No 4-Lane for Highway 15

The State Roads Department has dropped the idea of widening Highway 15 to four lanes beginning in Wayne and extending one mile north.

Department of Roads design engineer Lyman Freeman said the decision was made as a direct result of opposition to the design expressed at a hearing in Wayne on Oct. 20.

Several residents owning property along the section that would have been widened gave testimony at the hearing, protesting the proposal for a section of four-lane road.

The Roads Department has also decided not to build an access road for six homes north of Wayne. Homeowners had said that the four-lane road would cut into their yards and mean moving septic tanks.

Businesses which would have been affected include the Fat Kat Drive-in and the Dude Ranch Drive-in Theater. Fat Kat owner Milton Freeman said at the hearing how close the access road would be to the theater marquee and a hedge row.

Other home owners along the route including Russel Johnson would have lost property frontage.

Overall tone of testimony at the hearing was that improvements were needed but a good two-lane road would be adequate.

Freeman said the timetable for the road work is the same as that revealed at the meeting.

Roads Department representatives said then that final design of the highway isn't expected until 1977. Right of way acquisition is scheduled to begin in 1978 and bid letting for construction isn't expected until 1979.

The design change could result in a big savings for the city. Roads Department officials said at the October hearing that the city would be required to pay 30 per cent of the cost of road construction, which they said would include the four-lane section. The city's cost as revealed at the hearing was $195,000. Investigation is underway to determine if the city will be forced to pay a portion of the construction cost, but if so, the switch from four-lane to two-lane for the mile-long section would result in a substantial reduction in the city's share of the cost.

'75 Precipitation Above Average

When precipitation received in 1975 is compared to a 10-year average, the year just past doesn't look particularly dry.

Total moisture received in 1975 was 26.78 inches. When precipitation since 1965 is totaled, the 10-year average rainfall for the area amounts to 25.172, according to figures supplied by Wayne weather observer Pat Gross.

Moisture received during the 10-year period ranges from a low of 15.79 inches received in 1974, to a high of 31.67 in 1972.

Although the 1975 precipitation total is above average, Wayne County Soil Conservation Service director Arnold Marr said soil and sub-soil moisture content is still low and needs replenishing.

The 1974 drought left soil moisture content dangerously low. Heavy rains in April, May and June brought moisture content up to normal to benefit 1975 crops, and at the same time put the 1975 total precipitation figures above average. Light rainfall in the late summer and autumn, however, has allowed soil and sub-soil moisture to deplete and a repeat of last year's heavy spring rains will probably be needed to raise moisture content in time for the 1976 plantings.

Rainfall in 1975, by months:

January, 1.40; February, .51; March, .42; April, 3.04; May, 4.33; June, 6.46; July, 1.72; August, 2.69; September, 1.78; October, .34; November, 4.23; December, .06

LENORE RAMSEY

Memorial Honors Past Drama Dean

A memorial fund has been established by the Wayne State Foundation in honor of retired Wayne State College professor Lenore Ramsey, who died Saturday in Fairmount, Ind.

Miss Ramsey retired from WSC in 1962 after 34 years as a professor of drama and forensics. She joined the college faculty in 1928, and in 1929 organized the local chapter of the Alpha Psi Omega honorary.

Museum Proposal Still Alive

The Wayne County commissioners Tuesday met again with representatives of the county historical society to discuss a proposed agreement under which the Rollie Ley family would give their late father's home to the group.

Under terms of the proposed escrow agreement, the commissioners would have to allocate one tenth of a mill annually for upkeep of the home, which the historical society would convert to a museum. With the current valuation in the county, that would provide a little over $4,000.

Know Where You Live?

Taxpayers filing the 1040 or 1040A form will find a new item this year. They are being asked to list the city, township, county and zip code of their residence.

Wayne city clerk Bruce Mordhorst said the information will be used by the U.S. Census Bureau to prepare 1976 population figures, and 1975 per capita income figures.

The information will be important, Mordhorst said, because it will be used by the Office of Revenue Sharing to determine revenue sharing allocations for fiscal 1977-78. The City of Wayne is expected to receive over $57,000 in revenue sharing funds in fiscal 1975-76.

According to the Census Bureau, a similar survey conducted in 1974 indicated that many citizens were not aware of all the political subdivisions in which they live, and didn't provide all of the information requested.

Mordhorst predicted that the biggest problem for Wayne residents will be knowing which township they live in. All of the city west of Main St. is in Strahan township, homes east of there are in Hunter township. County clerk Morris Weible can provide similar information for other Wayne County residents.

The Census Bureau is also offering assistance. Anyone who has a problem in answering the place-of-residence question can place a collect call to 812-984-3111. That will put them in touch with the Census Bureau processing center in Jeffersonville, Ind. Representatives there will provide what assistance they can, although callers may be referred back to local officials.

Wayne To Host Workshops on Beef, Sheep

Workshops on beef feeding and sheep management for area livestock farmers will be held next week at the First United Methodist Church at 516 Main in Wayne.

The beef feeding workshop for area cattle feeders will be on Monday at 1:30 p.m. A special feature of the meeting will be the use of a terminal computer connected by telephone to Lincoln which will analyze live feeding rations of Wayne County farmers, according to county agent Don Spitzer.

Each participant will be given a worksheet and will be asked to fill it out with a ration similar to what he is feeding and compare the results to what the computer suggests. Helping to conduct the meeting will be Vernon Krause, extension livestock specialist at the Northeast Station near Concord.

At the end of the meeting each farmer who wishes may fill out a ration sheet and turn it into Krause who will make a complete computer check of each ration and return the results in about a week. Spitzer added that because this is a demonstration on how to analyze rations, no charge for computer time will be made.

On Tuesday, Bill Fulton of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will be conducting a sheep management workshop, also beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Fulton will discuss rations for breeding ewes and for fattening lambs, use of antibiotics and vaccination program, parasite and insect control and general sheep management.

'Just Right for Sledding'

SNOW PACKED streets may not be the ideal driving condition for motorists, but it's just right for youngsters looking for a good time sledding.

Most Wayne youngsters took advantage Sunday of the good sledding conditions as shown here on Sherman between First and Third Streets. Another stretch of pavement which is suited for sledding is the 900 block of Walnut. Those are the two areas barricades have been placed in order to warn drivers that children are playing in the area.

NSEA District Meeting Planned

Officers of education association in northeast Nebraska will convene Monday in Wayne for a workshop sponsored by the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA).

Field representative Earllyn Lamberty will conduct the workshop for education association officers in NSEA District 3, encompassing 17 counties in northeast Nebraska.

District president Gene Bigelow said the workshops will deal mainly with teacher negotiations and general NSEA business.

The first meeting is scheduled for Monday at 10 a.m. at Wayne High lecture hall. Other meetings are scheduled for Feb. 9, March 8, April 17, and May 10.

Guard Manpower Supply Critical

If some new recruits aren't signed up, the Wayne National Guard unit might be reduced or deactivated, administrative and supply technician Sergeant First Class Dennis Spangler said Tuesday.

The Wayne city council received a letter from the Nebraska National Guard Adjutant General, explaining that it is not financially feasible to maintain a unit at under 80 per cent strength. He predicted that if the recruiting problem is not rectified by the time the company goes to camp next summer, the unit would be deactivated. The council has invited Guard representatives to attend a council meeting and explain what the city can do to help.

Spangler, a full time employee at the guard armory, said he thinks there is a good chance that Company A of the 134th Infantry's First Mechanized Battalion could be deactivated if it doesn't get some new blood. The company is authorized six platoon sergeants and 40 man platoon to drill at the Wayne armory.

