

July Bride Is Honoree

Bride-elect Donna Drahotka of Pierce was honored Sunday afternoon with a miscellaneous courtesy held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winslow. Fifty guests, registered by DeLana Maritz, were presented from Geneva, Stanton, Hoskins, Norfolk, Pierce, Saratoville, Wayne, Wisner, Carroll, Omaha, Randolph and Winslow. Decorations were in blue and white.

A corsage was presented to the honoree by the committee. Mrs. Warren Marozz gave a reading, entitled "A Bride's Alphabet," and games served for entertainment with prizes going to the honoree.

Mrs. Ernest Drahotka and Mrs. Chester Marozz, mothers of the couple, poured. Assisting with gifts was her sister, Pat Drahotka of Pierce. Hostesses were Mrs. Leo Chasner of Saratoville, Mrs. Vernon Deck of Carroll, Mrs. Wilmer Miller, Mrs. Merlin Klug, Mrs. William Brogren and Mrs. Norman Deck, all of Hoskins, and Mrs. Herb Jaeger.

Courtesy Given At Wakefield For Kaye Dolph

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Kaye Dolph of Wakefield was held Saturday morning in the Howard Greve home, Wakefield. About 50 guests attended.

Decorations featured the honoree's chosen colors, apricot and yellow, at the serving table. The gift table was decorated with a ceramic bride and groom which was made by Mrs. Merlin Greve and presented to the bride-elect. She also received an old-fashioned glass box centerpiece which contained her wedding announcement and a floral arrangement.

Entertainment was a skit, entitled "What Are Little Girls?" - Sugar and Spice.

Hostesses were Mrs. Howard Greve, Mrs. Art Greve, Mrs. Merlin Greve and Mrs. Mike Seivers.

Miss Dolph and Gary Sorenson of Kearney will be married Saturday at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne.

Thompson-Holcomb Wedding Set

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Thompson of Laurel announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kaye Thompson, to Daniel Holcomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Holcomb of Hartington.

The bride-elect, a 1976 graduate of Laurel High School, is employed at the Corner Cafe in Laurel. The bridegroom graduated from Coleridge High School in 1975 and is engaged in dairy farming.

Plans are underway for a Sept. 18 wedding at Laurel.

Mathilde Harms, Pearl Griffin and Rose Heithold furnished refreshments. The next sermonette and sing-a-long will be Friday, Aug. 20, at 2 p.m. Mrs. Ann Waggoner, assistant public librarian, conducted a library hour for 15 members Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Wagoner presented a film, entitled "Trees: How to Know Them." Books, which may now be checked out from the center, include "Blackfoot Lodge Tales" by Grimme, "Fox Dancers" by Swetnam, "North America: A Life Nature Study," and "The Night They Burned the Mountain" by Dooley. Next library hour will be at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 19. Students of Mrs. Emil Uken entertained 38 center members Monday afternoon with several piano selections and pencil games.

Macrame Workshop Planned for August

A macrame workshop for area homemakers is being planned for three consecutive Tuesday mornings, Aug. 3, 10 and 17, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Winslow Fire Hall. Basic knots will be taught so that homemakers can follow patterns or design their own craft. Persons who would like to register for the session are asked to contact the Wayne County Extension Office at 510 Pearl St., in Wayne, on or before July 27. Telephone number is 375-3310. A registration fee of $1.50 will be payable at the first session. Registration will be limited to the first 12 persons.

Former Concord Woman Will be 90

Hill, Blohm Spark Allen To 11-2 Win

Paced by the home-run hitting of pitcher Neil Blohm and third baseman Tim Hill, Allen Martinsburg Town Team Sunday pounded out 16 hits to wipeout host Dakota City, 12-2.

Hill, who connected for three hits in four at bats and four runs batted in, collected two RBIs in the three-run second inning when he smacked the ball over left center field to score shortstop Gary Troth. Earlier, right fielder Jim Auck scored on a wild pitch for a 1-0 Allen lead.

Blohm came back in the following frame with a solo shot over left center to lead off Allen's four-run attack and give the area club a 7-1 command after two and a half innings.

Allen hitters also got their share of two-base hits, including two which sent Allen players across the plate. In the third, catcher Randy Lanser doubled in one run and in the eighth Auck's two-run blast scored another run. The final two-base hit was by Steve Diediker in the ninth frame. With two away, Diediker scored on Roger Anderson's single.

"If we get good pitching and half of the hits we had yesterday (Sunday) against Homer, we'll give them a pretty good game," said Allen skipper Keith Hill following his team's seventh win against five losses in the North-east Nebraska Baseball League.

Hill expects to put either Auck or Jeff Mahr on the mound when Allen travels to Homer tonight (Thursday) in season window for both teams. The only game Allen has left on the 14-game schedule is a makeup hill with Pender.

Sunday's Dakota City Allen game was marred by actions of several DC players and their coach Arnie "Red" Green.

OUTFIELDER Jake Munter for Mike's Tavern slides safely into third base as the ball pops out of the glove of a Homer player during Sunday's district slow-pitch softball action at Winnebago. Meanwhile, runner Rod Bowder races around first base to second. Although Munter won the contest, the winners had to forfeit because of a previous forfeit. Mike's Tavern of Wayne went on to take second place in the tournament to earn a ticket to the state meet.

Town Team Victory Puts Wayne in NEN Playoffs

Wayne's 10-4 victory over Ponca town team Sunday night assured the locals one of four spots in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League playoffs when action starts either Sunday or the following week.

The third place Wayne team will play either Homer or Newcastle in the playoffs, depending on the outcome of games tonight (Thursday) or a possible playoff first if both clubs remain tied for first place in the eight-team loop.

The fourth team in the playoffs is Allen Martinsburg.

Wayne secured its ninth league win against four losses on the strong-arm pitching of relief pitcher Randy Benish and good team hitting, led by shortstop Steve Hix.

Benish took over for starter Lytle Blevins with two away in the third frame and Ponca in front, 2-0. Benish, who gave up two runs later, quelled Ponca's scoring attack with 11 strikeouts, including three straight in the seventh and eighth innings.

