Dairy Winners Named In Dixon County Fair

Both 4-H and open class dairy winners were named at the Dixon County Fair Monday, August 16, at the fairgrounds in Concord.

The top junior showman was Jeanne Warner of Allen. Taking second place honors was Chris Heald of Ponca. The top senior showman was Jack Warner of Allen with second place honors going to Carl Domsch of Wakefield.

The champion registered 4-H Holstein was shown by Carl Domsch of Wakefield.

Laurel Calf Sale Set for Friday

The annual Laurel 4-H calf show and sale will be sponsored Friday by the Laurel Chapter of 4-H.

Any 4-H members who have shown calves at the county fairs are eligible to participate in the show. The calves must be trained to lead and show and must be in the barn by 11 a.m.

Ray Switzer of Switzer and Beeson will be the judge. Exhibitors will be judged for the Cedar County Feeders Association beginning at 1 p.m.

The calf sale will start at 8 p.m. at the Laurel ball park. The beef barbecue will be held after the calf sale. Tickets for the meal will cost $1.50.

First City Mailman Recalls Early Days

When Dick Banister began carrying mail in Wayne, it cost only two cents to post a letter first class, and mail from outside the city was brought in by train.

That was in 1926. Tuesday night the retired mail carrier received a gold life membership card in the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Banister retired 10 years ago, after 40 years of making his daily rounds, and has been a member of the mail carrier's union for 50 years.

Marlyn Koch who took over Banister's route in the eastern part of Wayne is only the second regular carrier on the route. Banister and George Berres, in fact, were the first Wayne city carriers and set up the route system. The Nebraska Democrat were delivered on Thursdays. Banister said loads were often large enough that carriers toled two bags and clerks relayed mail to homes along the route.

Newspapers delivered outside the county cost only a penny a pound to mail them, Banister recalled.

"I remember there were times I wished the post office would burn down or something that first year, and we were still delivering packages a couple of weeks after Christmas, but I made it through," the retired mailman recalled.

A post office veteran told him conditions would be even worse when it came time to deliver Valentines.

That proved to be false, but the volume was only slightly less than at Christmas time, he added.

It is almost impossible to figure

Crash Claims

Wayne Graduate

A 1971 graduate of Wayne High School was one of three persons who died in the crash of a light plane about eight miles southwest of Columbus Saturday night.

Richard Hall, now of Lincoln, was traveling with David Sokup of Columbus and their pilot Thomas Monismith, also of Columbus, at the time of the accident.

The State Patrol reported that the men were in a Beech Bonanza which apparently had taken off from the Columbus airport. Wreckage was scattered over a quarter-mile area.

Birds Cause Power Outage

Birds caused loss of service to about 250 Wayne County public power district customers for about an hour Sunday according to a power district spokesman.

Several birds inside a cross-station south of Wayne "sub-phased" power and blew up some metering equipment, causing fuses to burn out, the spokesman said.

recalled and first class letters went for two cents. Christmas cards cost only a penny.

The veteran letter carrier views the biggest change in postal service since he began his career is the move to try to make mail delivery pay for itself.

"I always thought of it as a service then, and I think it should stay that way rather than trying to make it self-supporting."

Providing service can mean working in rough weather or when sick, and Banister had more than a year accumulated in unused sick leave when he retired.

The worst weather he recalls working in was in 1935 or '36, when a cold snap brought temperatures which didn't climb above the zero mark for more than a month straight.

The national letter carriers association has recently proposed that mailmen be allowed to decide when weather is too bad to continue service, and Banister said that might be a good idea.

Worked under the direction of five different post masters, and said the attitude of the head man is important to mailmen.

"Some postmasters will come out in their car and tell you it wasn't fit to be out, or bring you a raincoat when it rained, while others might just not care."

Banister said the $1,700 annual salary he received when he began in 1926 was very good pay at the time, but didn't make any provision for overtime. "You just worked until the mail was delivered."

That could mean late hours during busy times and Banister said he used to stop under street lights to sort mail for the next block. Mail for individual homes was stacked between fingers so he wouldn't have to figure out which bundle went to which house on dark streets.

There were some advantages by the salary arrangement, however. Banister said that on a light day, a carrier could go home if he finished early, without any penalty.

Reunion Total Tops 350

Saturday was a time for re-membering as more than 350 persons who attended Carroll High School attended a reunion which included an afternoon social hour, evening banquet and a tour of the school building.

The Carroll school was organized in 1908 and remained in operation for 50 years, until 1958 when the district merged with the Wayne School district.

A social hour at the Carroll fire hall and a coffee hour at the village park began at 3 p.m. Dinner in the city auditorium began at 5:30 p.m., catered by Ron's Steak House and served by the Carroll All Faith Youth.

Gilmore Sals of Carroll, president of the Carroll school association, welcomed guests at the dinner. Eleanor Edwards of Wayne led the flag salute and Charles Denesta of Wayne gave the invocation.

Toastmaster for the evening was Robert Link of Denver and Warren Sals of Lincoln delivered the keynote address. Donald Linn of San Francisco performed a piano medley.

Mrs. Wayne Kerstine of Carroll and Mrs. Zila Jenkins of Wayne were in charge of recognition and memorial services.

The class of 1926 was honored with nine members of the 15 alumni present: Ruth Morris Van Hyding of Lewistown, Mont.; Mazie Mitchell Leigh, Chesterlton, Inc.; Helen Morris Odegaard, Seattle, Wash.; Caroline Evans Logan, Beatrice;

Insurance Clears Way For National Fiberglass

Legal obstacles blocking construction of a new building in the Wayne industrial tract have apparently been cleared as the result of action taken Tuesday by the Wayne Industries, Inc., board of directors.

President Kent Hall said the board voted to pay premiums for title insurance on property purchased by National Fiberglass Corporation of Nebraska.

National Fiberglass Corporation, with headquarters in Hillsboro, Ore., announced in May that it would locate a plant in Wayne and original plans were to begin construction of a new 24,000-square foot building as soon as possible.

