Extension Board Gains 3 Members in Mail Vote

Lahny Maas will represent Wayne County District II on the county extension board, as the result of a mail election which closed Tuesday.

Dennis Carlson and Mrs. Albert Nelson, both of rural Wakefield, were elected as representatives from District I.

Mrs. Carl Anderson and Wilbur Nofle were also candidates for the District I positions and Mrs. Donald Johnson was on the District II ballot, in addition to Maas.

The election was a first for Wayne County, in that representatives were elected by districts, corresponding to districts represented by individual county commissioners. Representatives for the extension board were previously elected by precinct.

Members at a meeting Wednesday night. Extension board members, along with representatives from the home extension council, 4-H council, and representatives of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, are responsible for supervising the Wayne County extension program.

Allen Teachers List Requests For Pay Talks

Teachers at Allen public schools Tuesday night presented to the school board a list of requests to be included in salary negotiations for the 1976-77 school year.

Connie Roberts, who is chairman of the three-man negotiation committee for the Allen Education Association, said in a letter to the board that teachers would like the members to consider extra curricular pay, insurance, sick leave, personal leave and professional leave.

Also on the associate's three-man committee are Sandy Chace and Elizabeth Green representing the Allen board chairman Bill Clough, Eugene Lundin and Wayne Stewart.

In other action, the board agreed to dismiss classes on Monday, Feb. 7, when Allen will be hosting the Lewis and Clark Conference instrumental clinic.

During that day, elementary teachers will hold a workshop on career education.

Elected new officers for the 1977 term. LoRoy Koch was named to replace Bill Clough as president.

Also serving are Martin Blom as vice president and Eugene Lundin as secretary.

Hired John Addison of Wayne as school attorney.

Discussed, but took no action, on the possibility of buying a school bus next year.

Country Club Elects Potts

Jim Potts was reelected Thursday night as chairman of the Wayne Country Club board.

Arnie Reeg will serve as vice president and Dave Schulte is secretary. Anyone with questions regarding membership should contact Schulte by calling 375-2700.

The board of directors will sponsor a dance at the Country Club on Saturday night, featuring the Artie Schmidt dance band. The cocktail hour begins at 8 p.m.

Three Livestock Seminars Planned

Use of a computer terminal to analyze feed rations will be a special feature of a feed-feeding workshop today (Monday) at 1:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

County extension agent Don Spitz said participants at the workshop will be asked to fill out a sheet with the ration he is feeding, and compare it to the rations suggested by computer.

The terminal is connected by telephone to a computer center in Lincoln. District feed specialist Vernon Krause will help conduct the meeting.

At the end of the meeting each farmer who wishes may fill out a ration sheet and turn it in to Krause who will make a computer check of each ration and return the results in about a week.

No charge will be made for computer time, Spitz said, because this is a demonstration of how the terminal can be used to aid farmers.

A sheep management workshop will be held Tuesday, also beginning at the church at 1:30 p.m.

Bill Fulton of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will discuss rations for breeding ewes and for fattening lambs, use of antibiotics and vaccination now.

The purpose of the hot line is to give factual information on legislation to the public, said legislative ombudsman Marshall McNeil. It is not a system to contact legislators or to convey to legislators the reaction of the public toward a bill. Public points of view should properly be discussed with the senators or voiced through participation at hearings on legislative bills.

The service will become operative Wednesday. Calls will be taken from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each weekday. The number is 800-742-7456.

Super Salesman Wins Bicycle

A Wayne Herald newspaper carrier from Winside was top prize winner following a two-month-long subscription campaign.

Dan Oswald, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oswald of Winside, won a 26-inch, 10-speed bicycle for selling the most new subscriptions.

Dan has delivered papers to subscribers in Winside since last September when he took the route over from his brother, Doug. Doug had carried papers in Winside since delivery service began there in August of 1972.

The boy's mother, Pat, is a news correspondent for The Wayne Herald.

Taking second prize in the contest is a cassette tape player, was 11-year-old Robin Linafelter of Allen, who has worked as a Wayne Herald carrier in Allen for about two and a half years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs.

Kenneth Linafelter of Allen. Robin's mother, Doris, also writes for The Herald.

Three carriers tied for third and fourth place in the contest and were able to select either a $25 savings bond or a radio.

Choosing savings bonds were Bill Gotberg, 14, son of the Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gotberg of Winside, and Bob Lamb, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin "Lefty" Lamb of Wayne.

Bill also has carried papers in Winside since carrier service was established there. Bob started delivering The Herald in September of 1972, just five months after carrier service started for Wayne subscribers.

Kent Mills, 11, chose a radio for his prize. Kent, who has delivered The Herald for a little over two years, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Mills of Wayne.

