Wakefield Board, Teachers Agree on Pay for Next Term

Teacher's in the Wakefield public school system next term will be receiving a base salary of $7,950, it was agreed during the school board's meeting this month. The new figure, which is $450 higher than last year's base pay, and an increase from $25 to $37.50 in individual teacher insurance policies, were the two areas agreed upon by the school board and the Wakefield Education Association, said WEA representative Dennis Crippen. Both parties agreed to keep the same pay scale as last year for years of experience and number of hours beyond a bachelor's degree. Teachers receive four per cent of their base for each year of experience and another four per cent of their base pay for increments of hours towards a master's degree. Extra curricular pay for athletic director Lyle Trullinger was increased from four to 5.5 per cent of his base. In addition, increases from two to three per cent of the base pay were given to teachers who sponsor class plays. Teachers who sponsor the Future Business Leaders of America club at Wakefield will receive a one per cent increase and Pep Club sponsors' pay will go up from 6.5 to 7.25 per cent of the base, Crippen said. Contracts for the 1976-77 school year are expected to be handed out sometime this week. Teachers have two weeks to sign and return them. Both principals Terwin Hartman and B. C. Thompson have signed contracts for the new school year. Their salaries were not disclosed. It wasn't known if superintendent Merl Bellar would return next school year.

County Committees OK School Merger

The school reorganization committees of Cedar and Wayne Counties met Monday to consider the proposed merger of school District 61 with District 15 in Wayne County and Laurel District 64R in Cedar County. The state school reorganization board had recommended that the entire district merge with a kindergarten-12th grade school system such as Laurel. Based on petitions signed by property owners, however, the local committees, which have final say in the matter, elected to allow roughly 20 per cent of the property in the northeast corner of the district to join with Laurel, while the remainder of the district will become part of the Wayne County rural District 15. District 61's three students have been attending at Laurel this year, although the district remains organized as a political subdivision until the merger is completed. Wayne County superintendent Fred Rickers said only one hurdle to the merger remains. He and the Cedar County superintendent must meet and jointly review landowners' signatures on petitions calling for the merger. Rickers said no date for the review has been set.

4-H'ers Demonstrate Pioneer Ways

Rope making, spinning and butter churning were some of the old-time skills demonstrated Sunday at the Spring Branch 4-H club Bicentennial display in Hoskins. About 200 people visited the display of antiques in the Hoskins Brotherhood Building. Members of the Spring Branch club took turns at butter churning chores under the supervision of Mrs. Art Behmer and Mrs. Hilda Thomas. They worked the butter in a wooden butter bowl carved by the grandfather of Ezra Jochens of Hoskins, then put the butter in one-pound print molds, once used by Mrs. Minnie Maas who recently celebrated her 90th birthday. Fred Bergastadt of Hoskins demonstrated how to make rope from baling twine, fashioning halter ropes and other items which were important in the days when horses still provided most of the horsepower on farms. Farmers later learned that gasoline could help make chores lighter and some of the first gasoline engines used chugged away through the afternoon. Early settlers wore "homespun" and spinning was a vital home industry. Becky Kohz of York demonstrated how to card wool and then spin it into yarn. She learned to spin from Mrs. Lois Nelson who at one time gave spinning demonstrations at Minden's Pioneer Village. Miss Kohz said she purchased her own spinning wheel from a Lincoln craftsman. The Spring Branch 4-H'ers and leaders assisted Mrs. H.C. Falk in quilt making, and two Spring Branchers, Karen Whittier and Dianne Puls showed the audience how to use an antique apple parer.

A number of other items were on display throughout the afternoon. A cradle, made by the late C.J. Fuhrman, grandfather of Marvin Fuhrman was of particular interest, as was a bed made by Carl Maas, grand father of Ann Schneck. A hand-cranked record player, husking pegs and a sausage stuffer were among the many items exhibited. Pictures from the early days of Wayne County and Hoskins attracted considerable attention and county atlases from 1898 and 1907 were supplied by William Burris.

'Bureau Bigger, Growing'

Membership in the Nebraska Farm Bureau is increasing annually but there is still plenty of room for growth, the organization's state field representative said in Wayne Saturday night.

GOP Town Hall Topic Will Be State Platform

Wayne will be the site of one of five Town Hall meetings scheduled for April 5 by the state Republican party. A total of 19 such meetings are scheduled throughout the state during the week of April 5-9. Nebraska Republican platform chairman Ed Narles of Sidney said the meetings will attract party members and other citizens interested in helping determine the official state GOP platform.

Wayne County chairman Jane March will be featured at the local meeting along with state central committee members, state senators and party officials. Monroe Usher will be moderator for the Wayne meeting. Property listers will begin tabulating property in rural Wayne County again this week, county assessor Doris Sipp said Tuesday. The listers will begin covering the county in general, updating already compiled lists, before resuming listing in Brenna precinct. Mrs. Sipp said property in five precincts is yet to be listed. Rural listers are Scott Nelson and John A. Kay. Mrs. Sipp said listing of property must be completed before the beginning of 1977. Valuation of the property will be completed by Jan. 1, 1978. Property taxes will then be based on the new values.

Frank Chambers, a 30-year Farm Bureau employee, was the guest speaker at the Wayne County Farm Bureau spring banquet Saturday night. In his address, Chambers outlined the growth of the Farm Bureau, at both the state and national levels, and what it means to farmers. Nebraska now has 19,000 Farm Bureau memberships, and national membership is 2.5 million. Chambers said. With each membership representing one farm family, the bureau represents over 10 million persons in the United States, and is the largest single agricultural organization.

That is helping to give the farmer some political clout. Chambers said but he pointed out that the organization still doesn't represent a majority of American farmers. He encouraged the assembled Wayne County members to continue efforts to recruit new members. Milton Owens was toastmaster for the Saturday night smorgasbord at the Wayne State College Student Union, attended by about 300 persons. Wayne County Farm Bureau president Neil Sandahl welcomed the audience.

