

Fact Book Being Revised

The Nebraska Public Power District published an industrial fact book about Wayne in 1974 but the community has made considerable progress since then and NPPD is now collecting data so an updated version can be printed later this summer.

Carroll Man Files For Power Board

Carroll banker Phil Olsson has filed as a candidate for the Subdivision 2 vacancy on the Wayne County Public Power District board of directors.

Prior to Olsson's filing, the only candidate was Don Larson of rural Wayne, who is completing the term of Leland Thompson who died while in office.

task and has been busy this week contacting businesses for employment information and other data.

Included in the fact book is information about principal manufacturers, major nonmanufacturing employers, industrial site availability, labor supply, transportation, utilities and communications.

Will said anyone who can supply information which might be useful if included in the book can contact him at the Chamber of Commerce office.

NPPD provides the industrial fact book to communities without cost as part of their development program. Area development supervisor Arch Gustafson of Columbus is in charge of the project.

The industrial fact books are provided to industrial prospects when they arrive in Wayne for a survey visit and are also mailed to industries and developers upon request.

Budget Proposal, Rate Hike Okayed

Wayne's property tax mill levy apparently will be going down in the fiscal year which begins Aug. 1, despite a budget more than $1 million higher than for the fiscal year now ending.

The city council Tuesday night approved a final budget proposal of $3,658,000 for fiscal 1976-77, compared with about $2,570,000 for the current fiscal year.

However, only a little over five per cent — about $197,000 — of the operating budget is raised through the property tax mill levy. A 3.9 mill levy for various purpose bonds raises the total amount which property owners can expect to kick into the city's coffers to about $230,000.

Before the meeting began it appeared the mill levy would be up slightly for the next fiscal year, but cuts, one major one, should mean a lower mill levy.

A levy of 22.15 mills had been proposed, but $10,000 was chopped from one budget line item, the city's Social Security contribution. That and some other cuts should mean a levy of about 21 mills, city clerk Bruce Morant said, adding that an exact levy figure will have to be computed, based upon this latest proposal. Levy for fiscal 75-76 was 21.52 mills.

Councilman John Vakoc was responsible for cutting the Social Security line item. Based on what has been spent for that item, Vakoc contended that the budget proposal allowed for too much of an increase, and fellow council members concurred.

A public hearing on the proposed budget is scheduled for the next regular council meeting, July 27, and final approval of the budget is expected that night.

Buttle Shop owner Doug Finn appeared before the council on an application for a Class C liquor license.

Finn had asked for the on- and off-licence previously. The council initially voted to send a negative recommendation to the state liquor commission, (on the first application) then later decided to change its mind. City administrator Fred Brink attended the liquor commission hearing on the license to inform the commissioners of the council's change of heart, but the license was denied.

Questioning became pointed on Finn's return about Tuesday night. Councilman Vernon Russell asked Finn if he still felt the council had "put him out of business," referring to statements made by Finn after the license was turned down. Russell asked if Finn could not have applied for a license for off-sale only, and continued as a strictly package liquor operation.

Finn replied that when he opened the store, there were only a few package stores in town. Now there are nearly a dozen Class C license holders and all have the right to sell package liquor.

Buttle Shop manager, Mrs. Orville Fernau said the profit from a can of beer sold for consumption on the premises is more than the profit on a carry-out six pack.

Russell said he doesn't "like any part of this liquor thing" and suggested that the council begin a policy of not sending a recommendation on license applications because the state liquor commission makes the final decision.

The council rejected that notion, however, and voted 4-1 to recommend that the license be granted. Russell was the lone holdout on the ballot vote.

Most electric customers can expect to see increases in the electric bills they will be receiving. The council passed an ordinance implementing the recommendations of the original rate study submitted by electrical consulting engineer Norman Armstrong.

Armstrong, present at the meeting, informed the council that the city would not be billed for a revision to the original study. Tables in the initial study indicated that some homeowners could expect rate increases in the 90 per cent range.

That proved to be in error, however, and maximum increases for residential and commercial customers will be about 70 per cent.

Armstrong concluded that the council probably would not have asked for the revision if there had not been an error and said the city would not be billed for the additional work.

City administrator Fred Brink asked for a 5.5 per cent cost of living increase, but none of the council members would introduce the ordinance authorizing the raise and the matter died. Brink's annual salary is $20,700.

Planning commission chairman Mern Nordhorst submitted a report on city sidewalks. About 53 per cent of the city now has sidewalks but about 14 per cent need to be replaced. See COUNCIL, page 10

Water consumption is at an all time high in Wayne and the city council Tuesday night passed a resolution dictating alternating days for watering lawns.

Consumers having odd numbered street addresses are permitted to water their lawns on odd numbered days, those with even numbered street addresses can water on even numbered days.

City administrator Fred Brink Tuesday said water usage had reached about 1.25 million gallons a day, and although exact figures were not available, he estimated that demand this week reached record levels.

Failure to adopt the even-odd watering system could conceivably have resulted in water rationing, Brink said.

'New Faces' Designer Returning

A good-size audience is expected for a noon no-host luncheon at Les' Steak House in Wayne Tuesday when artist Al Nelson makes a repeat presentation of his "New Faces for Old Places" slide show on building renovation.

Nelson first presented the slides to Wayne businessmen June 29 and the immediate positive response indicated a return engagement would be in order.

Will Rogers Jr. Will Speak at NSEA Convention

Will Rogers Jr. will be the keynote speaker during the District III Nebraska State Education Association convention on the Wayne State College campus in October.

District III president Dr. Gene Bigelow, a WSC faculty member, said the son of the late American humorist will address the teachers from throughout Northeast Nebraska during an assembly from 11 a.m. to noon, Oct. 26.

Nelson's firm, operating from headquarters in Red Oak, Iowa, has been responsible for designing business improvement projects throughout the Midwest.

The "New Faces for Old Places" slide stems from the approach Nelson takes in renovating turn-of-the-century buildings such as those which house many Wayne businesses.

Rather than covering up old buildings with new fronts, Nelson recommends cleaning and staining old brick, then highlighting architectural features with a couple of additional colors. Costs vary but the average is about $6 per square foot.

The slide presentation which Nelson will make features before-and-after shots of buildings in projects he has designed. Response was immediate from a number of building owners following the June presentation and the downtown improvement committee decided to schedule another presentation for business owners who were unable to attend the initial showing.

The committee is now circulating a list for building owners to sign if they are interested in talking to Nelson about possible renovation projects.

The Iowa artist said he will be spending a couple of days in Wayne on this visit, giving him time to consult on an individual basis with store owners who are ready to go ahead with sprucing up their buildings. He will also be taking photographs of those buildings so he and his staff can begin working on renovation designs after he returns to Red

Oak. The downtown improvement committee — Roger Nelson, Bob Carhart, Clarence Kuhn, Dale Gulshill and Jack March — are encouraging building owners to spruce up their stores as part of the overall downtown improvement effort. Decision on building renovation is up to the owners, but the committee is hoping that such improvements would be beneficial if the State Department of Roads is approached about moving up on their timetable plans to improve the portion of highway 15 which forms Main St. in the business area.

A number of businesses Tuesday had not yet been contacted about Nelson's coming visit, but improvement committee chairman Roger Nelson said response so far has been good and many business proprietors who were unable to attend the first presentation had indicated they would attend Tuesday and were interested in talking to Nelson

Social Security Increase Means $85,000 More for Local Pensioners

How much do Wayne County residents stand to gain from the boost in Social Security payments, which has just gone into effect?

What will be the average size of retirement checks to local beneficiaries under the new schedule?

Based upon the latest figures from the Social Security Administration, which show the number of recipients in the area and the amount they have been getting, their benefits during the remainder of this year will be approximately $85,000 greater than they were in the last half of 1975.

The total gain locally, over the next 12 months, will amount to $170,000 over the new rates.

The increase represents a 6.4 per cent hike for those getting Social Security benefits as well as for most of the people receiving supplementary security payments, which aid the aged, the blind and the disabled in those states that participate in the supplemental program.

The added benefits, which will affect 37 million people in the two programs, will cost $5.3 billion over the year, according to the Social Security Administration.