The Wayne National Guard strength now stands at six officers and 88 enlisted men. The picture is even bleaker when it is realized that about 30 per cent of those enlisted Guardsmen are scheduled for discharge within the next six months.

Spangler said Recruiting has become a problem across the state in recent months and there is a good chance that the Nebraska National Guard could be reorganized.

The entire Nebraska National Guard establishment consists of 134th Infantry Brigade, and Nebraska is one of only four or five states with a complete brigade organization.

The brigade provides a considerable number of full time jobs at the state level. Spangler said that on the average, Guardmen earn about $10,000 a year into the local economy. That figure would probably be about one-third higher if the unit were at full strength. Spangler said that on the average, Guardsmen earn about $1,000 annually for their military service.

active duty military service. These men form a fairly stable nucleus for the company, and Spangler said it is possible that if recruiting efforts fail, reorganization might leave a 40 man platoon to drill at the Wayne armory.

The drop off in Guard strength in the past couple of years is probably due to the end of the Vietnam war and the end of the draft, Spangler said. Guard units ceased recruiting on the national level in 1967 and each unit was responsible for filling its ranks from waiting lists. The Vietnam war had not yet ended when the national recruiting effort was resumed in 1970 and there was an influx of new men. Guardsmen without prior service are obligated to serve six years and men who enlisted in 1970 will be due for discharge this year.

College Foundation To Get City Funds

The city council voted Dec. 30 to give $933.78 to the Wayne State Foundation. It was incorrectly reported that the money would go to Wayne State College.

The Wayne State Foundation is a non-profit private organization without state connections, which assists Wayne State College students through a variety of scholarships, grants and loans where state funding is not available.

The $933.78 is one per cent of the college electric bill for the past year.

Bucks Promotion Resumes Tonight

After a two-week absence, the weekly Birthday Bucks drawing in Wayne will resume tonight (Thursday).

Some lucky shopper who is present in a participating Wayne business may have a chance to win the $500 grand prize if his or her birthday matches the winning date drawn at random and announced at 8:15 p.m. The person whose birthday is closest to the winning date will win the $25 consolation prize if there isn't a grand prize winner.

No purchases or registration are necessary to enter the drawing.

School Superintendents To Meet with ESU-1 Head

Superintendents from 25 kindergarten-12 grade schools are expected to meet at Wayne High School on Wednesday along with education superintendents from the six counties in Educational Service Unit 1 (ESU-1).

Service unit director Harry Mills said the school administrators will make recommendations to him regarding what type of supplementary services they would like the unit to provide, and which mandated services they intend to contract for with ESU-1.

Mandated services include speech therapy, psychological services and for the visually handicapped, and courses for trainable mentally retarded children. Schools are required by state law to either provide such services or to contract with the service unit for them.

Supplementary services include a film, library and visual aids which schools are not required to have, but are provided by ESU-1.

The meeting Wednesday will convene at 10 a.m. in the Wayne High School lecture hall, lasting through the morning and into the afternoon. An ESU-1 representative is scheduled to demonstrate various microfilm techniques, a supplementary service which could be provided if schools want it, Mills said.

Mills will take the administrators' recommendations, regarding responsibility for dealing with programs the unit will undertake.

The 10-member board is made up of one representative from each of the six counties involved, plus four members-at-large. Wayne attorney Ken Olds is chairman of the board.

Teachers Want Negotiations On Four Items

The Wayne-Carrill board of education met in special session Monday night to discuss strategies for the upcoming teacher negotiations.

The strategy session took place in closed session, lasting a little over two hours.

Board president Dr. Irv Brandt will again be chairman for the negotiating team. Other members are Dale Stollenberg and Milton Owens.

The Wayne Education Association (WEA) has submitted a formal request to the board, asking that the organization be recognized as the negotiating representative for Wayne-Carrill teachers. The school board is expected to take formal action on the request at a regular board meeting Monday night.

"There is a strong desire to negotiate," Brandt said.

Continuing Education Offers Wide Variety

Short courses often meet one or two evening per week for several weeks. Workshop cost for most courses is $17.50 per credit hour for Nebraska residents and $29.50 per credit hour for non-residents.

Complete details regarding any of the continuing education courses can be obtained by contacting Dr. C. Don Keck, director of continuing education at Wayne State College, for a workshop and short course schedule.

Lessons Planned on Recognizing Fraud

Whenever one sees an offer which promises a lot for a little there's a temptation to jump at such an offer. But wait, is it really a bargain or one of the 800 known fraudulent schemes in operation today?

During January, home extension club lesson leaders and other interested organizations in Cedar, Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Thurston Counties will learn to recognize some of the more common fraud practices.

Retired Teachers To Meet at WSC

Keith Jech of Wayne will provide income tax information this Monday at a meeting of the Wayne Area Retired Teachers Association.

Leader training sessions will be held for representatives of any interested group or club. Such leaders should notify Anna Marie Kreifels at the Northeast Station at Concord if they plan to attend one of the meetings so lesson materials can be prepared.

The session will give these representatives information that they, in turn, can present to their club members. Meetings are scheduled to be held: Jan. 20 - 9:30 a.m., Villa Wayne, Wayne; 1:30 p.m., city auditorium, Hartington; Jan. 21 - 9:30 a.m., extension office, Walthill; 1:30 p.m., courthouse annex, Dakota City; Jan. 22 - 1:30 p.m., Northeast Station, Concord.

Crisp Salad Tips

The growers and shippers of western iceberg lettuce, who supply 85% of the nation's lettuce, suggest you follow these simple steps to ensure ultra-crisp salads.

1. Select heads that "give" slightly when squeezed. These "springy-firm" heads are perfect for lettuce cups, to cut into wedges or 1/4 in. or chunks, to tear into bite-size pieces and for coarse shredding. Their outer leaves may be pulled off easily to put into sandwiches or to line salad bowls or plates.

STREETS in Wayne were just right Sunday for plenty of downhill racing for most sled enthusiasts, including this pair of racers, Tim Thomas, bottom right, and his partner Curt Powers, as they take the lead from Ross Powers and Jeff Brandt. The best part of the race is just before the end when they flip their sleds and slide the rest of the way.

Cold Spell Halts Wayne State

If weather or travel troubles do not interfere, Chadron State colors will play Wayne State here tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in Rice Auditorium.

Weather did postpone a Tuesday game between Wayne and USD Springfield. It is rescheduled for Saturday, 7:30 in Rice. Chadron will bring a 3-8 record to cope with the 6-4 Wildcats.

Doane College dumped Wayne back to a .500 record Saturday with a come-from-behind surge ending at 69-67. The host Wildcats had things pretty much their own way up to a 44-35 half lead.

Then a cold spell dogged the Wildcats long enough to let Doane catch up for a 51-51 tie in mid second half. The score was even again at 55 and 60. From there the visitors went ahead to stay, with 4 1/2 minutes left.

Despite the loss of Wayne's John Redmond and Rick Anderson by foul, the Cats pulled up within a point at 26 seconds, but one more Tiger free throw with one second to go made it 69-67, and that left no time for a tying fielder by Wayne.

Doane substitute Tom Westover, scoreless in the first half, got hot with six field goals and six shots after intermission — and that was the difference.

Redmond departed with Wayne's top points at 16. Wayne Robinson tallied 14, Anderson and Rex Pressler 12 each, Sylvester Pierce nine. For Doane, Joe Warton was the big gun, 18 points, in leading the Tigers to a 5-5 record, first time they have been up to .500.