In order to win the prizes, the five carriers had to sell more subscriptions than any of their fellow newspaper carriers, including 13 carriers in Wayne, three in Winside and one each in Allen, Carroll and Concord.

As pleased as the five contest winners were, their parents were no doubt just as pleased. They each received a free steak dinner, compliments of The Herald.

Precinct Isn't Needed

Wayne County residents apparently won't have to fill in block D on item for census information included in 1040 and 1040A federal income tax forms for 1976.

Wayne city clerk Bruce Mordhorst had received instructions indicating that all four of the census items should be filled in, and a story in Thursday's issue of The Herald reflected that.

County clerk Norris Weibie, however, contacted the Census Bureau information center and was told that Wayne County residents could leave block D blank. The item asks for the name of the township or precinct in which the person filing lives.

A check by a Herald reporter Friday verified Weibie's information. It was explained that

Wischof Sentence Is One Year

District court judge George Dittrich Wednesday pronounced a one-year prison sentence for Leonard Wischof of Wayne, convicted of shooting to kill, wound or maim, his brother Paul Wischof.

Wischof was convicted during a one-day trial on Oct. 31. A motion for retrial was turned down Wednesday.

According to testimony given at the trial, Leonard Wischof, on May 3 shot his brother-in-the-chest and abdomen with a small-caliber revolver, and the following day fired at law enforcement officers who arrived at the mobile home shared by the brothers at 216 Fairgrounds Ave.

The officers had arrived to investigate the shooting the following day after Paul Wischof had reportedly called the local hospital, asking for an ambulance. A doctor then discovered that Wischof had two bullet wounds in his chest area. Paul Wischof underwent surgery in a Omaha hospital and was

Said Per Cent, But 25 Cents

County road maintenance workers probably were pleased if they were getting as big a raise as was reported in Thursday's issue of The Herald, but the story was wrong.

The article said the raise would be 25 per cent, when it should have read 25 cents an hour. The county commissioners okayed the raise Tuesday. Other county workers received a 10 per cent pay increase effective Jan. 1.

Appointment of Attorney For County Still Pending

District court judge George Dittrich was scheduled Wednesday to appoint an attorney to represent Wayne County in a suit filed against it by the City of Wayne, but no action was taken on the matter, probably, said county commissioner Merlin Biermann, because the commissioners are awaiting an opinion from the Nebraska Bar Association on whether or not the county can select its own lawyer.

Biermann said the county board had instructed county attorney Budd Bornhoff to seek the opinion of the advisory board of the Nebraska Bar Association on several points.

Bornhoff, who is also city attorney for Wayne, withdrew from the case after being advised to do so by the bar association advisory board.

The city has retained Duane Schroeder to represent them in the case. County officials were informed that the district judge would have to appoint special counsel for them. The commissioners want to know if it is possible for them to choose their own attorney, and if so, if Bornhoff can suggest an attorney.

The commissioners also want to know if Bornhoff can discuss the case privately with the attorney. See ATTORNEY, page 10

Allen Native Found Dead In Sioux City

A former Allen man, 65-year-old Von Brown, was found dead in his car Thursday after he died from an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Brown, who had just moved to Sioux City recently, was discovered in a parking lot of a restaurant near his residence.

Funeral services are scheduled for today (Monday) at 10 a.m. in the Jack Becker Funeral Home in South Sioux City. Burial will be in Springbank Cemetery near Allen.

Hoskins To Seek Federal Money For New Bridge

The Hoskins town board will seek over $176,000 in federal aid to construct a bridge and finish paving about 1,000 feet of Main St.

During its Dec. 27th meeting, members agreed that the cost would be too much for the town citizens to bear, especially now when taxpayers are still paying for paving a portion of Main St. which was completed last year.

According to Duane Upton, who represents a Norfolk engineering firm which handles the town's street work, plans are to expand the width of the bridge from 19 to 35 feet, including a four-foot pedestrian walk.

Upton noted that a traffic survey taken in October shows that there is heavy local traffic across the bridge, which is in bad condition. The bridge is See BRIDGE, page 10

Wayne High to Host One-Act Competition

The best in high school dramatics will be presented Thursday in Wayne when East and West Husker drama clubs vie for the conference championship in one-act play competition.

A total of nine schools, in addition to Wayne will send drama clubs to take part in the contest. Wayne drama club sponsor Ted Blenderman said the local club will be looking for a third consecutive win in the conference competition.

Wayne drama enthusiasts have won the conference championship the past two years. Wayne High's entry into dramatics competition began six years ago and the Blue Devil actors have consistently earned superior ratings since then.

William Roundey of Seward, an employee of the Nebraska Department of Education, will judge the play competition.

Presentations are limited to 30 minutes, and a 15 minute break is scheduled between each performance. The first play will begin at 2:45 p.m., Blenderman said, and the curtain will close on the competition around 10 p.m.