The increase was mandated by a change in the law, which became effective last year, under which any future increases in benefits are to be tied to increases in the cost of living.

The determining factor is the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index and the amount it goes up between the first quarter of one year and the first quarter of the next.

Under the new scale, the annual payment for a retired worker rises from an average of $2,448 to $2,616 and, for the average couple, where both are receiving benefits, from $4,176 to $4,464.

Crops Get Breather, More Rain Needed

A shower early Wednesday morning will give Northeast Nebraska farmers a breathing spell, but unless more rain comes soon, dryland corn will not get development.

"I'll be having much of this, we're really in trouble," Moomaw said. "Corn planted a few days later, or later maturing corn, would still benefit from rain in the next 10 days, but if we don't get some moisture by then, much of the dryland corn is pretty much gone."

Pasture lands are also in desperate condition. Moomaw said, and yields on second cuttings of alfalfa have been none to good, either.

The maximum for men currently retiring at age 65, goes from $4,368 to $4,648. The new minimum will be $1,295 compared with $1,216 previously.

What it adds up to, for Wayne County as a whole, is that pension payments to local residents will amount to approximately $2,828,000 in the current fiscal year, compared with $2,658,000 last year.

As for Social Security taxes, they remain the same. The only adjustment this year has been to levy taxes on the first $15,300 of income instead of on $14,100.

Some beans are blooming now. After pollination, in another week or so, moisture will be needed to set the pod and fill the bean in the pod.

Comparing rainfall received so far in 1976 with previous years shows just how dry the region is.

According to figures supplied by Spitzke, the 25-year average rainfall during the first six months of the year (Jan. 1 through June 30) is 14.22 inches.

The six-month accumulation for 1976 was only 9.15 inches, less than an inch above the amount received during the same period in 1974. 8.52 inches.

Most Nebraska farmers will recall '74 as a severe drought year, one in which more than 1,000 Wayne County farmers suffered sufficient drought damage to qualify for disaster payments through the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

Average July rainfall during the past 25 years has been 3.17 inches. Cumulative total Wednesday morning, with the month nearly over, is only .75 inches. That indicates that unless heavy rains are received during the

No Bridge, But Exit Closed

Wayne drivers might be wondering about the "bridge out" barricade on the east exit from the court house parking lot, but it's there for a good reason.

Heat apparently caused concrete to expand, causing a pair of slabs to heave where they join.

Several cars using the exit onto Pearl St. Monday and Tuesday scraped bottom where the two slabs join. So county clerk Norris Weible decided to close the entrance until the problem can be corrected. The barricade, with the "bridge out" sign was the first one available.

REA Loan Will Extend Phone Service to 439

Congressman Charles Thomas' office has announced that the Northeast Nebraska Telephone Company has received a $1,832,000 loan to extend service to 439 customers in nine counties.

The Rural Electrification Administration loan will finance 27 miles of new line and other improvements to the system.

A company spokesman said the loan will help provide additional service to customers throughout the company's area, including Dixon and Concord.

The loan will be repaid over a 35-year period.

Fourth Annual Threshing Show Planned

Father and son, Russell and Carl Johnson of rural Wayne, will give a demonstration of old-time steam threshing Saturday afternoon in a field just west of the Dude Ranch Drive-In Theater north of Wayne.

Saturday's demonstration will be the fourth annual steam threshing show for the Wayne County farmers.

A Minneapolis steam traction engine, which appeared in Wayne's Bicentennial parade July 3, will provide the power for the threshing machine which will thresh several acres of oats during the afternoon.

Antique cars will also be on display at the threshing site. The demonstration is open to the public free of charge.

Winside Officer Resigns

Winside police chief Dale Kenney Tuesday tendered his resignation as the community's sole full-time police officer.

The village board accepted Kenney's resignation Monday afternoon in a special board meeting.

Kenney, who became Winside police chief Feb. 5, said he plans to be indefinite now, adding he will accept one of several law enforcement positions he has been offered. None are in Wayne County, he said. The resignation is effective Tuesday.

Reason for the resignation, Kenney said, is "indication of the village of Winside" about whether or not it will retain its own police force.

Wayne County is currently in the process of implementing a $40,000 grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to provide consolidated law enforcement services within the county.

Senior Citizens Join in Bicentennial Celebration

Members of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center and director Mrs. Jociell Bull participated in Wayne's Bicentennial festivities Friday evening and Saturday, July 2 and 3.

Center president Anton Pederson has represented the center on the Wayne County parade committee since last April, and Mrs. Bull has been a member of the Wayne Bicentennial committee for the past 14 months.

As a member of the committee, Mrs. Bull had charge of locating the oldest persons born in Wayne County to represent the county as Bicentennial senior citizens king and queen.

Crowned Friday evening during ceremonies at the city auditorium were Mrs. Mabel Savidge and George Baird, both of Wayne.

Ted Blenderman, art instructor at Wayne High School, assisted by Anton Pedersen and Mrs.

Moyer Fires Sizzling 100 to Win WCC Open

By BOB BARTLETT
Cool Craig Moyer shrugged off the near 100 degree temperatures Sunday to fire a blistering eight-under par 100 and win the 27-hole Wayne Country Club Open golf tournament.

The 21-year-old Wood River product shot rounds of 33 and 34 for a five-under par 67 to tie another hot shooter, Greg Waugh of Atlantic, Ia., for the lead after 18 holes.

But Moyer continued his scorching pace with a 33 on the back nine to outdistance Waugh, who finished fourth with 108, and defending champion Larry Sock of Norfolk who was second with a 106.

All three were the last to play among the 26 who qualified for the championship round with scores of 77 or better.

Sock was the first of the trio to get in trouble as he bogied the four-par No. 10 hole. Meanwhile, Waugh birdied to take a stroke lead over Moyer playing par golf.

Waugh held that one-stroke lead over Moyer until the 15th hole where Waugh collected his second of five straight bogies before ending the round with a 39.

Sock hung in contention for the crown after a nifty par on the long par-five 13th hole. Sock hit his tee shot out of bounds, but managed to come from behind with a long putt.

Leading by one stroke going into the final three holes, Moyer displayed the championship golf which has made him a member of the University of Nebraska golf team. The senior sank three straight birdie putts while Sock who birdied on the long dogleg 16th, bogied No. 17 before he parred No. 18 for a 37.

"I knew I had it won after the 26th hole, so I just opened up to really play," Moyer pointed out after his second shot on last hole hit the pin and dropped about two feet from the cup.
Moyer had his share of bad luck in the final nine when, on his teeoff on No. 11, he topped the ball driving it only about 120 yards.
"I kinda got down on myself then, but when Greg put his ball in the water (on 11) and Sock went out of bounds later, that really gave me the juice to win," he admitted.

Despite the soaring temperatures, over 200 golfers participated in the annual event, marking the second straight successful tournament this season at the Wayne Club.

Next 27-hole match at Wayne is the Men's club tournament on Sunday, Aug. 15.

In the flights, four local players picked up first-place trophies. They were Dave Schulte, Ken Kluge, Kem Swartz and Greg Allen.

Midgets Rip Emerson, 11-5

Wakefield and Emerson Midgets are tied for second place in the Ralph Bishop League with 73 records after Monday night's go-around which saw Wakefield top Emerson, 11-5.

Brad Jones, who threw three victories over the weekend including a Junior contest, gave up only four hits in Wakefield's victory. The biggest blow for Emerson was in the opening frame when shortstop Jeff Ule mark ripped a two-run homer over center field fence for a 2-0 Emerson lead.

But coach Joe Coble's club struck back in its half with four big runs off two crack Emerson errors and Jeff Simpson's

Raabe's Bat Leads Locals Over Pender

Two-run double.
After scoring single runs in the second and third frames, Wakefield pushed across five more runs in the bottom of the fourth again with the help of Emerson errors.

Friday night Wakefield picked up its sixth league win with an 11-0 trouncing of Pender. Again Jones got the win on the mound.

In a non-league contest Sunday, the Midgets fell to Norfolk, 9-8. Overall, Wakefield has an 11-5 record.

