Teacher Says Phonics Important In Teaching Basic Reading Skills

Mrs. Cliff Peters, kindergarten through second grade teacher at the District 57 school house south of Wayne, was guest speaker at the Monday night meeting of the Wayne Junior Woman's Club.

Mrs. Peters, who taught in the Winslow school system for several years before going to District 57, told about the phonetic system of teaching reading, stressing the importance of youngsters acquiring the idea of phonics when they are in the first grade.

Mrs. Peters said she feels it is important for parents to encourage their youngsters during pre-school years to create an interest in learning.

Junior Woman's Club members met at the Woman's Club room. Guests were Mrs. Harry Lesberg and Mrs. Richard Carlson.

Plans were discussed for the local Fine Arts Festival, set for Friday, Feb. 27 at the city auditorium, and the Wayne County spelling bee, scheduled for Feb. 20 at the Wayne State College campus. Junior Woman's Club members will assist the Wayne Federated Woman's Club in serving lunch before the spelling bee.

Members were encouraged to attend the District III Fine Arts Festival at Creighton March 6. Reservations for lunch must be made in advance with club president Mrs. Ronald Mau. Persons wishing a ride or planning to drive to the festival are also asked to contact Mrs. Mau.

Both the Junior Woman's Club and Federated Woman's Club contributed to the District III music fund. The money will be used towards scholarships to All State at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in June. As a result of the two clubs contributing towards the scholarships, Wayne is eligible to enter two students in District III music competition.

'Lysistrata' to Open Sunday

A play that was written over 2,000 years ago - Aristophanes' "Lysistrata" - will open this Sunday, Feb. 15, and will run through Wednesday, Feb. 18, at the Wayne State College Ramsey Theatre of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building.

A matinee is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, and evening performances will follow on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. Tickets will be $2 at the door. Students and faculty members will be admitted free with identification.

According to Dr. Helen Russell, Wayne State College drama professor who is directing the play, an interpretive rather than a literal performance is being given, using a modern translation of the work by Douglas Parker.

Dr. Russell said "Lysistrata" might almost have been written right now, so timely are its main themes: Women's lib, for one, and anti-war.

Art Dirks, Wayne State drama instructor who serves as technical director for the production, has attempted to bridge the gap

Church Sponsoring Film On Radio Astronomy

The Evangelical Free Church of Wayne will sponsor a film by the Moody Institute of Science, entitled "In the Beginning... God," Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Woman's Club room in Wayne.

The film, the 19th in the acclaimed "Sermons from Science" film series, traces the growth of radio astronomy to its present position of worldwide prominence.

The film is invited to attend the showing, according to the Rev. Larry Ostercamp, pastor of the Wayne church.

Radio telescopes, or "dishes," can bounce beams off the moon, track objects as small as a golf ball 5,000 miles away, and detect something the size of a postage stamp on the moon. The world's largest "single-dish" telescope, in Arecibo, Puerto Rico, is so vast that it could hold more than 12 football fields.

"In the Beginning... God" makes use of special effects created in the Moody Institute of Science studios, but most of the material is filmed on location, at sites around the world. The film is narrated by Dr. George Sweating, President of Moody Bible Institute.

The film raises fundamental questions regarding the nature and origin of the universe and suggests some astounding answers.

Carroll Girl Wed Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Grosserode, who were married in Saturday rites at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Norfolk, will be making their first home in Norfolk where the groom is employed in the office of General Wholesale Grocery Co.

Mrs. Grosserode, nee Carla Hale, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hale of Carroll. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grosserode of Oakdale.

Guests, registered by Nancy Pfanz of Belden, were ushered into the church by Phil and Howard Grosserode of Oakdale, brothers of the groom, Jeff Bussey of Battle Creek and Dean Vesely of Lincoln.

The Rev. Will Spenner of Norfolk officiated at the nuptial mass and double ring ceremony. Altar servers were Randy and Glen Grosserode of Oakdale, brothers of the groom. Nancy Truby of Randolph was soloist, accompanied by Kurt Bomar of Norfolk.