The Wayne High thespians have selected for their presentation "Dietermann and the Fire Box," a satire on Adolph Hitler in World War II. The cast includes Phil Koeber, Mike Schmidt, Diana Langston, Garth Hagemann, Lisa Tooker, Mark Schufeldt, Laura Blenderman, Laura Hagemann and "Lavin Francis," a satire on the conference schools expected to participate in the contest, in addition to Wayne, are Plender, Madison, Wakefield, Harrington Cedar Catholic, Columbus Lakeview, Scriber, West Point, Tekamah and Wisner-Pliger.

Most of those schools will probably also take part in district competition, said Blenderman. The top two schools from each class in the district contest will be eligible to compete in the state contest in Kearney, Feb. 3.

Macke Resigns Winside Post

The Village of Winside is looking for a new street superintendent.

Monday night during the monthly board meeting the village's street superintendent for the past three years, Ken Macke, notified board members that he will be leaving as of Feb. 1 to work on a ranch near Mullen, where he was born.

Macke and his wife, Shirley, have five children. Before coming to Winside, Macke worked in

In other board action, members adopted the one and six-year street improvement program which includes the continuation of approximately 11 blocks of paving in Winside.

Her Hobby Is Making Old New Again

By PAT OSWALD

Do-it yourself attempts can sometimes lead to a hobby or occupation, as it did for Mrs. Emil Thies of Winside. Mrs. Thies decided to reupholster a chair for herself about 25 years ago, and has done upholstery work steadily since then.

The chair turned out so good that Mrs. Thies decided to reupholster the couch to match. Friends were impressed with her work and began asking her to undertake projects for them. She has since had customers from various parts of Nebraska and Iowa. She learned the trade by doing it and has remained active in the art, although in later years she discontinued upholstering couches and other large items of furniture because her home lacks adequate space for that type of work.

Upholstering usually begins by tearing apart the item to be covered and repairing it; gluing where needed, and putting in new padding. Old nylon stockings make great padding, Mrs. Thies revealed.

"I used to cover the buttons, but the new materials are heavier and have rubberized backings so I can't do it now," she continued. "I send them to Winside upholstery in Norfolk to be re-covered."

The old cover is usually saved after it is removed, so it can serve as a pattern, Mrs. Thies said, although patterns can be changed.

After the new material is cut, it is tacked lightly to the frame for fitting before it is permanently secured.

"This makes it easier if altering is required," Mrs. Thies said, adding that the real secret of upholstery is the padding. "If the padding is right, the material will fit right."

Tools used include a pair of pliers, a screwdriver, a tack hammer with tack puller, a sewing machine, a stapler, and various needles. Mrs. Thies sews buttons on with a six-inch darning needle, and uses a curved needle to do the finishing work, so seams won't show.

Fabrics have changed considerably since Mrs. Thies first began upholstering. Then, materials were mostly brittle plastic with no backing. Materials now are softer, with backings, and are much easier to work with.

Prices have also changed in the past 25 years. When a began upholstering, material cost $1.98 a yard. Now the price is usually $8 or more a yard." The most expensive material she has ever used was a velvet, costing $15 a yard, and that price would be more expensive now.

Upholstering doesn't occupy all of Mrs. Thies' time. About 15 years ago she began sewing for other people, on a 47-year-old pedal operated sewing machine. Today, a modern electric machine is hoisted in the retired machine's cabinet.

When Mrs. Thies isn't upholstering or sewing, she might be found working on a book she is writing entitled "Then there Were Six."

Mrs. Thies' father had wanted a boy, she explained, but when the last baby arrived, it was another girl. The book, which she is writing for her grandchildren, is about the lives of Mrs. Thies and her five sisters growing up near Concord (She is the former Bess Swanson.)

One thing the Swanson girls learned at home was baking and Mrs. Thies still does all of the baking for her family, carrying out many traditional recipes received from her mother and grandmother. Mrs. Thies learned baking on a coal and wood-burning stove, and now uses a gas range. She began baking while

Claims Discussion On Agenda Again

The publishing of claims paid by the city is again on the Wayne city council agenda, for the regular meeting Tuesday night.

Councilman Vernon Russell made a motion at the last meeting that the city discontinue publishing the claims, as required by Nebraska statute, but the measure died for lack of a second.

Mayor Freeman Decker is expected to appoint E. L. "Pat" Healey as city Civil Defense director. Healey has already been approved as Wayne County Civil Defense director, filling the vacancy left by the death of Thomas Roberts.

The council will consider a request for a zoning permit by the Wayne Federal Savings and Loan Association. Association officials want to demolish an old building at the corner of Fourth and Main Streets to make way for a new building to house the financial institution.

Laurel Man in Good Condition

A 26-year-old rural Laurel man is in good condition at a Sioux City hospital following a freak accident Tuesday morning which resulted in both his legs being broken above the knees.

