Votes against totaled under 300 in the two counties. A simple majority is needed to decide the issue. The new building will be located adjacent to the existing elementary school and the two buildings will be connected by an all-weather corridor.

Laurel-Concord Schools To Try Third Bond Issue

Voters in Laurel-Concord School District 54 in Dixon and Cedar Counties will be going to the polls June 18 to vote on an $850,000 school bond issue. The bond election — the third since a year ago — will be to decide if a new elementary school and gymnasium will be built.

An $825,000 bond issue which would have financed a new elementary school and multi-purpose room, was defeated Dec. 9. A bond issue for a new elementary school was also defeated in May, 1975. School superintendent Jim Loftquist said the proposed new gym would seat about 1,500,

City Bar Owners Uncork Occupation Tax Gripes

Wayne city council members didn't make any promises Tuesday night, but indicated they would probably lower the occupation tax on liquor licenses before the permits become due again.

Andy Manes, owner of Andy's Pizza, protested the current tax rate at the last council meeting, and Tuesday night led a delegation of license holders present at the meeting.

The council set the occupation tax for liquor license holders at the maximum allowed by state law following an election last fall in which city voters approved Class C licenses. The licenses permit on-and-off sale of beer and liquor.

Manes said the amount was too high for a business like his which he said offers beer "as an accommodation" but depends on food sales as its primary source of income.

Most of the council members indicated they were willing to review the ordinance with an eye toward lowering the occupation tax. Jimmie Thomas, who initially opposed setting the tax at its maximum, pointed out that only a few liquor license holders were present at the public hearing when the tax was set and that no strong protest was registered then.

The council Tuesday refused to recommend issuing a Class C license to Doug Finn, operator of the Bottle Shop at 421 Main St.

Board Sets Tuition at $2,500

The Wayne Carroll board of education Monday night approved the hiring of a new elementary schools principal, set tuition rates for the 1976-77 school year, and approved a list of high school seniors for graduation.

David Luff, a Wayne native, will be the new elementary schools principal. (See related story on this page.) His salary will be $14,500 a year. In addition, he will receive compensation for serving as Title I administrator.

The tuition rate which will be charged students attending next year from outside the Wayne-Carroll district was set at $2,500, a $250 increase from the current rate.

The board gave formal approval to superintendent Francis Haun's recommendation that the 110 members of the current senior class receive diplomas during graduation ceremonies May 24.

The board also voted to re-elect staff members for next year. Only one teacher, Ronald Nilson, has tendered his resignation. Haun said a replacement will be hired to assume his duties as ninth grade English teacher. Resignations are accepted through June 15, Haun said.

Two other teachers, Beula Atkins and Pauline Luff, had previously announced their plans to retire. Haun said no replacements would be hired, in accordance with staff reduction plans.

Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. Luff and Middle School principal Loren Park will receive distinguished service awards during commencement ceremonies. Park announced his resignation earlier this year. Elementary principal Richard Metteer has been appointed to fill the Middle School position.

Salaries for classified staff members, recommended by Haun, were approved during the See SCHOOL BOARD, page 8

THE TEMPERATURE was just right Sunday evening for fishermen to find their favorite lake, plunk down on the bank and cast their lines. One such young fisherman did just that at a fishing pond on the Martin Blohm farm, northwest of Allen. But soon he decided that perhaps the fishing would be better at a different location. Seems his other brothers were nabbing most of the bluegill further down the lake. His next move: join 'em. Photo by Bob Bartlett.

Districts Open with Lopsided Scores

Wayne, Allen, Wakefield Coast in Playoffs

By BOB BARTLETT
Lopsided victories were on the menu for three area teams Monday and Tuesday as Wayne, Allen and Wakefield stomped their opponents in Class B district baseball playoffs at Wayne. Allen chalked up the biggest one-sided score Monday with a 20-1 drubbing of Macy before Wayne blanked Homer 12-0 and Wakefield Tuesday blasted Cedar Rapids, 12-2. In the second game Tuesday, Bancroft dumped Leigh, 11-0.

Going into semifinal play today (Thursday), Wakefield takes on Bancroft at 2 p.m. followed by Wayne and Allen at 4 p.m.

The last time Wayne and Allen met, the Eagles put a scare into coach Mike Mallette's Blue Devils, 4-1. "Allen certainly isn't the kind of a team you can look over. If you do, they'll put you under," Mallette emphasized.

Fact is, the coach pointed out, for the past several years Allen has generally given Wayne some of its best games.

Wayne enters the semi-final contest with a 11-2 record while Allen stands at 3-6. Both clubs earned those victories with the help of timely hitting.

Wayne drove in most of its 13 runs off 13 hits on what coach Mallette felt was better hitting throughout his lineup. "We're getting a lot of different guys, doing the hitting, something we haven't been doing in past games," the coach added.

Looking at Wayne's 11-run first inning, Mallette noted that, "We were fortunate to get to him (Homer hurler Dave Jenkins) early 'cause he pitched a lot better after that frame."

In the opening frame, 14 Wayne batters went to the plate, the most players for Wayne in any frame thus far this season.

Center fielder Aaron Nissen peppered that inning with a three-run double shot to center.

Catcher Larry Creighton and first baseman Doug Carroll smacked a pair of two-run scoring singles and pitcher Paul See WAYNE, page 6

Wanted: Players for Softball Loop

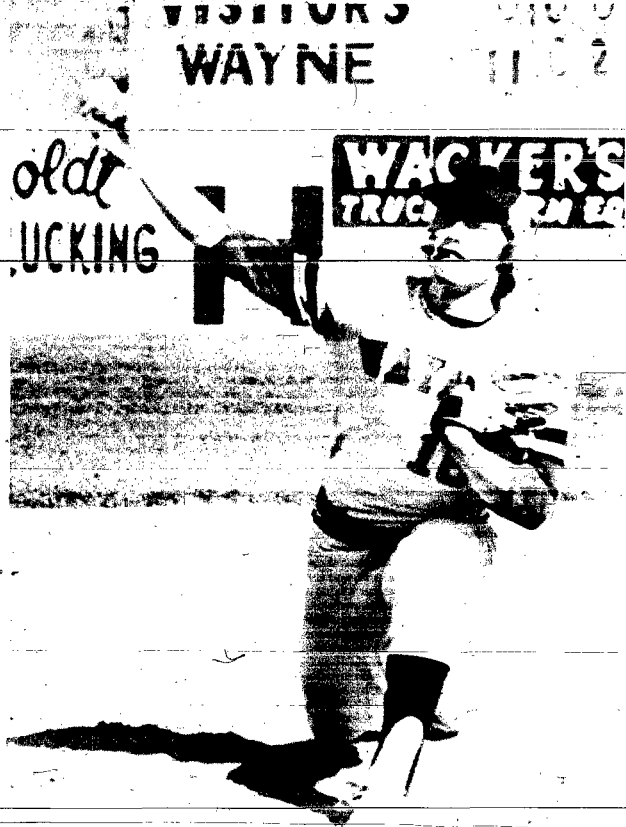

Wayne may have a slow pitch softball league this summer if enough local persons are interested in forming possibly a four-team league.

A drive is underway to get at least 48 persons to sign up by the end of next week. If more are interested, the league may expand to six or eight teams.