Merle Ring said the invocation and later was pianist. After dinner entertainment was provided by Carla Miller of Winside High, who presented her baton twirling act. Anita Sandahl and LaVerle Marotz presented a humorous skit "That's the Way it Was", depicting George and Martha Washington preparing for a party. Scott Krusemark followed with "That's the Way it Is", showing a "typical" day in the See BUREAU, page 10

Property Listers Starting Again

The listers will begin covering the county in general, updating already compiled lists, before resuming listing in Brenna precinct. Mrs. Sipp said property in five precincts is yet to be listed. Jury Awards Owners $16,535

The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) came out second best in a civil action decided Friday in Wayne County district court. During the condemnation proceedings the land was appraised at $3,000. NPPD appealed, claiming the cost was excessive. See JURY, page 10

Another Wayne youth has won first place in a weekly national writing contest. He is Brad Telgren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Telgren, who finished first in the Know Your World contest sponsored by Xerox Education Publications. Brad, who is an eighth grade student in the special education class at Wayne Middle School, wrote an entry titled "A Bicentennial Story: Battle at Bonny Heights," which appeared in a December issue. Brad's finished article will appear in the April 22nd issue. The story is about two brothers and a sister who are divided when the war starts between the Americans and British. Marlin Thorpe decides to leave his home and join General George Washington while his brother, John, and sister, Sarah, stay behind. Later, both brothers meet face to face, each fighting for the other side when Marlin is sent into his home town to help destroy a British gun powder supply. Brad ends the story with Sarah thanking them from Bill

Wayne Bats Rap 7 Homers

Cats Take Two from Yankton

Stoggers had a carnival Tuesday as Wayne State defeated Yankton College twice, with bats rapping seven home runs and batch of extra-base hits.

Wayne, making it its home debut after a six-loss southern trip, downed the Greyhounds 15-5 and 4-2, in their season opener.

Wildcat shortstop Don Hasenkamp, Scribner, powered Wayne into a 14-hit spree with his first-inning solo homer. Designated hitter Jerry Frerichs added a two-run round-tripper in the sixth, and he also got a triple.

Between those two home runs, Yankton's Landon Johnson loured the bases twice with a solo homer in the second and a two-run job in the fourth.

Bill Schultz, Bellevue, opened for Wayne and, with a 7-3 lead, yielded to Bob DeVaul, Fochontas, Ia., who struck out eight, gave up two runs while Wayne added eight more runs. The game, billed for nine innings, ended in eight on the 10-run rule.

In the nightcap, leftfielder Terry Thorne, Omaha, treated Wayne, to another first-inning home run. Yankton matched that run in the third inning.

Wayne scored once in the bottom of the third, then Greyhound Bob Mahon hit a solo homer to knot the count again in the fifth.

Third sacker Jim Kopecky, Omaha, who had been thrown out trying to steal second the previous time, avoided that problem in the bottom of the fifth when he slammed a game-winning two-run homer.

Steve Russell, Omaha, pitched the route for Wayne's victory.

Next up on the schedule, Wayne goes to Westport Saturday afternoon for a doubleheader, then to Creighton University for a 2:30 doubleheader Tuesday.

FAR FROM dismayed by an 6-6 record, Wayne State baseball coach Larry Schultz figures his team profited from playing Big Eight opponents.

Schultz survived up Wayne's four games at Kansas State University and two at Oklahoma State this way: "We didn't give those games away. They had to win every one. Kansas State threw its four best pitchers against us, and Oklahoma State used its best two."

It was "good experience" for the Wildcat, Schultz said. "Quality teams like Kansas State and Oklahoma State probably have 10 good pro prospects, said Schultz, who worked several years as a scout for the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I was not discouraged one minute with the way our players performed—except I got a bit low in that game [third against Kansas State] when Ted Power threw a no-hitter with 19 strikeouts. He just burned up our bats," Schultz said.

Two newcomers got praise for second-base duty: sophomore Curt Lewis, Omaha, and Brian Polteberg, Carter Lake, Ia.

Another newcomer, sophomore Lyle Smith of Fort Atkinson, Ia., proved a worthy addition to the catching corps. Schultz said, spelling three-year veteran Nick Danze, Omaha. Smith picked off several runners and led Wayne batting.

In the outfield, speedy little Brent Moeller, Scribner, made some catches that got applause from opposing fans. Schultz noted, and Terry Thorn, senior from Omaha, "showed the hitting I knew he was capable of doing," the coach added.

Schultz mentioned "first class treatment at both Kansas State and Oklahoma State." The crowd at Stillwater really appreciated baseball and cheered for good plays on both teams, the coach said.

POSTSCRIPT: Area players in girls and boys basketball continue to pick up the accolades in their sport. The Sunday

Lincoln Journal-Star newspaper recognized Allen senior Karl Erwin as one of the top five players this season in Class D ball. Last week the Omaha World-Herald gave Karl the same honor.

New to the Class D honor roll list in the Lincoln daily is junior Lori Ervin of Allen. Lori, who is the sister of Karl, also was one of the leading scorers and rebounders on coach Steve McManigal's club.

In boys basketball, Laurel senior Greg Pippitt made the honor rolls in both the Lincoln and Omaha dailies in Class C. In addition to Pippitt being named in the Omaha paper, team mate senior Jon Erwin also garnered honorable mention.

CAN'T for the life of me figure out why coaches in the Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference picked only two members of Laurel's basketball team for this year's All-Conference club.

Last week representatives from the nine conference schools met and selected their first and second teams. However, only Greg Pippitt and Jon Erwin made the first string—no one else from Laurel got a sniff for the second team or honorable mention.

How do the coaches rationalize their actions when they have to consider that Laurel all but walked away with the conference title this year without much competition from the rest of the pack?

If nothing else, I would think that at least two more LH players would have been named to the second team, if not honorable mention. My selections would have been senior Scott Huettig and either Brian Johnson or Brad Erwin. Although Erwin wasn't among the Bears' leading scorer during the season, he was very instrumental during the club's regional battle with Walthill, when he scored 22 points.