Caution Needed When Boating

"Individuals who are boating in Nebraska need to be reminded that the law requires a Coast Guard approved life-saving device to be present in the craft for every person on board," said Bob Downing, DISTRICT III law enforcement supervisor for Northeast Nebraska.

Downing indicated that canoes and sailboats are more likely to be short the required number of life-saving devices than larger boats, even though these smaller crafts can be upset a little easier.

WAYNE MUNICIPAL AIRPORT
ALLEN ROBINSON
East Hwy. 35 Ph. 375-4444

Backstop/Bob Bartlett

THE DECISION this week to drop the annual Northeast Nebraska Baseball League All Star game hasn't dampened the efforts of others to plan town team tournaments for the avid baseball fan.

One such journey which looks to have a good start will take place in Wakefield. Wakefield manager Denny Paul plans to invite teams in the bottom half of the NNBL to play while the post-season playoff between the top four league teams is on later this month.

Right not if looks like three of those teams in the tourney will be Wakefield, Pender and Ponca. Paul's balking at the idea of inviting Dakota City if it fails to knock off Allen-Marrinsburg for that fourth-place spot. For those persons who don't understand why, players from Wakefield and Dakota City got into a little heated argument in their first encounter after several players from Allen and their manager Arnie "Red" Green got a little too loud.

Paul said he might invite a team from the Dodge County League to fill the fourth spot. More on that later.

Another journey which is in the planning stages may take place in Wayne. Talk has it that town team player Terry Luff is heading a drive to bring in teams from Homer, Newcastle, Wayne and a team composed of players from Wakefield and Allen-Marrinsburg. Hold on there's more.

Luff is thinking about making the tourney an eight-team affair, possibly inviting Crofton, Hartington and Laurel from the Tri-County Baseball League and West Point of the Dodge County loop.

The date for this big get-together — if it receives the okay from the town team and NNBL boards — could be the middle of August. Again, hope to have more on that later.

AFTER SOME second thoughts, I think it's only fitting that I mention the names of the players from Allen's Pee Wee and Babe Ruth clubs who made the Northeast Nebraska Little League All Star game.

They were: Pee Wees — Ricky Gotch, Scott Carr, Leonard Wood and Robb Linafelter; Babe Ruth — Mark Pubeck, Mark Creamer, Doug Kliver and Brent Chask.

I held off giving this information last week because this is the first information of any kind that has been sent to me about any games Allen players have participated in this season. It seems that the coach at Allen doesn't have the time to call collect with the results, so there's been no coverage of Allen teams this summer.

The second thoughts about printing the kids' names came about when I realized that I was punishing the players for something that wasn't their fault.

THANKS to Bonnie Nelson, here's a list of dates for tractor pulling contests around the state for interested followers and persons who are active in the sport.
July — 17, at Columbus, 5 p.m.; 18, at Beemer, in the afternoon, and at Scribner in the evening; 24, at Wood River, 12:30 p.m.; 25, at Grant, 1 p.m.; 31, at Pender, in the afternoon, and at Wayne, 7 p.m.

THE LATEST information on the Class

C District 3 Junior and Midget baseball tournaments is that the tourneys are scheduled to start the last week in July.

As mentioned in a previous report, Wayne's Juniors will play at Coleridge along with teams from Coleridge, Wakefield and Randolph. The winner advances to the area meet at Wakefield.

The Midgets will have a bigger field to contend with when they had to Coleridge for the district meet, also the same week. The field of seven teams also included Wakefield, Laurel, Emerson, Coleridge, Randolph and Wynol. Like the Junior winner, the top team in the district will head to Wakefield for the area meet.

Laurel's Juniors under the leadership of Bob Weisenberg will play in the Class B district at O'Neill. In that tourney are teams from Hartington, Albion, and O'Neill. Winner goes to the state meet at St. Paul.

All-Star Game Dropped

An apparent lack of interest by managers in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League is the reason there won't be an all-star game this week, said league secretary Merlin "Lefty" Olson.

Only three of the eight managers last week sent in their list of players for the all-star game, Olson pointed out. And an attempt to call the rest of the managers has failed to produce any results, he added.

Olson sent letters to managers, asking for their immediate reply. But the only persons to answer back were Keith Hill of Allen-Marrinsburg, Denny Paul of Wakefield and Gordon Nelson of Ponca.

"If there is more interest, we may play it after the playoffs," Olson said, adding that the all-star game isn't entirely dead but he will need more response from the managers.

The all-star game originally was scheduled for Wednesday night of this week at Wakefield, but was pushed back to tonight (Thursday) because of the lack of response.

Juniors' Slump Stretches to Seven

Wayne's Junior team is rewriting the record books this season, but the record is still set by last year's team. Monday night the straight set, back when they led in visiting Pender, 7-4, in Ralph Bishop League play at the city ball diamond. The loss followed a doubleheader defeat Sunday to host Onawa, 1-0.

"The kids don't want to practice," Overin pointed out. "They have other things on their minds when they come to play. They just don't want to concentrate on winning, not even for two hours."

The losing skein in the longest one for any team under the direction of Overin in the 17 years.

"We'll just have to go back to the fundamentals of playing the game. But if they don't want to win, it won't do any good to practice," Overin added.

Pender pounced on starting pitcher Dave Hix for three runs in the first frame off a two run single and a theft of home plate. Wayne countered with one in the first when shortstop Paul Mallette, singled, stole second and scored on right fielder Aaron Nissen's base hit. Both clubs scored runs in the third. Pender scored a runner on a base hit and Wayne's Larry Creighton, who doubled, crossed the plate on fielding error.

Mallette look over pitching duties in the fourth inning, striking six of the seven he faced. In the sixth, Pender scored three runs with the help of three singles, a passed ball and an error. In the top of the seventh, Overin called on third baseman Mike Manes to throw.

The Juniors started a rally in the bottom of the seventh on back to back run-scoring singles by Monté Lowe and Nissen, but it was too late. With two away, winning pitcher Jack Mahler whiffed the next batter to end the contest.

Sunday at Onawa, Wayne lost 2-1 and 4-0 as Onawa hurlers combined to toss 26 strikeouts.

In the 2-1 defeat, Wayne pushed across his only run in the bottom of the seventh when third baseman Rod Turner, who was safe on an error, scored on a base hit by pitcher Dave Hix. That knotted the game all one until the bottom of the sixth when Onawa hurler Kevin Johnson got on first via an error and later scored.

In the nightcap, Onawa's Kurt

Slump lifted 16 strikeouts and never allowed any Wayne play: ers past second base to post the shutout.

The winners scored a pair of runs in the first and third frames with the help of five of Wayne's six errors. During the contest, coach Overin was benched for the rest of the match following an exchange of words with the homeplate umpire.

Sharpe Hurls Perfect Game for Midgets Win

Wayne hurler Vic Sharpe threw a perfect game Monday night in leading the Midgets to a 11-0 blanking of Pender at the city ball park.

Sharpe struck out nine of the 15 opponents he faced in the five-inning match and never allowed a Pender player to get on base. In recording his third win in five starts on the mound, the

Upset Bid By Allen '9' Falls Short

Newcastle scored four runs in the bottom of the eighth inning Sunday night to stage a 7-4 victory over visiting Allen. Harlinsburg and keep a slim hold on first place in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League.

Newcastle, which is a half-game ahead of Wayne, had Homer, made his move to overtake Allen when hurler Neil Blom loaded the bases on walks before catcher Fernholz and designated hitter Ford Monrith connected on a double and single to drive in the needed runs.

The win boosted Newcastle to 84 while Allen, which still holds on to fourth place, fell to 6-5. To keep their hopes alive for making the four team playoffs, the Saints of Ripley, Mo., need only to beat Dakota City when the teams meet Sunday.

Wakefield Closes Home Play With Homer Hawks

Wakefield town team will be aiming Sunday night to wrap up season play at home with an upset win over Homer.

Coach Denny Paul believes his club has the momentum going for it after a sounding "10-4" victory over Dakota City during a Sunday afternoon game at Dakota City.

