Walks, Parking Proposed for Downtown

Wayne's downtown improvement committee Tuesday afternoon conducted the first of a series of meetings to explain their proposal for renovating the downtown business area.

Businessmen are being invited to the luncheon meetings on a block-by-block basis so the proposal can be explained as it relates to them individually. A general meeting will be conducted after the preliminary sessions are completed.

The committee was appointed by mayor Freeman Decker in the fall after the city council passed an ordinance creating the improvement district. Committee members are chairman Roger Nelson, Robert Carhart, Clarence Khun, Dale Gutfahl, and Jack March.

Nelson said goals followed in formulating the plan include improving the flow of pedestrian traffic throughout the downtown area, increasing the amount of available parking along streets and improving the safety and ease of parking, increasing the amount of pedestrian-oriented lighting, encouraging continued growth of the downtown business district, beautification of the area, and providing leadership in encouraging business owners to improve their buildings.

In general, the committee's proposal calls for new street lighting, installation of pedestrian walk ramps at all intersections, closing alley entrances along Main St., and installation of new curbs, gutters, and sidewalks.

In some instances, the new sidewalks would be narrower than the ones now in use. That would widen Main St., improving traffic flow. On the side streets, the extra width would allow cars to be parked at a 30 degree angle, rather than the present 45 degrees. That change, plus blocking of alleys, should provide about 50 additional parking spaces in the downtown area, Kuhn said.

Estimated price for the new sidewalk is $40 per running stone front foot. Just how the improvements would be financed should owners and the city council accept the proposal has not yet been decided. One solution is through a special assessment paving or sidewalk district, with each business paying for the footage in front of its building.

The improvement district also has some taxing authority within the district. Such a tax would be based on the square footage utilized by each business owner in providing customer or professional services.

General sessions will be conducted following the current informational meetings, giving store owners an opportunity to make suggestions about the plans. If owners in the business district reach agreement on a final plan, the proposal will be presented to the city council for approval.

Specific items in the proposed improvement plan are:

- Install new design street light fixtures throughout district.
- Install ramped pedestrian walks at all intersections.
- Remove existing drinking fountains on Main St.

Decker: Education Is More Than Grades

"Too often we assume that when a person has good grades in high school, he or she is a well-rounded, educated person. But a person needs more than an educated person," said Dr. Freeman Decker, Wayne mayor during Monday night's Wayne Kiwanis Club Honors Banquet at Wayne State's Student Union.

Speaking before 45 students from Wayne Middle School and Wayne Carroll High and their parents, Dr. Decker pointed out that being able to "feel at ease in any situation a person is in" is an important part of being a well-rounded individual.

During his teaching career, at both the elementary and college levels, Dr. Decker said, he has noticed two major aspects of a person which pretty much describe himself.

Personal appearance in men and women plays an important role in the lives of most everyone, he noted. "In our search for

Airway Obstruction Is Apparent Cause Of Student's Death

An acute airway obstruction apparently was the cause of the death of a 19-year-old Wayne State College freshman April 7.

Dr. Robert Benck said the post-autopsy report on the death of Alexis Rohrbeg indicates that no foul play was involved in her death and no indication of drugs was found.

Miss Rohrbeg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rohrbeg of Randolph, died in her room in Nelhard Hall.

Dr. Benck said death apparently was caused by an acute airway obstruction caused by the death of a viral infection.

Liquor License Limit Defeated

Wayne mayor Freeman Decker Tuesday night cast a tie-breaking vote on a measure setting the amount city clerk-treasurer Bruce Mordhorst will receive as a pay increase.

Decker's vote came on a proposal to set at $80 the monthly salary Mordhorst will receive as city water commissioner.

The city clerk's job is filled by appointment, with the term of office running concurrently with that of mayor. State statute prohibits increasing the salary during the term of office, unless some provision was made at the time of appointment, such as stipulating cost of living increases. City attorney, Budd Borshoff said setting a salary for the water commissioner position would be one method of granting a raise if the council wished to do so.

The topic of the pay hike had been raised during previous meetings but was delayed until city administrator Fred Brink could submit a proposed salary range for employees.

Motions by Carolyn Filler and Vernon Russell to table the pay hike proposal did not receive seconds.

Russell, Darrell Fuelberth, and John Vakoc voted against the pay increase on final reading.

A move by Ted Bahe to limit the number of liquor licenses in Wayne died for lack of support. His motion to that effect failed to gain a second.

Bahe had presented a petition signed by several liquor license holders asking that the number of licenses be frozen at its present level with holds of licenses being allowed to transfer the license if they should sell their business.

Russell was the most vocal opponent of Bahe's proposal, saying he would never vote to set a limit on liquor licenses.

"We talk about wanting the town to grow," he said. "This is one way to stop growth, as I see it."

When the number of licenses was limited, many people went out of town to purchase liquor, Russell said, because prices were controlled.

"Prices aren't controlled now," Russell said. "And the money is staying in Wayne."

Brink was given authority to advertise for bids for new transformers to increase the capacity of the city power plant.

That action was taken after the council declared the matter See COUNCIL, page 12

3 Allen Teachers Not Returning

Three teachers at Allen schools, Viola Bartling, Roger Miller and Robert Moore, have handed in their resignations.

The three were the only instructors who didn't return their contract by Monday's deadline.

Mrs. Bartling, who has taught third grade at Allen for nine years, told superintendent Virgil Ferguson that she will be retiring.

Miller, who has taught eighth through 12th grade science for one year, and Moore, who has taught mathematics for four years in grades seven through 12, and coached baseball, will leave the school system.

The only other major assignment change next fall will be the

Local Stake In Social Security Totals Above $2 Million Mark

How healthy is the Social Security Trust fund, on which many Wayne County residents depend for current or future retirement benefits?

By virtue of their contributions to Social Security over the years, via payroll taxes, how large is their interest in the fund?

There have been worries lately over reports emanating from Washington that the fund is in trouble. In testimony before Congress recently, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare David Matthews warned that the outgo from the pension fund is exceeding its income by some 10 percent at the present time.

The reserves are now down to approximately $44 billion, which is enough to carry only for about six years, several years less than usual. It will be exhausted at that time unless something is done to boost revenues. Plans to do so are now before Congress.

According to calculations, based upon the latest annual report of the Social Security Administration, Nebraska residents have an estimated interest of $225,000,000 in the $44 billion in reserves currently on hand.

Proud Plans Wayne Visit

Republican senatorial candidate Richard Proud is scheduled to speak in Wayne Wednesday evening at the meeting of the local Right to Life chapter.

Proud, who will oppose Second District Congressman John McCollister for the nomination in the May 11 primary election, is a former state senator, serving for a 10-year period which ended in 1973 when he declined seeking reelection.