BASKETBALL fans who are anxious to get in one more game will have a chance to do so this Friday when a team of coaches and former players from Laurel High take on senior players from Briar Cliff.

The benefit basketball game, which will help raise funds for this year's city recreation program, will be at 8 p.m. in the Laurel gym. Admission price is $1 per person.

Laurel's star slugged lineup includes basketball coach Joe Parks and his assistant Bob Weisenberg, along with guards Steve Erwin, George Schroeder, Tom Erwin, Rod Erwin and Bruce Johnson. Steve played for three years as a Nebraska Cornhusker; George is finishing his fourth season with the South Dakota State Jackrabbits; Tom and Rod were members of the Wayne State cage crew, and Bruce saw action with the Curtis quintet.

And to coach this illustrious lineup is former head coach Larry Moore. Moore, who coaches at Nebraska City, spent seven years as Bear mentor and twice took Laurel to the state tournament.

In case some have forgotten, Briar Cliff should be a salty crew after the club this year went to the regional NIAA tournament in Kansas City.

HIGH SCHOOL and college-age trap shooters interested in competing in the Nationwide Cornhusker Invitational Trapshoot should have their entry forms mailed into Dave Wells of Norfolk by Wednesday, March 31. The shoot will be held for each class (high school and college) on April 10 and 11 at Doniphan. Entry blanks and information are available from Wells at 1210 Nebraska Ave. in Norfolk, or by calling 371-1648.

Last year teams from Wayne and Allen entered the meet. Again this year representatives from Wayne and Allen are expected to enter with the possibility a team from Laurel also might compete.

Goeden Accepts Managerial Post On Town Team

Don Goeden of rural Wayne is the new manager of the local town team baseball club.

Goeden, who pitched for the club in the late 1950's and in the 1960's, takes over for Terry Lutt, who will assist. Goeden accepted the position Monday night during a meeting of the Wayne town team board members.

During each of his 15 years on the mound for Wayne, Goeden helped to guide the town team to either first place in the season standings or the playoff title in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League.

Goeden, 42, intends to stay in the NNBL, but to meet the caliber of competition he expects to "improve the pitching and hitting. We have to have better pitching, catching and all-around hustle. The team has not done enough of that in the past," he added.

The new manager went on to say "I want my players in shape for not only one game, but every game."

Goeden hopes to meet with prospective players sometime next month to outline team plans.

During the meeting, members elected new officers for the 1974-75 term. Named as president was Joan Nuss, who takes over for Ivan Creighton. John Melena was elected vice president to fill the vacant position. Re-elected secretary and treasurer were Sam Schroeder and Bob Bartlett.

Sophomore, Fresh Make Up Most Of Wayne Girls Track

With 37 girls out for track, Wayne High coach Dick Metteer expects to have talent as well as depth when the Blue Devils open their season today (Thursday) in a dual at Pender.

Making up the squad are 20 freshmen, 10 sophomores, six juniors and a senior, from which the coach will have nine returning letter winners. They are juniors Steph Dorcy, Bobette Caffey, and sophomores Chris Brink, Kelly Frevert, Sydney Moseley, Terri Thomas, Bev Munter, Lisa Nuss and Sue Rethwisch.

Leading the pack is Moseley who placed fourth last year in the long jump at the Class B state meet. Moseley, whose 16-8 mark is a school record, should get points for the team again this year, Metteer remarked.

To secure a strong showing in dual and major meets, the coach feels that Wayne also will have to do well in the sprints, high jump and relays—the team's strong points.

Munter is one sprinter Metteer will be counting on to lead the club in the 100 and 200-yard dashes. Munter holds the school marks of 12.5 in the 100 and 24.7 in the 200.

She won't be the only Wayne runner in these events. Expected to give Munter a run for the money are freshmen Sandy Jacobmeier, Laura Lessmann and Tammy Oberg in the 100, and again Jacobmeier and Dorcy in the 200.

Looking at the 440 and 880, the coach noted that Lisa Barclay and Rethwisch are the contenders in the 440, and Frevert, LaVerona Sharpe, Sarandra Luschen and Marvel Carlson will compete in the 880.

"We just don't know yet about who will run on our relay teams," Metteer pointed out Monday.

Right now it appears the 440 relay team could be made up of Jacobmeier, Lessmann, Oberg, Dorcy or Munter. In the 880 relay, the four runners on the top of the list are Munter, Lisa Barclay, Lisa Nuss and Deb Brummond. Mile relay contenders are Maureen Anderson, Virginia Sievers, Chris Brink, Rethwisch, Barclay and Carlson.

In the high jump, Nuss holds the school mark of 4-10. But she won't be alone in that event this year with Robin and Sydney See TRACK, page 5.

TALKING with Kiwanian Walter Muller, Department of Education administrator Joe Mara of Lincoln discusses the role of education in Nebraska.

Are Students Achieving Less Today?

Ten years ago students receiving an education in Nebraska were scoring higher grades on college entrance examinations than students are today.

The reason for the difference, State Department of Education administrator Joe Mara said, can't be fully explained. But the influence of television can be attributed as one of the chief causes, Mara told a group attending the Wayne Kiwanis Club meeting Monday.

Television has made it easier for students to learn more through watching rather than reading and writing. As a result, students are not doing as well in

Scouts Selling Tickets to Expo

Members of Cub Scout packs and Boy Scout troops in Wayne are selling tickets to their Bicentennial Exposition.

Consider Safety

Consumers assume the products they buy are safe. Therefore, they usually do not consider safety when choosing a product or an item of merchandise.

This point was recently illustrated by the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Consumers were given a blank sheet of paper and asked to list factors affecting their choice of products. The top three factors included were price, color, and "what my neighbor thinks." Consumers never mentioned safety.

However, when consumers were given a list of factors to rank in order of importance, safety was usually ranked first or second. When asked to explain this apparent contradiction, consumers said they just assumed products and merchandise were safe.