THERE was no foul called here as Doane's Tom Westover hacks Wayne State's Wayne Robinson (14) as the Wildcat junior attempts to drive in for a first-half layup Saturday night. Officials ruled that Westover only knocked the ball out of Robinson's hands.

Laurel Crushes Crofton To Advance in Tourney

Laurel posted its fifth straight win Monday night to advance to the semifinals of the Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference basketball tournament at Bloomfield.

Shooting 58 per cent from the field and 77 per cent from the free throw line, the Bears rolled over third-seeded Crofton, 72-54, in the opening night of NEMAC play. Tonight (Thursday) Laurel and host Bloomfield battle at 8:30 for the right to play in Friday's championship contest.

Five Laurel players scored in double figures to display what coach Joel Parks said was one of his team's best games. Senior Greg Pippitt led the quint with 20 points while Brian Johnson had 14, Scott Hueltig and Jon Erwin had 12 each and Brad Erwin had 10.

The instructions worked like a gem as the cagers held off Plainview's last-quarter surge to post Wayne's fourth win in eight games. Offensively, the Devils looked good, hitting a 55 per cent clip — the best thus far this season.

Sharpie hopes that same defensive play will work Friday night when the locals host Madison. The Dragons, which were picked to be one of the better teams in the eight-team West Husker Conference, will be one of the better teams Wayne will face this year, Sharpie admitted.

Sharpe: Emphasis Is Defense

By BOB BARTLETT

Whether in the high school, college or professional ranks, the general consensus among coaches is that defense is the key to winning most basketball games.

Wayne High mentor Bill Sharpe is a firm believer in that concept, especially after his Blue Devils last week pulled themselves up by the bootstraps with a strong defense to win Plainview 62-61 for third place in the high school division of the annual Wayne State Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Sharpe said there wasn't any magic formula to his club's winning. "I just told the kids to forget about playing offense and play a pressing defense," he noted.

from Crofton. In their last outing against Randolph, the Bears hit 44 points in the second half. "We're developing more consistency in our game," Parks said.

The 5-2 Bears tonight take on a "Bloomfield" quint which is noted for its strong rebounding power, the coach noted. Monday night Bloomfield nipped Randolph, 65-58. Also Monday night: Plainview Jopped Creighton, 71-59.

Sportsbeat

When activity around the area is a little skimpy, it's time to start digging through the files for some bits-of-trivia. For instance, did you know that the nickname most used among Nebraska high schools is the Tigers? In a quick survey, 27 schools use the name. " Bulldogs " is the second choice among Nebraska schools, with 26 high schools picking up that nickname. Right behind are the Eagles, Wildcats, Cardinals and Warriors.

While sorting through that piece of material, I noticed some nicknames which have to rank among the "worst" in Nebraska.

No one on my list is the Minden Whippers. Close behind would have to be the Rising City Terriers. How would you rate these? Bartley Bombers, Beatrice Otagemen, Cairo Centurions, Chadron Road Runners, Clarks Blue Bombers, Columbus Discoverers, Cozad Haymakers, Fairbury Jeffs, Farnam Greenbacks, Gottenburg Swedes, Grand Island Islanders, Holdrege Outsters, Malcom Clippers, Ord Chanticleers, Pender Penderons and Sutherland Sailors.

Floures for the Wayne State Holiday Basketball Tournament have been completed, and as expected last week's tourney was in the red.

Athletic director LeRoy Simpson said the tournament "fared well" the first two days of the tournament (Monday and Tuesday) but was hurting in attendance on Wednesday. Simpson's figures show the three-day meet was $500 short of its goal.

Officials knew right after the 1974 tournament that the 1975 tournament would not be as successful because the last day of the meet fell on New Year's eve. This year's three-day meet will be on Dec. 27, 28 and 29—which should prove to work out better for everyone.

The majority of high school teams in the 1975 tourney were from outside the NEN area, which makes it difficult for those fans to attend the tournament. As a result, Simpson is trying to seek area clubs which might be interested in playing. As of Tuesday, Simpson has signed Walthill to the tourney. He's hoping to get a total of four area clubs in the eight team meet so attendance will improve.

Wayne High fans attending Friday's home game have a chance to see three basketball games for the price of one. Beginning at 4:30 p.m., the freshman team goes against Madison, followed by the reserve and varsity games.

The frosh, which hold a 2-1 record, was scheduled Monday to play Wakefield but had to cancel that outing after Wakefield reported that its team had been hit by flu.

The junior varsity will be going after its third win against three losses while the varsity will try to break the 500 mark, going after its fifth win.

mark with wins over Columbus Lakeview and Wisner-Pilger. Only one correct pick out of two tries this week leaves my record at 24-8. Allen girls beat Bancroft and Wakefield lost to Stanton. Not included is the outcome of the Wakefield-Stanton girls basketball game which was scheduled for Wednesday night.

This week's selections (winners in boldface):

Tonight (Thursday) — Allen (girls) at Newcastle — No question about which team is the favorite here.

Windside vs. Harrington Cedar — Windside is strong, but Cedar has the inside shooting strength.

Madison at Wayne — Devils have proven that team defense is the key to winning.

Oakland Craig at Wakefield — Coach Joe Coble's Trojans realize they must rebound after their tournament loss to Emerson Hubbard, Wakefield can do it.

Monday — Allen (girls) at Pender — Eagle girls shouldn't have any problems.

Harrington high (girls) at Windside — Since this is the first game for Windside, I'll have to go with Harrington.

Walthill at Allen — Invading Walthill gets the nod. Stanton at Laurel — Bears are too strong for most teams in Northeast Nebraska.

Wakefield (girls) at Wayne — After Wayne's first showing against Emerson Hubbard, the locals look to be the favorite in this matchup.

Winside High Hosting 'Largest' Wrestling Tournament in NEN

Billied as the largest wrestling tournament in Northeast Nebraska, the two-day Winside Invitational gets underway this Friday.

Sixteen teams from across eastern Nebraska make up the tourney, which is said to possibly be the biggest tournament next to the state meet held in March.

An estimated 144 grapplers are expected to jam Winside High's gymnasium when weigh-ins begin at 9 a.m. Marches will start about noon and last until about 8:30. Action Saturday starts about 1 p.m. semifinals and finals are slated to start about 7 o'clock.

Teams in this year's meet are Osmond, Randolph, Plainview, Wymore Southern, Harrington High, Oakland Craig, Wakefield, Norfolk Catholic, Scribner, Hooper Logan View, Stanton, Lyons, Wymore, Winside and reserves from South Sioux City and Norfolk High.

The seventh annual invitation will draw some of the top names in wrestling from Classes B and C. Competing in the 98-pound class will be Scott Prenger of Norfolk Catholic and Mike Braum of Hooper Logan View, who are rated second and Class C state champion Winside is one of the tour favorites to be in the running for the tournament crown. Wymore Southern, which finished second last year, will compete for the state Class C crown, while a contender along with Plainview and Randolph.

Wayne Matmen Face Tough Wisner Tonight

Wayne High's wrestling team tonight (Thursday) will look to earn a placing. Also wrestling for Wayne were Ward Wacker (105), Byron Wacker (117), Bob Kenny (119), Don Straight (138), Tom Maier (155) and Rick Straight (185). No one wrestled at 167.

Knigeb said he was pleased with his grapplers' showing considering that Tekamah, Plattsmouth and Arlington are among the top 10 Class B wrestling teams in the state, according to Class B standings in Saturday's Omaha World-Herald.