"If we would have played the rest of the season the way we played against Dakota City, we might have gone undefeated," Paul pointed out after his team halted the home team from scoring in the last five frames. Dakota City built a 4-2 lead after four innings by scoring a pair of runs in the third and fourth frames. Wakefield turned the game around completely in the sixth inning when it pushed across five runs off three singles and three walks. In the eighth, the winners added three runs off two singles and a double.

Wayne SB Team In District Meet

A softball team from Wayne is one of 20 entered in the District 6 Nebraska Class A Men's Slow Pitch tournament at Winnebago this week.

Mike's Tavern of Wayne was scheduled to play Wednesday night at 8 o'clock against Ron's Tux of South Sioux City in the opener of the four day meet.

A victory would move Mike's against a team from Rosalie, also Wednesday night. A loss would put Mike's in the loser's bracket where it would play at 2 p.m. Saturday in the double elimination tournament.

The tournament, which continues Friday and Saturday and winds up Sunday, includes teams from Pender, Macy, Homer, Winnebago, Waltham, Tekamah, Craig, Lyons, Dakota City, Bancroft and South Sioux City.

The top three teams from District 6 will advance to the state meet last weekend in July at Bellevue. A total of 32 teams are expected to compete for the state title.

Roberts Wins

A tennis player from Wayne, Tom Roberts, won the men's open singles event over the weekend at Wisner.

Roberts, who lopped his first two opponents with set scores of 6-0, 6-1 and 6-0, 6-0, beat finalist Fred Fisher of Wisner in a grueling two hour match, 7-6 and 6-4.

Wakefield Tops Emerson Juniors

Mike Soderberg tossed a two hitter and teammate Dan Byers ripped a solo home run Monday night to lead Wakefield Juniors to a 6-0 rout of visiting Emerson.

Byers' solo shot over the right center field fence cleared the 330 foot mark by 20 feet as he scored one of three runs in that frame to give the hosts a 5-0 command.

Wakefield started out in the bottom of the second inning with runners on first and second via two Emerson miscues. Then left fielder Tony Peters stepped up to the plate and banged a double for a 2-0 lead.

Following Byers' roundtripper Wakefield loaded the sacks on singles by Wes Luehl and Alan Johnson and walked Scott Mills, who was hit by a pitched ball. A passed ball resulted in Luehl scoring and a squeeze play by Chuck Wageman sent Johnson scurrying home.

Moyer Fires Sizzling 100 to Win WCC Open

By BOB BARTLETT
Cool Craig Moyer shrugged off the near 100 degree temperatures Sunday to fire a blistering eight-under par 100 and win the 27-hole Wayne Country Club Open golf tournament. Moyer pointed out after his second shot on last hole he felt the pin and dropped about 10 feet from the cup.
Moyer had his share of bad luck in the final nine holes, on his teeoff on No. 11, he topped the ball driving it only about 120 yards.
"I kinda got down on myself then, but when Greg put his ball in the water (on 11) and Sock went out of bounds later, that really gave me the juice to win," he admitted.
Despite the soaring temperatures, over 200 golfers participated in the annual event, marking the second straight successful tournament this season at the Wayne Club.

Midgets Rip Emerson, 11-5

Wakfield and Emerson Midgets are tied for second place in the Ralph Bishop League with 7-3 records after Monday night's game around which saw Wakfield top Emerson, 11-5.
Brad Jones, who threw three victories over the weekend in a Junior contest, gave up only four hits in Wakfield's victory. The biggest blow for Emerson was in the opening frame when shortstop Jeff Lite mark ripped a two-run homer over center field fence for a 2-0 Emerson lead.
But coach Joe Coble's club struck back in its half with four big runs off two crucial Emerson errors and Jeff Simpson's two-run double.
After scoring single runs in the second and third frames, Wakfield pushed across five more runs in the bottom of the fourth again with the help of Emerson errors.
Friday night Wakfield picked up its sixth league win with an 11-0 trouncing of Pender. Again Jones got the win on the mound.
In a non-league contest Sunday, the Midgets fell to Norfolk, 9-8 Overall, Wakfield had an 11-5 record.

Raabe's Bat Leads Locals Over Pender

Third baseman Larry Raabe pounded out three hits in four at bats Sunday, including a run scoring triple, as Wayne town clubbed Pender, 7-1.
Raabe, who singled in his second time at bat, added another single in the fifth for his first run batted in and drove in the home team's final run in the bottom of the seventh on his three bagger.
The locals were forced to play catchup ball when Pender's Larry Gerch scored in the first inning off Deak Wagner's base hit to give his club a 1-0 lead.
Behind the stout pitcher of Randy Benish of Norfolk, Wayne shut off Pender's scoring in the rest of the nine inning contest en route to the town team's fourth straight win in Northeast Nebraska Baseball League play. Now 8-4, Wayne is in third place in the eight team loop.
Wayne drove home three runs in the third frame off Terry Luff. Second baseman Terry Luff opened with a base hit followed by Raabe's single. Center fielder Randy Miller smashed a run-scoring double to tie the match before Pender pitcher John Zwegart gave up a run on a base-loaded walk. Miller later scored on a Pender error.
Wayne added two more runs in the fourth on runs by Herb Harris and Luff, who finished the game with three runs. Harris scored again in the fifth off Raabe's single and Luff came home in the seventh off Raabe's triple.
Benish, who has to make two more appearances on the Wayne team before he is eligible to play in the playoffs, struck out 14 Pender batters while throwing a five-hitter.

Caution Needed When Boating

"Individuals who are boating in Nebraska need to be reminded that the law requires a Coast Guard approved life-saving device to be present in the craft for every person on board," said Bob Downing, DISTRICT III law enforcement supervisor for Northeast Nebraska.
Downing indicated that canoes and sailboats are more likely to be short the required number of life-saving devices than larger boats, even though these smaller crafts can be upset a little easier.
"Individuals using rubber rafts, inner tubes or other buoyant devices in the water are also required to be wearing either a life jacket or have one on board," said Downing.
"Parents should be aware that children under 12 must wear a Coast Guard approved life preserver at all times while aboard any craft. These regulations were made to protect the safety of all individuals and need to be followed if Nebraska is going to enjoy a safe, accident free summer," he added.

Backstop/Bob Bartlett

THE DECISION this week to drop the annual Northeast Nebraska Baseball League All Star game has hampered the efforts of others to plan town team tournaments for the avid baseball fan.
One such tournament which looks to have a good start will take place in Wakfield. Wakfield manager Denny Paul plans to invite the teams in the bottom half of the NNBL to play while the post-season playoff between the top four league teams is on later this month.
Right now it looks like three of those teams in the tournament will be Wakfield, Pender and Ponca. Paul's talking all the idea having Dakota City if it fails to knock off Allen-Martinsburg for that fourth place spot. For those persons who don't understand why, players from Wakfield and Dakota City got into a little heated argument in their first encounter after several players from DC got a little too loud.
Paul said he might invite a team from the Dodge County League to fill the fourth spot. More on that later.
Another tourney which is in the planning stages may take place in Wayne. Talk has it that town team player Terry Luff is heading a drive to bring in teams from Homer, Newcastle, Wayne and a team composed of players from Wakfield and Allen-Martinsburg. Hold on there's more.
Luff is thinking about making the tourney an eight team affair, possibly inviting Crofton, Hartington and Lardner from the Tri-County Baseball League and West Point of the Dodge County loop.
The date for this big get-together — if it receives the okay from the town team and NNBL boards, could be in mid-August. Again, hope to have more on that later.

AFTER SOME second thoughts, I think it's only fitting that I mention the names of the players from Allen's Pee Wee and Babe Ruth clubs, who made the Northeast Nebraska Little League All Star game.
They were: Pee Wees — Ricky Gotch, Scott Carr, Leonard Wood and Robb Linafelter; Babe Ruth — Mark Rubick, Mark Creamer, Doug Kluger and Brent Chase.
I held off giving this information last week because this is the first information of any kind that has been sent to me about any games Allen players have participated in this season. It seems that the coach at Allen doesn't have the time to call collect with the results, so there's been no coverage of Allen teams this summer.
The second thoughts about printing the kids' names came about when I realized that I was punishing the players for something that wasn't their fault.