He is Mike Jacobsen, who attempted to push a stranded motorist from behind with his car when another car driven by Leland Kumm of McLean collided with the rear end of Jacobsen's vehicle on Highway 20 between Osmond and Laurel.

A total of four vehicles were involved in the crash when an eastbound car driven by Paul Reineke of Osmond hit the Kumm car.

Jacobsen was taken to Osmond General Hospital before being transferred Wednesday afternoon to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City.

EXAMINING a chair she recently finished, Mrs. Thies noted that she has been interested in doing upholstery for about 25 years.

Legal Notices Protect the Elected

Recently, a county commissioner said: "I would not want to be a county commissioner if we didn't publish those warrants every month. I want people to know who we spend their money with; and what we don't have a chance to know every month, then I want no part of being a county commissioner. I don't want to be in on anything where people have a chance to be suspicious."

It so happens that this particular county official was not from Nebraska. But, he put his finger on one of the most important aspects of "to whom, for what and how much" publication.

Dr. Charles R. Allen, director of the Oklahoma State School of Journalism and a University of North Dakota graduate, said: "Honest public officials heartily acclaim the published statement in a newspaper as the best and most practical way to show their constituents that they have exercised good business acumen in handling of funds entrusted to them."

Dr. Allen further stated: "Adverse criticism, when it is based upon guesswork or malice, is obviously unfair to the public servant who is exercising his duties with care and unselfish interest. His protection from those who seek to prejudice voters against him is a public report of his case in such a manner that its completeness will disprove unsound and unfair contentions."

As your local newspaper, we support Dr. Allen's views in the publishing of proceedings and legal notices. It is the public's right to know

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

Kay and I celebrated a belated Christmas with our families in Fairbury last weekend and had a pretty good time, although the conversation got a little bewildering at times.

Both of my younger brothers are musicians, you see, and I'm not really up on the terminology. Somewhere along the line, they got all the musical talent in the family, because I bombed out in the fifth grade when it came to figuring out 2/4 time.

Oh, occasionally I'll still treat the rest of the Herald gang to my rendition of "The Beer Barrel Polka," but for the most part my musical career ended when I flunked the audition for the eighth grade musical because my voice was fluctuating between soprano and baritone (Kay says it still is).

I had never heard either of my brothers perform, so Saturday night we went to hear their band "The Swingin' Six" play in Beatrice. It was after everyone was home and we were sitting around the table drinking coffee that the conversation got confusing.

Tom and Kerry are both music majors at Doane College, but after overhearing a scrap of conversation, I began to wonder if they hadn't switched to barber's college instead: "And then you can cut out the fuzz."

It turns out that they were talking about a fuzz-wah pedal.

The device in question looks like a metal box with an accelerator pedal on top, and radio control knobs on the side. Nice, but what does it do?

Amused by my ignorance, the oldest of the pair whipped out a "demo" record and threw it on the stereo and sat back while one of their favorite jazz musicians explained to me the use of the fuzz-wah pedal. It works like this: You plug the pedal in between the microphone, or other sound producing instrument such as an electric piano, and the amplifier. While making music, you push the pedal one way, and you get the "fuzz." (It reminded me of the scene in "Jaws" where the firmerman scrapes his fingernails down the blackboard — but then, what does a guy with a tin ear know.)

Press down on the other end of the pedal and you get the "wah." This is a little more familiar — horn players have been doing the same thing for years by muting with a toilet plunger, producing a "wah-wah" sound.

By pushing the entire pedal down, you get both effects at once... hence, the "fuzz-wah" sound.

That isn't the end to electronic alteration of sound, however. I'm sure there must be a host of ways not covered in the record, but the artist went on to demonstrate the use of an echo-plex, which, as the name implies, causes an echo, and can make one note last, seemingly forever.

With the aid of a couple of patch cords, you can plug in both the fuzz-wah and echo-plex, and a couple of synthesizers and... at that point, I gave up and started eavesdropping on my father's conversation.

But that wasn't much better. You see, he's a mechanic, while I'm doing good. I remember where to put the gasoline (a prerequisite for driving which I've been known to forget — always in winter-time, of course). Dad was explaining the operation of a variable pitch torque converter and I was immediately lost. Feeling left out again, I decided to sneal downstairs and repair my ego by knocking out a couple of graphs for my column.

The next time you get ready to chud an empty soft drink bottle out the window, consider this: Throwing away the bottle wastes as much energy as a 10 watt bulb uses in four hours, so dumping the bottle in a ditch ends up hurting the environment twice — once by littering and again because of the additional energy consumed to manufacture its replacement.

There's good news and bad news on the energy front. The bad news is that the United States is ranked at the bottom among 18 members of the International Energy Agency, regarding energy conservation.