The 53-year-old Arapahoe native is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and the University of Colorado School of Law. He practiced law at Arapahoe for five years, was a school board member there, and served as county service officer and city attorney. Proud and his wife now live in Omaha.

The senatorial hopeful is also scheduled to speak at the Wayne Middle School Chautauqua May 5-6 in Wayne, along with other political figures including Congressman Charles Thone, Democratic candidate Mrs. Pauline Anderson who is seeking to unseat Thone in the First District, state Senator John Murphy of South Sioux City, and Democratic senate candidates "Boss" See PROUD, page 12

Metter Will Fill MS Vacancy

Wayne-Carroll elementary schools principal Richard Metter was appointed Middle School principal Monday night by the board of education, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Loren Park.

The school board also approved salary increases for school administrators amounting to about 6.9 per cent.

Board president Dr. Irv Brandt said the amount is roughly equivalent to faculty pay increases in terms of the percentage increase in cost for the school system.

Teachers received a 5.33 per cent increase when the school board approved a negotiated settlement April 5. Brandt pointed out that the faculty pay hike will cost the school system about seven per cent more next year when salary increases due to longevity or additional professional education are added in.

Metter will be receiving $16,250 for the 1976-77 school year — compared to $15,050 for the current year.

High school principal Don Zeiss will receive $19,350, compared with his present salary of $18,050.

School district superintendent Francis Haun will receive $14,750 next year. His current salary is $23,000.

Metter's salary is for a 10 month contract. Zeiss' contract for 10 1/2 months and Haun's is for 11 months.

Haun was also authorized to negotiate with classified staff members, including secretaries, custodians and cooks, regarding salary.

Metter's appointment leaves a vacancy for the elementary school principal position.

April Lessons to Focus On Gracious Entertaining

Workshops, set up by the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord, will focus on the art of gracious entertaining for the month of April.

Jocelyn Smith, area home extension agent, says persons dine in many ways, sometimes casual and other times in a more formal way. Food is generally a part of any gathering of people, she says, and to make guests feel comfortable the hostess must feel at ease in serving foods.

The lesson, "Gracious Entertaining," is being offered to lesson leaders of extension clubs and other organized clubs in Dakota, Dixon, Cedar, Thurston and Wayne Counties. The lesson will be presented by Susan Strahm, agent in training, Gladys Stott, expanded nutrition home economist, and Jocelyn Smith.

Training meetings will be held Wednesday, April 28, at 1:30 p.m. at the Dakota County Courthouse meeting room in Dakota City, and on Thursday, April 29, at 9:30 a.m. at the Northeast Station at Concord.

Any organized club wishing to send lesson leaders to the training session should notify Jocelyn Smith at the Northeast Station by April 23.

Allen Shooters Place High in State Meet

Four members of Allen High's trap shooting teams placed among the top five shooters in their divisions during the state high school trap meet at Doniphan over the weekend.

Taking thirds were Diane Witte in the Class C girls division, Todd Koester in the Class A boys, Tod Ellis third in Class C and Van Hanson fifth in Class C.

For the two days, Witte broke 145 out of 200 clay rocks on the 16-yard range. Koester finished with 186-200, Ellis with 158-200 and Hanson 167-200.

For the second straight year, Allen girls won the team title with a score of 622 out of 1,000. On the Allen girls team, which was the only group entered, were Witte, Peg Taylor, Cathy Smith, Jo Maggart and June Stapleton.

Allen's first boys team took 15 out of 54 entries in Class C. Making up that team were Koester, Ellis, Shawn Persinger, Stan McAfee and Rayme Dowling. They shot 799 out of 1,000.

Allen's second team finished 37th with a score of 719 out of 1,000. On that team were Vic Schultz, Mark Hanson, Randy Dunn, Brad Brown and Hansy

Unearned Runs Halt Allen's Hopes for Win

Visiting Hooper-Logan View scored four unearned runs, including the winning run in the seventh frame Monday, to hand Allen its second straight one-run defeat, 4-3.

The loss drops the Eagles' record to 0-3 going into an away game today (Thursday) with undefeated Wakefield.

Like Logan View, Allen had its share of unearned runs, scoring only one "run off-right fielder Brent Chase's double in the fifth which made the score 3 to 2 in Logan View's favor.

Allen knotted the score at one-all in the second after pitcher Shawn Persinger tried to lead off later scored on a throwing error by Logan View's second base-

The visitors jumped back into the lead with a pair of runs in the fourth. In the last frame, Hooper pushed the margin to 4-2 before Allen countered on another Hooper error which scored third baseman Charlie Ferguson from third.

Allen appeared to be in the driver's seat in the last frame when the Eagles had the bases loaded with two outs and the score 4-3. But the hometown club failed to produce any hits that inning.

Coach Robert Moore said he was satisfied with the pitching, but the team needs a little more defense and hitting if his club is going to win. "If we get one or the other, we'll be a tough ball club," he added.

Persinger took the loss on the mound. He went the entire distance, striking out three.

Stoltenberg: Scrimmage Was Good and Bad

An intra-squad scrimmage topped off spring football practice for Wayne State gridirers Tuesday.

How did it go? Said coach Del Stoltenberg, "Good and bad."

With a smile he added, "That doesn't sound like much of an answer, but that's about the way it was."

Stoltenberg could see promising efforts in the controlled scrimmage, which substituted for the usual varsity alumni battle because of the Easter recess this weekend.

As an audience pleaser, the scrimmage lacked that spark of excitement from watching the grid come back to their old fields of combat. But for benefit of the varsity, the scrimmage gave more players a chance to show their stuff.

"Some showed it pretty well," Stoltenberg noted. "Giving better performances, he rattled off a bunch of names that sounded like last year's first stringers."

There were some names not on the starter lists of 1975. Those are the prospects to replace departed seniors, especially in the defensive line. At these positions, Stoltenberg mentioned tackle Mark Campbell, Dave Carlson and Dave Sexton, middle guards Duane Carlson and Greg Welch, ends Dave Carper, John McKay and Kevin Ladd.

Linebacker jobs are up for grabs, but the deep back positions are pretty well manned by veteran starters.

On offense, most of the names will be familiar from last year's regulars. Gaps to be filled include quarterback, with Brad Hann the front runner. Tight end, Mike Green, and center, Phil Parman.

Bancroft scored four runs off four hits in the last of the ninth Monday to upset previously undefeated Wayne High, 9-8.

The host Bulldogs, who scored the tying run on a triple in the seventh to send the game into extra innings, pushed across four runs on a pair of doubles and two singles off relief hurler Dave Hix for the win.

Misjudgements and a total of six errors floundered what coach Mike Mallette thought would be a routine game for his Blue Devils, who held a 2-1 mark going into Wednesday's home double-header with Homer.