Dave Pavlik of Omaha served as lector and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grosserode of Fremont were officary bearers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in white tulle gown, styled with a ruffled neckline, high rise bodice and long sleeves, all trimmed in Venice lace. Matching lace and daisies trimmed the A-line skirt which swept into a chapel-length train. Her floor-length mantilla of double illusion was trimmed in daisies and caught to a demure crown. She carried a cascade of red roses, stephanotis and English ivy.

Maid of honor was Mary Grosserode of Norfolk; the groom's sister, and bridesmaid of Mrs. Brad Hale of Wisner, sister-in-law of the bride. Both wore identical halter-style dresses of red polyester knit in floor-length. The matching jackets were trimmed at the collar and cuffs of the long sleeves with red marion, and they carried bouquets of red carnations and white pompons.

Don Grosserode of Oakdale served as best man for his brother. Groomsman was Brad Hale of Wisner, brother of the bride. The men wore light grey tuxedos with white ruffled shirts.

Pam Thelen of Parkston, S.D. was flower girl and Loren Grosserode, the groom's brother, was ring bearer. The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Joe Hansen of McLean.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hale chose a floor-length three-piece knit suit in light blue. Mrs. Grosserode wore a dusty rose knit, also in formal length.

Members of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center recently completed work on a quilt, using quilt blocks turned in by area farm ladies during the Farm Ladies Appreciation Luncheon, Ladies Appreciation Luncheon, and sponsored last July by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Theme for the luncheon was "Quilting Bee Luncheon." Ladies who attended were asked to sew their name on a 12-inch quilt block and turn them in to the Chamber office prior to the luncheon.

Designs, which were done in embroidery, applique or patchwork, were judged with prizes awarded to the farm women with the best block designs. All of the blocks were used to make the friendship quilt.

According to Mrs. Jociele Bull, director of the local Senior Citizens Center, ladies who volunteered to make the quilt ran into a few difficulties, one of which was cutting all the blocks to the same size. Although the women were asked to sew their name on a 12-inch block, Mrs. Bull said about five of the 42 blocks, turned in, were the correct size.

ss Marna Werner and Nellie Brockman, members of the Senior Citizens Center, measured and cut all the blocks to 11-inch squares.

Mrs. Bull said besides having to cut down several of the blocks, many were too small and women had to be notified to pick up their blocks and sew them to size 11" x 11".

Kappa Delta Gamma Pledges Wayne Girl

Finally, after several telephone calls and many hours of labor, the project was completed.

Members of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center who donated their time and work on the project were Mary Kieper, Nellie Brockman, Rachel Bull, Gladys Peterson, Rena Pedersen, Lucille Wert, Annie Ruebig, Alice Dorman, Lottie Longnecker, Mahliede Hamm, Mary Miller, Myrtle Weber, and Emma Soules.

According to Mrs. Doris Ward, chairman for last year's Farm Ladies Appreciation Luncheon, plans are to sell the quilt, with proceeds going to help with Wayne's American Bicentennial effort.

Social Security Benefits For Disabled Children

Unmarried children 18 or older who became disabled before age 22 may receive disability benefits, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk. Children disabled before age 22 may start receiving disability benefits when a working parent starts getting retirement or disability insurance benefits, or at the death of a parent who had enough social security work credits for the payment of survivor's benefits.

A person disabled before age 22 needs no social security work credits to get benefits. His payments are based on the earnings of his parent and may continue for a disabled child and the parent's eligibility continues, Branch said.

The decision whether a person has been disabled since childhood is made on medical evidence from his physician or other sources showing the severity of his condition and the extent to which it prevents him from doing substantial gainful work. If a child becomes disabled before age 22, an application should be filed as soon as childhood disability benefits are payable on the social security record of a parent.

The Norfolk social security office is at 1310 Norfolk Ave. The phone number is 371-1595.

Americans Find T-Shirts Good For 'Getting It off Your Chest'

For getting it off your chest, try a T-shirt.

There were 48 million to choose from in 1955's factory output, each with something to say—promote, praise, protest, advise, philosophize over, or portray in drawings, paintings or photographs.