A decision by the Nebraska Supreme Court temporarily halted those plans, however. The state's high court ruled that it is against the Nebraska constitu-

Temperatures Above Normal During July

Temperatures were above normal in Northeast Nebraska in July, according to a report issued by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Data from National Weather Service observers at Norfolk and Wakefield were used in the report. Average daily maximum temperatures at Norfolk was 89.1 degrees (all temperatures are Fahrenheit). Average daily maximum at Wakefield was 88.5.

Average daily minimums were 63.3 at Norfolk, 62.7 at Wakefield. Average temperature for the month was 77.2 at Norfolk — 2 higher than normal. Wakefield's average of 75.6 was 0.4 higher than average.

Highest temperatures recorded was 101 for Norfolk's low built on July 9. Both sites was 92 on July 16. Wakefield's low was 48 on July 5.

Precipitation recorded at Wakefield amount to .98 inch, 3.6 inches below normal.

Wayne Women Are Recipients Of Scholarships

Three Wayne women have been awarded scholarships for the fall semester, according to the Wayne State College financial aid office.

Kay Pankratz received a $400 Ak Sar Ben scholarship. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pankratz, she graduated from Wayne High in 1974. She is a math major with business and political science minors, and she is a member of Kappa Mu Epsilon, national honorary in mathematics.

Karen Nolte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Nolte, is a 1976 Wayne high graduate, who will enter WSC in the fall, probably with an art major. She received a cooperating school scholarship which provides half tuition.

Mrs. Nancy Lee Braden received a $100 scholarship from the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accounts. Mrs. Braden graduated from Allen High in 1970, and is a senior majoring in business accounting. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Chapman.

Valuations Are Higher in 1976

The 1976 assessed value of property in Wayne County is higher than the 1975 total, county assessors Doris Slipp said Tuesday.

Total assessed valuation for 1976 was $42,893,085. The 1975 valuation is $72,085 higher at $42,965,170.

Real estate carried the biggest gain in valuation: $29,440,450 for 1976, compared with $29,285,820 for 1975. Slipp said the increase in assessed valuation is mostly because of a number of new homes and farm buildings.

Farm machinery and business inventory valuations are also higher this year than last year, but the valuation for personal property overall is lower. Mrs. Slipp said the main reason for the drop in personal property valuations is because there are fewer cattle in the county now and cattle are valued lower than last year.

Exemptions on personal property will be 50 per cent this year. It was 37.5 per cent last year, and will go to 62.5 per

Insurance Clears Way For National Fiberglass

Goal of the action was to receive a decision from a district court judge about whether or not National Fiberglass could obtain clear title.

McDermott said the insurance being paid for by Wayne Industries will guarantee that National Fiberglass will eventually obtain clear title to the property, or will protect the company's investment in developing the property.

The attorney said Wednesday morning he had not yet talked to company officials about the title insurance and did not know when construction of the building would begin, but added that the insurance clears the way for the project. It was announced in May that Simpson's Structures, Inc., of Norfolk had received the contract for the building.

Hall said National Fiberglass vice president Orville Davis and a Simpson's representative were in Wayne Tuesday night to make final plans for the building.

National Fiberglass will produce shower stalls, wash tubs and other fiberglass products in the Wayne plant, which will be manufacturing sites are located in several states, including Texas and Oregon.

Rites Unite Hargroves

Now making their home at 11520 Westwood Lane, Apt. 12, Omaha, are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hargrove. The couple was united in marriage the evening of Aug. 7 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Mrs. Hargrove, the former Donna Hekrdle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hekrdle of Leigh. She graduated from Stanton High School in 1970 and from Wayne State College this year.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Brooks of Kankakee, Ill. He graduated from Kankakee Westview High School in 1970 and attended Wayne State College.

Matron of honor for the ceremony was Debbie Dvorak of Leigh. Pat McGonigle of Omaha was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Denise Peterson of Marshalltown, Ia., and Shirley Feller and Brenda Holston, both of Omaha.

Ron Jones of Kankakee, Ill., was best man for the couple. Groomsmen were Jeff Pilbeam of Peutone, Ill., Pat Holston of Omaha, Dave Schippul of Wayne, and Terry Dvorak of Leigh.

Those who ushered for the celebration were Ron Wullschlaeger of Leigh, Ed Travis of Columbus, and Jon Widner of Wayne.

The Rev. John Upton officiated at the double ring ceremony. Cheri Helmer of Neigh sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Connie Weber. Candlelighters were Dorrine Hekrdle of Leigh and Tammie Leu of Stanton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Ivory floor length knit gown sewn by her mother and trimmed with her mother and laced with eyelet lace. Her wide-brimmed hat featured matching eyelet trim. Her bouquet was of rainbow colored daisies and yellow roses.

Attendants for the bride wore floor length dresses of rainbow shades in nylon acrylic, styled similarly to the bride's gown. They carried single large mums and wore wide brimmed hats.

The men were dressed in light grey tuxedos trimmed in black. Rainbow shirts matching the women's dresses were also worn.

The bride's mother chose to wear a mint green knit dress for the affair. Mrs. Brooks selected a dress of multi-colored voile.

Hosts for the reception in the church basement which followed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wullschlaeger of Leigh and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Coles of Norfolk.

The 250 guests were registered by Carol Hahn of Lincoln. Gifts were arranged by Lynn Timperley, Lori Vencil, Kim Allen and Susan Dorsey, all of Wayne.

Colleen McGonigle of Omaha, Lynette Schellpeper of Stanton and Renee Funk of Wayne cut and served the wedding cake. Wanda Pagels of Wayne and Colleen Elsassner of Pender poured and Vickie Kraemer of Wayne served the punch.

Waitresses were Jackie Williams and Cindy Alexander, both of Kankakee, Ill., Gloria Christensen of Pierce, and Cindy and Pam Magmsen, both of Leigh.

The newlyweds will be at home in Omaha where the groom is employed at Mutual of Omaha.

Jaegers Marry Saturday Evening

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winside, was the scene for the Aug. 14 evening wedding of Joni Kay Langenberg and David Herbert Jaeger.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Langenberg of Hoskins. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jaeger of Winside.