The good news is, U.S. petroleum consumption in 1975 was the same as the 1972 level — 16.5 million barrels a day. That's about three million barrels less than had been projected for '75, and two-thirds of the decrease is attributed to conservation efforts. The remainder is due to lower economic activity.

LETTERS

Closing policy questioned

Dear Editor: I think something needs to be said in this community about school closings, and this letter is being written mainly in defense of the farm children in this community who must board buses and try to get to Wayne.

—Take the storm of Jan. 6, I imagine that it was true in Wayne that day that the storm did not appear threatening. Out here in the country, the storm did not look too threatening either around the buildings because groves happen to protect farmsteads, as buildings and trees protect Wayne from high winds.

But venture out and away from that protection and it was something else. Away from protection of some sort, farmers and farm children receive a very different view of the situation.

How many of the people who live in town venture beyond the confines of homes, schools or businesses on the day of a storm? Well, come with us out to the open prairie and onto the country roads and view the low visibility in the cuts at forty-five mile an hour winds. The Wayne radio station continually reported that visibility was good around Wayne, while we, only a few miles from that radio station could not, nor would we have thought of, venturing out on such roads. Couldn't someone in authority take a small drive out into the country on storm days to see if buses should travel or if students should be out?

When our children cannot get to school, they miss out on that particular day of school. Just a few years ago, I believe I sat in on arguments for consolidation with the Wayne school system. Always, somewhere in those discussions, the statement was made that if consolidation became a fact, schools would be closed in bad weather to protect the country children. School is held in Wayne regardless of the danger to country children during storms.

If we were allowed to vote again on the issue of consolidation, we would vote to keep our country school open. At least out here, we had something to say about dangerous storms. Is it that essential to have school? Cannot days be made up at a less dangerous time in the spring of the year?

OBSERVATIONS

Road decision is noteworthy

Too often these days it seems that government turns a deaf ear to public opinion. That makes a recent decision by the state Department of Roads particularly satisfying.

The Roads Department announced that plans to widen to four lanes a mile of Highway 73 from Wayne north, had been changed. When the road is resurfaced, it will remain two lanes only.

What is particularly noteworthy about the decision is the part played by local people in reaching it. A considerable amount of opposition to the four lane proposal was expressed at the Department of Roads hearing in Wayne Oct. 20. Design engineer Lyman Freeman said the decision to stick with a two lane highway was made as a direct result of that opposition.

Too often, decisions with local impact are made without consulting local people. It's good to know that some government agencies such as the Department of Roads are responsive to the wishes of the people. — Jim Strayer.

Dear Editor: I would like to thank The Wayne Herald for the prize I won in the coloring contest. — Lisa Jacobson.

Right to know defended

Dear Editor: My compliments to you for that superb editorial in the January 5th issue of the newspaper. You must have spent considerable time thinking about the possible consequences had Mr. Russell's motion been seconded and passed, and you stated your conclusions beautifully.

As you well know, it is much easier and safer to let issues such as this one die without making an editorial comment on them. For when you do comment, you leave yourself open to criticism from those who disagree with you.

The taxpayers in Wayne, who should be deeply concerned with any actions such as that of Mr. Russell proposes when the urge strikes him, should be thankful that you feel strongly enough about their right to know what their local governing body is doing that you are willing to disagree with those serving on that body when necessary. Those taxpayers are the ones who would be harmed by such as the proposals as those which occasionally come up for consideration by local city councils. — Norvin Hansen.

PLANS to sponsor a landing strip for Cuming County were temporarily grounded last Tuesday as the Board of Supervisors turned down a request to finance part of a survey that would determine the feasibility of the project. The airport steering committee, chaired by Dr. R. F. Warlick of Wisner, had met with the supervisors Dec. 10, to "open up official contact" with the board to serve as the survey sponsor. A government agency with the power to levy a tax must sponsor the project and appropriate 15 per cent of the survey costs before any further action can be taken.

A FARROWING barn, five sows and 140 little pigs were completely destroyed in a fire on the Woerdman Brothers farm about two and a fourth miles south of Wisner early last Saturday morning. MADISON County Commissioners last week officially adopted the resolution to purchase five acres of land in extreme north Madison for a site for a county courthouse. Purchase price of the land, located on the west side of Highway 81 and north of the Northern Heights addition, was put at $17,000 with that amount including necessary fill dirt to bring the five-acre up to grade with the highway. The resolution made the purchase of the land contingent upon the site being rezoned from agricultural to residential and being annexed by the city. The purchase will also depend upon the soil survey establishing that the land can be used for the proposed building.

Act called a monstrosity

Nebraskans who say they are less involved by government in their lives could be appalled if they would read through the so-called "Sunshine Act" officially titled "The Nebraska Political Reform Act of 1976."