Strong, gusty winds caused many of the fielders to misjudge balls hit into the outfield, said Mallette. Particularly, in the bottom of the seventh when Bancroft's Lamoni Pagels blasted the ball to right fielder Vic Shapiro. Normally, that would have been an easy catch and would have ended the game, the coach said, but Vic moved in on the ball about three steps too many and the ball went over his head. As a result, Bancroft's Steve Plambeck scored from second for the tie score.

Both clubs battled to a 3-3 score in the first inning, Wayne broke the tie in the second with the second of four runs batted in by the team's lead hitter, senior Paul Mallette.

Bancroft knotted the score again in the third. Hix put his team ahead in the seventh after he tripped and came home on a wild pitch.

In the top of the ninth, the Devils started to regain control of the game with three runs off three hits. Second baseman Randy Park opened the frame when advanced to first on an error and moved to second when Hix was issued a walk. After center fielder Aaron Nissen singled and later put out, Mallette banded a two-run single and Doug Carroll slapped a run-scoring single.

Mallette started on the mound for Wayne, going three innings before the coach put Hix on the mound. "I was planning to use three pitchers in that game until we got into trouble," Mallette added.

WS Tennis Team Unbeaten in Five

Mike Lidie, sophomore from Bellevue, remained unbeaten in both singles and doubles as he led Wayne State past Nebraska Wesleyan, 7-5; Tuesday in Lincoln. That kept the Wildcat netters also unbeaten in five meets going into a home clash Wednesday with Briar Cliff.

After that, the Cats face a stiff test today (Thursday) at the University of South Dakota, then a home meet with Westminster that may be moved to Friday instead of the scheduled Saturday.

Wayne took another 7-3 victory at home Monday over Dana, despite the loss of No. two player Ron Thompson who fractured his right arm in practice Sunday. He'll probably be lost for the season.

Wayne State double trouble in baseball Tuesday at Ames. The Big Eight Cyclones riddled the usually strong Wildcat defense with 11 2 and 15 decisions.

Iowa State Hands WS Double Trouble

Iowa State University dealt Wayne State double trouble in baseball Tuesday at Ames. The Big Eight Cyclones riddled the usually strong Wildcat defense with 11 2 and 15 decisions.

Starting pitchers Steve Russell and Jim Koepcke absorbed the losses in a succession of pitchers who yielded nine hits in the first game, 14 in the second.

Another challenge awaits Wayne in a tentative rematch today (Thursday) with talented Creighton at Omaha, making up a rained out March 30 date.

Midland College is scheduled for a doubleheader here Friday, first game at 1 o'clock on the college diamond.

Losses to Iowa State put the Wildcat record at 9-11 — with nine of those defeats the work of Big Eight teams: Iowa State, 11-1.

The Wildcats beat conference rival Chadron State twice here Saturday in games as different as any could be, 5-4 and 15-1.

Q. Must a 30-day notice be given if rents are increased by only 2.5 per cent? A. Yes. The landlord must notify each tenant of any proposed rent increase, with respect to any transaction after December 1971, at least 30 days before the date the increase is to become effective. A landlord would be in violation of notice requirements even if the rent increase charged without proper notification was lower than that allowed by the rent regulations.

However, if a landlord is exempt from controls, he is exempt from the rent increase notification requirements.

For more information on these notice requirements, see IRS Publication 5-3026, "How to Spot a Rent Violation." It's available free by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue District office.

This simple statement, made by the angels to the women who had brought spices to Jesus' sepulchre on the first Easter, is the basis for the faith of Christians over the centuries. The resurrection of Christ is the ultimate miracle... the promise that our Savior was indeed divine.

Most significant of all is that we all have the assurance that we, too, can experience resurrection. Death will always be sorrowful-but the comforting concept of life after death makes the sorrow bearable.

We urge everyone to attend the church of his choice on Easter and throughout the year.

AS LONG as there are high school football coaches who are in charge of boys track, its doubtful that track will disappear from the high school scene.

The reason is simple: Most prep football coaches encourage their players to go out for track as a part of the training program to help keep the youths in shape. There's nothing wrong with that concept. However, more and more high school players are turning their interest to baseball.

Two such schools, Laurel and Crofton, may be starting up baseball next season because of the increasing demand by athletes. The reasons for the demand vary, but one common fact cited is that track requires more individual dedication. Like wrestling, track is more of an individual sport than baseball, football or basketball.

School boards in smaller Nebraska schools also may be favoring baseball over track because of decrease in costs to run the program. As an example, Allen next year will drop its track program, simply because the board can't justify spending $25.30 to enter four Allen youths in a meet. Entry fees plus the high costs of track equipment are forcing a lot of school boards to reevaluate their programs and decide if they want to continue them, one area coach pointed out.

Baseball, however, won't be the death of high school track. Although some of the small high schools may cut down on their programs in favor of baseball, the majority of Class A, B and C schools who have the strong tradition of being winners in track, will continue, he noted.

FREMONT will host an umpire clinic on Sunday, May 2, at 1:30 in the city auditorium. Nebraska umpire-in-chief, Lyle Follen, will conduct the meeting for players, managers, umpires and fans. All umpires who wish to work in tournaments in the area must attend a clinic and become certified. Persons who will umpire games this season can register for a clinic by contacting Follen at 264 S. Hancock in Fremont.

Don't know if he learned anything from the record, but did find out that he and his partner came home empty-handed. After winning a pair of girls track meets last week, Wakefield coach Ernie Kovar isn't trying to hide the fact that he has some of the top sprinters and relay clubs in Class C in Northeast Nebraska. However, the Trojanettes aren't going to sweep every meet they attend. With a smile he pointed out that he does plan to take a busload of girls to the state meet next month.

Allen trap shoot coach Cliff Jorgensen says he's mighty proud of his teams' performances last weekend in the state trap shoot meet at Doniphan. Without the help of many spectators, Allen wouldn't have made it, he emphasized.

After his girls team repeated as the state champs, Jorgensen learned that Allen not only has the only girls team in the state, but perhaps in the nation.

Wakefield girls had a 4-0 record after the Trojans Monday blanked visiting Leigh, 6-0. The winners got a total of five hits off Leigh, including Starz's two-run triple in the first to get Wakefield off to a quick 2-0 lead.

After Wakefield added runs in the second and third, Rouse unloaded his first circuit hit of the season over the 325 foot left center field fence. Another big hitter of the day was Jeff Simpson, who hit a home run.

"Our defense was good, but we just didn't hit the ball. We were too eager at the plate and as a result we just popped up the ball," Coble noted.