THANKS to Bonnie Nelson, here's a list of dates for tractor pulling contests around the state for interested followers and persons who are active in the sport.
July — 17, at Columbus, 5 p.m., 18, at Beemer, in the afternoon, and at Scribner in the evening; 24, at Wood River, 12:30 p.m.; 25, at Grant, 1 p.m.; 31, at Pender, in the afternoon, and at Wayne, 7 p.m.

All-Star Game Dropped

An apparent lack of interest by managers in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League is the reason there won't be an all-star game this week, said league secretary Merlin "Lefty" Olson.
Only three of the eight managers last week sent in their list of players for the all-star game, Olson pointed out. And an attempt to call the rest of the managers has failed to produce any results, he added.
Olson sent letters to managers, asking for their immediate reply. But the only persons to answer back were Keith Hill of Allen-Martinsburg, Denny Paul of Wakfield and Gordon Nelson of Ponca.
"If there is more interest, we may play it after the playoffs," Olson said, adding that the all-star game isn't entirely dead but he will need more response from the managers.
The all-star game originally was scheduled for Wednesday night of this week at Wakfield, but was pushed back to tonight (Thursday) because of the lack of response.
The top players from Wayne, Wakfield, Allen-Martinsburg and Newcastle were to have played the top players from Ponca, Homer, Pender and Dakota City.

Juniors' Slump Stretches to Seven

Wayne's Junior team is rewriting the record books this season, but the record is still set by what coach Hank Overin is particularly proud of.

Monday night the locals suffered their seventh straight setback when they fell to visiting Pender, 7-4, in Ralph Bishop League play at the city ball diamond. The loss followed a doubleheader defeat Sunday to host Onawa, Ia.

Why the slump?

"The kids don't want to practice," Overin pointed out. "They have other things on their minds when they come to play. They just don't want to concentrate on winning, not even for two hours."

The losing skin in the longest one for any team under the direction of Overin in the 17 years.

How does he plan to snap the streak?

"We'll just have to go back to the fundamentals of playing the game. But if they don't want to win, it won't do any good to practice," Overin added.

Pender pounced on starting pitcher Dave Hix for three runs in the first frame off a two-run single and a theft of home plate. Wayne countered with one in the first when shortstop Paul Mattiello, singled, stole second and scored on right fielder Aaron Nissen's base hit.

Both clubs scored runs in the third. Pender scored a runner on a base hit and Wayne's Larry Creighton, who doubled, crossed the plate on fielding error.

Mattiello took over pitching duties in the fourth inning, striking six of the seven he faced. In the sixth, Pender scored three runs with the help of three singles, a passed ball and an error. In the top of the seventh, Overin called on third baseman Mike Manes to throw.

The Juniors started a rally in the bottom of the seventh on back-to-back run-scoring singles by Monte Lowe and Nissen, but it was too late. With two away, winning pitcher Jack Mahler pitched the next batter to end the contest.

Sunday at Onawa, Wayne lost 2-1 and 4-0 as Onawa hurlers combined to toss 26 strikeouts.

In the 2-1 defeat, Wayne pushed across its only run scored in the second inning when third baseman Rod Turner, who was safe on an error, scored on a base hit by pitcher Dave Hix. That knotted the game at one all until the bottom of the sixth when Onawa hurler Kevin Johnson got on first via an error and later scored.

In the nightcap, Onawa's Kurt

Slump fired six strikeouts and never allowed any Wayne players past second base to post the shutout.

The winners scored a pair of runs in the first and third frames with the help of five of Wayne's six errors. During the contest, coach Overin was benched for the rest of the match following an exchange of words with the homeplate umpire.

Wayne Herald 7, Valley Shrine 6

A Hybrid 1b center field by first baseman Dave Dieckler in the bottom of the 11th scored pitcher Dennis Wicks from third to give Wayne Herald a 7-6 victory. Valley Shrine took a 4-3 command in the fifth when it scored four runs. The Herald added two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh off pitcher Demar Higgins to send the game into extra-innings.

Moorman's 13, Bull & Ote 3

Moorman's struck for six runs in the first frame en route to its second win in five starts.

Sharpe Hurls Perfect Game for Midgets Win

Wayne hurler Vic Sharpe threw a perfect game Monday night in leading the Midgets to a 1-0 blanking of Pender at the city ball park.

Sharpe struckout nine of the 15 opponents he faced in the five-inning match and never allowed a Pender player to get on base, by recording his third win in five starts on the mound, the smooth righthander never had one of his pitches flyout to the outfield.

Meanwhile, Wayne bats exploded for eight runs in the first inning off four singles and two doubles. Second baseman Steve Bodensett opened with a two-base hit and was soon followed by first baseman Doug Carroll who also had a two-bagger to score Bodensett.

Back-to-back singles by Tom Ginn and Mark Gansbeom resulted in Carroll scoring Wayne's second run. An error and two walks gave Wayne two more runs before Al Nissen smacked a two-run base hit for a 6-0 command.

Back to the top of the batting order, Bodensett cracked a two-run single to end Wayne's scoring drive.

In the next frame, center fielder Brian Haun scored his second run of the night after he walked and scored on Nissen's second hit of the game.

In the third inning, a pair of intentional walks to catcher Kevin Murray and Haun pushed across two more runs.

The win upped Wayne's record to 9-1 in the league and 9-4 overall.

Upset Bid By Allen '9' Falls Short

Newcastle scored four runs in the bottom of the eighth inning Sunday night to stage a 7-4 victory over visiting Allen. Martinburg and keep a slim hold on first place in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League.

Newcastle, which is a half game ahead of Wayne, had a homer made the move to overtake Allen when hurler Neil Blohm loaded the bases on walks before catcher Fernholz, and designated hitter Ford Montith connected on a double and the single to drive in the needed runs.

The win boosted Newcastle to 84 while Allen, which still holds on to fourth place, fell to 6-5. To keep their hopes alive for making the four team playoffs, the Saints of skipper Keith Hill need only to beat Dakota City when the teams meet Sunday.

"We just don't have the relief pitching we need to win," Hill pointed out after Blohm, who finished with 14 strikeouts, started off to fire in the eighth.

Newcastle opened up with a 2-0 lead in the opening frame before Allen knotted the contest with two runs in the fourth. With the bases loaded, first baseman Steve Dieckler grounded out to scorn second baseman Kevin Hill. Shortstop Gary Troft then singled in catcher Lee Schupli. Allen took charge in the top of the sixth when third baseman Tim Hill smashed a curcuit hit over the right field fence with one on for a 4-2 score. Newcastle lightened the race with a solo run in the next frame before the four-run eighth.

Allen's ninth inning rally was cut short after right fielder John Mahler crossed the plate.

Wakefield Closes Home Play With Homer Hawks

Wakefield town team will be aiming Sunday night to wrap up season play at home with an upset bid over Homer.

Coach Donny Paul believes his club has the momentum going for it after a sounding 10-4 victory over Dakota City during a Sunday afternoon game at Dakota City.

"If we would have played the rest of the season the way we played against Dakota City, we might have gone undefeated," Paul pointed out after his team halted the home team from scoring in the last five frames. Dakota City built a 4-2 lead after four innings by scoring a pair of runs in the third and fourth frames. Wakefield turned the game around completely in the sixth inning when it pushed across five runs off three singles and three walks. In the eighth, the winners added three runs off two singles and a double.

Wakefield shortstop Rob Eaton lifted his club in the third inning in the last five frames for his club's second run.

Paul pointed out that fans attending Sunday night's game will get an added treat when a tug of war contest is held during an intermission.

"We want the fans to come out for this one and see us beat Homer," he emphasized.

Robert's Wins

A tennis player from Wayne, Tom Roberts, won the men's open singles event over the weekend at Wisner.

Roberts, who topped his first two opponents with set scores of 6-0, 6-1 and 6-0, beat finalist Fred Fisher of Wisner in a grueling two hour match, 7-6 and 6-4.

Wakefield Tops Emerson Juniors

Mike Soderberg tossed a two hitter and teammate Dan Byers ripped a solo home run Monday night to lead Wakefield Juniors to a 6-0 rout of visiting Emerson.