Those interested should call or contact Bob Bartlett at The Wayne Herald. Telephone number is 375-2600. Persons should leave their name and telephone number. They will be contacted later for a league meeting.

JIM WINCH really hasn't had to worry about his Winside girls scoring points in the shot put or discus when his team competes in dual or invitational track meets.

The state's No. one girl in both events, Wildkitten Jill Stenwall, always wrapped herself without a second thought. But that's the problem, Winch pointed out. "We take Jill's winning for granted and hardly ever give a pat on the back, something I think she really deserves after most meets," he added.

The head girls coach brought out that fact after the school's athletic banquet two weeks ago when she and senior Bob Hoffman were named Athletes of the Year.

Jill isn't the kind of person who needs that pat on the back every time she wins. Winch pointed out. She has a job to do and she does it, he described as her attitude about sports.

For the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stenwall of Winside, that job Saturday will be to win a gold medal in the state girls' track meet at North Platte. Jill, who already owns a gold medal from last year's meet, will also be aiming to grab the top medal in the discus.

Winch figures she'll have a good shot at both. Presently, she holds the season best in the shot with a heave of 44.9 and the third best in the discus with a toss of 136.5. What gives the head man even more confidence in Jill's ability to repeat as state champ in the shot are her heaves in practice. Over the weekend, she casually pushed the steel ball 46 to 48 feet. She owns the state record, 45.74.

TO BE a state champion, Winch went on, a person first has to have the ability and second, to have the dedication to work out daily.

Jill fulfills both those requirements, especially dedication. Almost daily, she practices at the high school. It's that kind of dedication, the coach pointed out, that makes a winner.

Jill isn't the only athlete in this area who has the dedication needed to produce a champion. When Wakefield track coach John Torczon takes his crew to Norfolk "high today (Thursday) for the Class C district meet, there'll be a pair of Wakefield competitors who also stress the idea of dedication in their workouts."

They are seniors Mark Kober, who has the fastest time in the 100 at 9.8, and Scot Keagle, who is tops in the high jump at 6.5.

As expected the pair practice daily with the rest of the team. But Scot goes one step further. He has his own high jump pit at home where he works out.

Norfolk Golfers Stop Wayne Twice

Norfolk golf teams took a pair of matches from Wayne's varsity Saturday and Monday.

Visiting Norfolk Catholic Saturday fired a 177 on the back nine at Wayne Country Club to top the locals by four strokes. And Norfolk High Monday ripped Wayne, 160-178.

Tom Johansen fired a 39 to lead the Blue Devils Saturday. Also shooting were Ritch Workman with a 46, Si Prather with a 47 and Bob Bornholt with a 49. Not used was Jon Ley's score of 54.

Workman trimmed seven strokes off Saturday's showing to tour the front nine Monday with a 39. Johansen dropped back to a 45 while Bornholt had a 46 and Prather had a 48. Mark Gansborn fired a 52, which wasn't used.

In B team play, Norfolk High continued the blazing pace set by the varsity, whipping Wayne, 169 to 180.

For Wayne, John Keating had a 46 followed by Doug Pierson and Ley with 47 each and Jay Stollenberg with 50. Kevin Marks was the fifth player with a 52.

NEN League Drops to 8

The Northeast Nebraska Baseball League will open its 14-game schedule Sunday, May 23, with few changes in the league's operation, members agreed during Friday's league meeting at Wakefield.

One team, Decatur didn't return for another season after replacing Walthill midway through the 1975 campaign. Lack of a manager forced the Decatur departure.

The opening slate has: Ponca at Dakota City, Homer at Wayne, Newcastle at Wakefield, and Allen-Martinsburg at Pender. With the exception of Dakota City all teams will play under the lights at home. Because of poor lighting Dakota City will start all home games at 2 p.m.

The only minor rule change will permit the use of designated runners for the pitchers and catchers.

An intra-league all-star game will be played at Wakefield in July. The league, however, would accept the challenge of another league if it could be arranged.

The league is seeking umpires for all games, including the four-team playoff which follows the regular season. Persons interested in umpiring should contact one of the managers or league secretary Martin "Lefty" Olson at Wakefield.

Familiar faces at the helm are Bud Vasser, Homer; Arnie Green, Dakota City; Gordon Nelson, Ponca; Tom Brennan, Newcastle, and Roger Hoefs, Pender. New to the managerial chores are Keith Hill, Allen-Martinsburg; Denny Paul, Wakefield, and Don Goeden, Wayne.

Also during the league meeting Nelson was elected league president, supplanting Brennan.

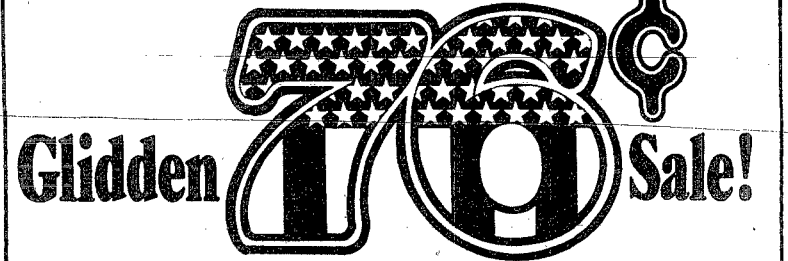

Paul to Teach, Coach at Cedar

Dennis Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugen Paul of Wakefield, has signed a contract to teach and coach at the Cedar Rapids public school system next year. Paul is a 1975 December graduate of Wayne State College. He has been substitute teaching at Emerson-Hubbard Community School, Allen, and Wakefield since then.

At Cedar Rapids, he will teach American and world history and physical education and will be head football coach.

Laurel Hires SSC's Boyle As FB Coach

Joe Boyle will be the head football coach at Laurel High School when the Bears open their season this fall, the school board agreed during Monday night's meeting.

Boyle, who is head coach at Class A South Sioux City, replaces Bob Bosted who resigned this year to coach football at a South Dakota high school.

Boyle will enter the coaching ranks at Laurel with a 19-22-1 record after head coaching jobs at two South Dakota high schools and South Sioux.

Following four years of assistant coaching under Beanie Cooper at Sioux City Heelan, Boyle took his first head coaching job in 1971 at Milbank, S.D. where he directed his club to a 4-4-1 season.

From 1972 to 1975, he guided Lead-Deadwood High to a 15-9 mark, including the Black Hills Conference championship in 1973. This year his South Sioux team was winless in nine starts.

A graduate of Sioux City Heelan, Boyle earned a bachelor's degree in physical education from Morningside College and master's in P.E. from the University of South Dakota at Vermillion. This summer Boyle intends to continue his studies at Vermillion in guidance.

In addition to his football coaching duties, Boyle will be a guidance counselor, athletic director and junior high basketball coach.

During his playing days at Heelan, Boyle was named to the all-city football team in 1961, the same year Heelan won the Iowa state championship.

Boyle and his wife, Catherine, have three children, Ricky, 7, Cindy, 4, and Becky, 3.

NAIA Showdown Approaches For Wildcat Pitching Corp

This is what the season is all about — the NAIA District playoff, coach Larry Schultz said as Wayne State's baseball team headed into the post-season showdown at Kearney. The winner earns a place in the five-state Area 3 playoff.