Although Winside isn't ranked as a team in the state Class B poll, the Gators do have three individuals who are among the top four grapplers in their weight divisions. Heading the list is 105-pound Kevin Kindschuh who is first; 119-pound Randy von Seggern who is fourth and 145-pound Grant Brockmeier who is second.

Knigeb expects the trio to give Wayne a battle during tonight's dual meet.

UN-L Conditioning Coach To Speak Monday at Wayne

How to improve an athletic program through the use of weight training will be one of the topics Monday night during an informal talk by Boyd Epley, director of the University of Nebraska Lincoln physical education department.

Scheduled to begin at 7:15 at the Wayne High auditorium, Epley's talk will offer suggestions to high school and college coaches as well as athletes on how to develop an athlete physically and consequently improve a school's athletic program. Epley also will discuss the University's training program which has earned national recognition.

The meeting, which is sponsored by the Second Guessers club, is open to the public without charge, according to Roy Carnes, who is helping to direct the program.

Carnes said he expects a large turnout for the evening program. Coaches from around Nebraska as well as interested parents and athletes are urged to attend, he added. Epley is the first strength and conditioning at Nebraska and in the Big Eight Conference. In 1972 he earned the title Outstanding Lifter of the Year for the Midwest after establishing Nebraska weightlifting records. Epley also won titles of Mr. Mid America, Mr. Region VII, Mr. Midwestern and Mr. Nebraska in weightlifting.

Keglers Start Action Saturday

The annual men's city bowling tournament gets underway this weekend at Melodee Lanes and runs through the following weekend.

Unlike previous tournaments, this year's meet is planned to be held weekends in order that the tourney doesn't interrupt regular league bowling during the week, according to tournament secretary Harold Murray.

Those persons entering any one of the four events — teams, singles, doubles or all events — are asked to make their reservations at the Lanes. Murray noted that persons wishing to bowl in the tournament during the week may do so.

The next time you get a break, you might consider the origin of the word, which comes from the poolroom. At the start of a game, the balls are racked up in triangular formation. The first player "breaks," and a good break means the pockets some of the balls, a bad one means he pockets none.

Last-Second Shot Sinks Wakefield

A last-second shot from the corner sank Wakefield's hopes of staking win No. six Tuesday night as host Stanton nipped the favored Trojans, 57-56.

ALAN JOHNSON

Junior Dave Vranica hit the winning fielder when he banked his shot off the glass for his eighth point in the fourth quarter and his 12th overall to drop the Trojans' record to 5-3.

The turning point for coach Joe Coble's Trojans, which had lost its last two ball games, was in the third quarter where the area quint scored only six points. Going into the third frame, Wakefield had a narrow 20-28 lead, but the Mustangs reversed the role with a 16-point explosion to take a 44-36 margin into the final period.

"We shot 56 per cent from the field which is outstanding for a club on the road," Coble pointed out. "The only problem was that we only got 36 shots," he added. Coble said that the game was "played by a lot of jump balls and turnovers." "I don't mean to take anything away from the other ball club, but if (our losing) is a question of how much the other team has beaten us and we've beaten ourselves."

At one point Wakefield had a 10-point lead, which has been Jr High Cagers Clip Wakefield

Three Wayne players scored in double figures Monday to lead the junior high team to a 47-38 victory over Wakefield.

Jeff Zeiss and Dan Mitchell hit 12 points each and Stuart Nissen contributed 11 en route to the locals' third win against one defeat.

Wayne took a 12-6 lead — the largest margin for the victors — before Wakefield trimmed the lead to 22-20 at the half. Using a fourth quarter press, Wayne caught Wakefield to cough up the ball and set up the local's fast breaking scores.

Wayne finished the game with a 58 per cent shooting clip while Wakefield had 38 per cent. High man for Wakefield was Von Porwood with 13 points.

Allen Gals Notch 4th Victory Monday Night

Having to play catchup ball is something coach Steve McManigal's gals have never had to face before. That is, until the team quit faced Bancroft Monday night.

For the first time in four outings this season, Allen had to come from behind to knock off the Bulldogs, 47-34, to push its undefeated string to four. Tonight (Thursday) Allen goes after its fifth win when the Eagles head to Newcastle.

Trailing 8-4 midway through the first period, Allen rallied with a 10-point burst to take a 14-8 lead going into the second period. From then on, Allen had little trouble subduing the visitors.

Leading first-period scoring was junior Lori Erwin who hit six of her eight points in the first half and finished the game with second-high scoring honors, 14. Sister Karl Erwin, who also had eight in the first half, sparked Allen's scoring in the second half with an 11-point spree to lead with 19.

"We moved the ball real well," McManigal said, adding that Lori worked the ball well under the basket while Karl did a good job passing.

For the night, Allen hit 30 percent of its shots from the field.

In reserve play, Allen lost its third game in four outings, 16-14.

Weible informed the commissioners that the county has received a $1,368.12 from the National Elk Range Natural Resources District as partial payment for the Clarence Hamm dam, built five miles west and one mile north of Winside. The dam replaces a bridge.

Travel, Study Are Rewards Of WSC Tours

Four European travel-study programs have been scheduled by Wayne State College for the summer of 1976. The programs, open to students and non-students at economical package prices, are scheduled to travel to one of four countries and earn college credit while doing so if desired.

The institutes this year, all scheduled to run from Saturday, June 21 through Wednesday, July 23, are to England, Germany, Scandinavia or Spain.

Basic cost for any of the four trips is $895 which includes round-trip air transportation from Chicago, lodging, most meals, most entrance fees to historical and cultural sites and domestic travel in Europe on coaches, boats, trains and airlines.

The Spain institute also offers a shorter, travel-only program which runs just 12 days at a cost of $655.

Individuals will be responsible for their own passport costs, insurance, travel inside the Institute Itinerary, personal expenses and travel to and from Chicago.

The Spanish institute, which has been offered by WSC six years previously, is a joint effort of Wayne State and Kearney State Colleges. The program of studies will take place in the city of Valencia campus and at the Mangold Institute of Languages. Participants will be housed at residence dormitories. Side trips will be included to Segunto, Monte Picayo, Pensicola and tours will take participants to Madrid, Cordoba, Sevilla, Granada and Southern Spain.

The curriculum of the Scandinavian institute will stress the interdependence between the American community and the United States in culture, economics, education, science, technology and security.

Core courses will be supplemented by lectures delivered by members of parliament, officials from the ministries of government and leading professors from the universities. The institute's academic sessions will be housed in Hernig prior to traveling to the city of Copenhagen. After four or five days the group will visit Bergen, and view the fjords and glaciers on the trip to Oslo.

Emphasis in the German institute is placed on giving a cultural understanding of Germany and its people through exposure to the German way of life and through visits to various cities. The program of studies will take place in the Bingen area. Classes will be taught by qualified professors from Germany and the United States, and will normally meet between 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., leaving the afternoon free for sightseeing at Trier, St. Gair, Frankfurt, Heidelberg, Mainz, Bonn, Rudesheim, Bad Kreuznach and a visit to a vineyard and wine prove.

The British institute will immerse students in the fascinating history and culture of Great Britain. The program begins with seven days in Edinburgh, capital of Scotland, where participants will enjoy an excellent lecture seminar on modern Scotland by leading figures in art, music, literature and history.

Following will be two days in York, and then participants will have a four or five-day, free travel period, using British passes for unlimited free travel anywhere in the United Kingdom. The core of the trip is a two week stay in London where much free time will be allowed for exploring and shopping. A superb theatre season will interest some, and countless museums, castles and courts are easily found. A series of lectures at the University of London helps complete the academic portion of the institute.