Meanwhile, Hix connected for a pair of singles and doubles in five at bats and scored two runs to lead Wayne's rally.

Hix's first run came in the four-run fourth after he and Rick Ginn singled and Harris walked to load the bases for Wayne. Bob Nelson was issued a walk to push across Wayne's first score and Blevins sacrificed for a 2-2 ball game.

Larry Raabe put Wayne ahead 4-2 on his two-run base hit.

Wayne scored four more runs in the top of the eighth of Mike Meyer's run-scoring hit and a two-run double by Hix before Hix came home on a wild pitch. Wayne had single runs in the sixth and ninth frames for the final tally.

Tonight Wayne hosts Wakefield in the final showdown for both clubs. Wayne enters the game carrying a .311 team batting average.

Hix is the top slugger with a 4.26 average after 17 games. Right behind are Mike Croughan at .389, Rick Ginn at .327, Larry Raabe at .321 and Terry Luff at .306.

Mike's Tavern Is Second in Districts Wayne Entry Is Heading for State

By BOB BARTLETT

Mike's Tavern of Wayne is one of three teams going to the state Class A Men's Slow Pitch softball tournament when action opens Friday, July 30, in Belle Plume.

The locals finished second out of 20 teams entered in the district meet at Winnebago with seven victories, including four Sunday, against two losses.

Mike's entered the four day meet with the least number of games played among the entries — five in the newly formed Wayne County League. But the lack of games didn't hamper the undefeated league leader as they posted a pair of wins in the opener Wednesday night, 7-3 over Ron's Texaco from South Sioux City and 11-1 over Rosalie.

The wins advanced Wayne to the second round of the winners' bracket Saturday night where the home team lost a 12-8 decision to Craig before Wayne regained its winning momentum in the second game with a 10-9 heartslopper over B & H Bar of Winnebago.

Wayne shrugged off the hot, dry temperatures Sunday to rack up four victories and a berth in the finals. In the contest Sunday, Wayne whipped Bancroft, 14-4; won by forfeit over Homer; once again ran over Rosalie, 12-7; stopped Jim's Amoco of Lyons, 8-6, before the home team fell to tourney winner, Bonanza Bar, 10-0 in five innings.

The biggest win for Wayne was against B&H Bar Saturday night when the locals overcame a 9-6 deficit with four runs in the bottom of the seventh.

Brad Wieland made it first on an error, which resulted in Wayne's fourth run of the inning.
Hammer was the heavy hitter for Wayne during Sunday's games. The hefty Wakefield product blasted three home runs including two against Bancroft and a three-run circuit hit against Rozelle.
Sandwiched between the victories was a forfeit by one of the tournament favorites, Homer. Although all Homer players were present for the game against Wayne, they had to forfeit to Wayne because of a tournament ruling which states that if a team forfeits one game it is out of the tournament.
Earlier, Homer and Jim's Amoco were scheduled to meet. Homer was first to bat, but when it came time to listing the club didn't have enough players. As a result, the umpires ruled Homer would lose the game by forfeit.
Despite protests by Homer players who claim the forfeit from incorrect scheduling to not enough time given for a delayed game, officials ruled that Jim's would advance in the tourney.
While waiting for the official ruling, Wayne and Homer played a game, however, wasn't without its problems.
A Homer player was ejected from the game after he allegedly struck an umpire who had called a Homer player out at home plate. A fight then broke out between the ejected player and the umpire before Wayne manager Mike Looft again informed the umpire and Homer manager that his club was playing the game in protest of Homer's actions.
Wayne moved into the finals after its 8-6 trouncing of Jim's in the semi-finals. The locals jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the opening frame with the help of Hammer's two-run double before he scored on Jerry Munter's single.
Jim's answered back with four runs in the bottom of the first on three singles and four Wayne miscues. Mike's settled down in the second with three more runs off back-to-back base hits by Dan Loofe, Mike Creighton, Wieland and Mike Looft.
Jim's scored one run in the bottom of the second, but Wayne pushed the margin to 8-5 in the fifth on runs by Johnson and Hammer.
In the finals, Bonanza displayed the form which gave it a 58-10 record going into the tournament. The winners combined infield base hits with booming outfield flys to end the contest in five innings, 10-0.
Wayne ended Bonanza's hopes of a no-hitter in the bottom of the fifth when pinch hitters Bob Wayne's victory over Wisner Monday night locked up first place title for the Midgets in the Ralph Bishop League as the locals head into their final season contest Friday at Wakefield. Sporting an 11-1 record, the Midgets go into Friday's game aiming to stretch their win record before next week's Class C district action at Colveridge.

About the only phase of the game coach Hank Overin would like to change about his league winners is more balanced scoring. Against Wisner, Wayne punched across all of its 10 runs in the third inning, then coasted to a 10-5 victory.
Aiding Wayne to the win were five Wisner errors, six stolen bases by Wayne players to gether with six Wayne hits.
Vic Sharpe got the win on the mound, throwing a two-hitter. Sharpe was plagued by three balks called on the righthander and nine walks. The first balk resulted in Wisner's first of three fatalities in the second inning.

Bancroft Upends Wakefield, 2-1 Monday

Bancroft moved up to a tie with Wakefield for third place in the Ralph Bishop League when the Midgets Monday night posted a 2-1 victory at Wakefield.
Holding a 2-0 lead after five frames, Bancroft tightened its defense in the bottom half of the sixth to cut short Wakefield's attempts to tie the ball game.

With one runner scored, Wakefield's Larry Soderberg advanced to first on a walk and raced around the bases towards home but when a punt by Tod Swigart went through second base and into center field. However, the loss from the outfield to home was right on target to put Soderberg out of the game.
Catcher Dean Sharp put his team on the board earlier in the sixth when he singled, stole second and came home on a punt by Lyle Ekbert and a Bancroft error.
Overall, Wakefield stands at 12-6 after Friday night's 2-0 victory over Wisner.
In Legion play, Wakefield had Monday night off after taking a doubleheader from Emerson in non-league games Sunday night. The hosts won 5-2 and 5-4 on the pitching of Mike Soderberg and Sharp.