Pat Meierhenry of Hoskins was soloist for the ceremony, accompanied by JoAnne Peterson of Piager on guitar and Jan Goldberg of Winside. The Rev. C. W. Gottberg of Winside officiated.

Maid of honor for the couple was Lori Langenberg of Hoskins. Bridesmaids were Deb Krueger of Winside, Linda Langenberg of Hoskins, Deb Lieneman, of Stanton, and Cindy Jensen of Omaha.

Serving as best man was Dirk Jaeger of Winside. Daniel and Dean Jaeger, both of Winside, Robert Langenberg of Hoskins, and Brian Hoffman of Winside were groomsmen.

Ushers were Eddie Lienemann of Stanton, Douglas Laga of Piager, Lynn Langenberg of Hoskins, and Roger Niemann of Omaha.

Traci Graef of Hebron, Ill., and Patti Langenberg of Hoskins were flower girls for the ceremony. Ringbearer was Shannon Graef of Omaha. Canon deighters were Douglas and Connie Jaeger of Winside and Jon Langenberg of Hoskins. St. Paul's social room was the site for the reception of 550 guests who were registered by Barbara Buell, Norfolk and Nancy Hynke.

Arranging gifts were Lori Rohlf, LeNell Zoffka, Janet Hall and Jennifer Graef. Hosts for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rohlf and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sorenson.

Ladies assisting with serving were Mrs. Frank Weibie, Mrs. Alvin Bergstadt, Mrs. Don Longnecker, Mrs. Orville Lage, Mrs. Paul Dargberg and Mrs. Melvin Meierhenry.

After a wedding trip to Wyoming the couple will reside on a farm near Winside, where the bride will be employed at Northeast Technical Community College and the groom will be engaged in farming.

Policy on Weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a outline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

YARD AND LAWN EQUIPMENT CARE

Just about every homeowner in America has one or more pieces of yard and lawn equipment and knows the basic ways to work them. But not everyone is as readily familiar with the safety and maintenance procedures that should be observed for their proper operation and care.

If you own or operate any yard and lawn equipment, consult this safety and maintenance checklist to ensure that no potential equipment problems exist.

- Never use electric tools when it's raining or on wet surfaces.
- Use a power lawn mower or clippers only in dry grass or on dry stubble.
- Fertilizer, which attracts moisture and invites rust, should not be allowed to build up on tools. Wash hand tools, spreader, and other metal garden equipment regularly with full-strength Janitor In A Drum[®], rinse and let dry. (Be sure to disconnect electric equipment before attempting to clean them.)
- If you use a metal ladder, keep it away from electric power lines.
- Do not leave tools outdoors, exposed to the elements. When not in use, outdoor equipment should be kept in a dry place. Before storing metal tools for long periods of time, coat them with oil to protect them from moisture and rust.

Wayne Juniors Are State Class C Champs

An on-target throw from left fielder Monte Lowe to catcher Mike Manes halted Crofton's Dale Merkel from scoring the tying run in the top of the seventh inning Tuesday night and gave Wayne Juniors a hard-earned 5-4 State Class C American Legion championship at Gothenburg.

Lowe scooped up a high fly by Kevin Vadavil for Crofton's second out and rifled the ball down the third base line to Manes who nailed Merkel racing in from third base.

The win boosted Wayne's final season record to 19-14, while Crofton finished with only its third loss against 23 victories.

"Out of all the victories in the state tournament this was the best... we really had to earn it"

Hurler Paul Mallette held the visitor's hitless until the final frame when Crofton batters connected for a single and a double to drive in one run.

Leadoff hitter Ken Miller opened with a walk, before left fielder Bill Damp started the hitting series with a single. With runners on first and third, pitcher Bob Hegge doubled to drive in Miller for a 5-2 ball game.

Crofton's rally forced Overin to shakeup his pitching staff, calling on third baseman Gary Munter to take over. "I didn't want to take Paul out of the game earlier because he had a no-hitter going," Overin explained.

Munter didn't find much relief when Merkel stepped up to the plate and smashed a two-run single for a 5-4 tally. But he settled down to pick up Crofton's first out on a fielder's choice by Randy Geoden before Lowe and Manes combined for the double play.

Although Mallette had trouble on the mound, striking out four batters, he came through in the bottom of the first with a solo homer to put Wayne in front 1-0.

With two away, Wayne scored three more runs in the first for a 4-0 count on a single by Bob Keting and error which allowed two more Wayne runners to score.

Center fielder Mike Sharer walked to restart Wayne's scoring in the first and stole second.

on a wild throw to first base by Hegge. Sharer went to second when Crofton failed to find the handle and scored on Keating's base hit.

Keating went to second on a balk by Hegge and later scored on a wild throw. Manes, who was safe on the throwing error, later scored when he stole home plate on a muffed catch by Miller.

Both teams went scoreless until the fourth when Wayne and Crofton each scored a run.

Duane Sushing walked and advanced to third when Mallette loaded the sacks on walks. A wild pitch allowed Sushing to score.

With two away, Munter singled and later scored when Hegge dropped a high fly ball.

Overin credited Munter with perhaps being the most valuable player in the tournament. The sally right hander pitched the Juniors to a 1-0 victory, over Auburn Sunday to rebound from a 3-2 loss Saturday night to Crofton.

Munter, Mallette and Dave Hix were the three key ingredients to Wayne's winning the Class C title, the coach pointed out. "As a team we're strong all over. But we're also three deep in our pitching. And that was the difference in this tournament." Overin added that it was Munter who hurled victories against Pender and Auburn which enabled the locals to play in the finals and to win the area and state meets.

"We were able to give Mallette and Hix the rest they needed to play the final games while most of the other teams had to use their second pitchers," Overin emphasized.

The head man also credited the hitting of first baseman Bob Keating who came into tournament play hitting only .200. Keating topped that average to about .500 with his timely hitting in the district, area and state meets.

The state crown is the first for Hank's teams in Class C and the fourth overall, including three B Legion titles. Two Midget teams also under his guidance have won state tournaments.