Side-trips have been planned to such key sites as Stonehenge, Hampton Court and Canterbury Cathedral—Tour participants will visit Stratford, famous home of William Shakespeare, and will receive tickets to two performances by the Royal Shakespeare Company.

Knowledge of a foreign language is not required for any of the institutes offered by Wayne State College Courses will be offered in English as well as in the language of the country being visited.

Three to six hours credit can be earned through enrollment in the program. Scholarships are available.

Individuals interested in one of the institutes should contact Charles Kay, director of international education at Wayne State College, for further details.

Newman Grove senator wants top priority for mental health legislation

CAPITOL NEWS
Lincoln — Nebraska lawmakers are back in the capitol city and they have some old business to attend to as well as new business.

The legislature is scheduled to continue its session until Feb. 1. That means there are a number of bills which were introduced in the capitol during the past session which must be dealt with.

Among the first items of business is the bill which would create a new Nebraska Public Health and Welfare Committee. The bill would create a new committee to study the health care system in the state.

The bill would create a new committee to study the health care system in the state. The bill would create a new committee to study the health care system in the state.

do while the subject sat by without even the right to confront his accusers was handed down a finding of "mental illness," the court said the law is at best a "little vague."

to require only that finding in a setting where due process of law was not guaranteed could be "tantamount to condoning the state's commitment of persons deemed socially undesirable for the purpose of indiscriminate confinement of the individual's beliefs to the beliefs of the state," the court said.

The panel's immediate consideration were cases in Douglas and Lancaster counties which prompted the challenge suit in the first place.

But Kennedy says the ruling was not a surprise and the issues that it raised in those two cases have popped up elsewhere. Because they have, the lawmaker said his committee began working during last year's session on a bill to repeal existing provisions and replace them with new ones.

The only reason nothing was done last year, according to the senator, was that the committee ran into more questions than it could answer and had to hire outside legal assistance.

Kennedy says that bill now becomes even more important than it was before, and he intends to seek speedy action on it this session.

"We are certainly going to have to pass something as quickly as we can" because of that court decision, he said.

One thing that may be missing in spirit if not in fact is the rush of last year to get a valid motorcycle helmet law on Nebraska lawbooks.

Back in 1974, a law requiring helmets was enacted but it contained no penalty clause.

During the 1975 session, the lawmakers added a penalty clause that said failure to wear a helmet could be punished by a fine of $10 to $100.

That's when the courts got involved, but not from the enforcement end. The law was thrown out as invalid.

In the meantime, the federal government got involved too, threatening the loss of $7 million from Nebraska's allocation of highway safety and construction money unless there was a valid helmet law on the books.

A law was passed during last year's session and everything seemed okay until once again the courts ruled the law invalid because it was too vague on helmet quality standards.

Some feared immediate re-imposition of the threat. And, the immediate concern was to get something on the legislative drawing boards.

Now, however, the pressure from the federal government for a motorcycle helmet law may be off permanently with or without a new state law. In Washington, the House and Senate have given their approval to a version of a new Federal Aid Highway Act which would take away the power to impose safety penalties for failure to enact safety legislation at the state level.

Douglas County is experiencing cash problems. State auditor Ray A. C. Johnson says they aren't shortages, but instead are what he calls "cash-flow" problems. That means simply the money may not be in the general fund one day but may be the next.

Johnson says he doesn't know of any other counties in exactly the same shape. But he warns it could happen as more and more counties reach the maximum mill levy limit allowed by law — 14.28 mills.

Arnold Ruhnke of the Nebraska Association of County Officials reports that are 34 counties which already have mill levies of over 14 mills.

Johnson says he favors the idea of encouraging counties, using Douglas County as an example of what happens if they don't to lighten up budget monitoring. In an age of tight money, the auditor says those dollar cushions of the past just won't be there.

Ruhnke says a more way to attack the problem is at another fundamental level — but down the reliance on local property taxes.

One way to do that is to push for legislative action of a proposal made last year to have the state pay the 20 per cent medical care costs that the counties must now provide for in the welfare sections of their budgets.

Ruhnke also says there's something else the counties are banking on. That's the property re-evaluation that has a target date of Jan. 1, 1977. He says he feels property is now generally undervalued, which means less money coming in from each mill levied.

Therefore, he says, if property has a higher value — the tax books — more money will be available to the counties general funds without mill levy increases. Johnson also suggests the possibility of each county budget, though he quickly adds he isn't going to be the one who pushes for it.

The problem involved, Johnson says, is trying to figure out how much of a cushion to require. He says the cushion law is through trial and error — one county by county basis.

Current law allows counties to have cushions but there's only a maximum imposed and not a minimum. That maximum is 50 per cent.

While there are such things as right to work laws, the Nebraska Supreme Court has declared the matter of being able to work a privilege under some circumstances.

Specifically, the court ruled in a Sheridan County case that those convicted of crimes who are sentenced to jail may be allowed out of their cells during the day to work.

But being able to do that is a privilege and not a right. Therefore, said the court, officers may be denied work release provisions unless there's something seriously wrong with the denial court's reasoning, the decision to deny will stand.

Staying cool in winter driving

It's not always easy to stay cool in winter. The cold weather can be a real test for your patience. Here are some tips to help you stay cool in winter driving.

1. Don't drink alcohol. Alcohol can make you feel warmer, but it actually makes you more susceptible to the cold. It also slows down your reflexes, which can be dangerous when driving in winter weather.

2. Wear your seat belt. It's the best way to protect yourself in case of an accident. In winter, accidents are more common, so it's even more important to wear your seat belt.

3. Keep your car in good condition. Make sure your tires are properly inflated and your brakes are working. Check your oil and antifreeze levels regularly.

4. Use your headlights. Even during the day, your headlights can help other drivers see you in winter weather.

5. Don't tailgate. Keep a safe distance from the car in front of you. In winter, it's easier to lose control of your car, so you need more room to stop.

6. Use your horn. If you see a car in front of you that is driving erratically, use your horn to alert them. This can help prevent an accident.

7. Stay calm. Winter driving can be stressful, but it's important to stay calm and focused. Take deep breaths and don't let the weather get to you.

8. Use your windshield wipers. Make sure they are working properly and use them regularly to keep your windshield clear of snow and ice.

9. Don't use cruise control. In winter, it's better to have full control of your car. Cruise control can be dangerous on slippery roads.

10. Take breaks. If you're driving for a long time, take breaks to stretch and get some fresh air. This can help you stay alert and focused.

help. The pressure can "spray on" now on the market give good temporary traction on ice.

You've got to see danger to avoid it — and remember, it can come from any direction. So don't peek through a peep-hole. Bruster or scrape ice and snow from all windows — front, back and sides.

Avoid using parking brake in cold weather because cable may freeze. On automatic transmissions use "Park" position, low gear for stick shifts. In very cold weather, turning on the headlights for a few seconds before starting will warm the battery and add a little power. But be sure all accessories are off before you actually crank the engine.

When temperatures are below freezing, don't lock car doors in a freezing drizzle or after going through a car wash. Driving in a closed warm car can make you drowsy. Open a window from time to time for a blast of cold fresh air. Some cold remedies can make you sleepy or less alert, too.

Skate and respect for winter hazards. The cold war. Be a winter wizard.

OBSERVATIONS

Dependable market needed

President Ford did some political fence mending Monday as he addressed the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in St. Louis.

Ford told the group of farmers who complained about the administration's grain policy that he has not known to AFL-CIO president George Meany, pointing out that he vetoed the common situs picketing bill after promising Meany he would support the measure.