Wayne, seeded No. 1, is matched against Dana in the 1 p.m. opener today (Thursday). Of the four tourney teams they are the only season winners. Wayne with a 19-17 chart, Dana 21-20.

Kearney State, 19-22, and Concordia, 10-14, will meet at 4 p.m. Kearney gained a playoff berth by beating Chadron State in two of three games Saturday at Chadron. The Antelopes finished second to Wayne in the Nebraska College Conference. Concordia split with Dana Sunday, so earned second (Dana third) in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. Both got playoff bids because NIAC champion Nebraska-Westleyan is not an NAIA member.

Tournament action will continue Friday with Thursday losers playing at 1 p.m. and Thursday winners going at 4 p.m. Then in the evening the 1 p.m. winner will meet the 4 p.m. loser.

That will leave two alive, one unbeaten and one with a loss. They will clash at 1 p.m. Saturday for the championship. If the unbeaten team loses, another game will follow immediately to settle the title.

How does coach Schultz assess Wayne chances? He's optimistic as usual.

The Wildcats have several assets going for them. They have played by far the strongest schedule of the four tourney foes — including five Big Eight teams, one from the Western Athletic Conference, plus Nebraska-Omaha and Creighton. Against them Wayne lost 14, won three.

While that record may look disheartening, Schultz figures his Wildcats profited from such opposition.

Another asset: Wayne is a playoff veteran. This is the seventh straight and 11th overall.

But the Wildcats go into the tournament with an unmeasurable handicap: Leading pitcher Bob Devaur, 5-1, is out of action from a knee injury that requires surgery. Two other pitchers, Steve Russell and Tim Kopecky, were nursing sore arms at midweek but may be ready for play off hurling. Kopecky will perform at his regular third base as usual.

Otherwise, the Wildcats are in good condition and rested from a 13-game grid in eight days, all on the road.

Even with pitching somewhat hurt, Schultz believes the Wildcat mound corps remains deep in talent than other tourney teams can field.

"But there's no question Devaur was our stopper," Schultz said. "We will miss him. And it's a pity Bob had to end his senior-year this way."

NNBL Roundup: Veterans Makeup Allen '9'

When Allen-Machinburg opens season play later this month in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League, new team manager Keith Hill won't have to worry about lack of experience on his club.

Almost all the players from last year's 7-9 squad will be returning, a fact which the coach pointed out will be "one of the strong points for this year's club."

Allen's roster includes 12 veterans, including ace pitcher Neil Blohm, and possibly three other players who may see action for the first time.

Hill noted that if he can acquire another hurler, his club could be a darkhorse in the eight-team league.

Besides Blohm, on the mound for Allen will be Paul Snyder and Gary Troth. First reports were that Allen might get Jeff Mahrt of Sioux City to throw, but Hill said he isn't sure if Mahrt will play.

Allen will be relying on the team's top hitter, Roger Anderson, to once again lead the club in hitting. If the area team can get the hitting, perhaps Allen will be able to overcome its weak point on offense.

Hill, who has coached the Wees and Middlets at Allen for about 12 years, decided this year to take over the town team after his son, Kevin, wanted to play more often rather than coach. Kevin will play infield this season.

The teams to beat in the league are Homer, Wayne and Newcastle; he added, but if Allen can continue where it left off in the second half of the season with a 5-3 mark, "We may be able to give those teams a rough time."

Award Winner

MRS. MARION MANES should be in line to receive a Master Angler's award from the state game and parks commission after she landed this seven-pound, eight-ounce largemouth bass Sunday at a pond on the Martin Blohm farm northwest of Allen. She used an artificial nightcrawler to catch what is believed to be one of the largest bass in the lake. With Mrs. Manes were her son, Mike, and a friend, Gary Munter.

Bruggeman's Car Is 'Best Looking'

Gerald Bruggeman's award-winning modified race car earned him another honor Sunday by winning the C feature race at Norfolk's Riviera Raceway.

Prior to the start of season racing at Norfolk, Bruggeman's car was judged as the best looking vehicle in the raceway oval.

The Hoskings driver, who also picked up a third place in the second heat, had plenty of competition from two other Hoskings drivers.

Gene Brudigan posted a pair of wins in the second-heat as the trophy dash to cart home the most firsts of the evening. He also placed second behind Bruggeman in the C feature.

Harold Brudigan placed fourth in the third heat and second in the A feature.

Winside Jr. High Boys, Girls Win

Both Winside's junior high girls and boys track teams ended their seasons undefeated in dual and triangular meets Tuesday by winning a three-team meet with Wakefield and Allen at Wakefield.

The boys piled up 58 points to Wakefield's 50 and Allen's 29 while the girls collected 55 to Wakefield's 31 and Allen's 25.

FACTS & FIGURES

When did baseball begin? Historians of the sport say it had its origins in a game called "rounders", which was played in England as early as 1741.

In Army tests, it was learned that Bob Feller (Cleveland Indians) threw a pitch which traveled at a speed of 98.6 miles per hour as it crossed the plate. This makes him the fastest pitcher in baseball.

Mickey Mantle of the once-unbeatable New York Yankees hit the longest homer in history — 565 feet in 1953.

Not Quite High Enough

THE EXPRESSION on Lisa Nuss' face tells the story as the young Wayne High high jumper misses her last attempt to move up. Nuss ended at 4.9%, good enough for second place in Wednesday's Class B district at Wisner and a trip to the state meet.

Kearney Netters End Doane's Reign

Kearney State ended Doane College's three-year reign as tennis champion of Nebraska NAIA colleges Friday at Wayne. Doane finished second, Wayne State third among seven.

If took victory by Kearney's doubles pair of Rick Westerlin and Greg Kirby in the last event to settle the 1976 title. They defeated Randy Troxell and Chris Mayers of Doane in a three-set marathon, 6-7, 6-4, 7-5.

Bill Roach earlier set up the Antelopes' title possibility when he beat Ed Hubbs of Doane in the first-flight singles finale. That also lasted a long three sets, 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, leaving the doubles still in action.

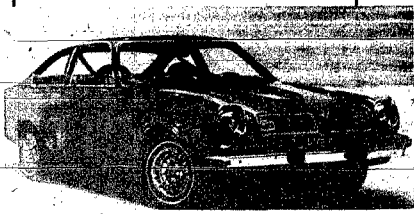

In second-flight singles Bill Rayburn of Doane won the title with a 6-3, 6-0 win over Steve Black, Kearney. In third-flight, single Doane's Rich Smeath defeated Ron Knoeffel, Kearney, 6-2, 6-0.

Kearney compiled 34 points to Doane's 31. Wayne State scored 11 points, Concordia and Midland both four, Hastings one, Dana zero.

In consolation-brackets, Wayne won all three singles matches for third place: Mike Lide, 6-2, 6-1 over Mark Kraay, Midland; Rick Noyes, 6-2, 6-0 over Jeff Elliott, Midland; Doug Pooshman, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2 over Rex Haberman, Hastings.

Members and instructors Lance Bristol and Vincent Broudeau attended. Each of the instructors reported on the music contest held in Wayne April 22-24.

Mrs. Robert Jensen read a letter concerning Music Booster calendars. Letters will be sent out to each family, who in turn must reply whether or not they want a calendar.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Voss and Mrs. LeRoy Ruback.