Such overconfidence about the safety of consumer goods calls for more education and more alertness to possible hazardous merchandise or dangerous misuse of consumer goods.

Consumers are urged to report potentially unsafe or dangerous products to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, 7315 Wisconsin Ave., Bethesda, Md. 20814, or call toll-free 800-438-2466.

Help Welcomed

Social security welcomes help in getting information to people who may be eligible for supplemental security income payments, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. The program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

"We've been making payments since January 1974," Branch said. "Supplemental security income has been publicized in newspapers and on radio and television. There have been special campaigns to reach people who may be eligible but we're still concerned that there might be some people who don't know about the program and could be helped by the payments."

If you know people in need who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled, please tell them about supplemental security income," Branch said. "And please suggest that they call or write my social security office to get more information."

The Norfolk social security office is at 1310 Norfolk Avenue. The phone number is 371-1595. Friends or relatives can call or write for people unable to do so on their own.

The amount of the monthly supplemental security income payments people get depends primarily on other income they might have.

A special guest at the dinner was Bryce Neidig of rural Madison, a member of the state Farm Bureau board of directors.

Mrs. Kenneth Brummond of Rosalia, a member of the state Board of Agriculture, was also added to the agenda.
Mrs. Brummond told the audience of the Farm Bureau's efforts in fighting the proposed retrocession in Thurston County, and parts of Wayne, Dixon and Dakota Counties are on Omaha tribal reservation lands. Retrocession is a proposal that criminal and civil jurisdiction would revert to members of the tribe living on the reservation.

That would mean other people living in the county would have no voice or vote in local government. Mrs. Brummond said a delegation from Thurston County is expected to testify at a recent hearing in Washington, D.C. on retrocession.

That attempt was blocked, she added, but other similar proposals are in the works. She cautioned Wayne County farmers to be wary of attempts to gain control of their land.

Budget now tops the list of Unicameral Concerns

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN—The Unicameral's days are numbered.
For state senators that means the centering is being taken up by the one thing they must, no ands, ifs or buts, accomplish before the final gavel falls. And that's coming up with budget to operate state government next year.

The two main operations bills have been given first round approval by the lawmakers. One is LB 691 and the other is LB 690. LB 690 covers higher education. Although threatened, anti-University of Nebraska forces failed to materialize when LB 690 was up for initial debate. But some senators said they planned to remedy that situation at the second round stage of floor debate. However, there was an interesting development on that front just the weekend before the bill was on the floor.

Normally, the University of Nebraska Board of Regents approves a budget proposal which then is taken up by the legislature. This year, that policy has undergone a change. In the face of the threats to trim the NU budget, the regents voted to endorse the Appropriations Committee's spending recommendation of $75.3 million. The University requested $100 million from the state general fund but the Exon administration recommended $84 million. And, the committee idea is exactly what the University ended up which after all the votes were cast and amendments offered at the end of the first round.

Overall, the operations budget proposal still stood at about $380 million at the end of the first round, up $49 million from appropriations for the current fiscal year. Included in the total is $13 million for technical community colleges. That's just over $400,000 short of the amount requested. Removed from LB 690, however, was language which was intended to paralyze the community colleges to boost tuition rates by 10-per cent and levy the maximum 2.5 mills in property taxes in order to qualify for maximum state aid. Believe Sen. Frank Lewis said the requirements should pose constitutional problems and it was decided to remove them. Lewis argued community colleges, with the passage of a law last year, are local entities and not state institutions. Therefore, he said, the Unicameral can't legally impose such requirements.

Also considered by many as novel was a move by Columbus Sen. Donald Dworak to reduce the University of Nebraska Agriculture Institute's budget by $919,000. He ran into stiff opposition from lawmakers who said anything should remain sacred. It should be agriculture. Dworak argued his constituents said they wanted spending reductions and he said no matter where those reductions look place, some one wasn't going to like it. His effort was rejected 32-5.

Koch Measure Rejected

During debate on LB 691, Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, who planned to try later in the legislative process to boost state aid to local schools by $15 million, decided to test the water on the whole issue of state aid. He offered an amendment to wipe out the state aid program. Some senators voted for it saying they felt it was only right in view of the voter decision two years ago to reject increased state aid. But state aid was kept in the bill with the 25-12 rejection of Koch's amendment.

Also considered by many as novel was a move by Columbus Sen. Donald Dworak to reduce the University of Nebraska Agriculture Institute's budget by $919,000. He ran into stiff opposition from lawmakers who said anything should remain sacred. It should be agriculture. Dworak argued his constituents said they wanted spending reductions and he said no matter where those reductions look place, some one wasn't going to like it. His effort was rejected 32-5.

Approve More Habitat

On the morning the senators were scheduled to cast their final votes on a bill to establish a $4 million statewide wildlife habitat program they had some different looking visitors—a fox, a skunk, a raccoon and a wolf.

They were representatives of various wildlife organizations wearing costumes. Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan introduced each individually and then shooed them from the floor. During final voting only senators can be on the floor. In a few short minutes, the final decision was in and so the new program designed to help the rest life versions of those Unicameral visitors.

LB 661, sponsored by Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus, would pay for the habitat program through increases in fishing and hunting license fees and also through the sale of a $7.50 habitat stamp which would replace the $1.00 upland game bird stamp. The increases and habitat stamp sales would bring in about $2.7 million, which would be used to match federal funds.

The legislation would allow the State Game and Parks Commission to buy land as well as establish set-aside programs for landowners through natural resource districts. There were some questions raised only in the session about the bill. Dworak said it was necessary because in recent years some 600,000 acres of wildlife habitat have been lost. Opponents countered the legislation could never replace that land. Dworak said it was at least a start and the lawmakers voted for that idea 39-6.

Non-Candidates on Ballot

Nebraska's All Star Presidential Primary, scheduled for May 11, is designed to give voters a chance to pick their favorite from among all the candidates for the nation's highest office when they cast their preference vote. Intent behind the laws creating the primary was assurance only valid candidates were on the ballot.

