Incident no prank

An incident reported Wednesday on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus appears to us as a sad commentary on contemporary American politics.

Newspaper "rievies" reportedly stole most of the 13,000 copies of the campus newspaper, The Daily Nebraskan, scheduled for delivery on the same day as the campus elections.

Of course, no link between the theft and the election has been established but the paper included an editorial turning thumbs-down on the so-called Greek state, supported by some sororities and fraternities on the campus. A connection between the theft and the election seems highly likely.

We'll grant that the theft was probably the work of only a few individuals and it might be easy for some people to dismiss the incident as a campus prank. But we can't help but wonder what the future portends when politically active students resort to that sort of tactic. The really sad part is knowing that the real work of American politics, not the classroom, is where they learned about "dirty tricks."

Patient reflections

Dear Editor:

During my short stay in the Providence Hospital of Wayne, I thought,

All the people of Wayne should bow their head in prayer and thank God for our wonderful and efficient hospital, run by the Benedictine Sisters and their well-trained staff.

One is ill and apprehensive when there, but the excellent nursing and medical care was such a comfort to me.

Wayne, Nebraska, you are a very lucky city and should never forget. — Always - Helen M. (Mrs. John H.) Vieltre.

Farm Exports Help Balance Trade

The importance of agricultural export markets to Nebraska farmers and ranchers is well illustrated by the fact that $909 million worth of the state's more than $4 billion worth of agricultural production in fiscal year 1975 went to export customers.

That means more than 21 per cent of Nebraska farm production was dependent on the health of the U.S. agricultural export market in that year. It means too that any curtailment of that market by government-imposed shipping boycotts on the part of labor, or international agreement restrictions has a direct effect upon the state's economy.

In total exports of land and tallow valued at $484.4 million, Nebraska took the No. 3 position with $34.9 million, exceeded only by Texas and Iowa.

THE SENATORS HITCHCOCK Nebraska has sent 16 senators named Hitchcock to Washington. Phineas and Gilbert, father and son, the first a Republican, the second a Democrat.

Phineas W. Hitchcock, the father, served in the Senate from 1871 to 1877. Like so many young leaders in the East in the mid 19th century, he migrated west to grow up with the country. A New Yorker, he was graduated from Williams College in 1855 just two years before he came to Omaha. He soon became one of the owners of the Omaha Republican. In 1856 he married Ann Menell, daughter of Dr. Gilbert Menell, another New Yorker who had settled in Nebraska.

Phineas Hitchcock defeated Dr. George L. Miller of the Omaha Herald in 1864 to become Nebraska's territorial delegate to Congress. He previously had been surveyor-general of the territory and a delegate to the Republican Convention which nominated Lincoln for the presidency in 1860. A split in the Republican legislature in 1870 allowed Hitchcock to combine his GOP support with Democratic backing for his Senate seat. Bitter Republicans who controlled the legislature in 1876 denied him another term.

Senator Hitchcock is best known for his support of the Timber Culture Act, which granted land to settlers who planted trees.

Export figures recently published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that during fiscal year 1975, agricultural exports from the U.S. were valued at $21.4 billion. Of the top 10 states in value of contributions to that export figure, Nebraska was ranked seventh with its nearly $1 billion total.

Illinois and Iowa were ranked No. 1 and No. 2 with about $1.7 billion each. Kansas and Texas followed with about $1.3 billion each. California with $1.1 billion; Minnesota, $938.5 million; and then Nebraska with its $909 million.

Roundup of the top 10 in order were: Arkansas, North Carolina and Ohio.

These are exports in which Nebraska ranked in the top 10. There are others of importance. In fiscal 1975, the figures show the state exported $96.4 million worth of soybeans; and under miscellaneous exports, showed a figure of $28.6 million.

The USDA statisticians note that the states' export shares are based upon each state's portion of U.S. production or farm sales of individual commodities and no attempt is made to trace actual commodity shipments or to determine whether a state's output is destined primarily for the domestic or export market.