Officials Should Register by Aug. 1

Registration with the Nebraska School Activities Association by all high school volleyball and football officials should be initiated by Aug. 1, the Association announced.
Officials for the two sports will be assessed a late application fee if the deadline is not met. No applications will be accepted after Aug. 30.
The Association also announced that basketball and wrestling officials may make application between now and Nov. 1.
Officials registered previously with the Association have been mailed application cards. If an official has not received this card, contact may be made with the office in Lincoln.

Ted Parks, and Omaha North's Dave Powell) have Felix working on some South strategy to neutralize their influence in rebounding. "The North has good big men," Felix said. "They're every bit as tough on the boards as everybody thought the South would be."
Both coaches plan to stress teamwork throughout the seven days of camp. "We've got to get them to give up the ball to the open man," Felix said. "To sell them that to be successful in this kind of ball game they will have to be unselfish."
Trubey, noting that each of his all-star days is close to being the offensive leader of their respective ball clubs, expects a challenge in taking 12 coaching philosophies and bringing them under one or two.
Both Felix and Trubey will have seven days to accomplish that task. The two Central 10 Conference coaches have scheduled workouts Thursday afternoon shortly after the camps open and will follow with well-coming dinners with Kearney and Wayne representatives in the early evening.
Three-day workouts are slated to begin Friday with scrimmages against area collegians scheduled for Saturday and Tuesday nights at both camps. All practice sessions are open to the public.

Baseball Program on Legion Agenda

The Irwin L. Sears American Legion Post 43 of Wayne will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Vets Club.
Agenda items include discussion of the Legion baseball program, and of the post's membership program.

For perhaps a million years, people have been tackling do-it-yourself projects. The evolution from hand tools to power tools made things easier and quicker, but many times the project was awkward without the assist of a friend.

Many other items not listed will be dog-day sale priced both in-store and on the sidewalk.

Decorating With Plants

Plants have become popular as decorative elements in apartments, homes and offices. Their use depends on personal taste, budget and an individual's "green thumb" abilities.

Books are available at the library, and most florists will be happy to advise you once you discuss with them the light available in your home for good growth. Proper light for house plants can be tricky. Many foliage plants cannot tolerate direct sunlight, their leaves will burn if they get too much. On the other hand, flowering plants, cacti and succulents will not bloom without enough direct sunlight.

Fluorescent and special lights are often adequate in city apartments where natural light is not plentiful. Be sure to check first with the local greenhouse.

Before buying, always check the five major requirements for the plant — light, water, soil composition, temperature and humidity. Also, find out if the plant is tempered or conditioned to a life indoors. If a plant has been living out of doors, the shock of change without a period in a greenhouse will cause the leaves to yellow and fall.

There are no rules for decorating "tastefully" with plants, but they should look like they "belong" in your particular decor.

Plants can be mixed or matched, but interior designers offer these suggestions if your furnishing are predominately of the following styles:

For exotic settings, Paradise Palms (Howea forsteriana) are easy to grow. These palms were once status symbols and greatly sought after — perhaps because of their rarity and the fact that they could not be shipped from far off ports successfully.

Today, however, many varieties of tropical flora are widely available. Palms require relatively little light, they're reasonable, and they grow to heights that vary from two and a half to six feet.

Boston Ferns (Nephrolepis cordifolia) are suited to elegant or traditional interiors. Big jardinières of leathery ferns tend to "sentimentalize" a room. Ferns love high humidity and cool temperatures, but should be kept away from drafts and air conditioners which take moisture out of the air. Curtains or blinds are a good idea if a fern is in front of a window. Four or five feet back from a sunlit window is the best placement.

For Early American buffs, Grape Ivy (Cissampelos rotundifolia) is perfect. It's adaptable and can be used in hanging baskets, in cactepots, dry sinks, etc. Easy to grow, Grape Ivy is medium light requiring, relatively inexpensive and varies from two inches to three feet in size.

Spanish or Mediterranean decors look more authentic with the Corn plant (Dracaena) around. Its cost is determined by the variety and the quality, and the size can vary from 10 inches to 15 feet. Dracaena is easy to grow because it requires low to medium light, and its water needs are moderate.

One of the newest decorating trends is a revival of Art Deco, and one of the plants that looks appropriate with Deco is Difffenbergia maculata. No green thumb is required for this conversation item — it's hard to kill. Size can vary from four inches to four feet, and it can be kept alive for years with low light and only an occasional watering.

Modernists like the Weeping Laurel (Ficus benjamina). It, too, is relatively inexpensive, needs moderate water and average light, and its size varies from one foot table plant size to the 10 foot floor-plant variety.

Philodendrons (Araceae) are undoubtedly the most versatile of house plants and seem to suit eclectic backgrounds because of their own flexibility. Except for the very exotic varieties, they are fairly inexpensive with minimal light and water needs.

Plants can be killed with too much food, drink and warmth. Most house plants like temperatures around 68 degrees Fahrenheit, however, they can prosper at temperatures as low as 55 degrees F.

Plants are perhaps the cheapest centerpieces you can use — far less expensive than many decorative art objects, can dies or fresh flowers, and they're always "on hand" and "in season."

Peterson To Teach 'World Politics'

The education experience becomes exciting when the course is "World Politics" and the instructor is one of Nebraska's favorite lecturers, Val Peterson. "World Politics," to be offered jointly this fall by Wayne State College and the Northeast Technical Community College at Norfolk, will meet from 7 to 10 each Wednesday evening, Sept. 15 through Nov. 17. The class will meet at the Community Science Room of the Northeast Tech Macley Building.

"World Politics" will investigate global political relations between nations, choosing topics from current events, contemporary publications, newspapers and periodicals. Course format will include lectures, discussions and question-and-answer periods.