Wakefield hurlers Starz, Dan Byers and Brad Jones combined to toss a one-hitter. Starz went four innings, giving up the hit while striking out eight and walking four. In two frames Byers didn't give up any hits and walked three. Jones finished the game with no hits and one walk.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Anna Marie Kreifels

Synthetic suede, a luxury fabric, is becoming a 1976 pace-setter. In this fabric the plushness of suede has been combined with the easy-care properties of synthetic blends. This fabric is available under various trade names and in a variety of fiber blends. The consumer is cautioned to read and follow care labels carefully. Laundering and drying instructions will vary according to fiber content. When dusting suede synthetics by hand, do not wring or squeeze items. Instead, roll the garment in a towel to remove excess moisture. Then lay it flat or hang the garment to dry. The wrinkle resistant feature of this fabric has made it a favorite for traveling. Touch up ironing, if needed, should be done with a low heat setting on the back side of the fabric. Use a press cloth. A light brushing will restore the suede nap. The material is relatively light weight and won't stretch out of shape. It's suitable for dresses, tailored garments, sportswear, and menswear, plus accessory items such as handbags, hats and belts. Synthetic suedes are also seen in home furnishings items, including pillows and chair seats. Garments made of synthetic suede need not be lined, but linings may be used to create a more elegant finished appearance. Pre-shrunk linings and interfacings are recommended so the finished garment will be completely washable.

Real "Uncle Sam" Legend

Few people know that Uncle Sam is more than a political cartoon and symbol of American — he actually lived.

A new movie, "Uncle Sam: The Man and Legend," recounts this fascinating but little-known chapter of American history.

Narrated by Actor E. G. Marshall, the 23-minute film tells how Uncle Sam became a national symbol. The story was filmed by the National Association of Realtors on location in Troy, N.Y., where Samuel P. Wilson — Uncle Sam — lived, worked and became famous and is buried. Photographed in brilliant color, the movie is based on Samuel Wilson's life and features a treasury of historic American scenes.

Sam Wilson contracted to provide the United States Army with provisions during the War of 1812. Barrels of his beef were stamped with the United States insignia "U.S." but to many Americans of that day the initials stood for "Uncle Sam."

The legend was underway and gradually, through his humble and patriotic efforts on behalf of the nation, Uncle Sam Wilson became a human symbol of the country itself.

The film is appropriate for schools and churches or for meetings of civic, service, fraternal and professional organizations. It imparts a new appreciation of our rich heritage and national symbols. Uncle Sam takes his rightful place alongside the flag, the Eagle and the Great Seal of the United States.

"Uncle Sam: The Man and Legend" is part of a nation-wide public service program being conducted by Realtors to help America's Bicentennial. Anyone interested should contact his local board of Realtors or neighborhood Realtor. It is available without cost.

 an emergency. Under the plant-leasing agreement with the Nebraska Public Power District, revenues from the plant will be increased by about $280 a day after the upgrading project is completed and the council based the emergency declaration on the loss of potential income for the emergency because the topic was not on the agenda.
 Bids for the transformers will be opened at the council's May 25 meeting.
 Brink said he expects delivery of new transformers to take at least six months.
 Brink earlier in the meeting reported on activities of Wayne Industries during the past year. Jimmie Thomas had requested the report at the last council meeting.
 Brink said nine industrial prospects have visited Wayne in the past 30 months, considering the town as a possible location for new industry.
 A west coast firm, National Fiberglass Co., and Chicago Rawhide, are both still considering Wayne, Brink said.
 The fiberglass manufacturer has ruled out using the Emphasis building on the city industrial site because it is too large for their needs, but has asked a local contractor to develop a bid for a building to meet their requirements.
 The company, which manufactures fiberglass showers and tubs, has indicated it would need financial assistance should it be located in Wayne, and that it would employ about 20 people.
 Wayne people may be able to set their watch by the "noon whistle" again, soon. The council decided to move an old fire siren from the old water tower to the city hall. That siren will be sounded only at noon. Three new sirens will be used only for fire and tornado warning.
 Brink was authorized to proceed with obtaining a contract with a Columbus data processing firm to handle city electrical billing. Brink recommended the action because the present system will not handle a fuel adder component built in NPPD's electrical rates. Brink said he had contacted one local firm which has a computer available but the company was not prepared to handle the billing chore.

Speed limit law slows conclusion of legislative session

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN—Nebraska's lawmakers didn't go home when they were supposed to.

A little thing about a self-declared $5 million per hour speed limit law passed last session stayed the final gun long enough for a new law to be passed repealing the speed limit law.

Gov. J. Exon learned of the possibility of Nebraska not having any speed limit law 90 days after the end of this year's unicameral session during a chat with Attorney General Paul Douglas just two days before what would have been the last session meeting of the year for the lawmakers.

Exon wanted to call a special session even though it would have to last at least seven days while the alternate route the lawmakers decided on, extending the regular session, required only two days.

Not alone in his fears, the governor didn't want the senators to be able to crank up the legislative machinery and take a look at some of the bills given up for dead for lack of time left in the session.

Speaker Jules Burchab of Hartington was also worried about a wide open extra few days and his motion to extend the session included a provision that nothing would be considered other than the speed limit issue, and he got forty-one votes, one more than he needed to go beyond this year's constitutionally limited 60-day session.

First Extension

That was the first time a session has been extended since annual sessions of the unicameral began with the 1971 meeting.

The normal activities associated with the final day of any session—final votes on some key bills and veto override attempts on others—look place on the day originally set aside for closing down.

Exon, in an attempt to deliver a cut in the state income tax rate from 15 per cent to 13 per cent, made good on his promise to veto spending legislation. Of $30 million in vetoes handed down he was successful in $19 million worth.

A $15 million increase in the current $5 million a year state aid to local school programs, contained in LB691, remained on the casualty list. But the University of Nebraska managed to get its $94 million state general fund budget for next year with the successful override of LB690. Exon had line-item vetoed the NU budget to the tune of $6.8 million.

Also reinstated along with the university budget was a $13 million state aid to technical community colleges program. Exon had removed $1 million from that section of the $470 million budget.

What was the result of those vetoes, at least the ones that stuck?

Exon said while his hopes of a cut in taxes couldn't become a reality, a tax increase was avoided.

Had all the gubernatorial vetoes been successful and $470 million been appropriated from the state general fund instead of the final $451 million, the sales tax rate would have increased from the current 2.5 per cent to 3 per cent and the income tax rate could have increased to as much as 18 per cent.

Also falling to a veto was a bill to increase the state gasoline tax. That bill, LB863, was sponsored by Milligan Sen. Richard Marek.

The bill would have increased the tax from 8.5 cents to 9.5 cents a gallon. The yield would have been $9.5 million in new money which Marek said was badly needed for state and local road building and maintenance programs.

But the administration objected to the lack of a provision amended in, then taken out, that would have allowed the State Roads Department to remove roads from the state highway system once they were improved to county standards. Current law requires roads to be improved to high state standards before they can be returned to the counties.

Among the bills given final approval was the Unicameral version of the so-called "Sunshine Initiative," LB987. It was introduced as an alternative to the proposed legislation to revise campaign finance and lobbyist reporting laws the Coalition for Open Government wants to put on the November general election ballot for voter action.