On the other side of the picture, U.S. imports of agricultural products from 50 major countries in fiscal 1975 totaled $9.6 billion which means that in agricultural commodities, the U.S. had a favorable balance of $12 billion. That $12 billion enabled the United States to maintain an overall balance of trade in fiscal 1975 that was in the black instead of the red, a major factor in maintaining the stability of the U.S. dollar in international trade and money markets. — M. M. Vankirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Wheat and wheat product exports totaled $2 billion in fiscal 1975 when almost three-fifths of the record 1975 wheat crop was exported. Kansas was the leader with a $921.7 million share followed by North Dakota, Oklahoma, Washington, Montana, and then Nebraska in sixth place with $285 million in wheat exports.

Safety Series Completed

Fire safety in and around the home and farm was the topic for the final session in a series of safety meetings held recently in Allen and Laurel. Rottie Schneider, extension safety specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, conducted the session.

Schneider demonstrated how explosions result when the proper mixture of fuel, air and heat exists. He stressed the danger of using flammable substances in the home and urged consumers to read labels carefully and heed precautions, especially when the word "flammable" appears.

The flammability of organic dusts such as flour and cornmeal was demonstrated, and Schneider showed how a common household item as steel wool can be ignited by a spark or flame.

A new educational film, titled "Lawnmower Safety," was shown. The film is available for group showings and can be requested from Schneider through local County Extension Offices.

RETURNING veteran grapplers didn't fare so well during the annual alumni-varsity wrestling dual Wednesday night at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium. In fact, the varsity almost coasted to the lopsided 31-11 win as coach Marion Haayer's crew put the final touches on a very successful season. However, not all the varsity grapplers were winners. On the left, starter Craig Hellweger found himself a neck of trouble when he ran into 1975 grad Jim Meyer of Wayne, who stopped Hellweger, 12-2. On the brighter side, freshman starter Dwight Lienemann of Winslow, above, went two periods before he pinned his opponent, Bill Hughes.

Varsity Matmen Top WS Alumni

Wayne State varsity wrestlers wrote a postscript to their official season Wednesday night when they defeated what was supposed to be an alumni team. The 31-11 outcome did look better to the varsity than last year's 18-9 defeat it took from a team composed mostly of alumni. This time, however, only two real grads of Wayne State were able to appear, so the "alumni" team was composed mostly of present students, some of them second-team wrestlers and some of them athletes in other sports. Unfortunately for the alumni, one of the missing grads was See VARSITY, page 5

Wildcat '9' Makes Home Debut Tuesday

Wayne State baseball Wildcats, returning from a six-game swing against Big Eight teams, will make their home debut Tuesday afternoon against Yankton College, the first of two games at 1 p.m.

Coach Larry Schultz found reasons for optimism despite a pair of losses Friday to Oklahoma State, dropping the Wildcats to 0-4. The Cowboys came from behind to win the first, 2-1 then won a 4-0 shutout.

Schultz noted better hitting, sharper fielding, with no errors Friday. Though out hit 7-5, in the nightcap, Wayne batters got better blows than the Cowboys, Schultz said — "but we just hit them at somebody". In the first game, Wayne shortstop Don Hasenkamp, Scrinber, rapped a triple in the first inning and scored on Jerry Frerichs' single. Bill Schulz (junior from Bellevue, pitched all the way, the first to go the route. Jim Kopecky, Omaha junior, duplicated that feat in the nightcap.

Kansas State swept four games to blot the Wayne season opener, a contrast to their first meeting last year when Wayne won a pair.

K State won Wednesday's opener, 1-5, battling through Wayne pitchers for 14 hits, with Bob DeVaul of Pochontas, Ia., the starter and loser. In the second game, Kansas State tripped Wayne 7-3. Darrell Wininger of Wayne taking the loss. Wayne bats connected for seven and four hits respectively.

The rematch Thursday produced an 11-0 win for Kansas State as Tim Power hurled a no-hitter with 19 strikeouts. It was one of the few no-hitters in Wayne history. Rod Hagge, See WILDCAT, page 5

Erwin, Pippitt Named NENAC All-Conference

Two members of Laurel High's basketball team last week were named to the Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference all-loop team for the 1975-76 season. They are seniors Jon Erwin and Greg Pippitt, who were named earlier this month to The Wayne Herald's All-Area cage squad.