Mallette drove in a run on his base hit, also in the first for the big 9.

Allen's victory resulted not so much from their nine hits, but on Mallett's solo error.

Wakeupfield scattered five hits in the seven-run second frame Tuesday en route to the Trojans' fifth win, 12-2, over Cedar Rapids.

Right fielder Alan Johnson, who connected all three times at the plate, smashed a pair of singles in the second, including a two-run base hit.

For coach Joe Coble's team, the victory was an uphill road race that first inning as Cedar Rapids punched across two runs to take a brief 2-0 lead.

YOU AND MENTAL HEALTH May is declared National Mental Health Month. A good time to take inventory of this serious business of living.

Simply defined, mental health is coping with life's situations. Situations may range from a child spilling his milk on the dining room carpet to sudden death of a family member.

TO promote greater awareness of mental health the National Mental Health Association is inviting you to watch the motion picture "Return to Earth", the dramatic presentation of Buzz Aldrin's serious bout with mental depression following his historic moon landing. This true life story can be seen on May 14, at 8:30 p.m., Channel 9-TV. It's a honest account of a famous person who needed help, sought help and is not ashamed to share his experience with you.

After viewing the movie you're asked to consider making a contribution to or becoming a member of your local or state mental health organization. Contributions of a $5 membership should be mailed to: Mrs. LaVerle Helmes, Harlington, NE 68739. Mrs. Helmes is president of the Northeast Nebraska Family and Community Affairs Council.

Greater understanding of people-related problems will lead to better mental health nationwide. Your membership in and cooperation with mental health organizations will help attain this goal.

You can save money by supporting legislators who are in favor of a subsidy for the postal service. Experts at the National Association of Letter Carriers point out that if this is done our postal rates will not rise so quickly. You can save money by not wasting it. Thought for Today

By Brian McBride
"One of the reasons mature people stop learning is that they become less and less willing to risk failure..."

That learning should stop with graduation from a formal school is a major tragedy. Ideally, formal education should instill in us a craving to know... to understand... that inspires life-long learning.

Recent studies have shown that our brains improve with use and that our capacity to learn is not impaired by age as long as we stay mentally active. It is never too late. Don't let a false "fear of failure" deprive you of the satisfaction of continual learning.

We serve families of all faiths, all creeds, with a single high standard. Every family deserves, and receives the best of which we are capable.

About 8 a.m. that day, a tractor trailer operated by William Kinloss, 112 1/2 E. Fourth, struck a parked pickup owned by the City of Wayne, located near the corner of Main and Clark Streets.

Thought for Today

By Brian McBride

"One of the reasons mature people stop learning is that they become less and less willing to risk failure..."

John W. Gardner

That learning should stop with graduation from a formal school is a major tragedy. Ideally, formal education should instill in us a craving to know... to understand... that inspires life-long learning.

Recent studies have shown that our brains improve with use and that our capacity to learn is not impaired by age as long as we stay mentally active. It is never too late. Don't let a false "fear of failure" deprive you of the satisfaction of continual learning.

We serve families of all faiths, all creeds, with a single high standard. Every family deserves, and receives the best of which we are capable.

Council

opposition to a proposal for improving the downtown business district in Wayne. He displayed a petition which he said contained signatures of business owners, located on Main St. between Third and Fourth Streets, who are opposed to the project.

Bahe later said he believes there are only 12 businesses in the block.

Robert Carhart, co-chairman of the downtown improvement committee, presented the group's proposal to the council. The plan calls for new sidewalks, curbs and gutters in the downtown area, new lighting, widening of some streets and closing of some alleys along Main St.

A number of persons who own residential property in the area asked if they would be required to help pay for the improvement and some opposition was expressed over closing of alleys.

The council took no action on the proposal but agreed to take the plan under advisement.

Vakoc asked city administrator Brink to obtain some estimates as to what the proposed plan would cost individual property owners.

A proposal to eliminate some parking on S. Main St. adjacent to the International Harvester dealership was abandoned. The parking ban had been proposed as a safety measure because, it was said, large trucks sometimes block the view of an intersection with Main St.

A number of council members, however, agreed that eliminating the parking spaces would be a hardship on several businesses in the area. Police chief Vern Fairchild said no accidents had been reported at the intersection in question during the past year.

In other action the council:

- Approved a capital improvement plan for street, water and bonding projects.
- Approved a planned use report designating $15,000 of anticipated revenue sharing funds for the police department and $10,000 for environmental protection.
- Approved two appointments by mayor Decker. Bruce Griffin was appointed to the fire department and Keith Adams will become a city police officer.
- Agreed to authorize the fire department to work out a specific proposal for operating a rescue unit, including a budget for the coming fiscal year.
- Was told by Brink that no formal response had been received from the Wayne County commissioners regarding the possibility of an out-of-court settlement in a civil action in which the city alleges the county owes it $7,000 for ambulance services.
- Approved a motion to set up a sewer district to possibly finance the covering of an open storm sewer in southeast Wayne.

License Revoked

A Carroll youth, Rodney Kuhnthenn, is one of 116 Nebraska drivers who had his license revoked in the month of April, according to the Nebraska Motor Vehicle Department.

Local Voters

Revel Choices

Presidential preferences among Wayne County Republicans pretty closely followed the state trend for Ronald Reagan, with local Democrats leaning most heavily toward Jimmie Carter, who finished behind Frank Church in the Nebraska primary.

Statewide, Reagan received about 64 per cent of the GOP vote, against 46 per cent for Gerald Ford, according to early reports.

In Wayne County, Reagan pulled in 818 of the 1,425 GOP presidential votes, about 57 per cent, compared to 607 and 42 per cent for Ford.

Local Democrats favored Carter, giving him 241, or about 52 per cent — of their vote. Church was the choice of 187 county Democrats — about 28 per cent of the total party primary vote in the county.

Hubert Humphrey received 53 local votes; Ted Kennedy, 29; Morris Udall, 27; and George Wallace, 22.

Ford did win the West Virginia primary Tuesday, but Reagan now has about 422 national convention delegates, compared to approximately 335 for Ford.

Carter, who received about 37 per cent of the Nebraska vote, compared to 29 per cent for Church, was the winner in Connecticut's primary Tuesday, finishing with 39 per cent of the vote, two points ahead of Udall.

State, federal government clash over welfare money

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — The fight is on once again between Nebraska and the federal government over welfare money.

Three years ago the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare said error rates in Nebraska and other states in the handling of welfare cases were too high.

In a power play, the federal government gave the states through June 30, 1975, to clean up these too-high error rates or lose a part of the federal money that is the mainstay of state welfare efforts.

The failures from last year are not in and federal officials have renewed their threat.

Nebraska stands to lose $229,000, but even that remains in doubt regardless of what officials at the federal level say.

Nebraska and a group of other states have filed suit in federal court challenging the assumed authority of the federal government to impose any kind of dollar withholding penalty.

The basic issue is whether the states or the federal government is in charge of the welfare programs that most of the time appear at least to rest in the hands of the states.

As an example of how serious a question this is, a similar question was put to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

State or Counties in Charge?