The coalition had agreed when it started the initiative drive to petition the proposal on the ballot that if the Unicameral passed an acceptable bill the petition drive would be dropped.

Justice Swamped by Rules?

The Nebraska Supreme Court, except for one judge, upheld a Buffalo County district court dispute saying it had no choice in the matter because an important part of the record was missing. It seems procedural rules were not properly followed.

Judge Hale McCown, the one who didn't go along with the decision, didn't think much of the whole thing.

"The rule expressed in the majority opinion in this case represents the triumph of rules over reality," he said and he warned his colleagues "justice is a fragile thing and can easily be lost in a sea of rules."

In the case, Lehan Tunks filed suit in county court to remove one Marlan O'Brien from family land he had been renting. The county court decision in favor of Tunks was appealed to the district court and finally to the Supreme Court.

The problem was that the county court record didn't make it to the Supreme Court due to the failure to follow technical procedures required in appealing a case.

"To deny appellate review under such facts makes a legal mountain out of a procedural molehill," McCown said.

He said if the Supreme Court left the county court record was necessary it could have gone out after it with or without the rules.

The judge said the rules should be flexible, especially since the county court system now in use is only three years old.

"To insist upon exact compliance with procedural rules, particularly at a time when a new county court system of appeals to the district court is in its infancy, elevated form, over substance," McCown said.

State Sen. Ernest Chambers had been frank about his dislike for Bellwood Sen. Frank Schmitt's medical malpractice insurance bill.

And, he has decided to make an issue of what he claims is a fatal-mistake in the legislative handling of the bill which could get it declared unconstitutional.

The whole thing stems from what senators claim is an antiquated provision in the Nebraska Constitution they have tried to get repealed.

Way back when the document was written, there were people who were worthy of being legislators but simply could not read. Thus, the document's framers provided for them and included a provision that says each bill must be read to the lawmakers before a final vote is taken.

Chambers said the stage called "final reading" is now anything but that.

The clerk of the legislature is allowed to mumble and buzz his way through a bill in any way he can. Chambers said the constitution requires him to read the bill and it means word for word and clear enough to be understood.

While there are some things that can be done, he said—the Unicameral cannot suspend the constitution, nor can it "corrupt and distort" the meaning of the word "read."

Chamber president defends oil industry

Some Japanese employees have letting-off steam breaks, during which they can go to a special gymnasium attached to their place of work and punch a stuffed replica of the boss.

"I sometimes wish there were a similar arrangement for our entire society. In the absence of a stuffed replica of the boss to punch, we tend to use somebody or regulate something. It can cause all kinds of trouble.

"The pattern that is developing runs as follows:

—An industry raises prices. The cause may be anything from an act of God to an act of government.

—Publicity-hungry politicians seize on the issue as a convenient way to get their names in the news. They hint of dark conspiracies against the public; they promise to punish the wrongdoers severely.

—Instead of calmly analyzing the problem, elements of the news media pick up and dramatize the irresponsible political charges.

The outcome is often bad legislation which compounds the very problem it is supposed to solve. Even when that doesn't happen, people wind up embittered and confused—and no wonder.

Remember the food price rises of a few years ago? Fingers were pointed at shadowy, sinister figures called "middlemen," who were said to be ripping off the public to satisfy their own greed. (In the end, nobody was found to be profiting or whatever, but exonerative findings never seem to catch up with the original wild charges.)

Today the oil industry is the fashionable target. And, believe it or not, the "problem"—we are told—is that there are not "middlemen" in the oil industry. The oil companies tend to do everything for themselves, from drilling to refining.

Well, if middlemen are the source of all the trouble in the food industry, why are they suddenly so desirable in the oil industry? Don't ask silly questions.

But if you're the kind who likes to read both sides of a story, here are a few facts:

—The trouble with our petroleum supplies started when a group of oil-rich foreign governments—for political reasons—raised prices drastically (and imposed a temporary embargo). The federal government promptly took over oil allocation and pricing from the industry, and things have been confused ever since.

—Oil industry profits are good, but hardly spectacular. From 1965-74, the rate of return on net worth in the industry averaged 13.1 percent, compared to 13.0 percent for all U.S. industry. Oil profits reached 19.9 percent in 1974, but dropped back to 12.5 percent for the first nine months of 1975. (Those 1975 profits were a byproduct of the Arab action plus inflation, both of which raised the value of oil company inventory.) Profits average less than two cents on a gallon of gasoline. Taxes average about 12 cents.

—There's plenty of competition in the industry. There are over 10,000 companies competing in oil and gas exploration and production. The top four companies account for only 31 percent of total production. No single company has more than 11 percent.

—There are over 15,000 wholesalers of petroleum products and over 300,000 retailers; the branded sales of the top four marketers add up to 30 percent of the total, with the largest having less than 9 percent.

—In 1967, the "independents" accounted for 19 percent of all gasoline sold; in 1975 their share was 31 percent—yet we are told the "majors" are "killing off" the independents.

—I could go on, but the problem isn't access to the facts, it's credibility. There's a dark streak in us that predisposes us to think ill of the bearer of bad news, and a price increase is always bad news. We want to lash out, to hurt back.

It's understandable. But I wish we could learn to take it out harmlessly on the dummy of the boss or something. Right now, many people are letting themselves be used by those who hate big business—not for anything it does or doesn't do, but just because it's there—Richard Lester, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

OBSERVATIONS

License limit unwelcome

Councilman Vernon Russell was the most outspoken opponent of a move by councilman Ted Bae Tuesday night to limit the number of liquor licenses in Wayne.

Russell deserves credit for his strong stand against the issue, as do the other councilmembers who apparently were also opposed to the idea, because Bae's motion didn't receive a second.

We can't see any reason to limit the number of liquor outlets, anymore, than say, the number of hardware stores, or any other businesses.

Bae, of course, pointed out that the city has no power to regulate other types of businesses, but can recommend to the State Liquor Commission a limit on liquor licenses.

True enough, but just because a regulatory power is available doesn't mean it needs to be exercised. Businesses which sell liquor can compete in a free enterprise situation just as well as one which sells shoes.

If there is a need in Wayne for another liquor outlet, some shrewd businessman will probably perceive that need and fill it. If the need doesn't exist, opening another business which makes a profit from the retail sale of liquor probably won't appear too attractive.

Hopefully, the council's refusal to even second a motion to limit liquor licenses will end any further moves in that direction. — Jim Strayer.

Improvement idea is sound

The Wayne Downtown Improvement Committee Tuesday presented its plans for improving the Wayne business district and it looks like a good one.

Store owners are being given an opportunity to ask questions and make suggestions about the proposal through a series of informational meetings being conducted this week and next. Some adjustments may be made but the building principles followed by the committee are sound. They hope to improve the flow of foot traffic, increase the amount of available parking downtown, increase the amount of pedestrian-oriented lighting, encourage outward growth, beautify the downtown business district and give leadership in an effort to encourage improvement of individual businesses.