Farm Bureau's executive committee officials had conveyed their displeasure that Ford appeared to have been "selling out" to George Meany," after AFL-CIO shoremen halted grain shipments to Russia last year.

The President told the Farm Bureau convention audience that it would be "a serious mistake to assume that linking our exports of grain to the situation in Angola would serve any useful purpose whatsoever." The Soviet Union can get along without American grain, Ford said, and impact of a grain cutoff would be felt after a long period, and could not be expected to have short-term results.

The long-term effect of a cutoff would be damaging to American farmers. Government and labor have tampered with the grain market often enough in the past so that confidence in America as a dependable grain supplier has already slipped in many parts of the world. Further manipulations can only aggravate the situation.

Farm expenses hit a record high in 1975, and at the same time, a policy of full production was advocated. With expenses up, farmers must have a market for their products if maximum production is to continue. Ford's statement Monday is hopefully a sign that farm markets will be kept out of the political arena. — Jim Strayer

Hawaiian labor decision an important test

The Hawaii labor decision by a federal court last year offers hope of curbing the state's use of tax funds in a strike.

The decision is an important test of the growing concept of public compensation funds. In this particular case, unions of telephone workers in the Hawaiian Islands, telephone workers in the state of Hawaii, and state officials were willing to pay it, so the company sued the state to block payment.

The court ruled that the telephone company is not a public utility and that the state is not a public employer. This means that the state cannot use tax funds to pay for the wages and benefits of the telephone company employees during a strike.

The decision is a victory for the unions and a setback for the state. It shows that the courts are willing to limit the state's power to use tax funds to pay for a strike.

The decision is an important test of the growing concept of public compensation funds. In this particular case, unions of telephone workers in the Hawaiian Islands, telephone workers in the state of Hawaii, and state officials were willing to pay it, so the company sued the state to block payment.

assistance to strikers — such as state, local and federal welfare funds.

Why shouldn't strikers receive government financial help? Because they are out of work by their own choice, not involuntarily, and the object of their action is their own private gain.

Strikes are an economic contest. It is the cost of the strike to each side that is important — to bring about a reasonable compromise and keep the dispute as short as possible.

If the unions can draw on public funds, though, then there is no pressure for them to agree to a reasonable settlement. They know they can hold out much longer than management, and so does management. Under those circumstances, management is likely to give in and grant the union demands, no matter how expensive or unreasonable — after all, if you know you're going to lose anyway, why endure the expense of a long strike?

But it is really the public that loses when management capitulates too easily.

A wage increase that is not earned by a corresponding increase in productivity leads almost inevitably to a price increase.

Employers are especially nettled when unemployment compensation funds are used to support strikes against them, because these funds are provided entirely by employer contributions. It is rather like forcing the condemned man to pay the costs of his execution.

In the Hawaiian Telephone case, U.S. District Judge Martin Ponce ruled that "unless the state activity is but a peripheral concern of the act or there is an overriding state interest, a state may not assist either party in a labor dispute."

Under Hawaii's law, he said, "when the avowed objective of closing down the employer's plant is achieved by the union, no benefits may be paid the strikers. The state is then neutral. When, however, the employer is successful in resisting the union attack, and keeps his business substantially full operation, the state, after the first week of the strike, takes sides against the employer, and for the strikers. As indicated, it sets about giving great financial assistance to the strikers... as well as burdening the employer with future increased tax burdens. The striker's position when a strike is called, with the state's assistance, becomes one of 'heads I win, tails you lose.'"

"On its face, therefore," said the judge, "Hawaii's statute irreconcilably intrudes into the federal process of free collective bargaining." — Richard Lether, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Alarmed by article

Dear Sir:

Recently I read a very alarming article in the Dec. 8, 1975 "Awake" magazine that should be of interest to you and your readers. The article dealt with the terrible atrocities against Christians in the South African country of Malawi, documenting the evidence that thousands are now under brutal persecution.

Starting Aug. 19, 1975, more than 34,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Malawi who had fled as refugees to Mozambique in 1972 because of severe persecution were forced to return to Malawi and now experience brutal persecution again. All of this is because of their refusal to join a political party.

N.H. Knorr of the Brooklyn Headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses said that when a group of Jehovah's Witnesses arrived at the Malawi border, the minister for the Central Region, Kuntwebwa Banda, greeted them.

"We welcome you with both hands. You left Malawi of your own accord and now you have returned of your own accord. The Malawi Congress Party is still in power in this country. Go back to your home villages and cooperate with the party officials."

Then, referring to the members of the

he said: "My boys are here to see that you do cooperate with the party." Soon roads in the north and central regions of Malawi were filled with Jehovah's Witnesses on their way back to their home villages.

In some instances the Witnesses were allowed to enter their villages and take up occupancy of houses they abandoned in 1972. However, in most cases, Youth Leaguers soon called to ask if they were prepared to buy political party cards.

Referring to Jesus' example of political neutrality, the Witnesses refused. Immediately beatings, rapings, and other atrocities began again and many were driven from their homes.

In Kankanche, six Witnesses' women were all raped by several men. In Sospa village, a group of men and women, including the local member of Parliament, Elson Muluzi, seized the possessions of the Witnesses and drove them from the village.

Early in September youths under the direction of the Kasorjila branch of the Malawi Congress Party visited homes of Jehovah's Witnesses in six villages, demanding they buy party cards. When they refused, the youths stole all their belongings, subjected them to terrible beatings and urinated on the supply of flour that these refugees had brought with them, making it unfit for food.

In other locations the Witnesses were stripped naked, their hair burned off their bodies with torches and they were beaten until blood came out of their mouths and noses. This happened at Chinsongwe village in Lilongwe under the direction of the local chairman of the Youth League, Mr. Chipokupuku, while the attackers were urged on by local women members of the League of Malawi Women.

Because no one will accept them, many Witnesses have been forced to wander in the cities by day, sleeping in nearby forests and in the open air. Some have fled to neighboring Zambia, but reports last received say they were repatriated to Malawi by force.

Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda, Life President of Malawi, recently instructed the Malawi police to round up adult Jehovah's Witnesses and put them in detention camps. The children are being left behind either to stay with relatives or fend for themselves.

The government order applies to nursing infants. The police have ruthlessly executed the order. Whole congregations have been rounded up and put in detention camps.

I would appreciate your informing your readers of these terrible happenings. Gregg Warrington.

Agriculture Focus of STAR

Hitch your (agricultural) wagon to a star. That's the challenge to Nebraska citizens in an in-depth study concerning the state's future.

Allen Family Will Attend Farm Meeting

Glenn Kreuscher, director of the State Department of Agriculture, has announced the selection of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Johnson of Allen to attend the third annual Nebraska Agricultural Progress Conference.

The Johnsons are among 110 farm couples from across Nebraska who will attend the conference sponsored by the Nebraska Department of Agriculture. These couples represent young farm families who have made outstanding contributions to their communities.

The Ag Progress Conference will be held Sunday through Tuesday in Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will have the opportunity to hear the views of national spokesmen representing many phases of agriculture.

The Johnsons operate a farm near Allen, Nebraska.

The project, Strength Through Agricultural Resources (STAR), has involved more than a year of work by 130 staff members of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, primarily from the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR), and almost 100 non-University people representing various aspects of agriculture, including processing, financing, conservation, production, and other interested groups. The work was done in cooperation with the State Department of Economic Development, State Office of Planning and Programming, the State-Federal Agricultural Statistician's Office, and the State Department of Agriculture.