The issue in that case was whether the state or the counties were in charge. It seemed a simple question to represent Lancaster County employees as their collective bargaining agent. The union went to the State Court of Industrial Relations and got a union election order.

The county balked and appealed. The Supreme Court, after a careful review, concluded counties really didn't have the right control over welfare programs and not even over employees at the county level.

Through rule and regulation, the court said the state was in charge and had control over most of the issues that a union would want to bargain over.

Thus, ruled the court, any union activity would have to encompass both the county and the state because the county simply could not be held solely responsible.

"To force it (the county) into bargaining as the sole employer will be either a futile or a disastrous act," the Supreme Court said.

As to the state-federal questions, State Welfare Director Alan Ihms said if the states do not prevail in the courts then he for one will challenge the federal government's error rate figures as erroneous.

The federal government singled out the Aid to Dependent Children program and said the rate of error should be no more than three per cent ineligible and no more than five per cent each for overpayments and underpayments.

State Rates Is Higher

The federal government said Nebraska's final figures included a 6.8 per cent ineligible error rate, a 14.6 per cent overpayment error rate and an 8.4 per cent underpayment error rate.

Surrounding state penalties for the same thing included: Colorado, $741,000; Iowa, $287,000; Kansas, $36,000; Missouri, $287,000; Wyoming, $33,000.

In 1971, the Unicameral passed a law designed to discourage drug use.

It had an interesting feature that it made it a misdemeanor crime for anyone to be in the same room, or car, as a person who has a drug in his possession or is using it.

The Platte County and district courts rules the law unconstitutional and dismissed charges, filed against two Columbus men, James E. Adkins and Daniel J. Sutherland.

They were found by the state patrol in the same cars as others who were using drugs.

The county attorney decided to appeal to find out whether the lower courts were right, that the law was invalid because it was too vague.

The Nebraska Supreme Court agreed with the lower courts.

Prior to the Supreme Court's decision, the county and district court decisions only applied to the geographic jurisdictions of those courts.

"It is evident that the statute as written is broad enough to encompass entirely innocent behavior," said Judge Donald Brodkey in writing the opinion for the 6-1 majority.

Brodkey said if the law were to stand then there would be some unusual possibilities.

those whose only action, was to ride a bus, be in a hotel lobby, live in a college dormitory, or even be in a voting place where there is someone else standing about with a drug of an illegal nature in his pocket.

The possibilities were incredible, he said.

"We do not think the legislature intended it must in some way let all persons know how to tell when it is being broken and be written so that all those of 'ordinary intelligence' can pinpoint exactly what is forbidden.

Judge Harry Spencer said he thought the courts could interpret the law so that it would be constitutional.

But Judge Lawrence Clinton, noting three states have done just that in cases involving similar laws, said Spencer's idea is for the courts to get out of the review business and into the task of actually writing legislation.

"That is beyond our constitutional power as a court," Clinton said.

The Nebraska Insurance Department is considering a new regulation designed to prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex and marital status when it comes to insurance coverage and benefits.

However, caution officials, just because the regulation is being considered doesn't necessarily mean they think there is a serious problem.

Department attorney James Valdez said everyone just wants to make sure there is none.

The regulation would not have any impact on rates. Valdez said a rate anti-discrimination regulation may one day be proposed. But he said more information is needed before it can actually be considered.

Public hearings, the attorney added, would yield a true picture of the existence of discrimination in insurance.

As to potential problems, Valdez said disability income insurance is one area of insurance open to speculation. He said there is a possibility a firm may refuse a policy to a woman on the grounds women are disabled more than men and thus the risk rate is too high to write the policy.

In the alternative, he said the rate for men and women could vary greatly.

Shift seen in tax reform advocacy

An interesting observation on the subject of "property tax relief" is that the principal advocacy in the last two sessions of the Nebraska Legislature shifted from rural senators to urban senators.

There were several clear-cut examples of this. For instance, Omaha senators repeatedly stated that Omaha property owners couldn't stand further increases in their property taxes in demanding that the state assume a part of the cost of the Omaha school district's expenses in complying with a court-ordered school integration plan.

They conditioned their support for Raiston Sen. Gerald Koch's state aid to education bill on a stand that it earmark funds to pay for additional school buses.

As recently as 1974, Omaha senators teamed with several outside senators in the referendum campaign that successfully knocked out the state aid to education bill passed by the Legislature that year.

In each of the last two sessions, Omaha and Lincoln senators have opposed elimination of the sales tax on retail food sales. They spent little time arguing the principle of the matter. They simply said the property owners couldn't afford to make up for the loss of revenue that their one per cent city sales tax provides.

A per capita state income tax credit applies to the 2.5 per cent state sales tax levied on food sales, but the one per cent city tax levied in Omaha, Lincoln and Bellevue has no compensating credit.

Does the shift in who is advocating "property tax relief" these days mean that the tax pressure has become greater in the urban areas? For more than 20 years, urbanites staunchly opposed the use of sales and income taxes as a new source of revenue but once the change was made, the metropolitan communities lost no time in getting the Legislature to permit them to levy their own city sales tax.

Inflationary costs have put the squeeze on municipalities, especially the larger cities. It is thus natural to hear senatorial debate center on who is paying the most and being hurt the most in tax matters.

Truth is that property taxes levied on rural and urban areas are an increasingly heavy burden. According to the state-federal division of agricultural statistics, taxes levied on rural real estate in Nebraska rose 370 per cent between 1960 and 1974, an increase from $29.6 million in 1960 to $109.9 million in 1974. The local property tax on farm land per acre averaged $1.11 in 1960 as compared to $2.46 per acre in 1974.

According to State Department of Revenue figures, Nebraskans in 1973 paid $1.4 billion in federal taxes, $375 million in state taxes, and $415.7 million in local property taxes. And of that $415.7 million in local property taxes, 16.24 per cent went to the counties, 15.20 per cent went to the cities and villages, 64.23 per cent went to the school districts, and 4.33 per cent went to miscellaneous local districts (fire districts, weed districts, etc.).

According to 1973 actual valuation totals on Nebraska real estate, $6.9 billion was classed as rural and $5.5 billion classed as urban, which comes out about 55 per cent to 45 per cent.

Of Nebraska's population, 1.5 million persons live only around 775,000 or about 18 per cent would qualify as strictly rural, so it becomes obvious that farm and ranch people are well qualified against anyone who sets out to play the per capita urban vs rural "numbers game" on tax issues.

But perhaps the time has come for both sides to quit finger pointing and concentrating on the problem of developing a tax system that is fair and equitable as possible and is based more nearly on an individual taxpayer's ability to pay. — M. M. Van Kirk Farm Bureau Federation.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

OBSERVATIONS

License should be approved

The Wayne city council Tuesday night voted to submit its first negative recommendation on a request for a Class C liquor license since voters approved the measure authorizing issuance of the on-and-off state licenses.

That seems essentially unfair to us. Doug Finn, owner of the Bottle Shop on Main St., was the applicant. He told the council he planned to sell liquor for consumption on the premises because the proliferation of package sale operations, made possible by the C license, has made it impractical to offer package liquor only.

Four council members voted in favor of the negative resolution. Two members were absent, and two voted no. Mayor Freeman Decker's vote decided the issue.