Campus stores will personalize student T-shirts with any made-to-order message, girl-friend's likeness, or ideological symbol of rebellion, endearment, or whatever.

A New York jeweler enables women to keep their shirts on by wearing miniature silver T-shirts hanging on-neck chains.

New at bookstores is a manual of T-shirting showing how to "transform any ordinary shirt into an exciting, self-expressive billboard with him."

Will large in everything from stencil inks to rhinestones, these talking T-shirts are the biggest chapter yet in the life story of America's favorite garment.

Title of the T-shirt's biography, lettered across a chest, might be: "Clark Gable Wears No Undershirt." In 1934 that was a headline.

He just about did in the undershirt business when he stripped off his necktie and shirt before the nation's moviegoers in "It Happened One Night" and revealed to one and all that he was not wearing anything underneath but a bare chest.

The underwear industry still shivers over the way red-blooded American men decided suddenly that what wasn't good enough for a movie star wasn't good enough for them, either. Namely, an undershirt.

But in a few years what the sleeveless undershirt didn't have, its descendant did: World War II. Practically every man in uniform, including every imitator of bare-chested movie star, was wearing a new shiny shirt.

Spread flat and with its stubby sleeves, it looked like a T. It came in a choice of three G colors, white for sailors, green for marines, and olive drab for soldiers.

In its way it was closest to a GI's heart; for the civilianized serviceman took the T-shirt into his home with him.

Marlon Brando immortalized a torn version of the garment when he wore it playing Stanley Kowalski in the stage and movie versions of Tennessee Williams' play, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

What the T-shirt lacked in elegance, it made up for in comfort with its short sleeves and lack of a collar. It began to lead a double life as a sport shirt as well as an undershirt.

High fashion added colors, stripes, and patterns in rhinestones. The long-sleeve T-shirt appeared, and then the turtle-neck version.

One early T-shirt almost came with steel muscles. "The first Superman wore a T-shirt and trousers," says Joe Shuster, the artist who created the comic book hero with writer Jerry Siegel. "But then we added the costume and put an 'S' on his chest."

Since then everything from eyebrow lifting graffiti to advertising has appeared on T-shirts, with makers of the garment and advertisers puzzled but delighted over Americans' yen to be come walking bumper stickers.

The only message not yet seen on a T-shirt may be "Post No Bills."

ANGIE ELLIS
Wayne Woman Is $25 Richer

Angie Ellis of Wayne is $25 richer this week after she picked up her consolation prize in the weekly Birthday Bucks drawing.

Mrs. Ellis, whose birthday is Sept. 30, 1930, was the person whose birthday came the closest to the winning date of Nov. 8, 1930, when it was drawn last Thursday night by Dick Keidel of Sav-Mar Drug. As a result, she won $25 in Birthday Bucks, which can be spent just like cash in any participating Wayne business.

If Mrs. Ellis' birthday would have landed on the winning date, she could have picked up a cool $600 in Birthday Bucks. Mrs. Ellis was in Doescher Appliance when the winning date was announced at 8:15 p.m.

Anyone can win either the grand or consolation prizes if his or her birthday comes closest to or on the date drawn at random. No purchases or registration are necessary to be a winner.

Tonight (Thursday) another drawing will be made. If the grand prize isn't claimed, the total will raise another $25 to make the total prize worth $650.

Each week a winner is not found, the grand prize will increase by $25 until the total reaches a ceiling of $750.

Strawberry Glacial

1 1/2 C. sugar
1/4 t. salt
2 T. lemon juice
1 pint strawberries, sliced
2 1/2 C. milk
1 envelope whipped topping mix

Or use 2 C. loose frozen whole strawberries, partially thawed.

Combine sugar, salt, lemon juice, and strawberries in a bowl. Let stand 10 minutes. Blend 1/4 C. of the milk with whipped topping mix, stirring until smooth. Gradually add remaining 2 1/2 C. milk, blending until smooth after each addition. Crush strawberries or puree in electric blender. Slowly stir into milk mixture. Tint with a few drops of red food coloring, if desired. Pour into a 9 inch square pan and freeze until mushy about 2 hours. Spoon into chilled bowl, beat until smooth but not melted. Return to pan and freeze until firm at least 4 hours. Garnish with additional strawberries, if desired. Makes 6 cups or 12 servings.