Byers solo shot over the right center field fence cleared the 330 foot mark by 20 feet as he scored one of three runs in that frame to give the hosts a 5-0 command.

Wakefield started off in the bottom of the second inning with runners on first and second via two Emerson miscues. Then left fielder Tony Peters stepped up to the plate and banged a double for a 2-0 lead.

Following Byers' roundtripper, Wakefield loaded the sacks on singles by Wes Lueth and Alan Johnson and walked Scott Mills, who was hit by a pitched ball. A passed ball resulted in Lueth scoring and a squeeze play by Chuck Wageman sent Johnson scurrying home.

Investigation by city attorney Budd Bornhoff revealed, however, that the city not only cannot legally do the maintenance work but cannot provide free utility services, a city practice of long standing.

The city will be able to continue maintaining the property on which the cabin is located because it is city-owned. The Girl Scouts, however, own the cabin.

Researcher Offers Tips

On Canning Tomatoes

The USDA's Agricultural Research Service has announced their latest information on processing "low acid" varieties of tomatoes.

According to Dr. G.W. Sapers, USDA researcher, modern tomato varieties present no great or home canning risk than older varieties. "Several so called low-acid tomatoes are actually not low in acid, but high in sugar which masks the tart, acid flavor of the tomato. Many persons believe that white and yellow fleshed tomatoes are lower in acid than red tomatoes. This misconception is not based on scientific research," said Dr. Sapers.

Over ripe tomatoes should not be canned whole or used to make juice, soup, paste or sauce, he said, adding that current USDA research indicates that adding lemon juice or vinegar at commonly recommended levels will not substantially increase the acidity of canned tomato products.

The USDA researcher said the acidity of canned tomatoes can be changed enough by mold to allow botulism bacteria to grow. Moldy canned tomatoes do not always have other indications of spoilage, he said, adding that the acidity can be reduced directly beneath where the mold grows. If botulism organisms are present, the toxin can diffuse throughout the canned product. The entire contents of the jar should be discarded when mold is found, warned Dr. Sapers.

Further research on both fresh and canned tomatoes is planned for this summer.

Courts administrator disputes small claims recommendations

CAPITOL NEWS

Small claims courts are supposed to be a place where someone with a small monetary dispute can go and have a judge reach a decision without spending a bunch of money.

But is that what really happens? The U. S. Chamber of Commerce in a nationwide attempt to make sure small claims courts are also courts of small cost with easy access, has recommended nine changes in Nebraska's court structure laws.

Nebraska, until the Court Reform Act of 1972 was passed, did not have small claims courts as such.

The reform act designated county courts as the state's small claims courts. There are two major roles — no attorneys and the dispute can't be worth more than $500.

As to the nine changes recommended, state courts administrator James Dunlevy said they are technical in nature and actually unnecessary.

In fact, Dunlevy said, to enact the changes would defeat the purpose behind them of making sure small claims courts are uncomplicated and easy to get into and out of.

One recommendation was that the small claims courts should set up their own collection machinery. Dunlevy said that would cost money and the courts are already, with a $2 filing fee, "absolute zeroes." He suggested simplification of Nebraska's garnishment and lien laws instead.

The U. S. Chamber contended in making the recommendations that small claims courts have a built-in bias against the consumer. They said they were bogged down in delays, threw complicated procedures in the faces of those who tried to use them and simply were not accessible.

As a result, one of the recommendations was to refuse to allow a defendant to appeal a small claims court case to a higher court.

Dunlevy said that would be fine if the defendant were to pay the big company being taken to court by the little consumer.

"Fly-By-Night siding contractor could file against a little old lady knowing she would have to show up in claims court without an attorney and that she couldn't transfer the case to a court where she could get legal counsel" to help prove the bad job done, he said.

Another recommendation was to include in state law a provision requiring that a hearing be held within 45 days of the time a case was filed.

But then the U. S. Chamber turned right around and admitted that in Omaha, Nebraska's largest metropolitan area, the time lag was now only 20 days. Also recommended was abolishment of bond requirements for appeals and an increase in dollar jurisdictional limits from $500 to $1,000. Dunlevy said bonds guarded against "frivolous appeals." He added he knows of no push to increase the dollar limit.

The Chamber also recommended night and weekend court hours. Dunlevy said there is nothing in Nebraska law that prohibits them now.

Pawnbrokers Challenge Law

Omaha pawnbrokers decided to challenge the constitutionality of a law that was scheduled to become operative July 9.

The law would require pawnbrokers to photograph those who sold them something and would also require them to return property they bought to a rightful owner at no cost if found to be stolen. The only problem with the law, passed this year, is that it has no penalty provisions.

A Douglas County district judge issued a temporary order barring the law's enforcement. But the state moved to have the trial moved to Lincoln and the Lancaster County district court.

The transfer of the case was approved. The law was introduced in the Unicameral by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who contended pawn shops were some times used as clearing houses for stolen goods.

Sgt. Robert Caruso of the Omaha police department agreed stolen property is often found in pawn shops. The pawnbrokers contend in their lawsuit the law violated the rights to privacy their customers have by requiring them to be photographed. They also said the property return provisions were confiscatory.

The cost of photographing customers is an unfair cost to pawnbrokers, the pawnbroker attorneys added.

Regents Go To Court

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents wants to know whether they or the members of the Unicameral are in control of the university system.

As a result, they have filed a lawsuit in the Lancaster County district court to try to find out.

In short, the lawsuit pits the powers of one institution created by the Nebraska Constitution against the powers of another.

The key, as in most government disputes, is who controls the money.

The regents contend the Unicameral only has the authority to figure out how much the university will get each year. Once appropriated, the regents contend it is their responsibility to figure out exactly how that money is to be spent.

The issue is one that has been bounced around several times before.

Many state agencies, the university heading the list, keep asking the lawmakers for what they call "lump sum budgeting." In short, that means a total dollar amount and no strings attached.

The lawmakers, with attorney general's opinions to back them up, have contended it is their constitutional duty not only to set dollar amounts but establish overall guiding policies for the state by channeling money into general categories.

The regents contend politics is the key issue — whether the university is run by politicians or by those closest to the institution.

Oral arguments will be heard this month.

Nuclear Unit On The Way

The Nebraska Supreme Court was asked to reverse a State Power Review Board decision, to allow the Omaha Public Power District and the Nebraska Public Power District to build another nuclear power facility.

But the Supreme Court refused to block the project.

The new unit will be built at Fort Calhoun, where OPPD already has one nuclear plant in operation.

The power review board's decision had been challenged on the grounds OPPD failed to prove need and economic feasibility.

OPPD officials hailed the Supreme Court's decision that their case had been complete with a statement that said the ruling was a major step in the name of the people in the quest for cheap and plentiful power.

turned up an error rate of 72 per cent.

But IRS, too, has the last laugh if you make an error on your tax returns. It's your responsibility. And if incorrect IRS advice causes you to make the error, it's still your responsibility. Heads they win, tails you lose. Maybe the answer is to crossbreed the people who write IRS forms with the people who write OSHA pamphlets.

Meanwhile, the Environmental Protection Agency has discovered — at a cost of only $4.2 million — that poorly tuned engines generate more pollution than properly tuned engines, something that any good mechanic could have told them for free.

Speaking of pollution, EPA still provides subsidized parking for its employees, as do many other federal agencies. It's a practice EPA does not recommend for other employers. Too many cars in the center of town cause pollution.

And speaking of disapproved practices, the U. S. Customs Service recently nabbed an expensive foreign car that a government official was trying to smuggle into the country. Seems it didn't meet emission and safety standards. Guess

RURAL DELIVERY

Involvement in conservation is needed

Nebraska farmers and ranchers need to be aware that the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission and the Natural Resources Districts are getting ready to move into Phase II of the water quality management planning required under Section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972.

And farm and ranch people who are conservation oriented right now should be offering names as potential nominees to participate in the Policy Advisory Committees being set up for 13 River Basins in Nebraska to provide public input for the area wide water quality management plans to be developed under provisions of the law.

Nominations to these committees must be submitted to the chairman of the river basins who are also members of the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission. Time is important, so if you are in doubt as to what is required, get in touch with the Natural Resources District which serves your area for details.