"As far as I'm concerned, the Ralph Bishop League is one of the strongest leagues in the state. Just look at Bancroft, which won the Class C Midget title, and Wayne."

Surprisingly, neither club won their division in league play.

Wayne came up with seven runs on two hits and three costly Crofton errors Tuesday afternoon to take a 7-2 victory and to keep alive in the double-elimination tournament.

With the aid of three errors and three balks, the locals jumped to a 5-0 command after three frames. Shortstop Paul Mallette put the Juniors on the scoreboard in the bottom of the first after he walked, raced around second to third on an infield error and scored on a balk by pitcher Vadavil.

The home team added a pair of runs in the second and third on two fielder's choices and two more balks.

In the second, catcher Mike Manes walked and raced home of left fielder Monte Lowe's funder's choice. With one away, Lowe cracked the plate on a fielder's choice by third baseman Gary Munter.

In the third, winning pitcher Dave Hix, walked, went to second on a sacrifice by Aaron Nissen and advanced to third on an infield out before he scored on a balk. First baseman Bob

Reeg's Birdie Putt Nails Down 5th Title

Bob Reeg sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the second hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday to capture the 27-hole club tournament title at the Wayne County Club.

Reeg, who chalked up an unbelievable fifth club title, dropped in the winning shot on long 480-yard par-five No. two hole to ace out Darrel Fuetlberg who was in front until the 27th hole. Again showing his strong putting, Reeg dropped in a four-foot birdie on the last hole of the front nine to tie Fuetlberg at 112.

The 28-year-old Wayne native got a break in sudden death when Fuetlberg's drive from the second tee headed down field in time with the trees on the left side. The lie behind one of the trees forced Fuetlberg to take an extra shot before he later placed the ball three and a half feet from the cup on his fourth shot.

"I didn't think I played that well," Reeg added about his four over par playing which earned him the tie after 27 holes. On the other hand Fuetlberg felt that he played good. "Any time you keep up with Bob, you're playing good golf."

He added that the match wasn't a giveaway by any means. "I didn't give it to him. He had a birdie on the 27th and second sudden death hole to win," Fuetlberg noted.

Both golfers finished the front nine trailing leader Les Luff who fired a 36. Reeg had a 38 while Fuetlberg was one stroke back at 39. At the end of 18, Fuetlberg took the lead among the 13 entered in the championship round with a 74, one stroke in front of Reeg. Both golfers fired identical rounds the last eight holes until the ninth where Reeg birdied with a 37 and Fuetlberg parred a 38.

Close to 130 club members and their guests competed in the all day event. Winning individual flights were: 1st, Larry Geiger with 81; 2nd, Val Kienast with 82; 3rd, Dave Schulte with 77; 4th, Lyle Henson with 82; 5th, Lyle Garvin with 84; 6th, Don Zeiss with 83; 7th, Don Leighton with 91; 8th, Lowell Tombs with 89; 9th, Bert Block with 85; 10th, Pat Gross with 84; 11th, Randy Ellis with 94.

Kienast was the only player who tied with another player and was forced to go into a playoff to win. Both he and Terry Luff finished with an 18-hole total of 82 each.

Keating, who was safe on an error, later scored when Varadil was called for a balk.

Wayne ruined Varadil's no-hitter in the top of the sixth when Maffelle and Hix connected on back-to-back singles to score Lowe and Randy Park, who walked.

Hix went the distance for Wayne, striking out nine while giving up three runs on three hits.

A wild pitch enabled Crofton-catcher Daje Merkel to score from third in the fourth inning for a 5-1 score. Crofton added single runs in the sixth and seventh on RBI singles by Brian Hansen and Merkel.

The Juniors' climb into the finals had its ups and downs Friday night the locals opened up with a 4-3 decision over Auburn in the four-team tournament.

surge by Auburn. Trailing 1-0, Wayne came up with single runs in the next four frames for a 4-1 command. Auburn scored a pair of runs in the sixth.

The tables turned for Wayne Saturday night as four-time favorite Crofton scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh for a narrow 3-2 victory.

MY THANKS to Dan Vodvarka for stepping in during my week's vacation. Must say that he did an admirable job covering the games and activities around the area. Got kind of a chuckle from his column, especially about the sorted goods he found while rummaging through my desk. I've got only one correction to make about his statement that a book on how to play golf was left unused. If he would have flipped through the pages he would have found one page missing. That page? How to control your temper after missing an easy putt.

JUDGING from reports in the annual Lincoln Sunday Journal, and Star prep and college football publication, the area should be well represented this fall when high school gridiron action unfolds in September.

A pair of East Husker Conference clubs are picked by the Lincoln staff to be contenders for one of the top 10 positions in Class C1 and C2 divisions. Scribner, which finished third in last year's ratings with a 9-2 record, is expected to slip six notches to ninth in C2. Oakland-Craig is forecasted to move up last year's fourth place to third in C1. Oakland was 8-11 last season.

A Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference team, Plainview, isn't picked to retain its Class C1 crown after going the season undefeated with 11 victories. However, the Pirates aren't expected to fade out of the picture entirely. Plainview is forecasted to rank eighth.

Turning to Class D highlights, Homer of the Lewis and Clark Conference earns the No. 5 ranking for the '76 forecast. Homer's up a notch from last year's sixth rating with a 8-1-1 mark.

None of the area Class B clubs, including Wayne, got a sniff. Hartington Cedar Catholic, which finished ninth last year with a 9-1 record, was mentioned as having a chance to sneak into the top 10.

"State playoffs" qualifier, Hartington Cedar Catholic proved last year it could compete with other Class B schools and may do it again this year," the article pointed out. "Several key performers from last year's 9-1 Club return including tailback Jeff Leise, a 5-11, 180-pound senior with 4-6 speed in 100 yds. However, too much talent may have graduated."

was noted about the West Husker powerhouse.

In capsule form, here's what the magazine had to say about the area teams picked to place in the top 10:

Oakland-Craig—The Pearson brothers, Carl and Kurt, are backfield keys for veteran coach Clarence Goracke, who faces a tough opener at Scribner. Line-man Jeff Nelson and Scott Lindstrom and back Roger Maderow are all fast for their size.