Cat's Edge

With nine seconds left, UNO's top scorer, Dennis Forrest, scored his 21st points on a fielder. Wayne took time out of seven seconds to plot strategy. After the throw-in, Wayne Robinson took a long pass, drove and scored a layup. However, in the pandemonium, a referee's whistle went unheard.

Result: no basket, the clock went back up from three to seven seconds, and UNO had possession under its own basket. Then a throw-in, a shot and a miss, and a foul against Redmond.

His one-and-one chance could put the Wildcats a safer distance ahead, but he missed in the rebound scrimmage. Wayne came up with the ball, and time ran out at 7:21.

That padded Wayne to a 11.9 record, and further reduced UNO hopes for an NCAA Division II playoff bid. The Mavericks now are 12.9 after losing nine of their last 13 games.

Both Redmond and Rick Anderson had above-average scoring spurts, Redmond with 27 points and a game high 13 rebounds, Anderson with 19 points, seven boards.

Curiously, UNO dominated all the statistics except one critical matter of free throws. The Mavs got only six chances and hit three while Wayne cashed 12 of 23. Otherwise UNO outplayed, 34 to 30: outshot, 45 per cent to 37, and outrebounded, 57-50.

Wayne's NAIA district playoff hopes now rest on remaining games — only one of the five at home, against Kearney next Tuesday night. The Cats go to Chadron Friday and, after Kearney to Hastings, Peru and Concordia.

CPA Describes Qualifications For Income Tax Exemptions

Although taxpayers realize they can claim a $750 exemption for each dependent, not everyone is sure who qualifies as a dependent, said Duane Thelen, president of the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants.

"How about that 20-year-old away at college?" Thelen asked. "Or the elderly parent who doesn't live with you but whom you help support? Or the family member who died last year?"

The right answers to such questions are more important than ever, he said thanks to the 1975 Tax Reduction Act. This year, each dependent is worth not only the deduction but an extra credit of $30—that's $30 subtracted from the tax bill, or claimed as a refund if taxes were fully covered by withholding.

"To begin at the beginning," Thelen said, "Your first dependent is yourself, and that is true even if you are also the dependent of another taxpayer, as in the case of a young person with a part-time job whose parents provide more than half his support."

On a joint return there are at least two dependents, husband and wife. And if either of them is over 65 or technically blind, there are extra exemptions for each of those conditions (although they do not qualify for the $30 tax credit).

The over-65 and blindness exemptions can be taken only by the persons affected; if such individuals are the dependents of another taxpayer, he doesn't get the added break.

Your child under 19 is a dependent if you provide half his support. This continues to be true after he passes 19 if he is a full-time student.

Generally, there are five tests that determine whether a person is your dependent. To qualify, he must meet all five: —You provide more than half his support. —He makes less than $750 gross income. —He lives with you for the entire year or is a close relative. —He is citizen or resident of the U.S., Canada, Mexico or Panama. —He does not file a joint return with another taxpayer except for the purpose of claiming a refund of taxes withheld.

What about a child born late in the year? The baby born during the year is a dependent. The same is true of a dependent who dies generally, if the person qualified as a dependent during any part of the year, the taxpayer gets the full exemption. This is not true, though, in the case of a man whose wife dies and he remarries before the end of the year; he can claim only the new wife. Also, a man who is divorced or legally separated as of the end of the year loses the exemption for the divorced or estranged wife.

In the case of elderly parents supported jointly by two or more of their children, none of whom provides more than half the support, the exemptions can be taken by one of the young people who contributed at least 10 percent if the others sign a statement that they are not claiming the exemption this year.

The exemption for the child of a divorced couple generally goes to the parent having custody for the greater part of the year. However, the other parent qualifies if he contributed at least $600 toward the child's support and the divorce decree specifies that he get the exemption or if he contributed at least $1,200 and the other parent cannot establish that she provided more.