The sponsors, under the name of "Coalition for Open Government," are asking 31,500 signatures in a petition drive to put this monstrosity on the ballot in the 1976 general election. The proposed legislation involves 10 1-3 pages (legal size 11" x 14") of technical language that would represent a "lawyer's paradise" for prolonged and winding interpretations.

Superficially it is being represented to prospective petition signers as an act that would control lobbying and bring a greater degree of honesty to the matter of accepting political campaign contributions and exposing conflicts of interest on the part of candidates.

Actually it would reach down into the local level of school boards and city councils (except those with constituencies of less than 4,999 persons). Candidates even for these kinds of offices within 10 days after filing for the office would have to form a candidate committee with a treasurer and set up a system of contributors of $15 or more would have to be kept on file for five years.

The blizzard of paper work involved in the act if it were passed is of huge proportions. Compliance with all of the opening dates and closing dates for the filing of reports and final reports and other required disclosures of personal and financial details would necessitate a candidate for office having a legal firm on retainer to check every action during the campaign period.

The penalties for violations, upon conviction, are rough... "A person who files a statement or report required under this enactment knowing that information contained therein is false is guilty of a felony and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 and imprisonment for a term of not more than three years, if an individual, and by a fine of not more than $25,000 if other than an individual."

What person would seek to be of public service as a member of a school board, city council, natural resources district, or even as a member of the State Legislature, and expose himself or herself to such a maze of legal pitfalls? Even the most conscientious candidates could well find themselves the objects of scorn and ridicule and expensive defense litigation, particularly in the case of contested elections.

The Nebraska League of Women Voters recently joined other groups in the "Coalition for Open Government" to support the petition drive. Some of these others include: Common Cause, Sierra Club, Omaha American Association of University Women, Lutheran Legislative Caucus, Catholic Commission on Human Rights-Archdiocese of Omaha, Nebraska Women's Political Caucus, Gray Panthers, Omaha Chapter-National Association of Social Workers and the Quality Environment Council.

One wonders how many of the people in these groups have actually read through the lengthy legislative proposal to which they are lending their names and efforts.

Persons asked to sign a copy of the petition to put the proposal on the ballot would do well to ask to see and at least browse through the actual proposals. Then they will have a better idea why the state senators haven't been willing to pass this piece of legislation. — M. M. Vankirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

No Doubts Now, Bears Are The Team To Beat

By BOB BARTLETT
If there were any doubts in the minds of coaches in the Northern Nebraska Activities Conference that this year the Wayne Bears, those doubts had to be jettisoned somewhat Friday night when the Laurel Bears emerged inner of the loop's annual tournament.

Shooting an amazing 62 per cent in the first quarter, coach Oel Parks' club walked past defending champion O'Neill, 2-4, before staking a 76-51 championship victory at Bloomfield High auditorium.

The Bears, who shot 46 per cent for the night, hit 10 fielders in the first period and cashed in 12 of 14 free throw attempts or the second-highest first-quarter performance by any team under Parks administration.

Senior Greg Pipitt, Jon Erwin and Brian Johnson led the Bears to their seventh win against two defeats as Pipitt scored in 18 points and Erwin and Johnson contributed 17 each during Laurel's fast-break game.

Those same three players also were instrumental on the boards as the trio garnered 31 of the team's 44 rebounds. Pipitt pulled down 12 while Erwin had 11 and Johnson had eight.

Once again Parks pointed out that his club is developing the consistent shooting to make his club a leader not only in the NENAC loop but also in Northeast Nebraska.

"When our running game gets hot, we can shoot anything and make it," Parks quipped.

The Bears amassed a comfortable 50-29 halftime lead, but began to slow things down in the second half when coach Leo Schwanke's 6-3 O'Neill Eagles switched from a man-to-man defense to a zone.

"I learned a long time ago that you don't go into the teeth of a zone," Parks pointed out, explaining that once a team has a sizeable lead, it's best to sit back and make the other team come out rather than charge into a zone defense to score. Often times a team can get into foul trouble that way, he added.

O'Neill's strategy worked for a while, causing Laurel to pick up some quick fouls including Johnson's third personal. But Parks quickly made the change to counter O'Neill's play.

Parks praised the play of his ball club, noting that his players passed well and rebounded well. The Bears held O'Neill to a 34 per cent shooting average while they allowed the Eagles to clear 21 corners.

Leading O'Neill's scoring were seniors Bob Krutzman and Verlin Redlinger with 18 and 16 points.

The championship match was delayed in starting about a half hour following a 54-51 overtime decision by Neligh over Bloomfield in the consolation match.

Thursday night Laurel earned a berth in the finals with a soundly 83-45 victory over Bloomfield. Again the Bears were hot from the field, hitting a zizzling 61 per cent in the last quarter, the reserves banged in 12 of 13 fielders.