Plainview—Coach Warren Washburn may have the mystery team of '76. The defending state champions return only two offensive and three defensive starters from an unbeaten outfit. But a winning tradition and an unbeaten reserve team can make up for lost ground fast. If junior Gale Hamilton clicks at quarterback, Plainview may reign again in the Northeast Nebraska Activities Conference.

Scribner—Graduation stripped state championship finalist Scribner of eight offensive and nine defensive starters, but returners are solid. Coach Allen Rudesh says pre season all starters, Ken Thomas and Jamie Dahl will need to contribute more than is usually demanded of seniors in order to keep up the winning tradition.

Homer—Considering a No. 4 final ratings finish last year and the return of six offensive and eight defensive starters, Homer coach Neil Kaup is pointing to the top in 1976. Dave Jenkins not only triggers the attack at quarterback, but is considered by Kaup as a possible major college placement kicker and punter.

THE AREA also should be well represented in the number of pre-season all-state selections, according to the magazine.

In Class B, players from Wisner-Pilger are the early season favorites on offense. Dan Otten was named as one of the top tacklers in the state and teammate Mark McGill as a kicker.

Scribner's Ken Thomas and James Dahl along with Curt Seagren of Wausa are expected to be among the good defenders in C2. Both Seagren and Dahl are defensive backs and Thomas is a linebacker.

Homer's Dave Jenkins rates as the top kicker in Class D competition.

THE Lincoln paper points out that coach Del Stofenberg's Wildcats were the top defensive unit in state college ball last year, but his club is riddled with graduation losses.

"Returning to a defense that allowed just 673 yards rushing in 10 games last year are end Gary Krajcick, linebacker Rod Hoops, back Ray Wagner and cornerbacks Charles Curry and Craig Slepicka.

Maurie Minkem, a 5-9, 145-pound wide receiver, will pace the slot offense, quarterbacked by senior Brad Hahn, who saw limited action behind Dave Miller and Rick Benedetto last year.

"Tackles Mike Dunklau and Tom Elafros and guard Jay Dee Ritchie will anchor the line. Dale Pelland, a transfer from the College of DuPage in Illinois, should nail down the other guard spot."

Coach Stofenberg is quoted as saying, "Everybody will be emphasizing defense this year and we'll have some major rebuilding to do with the loss of all starters Mike Riedmann and Pat Donohoe."

Kearney is predicted to win both the Nebraska College Conference and the Central State Conference, of which Wayne is a member but isn't eligible this year to compete for the top slot.

The Cats are picked a distant third in the four-team NCC. Chadrón is second and Peru is fourth.

Late summer and early fall are the preferred times to establish a new lawn in Nebraska. This period generally falls between August 15 and September 15 for seeded lawns, depending on location, site preparation, available water, and the turfgrass species to be planted. Sodded lawns can be established anytime during the growing season, as long as adequate water is available and the grass has time to establish a root system before the soil freezes. Proper lawn establishment is one of the keys to a quality lawn. A uniform, rapidly established stand is desirable to minimize weed competition and to stabilize the soil. Some simple but basic steps should be followed to achieve the goal of rapid, uniform turfgrass establishment. These steps include:

—Control weedy perennial grasses such as nimblewill, tall fescue, timothy, orchardgrass, and creeping bentgrass before preparing the new lawn site. Contact your local Cooperative Extension Agent for recommendations concerning herbicides for the control of these weeds.

—If extensive grading is needed, remove the topsoil and stockpile for future use.

—Complete the final rough grade. Avoid steep slopes and banks. Prepare a slight grade (at least one per cent) sloping away from the house. This will aid in draining surface moisture off the lawn and away from the house.

—Till the soil deeply (six-eight inches), and remove all stones, roots, and building debris that may cause maintenance problems in the future.

—Redistribute the topsoil from the stockpile.

—Apply fertilizer or lime as indicated by soil test recommendations. If no soil test analysis is available, apply a complete fertilizer, such as 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 at a rate of 15 to 20 pounds of fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of lawn.

—Till the fertilizer into the upper three to four inches of soil.

—Complete the final grade, allowing some time interval for settling. This can be facilitated by applying the water to help the settling process along. Again, avoid steep slopes and banks. Banks are difficult to establish and maintain. If a steep slope cannot be eliminated, it should be sodded for more rapid establishment, or thought should be given to the use of a ground cover or a retaining wall.

—Roll and level the final seedbed or sodbed. The steps for seeding or sodding are identical to this point. Care should be taken to incorporate each step into the establishment process. Short-cuts can result in future maintenance problems.

—Select adapted turfgrasses before seeding or sodding the lawn. Use a blend of three or more improved cultivars of Kentucky-bluegrass—rather than a single cultivar. If the turf will be growing in the sun and shade, use a mixture of Kentucky bluegrass and red fescue.

—If the lawn is seeded, mulch with straw (preferably oat straw) to ensure good soil surface moisture. Keep the soil surface moist but not over watered.

—Daily watering will be necessary until the turfgrass is well established. This is true for sodded as well as seeded lawns. Seeded lawns may require daily watering for three to four weeks after emergence.

—A light fertilization of 0.5 to 0.75 pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet should be applied to the newly establishing turf at about 3-4 weeks to encourage more rapid filling of the stand.

—Once the lawn is established, watering may be cut back to less frequent applications to encourage a deeper root system.

—Six to eight weeks after the emergence of the turfgrass seedlings, broadleaf weed control with 2,4-D can be applied to minimize weed competition.

—Following these simple steps will ensure that your new lawn has the best start that you can give it. Be patient and enjoy your new lawn.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Joycelyn Smith

The Art of Jelly Making
Jelly is made by cooking fruit juice with sugar. Proper amounts of fruit, pectin, acid and sugar are required. The product should be firm enough to hold its shape when turned from the jar, yet soft enough to be spread with a knife. Whether jellies are clear or translucent depends on the fruit used and the method of extracting the juice.