In 1971, Secretary of State Allen Beermann decided Democratic U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy would not be on the Nebraska primary ballot even though his name was on the Oregon primary ballot. Beermann said four years ago it wasn't fair to include Kennedy because he had no choice in Oregon.

The tune has changed. This year, Beermann decided to place the Kennedy name on the ballot and that of Democratic U.S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey. His reason in both cases was identical. Both have declined the role as candidate but because they are both on the Oregon ballot they will also be on the Nebraska ballot. As non-candidates, both men filed the necessary papers to get off the Nebraska ballot. They didn't have that option in Oregon.

More Free Calls Suggested

Nebraska Public Service Commissioner Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont has come up with a new idea in telephone service. He has suggested that every person should be able to call at least 150 other parties without paying long distance rates.

Should the commission accept his idea as a regulation, some 19 small towns would stand to gain with increased local service. They are Cody, Douglas, Burr, Hunley, Kilgore, Merriman, Wood Lake, Virginia, Goehner, Bartlett, Marlinsburg, Oberlin, Lebanon, Upland, Belden, Johnson, Hubbell, Reynolds and Riverport.

OBSERVATIONS

Today's youth impressive

Concern over the conduct of young people has long been standard fare for those pessimists who like to predict dark futures for whatever society they belong to. A recent article about today's young people would have much of that concern dispelled had they attended a couple of activities in Wayne County over the past weekend.

In one activity, youngsters took a look at the past. In the other, they were looking toward the future. Both represented achievements for the high-school-and-under-age youngsters involved.

Saturday, the Northeast Nebraska Junior Academy of Science conducted its annual science contest. We were unable to attend the entire event but were there for the presentations of the winning papers.

To say the least, it was an impressive experience. The level of sophistication involved in the experiments upon which the paper were based was astounding. As one observer quietly remarked "It's almost humbling."

A club sponsored a Bicentennial display of antique artifacts, and demonstrations of once-important skills long since replaced by automation.

A guest of the club operated her own spinning wheel throughout the afternoon, observers watched as halter ropes were plaited from baling twine, and the club members added stitches to a quilt they are making, churned butter, and used an old-fashioned apple peeler.

Uncomplicated skills, perhaps, but ones which most of us have never seen. The Sunday show was one of the most instructive Bicentennial events we've attended and the hard work and organizational skills demonstrated by the Spring Branchers in preparing for the event is appreciated.—Jim Strayer

'Bread Machine' called mythology antidote

I'd like to share with you a delightful little paperback book I've happened upon. It's called "The Incredible Bread Machine," and it's an excellent antidote to the steady diet of socialist mythology we are fed day-in and day-out.

Why read it? For a fresh viewpoint. Freedom is the truly radical idea today, as you quickly can realize through being startled and jarred out of your conventional train of thought from one page to another. Entertained, too—it definitely isn't a stuffy tone, on economics. Of its six authors—three men and three women—the eldest was 26 when it was written.

Demolished myths? Here are a few examples:

—The sins of the "Robber Barons" in the 19th century were not the product of "unbridled" capitalism, but rather of government intervention on behalf of some corrupt businessmen. The Great Depression, too, resulted from misguided government interference with the economy.

"Reformers" like to pretend that socialism is a natural stage of evolution beyond capitalism, just as capitalism evolved from feudalism. But feudalism followed the socialism of the late Roman Empire!

—Antitrust laws are not needed to prevent undesirable monopolies. Competition and innovation will take care of that, provided only that government prohibits the use of force and fraud.

The thesis of the book can be summed up in two excerpted paragraphs: "The case for economic freedom rests primarily on the consistency of the free market with man's essential nature, on the basic morality of its system of rewards and punishments, on the protection it gives to the integrity of the individual.

"Total economic freedom would exist if the government's only function were to prevent the initiation of force or fraud against its people by an individual, group or government."

What about compassion, welfare, etc? The authors are all for it—on a private, voluntary basis (and they present some evidence that might be sufficient to take care of genuine need).

But they have only contempt for the "aid of government who wants to do good with someone else's money."

"There is virtually no difference in principle between forced collection of money to support welfare programs and involuntary servitude. In either case the individual is compelled by force to serve others."

"The humanitarian seeks medical care for all—by force. He would encourage brotherhood—by force. He would make men good—by force."

They point out that property is the fundamental right—beginning with the ownership of one's own life. With it, all other rights are secure: without it, everything is at the pleasure of the state.

Is Capitalism the answer to all problems? No. "Capitalism will not provide human beings with happiness, if they do not know what will make them happy. It will not guarantee justice, if they do not know why justice is necessary; it will not protect them from the throes of materialism. If they wish to place products before people, these things fall within the scope of individual prerogative. What capitalism will do is provide human beings with the material means of survival and the freedom to improve their lives in accordance with their own wishes."

I don't agree completely with everything in this book—and chances are, neither will you. But it's a healthy, mind-stretching experience to read it.—Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

WAY BACK WHEN

30 years ago
April 4, 1946: Wakefield firemen were summoned last week to extinguish fires in Wakefield caused from burning trash. A writeup and picture of Helen Mabbutt Gill, former Wayne girl, appeared in the March 30 issue of Saturday Evening Post. The account tells how the Wayne girl, an ex-SPAR, pleaded Yanks during the war by talking back to the famous Japanese radio propagandist, Tokyo Rose. Wayne and Pender baseball clubs have been accepted in the Pioneer Night League.

25 years ago
March 29, 1951: Work will be started here in a few days to build two Wayne homes and clear a quarter-block site for a new 16-unit apartment building. The new structure will be completed this summer. Ed Seymour, Wayne, apartment owner, announced yesterday that he had purchased the O.R. Bowen and Pearl Street properties located at 217 and 221, West Fourth Street. Inclement March weather which halted masts and stalled trains also interfered with spring house-cleaning at Wayne State, and the annual Clean-up Day was postponed from April 3 to next Tuesday.