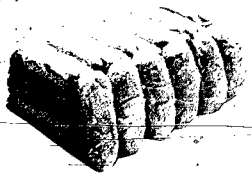

Generally, there are five tests that determine whether a person is your dependent. To qualify, he must meet all

Average Deduction On Wayne County

Income Tax Returns Totals over $3,000

How much did the average taxpayer in Wayne County contribute to charity during the past year? How much did he pay in local taxes? What did his medical and dental expenses amount to?

These are some of the expense figures that local residents are putting together these days in preparation for their upcoming encounter with Uncle Sam.

Taxpayers in the area who itemize their deductible expenditures would like to know how their deductions compare with the amounts taken by other people who have incomes similar to their own.

Some guidance, in answer to these questions, comes from the Commerce Clearing House, an authority on tax matters, using data recently released by the Internal Revenue Service.

In its findings it shows just how much taxpayers in each income category have been deducting on the average for contributions, interest charges, local taxes and medical costs.

Among families throughout the country with incomes equal to the Wayne County average, approximately $3,150, equivalent to 73 percent of adjusted gross income, is the normal total deduction. For those with incomes that are larger than this average, the amounts deducted are generally bigger but they represent a smaller percentage of their total earnings.

Conversely, the deductions among families with lower incomes, although smaller in amount, are bigger percentage-wise. The range is from 18 percent to 43 percent, according to the IRS figures.

Local families in the $9,000 to $10,000 bracket, for example, will have deductions of about $2,580 if they match the norm. Those at the $15,000 to $20,000 level will be listing close to $3,450.

A breakdown of the $3,150 in deductions that is usual at the average income level prevailing in Wayne County shows that $400 is for contributions, $1,047 is for interest on loans and other obligations, $1,238 for state and local taxes and $465 for medical and dental expenses.

The Commerce Clearing House points out that in some instances a family's deductions may run well above the average and be acceptable. In all cases, taxpayers must be able to substantiate their figures with proper records.

Gal Cagers Fall to UNL

University of Nebraska basketball women, on their own court, eked out a 62-61 win over Wayne State Tuesday night, so gained a measure of revenge for their 25-point loss in the Wayne gym last month.

They will meet again Feb. 20-21 in the three-team state championship also involving Nebraska-Omaha.

Tuesday the Huskers enjoyed an 18-point lead in the first half before the Wildkittens recovered for a 34-34 half. Wayne's switch to man-to-man defense helped turn the tide. Then the Wayne girls moved up by eight in early second half, only to have UNL rally for a final nip and tuck stretch drive.

Connie Künzmann led Wayne with 22 points; Pat McKay and Belley Kelley both scored 10.

The Wildkittens will play home games three days this weekend. Friday at 6 p.m. in Rice, the junior varsity meets Chadron State's varsity; after that, the Wayne and Westmar varsities. Saturday at 2, South Dakota State is the foe, and Sunday at 3, it will be Kearney State. All three visiting varsities aim to avenge earlier losses.

Wayne's varsity record is 11-8. The junior varsity is 1-5 after a 61-44 loss to UNL Tuesday.

When packing for children, especially for the very young, make space for one or two of their favorite toys and garments. A bit of home can help soothe restless kids in unaccustomed surroundings.

Though on the surface it may seem more convenient to take a lot of clothes, resist that impulse!

Seasoned travelers agree that the more trips they take, the less they pack.

Health Tip

What is wrong with vitamins? Laxatives? Aspirins? Sleeping pills?

Self-medication, except for minor and temporary conditions, can be dangerous, according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

Even such commonly used drugs as pain-killers, antacids and laxatives should not be used often, or for long periods of time, because of the danger of overlooking serious advancing disease.

Most of the ills that afflict modern man are minor in the sense, that they do not produce profound or lasting changes in body tissues. The Nebraska Medical Association points out that we cannot always know what is or will remain a minor ailment, and often nature is an especially good friend. The body, unaided except perhaps by sleep and rest, can take care of most ailments, although medications ease distress.