Schroeder Lands Spot On NCC All-Star Team

A Laurel High graduate is one of three Nebraskans named to the 10 member all-North Conference basketball team. He is George Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Schroeder, who was the league's sixth highest scorer at 17.3 points a game and also ranked among the leaders in rebounding and assists.

The six-foot-five forward for South Dakota State University was named to the all-star team for the third time. He averaged 17.3 points a game and was third in rebounding with a 10.3 average. "George will be hard to replace; he provided so much leadership and was so instrumental in our success," commented South Dakota State University basketball coach Gene Zulk.

Schroeder capped an outstanding Jackrabbit career with 1,066 points, good enough to rank 10th on the all-time scoring list at SDSU, just behind Zulk.

Another Calf Ready for the Fair

GOOD WEATHER Friday might have been the reason there was a good turnout of Wayne County 4-H'ers weighing in their calves for the calf contest to be held during the county fair in late July. County agent Don Spitze, left, and his helper Les Thomson of Wayne, tagged 154 calves after the weighings at Wayne Livestock Auctions Inc. Last year there were 119 calves weighed and tagged.

former national champion Ken Monroe. Probably, the varsity was just as happy Monroe could not make the scene, although he would have gone against either Dwight Llenemann at 177 or Mike Riedmann at 190 — the team's top two performers this year. Either way it would have been a dandy scrap.

As it turned out, the alumni team won two matches. Jim Meyer, who finished fourth in the nationals a year ago, decided Craig Helwegger, 122, at 134 pounds. Bob Kersten decided Mark Ellis, 8.4, at 118.

Kersten is a brother of Larry Meyer, former WSC wrestler. Kersten and Meyer both are teaching elementary school and coaching junior high wrestling at Onawa, Ia.

Two other matches ended in draw. Paul Sok of the varsity and Steve Ellis, a former WS wrestler, 4.4, at 126 pounds; Kirk Hansen of the varsity and Herb Harris, another former Wildcat grappler, 3.3, at 150.

In other matches, varsity performers won. Kevin Guelletier pinning Bob Lance in 3:32, at 142; Morrie Mildrum, 167, pinning Gary Kraibcek in 3:20; Llenemann, 177, pinning Bill Hughes in 3:55; Riedmann, 190, pinning Mark Kruger in 1:03; Jerry Aundil, heavyweight, defeating graduate Fred Spale, 6-2 — Spale a 190-pounder last year, now coaching at Logan, Ia.

The NRD Board That Is Sincerely Concerned About Proper Resources Development!

WEATHER MAY HURRY MASKENTHINE CONSTRUCTION

The early spring weather may prompt an early start on construction and tree planting at the Maskenthine Flood Control and Recreation Site near Stanton claims Lower Elkhorn NRD Ass't. Manager Glenn Spreeman.

The District's summer fallowed land for an eight-row windbreak nearly a mile in length. Over 7,500 trees and shrubs have been purchased to protect the west side of the 400-acre recreation area. Scotch Pine, Red Cedar, and a variety of broadleaf trees highlight the larger stock with six species of shrubs planned for wildlife protection. Over four hundred trees are planned for the arboretum on the east slope of the 94-acre lake.

Also planned for the development for construction this summer are five small grade stabilization dams on the site. Two of the structures are scheduled to be used for fish stilling ponds which will grow fingerlings for one to two years to stock the Maskenthine Lake for fishery.

Clearing of the area has been completed. Many of the trees have been located in the pool area to provide fishery habitat in the future.

Thiesen Brothers, Inc. of Norfolk will continue construction on the main structure approximately in mid-April with completion scheduled for mid-July.

LOWER ELKHORN NRD GROUNDWATER MONITORING PROGRAM GETTING UNDERWAY!!!