March 29, 1956: Plans for WSTC's new auditorium-gymnasium were approved Saturday by the State Normal Board. Over 300 youngsters participated in an Easter egg hunt Sunday afternoon at Bressler Park. The event was sponsored by Mrs. Jaycees Prize for finding special golden eggs went to Marsha Ruskeff, Jeanne Pollard, Dennis and Phyllis Ellermeier, John Doring, Arlene Rieken, Carl Boyer, Sandy Strong, Rebecca Bernthal, Karen Jensen, Edie Samwerfeld, Edna Berlenbruch, Bruce Johnson, Marla Eilers and Jeanne Blesi. Wayne's city council purchased a quarter-block tract west of the swimming pool Tuesday night for development into a recreational area. Wayne voters will go to the polls Tuesday for the annual city election. Local citizens will name a mayor, three council men and two school board members. Wayne county's pheasant population increased Thursday when the Izak Walton League in cooperation with the State Game Commission released 1,000 adult birds.

March 20, 1961: Wayne Prep is again planning a spring carnival with April 6 picked as the date. The carnival will be held on the lower floor of the campus school from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wayne voters will cast their ballots Tuesday in the annual city election. Local citizens will name a mayor, three council men and two school board members. school from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wayne voters will cast their ballots Tuesday in the annual city election. Local citizens will name three city councilmen and two school board members. More than 200 kids swarmed over Bressler park Sunday in the annual Mrs. Jaycees Easter egg hunt. Candy eggs covered the park, along with 25 gold eggs that entitled the finders to special prizes.

March 24, 1966: Representatives from three groups met Tuesday to consider the hospital situation in Wayne. A study was authorized which would consider the need for a new hospital with 30 to 50 beds. A vicious storm preceded by rain and steel paralyzed much of Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota Tuesday night and Wednesday morning as ten inches of snow was dumped into gale-force winds and piled in drifts from a foot to 20 feet high. Federal aid for two Title I programs under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act has been approved. Supt. Frank Haun of Wayne High school has been informed. Remedial reading and remedial math are to be offered.

Thoughts for Today

"My Old Bible
Though the cover is worn, And the pages are torn,
And though pages bear traces of years,
Yet more precious than gold is the book worn and old that can soothe and scatter my tears."

When I prayerfully look, In the precious old book,
Many pleasures of treasures I see; Many tokens of love, From the Father above,
Who is nearest and dearest to me.

This old book is my guide. 'Tis a friend by my side,
In my darkest and loneliest way, And I can promise I find soothes and gladdens my mind
As I read it, and heed it today.

To this book I will cling; Of its worth I will sing,
Though great losses and crosses be mine. For I cannot despair, Though surrounded by care,
While possessing this blessing divine. —Author Donald Ross

Litter abhorred

Dear Editor
We have just finished picking up beer, pop, and liquor cans and bottles that have been discarded, just since last November, on our half mile of roadside from Highway 35. How many? Eighty-five.

There are probably that many, or more, on the other side of the road. The same situation is apparent along with Highway 35 right-of-way, and probably all of our other state highways. Beautiful America?

We, as a people proud of our country, are doing an awfully good job of defacing the beautiful countryside. Attempts to curb this practice seem to fail by the wayside, except for expenditures of thousands of dollars just for cleaning up the state highways.

I believe there should be a workable solution. Though the non-returnable containers are convenient, a deposit could be required on every container, although it would undoubtedly be discouraged or detested by sales people.

Perhaps the state could reimburse them for the thankless job of collecting cans, much as they do for collecting the sales tax. If the deposit were high enough it might encourage youngsters to clean up roadsides, after those who are still determined to litter. This might be less costly than the program the state now uses for cleaning up our roadsides. At the same time it might result in a better job of keeping America beautiful. —Merle Ring

Record Farm Dollar Figures Expected

Net farm incomes and record high dollar figures for assets, debts and equity in farming last year are expected to increase in 1976, according to Ron Hanson, assistant professor of agricultural economics at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"Most farmers started 1976 in a favorable condition due to high net farm incomes and stronger equity positions," Hanson said. "Although the increases either by dollar amounts or percentages during the past year were not record setting."

He said net farm incomes improved during the latter part of 1975 because of increased grain exports and improved livestock prices. Farm income is estimated to be $25 billion for 1975, 10 per cent below the previous year's level, Hanson said.

"Crop producers entered 1976 in a favorable financial position and appear optimistic about the year ahead," he said. "But there are some uncertainties, especially if dry weather conditions continue through the winter and spring."

He forecasts an improved financial outlook for livestock feeders and cow-calf operators in 1976, saying feeders have returned to a profitable position and cow-calf operators show signs of recovering. Hanson said there is no anticipation of live-stock loan delinquencies or widespread repayment problems among the two groups.

He said many farmers were able to improve their rate of loan repayments while loan renewals or extensions declined last year because of improved equity and liquidity positions of farmers and high net farm incomes. Livestock feeders especially were able to update loan payments and increase their bank deposit balances.

Hanson said the value of all farm assets is expected to rise at a steady rate close to the 14 per cent gain during 1975 because price increases continue to inflate farmland values and higher farm incomes are projected. Of the $74 billion increase in all farm assets during 1975, 70 per cent was caused by higher farm real estate values, he said.

Other farm assets such as machinery and livestock had what he called modest increases during 1975. The value of farm assets was expected to total $594 billion by Jan. 1.

"The biggest turn around in 1975 was the inventory value of livestock which showed a small increase in value after dropping nearly 40 per cent or $18 billion in 1974 due to depressed prices," Hanson said. "Livestock should continue its recovery in value throughout 1976 but probably at a slow pace."

The value of farm assets increased only $44 billion, or 9 per cent in 1974, he said.

The total equity of farmers, the value of property beyond the total amount of debt owed on it, will reach an estimated record high of $503 billion by the first of the year, a 15 per cent increase in net worth among all farmers for 1975, Hanson said. He said this largely was caused by what he called continued large price increases for farmland and machinery.