Val Peterson, currently serving as distinguished professor of political science and public affairs at WSC, has a political background that qualifies him to discuss international relations at various levels. He served as ambassador to Finland and Denmark, was administrator of the Federal Civil Defense Administration, and was administrative assistant to President Eisenhower. By Presidential invitation he sat in the Cabinet and National Security Council meetings and held Cabinet status. In Finland he was the American host to the SALT meetings, and in 1973 he represented the United States in the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe. He was decorated with the Grand Cross of Dannebrog by King Frederick IX of Denmark.

The three-hour "World Politics" course will count toward social science general education requirements or as an elective toward a social science degree.

Registration is through the Northeast Technical Community College. Tuition is $24.50 per credit or $12 for those who wish to take the course without college credit.

Further details are available from Wayne State College department of continuing education or Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk.

PLAY IT COOL!

Summer means warm weather, and getting out into the sunshine is one of the many pleasures of this time of the year. But summer also can mean tragedy to persons who overheat themselves and their abilities.

"Soaking up the sun" can be healthy if you take it in moderation. But when you are out in the sun too long, you may become a victim of heat stroke or heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke or sun stroke is an extreme medical emergency. It involves a breakdown of the body's control mechanisms and in some cases, if not properly treated, may cause death within a few hours. A victim of heat stroke will stop perspiring and his skin will become dry. The body will be red and hot. Convulsions and loss of consciousness may result.

To treat heat stroke, lower the victim's body temperature as soon as possible. Get the victim out of the sun and pour cool water on him. If enough water is available, immerse the person as soon as possible.

Heat exhaustion is just the opposite of sun stroke. The victim will perspire, usually to such an extreme that he will lose all the salt and most of the body fluids in his system. Clammy, cool skin, together with symptoms of mental confusion, nausea, dizziness, weakness and a headache come with this sun illness. Also, the heart beats may exceed two hundred beats per minute.

Persons suffering heat exhaustion should be moved to a cool, shady place. Although you want to reduce the body temperature, avoid rapid cooling. Massage the arms and legs to stimulate the blood flow, and make the victim drink salt water (a solution of half a teaspoon salt with a quart of water).

To prevent both of these sun-oriented afflictions, avoid over exertion, drink plenty of fluids, and take salt tablets if you know you'll be under the sun's rays for a long period of time.

"Young Pioneers" who won the first place prize in the kids parade are Jan Ryan and Jim, Anita and Zita Lee. Roy Larson of Newman Grove (right) throws another ringer to edge out opponent Tom Durham of Madison. Lars Strate takes a dip after an eagle-eyed pitcher fired a ball dead on target to bump her into the dunking tank. A 22th year "bir-day cake" adorned this float in the grand parade. Tossing out candy to spectators are Ted Lenz and Mike and Rick McKuevan.

Constitutional questions surround medical malpractice law

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — About 130 new laws went into effect on July 19.
 That's when all the laws passed during this year's session of the Unicameral, which were not of an emergency nature went into effect. By law, that's three calendar months after the date of adjournment.
 Among those that didn't was the controversial medical malpractice insurance law.
 That was the one drafted by the Nebraska Medical Association and sponsored on the floor by Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood.
 The Nebraska Justice Department, in order to provide the circumstances which would prompt a lawsuit, held in an opinion that there were some constitutional questions surrounding the law and advised the State Insurance Department not to implement it.
 The medical association promised the law would be challenged so that if and when the law does go into effect, there will be no legal questions hanging over it.
 "We are of the opinion that the provisions of this act are sufficiently constitutionally suspect as to justify your non-implementation of this act until such time as it can be evaluated by the courts of the state," the justice department advised the insurance department.

 Initially, the thought was to ask the Nebraska Supreme Court to grant special permission to review the law without going through the district courts. But that was abandoned because attorneys felt they could introduce more evidence and get a more thorough review by going through normal channels.
 Two provisions in particular were mentioned in the opinion.
 They were the same ones that came under fire during this year's legislative session.
 They were the $500,000 limit on judgments and the medical record review, which would review each complaint prior to its being filed in court.
 The law, however, is not mandatory for all. Anyone could opt out from underneath it by simply writing a letter to the insurance department.
 Opponents of the bill said the legislation cuts too deeply into the rights of a patient who is injured to have his day, and an unlimited one, in court.

 Backers of the legislation wanted it because it might slow down the spiraling rates for malpractice insurance.
 As a matter of fact, without the law a reduction in malpractice rates for hospitals was requested, and granted, of the insurance department. And, Union Insurance of Lincoln is now writing hospital malpractice policies.
 Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, chairman of the Unicameral's Public Health and Welfare Committee, said during the session he and others tried to avoid constitutional issues. But he said they couldn't because backers of the measure were too strong.
 Some lawmakers expressed concern about the justice department opinion and questioned attorney General Paul Douglas about it.
 The senators contended Douglas was assuming the power to decide which laws should and which should not be implemented. Douglas said he was only trying to push the court test so that all questions could be answered as they should by the courts.

 The alternatives, Douglas said, would be to wait until a malpractice case comes along and then try not only the case but the law.
Tavern Owners Win
 The Nebraska Supreme Court said there was no provision in state law which says that tavern owners assume any kind of responsibility for any damage done by a patron.
 The supreme court dismissed a case which sought damages from an Omaha tavern owner.
 In so doing, the court said it is up to the legislature to decide whether there should be such a law at all.
 The court said Nebraska did once have a "dram shop" law, which did hold tavern owners responsible for their customers. But that was repealed in 1939.
 In the absence of any law at all, the court said it would not take over the legislative power to set public policy.
 "We believe that the decision should be left to the legislature," the court said unanimously.