Wayne's business district has remained relatively strong compared to those in some similar-sized communities. There are comparatively few vacant buildings in the downtown area.

Community leaders can do a lot for small-town businesses. Wayne needs to remain a viable retail center for Northeast Nebraska. Anything done to help make shopping in Wayne more attractive should benefit the community, and we hope businessmen will take a good, hard look at the improvement proposal, offer any suggestions they have, and support the improvement effort. — Jim Strayer.

Caution advised for lightning

The risk of lightning is greater than we think. On the average, lightning kills some 400 persons and injures about 1,500 every year in the United States. The average death toll is higher for lightning than for tornadoes or hurricanes. Lightning normally picks off only one or two people at a time. Therefore, while lightning deaths might be reported by the news media at the local level, they seldom receive wide area coverage.

Exposure to lightning hazard depends on occurrence of thunderstorms. In Nebraska, we can expect to experience an average of 40 to 60 days per year with thunderstorms. Not all these storms produce damaging lightning, but this gives some idea of relative risk.

Besides the danger of electric shock to persons, lightning can produce forces which can build to crushing or explosive levels in some materials. The electrical power of lightning also produces heat and is responsible for numerous fires. Lightning has always been one of the major causes of range-grassland fires in Nebraska.

The following safety rules offer sound, practical guidance as to personal actions that can be taken to reduce the chances of injury by lightning.

When indoors and lightning threatens:

- Stay indoors and do not venture outdoors unless absolutely necessary.
- Stay away from open doors or windows, fireplaces, radiators, pipes, metal pipes, sinks and plug-in electrical appliances such as radio sets, television sets, lamps and refrigerators.
- Do not use plug-in electrical equipment such as hair dryers, electrical footbathes or electric razors during an electrical storm.

When outdoors:

- If you feel the telephone—lightning may strike the telephone lines outside.
- When outdoors during a lightning storm:

- Do not work on fences, telephone or power lines, pipelines or structural steel fabrication.
- Do not use metal objects such as fishing rods and golf clubs.
- Do not handle flammable materials in open containers.
- Stop tractor work, especially when the tractor is pulling metal equipment. Dismount and move away. Tractors in open fields are often struck by lightning.
- In recreation areas, get out of the water and get off small boats. Stay "indoors" on large boats.
- Stay in automobile if traveling. Automobiles offer excellent lightning protection. If caught in this situation, be alert for tornadoes or severe thunderstorm high winds. "Alert" means to be prepared to seek inside shelter if these hazardous effects develop.
- Seek shelter from lightning in a building if possible. If no buildings are available, seek shelter in a cave, ditch, ravine, or under at least head-high clumps of growth in open forest glades.
- When there is no shelter, avoid the highest object in the area and avoid being the highest object. If only isolated trees are nearby, the best protection is to crouch or lie in the open—keeping at least as far away from isolated trees as they are high.
- If you have metal objects on your attire, such as golf spikes, get rid of the metal. You may be grounded and attract lightning strongly.
- Avoid hilltops, open spaces, wire fences, metal clothes lines, exposed sheds and any electrically conductive elevated objects.
- When you feel the electrical charge—if your hair stands on end or your skin tingles—lightning may be about to strike you. Drop to the ground immediately. — Nebraska Civil Defense Agency.

Food production only half of solution

The recent call of 27 national religious leaders to establish the "right to food" as a basic element of U.S. Policy would make more sense if they had coupled it with an admonition that nothing is going to work unless the world restrains its population growth.

Those religious leaders ranging from Evangelist Billy Graham to Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin and including Jewish and Orthodox leaders, could have expressed their moral unity on an equivalent call for the nations of the world to bring their exploding populations under control.

The call sounded like this: "Every man, woman and child on Earth has the right to a nutritionally adequate diet. This right is not ours to take away. It is fundamental and derives from the right to life itself. Without the food to sustain life, that right is meaningless.

The appeal from the religious leaders to the Congress urged passage of a resolution introduced by Sen. Mark Hatfield (R-Ore.) and Rep. Donald Fraser (D-Minn.) which the group said does not commit the U.S. to massive food handouts but rather recognizes the responsibility we have in cooperation with other nations of enabling hungry people to produce more food and to work their way out of hunger.

There isn't anything wrong with the goal of feeding hungry people wherever they are, and in particular, helping them to produce enough to feed themselves. What is discouraging is that religious and political leaders in our country and all around the world, refuse to recognize the fact that world food production, despite significant gains even in the underdeveloped countries, is losing the race with population growth every year that passes.

Just a week before the "Right to Food" policy statement was made, the world population exceeded four billion, a gain of one billion in just 15 years; amid projections that at the present growth rate, the figure will be six billion by 1985. The industrial nations have been bringing their population growth under control for many years, and are coping with the situation. But population growth rates are running rampant in the underdeveloped nations which are the world's hunger areas.

India, Bangladesh, Mexico, Latin America and South America, Africa are all areas in which food production lags behind population growth, and starvation diets are common. More than 80 per cent of the world's food contributions to feed hungry people have been provided by the American people since World War II. With few exceptions, the U.S., Canada and a very few of the other free nations are the only sources of surplus food for sale and for contributions, which says much more about the value of the free enterprise system of government and production.

As long as world religious and political leaders lipote around the like issue, there will be a worsening of the world's food situation. What an opportunity these people missed with their pronouncement that ignored at least 50 per cent of the problem—rampant population growth!

— M. M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

People who have had low net earnings from self-employment may get social security credit if they report their earnings by an optional method, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk. "Instead of reporting their net earnings for the year," Branch said, "people can report two-thirds of their gross earnings from self-employment for social security credit — if two-thirds is $400 or more and not more than $1,600, provided these amounts are not less than their actual net earnings. "They can get social security credit," he said, "if their net for the year is under $600, but their gross is $600 or more and they report their self-employment earnings by the optional method."

Earnings reports and social security contributions should be sent with income tax returns to the Internal Revenue Service by April 15. The optional method of reporting may be used only by people who had net self-employment earnings of $400 or more for at least two out of the three previous years. Under the law, the option may be used only five times. These rules don't apply to self-employed farmers. Eligibility for social security benefits depends on credits earned by people who work in

USDA Announce Wool Payment Rate

An incentive payment rate of 61.1 per cent on 1975 marketings of shorn wool was announced Tuesday by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The announced payment rate is based on the difference between the national average price of 44.7 cents a pound received by producers during 1975 and the previously announced incentive price of 77 cents a pound.

Incentive payments to wool growers are required under the National Wool Act of 1954, as amended.

The 1975 payment rate compares with the 1974 rate of 21.8 per cent. Payments of 1975 marketings of wool will be about $40 million compared to payments of $15 million on 1974 marketings.