Meanwhile, the current debt to asset ratio reached the lowest rate in the past 10 years, Hanson said, dropping from 15.7 per cent in 1974 to 15.2 per cent. This indicates improvement in the equity position of most farmers in general during 1975 which should continue through 1976, he said.

The total farm debt also increased during 1975, rising 11 per cent to reach $90 billion, Hanson said. This figure was slightly above the 10-per cent increase in 1974, but less than the 13 per cent gain in 1973, he said.

Hanson said the farm real estate debt rose $5.6 billion or 12 per cent in 1975 and now totals $38 billion, a 9 per cent increase during 1975.

Nonreal estate farm debt rose more slowly last year than in 1974, he said, and now totals $36 billion, a 9 per cent increase during 1975.

"Uncertainty of livestock prices and greater caution by some farmers affected their willingness to borrow heavily in 1975 for operating inputs, livestock and machinery," Hanson said. He said many farmers already had purchased large amounts of machinery in 1973 and relatively high net farm incomes allowed farmers to pay in cash, thereby reducing borrowing.

But Hanson said what he called recent improvement in cattle prices and continued high farm income prospects will probably cause nonreal estate lending activity to increase in 1976.

He said there should be enough loan money available for farmers, but lenders are becoming more aware of increased risks and can be expected to adopt new lending policies accordingly.

Such policies may include more detailed information about enterprises, requiring borrowers to make forward contracts or hedge, raise collateral requirements, decrease the term of loans, or increase their supervision of a loan, Hanson said.

He said he expects little change in interest rates in 1976 from the current nonreal estate loan rate of between 8.5 per cent and 9.5 per cent and real estate loan rate of nearly 10 per cent.

One interesting change, Hanson said, that merchants and dealers are increasing short-term funds and are working toward making credit easier for their customers to obtain. However, he said the Farm Credit System continues to be a major supplier of both real and nonreal estate loans, with both the Federal Land Bank and the Production Credit Association continuing to expand their share of loans outstanding.

First Comes the Studying

THE SECOND week of tractor driving tests at the Northeast Station near Concord attracted nearly 40 youths for the morning session. Under the direction of county agents Don Spitzle of Wayne County, Roy Stahler of Dixon County, Lyle Vawser of Cedar, Lawrence Lange of Thurston and Chlye Worm of Dakota, the 24-hour course centered on maintenance, handling and safe operation of farm vehicles. Taking part in the first step of the course are, from left Loren Murray and Dave Schwartz of Wayne, and Bill Potts and Dick Arens of Hartington as they study their texts before the written examination. After the eye test, the youths then mount the testing tractors for the final step.

Modern Misses

The Modern Misses 4-H Club met March 16 in the home of Carol Baird with 15 members and 13 members present.

The club discussed a skating party. Jodi Flier was appointed to find a date for the party. The skating party will be held April 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Wakelied Skating Rink. The club is inviting all other clubs to attend.

Mrs. Gramke thanked all the members and mothers who participated in the pancake feed. Mrs. Flier encouraged all members to participate in the speech contest. Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Franzen led judging. Carol did a demonstration on Cherry Cream Freeze. Later, Carol and Mrs. Baird served lunch.

The next meeting will be held April 13 in the home of Holly Franzen. News reporter, Judy Bauer registers.

Combination Kids

The meeting of the Combination Kids 4-H Club was held in the Wally Bull home March 16. The meeting was called to order by president, Beth Crawford.

Roll call was taken and the minutes were read by secretary-treasurer, Cindy Bull. Big Brothers and Big Sisters were assigned to the younger members of the club to help them understand the meeting. Members picked out "adopted grand parents" who they will visit regularly.

A float for the Fourth of July parade was discussed. Members to work at the March 29 bake sale were decided on. The meeting was adjourned by Judy Temme. Lunch was served.

Next meeting will be held in the Victor Haase home April 20. News reporter, Marvin Hansen.

LANDSCAPING

The old-fashioned landscaping ideas of covering up a house with vines, bushes and trees is no longer practical.

In the old days, many houses were large porches were high, and they needed large growing plants. But today we are building low and attractive homes so why use so many large growing shrubs.

Here are some suggestions for selecting and placing plants around your home.

Select plants for the landscape which will not grow out of bounds. There are many species of broadleaf evergreen and deciduous shrubs which are low growing and attractive. Use them in home landscaping to reduce maintenance problems in the future.

Too many different plants around the home are not attractive. Many times a grouping of three, five, or ten plants of the same species can create an attractive design. Repetition of landscape elements can be attractive.

Locate plant groups at the most important places around the home. Some of these are: the corners of the house, the entry area, or in other locations where strong vertical lines are created.

Space plants so that they have room to mature. Most plants will spread a distance which is equal to two-thirds of their height or more. Even though the landscape may appear open after it has been planted, remember the plants will grow and fill into these open spaces.

SOURCES OF SMALL GRAIN SEED

Farmers quite often come in to the office and ask where some of the newer varieties of oats, barley and spring wheat can be purchased. I have a list of dealers within a 25 mile radius of Wayne that are selling many of these new varieties.

CERTIFIED SEED PRODUCTION

It is estimated that Wayne County produces locally only five per cent of the certified seed that is needed for this county. This seems like there is an excellent potential for growing certified oats, barley, wheat and soybeans for local sale. If you are interested let me know.

Expert Reveals Housing Test Result

"It's hard to say whether it's the width of the slat or the type of material that makes the kind of slat harder on the pig's foot," says Bob Fritschen, University of Nebraska Extension, animal scientist at the Northeast Station of Concord.

Writing in the 1976 Nebraska Swine Report, the swine housing expert gives results of a study comparing foot injuries of pigs on eight-inch wide concrete slats or five-inch wide plastic slats. The remaining half of the floors were solid concrete with a smooth, steel-troweled finish.

Pigs reared on the concrete slats showed much less claw injury than pigs reared on plastic. "But," says Fritschen, "He adds that the concrete slats, spaced one inch apart, cleaned well. "Furthermore, pigs on the concrete slats were much more mobile. Plastic slats appear to be quite slick for pigs, especially those from 120 pounds to market."