The problem with excessive self-medication is that symptoms become overlooked. Basic causes of conditions may be ignored and serious disease might progress to a point of danger.

Exon: not easy to establish case against agriculture director

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN—Gov. J.J. Exon going to the State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher as has been requested by the National Farmers Organization.

Kreuscher conducted hearings on the issue and the NFO claims portions of the tapes of those hearings were destroyed on purpose.

Exon said, and NFO officials agreed, that wasn't their purpose in appealing to him in the first place, he would not directly involve himself in the agriculture department's action against the organization.

ing what is now law and what has been practiced.

all over the state from those willing to support his legislation.

in the way of performance audits from the state auditor are reports that he said are just too long to do anyone any good at all.

The NFO and Kreuscher, last year, locked horns over whether the organization should be bonded and licensed as a livestock dealer and the dispute continues.

The problem, Trudy said, is that the whole issue of licensing may go to court. If it does, he said, the NFO would need complete records of those hearings.

Prayer in Public Schools Returning Arkansas has a brand new law allowing voluntary prayer in public schools and Nebraska's Unicameral has a bill pending to allow recitation of the Lord's Prayer plus the Pledge of Allegiance in the classroom on a voluntary basis.

There are religious considerations, said Swigart. "If God is, he ought not to be denied any place or breath."

The Unicameral has come up with the idea of having what are known as "performance audits" done.

Lawmakers Worried About Image Some senators said they felt for them to look busy while they were in the chamber—busy doing something besides listening or actively debating—gives them a bad public image.

NFO officials, including state president Ed Trudy of Surprise and Gene Goffner of Corning, la., national NFO coordinator, met with Exon recently, saying they weren't disturbed at that much about what Kreuscher was doing but they were objecting to how he was doing it.

The NFO said bonding had already been insisted on at the 100 per cent level. At issue is a license. The NFO contends it is prohibited from calling itself a dealer as such even though it does help its members through cooperative selling.

Those Arkansas lawmakers said they had one fear. Nothing is common practice to do just what the legislation would authorize they said it might bring about a court suit and wind up prohibiting their vote.

Swigart said he hasn't requested any legal opinions on the bill primarily because he doesn't feel there are any legal questions. "This is voluntary and that's the key," he said.

However, some senators feel there's no way the auditor's office can do the kind of job intended. As a result, Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha has introduced LB 799. The bill would shift the performance audit responsibility from the auditor's office over to the legislative staff.

Your administration has generally proceeded in a well planned, progressive manner without showing the organization in a letter. "We are requesting the removal of Secretary Kreuscher to prevent a little Watergate from developing in your administration."

OBSERVATIONS

Lb 323 has advantages

Nebraska's new election law, LB 323, passed during the last legislative session, will be tried for the first time this year. City council members will run in the May primary (if three or more candidates file for the same office) and the two candidates gaining the most votes will advance to November's general election.

council member would assume office in June, after most of the budgetary process for the next fiscal year was complete, but still have to vote on approval of the budget, and therefore be held accountable.

Bill would provide checkoff guide

Farm commodity checkoff programs to finance research and development and promotion programs in the interest of specific farm commodities have become a hot item in recent years in farm circles. They are not something that is brand new. The Potato Development Act for example was passed by the 1945 Legislature at a time when potatoes were much more of a major crop in the state than they are now.

marketed, which would mean the large producers would control the program. The checkoff programs in Nebraska have each been authorized by separate pieces of legislation and have followed a pattern in that appointments to the commodity program's governing board have been appointed by the governor.

Agriculture. He in turn would appoint a temporary committee of seven members who would formulate a program, hold public hearings on it in various sections of the state, and then hold a referendum election by the producers through the County Extension Service offices.