In the case, Kimberly Holmes of Omaha was injured when a vehicle in which she was riding collided with a car driven by George Allen Archer. She filed a lawsuit against tavern owner Louis C. Circo contending he was actually responsible because he served Archer liquor knowing he had had enough already.
 "The court said that even if the legislature decided to pass a "dram shop" law, it would be no easy task.
 For one thing, could a host at a party be held responsible, Circo suggested the court would responsibility have to be divided among several tavern owners if the person involved went on "bar hopping" excursions?
 On the other hand, the court said "We are mindful of the misery caused by drunken drivers and the losses sustained by both individuals and society at the hands of drunken drivers."
Are Divorce Laws Fair?
 The National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year said in a report that no-fault divorce laws generally yield poorer settlements for women and better ones for men than the old fault laws.

 Nebraska has a no-fault divorce law. Douglas County district court Judge Lawrence Krell said he thought no-fault laws were not tipped against women.
 Jean O'Hara, director of the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women, said she has received complaints. But she said she doesn't know whether the laws and settlements are unfair or not.
 The commission is undertaking a study to find out.
 But Mrs. O'Hara said the job of finding out is not easy. Originally, she said the study was to have been completed this summer. Court records were found lacking in some areas and she said the decision has been made to switch from court records to attorneys and judges as information sources.
 She said the study won't be completed until fall.
 Krell said he thought more complaints should be expected. He said in today's society it is commonly accepted that if someone feels wronged they can complain. Silence, right or wrong, used to be the rule.

Eliminating tip credit creates problems

Congress is pondering a bill that could raise the cost of eating out, result in a mandatory "service charge" being attached to your restaurant check and cause a loss of jobs in the restaurant industry.
 As you might expect, it's being proposed by a union of the restaurant workers. And the issue is so complex, that only someone familiar with the workings of the industry is likely to spot the well-hidden flaws in this legislation.
 What's involved is a change in the Fair Labor Standards Act which would eliminate the "tip credit" against the minimum wage.
 As things now stand, an employer may take a 50 per cent credit against the minimum wage if the employee is making at least that much in tips. In other words, if the applicable minimum wage rate is, say, $2.20 an hour, and a waiter or waitress is averaging at least $1.10 an hour in tips, then the employer is required to pay only $1.10 an hour in salary.
 If that sounds cheap, think of it this way: Under the present system, the employee cannot do worse than the minimum wage, and may well do better, depending on tips.
 Now consider what would happen if the tip credit is abolished. Many restaurant owners would suddenly find themselves faced with the need to increase salaries by 100 per cent. How would they recover such a large increase in expenses? Here are the possibilities:

 — Charge the customer higher prices, either with or without permitting tipping.
 — Add to the check a mandatory service charge.
 — Lay off employees and reduce service to the customer.
 — Close the restaurant.
 Sources in the restaurant industry tell me that the second alternative — a mandatory service charge — is the most likely to be adopted, although we would undoubtedly see a mixture of all four.
 These possibilities are not purely theoretical. California abolished its own tip credit in January of this year. According to the president of one national restaurant chain, the consequences for them were as follows: "In order to adjust, we reduced our California employment by 7.1 per cent, reduced total hours worked per day period 12.1 and had to raise prices 7 per cent.
 Interestingly enough, a mandatory service charge is not popular with the waiters and waitresses who are supposed to "benefit" from this legislation. Why? Because two things would happen under a mandatory service charge system: The employees would go on straight salary, with no chance of making more. The employer would be getting what the employees used to get in tips. And there's no requirement that all of the "service charge" income has to go into salaries, as long as those salaries at least meet the minimum wage.

 A waitress from the above mentioned chain, Theresa Barrett of Fairfax, Va., got a chance to talk to some of the key congressional aides involved in putting together this legislation. She was so incensed by the experience she wrote a letter to the other employees of the chain, urging them to oppose abolition of the tip credit. Here is how she describes the interviews:
 "Not one of these representatives could give me a reason for their actions. In fact, one person said, 'who said we have to have a reason?' It was even more shocking to find that they knew nothing about restaurants, declaring wages, or tipping procedures, yet these are the people who will be advising our Congress (how) to vote on the minimum wage bill!"

Concern expressed over water supply

Can the rate of water use in Nebraska, pegged at 7,000,000 acre feet 1970, be doubled by 1985 without jeopardizing the state's underground water resources and creating serious shortages in some areas of the state?
 That is a question which may be raised from a review of the state's water resources and projected use figures presented in the very excellent STAR (Strength Through Agriculture) report recently released by the University of Nebraska's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.
 The report carries some highly interesting information from its three-year study and assemblage of facts and educated guesses concerning Nebraska's agricultural, natural and human resources. So rapid has the state's development of deep well irrigation come in the last three years that many of the statistics are already outdated, and the stress of what appears to be a long drought period heightens concerns and raises questions concerning the need for improved water conservation.
 The STAR report projects that the largest increase in water use by 1985 will be 7 million acre feet for well irrigation — a 200 per cent increase over 1970. To get that 7 million acre feet of increase in perspective, consider that about 7.1 million acre feet are discharged to the Missouri River each year through the Platte, Niobrara, Republican, Blue and Nemaha Rivers.
 The report notes, "Studies show that some areas in the Upper Big Blue could be mined to the point the aquifer will have less than 40 feet of water thickness by the year 2000. This would greatly reduce the number of wells and their capacity. Modeling of other aquifer areas is under current study."
 And there are "water tables" in the Upper Big Blue, Upper Republican, Alliance and O'Neill areas, will require additional energy to pump water. Energy costs are projected to increase steadily. "The availability and cost of electricity, and other fuels will have an impact on trends."
 There are about 1,875 million acre feet of water estimated in the Nebraska underground aquifer but naturally this is not evenly distributed and there are "water rich" areas and "water poor" areas. "Recharge" is far below present use. There are opportunities in trans-basin diversion potential, and dams to retain some of those 7.1 million acre feet which flow out of the state each year but even the most optimistic would admit that only a small percentage of this amount will be retained.