Specialist Explains Grading

A great amount of misunderstanding and misinterpretation of the new federal beef grading standards continues, according to University of Nebraska-Lincoln meat Specialist Jim Wise.

He summarized the following major changes:

—For cattle in the "A" maturity group (approximately nine to 30 months), an increase in marbling is no longer needed to compensate for increasing maturity.

For prime, this means some cattle previous graded choice will now be graded prime. For choice, this means some cattle previously graded good will not be graded choice.

—Confirmation will not affect final quality grade (prime, choice, etc.) Confirmation does not affect eating quality of the meat. Confirmation refers only to the shape and distribution of muscle on the carcass.

—If beef carcasses are graded, they must apply both quality and yield (cutability) grade. In the past carcasses could be quality graded, yield graded, or both.

—The good grade has been narrowed. Previously the good grade was 1.5 degrees of marbling and decay. This was changed by requiring a half degree increase for the youngest cattle.

It would appear that shorter feeding periods will still allow comparable production of choice cattle. Wise said. However, greater numbers of carcasses in the standard grade may result from this practice. Yield grade of the carcass will also be extremely important. Because cattle must carry both quality and yield grade (if they are graded) emphasis will be on leaner cattle.

These changes should benefit from the more efficient production of more lean meat with less waste. This should also benefit the consumer.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wittse. "Those who compare today with an imaginary previous 'golden age' may talk of degeneracy and decay but no man correctly informed about the past will take a morose or desponding view of the present."

Thomas Macaulay

We tend to emphasize the good and forget the shortcomings... in some instances, the downright evils... of those earlier times.

Talk of today's degeneracy and decay probably stems from a desire to see greater and more rapid improvement in the affairs and conduct of mankind.

Those who understand what really happened in those "good old days" are apt to be satisfied with the progress mankind is making.

We understand the need of some families for non-traditional or minimum services.

That's How Old Timers Did Things

BEING A PIONEER took self reliance, as was demonstrated in the Spring Branch 4-H club Bicentennial display in Hoskins Sunday afternoon. The spinning wheel was vital in clothing the family and Becky Kohz of York (top photo) shows how it was done. Pioneers knew which side their bread was buttered on, and that meant, among other things, making their own butter. Kila Wittler, left, takes her turn at the task. John Brudigan, right, inspects a smaller, hand-cranked butter churn, one of the many antiques displayed at the 4-H event.

A Day on Campus

SIXTH GRADERS from O'Neill, 56 of them, had a day at Wayne State last Friday, arranged by their teacher, Bill Walters, a WSC graduate last year. First stop: the art department where the youngsters watched a demonstration of the potter's wheel by senior art major LeRoy Van Gien. After lunch in the college cafeteria, the class took in a sky show by Dale Planterman. Both the art and the science reflected teacher Walters' main interests in college: he majored in elementary education, with a minor (almost major) in art and courses in science.

Three Paid $50 For Bond, Not Fine

An item published in last week's Dixon County court news column was incorrect. According to information received then by The Herald, three Wakefield men had been fined $50 each for trespassing and disturbing the peace. The $50 which had been paid by LaVern Miner, Michael Wirth and Robert Vander Veen was actually a cash deposit on $500 bond for each of the men. Monday, each of the three men was fined $100 plus $8 court costs for disturbing the peace, and ordered to pay $25 each for damages to an apartment.

Energy Shortage Means Food Processing Change

Food processing consumes about four per cent of all energy used within the United States, according to a recent study. Natural gas and electrical power are the principal energy types used in food processing, accounting for 48 per cent and 26 per cent, respectively, of the energy used by the food industry. The balance of the energy is supplied by coal and various petroleum-based products. According to Roy Arnold, chairman of the University of Nebraska department of food science and technology, "Because of projected future reduction in natural gas supplies for industrial uses, the food industry faces major readjustment problems in converting to alternative energy types. Because most present back-up systems utilize petroleum-based products, conversion to alternative energy sources will likely result in increased costs to processors, and increased prices to consumers for processed foods." Another result of energy short-ages, said Arnold, may be changes in types of packaging materials used. Metals and plastics for containers or packaging materials are energy intensive products. Limitations in their availability and high costs may cause adoption of other packaging materials for foods, reductions of packaging or greater recycling or reuse of containers. The relative energy efficiencies of central food processing vs. home processing and preparation have not been evaluated sufficiently to draw meaningful conclusions. Arnold said even with present relatively high degree of central processing, home preparation accounts for almost as much use of energy within the food chain as does food processing.

Norfolk Shopper Misses Winning $725 Top Prize

One day. That's how close a Norfolk woman Thursday night came to winning the $725 grand prize in this week's Birthday Bucks promotion in Wayne. Mary Standley was born on Jan. 9, 1922, just one day after the Jan. 8th date drawn at random in the contest sponsored by participating Wayne businesses. Wayne merchant Phil Griess, owner of Griess' Rexall Store, pulled out the winning date. Ms. Standley, who was in Kuhn's Department Store at the time of the drawing, received $25 in Birthday Bucks as a consolation award. The grand prize jumps another $25 in $750 and tonight (Thursday) a shopper will have a chance to pick up the money if his or her birthday matches the winning date announced at 8:15. No registration or purchases are necessary to win. A shopper must be present in a participating Wayne business to be eligible for the grand or consolation prizes.

Overall awards were presented in each of four divisions of competition. In addition, each student's presentation was evaluated for receipt of first, second or third place ribbons. Jan' Haun and the team of Steve Bodenstein and Jeff Keating gained first place blue ribbons for the Wayne-Carroll school system. West Point Central Catholic received the overall first place award in physics, chemistry, mathematics, biology and junior high life sciences. Two trophies were presented in the biology division with Stanton shering top honors with West Point Central Catholic. Two Elgin St. Boniface girls teamed up to win an overall first in the junior high physical science division. More than 130,000 visits were recorded at 200 exhibitions in the United States last year, surpassing attendance at national football and baseball games combined.