Fruit gives jelly its characteristic flavor. To make good jelly, fruit must have the right kind and quantity of acid and the correct amount of pectin. The fruit juice should be about as tart as that of sour apples. For best results in making jelly without commercial pectin, select a mixture of slightly ripe (about 3/4) and underripe fruit (about 1/4). The underripe fruit furnishes more pectin than the fully ripe. The ripe fruit gives jelly good flavor and a bright color.

Pectin is the substance in some fruits which when combined with fruit acid and sugar, and heated, causes the product to congeal or "jell". Fruits such as apples, plums, quinces and Concord grapes have enough natural pectin to make jelly. Others, for example straw berries, require added pectin. Commercial fruit pectins are in two forms — liquid and powdered. Either is recommended with any fruit when the manufacturer's directions are followed.

Some knowledge of the amount of pectin in a fruit is necessary in order to determine the fruit's suitability for jelly. One simple test is to cook a small portion of the juice with sugar to see if it will form jelly. A second method is to mix 1 Tbsp. fruit juice with 1 Tbsp. denatured alcohol, but do not taste because it is poisonous. If the pectin precipitates in a solid mass, it is present in sufficient amount to form jelly. Juices moderately rich in pectin will form a few pieces of gelatinous material.

A third method could involve the use of a jellymeter. It measures the viscosity of fruit juice and indicates the amount of sugar to be added to it. Or mix 2 tsp. sugar, 1 Tbsp. Epsom Salts, 2 Tbsp. of cooked fruit juice. Stir well and let stand for 20 minutes. If the mixture forms a semi-solid mass the juice contains sufficient pectin.

Acid is needed for flavor and for gel formation. The acid content is higher in underripe fruits. Lemon juice or citric acid is commonly added to fruits low in acid. The fruit juice should be as tart as one teaspoon of lemon

WINSIDE PUBLIC SCHOOLS POLICY FOR FREE & REDUCED PRICE MEALS

The Winside Public School announces its policy for free and reduced price meals, free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family Size	Free Meals, Milk	Reduced Price Meals
1	$ 3,680	$ 5,730
2	4,830	7,530
3	5,980	9,320
4	7,130	11,110
5	8,190	12,770
6	9,240	14,410
7	10,200	15,910
8	11,150	17,390
9	12,010	18,740
10	12,870	20,090
11	13,730	21,430
12	14,590	22,770

Each Additional Family Member 860 1,340

Children from families whose income is at or below the level shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Applications forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Application may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy the high school Principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Donavon Leighton, Winside Public School, 265-466 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Each school and the office of the Superintendent has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Thought for Today
 By Rowan Witte
 "It is less important to redistribute wealth than to redistribute opportunity."
 Arthur H. Vanderberg
 Every now and then someone, usually a politician looking for votes... advocates some new form of "share the wealth." This always involves taking wealth from those who have it and giving it to those who do not. — If this was ever done, the wealth would quickly find its way back. Those who had been given wealth would be unable to hold-on to it. When opportunity is provided, rather than wealth, everyone can create his own wealth which, thus acquired, is far more likely to be retained.

Mailman

A postman's lot was probably happier under the old arrangement. Banister added, Mailmen might possibly have worked more hours then, but there was considerably less pressure than now, in his opinion. The emphasis in the modern post office is on efficiency, he said, offering a few opinions of time-motion studies.

Banister said that in his opinion, the postal system now has become an inverted pyramid, with the men actually providing the services forming the point, "and being pushed into the ground."

"There's too much frosting and not enough meat," he offered, adding that he thinks the structure is top heavy with supervisors, many of whom have been brought in from outside the postal system.

"They should get the guys with the experience in the post office, find out what their ideas are, and if they can produce, put them in charge."

The one incident that stands out most sharply in Banister's memory from his experiences as a postman concerned a patron whose wife had recently died. The man passed the postman on the street and told him not to put the mail in the box, but just to open the door. It was near Christmas and Banister was concerned that the man might be considering suicide and wanted to be discovered.

"I hurried through my rounds so I could get to this home, fearing the worst. When I opened the door I found a Christmas present."

Jelly

To test for doneness, dip a spoon in the boiling jelly. As it drops the jellifying point, it will near from the side of the spoon in two drops. When the drops run together and slide off in a sheet or flake from the side of the spoon, the jelly is finished. Remove from heat at once. A candy or jelly thermometer may also be used to test for doneness.

Remove the foam from the jelly and pour at once into sterilized dry jelly glasses. Fill within 1/4 inch of the top. As soon as the jelly is cold and firm, seal it with red enough paraffin to cover the jelly, about 1/4 inch thick. Cover with a lid, label and store in a cool dry place.

Gov. Exon rules out special legislative session on taxes

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — Gov. J.J. Exon won't call a special legislative session of the Legislature to cut spending so as to avoid tax increases.

In fact, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment met in emergency session last week and they faced the tough job of having to set record sales and income tax rates.

The ones set last November, 2.5 on sales and 15 per cent on income, were in themselves records equalled only in 1972.

But Exon said the time to make spending cuts to avoid tax increases was not in special session but in regular session and he noted that when the lawmakers went home this year he told them taxes would have to be increased.

Besides, he tried a special session last year and it was a failure. Senators refused to make the budget cuts he wanted then and proceeded to spend $460 million during the regular session this year.

Exon tried to veto $30 million in spending during the final days of this year's session. He thought at that time the state could get by with a 13 per cent income tax rate if all those vetoes were sustained.

The lawmakers went along with $19 million worth.

But it would have taken more than $30 million in vetoes to lower tax rates and there's a question about even remaining the same.

State tax commissioner William Peters said retention of 2.5 per cent and 15 per cent would yield a $68 million deficit, far more than the $11 million difference between the amount successfully vetoed and the amount Exon said was needed to get a tax cut.

On the other hand, Exon's comments about a tax cut were made on April 7. Two days later he delivered his farewell address to the lawmakers and he had already begun to lose some of his optimism about tax rates.