Phase I plans have emphasized point source pollution (discharge from any discernible, confined and discrete conveyance) and have stressed control of feedlot wastes, municipal sewage, industrial discharges, etc.

Phase II is something else — non point pollution sources. This will involve plans to control sedimentation carried by runoff from farmland into streams and rivers and possible pollution elements which accompany that sediment, and also it will involve erosion damage which may occur within the boundaries of a farm and the effect that erosion may have on water quality. Control of non point runoff under the federal law is supposed to be completed to meet EPA water quality standards that will go into effect July 1, 1983.

There are many ramifications bound to arise in the Phase II features of the overall program, and a good many controversial questions are already being raised. New techniques are available in which radioactive dyes may be used to trace the origin of sediment found in streams and rivers. For example, a landowner might some day be confronted by an EPA representative with a sediment sample and told, "Here's evidence that erosion from your fields is polluting the creeks and rivers downstream."

Already being discussed is the possibility that new laws may be passed which will require landowners and operators to institute prescribed corrective conservation practices. One can well imagine the terror which would arise if and when, the power of governmental action falls to a landowner. "These hills are too steep to farm and you'll have to put this land into grass with terraces to hold the runoff."

The thought of such compulsion is frightening to a good many people and certainly a far cry from the enthusiastic, voluntary conservation efforts which marked the work of the soil and water conservation district participants of a generation ago.

For right now, the makeup of the basic Policy Advisory Committees by federal regulations is required to contain a majority membership representing elected county and municipal bodies. In addition to citizens representing other areas and interests of the basin. This means that farm and ranch representatives as such will be in the minority from the very beginning so they can't afford to miss any opportunity to be represented by the best people obtainable. One saving factor is that many members of the Natural Resources Commission and people on the Natural Resources District boards are substantial agricultural people. Perhaps conservation will have to be compulsory eventually, but if and when that happens, farm and ranch people who have to make it work should have full voice in the laws and regulations with which they will have to comply. — M. M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

Not to be outdone, the other diligent guardian of our safety (if not our sanity), the Consumer Product Safety Commission, is still laboring away trying to write a standard that will prevent matches from burning your fingers (or much of anything else). But not to worry. In three years, it has managed to produce only one standard, dealing with swimming pool slides.

That's enough for now, folks. Keep smiling through your years. And until we meet again, try hard not to fall into those manure pits. — Richard Lesher, U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

OBSERVATIONS

Regulations are expensive

Government over regulations isn't just a nuisance, it's darned expensive. According to Congressman Charles Thone, government paperwork added 50 cents to the price of every prescription filled last year with medicine produced by one of the nation's largest pharmaceutical manufacturers.

Richard Wood, chairman of the board of Eli Lilly and Company, told the commission on Federal Paperwork earlier this year that government paperwork adds a half dollar to the price of each prescription filled with the company's medicine.

That isn't the worst part of over-regulation, however. The Lilly company performs about one-tenth of the research conducted by all pharmaceutical manufacturers in the United States, yet last year, the company invested more man hours in filling out government-required paperwork than it did for cancer and heart disease research combined. Just how great are the paperwork demands of the federal government? Just one example gives a pretty good idea. A machine for arthritis which Lilly now has on the market required a 120,000 page application. Wood said only about 30,000 of those pages contained significant information. Multiply 90,000 excess pages by the number of copies required and you end up with a considerable amount of unnecessary paperwork.

Lilly also manufactures agricultural chemicals and, at the hearing, Wood displayed a 153 page computer printout that was an index to materials held by the company, required by the Environmental Protection Agency before the company could obtain approval for an improved weed killer. Each entry on the printout represented a separate document, ranging in length from three to 3,000 pages.

And it goes on and on. Thone has helped introduce a bill which would require each federal agency to assess whether the ultimatum cost to the consumer would be worth each proposed new federal regulation. He is also co-sponsor of a bill which would require Congress and the President to completely overhaul laws regulating the public.

It is certainly time something was done. If the trend toward rampant regulation of anything and everything doesn't cease it could mean the death of American enterprise as we know it, buried under a pile of paper. — Jim Strayer

Engineer Questions Efficiency Of Agricultural Techniques

Effective and conservative use of the world's natural resources is the most important element in solving food production problems, according to Jan van Schilfhaarde, director of the U. S. Salinity Laboratory at Riverside, Calif.

And to accomplish this goal, van Schilfhaarde said, soil and water conservation engineers must rediscover effective systems of resource utilization from ancient times.

van Schilfhaarde made the comments in a keynote address before delegates to the 69th annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in June.

"I don't advocate that technology be abandoned, but I do advocate that we use our technological skills towards optimizing our God-given resources," he said.

"Compared to the Sumerians, the Aztecs and the Incas, maybe we aren't as advanced and as clever as we are wanted to think," van Schilfhaarde said. Engineers must be concerned about efficient water use in new irrigation systems and develop techniques for utilizing organic wastes.

He said agricultural engineers must help develop a policy that maximizes utilization of soil and water resources, maintains environmental quality, minimizes fossil energy dependence and provides rewarding employment.

Egypt's Aswan Dam may have caused as many irrigation problems as it solved," he said. "One knowledgeable insider recently predicted that, due to salination and waterlogging, total agricultural production soon may drop below the pre-Aswan Dam level unless extensive remedial measures are taken."

Engineers and administrators continue to deliver water to farms through elaborate canal systems with little reference to crop or farmer needs, van Schilfhaarde said. He estimated irrigation efficiency in the western United States is 35 per cent.

"As a result, water is wasted, crop yields often are low, and the land is lost by salination," he said. "The easy solutions to the various problems this may create are generally capital- and energy-intensive, often ignoring the long-term common good."

Developments such as the faster-controlled drain plow installing corrugated plastic, pivot sprinklers, automation and computer scheduling offer opportunities to increase water efficiency in irrigation, he said.

Dr. W. E. Splinter, chairman of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural engineering department, predicted "increasing use of terracing and conservation tillage to utilize soil moisture more efficiently.

Speaking at the afternoon session, Dr. Splinter told the delegates that improved aerial photography, three dimensional photo-plotting equipment and computerized infrared surveying equipment will enable engineers to design terrace systems with limited field surveying.

He said improved drainage and soil moisture management is needed in the eastern United States, where more adequate rainfall occurs.

van Schilfhaarde said agricultural water requirements must consider the needs of industry and cities, and agricultural engineering.

"I really haven't scratched the surface on developing techniques for utilizing organic wastes," he said. "Again, the question needs to be asked whether our apparent high efficiency of production through technology is indeed as effective as claimed."

He said modern labor saving techniques and mechanization have made use of manure as fertilizer inefficient, thereby causing a substantial resource to be ignored.

Blight Symptoms Common in Hot Weather

Fusarium blight is a fungus disease that is a serious problem on lawns in Nebraska. All lawn grasses grown in the state show some degree of susceptibility. The first blight symptoms become evident during prolonged periods of hot summer weather that is common throughout much of July and August. Under these conditions, lawns can become drought stressed which aids in the establishment of the disease.

Day temperatures of 75-100 degrees Fahrenheit coupled with high humidity are very conducive to blight development. If the disease is allowed to progress unchecked, crowns and roots become infected by this fungus, generally killing the plants. Once the disease has reached this stage, the lawn has been permanently damaged and the infected area will have to be reseeded or sodded.

The key to effective control is an accurate diagnosis of the disease. Therefore, homeowners should become familiar with the symptoms that characterize major lawn diseases. Fusarium blight initially appears as light green patches two to six inches in diameter. Under favorable weather conditions these areas rapidly (36 to 48 hours) become a reddish color, then tan, and finally a light straw color. The shape of the infected area is more or less circular varying in diameter from one to three feet. Often these circular areas will contain small islands of healthy green grass in the center producing a "frog-eye" pattern. This pattern is easily recognized and serves as a useful diagnostic characteristic.