Johnson led with 13 points followed by Pipitt with 12 and Brad Erwin with 11.

Scrappy Madison Holds Together in Overtime Win

BY DAN VODVARKA
Young, spunky Madison just didn't know when to quit Friday night.

Playing most of the game with four sophomores in the line-up, the invading Dragons posted a 68-65 overtime win over host Wayne.

The Blue Devils led 57-52 with 4:20 left in the fourth stanza but could get only two more points before the end of regulation time as the game went into overtime with a 59-59 count.

In the overtime, the Dragons looked anything but their age as they hit for the first bucket of the extra period and hit five of six free throws in the crucial closing seconds of the contest to post the victory.

Devis just stopped looking for shots and started standing around.

The best thing that has happened to us in our recent games," Sharpe continued, "has been our improved bench strength."

tree throws with 33 left to even totally send the game into overtime. Wayne had the ball with 16 left but Madison stole the ball and sent the contest into overtime.

In overtime, the invaders cashed in on six of 10 free throws to clinch the win.

Sophomore Craig Wherle used his six-foot-three frame to drop in 20 points while senior Dick Peterson had 19 for the winners. Mallette led Wayne with 19 markers while Lowe had 15.

The Wayne JV's evened their season's mark at 33 with a 47-23 win in the night's opener. Koll and Aaron Nissen led the way with nine points each.

THE ACTION was rugged under the boards as Blue Devils Monte Lowe (42) and Tim Koll (50) fight with a Madison Dragon for a rebound. Koll was called for a foul on the play.

The West Husker Conference battle moved both club's seasons at cage marks away from the 500 mark. Wayne now stands at 4.5 on the year while the Dragons are 4.3. In the West Husker loop, the Devils are 2-1 and Madison stands at 1-1. The Devils will continue loop play Friday night at 67 from the field.

"Despite the loss, Wayne coach Bill Sharpe was pleased with his cagers. "Overall, we possibly played our best game so far this year," he pointed out, "we could have won it, showed a lot of enthusiasm and really went out there to play."

The losing coach explained that Wayne's zone defense in the early going helped the Dragons off to a fast start. The invaders were slowed down, however, by Wayne's switch to a man-to-man defense in the last three quarters of the game. Looking at Wayne's cold spell late in the game, the coach said the Blue

Devils were slowed down, however, by Wayne's switch to a man-to-man defense in the last three quarters of the game.

Assessment Consultants Helping with Property Tax

Wayne County residents are reminded that special tax assessment consultants will be available in January, and in February. The special assessors will be available to help residents prepare property tax statements on the following dates: Carroll-Jan. 1, Feb. 9; Hoskins-Jan. 20, Feb. 27.

Précinct

which they live, because the precincts do not function as governmental subdivisions, having no officers, no budget and no taxing powers. The census information will be used as a basis for allocating federal revenue sharing funds. Some counties do have organized precincts which are eligible or revenue sharing funds, and that is the reason the item is included.

Incidentally, taxpayers with questions regarding information can contact the Census Information by calling collect 812-948-2111.

Hobby

in grade school and later baked for the family she worked for. One traditional recipe which Mrs. Thies learned from her mother is for ice box cookies, although she recalls setting the dough outside or on the back porch to cool overnight because there were no refrigerators then.

Other foods include pfeffer-nusse cookies, learned from her grandmother; old fashioned coffee cake; giner snaps—Mrs. Thies' favorite; and potato pancakes, a recipe used by Mrs. Thies' great-grandmother.

Homemakers who would like to try this traditional treat can use the following recipe: Recipe for potato pancakes: Grate raw potatoes very fine to determine amount of pancakes wanted.

1 quart grated potatoes
1 tsp. salt
3 eggs well beaten
4 tbsps. flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder (may be omitted)
Fry on hot griddle which has been lightly greased just enough so cakes won't stick. Spread dough quite thin. German tradition is to eat cakes covered with applesauce although syrup is good also.

Business notes.

12: Winside-Jan. 21, Feb. 11; Sholes-Jan. 22.

In addition, assessment consultants are now available at the county courthouse and will be on weekdays throughout January and February, except on Feb. 12 and 16.

Nebraska has self-assessment for personal property, and owners are responsible for ensuring that all taxable property is assessed in accordance with determining with (?) determine actual value, county assessor Doris Stipp said.

Household goods and personal effects are exempt from taxation if they are not used for financial gain. However, items which must be assessed include boats and motors, airplanes, motor vehicles, stock cars, snowmobiles, golf carts, go-carts, motorcycles, motor scooters, farm machinery, livestock, feed, income-producing household furniture, fur-bearing animals, bees, poultry, tools used for profit, hay silage, and all types of irrigation equipment not assessed with real estate property.