 Nebraska receives one million acre feet of water per year from upstream states and this total probably can't be increased much, if any. The report notes but does not emphasize the greatest potential source and that is the 86 million acre feet of water that comes annually in rainfall. That figures is more than three times the total projected water use for all purposes for 1985 of 15,170,000 acre feet.
 Utilization and retention of greater portion of that 86 million acre feet can be done with known conservation practices and new ones in the process of development, keeping the water on the land where it falls. That means reduction in losses from runoff through proper crop rotations, terracing, farm ponds, small watershed holding structures that will feed the underground and lend themselves to pumping for irrigation when needed, new farming techniques that retain moisture (no till and minimum till), shelterbelts, strip cropping, stubble mulching, etc.

 Revisited, proper conservation can save both the topsoil and its nutrients and at the same time utilize a greater percentage of those 86 million acre feet of annual rainfall, much of which now escapes in average runoff, floods and evaporation. — M. M. Vankirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Support appreciated
 Dear Editor:
 We wish to express our thanks to the Wayne County businessmen who supported the Wayne County Bicentennial Queen Contest. Without their financial support there would have been no $100 bond and 7 gift certificates for our queen and $50 and $25 bonds for the runners up.
 The dinner and corsages for each of the 16 contestants and the beautiful queen's bouquet were a part of the contest only because we have wonderful, generous merchants.
 A thank you also, to our judges who found selecting the queen to be a most difficult job.
 It is easy to be a success when backing is available, and for making the Wayne County Bicentennial Queen Contest the successful event it was, we salute you, the businessmen of Hoskins, Carroll, Winslow and Wayne.
 Sincerely — Mr. and Mrs. Don Langston, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Danberg, Queen Contest Committee.

OBSERVATIONS

Dram shop law unwanted

In Capitol News elsewhere on this page, the difficulties of a dram shop law is discussed — a law which would hold tavern owners responsible for damages caused by customers who become inebriated in their establishments.
 Nebraska has no such law now and, hopefully, such a law will not receive any consideration by the Unicameral.
 As the Nebraska Supreme Court points out, application of such a law would be difficult. Is the bar owner who served the last drink any more guilty? How about the person who served the first drink? How about the package store owner who sold the bottle, or the party hostess who passed the martini?

 We echo the court in saying we realize the suffering and losses caused by drunken drivers, but a dram shop law doesn't provide the solution. Where drinking is concerned, the individual must accept responsibility for his or her own actions. — Jim Strayer.

Support the Shriners

Businessmen who are supporting the Northeast Nebraska Shrine Club by purchasing tickets to the organizations circus deserve to be commended for supporting a worthy effort.
 The Shriners' sponsorship of treatment for crippled children and burn victims is well-known and any support given the organization certainly goes for a good cause.
 The Northeast Nebraska Shrine Club headquarters in Norfolk, but as the name suggests, the organization serves the entire quadrant of the state, and those tickets are being sold locally by Shriners who live in the community. Thanks go to them, also, for continuing their good works. — Jim Strayer.

Thought for Today

By Brian McBride
 "Do not blame anyone for your mistakes and failures. Do not look for approval except the consciousness of doing your best."
 Bernard M. Baruch
 Mr. Baruch was a philosopher as well as a financier. During his long life, he developed rules to guide his conduct, of which the above is an example.
 Blaming others for our own mistakes can all too easily become a habit. On the other hand, when we are successful it is pointless to expect plaudits from others... they're too busy with their own affairs. The satisfaction of knowing that we have done our best is sufficient.
 When tragedy strikes, call us first. We can relieve you of responsibility for the any circumstances, both legal and religious, which should be handled promptly.

ACP Program Gets Financial Shot

The Nebraska State ASC Committee has received $761,598 which has been added to the 1976 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) for wind erosion control in the Great Plains area of Nebraska.

Farmers in 41 counties in the Western two-thirds of the State will be eligible for money to cover approximately 75 per cent of the cost of wind erosion control measures. The funds will be available only in counties which now participate in the Great Plains Conservation Program.

The supplemental funds were initially appropriated by Congress for immediate relief of drought-caused wind erosion problems. Because the drought has since broken, the money will be used for permanent conservation practices to prevent recurrence of the wind erosion problems.

Cost-sharing will be limited to three practices: establishing field wind breaks, permanent vegetative cover and strip cropping systems. Special practices to solve unique local problems may also be approved.

Only annual conservation agreements will be available. Payments to a farmer under the 1976 ACP, including both regular payments and payments under conservation agreements, are limited to $2,500.

ACP is administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service through its farmer-elected committee system, with technical assistance provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

ASCS county offices will advise farmers when they are ready to take requests for cost-sharing under this special wind erosion control effort.

Record Corn Crop Predicted

Corn production, forecast at a record 6,533 million bushels based on conditions as of July 1, is 14 per cent larger than the 1975 crop and 41 per cent above the short 1974 crop. The 1976 yield per acre is indicated at 90.5 bushels, 4.3 bushels above 1975 but below the 1972 record yield of 97.1 bushels.

Oats production is expected to total 499 million bushels, 24 per cent below last year and lowest production since 1881.

Barley production is placed at 311 million bushels, 19 per cent below 1975.

All wheat production is forecast at 2,040 million bushels, four per cent less than last year's record crop.

Winter wheat production, at 1,530 million bushels, is 114 million bushels, eight per cent above last month's forecast but seven per cent below 1975.

Durum wheat is expected to total 129 million bushels (including first forecasts for Arizona and New Mexico), five per cent above 1975.

Spring wheat other than durum is forecast at 381 million bushels, six per cent above last year.

Five cured tobacco production is forecast at 1,318 million pounds, down seven per cent from last year.

Summer potato production is forecast at 22.4 million cwt., seven per cent above the 1975 crop.

Apple production is forecast at 8.1 million pounds, 14 per cent below last year's record crop and six per cent less than was utilized in 1974.

Peach production is now forecast at 3.1 billion pounds off two per cent from last month.

Local Livestock Consultant Reveals Test Results for Hay, Oats Protein

The first eight samples of alfalfa haylage taken this summer by Wayne livestock consultant Wal Tolman average 19 per cent protein on a dry basis. This is almost one half as much protein as a "40 per cent" commercial feed, Tolman pointed out.