Open weather in late February and early March enabled NRD Staff to begin locating and reading selected irrigation wells offered by interested farmers.

Through cooperation with local Soil Conservation Service offices, the NRD staff has been selecting a cross-section of wells to give a good handle of groundwater recharge in various areas.

Steve Oltmans, NRD General Manager reports that in some cases more wells were volunteered than could be measured.

Record will be kept of all wells volunteered if the Program is expanded in the future. All landowners will be contacted personally before initial readings are taken.

Your Natural Resources District would like to extend a warm thank you to all who have agreed to have their well read whether your well was picked or not.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR TREES!!!

Many cooperators have purchased Clark McNary stock for farmstead and erosion control windbreaks.

With some basic care, the trees will last several weeks if in cold storage of some type.

The Cooperative Extension Service recommends that you unwrap the trees as soon as they are received. Redampen the packing material if needed. Store in a cool place such as a basement or cave. Many also use ice cubes to provide moisture and help keep the trees cool.

An Interview With Two Area Minimum Tillage Farmers . . .

Time and money are the reasons two Wayne County farmers give for their use of minimum tillage.

Harold Wittler, who will be putting in his 11th crop using minimum tillage, this spring, said he decided to try it because he needed more time for his farming operation.

By using minimum tillage methods he has eliminated discing, plowing and harrowing, saving not only time but the fuel which would be consumed using conventional tillage methods.

Glenn Olson will begin his fourth season using zero tillage. Olson is a director of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, and previously served on the county Soil Conservation Service board for 12 years. The conservation aspect of minimum tillage attracted him to try the method.

"The basic concept of reduced or minimum tillage is to leave mulch on the surface," he explained. "The mulch helps prevent erosion and holds moisture."

Yields have remained about the same for the two farmers as when they used conventional methods. Both men agree that the reduction in land erosion because of zero tillage is noticeable.

"My terraces are all as good as new," Wittler said. "I don't have any siltin problem."

Olson pointed out that minimum tillage is a factor when considering non-point pollution and sediment load on waterways.

The switch to reduced tillage requires some changes in management practices. Olson said, but he thinks the success of farmers who have made the transition provides testimony to the effectiveness of the system.

"I can't think of anyone who has started reduced tillage and then went back to conventional methods," he said.

NEW REDUCED TILLAGE EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE

The burgeoning interest in reducing tillage operations has called for different types of machinery to adapt to "Reduced Tillage" farming.

The flouted coultter and till-planter and cultivator are some examples of modifications which enable farmers to perform what tillage is necessary and still leave the protective mulch on or near the soil surface.

While many operators are adapting discs or chisel plows in their present machinery inventory, there are several machines designed specifically for "Reduced Tillage" farming which shows promise.

One is the PTO powered disc which reduces the drawbar draft by approximately half. In this way, more efficient use can be made of horsepower with less soil compaction.

Better soil mixing is also claimed. Also, a chisel plow modification being marketed is the addition of bar-type cutters either on the front or rear or both.

These cutters are claimed to eliminate the need for a separate stalk-shredding trip with the back gangs leveling and firming the seedbed.

The unit, is designed to operate with none, either one or both set of paddle cutters installed depending on the desired result.

Whether you plan to change your present machinery line-up, "Reduced Tillage" with good management in a complete system, can save you time, money and soil and leave you with more in the profit side of your ledger.

Tomorrow seems to be a day which never comes. With all of the "todays" we have at our disposal, it is difficult to imagine tomorrow will ever come.

Be it does. It always does.

And it's our decision as to what we will find when tomorrow finally arrives. Life insurance companies will tell you that 1 per cent of the people reaching 65 will be well-to-do. 4 per cent will be able to adequately take care of themselves. This means a total of 5 per cent will be able to take care of themselves in retirement, while 95 per cent will not.

Do you want to be in the top 5 per cent of the people reaching 65? If you do, isn't it time you took time to sit with us and talk about your plans.

As the people place, our job is to make sure your tomorrow is the tomorrow you want for your family and yourself.

Tomorrow always has a way of creeping up and becoming today.