We don't fault the reasoning of those who voted to recommend against the license. They stated that they had received complaints from residents in the nearby area concerned about having a bar that close to their neighborhood.

However, the Bottle Shop is in a commercial zone. Finn has been in business for some time, and has come to considerable expense to upgrade the building his business is in.

As Finn pointed out, when he began the liquor, he was content to offer off-sale liquor only; because, then, establishments which offered liquor by the drink under auspices of bottle club licenses could not sell package liquor.

Approval of Class C licenses changed all that. Now, anyone holding the license can sell all alcoholic beverages for consumption on or off the premises.

That has naturally cut down on Finn's package sales and it is understandable that he wishes to add on-sale liquor to his operation in order to remain competitive.

Up until Tuesday night, the council had not recommended against any request for a Class C license, and had refused to limit the number of licenses issued. (We have previously expressed our opposition to limiting the number of licenses.)

In one previous case, an applicant in business near a residential zone, and got primarily in business to sell liquor, pleaded that the business could not be operated profitably without a liquor license. The application was approved.

Were this a case in which an applicant was asking to sell liquor in a residential zone, or in which an applicant not already in business indicated a desire to open a bar in a commercial zone adjacent to a residential zone, we could agree with the council's decision.

As it is, we can understand the reasoning behind the negative recommendation; we can even sympathize with it. We cannot agree with it.

The situation at hand is one in which a businessman, through no fault of his own, finds himself in a position where he may not be able to compete even footling.

If too many liquor establishments open in Wayne and some are forced to go out of business, fine. That's free enterprise at work. But an existing business should not be denied the official sanction necessary to operate on an even basis with his competitors. — Jim Strayer.

Chamber endorses zero-base budget

Whenever National Chamber witnesses a trip up the Hill to suggest trimming federal expenditures, we are sure to get this question from a congressman: "Where would you make the cuts?"

"It is a congressman's way of pointing out that making such decisions is difficult. It's also a cop-out, for two reasons. First, the congressman knew he was going to have to face tough decisions when he ran for office — that's what he's here for. And second, it places the burden of proof on the taxpayer, rather than on the tax taker.

In other words, your average government agency assumes that its existence is justified by its existence. Consequently, we still have with us the federal "Hamm" Fund, among other relics of a colorful past.

But a remarkable — and encouraging — thing has happened. Suddenly people from the political left to the political right have realized simultaneously that this is no way to run a railroad.

According to this new consensus, budget reviews should not be confined to how much or how little to increase last year's appropriation. Rather, each agency and program should have to justify its right to continue receiving any funds at all; that is, it should have to prove that whatever good it does outweighs what it costs the taxpayer.

This concept is known as "zero-base budgeting" (because the program or agency under review has to start at zero and account for every penny it is requesting). It is also called a "sunset law," because one method of implementing the system is to provide an automatic termination date for all programs — say, every three or four years — and those that can't prove they deserve to be kept going are allowed to fold.

The obvious benefit of such a law is that it has the potential to clear out the deadwood — the governmental equivalent of bankruptcy in the private sector.

The National Chamber has pushed hard for this kind of law at the federal level for a long time. And now there's a bill to create one: S. 2925, the Government Economy and Spending Reform Act of 1976, introduced by Sen. Muskie (D-Me.) and cosponsored by a bipartisan group. It proposes establishment of a procedure for "zero-base review" and evaluation of government programs and activities every four years — to eliminate overlapping programs and to require new budget authorization for programs every four years.

We have a few minor suggestions for improvement. But basically, we believe it is a good bill and much needed.

The same idea may spread through the states. Colorado already has a sunset law on its books. So does Georgia. And Florida just passed an ingenious variation on the same general theme.

The Florida law, called the Florida Economic Impact Disclosure Act of 1975, requires state agencies to justify their actions, in cost-benefit terms, before taking them. According to the Wall Street Journal, "the new law requires that the agency issuing a new rule first determine that it has selected the lowest cost method of achieving its purpose, that the cost-benefit ratio has been analyzed, that resources used can be more effectively employed through the public sector than the private sector and that the action will improve rather than impair market competition. Further, it must determine whether the action will hinder or improve the open market for employment and how the costs and benefits will be distributed among various individuals and groups."

In other words, it's the economic equivalent of an environmental impact statement, for a government agency.

If legislators keep coming up with ideas like these, there may be some hope for us after all. — Richard Lester, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Report Shows Farms Are Specializing

What do Nebraska's dairy herds and poultry flocks have in common?
Both are following a nationwide trend toward specialization, so the state's output of milk, eggs and poultry is coming from fewer but larger operations.

That conclusion is one of many in a report evaluating the state's resources in "Other Livestock": dairy, poultry, horses, sheep, dogs, cats, rabbits, fish and game birds.

The report is one of 12 in a series of studies under the umbrella project "STAR" — Strength Through Agricultural Resources, headed up by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Goals of the study are to inventory Nebraska's agricultural, natural and human resources; to look at past trends and activities in responding to these conditions.

Hereford Group Announces Site For Field Day

The Fairway Ranch near Valentine will be the site of the annual Nebraska Junior Hereford Association field day, June 19, according to NJHA president, Jayce Imlig, Theodor.

Activities will begin at 8 a.m. with registration of the judging contestants.

During the lunch hour a demonstration entitled, "Trimming Them Right" will be conducted. As part of the afternoon activities, the keynote address will be delivered by 1975 Southern Regional FFA Vice President, Bart Brashears, Allamore, Okla. Also scheduled to deliver comments during the afternoon is American Junior Hereford Association President, Cliff Copeland, Nara, Wis., N.A.M.

The day's activities will be rounded out with the crowning of the new Nebraska Hereford Queen and the presentation of some thirty awards in the various contest divisions. Among those awards will be a registered Hereford heifer which the Fairway Ranch will present to the high placing NJHA member in the judging contest. Later in the evening, NJHA members will be guests at the dance following the Saturday night performance of the Valentine Little Britches Rodeo.

this trend: "Dairy cow numbers reached their peak in 1930 when the Nebraska Department of Agriculture figures showed 695,000 dairy cattle in the state. Since then, there has been a slow but consistent decrease down to the present 350,000. This trend is likely to continue through 1985."

While dairy cattle numbers are down 30 per cent, milk production per cow is going up, the report notes, but not enough to offset the decrease in cow numbers. So, total milk produced has declined 26 per cent.

One factor could possibly turn the dairy industry around, the report states. That factor is the significant increase in acres of irrigated land. "In all other parts of the U.S. and the world, wherever there had been an increase in irrigation there has been a corresponding increase in animal agriculture."

"The Northern Cropping District in Nebraska is an excellent example of the positive effect of irrigation on dairy production. Ten of the 15 counties in that district showed an increase in both dairy cow numbers and in milk production."

In poultry, the report continues, egg producing hen numbers are expected to increase about 43 per cent, with a belief that egg processors in Nebraska will need more local production.

"Nebraska has the largest egg drying industry in the United States. These processors need eggs to the extent that they are responsible for the large growth of commercial flocks since 1970. "At the present time, our processors are importing more eggs than Nebraska produces. Processors don't need to have all their eggs come from Nebraska, but they need a strong core of steady production from home."