The protein level of the haylage was different in each site, ranging from 17.4 per cent to 21.5 per cent. "This is almost 25 per cent difference among these all-good high protein samples," Tolman said.

The National Research Council (N.R.C.) gives 18.4 per cent protein on a dry basis as average for early bloom alfalfa haylage.

Oatlage will furnish less protein than alfalfa haylage and will vary greatly due to its maturity. The Wayne livestock consultant's first eight oatlage samples averaged just over 10 per cent protein on a dry basis. The highest test was 11.5 per cent, nearly 50 per cent more than the lowest, at 7.7 per cent protein. The N.R.C. reports average 9.7 per cent.

While home-grown alfalfa, and to a lesser extent, oatlage, when properly fed may save purchased protein they do not provide certain minerals, trace minerals, vitamins and other vital nutrients usually

Computer Can Save Irrigation Water

A new computerized method of irrigation scheduling which could result in a 30 to 35 per cent savings of the state's water and energy requirements for irrigation has been put on the Agricultural Computer Network (AGNET) by University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural engineers.

It is one of many programs in the AGNET system, which uses portable computer terminals throughout the state to "talk" through any telephone to the computer at the state capital.

Paul Fischbach, extension irrigator, said the savings in fuel alone from the new method could save Nebraska farmers an average of $30 million annually.

The pilot project is aimed at minimizing water and energy use, eliminating deep percolation and "applying the right amount of water at the right time," Fischbach said.

He said the scheduling procedure uses electrical resistance blocks seven-eighths of an inch in diameter and one-inch long installed in irrigated fields to more accurately measure soil water.

Fischbach said the scheduling method will provide for a soil moisture deficit in the plant's root zone without stressing the crop and allowing room for rainfall if it should occur.

"The real problem in irrigation scheduling always has been determining accurately the amount of water applied; the amount of effective rainfall and the efficiency of the system," Fischbach said. He said good formulas have been available to project or measure crop water use fairly accurately.

In an attempt to "get the ground truth on what actually happens in the field," he said, two or four electrical resistance blocks stations are planted in each field in the 50 farms involved in the state-wide pilot project, including one in Wayne County.

He said block stations are located at the beginning and end of the irrigation cycle. Four blocks are planted at each station at depths of one-half, one, two and three feet to measure soil moisture at various root depths.

Fischbach said the blocks, which are made of a porous gypsum material, use electrical resistance to measure the amount of water at various soil depths.

"As the plant roots pull water out of the soil, the soil actually sucks it out of the block," he said.

He said the blocks are monitored weekly for soil moisture content by connecting their two stainless steel electrodes to a hand-held A.C. resistance meter.

Effects of Wilt Vary Widely Among Hybrids

University of Nebraska-Lincoln scientists found a wide variation in susceptibility to Goss' bacterial wilt among 18 corn hybrids. Dr. David Wysong reported.

They also found that Goss' wilt may be a predisposing factor to increased stalk rot, he told a session of the annual meeting of the American Phytopathological Society in Kansas City.

However, while indications were that Goss' wilt significantly depressed yields, stalk rot had little effect on yield depression in this test, he said.

The 18 corn hybrids were planted on May 8 in strip plot four rows wide and half a mile long in a sprinkler irrigated continuous corn production field, Wysong said.

The field has been severely infected with Goss' wilt in 1974, he said.

All the hybrids had well developed leaf lesions by Aug. 19, he said.

When evaluated on Sept. 9, three hybrids exhibited 35 per cent or more foliar tissue death typical of Goss' wilt. Four were intermediate (10 to 35 per cent), and the rest had less than 10 per cent leaf damage.

Wayne Scouts Find Adventure On Minnesota Canoe Journey

Boy Scouts in Wayne Troop 175 have spent many Saturdays this past year picking up bundles of newspapers, but the hard work paid off earlier this summer by making possible a 10-day canoe trip in Minnesota.

A total of 11 scouts and four leaders made the journey to the Elk Lake Group Camp at Lake Itasca State Park in Minnesota.

Leaving Wayne June 28, the group returned July 7. Younger scouts — Timm Corbit, Mike Keck, John Carhart, Mark Bobenkamp, David Weiner and Bob Liska — formed a base camp group along with leaders Darrell Weiner, Don Keck and Bob Carhart.

They stayed at the base camp, fishing, hiking, canoeing on the lake and completing work on fishing and canoeing merit badges, and completing requirements for hiking and camping skill awards.

The base camp group also visited a ranger observation tower, took a guided nature hike, and visited the head waters of the Mississippi River.

Scouts aged 15 and 16 — Clint Nelson, Jeffrey Edmonds, Jeremy Edmonds, Mark Schuffert and Scott Carhart — and leader Kenneth Edmonds, traveled to Elk Lake with the base camp group, but departed on a 50-mile canoe trip down the Mississippi head waters to Lake Birmidji, completing requirements for scouting's 50 Mile Award. They returned to Wayne July 3.

The base camp group began the return trip to Wayne July 4, spending a night camping at Lake Chaska, in southern Minnesota, and stopping at Pipestone National Monument where they visited a quarry where Indians obtained stone to carve pipes from.

The high adventure trip was planned in January, in keeping with the troop's policy of alternating summers between attending a regular camp and taking a trip. Funds raised through the troop's paper drive paid for all expenses for the trip.

Members of the Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday viewed a film, "The Quiet Revolution," presented by club member Cal Comstock, manager of Wayne County Public Power.

The 30-minute film reviewed the growth of cooperative power companies in rural communities and the role they have played in making life easier for farmers as well as persons living in isolated areas of the United States.

Prior to the film, club president-elect Bob Jordan announced that beginning next week members will once again meet every Monday at the Women's Club restaurant. This week's meeting had been changed to Jeff's Cafe after it was learned shortly before the meeting that meals wouldn't be catered to the remainder of the summer by Joyce Niemann.

Business notes.