A grower's payment on 1975 marketings is determined by multiplying the net dollar return from the sale of wool by the payment rate of 61.1 per cent. This percentage method of payment is designed to encourage growers to improve the quality and marketing of their wool. In every marketing year for which incentive payments are made, the higher the price a grower receives for his wool, the larger his payment.

A payment rate of $1.09 per hundredweight on unshorn 1975 was also announced by USDA. This payment is designed to compensate growers for the wool they market on live lambs rather than as shorn wool. The payment is based on the shorn wool payment rate, average weight of wool per hundredweight of lambs, and value of lamb's wool relative to the National average value of shorn wool.

Deductions of 1.15 cents a pound from 1975 shorn wool payments and .75 cents per hundred pounds of live weight from 1975 lamb payments will be made to finance advertising, sales promotion and related market development activities. These deductions, provided for in the National Wool Act, were approved by an 85.5 per cent favorable vote by sheepmen voting in a November 1974 referendum.

USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will begin making the payments to growers shortly through its county offices.

The average of $1.85 a pound received by growers who sold mohair in 1975 was $1.05 above the announced support level of 80.2 cents a pound. Therefore, no government payments will be required on 1975 marketings of mohair.

DEAD ALFALFA

There appears to be a sizeable acreage of alfalfa in Wayne County and other counties in this area that have been winter killed.

Much of our alfalfa was weakened by severe insect infestation last spring. Then many farmers took a late fourth cutting of hay. In November we had a rain that froze ice before turning to snow. The winter was not unusually cold, but we did have a lot of wind that left a lot of alfalfa ground exposed to the elements.

Alfalfa needs to go into the winter with food reserves in its root system. In many cases the late fourth cutting did not give the alfalfa a chance to recover and build up a reserve before the November snow and ice.

The fact that some of the alfalfa had some regrowth gave it a chance to build up reserves and the stubble also trapped a lot of snow. The stubble may also have kept the alfalfa from being completely covered with ice and die from oxygen starvation.

Another factor is the winter hardness of the different varieties.

Some of the alfalfa I have looked at appeared dead, but some of the dead alfalfa has started to green up although I doubt that this will happen in too many cases.

Soil Acidity Effects Explained

Much has been written over the years on soil acidity. Nearly everyone knows that too much soil acidity can cause poor crops, but too few know what soil acidity really is or how soils get too acidic.

Very simply, soil acidity refers to the acidic or alkaline properties found in the soil. Vinegar, for example, is acidic. Baking soda mixed with water is alkaline.

Another term frequently used when talking about acidity is the word "basic." Basic and alkaline mean the same thing. Acids are acidic, and "bases" are basic or alkaline.

In the soil, various elements are present which influence the pH. Large amounts of hydrogen and aluminum tend to form acidic conditions. Large amounts of calcium and magnesium tend to form basic or alkaline conditions. Most soils in the humid area contain a mixture of these elements, plus many others.

With normal agricultural operations, it is not uncommon to get an abundance of hydrogen which can make the soil acidic—pH 5, for instance. The hydrogen comes from fertilizers and from normal plant growth. As more hydrogen accumulates, the soil will get more acidic—pH 4. When this happens, many plants suffer poor growth, fertilizer is used less efficiently, and soil bacteria decreases in number and activity.

To correct this problem, bases are added to soil to neutralize the acidity. In agriculture, the bases are generally calcium or magnesium supplied by adding agricultural limestone. The amount of limestone (calcium or magnesium) needed depends on the degree of acidity and other properties of the soil. Obviously, if the soil is very acidic, large amounts of limestone will be needed. Soil testing laboratories have equipment to "test" the soil and determine the amount of limestone to be used. Soil testing should be a part of every crop production program.

Seed Testing Recommended

New seed, carryover seed corn, and soybean seed should be checked for warm germination vigor, according to Dean Lancaster, Nebraska Crop Improvement Association secretary-manager.

The warm germination test is not always sufficient for carry-over seed, he said. A seed vigor test is recommended, and a final seed test should be run on clean seed.

"A great deal can happen to the quality of clean seed between the bin and the field," Lancaster said.

University of Nebraska-Lincoln research shows that germination tests help farmers attain their desired crop stand. Plant population errors of 10 per cent or more may result from planting too many or too few seeds. With higher seed costs, population errors are costly at planting and at harvest time.

Adjustment in the number of seeds dropped should be made on the basis of germination per cent. For example, if 26,000 plants per acre are desired, 28,900 seeds must be dropped to attain 90 per cent germination. For other per cent germination values, divide the desired number of plants per acre by the per cent germination and the number of seeds needed. This adjustment treatment should be considered for seed lots of lower germination.

Corn plant populations should be higher as the farmer's yield goal increases. For a 160 bushel per acre goal, aim for 26,000 plants; for a 130 bushel goal, use 22,000 plants; for 100 bushels, use 14,000 plants.

Soybean plant populations of 100,000 plants on dryland and 130,000 plants under irrigation should provide the best yield potential.

If moisture or fertility limits yield, aim for a lower population. At all population levels, uniform plant spacing within the row is important. Generally, as plant populations increase, crop demands increase for fertility, moisture, weed control and other production inputs. Certain corn hybrids produce larger ears under reduced stands, thus compensating for planting errors. These hybrids are useful when existing conditions are likely to reduce stands.

Pleasant Valley 4-H Club met April 5 in the Terry Janke home with Kurt and Chad Janke and Sheila Gramlich hosts.

Ten members were present and Mrs. Walt Jager showed a film on animal science. Members told of their progress in the various projects.

The sheep project meeting will be held April 20 at the Robert Nissen home.

The next meeting will be May 3 in the Martin Hansen home with June and Dallas Hansen and Kelly and Lynette Hansen as hosts.

Carrolliners

Twenty-one members and three guests attended the Carrolliners Girls 4-H Club meeting April 6 at the auditorium in Carroll. Roll call was "My Favorite Thing."

Plans were made to take part in the speech contest which will be held April 27 at Wayne State College. Mrs. Roy Gramlich showed films on "Home Living" and "Fabrics." Holly Rees and Shauna Roberts served.

Thistle Fight Is on Again

It's time again for Nebraska farmers to gear up for the number one enemy of pastures—musk thistle—a University of Nebraska weed scientist said last week.

Fred Roeth said it appears nothing new is on the horizon in the way of new materials for general use in the immediate future. "Proper timing of application (of appropriate chemicals) remains the key ingredient for successful control."

Even though the fall of 1975 was dry, musk thistle rosettes are still abundant and must be sprayed before bolting (initial appearance of stalks that eventually produce flowers), Roeth explained. Musk thistle will bolt about May 1 in the southeast Nebraska and about May 20 in the northern part of the state.