"Our revenue growth is currently on the verge of falling behind our expenditure growth, which means that taxes will have to be raised," he said in that address.

There has been economic recovery in Nebraska. But Peters said it was too little and too late.

The administration's proposal to the equalization board of a three per cent sales tax and a 17 per cent income tax was based on a paper year-end balance of $1.9 million net June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

In reality, Peters said the balance would be about $32 million because not all money appropriated is ever spent.

Peters said that amount of money was needed in order to assure there was money in the treasury at all time during the coming months.

College Decision Questioned

The Nebraska Supreme Court said in a July 21 decision that the technical community college system was no longer the state system that created problems in 1974.

Therefore, ruled the court, the revisions in the original 1971 tech college law made by the 1975 Unicameral were constitutional.

But Sheridan County still wants to make sure and has asked the high court to reconsider its July decision. It has asked for a rehearing.

Attorneys for the county contended the July 21 decision is in error because it allowed the very thing it says the constitution prohibits. The constitution says the state cannot avoid any of its own traditional financial responsibilities by converting state functions over to local ones.

In 1974, the supreme court ruled that the technical community colleges were state institutions and thus could not use local property tax money because the constitution prohibits the use of property taxes for a state purpose.

In 1975, the Unicameral passed a law designed to transform the system into a local one.

The Unicameral gave up its controls over the institutions and their spending and instituted a state aid program.

Sheridan County, which initially refused to turn property tax money over, said state aid was still a state control.

The mere granting of state aid does not render a school operation a state function," the supreme court ruled.

But Sheridan County, in its reconsideration brief, said there are some schools that were never local junior colleges and thus the state was transferring them illegally into local institutions so it could get around its responsibilities and tap property taxes.

"It permits the legislature to convert to a state function, no matter how long it has been a state function, to a local function," the attorney said.

If singled out as examples the Western Tech campus at Sidney and the Alliance School of Practical Nursing of schools that were never local ones.

Remember something called an "Indian Bounty Law?"

It is back in the news, or at least the reformed version of that law is.

Under the so-called bounty law, counties with Indian reservations in them were eligible for state aid for jail operations. Payments were based on the number of Indian prisoners held.

Indian leaders said that was a bounty if there ever was one and thought Thurston County was in there collecting as much as it could.

In 1974, the Unicameral decided to change the law.

The whole idea behind the law was to provide the counties with some method of getting reimbursed for property tax money they lost by virtue of having Indian lands in them.

So the 1974 version tied assistance to the assessed value of the Indian lands of the Omaha, Winnebago and Santee reservations in Thurston and Knox counties rather than the number of prisoners.

That law also suggested that the counties get involved in alcohol rehabilitation programs.

The money just wasn't there for rehabilitation so this year a new provision was passed and this month $109,705 was sent to the three counties for jail operations and for rehabilitation.

The formula calls for payments equal to 30 mills on the dollar of assessed value of Indian lands for jail operations and half again that amount for rehabilitation programs.

Opinion Released

The State Justice Department says county mental health board members are not immune from being sued for their actions. And, counties need not furnish liability with malpractice insurance.

That non-immunity is limited, however. It would have to be proved that a board member acted in an unusual manner — with malice or corrupt purpose.

Public radio pros and cons discussed

Would Nebraska's farmers and ranchers and the state's agricultural economy be appreciably benefited by initiation of tax support public radio as an addition to the present Nebraska Educational Television Services?

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission at a July 22 meeting in Lincoln, formally accepted the report of a special subcommittee concerning the public radio service issue and indicated that of its August meeting it would decide whether to ask the Legislature to amend the ETV Act of 1963 to authorize establishment of a public FM radio network and to appropriate the necessary fund for capital construction and annual maintenance of the system.

At the same time the commission said it would like to hear from those Nebraskans who either oppose or support establishment of such a system. In a public forum aired on ETV preceding the hearing, a farmer voiced an opinion that there is considerable need in the agricultural sector for farm commodity market reports.

The hearing on July 22 was marked by opposition from the Nebraska Broadcasters Association on grounds that the service is not needed, that a high powered FM broadcast operation would create transmission interference for a number of television broadcast channels, and that the listening audience would be so small that the service would not justify the expense to the taxpayers.

The broadcast group insisted that opposition of its members is not based on financial considerations or fear of competition. Certainly this has been true relative to ETV — it has not hurt commercial television's financial interests and the vast majority of Nebraskans spend very little of their TV viewing time watching the ETV channel.

Arguments presented by advocates of tax-supported radio have advanced a variety of needs in programming: classical music, news reports and analyses in depth, educational instruction suitable for schools, cultural programs of various types, special programs for minority groups (blacks, Indians, chicanos, women rights groups, etc.). They also make much of the fact that most states adjacent to Nebraska have public radio and that federal aid money would cover a large part of the costs.

The ETV subcommittee proposes establishing nine transmitter stations, the first of which would be located at Mead as the "Flagship station." The next group would be activated and operated by the four state colleges — Wayne, Peru, Kearney and Chadron with the respective transmitters located at Norfolk, Pawnee City, Lexington and Alliance. Later four additional transmitters would be located at Hastings, North Platte, Merriman and Bassett.

The subcommittee estimated the capital construction cost at $1,315,923 of which $911,853 would be federal money and $403,670 would be from state funds. Annual operating costs were estimated at $746,375 of which $89,515 would be from federal sources and $656,860 would be from state tax funds.

From agriculture's standpoint, it is unlikely that public radio would add much to the present volume of weather and market news that pours out from Nebraskans' commercial stations many times a day — certainly this would be the case if public radio is to provide all the varied programs which its proponents say that it will.

Commercial stations in the state already use free of charge the large volume of broadcast materials now provided by the University of Nebraska Extension Service. The claim that public radio would be more objective in its newscasts and analyses is just so much rhetoric... as long as people are human there will be a certain degree of bias and who would say that tax paid workers have demonstrated they are less biased than private enterprise employees?