Vocational agribusiness instructors Daryl McGhee and Thomas Wilmes of Allen High School attended the Agriculture, Agribusiness Education Conference held July 13-16 at Platte Technical Community College at Columbus. Approximately 143 secondary, post secondary, University of Nebraska Agricultural Education instructors and 28 wives attended the conference.

The theme of the conference was "Progress Through Pride and Participation." One full day was devoted to half-day workshops. Each instructor was allowed to attend two half-day workshops of his choice. Workshops were held in the areas of personal income tax procedures, surveying, preventative animal health, mechanics, plant zoology and agricultural chemicals.

Garden Club
Picnic Set Sunday

The Hoskins Garden Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lena Ulrich. Hostess was Christina Leuken and guests were Mrs. Galen Hahn, Mrs. Lena Ulrich and Tammy Hamm.

Plans were made for a family picnic to be held Sunday, July 25, at the Hoskins Fire Hall. Serving will begin at 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Erwin Ulrich opened the meeting by reading "Happy Birthday Dear U.S.A." She also gave a Bicentennial prayer and read a poem, entitled "The Flag."

Twelve members answered roll call with girlhood cooking memories.

The hostess' favorite song, "America the Beautiful," was sung and a poem, "Fresh Morning," was read by Mrs. Irene Tunink. Gladys Reichert reported on the club's recent tour to Arbor Lodge. Mrs. Erwin Ulrich reported on planting flowers at the fire hall.

Mrs. Walter Fenske gave the comprehensive and brought articles dating back to 1917. The hostess conducted several patriotic contests and Gladys Reichert gave the lesson on the purple martin. Next regular meeting of the club will be with Mrs. George Wittler on Aug. 21.

Hostess' Birthday

The Rev. and Mrs. Larry Miller, Lori and Timothy, Port Arthur, Tex., the Alfred Millers, Winside, Mo., and Mrs. Wayne Hales, Norfolk, and the Ron Koehler family and the Marvin Koehler family, Pierce, were guests Saturday in the Walter Koehler home for the hostess' birthday.

Pastor is Guest

The Immanuel Missionary Society met July 14 at the Peace United Church of Christ. The Rev. and Mrs. Galen Hahn were guests.

Mrs. Walter Fenske, president, opened the meeting with prayer. Cheer cards were sent to several shut-ins in the community. All members participated in the Bicentennial program.

Next meeting will be with Mrs. Lena Ulrich on Aug. 11.

Firemen Meet

The Hoskins rural firemen, district III, held their annual meeting at the fire hall July 12. George Langenberg retired after serving as director for the past 30 years. Newly elected directors are Stanley Langenberg, Hoskins precinct, and Alvin Wagner, Garfield precinct.

Extension Club

The A-Teen Home Extension Club met with Mrs. Jim Robinson July 14. The hostess was in charge of the meeting.

Final plans for Hoskins' Bicentennial festivities were made. Plans were also completed for the Wayne County Fair and Achievement Day. Pitch furnished entertainment and prizes were won by Mrs. Walter Flier Jr., high, Mrs. Leon Welch, low, and Mrs. William Thoendel, traveling.

Guests were Mrs. Gretchen Zinnecker of Lincoln, Mrs. Steve Hokamp of Carroll and Mrs. Lloyd Behmer of Winside.

The Sept. 8 meeting will be with Mrs. Elmer Koepke.

Social Calendar

Tuesday, July 27: Town and Country Garden Club, Mrs. Lyle Marot.

Wednesday, July 28: Trinity Young People's Society, school basement.

The Robert Lienesmanns and Keith, Omaha, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Heyne, Pam and Shelly, Sioux City, were July 17 weekend guests of Mrs. Lucille Asmus.

The Rev. and Mrs. LeRoy Marten and family, Wisconsin, visited Janice Krenz Saturday and Sunday. The women are sisters. The Rev. and Mrs. Larry Miller and family, Port Arthur, Tex., and the Walter Koehlers attended church services at Osmond July 18 and visited Mrs. Pauline Wubbenhorst.

A picnic dinner honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Larry Miller family of Texas was held at Pierce Sunday. Mrs. Miller, a former Hoskins resident, is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Koehler.

Dr. and Mrs. M. Gene Ulrich, LeMars, Ia., were July 14 overnight guests of the Erwin Ulrichs. Thursday they visited with Mrs. Lena Ulrich. The Steven Davids family were in Lincoln July 13. They visited relatives in Omaha July 15.

A Helping Hand

BESS MURPHY, wife of state Sen. John "Bob" Murphy of South Sioux City, lends a helping hand to Darren Shellenberg during Hoskins Bicentennial parade Saturday. Darren, dressed as Ben Franklin for the kids parade, but after completing his march, found his kite got in the way when scrambling for candy thrown off floats which followed, so he asked Mrs. Murphy if she would hang onto the kite until after the parade.

SPORTS SHORTS

Hank Aaron's record-breaking home run—with which he equaled Babe Ruth's 715 lifetime homers—was made on April 8, 1974 in the fourth inning of a game against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The first video sports game came out in 1972. Now with new and improved Odyssey 100 and 200, people can play tennis, hockey and smash (a cross between baseball and jai-alai) right on their TV screens.

Back in the Ol' Days...

THE MONTHS of July and August offer antique enthusiasts as well as others a chance to see how farming was done in "the ol' days" with steam threshing machines aiding the bulk of the labor. One such show Saturday near the Russell Johnson farm north of Wayne included Russell, his son Carl and friends Don Pedersen, Dale Duncan and Bruce Johnson shocking and threshing about six acres of oats using a Minneapolis steam traction engine as the source of power to operate the belt-driven threshers. A first for the fourth annual threshing show included a display of early 1900 gasoline engines owned by brothers Greg and Joel Mosley. Some of the engines were used to operate a 1928 Buckeye corn grinder and a 1909 Maytag washing machine. According to the boys' dad, Keith, the youngsters have over eight engines they have rebuilt, including one engine weighing over 1,800 pounds. Also on display were antique cars owned by Bruce Johnson, Dale Lessmann and Stanley Johnson.