Control of Fusarium blight is accomplished through good lawn maintenance practices and timely application of fungicides. Fungicide application should be made from June through August when disease symptoms become apparent. The recommended fungicides for the treatment of Fusarium blight are Torsan 191 and Fungo applied at a rate of 4 to 8 ounces of formulation per square foot. These materials should be thoroughly drenched into the lawn immediately following their application. When symptoms are severe, the higher rates of application are recommended. A second application may be necessary if conditions favorable for disease development continue. Since fungicide treatments are expensive, the homeowner may be able to minimize disease development by deep watering to prevent drought stress and by avoiding the use of excessive nitrogen fertilizer during hot summer weather. Mowing at the proper height (at least two inches) and preventing the buildup of excessive thatch will also substantially reduce the chances of the disease occurring. The thatch layer can serve as an overwintering source of inoculum, therefore, its removal throughout the growing period of the summer and fall is very important.

Weather Is the Key to Corn Borer Infestation

The weather holds an important key to the probability of European corn borer infestations in Nebraska in the near future, a University of Nebraska Extension entomologist said this week.

Robert Roselle said weather conditions during the moth flight and egg laying periods of the corn borer will govern the buildup and severity of an infestation.

Spring moths deposit eggs on taller corn in June, Roselle explained. Borers that hatch from these eggs are the first brood that can reduce yields by damaging the vessels that transport nutrients and water to leaves.

"The number of eggs that hatch, and borers that enter the stalk will depend upon weather in mid to late June. Hot, dry winds will cause eggs to dry and fall from leaves; also, cool, wet nights will limit the activity of moths. Many eggs appear to have been destroyed by the hot, dry winds in mid-June which will tend to reduce the potential first brood. However, moths are still flying, and a few warm, calm nights may see enough eggs and larvae to cause damage to some locations," said Roselle.

Feasibility of control cannot be judged by the number of moths observed. The entomologist said the most reliable method of determining if controls might be profitable is to watch for the borer feeding signs on leaves emerging from whorls. Small borers feed in whorls before boring into stalks. Feeding signs on leaves appear as small shot holes or scraped areas with a bit of saw-dust like frass around the feeding scars. If 50 per cent or more of plants have these signs, pull out several whorls, unroll the leaves and check for borers. They will be white or greyish larvae with dark brown heads. When the 50 per cent feeding signs are reached and borers are present, controls are indicated.

Several insecticides are registered for corn borer control. The most effective ones are granular formulations of Furadan, Thimet, Diazinon, Dygnate, or EPN. These can be applied by aircraft or with granular applicators on ground equipment.

THE FAIR AND 4-H

The last couple of years the 4-H has made a real effort to make the 4-H part of the fair more attractive. Last year the 4-H building was completely redecorated on the inside. We also made a number of changes in our livestock shows to make them run smoother and better inform the audience as to who the 4-H'ers were and some ideas on how the animals were judged.

This year we are going to paint the exterior of the 4-H Building and repair the roof. The Fair Board is constructing a new 5 x 120 foot barn to house 4-H beef. All sheep will be housed in the old wooden beef barn and sheep will be shown in the livestock arena building.

SHOWMANSHIP
An important part of livestock exhibiting is how well the exhibitor exhibits and show their livestock in the ring. This year we have set up special schools for beef, sheep, dairy and swine members to teach them how to fill and show their animals in the best way possible. This should greatly improve our livestock shows.

CONTEST
One of the innovations of our fair this year will be the preliminary judging of the 4-H livestock showmanship contest by local leaders. These leaders will receive training in judging showmanship prior to the fair.

Judges for the various livestock showmanship contests include Alvin Anderson, John Anderson, Mrs. Victor Knesche, Mrs. Ronald Kittle, Mrs. Don Schultz, Stan Baier, Darrell Gilliland, Harold Willer, Gus Krahlcek, Gilmore Sals, Dwaine Reihwisch and Terry Janke.

This method of using local leaders to judge has the added advantage of their being able to take this knowledge back to their club members.

HERDSMANSHIP
John Anderson and Charles Stelling are on a committee to improve our Herdsmanship contest at the fair. What is herdsmanship? It's the display of livestock in the barn. Included is keeping the alleys and pens clean and free of manure, sweeping the alleys, neatly stacking equipment and feed, posting name signs and keeping animals clean.

For several years we have combined this into a contest. This year Charles and John are trying to improve this contest to encourage 4-H'ers to do even a better job of showing their livestock in the barns as attractively as possible.

MORE ON THE FAIR
Many other 4-H activities besides those involving livestock have been going on. Anna Marie Kreitels, area home extension agent has been busy working with 4-H leaders on style review, demonstration contests, and the home ec judging contest. Diane Hesenkamp, our work study student, has been busy making preparations for a bicycle rodeo for all 4-H bicycle members.

DISPLAY
Diane has also been busy working with Laura Hagemann, Julie Sabben, Susan Reihwisch, and Anita Sandahl in preparing a display on 4-H Home Living projects. This display will be held on the north wall of the 4-H Building during the fair.

LEADERS COOPERATION
The main reason we have made steady progress in Wayne County 4-H is the excellent cooperation of leaders and parents. It's the best cooperation I have ever had in working in four different counties in two different states. It's what makes the wheels turn in the right direction.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Anna Marie Kreitels

Who's responsible for the safety of children? In many cases, the parents!

During summer vacations youngsters engage in all sorts of activities and many involve a certain amount of hazard. There is no way for parents to "accident proof" their children, but there are precautions to make play environment safe.

Hazardous tools or equipment such as saws, lawn mowers, poisonous insecticides and paints should be stored safely away from children. Small children can't tell the difference between safe and dangerous items.

An all too frequent tragedy is the youngster who locks himself in a discarded freezer or refrigerator. Parents are responsible for seeing that doors and locks of unused refrigerators are removed.

Teach your children not to taste unidentified plants, berries, mushrooms, etc. Some of these could turn out to be poisonous. Even chewing on twigs of poisonous plants can cause illness and possible death.

Most children like to build things from discarded pieces of wood, boxes and boards. Nails, splinters and rough edges should be removed to make these items safer.

Children do not instinctively know about danger and hazards. They must be taught by parents, or they'll be forced to learn by a painful or tragic experience. In some cases it may prove too late to learn at all!

Marital Status Affects Supplemental Income

People getting monthly supplemental security income payments should report promptly to social security if they get married or divorced, if they separate and intend to remain apart, or if they've been separated for six months or more.

The amount of the supplemental security income payments people get can change if they marry, and the amount due a wife or husband can change depending on whether they're living together or apart, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

"A temporary separation of less than six months generally won't affect supplemental security income payments," Branch said. "But people should report to social security if they begin living together again after a separation."

Payment amounts also may be affected by annulment or by the death of a wife or husband.

"Prompt reports of changes help social security get the right supplemental security income payments to the right people on time," Branch said. "But failure to report changes may result in an overpayment that will have to be paid back."

Changes can be reported by calling or writing any social security office. A written report should include the name of the person affected, the correct social security claim number under which payments are made, the change being reported, the date the change occurred, and the signature and address of the person making the report.

People getting supplemental security income should also report changes in income, living arrangements, and other circumstances that might affect their payments, according to Branch.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. The program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Norfolk social security office is at 1310 Norfolk Avenue. The phone number is 371-1595.

Thought for Today

By Rowen Wiltse

"I am not afraid of tomorrow for I have seen yesterday and I love today."

William Allen White

It is a human trait to tend to fear the unknown. Many of us are plagued by nameless worries over the uncertainties of the future. Indeed, it is only prudent to try to prepare ourselves for any contingency.

However, as journalist White tells us, there is no need to be afraid of tomorrow. Why should it be any worse than yesterday... those "good old days" we all remember fondly? In all probability, tomorrow will be as delightful as today and isn't today lovely?

We are qualified to advise you regarding Social Security, Veterans and insurance benefits. We frequently discover benefits not previously suspected.

Lunch Prices Going Up at AH

Prices for hot lunches at All Peoples schools will be going up this fall, school board members agreed during their monthly meeting Monday night.

The increase will be a nickel both for students and adults. Students will pay 35 cents for each meal and adults will pay 70 cents.

In other business, members discussed the budget for the school year and insurance coverage. No action was taken on either.