Reports compiled in 12 areas will be released on a staggered basis soon and continue on into next spring as completed, according to Dr. Howard W. Otson, IANR acting vice chancellor. Release of a composite report featuring the highlights of the 12 section reports is tentatively slated for April, 1976.

"The focus of STAR is on Nebraska's agricultural industry, its economy and its human and natural resources," Dr. Otson explained. It is designed to help the state's leaders make difficult but basic decisions relating to such questions as what is likely to happen to agriculture and its human and natural resources.

The importance of agriculture to Nebraska is evidenced by the fact that it provides 14 to 18 per cent of Nebraska's income compared to three to four per cent of the nation.

Safe Drinking Water
One of the most frequent questions I get is on the safety of farm drinking water.

Dr. Otson and other IANR officials said STAR will be of particular interest to the many organizations and public institutions which coordinate, regulate and administer research, marketing and education activities associated with agriculture and rural living. The study zeroes in on two crucial issues now facing the state: the management and use of land and water resources, he added.

The STAR committee listed these project objectives: — To inventory Nebraska's agricultural, natural and human resources; to examine historical trends in Nebraska's economy, and to project conditions and trends in 1980 to 1985.

— To identify present potential areas of strength in Nebraska's agricultural economy — and society. — To identify gaps or inadequacies in individual institutional and governmental responses to present and expected conditions.

— To involve a wide range of business and lay people, state and local leaders, and numerous professional persons in examining Nebraska's economy and social environment.

The 12 separate STAR study areas are beef, hogs, other livestock, feed grains, forages, soybeans, wheat, other crops, Nebraska's economy and other related growth aspects, marketing, Nebraska's natural resources and environment, and Human Resources

Tips Offered for Healthy Hogs

Feeder pig producers attempt to produce feeder pigs that will do well for you, but environmental changes occur in the marketing and moving process that place certain stresses on young animals. To help you avoid those L.J. Kortan, Extension swine specialist at South Dakota State University, offers these tips:

1. Hauling — Allow enough truck space per pig: 40-pound pigs, cold weather, allow 1 1/2 square feet per head; 40-pound pigs, hot weather, allow 1 square foot per head; 60-pound pigs, cold weather, allow 1 1/2 square feet per head; and 60-pound pigs, hot weather, allow 1 1/2 square feet per head.

Nebraska Farm Bureau Holds Annual Conference

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation held its annual convention at the South Sioux City Marina Inn in December.

Roger C. Fleming, National Farm Bureau secretary treasurer was the main speaker at the banquet attended by 750. At the president's luncheon Mrs. Melvin Graham of Belden, membership chairman, was presented a gold watch because of the new membership goal by Cedar County was achieved.

The Cedar County Farm Bureau held its monthly meeting at the Laurel United Presbyterian Church also in December. Reports were given by Roy Thomas, district three representative for the policy development committee. There were national, state and county affairs reports and women's chairman and membership chairman reports were also given. New appointments were Arlen Beirbaum as state affairs chairman and Dick Lenz as the third member to the executive board.

Appointments were Mrs. Harold Haisch, women's chairman; Mrs. Clarence Johnson, record keeper; and Mrs. Lloyd Heese, secretary.

Cover the truck in cold weather, leaving a slot near the top for ventilation on one side only. Locate this slot on side away from prevailing wind, if possible. Bed with straw for warmth or damp sand for cooling in transit.

2. Housing — Have cleaned disinfected pens with draft free shipping area ready for these pigs. Temporary hovers and deep bedding are needed in open buildings in winter. Allow at least four square feet of floor space per pig to start.

3. Isolation — Do not expose these pigs to the others on your farm, or to those purchased elsewhere, for at least two weeks. Do not mix this group of pigs with other lots at any time. Call veterinarian promptly if unusual symptoms or losses occur. Report ear tag numbers to the feeder pig seller.

4. Medication — Avoid fly and scours by careful management and wise use of sulfa drugs and antibiotics. Administer such medication in the drinking water, as recommended by your veterinarian, for the first three days. Feeder pigs should drink 1 1/2 gallons of water per day. They usually take in two pounds of water for each pound of feed they eat.

5. Managemen — Feeder space — at least one space for four pigs. Fasten lids up to start. Waterer space, at least one space or cup per 25 pigs. Grouping 30 or 165 pigs per pen to start. Observation, check for signs of trouble twice per day during the first week.

Environment, each pen should have a maximum comfort area. It should be large enough that pigs can lie without piling. Draft barriers, bedding and spot heaters may be used to promote maximum comfort.

6. Feed — Caution — your pigs may have been off feed 36 hours or more by the time you get them home. Overeating of a rich feed on arrival at your feedlot might produce digestive troubles. Feed a low protein, low energy ration, high in antibiotics for one week. A simple way to do this is to use your finishing ration and dilute by substituting oats for corn up to 25 per cent of the total. Or, feed a mixture of one part supplement, two parts oats and five parts corn. Add antibiotics at high levels, 100-250 grams per ton during this time. Double the amount of vitamins added because total feed eaten will be less than normal. Pigs like pelleted feeds during this starting and adjusting period.

'76 State Maps Are Available

Gov. J. J. Exon this week received the first 1976 Nebraska Highway Map and Travel Guide, which again this year features the official Nebraska Bicentennial portrait of the state capital on the cover.

In accepting the first of the 700,000 new maps, Gov. Exon praised the State Department of Roads and the Department of Economic Development, the two agencies responsible for the map. Free copies of the new map and travel guide are available at Department of Roads district offices and by direct request to either of the two sponsoring departments in Lincoln. The travel guide portion of the map shows locations of rest areas, tourist information centers and attractions, on or near Interstate 80. Timber Acres Total 10,000 Timber! That's the cry heard most often when trees are chopped down. But in the future it may become the by word for a rapidly emerging industry — the tree farm.

There are 162 tree farms in Nebraska comprising 10,000 acres. These farms are privately owned forest land which the owners have voluntarily dedicated to the growing and harvesting of repeated forest crops.

The free farm concept helps to insure maximum production and use of existing acreage," says Dr. Mitchell Ferrill, state forester and chairman of the forestry department at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The American Tree Farm System began in 1924 with Nebraska joining its ranks in 1959. Today the tree farm concept is nationwide and enhances soil and water conservation and public recreation.

Nearly three-fourths of commercial forest lands are located in the eastern half of the United States, he explained. The other quarter is located in the West which still abounds with virgin forests.

Although the federal government is the largest single owner of commercial forest land, Ferrill said 59 per cent of the commercial forest acreage is privately owned. He said to ensure adequate wood supplies, maximum production of existing forest acreage is essential.

"Tree farming standards are high," he said, but a woodland owner can begin wise management practices which with a few years, can bring his property up to acceptable standards.

To qualify for tree farm certification the woodland must be privately owned, managed for the growth and harvest of repeated forest crops, and adequately protected from fire, insects, disease and destructive grazing.

Free farm inquiries should be made to Dr. Ferrill who will send forestry specialists to inspect property and to assist in land and forest development.

Direct Deposit Gives Security

People should cash their supplemental security income checks within a reasonable time to prevent loss or theft, even though there's no time limit on cashing them, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

A check that's lost, stolen or destroyed can be replaced, but it will take some time. It's in your interest to handle your supplemental security income checks carefully.

"It's a good idea to sign your check in front of the person who will cash it," Branch said. "If you sign your check and then lose it, it could be cashed by anyone who finds it."

People whose supplemental security income checks are lost, stolen or destroyed should get in touch with the nearest social security office at once and explain what happened.

People can help prevent loss or theft by arranging to have their supplemental security income payments deposited directly in their checking or savings account.