Parental government not wanted

Have our political leaders become parent substitutes for us? That question grows important with opinion polls showing people are disillusioned and bitter because "most politicians don't really care about me." Is that what we want in our representatives: Benevolent, god-like father (or mother) figures in Washington to run our lives and protect us from all harm? If so, we're big-time.

housing, medical care, income, employment. And not just "employment," but "meaningful employment at a "decent" wage." What's wrong with providing necessities to those in need? Nothing. A compassionate society ought to make an effort to alleviate suffering.

cause it is thought that his own industry and that of his father's has acquired too much, in order to spare to others, who, whose fathers have not exercised equal industry and skill, is to violate arbitrarily the first principle of association—the guarantee to every one of a free exercise of his industry, and the fruits acquired by it.

High Blood Pressure Affects About 23 Million

About 23 million Americans have high blood pressure — and half of them don't know they have it.

That was the message, in part, of a film presented Monday during the weekly Kiwanis Club meeting.

Titled "Silent Countdown," the 20-minute film centered on the growing problem of high blood pressure, its causes and possible ways to control it.

The figure, 23 million, represents about 15 per cent of the adult population in the United States, according to a pamphlet published by Citizens for the Treatment of High Blood Pressure, Inc.

The cause of high blood pressure, it went on, is mainly attributed to hypertension. "People often think it involves anxiety or emotional tension and that it afflicts only certain types of people, such as big-city business executives," the pamphlet pointed out. Hypertension is common in housewives, laborers, executives and clerks, and is prevalent in suburban and rural areas as well as in cities.

Although there isn't any cure, the best way to help prevent high blood pressure is to have an annual physical examination.

In line with that thought, club president Dan Sherry and members of the Wayne chapter are planning a blood pressure clinic sometime in the near future. The clinic, which will be free of charge, will offer city and area residents a chance to check their blood pressure. Sherry noted.

Also during Monday's meeting, president of the Circle K campus chapter at Wayne State, Mike Coughlin, told Monday's gathering that his club recently completed a blood pressure clinic on campus.

With the help of campus nurse Mrs. Harlan Pankratz, the club was able to check 386 students on campus. Of that total, 12 persons were found to have high blood pressure.

The blood pressure clinic is just part of the Circle K's programs this school term. Members also have been involved in helping the Wayne Community Chest fund drive, putting up welcome flags along Main Street, raking lawns for Wayne senior citizens and painting fire hydrants in Wayne red, white and blue as a part of the city's involvement in the bicentennial program.

In the future, the Circle K club hopes to hold a kidney donation drive and a car smash on campus, Coughlin said.

Tax Deadline Is March 1 for Some Farmers

Farmers may have to file their Federal income tax return and pay that tax by March 1.

Everett Loury, IRS Director for Nebraska, said today that farmers who did not file a declaration of estimated Federal individual income tax by Jan. 15 should file their 1975 tax return and pay all tax due by March 1 to avoid a penalty.

Farmers are defined as those persons who earned at least two-thirds of their 1976 gross income from farming.

IRS Publications 225, "Farmers Tax Guide," and 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," provide additional information and are available free at IRS offices.

Deadline to Enter Contest Is March 20

Girls interested in competing for queen of the Bicentennial celebration in Allen have until Saturday, March 20, to enter.

Applicants must be between the ages of 16 by April 1, and 21, and be a resident of the Allen school district or a graduate of Allen High School.

Each girl must have a sponsor, which will pay the $5 entry fee. Applications are available at Security State Bank in Allen. They must be turned in to Sandy Chase at Allen High or Mary Johnson, pageant chairman.

During last week's Bicentennial meeting in Allen, members also outlined plans for a beauty pageant, which will be held in April. Judging will be on April 2 by a panel of five. The winner will be revealed the night of April 4.

Prior to the beauty pageant, Allen will hold a stagette supper and card party at the firehall on March 20.

Shaving permits still are available at Security Bank or Irdm Jack Mitchell for those men who aren't going to grow beards for the Bicentennial. Also, permits are available for women in Allen who aren't going to wear long dresses on Saturday.

Next committee meeting will be on Tuesday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the firehall.

Leap Year Was Julius Caesar Invention

This year many people will donate one day's work to their employers without pay. They do this, not out of company loyalty, but because annual salaries are based on 365 days and this year has 366 days.

At the same time, everybody renting a house or an apartment, making installment payments or holding a car, boat, store, office or equipment debts, that extra day's use at no charge.