"Processors are now using the production from approximately 1.5 million Nebraska hens, and estimate they could use the production from another million hens now." The STAR report points out.

Nebraska's turkey situation has been relatively stable since 1960, but dropped in 1973 and 1974. Authors of the report felt production were difficult at this time because of "conflicting situations." Although U.S. per capita turkey consumption is up considerably, the state industry is in jeopardy because of the national market situation, the high cost of feed in 1974, and the dependency on one processing plant.

The broiler situation is different in that small flocks are making a comeback. The reason for this, the report says, is that "many areas of the state are not easily serviced by the big commercial broiler industry in the southeastern United States, so the quality of broiler products reaching the consumer has not always been the best. This has caused many rural and small town people to grow their own or buy them from neighbors."

Looking at the sheep industry, the report notes, "The number of sheep in Nebraska did not decline as rapidly in the 60's as occurred nationally, but since 1970 the decline in Nebraska has accelerated more rapidly than nationwide. Using either trend, a further decrease of 28 per cent by 1985 is predicted."

Of the major problems causing the decline, the predator problem is thought to be the most important, the report points out. In 1973, 22,400 sheep and lambs were lost to predators, or nearly seven per cent of the state's total sheep inventory.

"So any projection of sheep numbers may look wrong because of quick turn arounds if effective predator control is legislated." Other factors which would affect sheep numbers are demand for wool, oil prices, the price of synthetic fibers, and food prices.

Other summaries in the report included these predictions: —Fish numbers are expected to increase, but no specific amount is estimated.

—Game birds are expected to increase six-fold.

—The number of horses has been going up with an increase of 16 per cent estimated by 1985.

—Rabbit fryer numbers could easily double by 1985.

4-H CAMPS

Camps have traditionally been thought of as an outdoor activity with emphasis on recreation. And 4-H also has these types of camps such as the Ponca Day Camp at Ponca State Park, June 20 and 25; Camp Counselor Camp at State 4-H Camp, Halsey May 26-29 and Leadership and Environment Camp at State 4-H Camp also at Halsey June 14-18.

But 4-H has a new type of camp and they are called Project Camps with the emphasis on learning more about their projects and with only a little recreation. Roy Stohler, area youth agent, has been pioneer in this effort and has conducted a large number of such camps at the Northeast Station the last several years.

Some of the project camps that they have had the last couple of years include horse, beef, sheep, swine, dairy, foods and photography just to name a few. Camps scheduled for the remainder of the year are Bicycle Camp, June 3-4; Foods Camp, June 8-9 and Plant Science Camp, June 17-18.

A typical camp would be the recently completed Market Beef Camp held at Northeast Station April 9 and 10. The camps start after school on Friday and continue into Saturday afternoon.

The 4-Hers stay overnight and eat their meals at camp. The program included sessions on feeding, grooming and judging of beef.

In one session Vernon Krause, district beef specialist, removed some contents from the stomach of an animal and the 4-Hers studied the microbes under the microscope. Jack Silvers, Wakefield, presented a demonstration on fitting and showing beef. And of course there was still time left over for some organized recreation. All of these programs are an attempt to make 4-H more educational and still be fun.

SPEECH CONTEST

We recently completed a very successful 4-H Speech Contest at Wayne State College with twenty-seven participants. Dr. Robert Johnson, the judge of the contest, complimented the group on how much they had improved over the previous years that he had judged the contest.

Antia Sandahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sandahl has been in the contest each year, but this year she wished to go to Washington, D.C. with some of her school mates on a Bicentennial trip. Antia's plane was not due back to Sioux City from Washington until about 8 o'clock the evening of the speech contest. And then she still had to be driven back to Wayne.

Antia arrived at the contest out of breath, but in time to give her speech. Despite all the rushing around she still received a purple ribbon.

Incidentally Cindy Bull and Mike Reithwisch were acclaimed the winners of the contest.

HATS OFF TO THE HOMBRES

Each year the Wayne County Hombres 4-H Horse club holds a benefit horse show. All the proceeds of this club go to charity.

This year the Hombres donated $500 to Region IV Children's Unit on the Wayne State College campus. This unit works with handicapped children. In 1974 the Hombres made a similar donation.

I think that this is 4-H at its best and I hope that other 4-H clubs follow the example of helping less fortunate persons than themselves.

Expert Will Speak on New Disease

A dinner meeting to update Northeast Nebraska pork producers on pseudorabies has been set for Monday at 7 p.m. at Schantel's in Pender.

Clarence Beckmann, president of the Northeast Pork Producers, said the prevalence of this swine disease is of great enough economic importance to encourage everyone's presence.

Dr. Alex Hogg, Extension Veterinarian, will present information on pseudorabies. Dr. Hogg reported recently that the occurrence of this disease is more common in eastern Nebraska than elsewhere in the state. The disease is a relatively new one and has caused significant economic loss in some areas.

Bob Frischsen, district swine specialist at Concord, indicated that the industry cannot afford to be uninformed about this particular disease and urged all producers and other industry representatives to attend. Beckmann added that the dinner meeting is a "dutch treat" arrangement and that wives are encouraged to attend also.

Energy, Weather Are Topics For Agricultural Engineers

Development of solar energy, wind erosion control, energy conservation, climate and weather will be among topics discussed by more than 1,000 persons attending the 69th annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE) in Lincoln June 27-30.

In addition to more than 70 topics to be presented during the three-day event at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, two special workshops will be featured on July 1.

A pesticides application symposium will concentrate on issues relating to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and what other states are doing regarding pesticide laws. Various talks and demonstrations will be conducted including a demonstration on droplet size spraying. The symposium will be sponsored by the ASAE Agricultural Chemical Application Committee and the UN-L Department of Agricultural Engineering.

Also on July 1 a tractor testing workshop will begin at 8 a.m. in the agricultural engineering building. The workshop will cover the history of tractor testing, a two-hour "hands-on" laboratory session and a series of presentations on tractor selection methods. Participants will observe tractor testing procedures used by the internally recognized Nebraska Tractor Testing Laboratory.

This, the summer annual meeting, will highlight the present and past achievements in agricultural engineering, following this year's theme, "Heritage and Horizons." Keynote speakers will present the following talks: "Electric Power and Processing — A History of Contributions — Challenges of the Future," "History, Development and Future of Meat Packaging and Distribution," "Stepping Over the Threshold of a New Era," "Challenge in Soil and Water Engineering," "Review and Preview, The Structures and Environment Division," and "History and Development of Machinery for Food Production."

Following each keynote address opening morning and afternoon sessions, more than ten concurrent sessions will explore topics including the use of climatic data in agricultural management and home sewage disposal systems, mechanized fruit production and handling, research and development in agricultural tractors, management and simulation of insects and hosts, solar collectors and storage systems and aquacultural engineering, among others.

Summer Workers Need Social Security Card

Housewives, students, and other people who plan to get a summer job should apply now for a social security number if they don't have one, according to Date Branch, social-security district manager in Norfolk.

"You should apply for your number several weeks before you need it for a job covered by social security," Branch said.

"Applications must be screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure that a second number isn't issued to that same person. Screening generally takes several weeks."

More than nine out of ten jobs are covered by social security. "Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," Branch said. "A date branch, bullet retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his social security number. So when you get a job covered by social security, be sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your social security card to his records."