The direct deposit authorization form is available at banks, savings banks, savings and loan association, federal and state chartered credit unions and similar financial organizations.

"Completion of the form permits withdrawals from your account only by the people you authorize," Branch said.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. Checks are delivered in the first week of every month.

The program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Expert Says Dairy Outlook Better in '76

Dairy market conditions during 1975 were a study in contrast — conditions during the first six months were almost exactly opposite to conditions during the last half of the year.

T.A. Evans, extension economist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, studied the dairy situation and presented next year's outlook recently. He said: "June was the swing month. Up until that time, milk prices had been significantly below the same period of 1974. Beginning in July, farmers' milk checks were significantly higher than during the corresponding months of 1974."

Dairy producers both statewide and nationally experienced the same problems, said Evans. By the end of June, milk production had declined more than four per cent from the same period, 1974. After the price situation improved, dairymen responded with higher production. Evans speculated that with these changes in mid-year, Nebraska's decline in production will be limited to about two per cent. Nationally, the 1975 milk production will about equal the 1974 level. For the past three years, the nation's dairymen have produced approximately 115 billion pounds of milk.

One particularly encouraging aspect of the dairy picture is the improvement of the milk feed ratio, said Evans. This ratio dropped to 1.10 in the north central states in August, 1974, and stayed near that level for the rest of the year. Since January, it has been gradually improving, reaching 1.00 in November.

The first six months of 1976 should bring an increase in milk production significantly above the levels of the past two years, predicted Evans. He credited this to the continued small decline in milk cow numbers and increased feeding of concentrates.

He added, "Output during the second half of the year will depend on factors such as the price of cow cows, reaction of consumers to the increased price of fluid milk and most dairy products, the milk feed ratio and the condition of the economy."

The improved producer-milk price is attributed to the rapid depletion of dairy products in commercial storage, particularly butter and cheese. "As a result, the central market quotations for butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk started an uptrend in July that continued into December. Early in November, the price per pound of 93 score butter went over one dollar per

Farm Rats Are Real Problem

"If you see one live rat during the day, you've got real problems, because it's a sign there's a lot more around than you can't see," advises Alan Wentz, extension wildlife specialist at South Dakota State University.

City dumps and slums aren't the only places where rats are a problem. "It's been estimated that the city rats have more than a hundred million country cousins who prefer the great outdoors. These farm rats can cause an awful lot of problems," says Wentz.

For example, on the average every rat eats about 40 pounds of food a year and consumes at least twice that much. A good share of this food is stored grain, either seed or feed. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that every rat on the farm can cost at least $25 a year, far more than the cost of control.

Not only that, rats can spread such diseases as rabies, malaria, amebic dysentery, typhus, jaundice, trichinosis, the black plague and many other that affect livestock and humans. Diseases alone can result in livestock and money losses.

Obvious signs of rats are sounds of rats moving about or the rustle and squeaks of fighting, signs of droppings, or urine, well established runways or tracks and tooth marks from chewing.

Don't think you are safe if you've only a few rats, advises Wentz. They can start breeding as early as a month of age and females can have as many as 10 litters of 12 offspring each year. Theoretically, if a pair of rats lived three years, they and their offspring could produce 350 million young.

Rats feed at night and eat anything domestic animals will. They thrive on garbage or taint ed food, but will choose fresh food if it's available. If you intend to poison rats, you must have to use bait that tastes as good or better than anything else they might be feeding on. If you are feeding a 22 per cent protein poultry ration, for example, the rat bait should have at least a 24 per cent protein ration.

Rats are smart. In spite of all the toxicants available, says Wentz, you won't wipe out the total rat population. "All you can really hope for is control."

To keep rats and mice from gaining a foothold on the farm, deny the rodents food and shelter and use proper rodenticides. Bait the home, barn, garages, corn cribs.

EXTENSION NOTES
By Jocelyn Smith

NOISE POLLUTION IN EVERY HOME
The kids are yelling, the vacuum is running, the fluorescent lights are humming, the radio and television are blaring and the washer and dryer are going. All the noise puts you under stress, and you've become a victim of noise pollution.

Most people don't consider noise as a real factor of stress in their lives.

The American Medical Association has found that noise or sound without value level in the average home has more than doubled in recent decades.

The Association also has found noise can cause everything from headaches and nervous disorders to the "tired mother syndrome" and heart problems. It can influence unborn babies, contribute to stomach problems such as ulcers and reduce the depth and quality of sleep. The most common complaints are hearing loss and deafness.

Noise is measured by the decibel, which indicates a sound's loudness to the ear. Noise above 65 decibels starts causing annoyance and problems. At 70 decibels, the nervous system is activated, arteries narrow and blood pressure rises. Too much noise above 85 decibels can damage hearing, and at 130 decibels a person may feel physical pain.

How noisy are some of our common household appliances? Here is a rundown on decibels:

Climate control equipment, refrigerators and clothes dryers are usually less than 60 decibels.

Washing machines, food mixers, dishwashers and vacuum cleaners produce from 60 to 70 decibels. These may interfere with conversation or sleep.

Sewing machines and electric shavers produce 70 to 80 decibels, which makes it annoying but usually not for a long period of time.

Yard care tools and shop tools may produce sound levels of more than 80 decibels, and hearing may be damaged if exposed often and for a long period.

A quieter home would result by using noise-absorbing materials on floors, especially in areas with a lot of traffic. Hang heavy drapes over windows closest to outside noise sources. Cover stairs with rubber or plastic tread to reduce noise and increase safety. Upholstered furniture is better than hard surfaced furniture to deaden noise.

Stress on you and your family can be reduced by reducing noise sources in the home.

Thought for Today
By Brian McBride

"Happiness is a way station between too little and too much."
Channing Pollock

If we could write the formula for our own happiness, few of us would be successful. Most of us think we could be supremely happy if only we had more friends, more time, more money!

While it is probably true that happiness is hard-pressed to thrive where there is too little, Pollock can be equally detrimental. We're more apt to be happy when we learn to be satisfied with what we have, someplace between too little and too much.

Our service is characterized by the utmost consideration and sympathy for those we serve, as set forth in the Golden Rule. You're invited to drop in for a "get-acquainted" visit.

Herald Publisher Invited to Seminar About Press, Law

Wayne Herald publisher Alan Cramer is one of 40 newspaper men in the country invited to attend a seminar on court-media relations at the University of Nevada in Reno, as a guest of the American Bar Association (ABA).

A total of 125 newsmen will attend the meeting entitled "The Courts: Crisis, Solutions and You — a Seminar for the Working Press."

The seminar, sponsored by the ABA and National College of the State Judiciary, is designed to explore problems confronting the U.S. criminal justice system and to study suggestions for solving these problems. It will also examine the ramifications of regulations affecting many traditional sources of news and will discuss proposed solutions to such fair trial-free press problems as the restrictive order situation exemplified in the Nebraska Press Association vs. Stuart case.

Constitution - 1789 elegance recaptured in a Chandelier Ceiling.

Easy to install with Armstrong's new Integrid™ Furring Channel. Ask for demonstration.

Perhaps you've regarded formal Colonial elegance as a relic never to be regained. Consider Constitution, a do-it-yourself ceiling by Armstrong. Constitution's deeply sculptured design spans your favorite room with uninterrupted beauty—the seams virtually disappear. Its delicate blend of antique gold tracings into a classic white background creates a look which our Founding Fathers would have deemed admirable. Constitution: for the living room, for the dining room, for the bygone elegance you thought could never be recaptured.