Leap year helps the economy by adding another day's production to the annual gross national product. This is true even though Feb. 29, 1976 is a Sunday.

The long year helps everyone stay a little younger, since it postpones that next birthday an extra 24 hours. Those born on Feb. 29 could carry this to an extreme.

With birthdays that only come around every leap year, such individuals technically can be "youngsters" for life.

Italian opera composer Gioacchino Rossini, born Feb. 29, 1792, celebrated his "18th birthday" 72 years later with a festival at which he vowed to put aside "the frivolities of youth and the indiscretions of a teenager."

The composer actually was rushing the event. He had assumed 1800 was a leap year. It wasn't, so in 1864 Rossini could have said he was only 74 B.C. by Julius Caesar, leap year fell every fourth year and his advisors followed the lead of earlier Egyptian astronomers who had calculated that the earth revolves around the sun every 365 1/4 days.

Rome has been following a calendar that first had 10 months and later 12, with a 13th month of varying lengths added every other year.

Creditors would influence priests to decree the extra month a bribe to speed debt collecting, or office holders would have it lengthened to extend their tenure.

The Julian calendar was a reform move. It provided uniformly, and the troublesome six hours left over were converted into one extra day every fourth year.

But if the old Roman year had been too short, now it was a little too long, and the seasons began to slip out of line in subsequent centuries.

Pope Gregory turned back the calendar 10 days in 1582 and modified the leap year provision.

Under the Gregorian calendar, even-numbered years only become leap years if they can be divided by four.

This meant that 1600 was a leap year, but not 1700, 1800 or 1900. The year 2000 will be a leap year.

One feature disappearing from 1976 and subsequent leap years is the tradition that women may propose to men. Women's liberation has eliminated the three-year wait.

First Lady's Role Has Changed

For the first several decades of its existence, the United States didn't have a "First Lady."

Before the 1880's a President's wife was just that — his wife. She might aid her husband in entertaining guests, but she was not expected to play a role in public affairs.

The present First Lady notes that the title began appearing in print late in the 19th century. In the forward to a new book, "The First Ladies," Mrs. Gerald Ford observes:

"The Living White House," and "The President's of the United States of America" — also produced for the Association by the National Geographic Society — proceeds from sales of "The First Ladies" will be used to help buy historical items for the White House.

In her forward, Betty Ford relates how in later life Sarah Polk explained her refusal to join President Polk on an official journey because "it was not thought suitable" for ladies to meet officials and working men at public ceremonies.

"This bit of history reflects something I take a particular interest in, the changing status of women in American life," comments Mrs. Ford.

"The First Ladies" was written by historian Margaret Brown Klaphar, who has directed the First Ladies exhibits at the Smithsonian Institution since 1945.

Not all of the hostesses in the house at 1600 Pennsylvania

Avenue in Washington have been Presidents' wives, the author points out. President Cleveland's sister Rose, for example, officiated at White House gatherings for 15 months before the President married Frances Folsom.

President Taylor's ailing wife, Margaret, relied on her married daughter Betty Bliss. Poor health similarly forced Abigail Fillmore to delegate the duties of entertaining guests to her daughter, Mary Abigail.

And her during the term of bachelor President Buchanan, his niece Harriet Lane presided over White House receptions and state dinners.

The nation's first "First Lady," Martha Washington, never lived in the White House. George Washington had completed both of his terms in office before the new Executive Mansion was opened for occupancy in 1800.

Hotline Provides Information on State Legislation

In order to make information on legislative bills and the legislative process more easily available to the public, a toll-free service will provide information on committee hearings, introducers of legislation, status of bills titles of bills, and related questions concerning the current session of the Legislature.

The purpose of the hot line is to give factual information on legislation to the public. It is not a system to contact legislators or to convey to legislators the reaction of the public toward a bill. Public points of view should properly be discussed with the senators or voiced through participation at hearings on legislative bills.

This service became operative Jan. 7. Calls will be taken from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday. The number is 800-742-7456 except in the Lincoln area.