People can get information about applying for a social security number by calling, writing, or visiting any social security office. People applying for a social security number for the first time may be asked to prove their age, identity, and citizenship.

"If you've lost your social security card, you can get a duplicate by contacting any social security office," Branch said. "You can get a duplicate faster if you've kept the stub that came with your social security card."

The Norfolk social security office is at 1310 Norfolk Avenue. The phone number is 371-1595.

Jaeger Family Reunites After 53 Years

It's old home week at the Gotthilf Jaeger home in Winside as Jaeger and his two brothers, George and Paul, reunite with other family members after 53 years.

It was in 1923 that Gotthilf, his brother, Herman and their sister, Minnie, left their home in Dettingen, Germany to live in America. Since then, none of the family has seen each other, including Jaeger's older brother, Albert, who came to Winside in 1921 to farm with an aunt and uncle.

"I remember George, but I could have met Paul on the street and I wouldn't have known him," said Gotthilf at his winside home after they met. "George just aged a little, but Paul changed in every way," he added. Paul was 12 years old the last time he saw Gotthilf.

"The biggest change in Gotthilf is that he seems to have gotten smaller," Paul said with a smile.

George will be 80 his next birthday, Paul was 65 in March, Gotthilf is 72, Albert is 74, Herman is 71 and Minnie is 76.

Minnie, who is Mrs. Christ Weible, lived in Iowa until 1924 when she and her husband moved to the Winside area. She is the only girl in the Jaeger family which had nine boys.

The brothers were all hired farm hands who later took up farming for themselves. With the exception of Gotthilf, all are retired. He and his wife, Elsie, farm a quarter section a mile south of town.

Two other brothers, Hans and Bill, are in Dettingen, but Bill is making plans to visit Nebraska sometime in July.

Times were especially hard for the family during World War II. Paul was a prisoner of war for three years in England and one year on Jersey Island in the United States. The war was especially difficult for the family because relatives fought on both sides.

George, the eldest brother, was a postmaster in Germany for 50 years before retiring 15 years ago. Like Paul, George doesn't speak English although the pair have picked up some since their arrival in Winside in late April.

Paul was a mason and bricklayer for 35 years before he turned the business over to his oldest son in 1974.

All the Jaegers are enjoying their visit in Nebraska and have noted several differences including more cattle and larger farms here than in Germany. In Germany, farms average between 20 to 30 acres. The larger dairy farms have about 14 cows.

The family's hometown of Dettingen has changed considerably over the years. The population has grown from 3,500 when Albert left in 1921, to more than 12,000.

League Meets
The Immanuel Lutheran Women's Missionary League met Thursday afternoon with about 30 ladies attending.

Devotions were given by Rev. H. K. Niermann. Mrs. Archie Lindsay of Laurel gave a candlelight service and talked about motherhood. She was assisted by Mrs. Morris Ebelmer of Laurel.

Following a plant-and-bulb exchange, members had lunch. Hostesses were Mrs. W. Knudsen, Mrs. Dean Pippert, Mrs. Clayton Schroeder and Mrs. Gert Morten.

THOSE AREN'T cracks, they're waterways. Julie Noyes paints the Lions Club emblem on the 16 by 6 foot map of Wayne County which is scheduled to be erected on the courthouse lawn before the Sunday county Bicentennial flag raising ceremony. The black lines visible in this photo mark rivers and creeks in the county. Sites of historical interest will also be shown on the map.

Lions Sign Will Show County Historical Sites

A new historical map should be on display Sunday at the Wayne County courthouse when the audience gathers for the raising of the county bicentennial flag.

A committee including Dr. Charles Maier, Mrs. Richard

Bauer and Dr. Marion Waggoner, now deceased, began working on the project last fall.

Wayne Bicentennial chairman Roberta Wette asked the three to identify sites of historical importance in Wayne County and to come up with an idea to make the public aware of their findings.

The result of the project will be a 16 by 6 foot sign, which will go up on the southeast portion of the courthouse lawn. The two 4 by 6 foot outside panels list former townships, homesteads and other points of historical interest. A map of the county showing the location of those sites is on the two center panels.

Julie Noyes, an employee of the Wayne State College industrial arts department was putting the finishing touches on the sign Tuesday. She and her husband, Rick, a WSC student, painted both the map and side panels. The Wayne Lions Club is sponsoring the sign as its Bicentennial project. The Lions Club emblem will be in the upper right corner of the sign. The Bicentennial emblem is in the upper left corner.

Maier said Tuesday he expected to erect the sign either Friday night or Saturday.

Items listed under early settlement include the first homestead filed by B.F. Whitten in 1868; the second homestead filed by William Jones, also in 1868; the George Scott homestead, where the county was organized in 1870; free claims by Russell Wilbur and a settler named Crawford; the birth place of Ben Miner, first white person born in the county; the site of a scalping by Indians in 1870, and the first county seal at LaPorte.

Other former townships include Taffe which included the first Wayne County post office, in 1869, Northside, which lost out to Winside as a railway station location. Donop, which later moved to Hoskins, the Melvin post office and smithy, the Bird and Webersville post offices, Logan City, which had a store, smithy and gristmill, and the Apex railroad siding.

The first two school districts are noted along with Peace Evangelical Church, the first church in the county, established at Hoskins in 1878; the second church, Immanuel Lutheran, established at Altona in 1881; the Sherbahn brickyard, and the Weber Brothers flour mill.

Other historical sites include Brookdale, established in 1880 and petitioned into Wayne the following year; the first newspaper established at LaPorte in 1871 by C.E. Hunter and William Huse, the site of a prairie fire tragedy which cost Mrs. W.E. Durin and her daughter their lives in 1878, and the Galbreath homestead, filed in 1873. It was the last homestead to be sold—in 1921—under its original patent.

Don Searcy, executive director, will present the Wayne County Bicentennial flag Sunday afternoon on the south lawn of the courthouse. The ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. with a short religious service, followed by the presentation.

U.S.D.A. NEWS

WHEAT PROSPECTS DOWN

Nebraska's wheat crop is forecast at 84.2 million bushels, four per cent less than 1975, according to Jack Aschwege, State Statistician of the state federal division of agricultural statistics.

What yield is indicated at 32 bushels per harvested acre, the same as last year, but 10 bushels below the 1971 record yield of 42 bushels per acre. Acres for harvest estimated at 2,950,000, is down four per cent from last year. Only 87 per cent of the planted acres are expected to be harvested compared with 96 per cent in 1975. Much of the crop was hurt by dry weather last fall, which delayed planting, reduced germination and limited growth. This produced many spotty stands and left the crop vulnerable to winter kill. Lack of snow cover and crown and root rot this spring also contributed to greater abandonment.

PASTURE AND RANGE CONDITION

Pasture and range condition was reported at 79 per cent on May 1. This is 11 points above last year, but four points below the ten year average. Above normal moisture during April improved the condition over the entire State.

HAY STOCKS UP ONE PER CENT

Farmers and ranchers had 1,295,000 tons of hay on hand May 1, one per cent above 1975. A relatively mild winter in parts of the State, with above normal temperatures and light snowfall, allowed more grazing of stalk fields. This, along with a lower cattle inventory, held hay utilization down.
