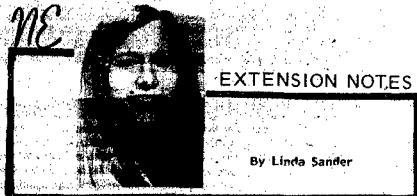

Gourley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle F. Gourley, Corwith, Ia.

The Gourley Scholarship fund is being established through the contributions of Alpha Psi Omega dramatics, honorary alumni, according to Dr. Helen Russell, professor of theatre at Wayne State. Recipients of the scholarship will be selected by Alpha Psi Omega members on the basis of an audition and financial need. Recipients must be theatre majors.

Donations to the fund may be addressed to Alpha Psi Omega Scholarship Fund, care of Dr. Helen Russell, Wayne State College.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Linda Sanfer

CHILDREN NEED FOUR LOVES

In addition to the three R's, children should learn the four L's.

Love of Learning - Children should have a desire to learn because they want to know, not because they fear failure or bad grades. We want children to have a good feeling about learning that will stay with them when school days are over - an enthusiasm for new skills, new places, new ideas.

Love of Liberty - A child's freedom begins when he is small. He should have the freedom appropriate to his age to touch, explore, play, choose friends, even make noise. A child whose life is over-regulated and filled with "don'ts" may become the kind of adult who always lets other people tell him what to do.

Only by being free to make decisions will a child learn to make wise decisions all his life.

Love of Life - A child must

These four L's are necessary for the children who will be adults in the 21st century. Love will have to prevail if the world is to have a good tomorrow.

love himself and his own life; then he can love life for others. He must think well of himself - not be conceited, but like himself enough to want to change, grow, and improve. Criticism is defeating, and children who are defeated cannot love themselves. The child who is unsure of himself is afraid of others and always ready to be suspicious of anyone who is different.

Love of Law - Homes and schools must be comfortable for children, but children must learn that other have rights that must be respected. They must learn about discipline and self-discipline. Parents need to say "no" without feeling guilty. Parents must set wise limits geared to each child, his age and development; and they must let the youngster know the why's of their thinking.

Former Governor Gives Autobiography To WSC Library

While on campus recently to participate in the Nebraska Governors Conference former Nebraska governor and Mrs. Dwight W. Burney presented the Wayne State College Conn. Library with an informal autobiography of Burney's life and political career.

Says Burney in an introductory note, "This book has been written that my children, grand children, relatives and friends may be inspired to be Good Citizens and take an active interest in Good Government. Through collected data, memories, pictures and news clippings, I have tried to tell the story of an humble man who tried, in an humble way to serve the People of Nebraska from 1945 to 1965."

Burney wrote the material in 1967 on the 75th anniversary year of his birth. Burney was a state senator from 1945 to 1957, lieutenant governor from 1957 to 1965 and governor of Nebraska in 1960 and early 1961.

The book, which is titled "Nebraska's Farmer Governor," will be placed in the archives of the college library according to Charles Stelling, director of information services at Wayne State.