The deadline for assessing property is March 1, and late filings are subject to penalty. Mrs. Stipp said taxpayers should bring their 1975 tax schedule or other records which show the year and model of machinery. If that information is not available, owners should know the purchase price and will be assessed according to a depreciation schedule.

Details regarding inventories and the cost of equipment should agree with figures reported on federal income tax returns.

Satellite Gives View of State

The Wakefield Soil Conservation District office has an unusual picture of Nebraska on display now.

A bird's eye view description doesn't do justice to the picture, which was actually formed from 21 separate images transmitted from the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS).

This satellite, in a polar orbit with an altitude of 565 miles, passes over any given point in Nebraska every 18 days. The images were recorded by an optical scanning system and provide an unusual view of the state. Of particular interest are the sandhills patterns, Lewis and Clark Lake, and the many center pivot irrigation systems.

Wildcat matmen Among chief attractions for area people will be freshman Dwight Lienemann of Winside, who leads Wayne grapplers with an 8-3 record at 177 pounds. He won two by pins, also lost a pair by pins in major tournaments. His top achievement first in the Central Missouri State meet.

Senior Mike Riedmann has a record almost as good, 7-4, as a 190 pounder.

Coach Marion Haayer expects added strength for his young squad with the return of junior Paul Sok, a 126-pound scrapper who won four matches in the season opener. Northwest Missouri State tournament before an injury sidelined him.

Another plus is Kirk Hanson, sophomore transfer from Dakota State who is eligible now and will man the 150-pound class. Haayer rates him a strong contender.

Bridge

undersize and the width is too small, Upton said.

During the meeting, the board okayed the request by Gerald Bruggeman for a tobacco license to sell cigarettes at his business, Bruggeman Oil Co. on other action, members agreed to retain Upton as great superintendent for two years. His salary will remain at $300 a year.

Game Rescheduled

Due to a scheduling conflict, the sophomore basketball game between Wayne High and Norfolk High at the Wayne High auditorium today (Monday) has been rescheduled for Monday, Jan. 26, at 4 p.m.

Attorney

ney who will represent the county and if not, if he can discuss the case with the county's special attorney in Schroeder's presence. Bornhoff had initially indicated that he would represent the county in the case.

At stake in the court action is $7,000 which the city contends the county owes under an agreement first signed May 15, 1957.

The agreement was between the county, the city, and the city Hospital board. Under the three-way agreement the city was obligated to purchase an ambulance which would be operated by the hospital. The county agreed to allocate $1,000 annually for a depreciation fund, to be used if a new primary ambulance was purchased. The county also agreed to pay $115 a week in support of the ambulance service.

The agreement was extended each year until 1974. According to county clerk Norris Weible, the commissioners signed a document extending the agreement in May 1974. The extension was sent to the city, Weible said, but no further action was taken.

The county's $115 weekly subsidy was ended Jan. 1, 1975. Weible said the action was taken because the commissioners asked for the ambulance service to be turned over to Providence Medical Center after it went into operation, and Bornhoff advised the commissioners that the payment would not be legal because the hospital is a private organization. Between June, 1968 and Dec., 1974, the county contributed a total of $35,308.53 to the ambulance service, Weible said.

The city gave official notice June 30, 1975 that a new ambulance was to be purchased, and asked for the $7,000 they believed was due from the county. Bornhoff advised the commissioners that they could not authorize the payment because Providence Medical Center was not a party to the original agreement.

Weible said payment of the funds could lead to further litigation. He said representatives of the fire departments which operate rescue squads in Winside, Carroll and Hoskins told the commissioners last spring they would support the ambulance court proceedings would be initiated to gain similar support for the rescue units.

Livestock

Wayne city auditorium, beginning at 10 a.m.

At the first session, Thursday, Jan. 8, Spitze talked about cost management economics including farm level marketing decisions, and determining production cost. Cuming County agent Daryl Loeppke discussed nutrition, including breeding through farrowing, and growing and finishing of hogs.

Pierce County agent Henry Kumpost is scheduled to talk about gilt development and crossbreeding systems at the second session on Thursday. District swine specialist Bob Fritschien will cover equipment selection and trouble-shooting, and the planning of farrowing and finishing facilities. The meeting will last until about 3 p.m. in the Woman's club room of the auditorium.

Damage Light in Schroeder Fire

A house on the Henry Schroeder farm about eight miles northwest of Wayne sustained smoke and soot damage Wednesday when a fire broke out in a chimney.

Wayne volunteer firemen quickly extinguished the blaze which was reported about 10:45 a.m., according to fire chief Cliff Pinkselman. Pinkselman said the cause of the fire was a buildup of soot which caused the stove to overheat and catch fire.

Firemen stayed at the Schroeder farm until about 1 p.m. helping to clean the chimney.