In University of Nebraska trials near Ord in 1975, herbicide application one week prior to bolting resulted in 97 per cent control, but an application one week after bolting provided only 50 per cent control. The study showed that the combination of 2, 4-D or Banvel was more consistent than either herbicide used alone, but no formulations showed satisfactory when applied after bolting.

The importance of proper timing of application is difficult to overemphasize, Roeth said. "Selective herbicides do little good on bolted plants except to stunt and delay flowering," he explained. "Furthermore, grazing capacity is severely reduced."

"He warned farmers not to expect 2, 4-D or Banvel to reduce seed viability. Evidence shows that musk thistle seed produced is viable even after a herbicide is used."

Emphasizing the tenaciousness of musk thistle, Roeth said herbicides will not kill 100 per cent of rosettes because some will be shielded by other rosettes, plant debris and forage grasses. "Escape" plants must be rogued prior to flowering. And proper sprayer calibration, herbicide rate and application technique will help "escape" to a minimum.

Current recommendations include the use of two pounds per acre of 2, 4-D or one pound per acre of 2, 4-D plus 0.50 pint of Banvel per acre when daytime temperatures are near 60 degrees F, or above and musk thistle is in the rosette stage. Across the state, this means late April and early May.

Census Bureau Plans Survey On Employment

A sample of households in this area will be visited by Bureau of the Census interviewers during the work week of April 19-24 to conduct the bureau's monthly survey of employment and unemployment, according to Walter A. Freeman, Jr., director of the bureau's Regional Office in Denver.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the April survey will have additional questions about the use of food stamps in 1975 and the first quarter of 1976.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 70,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

The monthly survey is conducted for the U.S. department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The February survey indicated that of the 93.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 86.3 million were employed.

The nation's unemployment rate was 7.6 per cent, down from 7.8 per cent in January, and substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 per cent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Part of the proceeds from the Scouts' ticket sales will go towards funding the Mid-America Council's projects at summer camp.

Barner was honored during a swimming party at Wayne State's Carlson Natatorium attended by 15 Scouts and their families.

Prior to the party, several Scouts were presented awards. They were Matt Baier, Webelos badge colors; Blaine Johs, sportsman; Layne Luaders, one year service star, and Ravi Johar and John Rebensofdr, shoulder cords.

The Wayne (Neb.) Herald, Thursday, April 15, 1976

Every government official or board that handles public money, should publish at least once a month a statement of how each dollar is spent. We hold this to be a fundamental principle of democratic government.

NOTICE OF MEETING
 The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will meet on Tuesday, April 20, 1976, at the Wayne County Courthouse from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The agenda for this meeting is available for public inspection at the County Clerk's office.
 Norris F. Weible, County Clerk
 (Publ. April 15)

WAYNE COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS
 Wayne, Nebraska April 6, 1976
 The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met for adjournment with members Beiermann, Eddie and Burt present. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.
 Advance notice of this meeting was published in The Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on April 1, 1976.
 Arlene Zofka, representing the Winslow Cemetery Association, met with the Board to ask if the road to the cemetery could be improved and possibly hand surfaced.
 Jim Koch, Consolidated Engineers of Norfolk, met with the Board concerning the use of the off system road money to improve the Winslow cemetery road. He was instructed to investigate the possibility of improving the access road which runs south from the cemetery gate to Highway 205 instead of the planned project on the road that runs north from the cemetery gate.

Grace Johnson met with the Board to discuss the Wayne County Dixon County atlas that she is in charge of.
 Mrs. Irv Jones, representing the Bicentennial Committee, met with the Board to request their cooperation in a Bicentennial flag presentation to the County. The Board agreed to cooperate with the Bicentennial Committee in staging this ceremony on the courthouse lawn with a tentative date of May 16, 1976.
 Larry Laska, Community Action Agency in Waltham, met with the Board to explain the present program in the counties of Burt, Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne County Treasurers, Leon Meyer, was instructed to renew the 3 certificates of approval which they mature in April. The motion was made by Burt and seconded by Eddie to call a roll vote resulted in all Ayes.
 It appears that the 75 7/8 County Budget set aside $4000 for District Court costs which amount was not sufficient due to the number of jury trials so the Board increased the amount in the Misc. General part of the budget to $8000.00 on Feb. 3, 1976. Now, due to the number of jury trials, it appears that the $8000.00 is not sufficient and upon motion by Burt and seconded by Eddie, the Board of Commissioners increased the amount designated for District Court costs to $11,000. Roll call vote resulted in all Ayes.
 Motion by Burt and seconded by Eddie to use Revenue Sharing funds to purchase a new pickup for District No. 3. Roll call vote: All Ayes.
 The following claims were audited and allowed. Warrants to be ready for distribution on April 16, 1976.

The following officers reports of fees collected during the month of March and remitted to State and County Treasurers were approved as follows:
 N. F. Weible, Clerk — $3,066.75
 Joann Ostrander, CDC — $85.00
 Don Weible, Sheriff — $55.00

The Quarterly Fee Report of Leon F. Meyer, Co. Treasurer, was examined and approved.
 The following claims were audited and allowed. Warrants to be ready for distribution April 16, 1976.

SATURDAY NIGHT was the time for fun and games in the Wayne High gymnasium as the American Field Service chapter sponsored a fund-raising carnival. (Top left) Easy does it for Peter March as he tries his hand at shaving a balloon. Steve Kell and Keith Turner (center, top) were willing victims for Jerry Morris (right, top) who winds up to throw a sponge loaded with shaving cream. Karen Nolte (bottom, left) "tatoos" Jeff Backstrom with body paint. (bottom, right) "Stone walls do not a prison make," but Charles Thomas, Joel Mosley and Tim Heier found that crepe paper streamers make a pretty good jail for AFS fun. The American Field Service chapter sponsors foreign and domestic exchange students attending Wayne High School. Alain Guillot-Pinque of Liege, Belgium is this year's foreign exchange student, living with the Dwayne Rethwasch family. Kris Whitehurst of Bel Air, Md., is Wayne's first domestic exchange student, living with the Robert Sutherland family.

Organizational Meeting

Mrs. Linda Baddorf of Wayne has announced that an organizational meeting for an area human resources committee will be conducted Monday, April 26, at 7:30 a.m. at the Cornhusker Cafe.

Mrs. Baddorf is a Wayne State College student, working as a sociology intern with the Family Services office in Wayne. She agreed to chair the committee during a meeting March 29.

Tonda Highley of the State Health Department's maternal child health division conducted that meeting, explaining problems in dealing with child abuse and neglect.

The group of clergymen, educators, law enforcement officials, health care professionals, social workers and other parties at the meeting agreed to form a human resources committee to determine what services are available from agencies and individuals in the Wayne area to deal with the problem.

Mrs. Baddorf said persons present at that meeting who expressed interest in the proposed committee will be notified by mail of the organizational meeting, but added that anyone from the Wayne County area who is interested is welcome to attend.