It is doubtful that most Nebraskan farmers and ranchers are going to suffer either cultural or economic deprivation whether the Legislature ultimately authorizes and funds public radio or not — M.M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

Coordinated energy policy advocated

Why does this nation still lack a coordinated policy for energy development and conservation? Let me give you a graphic clue.

I have in front of me a diagram representing the legislative history of the Energy Independence Act of 1975, the Administration bill.

The left side of the diagram is labeled "Senate." Under the label, in a horizontal row, are thirteen boxes representing the thirteen "titles" of the bill. This row of boxes forms the top of a square.

The other three sides of the square are composed of circles representing Senate committees having some kind of jurisdiction over energy matters. There are 16 of them, with 32 subcommittees.

Lines run from the "title" boxes through the center of the square to the committee concerned with that title. The tangle of overlapping lines looks a lot like the wiring diagram for an automobile.

The right side of the diagram is labeled "House." On this side of the diagram is another square of title boxes and committees and tangled lines.

In the center of the diagram, a few joint committees float between the two squares, buoyed up by little clusters of their own subcommittees.

The President's bill was introduced in January, 1975. Through the first quarter of this year, top officials of the Executive Branch have been called to the Hill to testify on the subject 470 times.

When the Arab oil embargo was imposed in 1973, imports equalled about 28 per cent of our domestic petroleum production. When the Administration energy bill was introduced at the beginning of 1975, petroleum imports had risen to 48 per cent of our production. Today, that figure is up again, to 65 per cent.

Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson has estimated that another embargo, under today's conditions, would cause a drop in national economic production of between $30 billion and $70 billion, with a potential loss of nearly five million jobs.

What is Congress doing about this growing threat to our economic and, ultimately, our military security, besides dragging its feet on a comprehensive energy policy? Congress is studying ways to break up the oil companies, a move which would momentarily satisfy the socialists and those who are angered by price increases they don't understand, but do nothing to increase oil supplies or reduce our dependence on foreign sources. Worse, it would probably cause a further increase in prices.

The way to stimulate domestic production is to allow the oil companies an incentive to produce. That is not going to be accomplished by sawing off an arm here and a leg there. The major incentive we're giving the oil companies today is to get out of the oil business, a trend for which they're being criticized by the very people who helped to bring it about.

A nation committing itself to the destruction of free enterprise is like a man committing himself to a life of crime — the farther the process has gone, the harder it is to reverse, and the worse the consequences become — Richard Lester, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

OBSERVATIONS

Sunpower a must

Congressman Charles Thone has joined in introducing legislation designed to fend what he terms "bias" in federal housing loan guarantees against solar energy.

A home built to receive part of its energy requirements from solar power will cost more initially than one with conventional cooling and heating, but in the long run, the total bill for equipment and fuel for the solar home will be much less, Thone says.

The proposed legislation would affect the Federal Housing Administration, Farmers Home Administration and Veterans Administration programs for guaranteeing loans made by commercial lending institutions to homebuyers. The bills would provide for a 20 per cent increase in the loan limits, and a corresponding increase in the repayment period for houses containing solar energy systems.

Solar energy, in our opinion, is the long term answer to our energy problems. It's

Questions raised

Dear Editor: Before we taxpayers finance a project on downtown Wayne, maybe these questions should be answered: How many business or professional people in Wayne own or rent and maintain a parking lot for their customers? Is it fair to expect city taxpayers, including merchants with parking lots, to subsidize the business or professional people who depend on city maintenance for their parking? How many nights a week would most downtown business or professional people be willing to remain open so shoppers could enjoy the proposed new pedestrian lighting.—Only a Taxpayer.

Who should pay?

By BRUCE DOMAZLICKY Assistant Professor of Economics Wayne State College

The City of Wayne appears to be on the verge of embarking on a program of downtown renovation. The basic purpose of the program is to improve the facilities of the central business district. This will include street widening, improvement of parking facilities, perhaps improved lighting and various other changes. Two obvious questions to be answered are who will benefit from the improvements and who should pay for the program?

Because the City of Wayne is initiating the renovation, presumably the burden must fall on Wayne residents or some segment thereof. (The state, however, may subsidize some aspects of street improvement.) It would seem most fair if the individuals who receive the benefits from the program should pay for it. The crucial question, then, is whether general tax revenues should be used or whether a special levy upon a particular segment of Wayne should be made.

One obvious segment which will benefit from the program consists of the merchants who operate establishments in the business district. Presumably, their sales (both to residents and non-residents of Wayne) should increase as a result of the program. This will automatically increase the sales and income taxes which they pay; but those taxes are collected by the state. The portion of those taxes which are channelled back to Wayne from the state is too uncertain to be of consideration.

It might be argued that the high incomes of merchants would benefit Wayne in that the merchants would spend more and, therefore, contribute to economic growth in Wayne. But that spending, of course, will basically benefit the merchants. However, if the increased spending by merchants (and others) leads to more and larger business establishments, then some additional citizens will benefit from increased job opportunities (and perhaps high wages if the labor market become tight).

The major benefit to nonmerchant citizens of Wayne would probably come from lower property taxes or increased public services. This would occur if the property valuations of central business district sites were increased because of the increased economic activity. Because of the increased property taxes paid by merchants, the other citizens could pay less property taxes and still maintain the present level of tax revenues. Alternatively, the city council could decide to use the increased revenues to improve and to enhance the services which the city provides the public.

The above arguments indicate that a case can be made for using general tax revenues for CBD improvements. However, one point should be noted. The increased taxes (or decreased level of other public services) necessary to effect the renovation are certain. One cannot be certain of the increase in economic activity or of the increase in the property valuation of business sites. Therefore, it seems fairer to levy a special assessment on downtown merchants (as will be done). But since the renovation will benefit all of Wayne to some extent, perhaps a provision should be added that for a certain period of time, property taxes within the central business district should not rise faster than property taxes on sites outside of the district.

Accidents, Break-In, Investigated

Wayne County sheriff's department investigated three incidents over the weekend.

Friday at 10 a.m., Christin Lueker of Winside was backing from a parking stall on Main St. in Winside when her car was hit by a vehicle driven by Tyler Fruwert, also of Winside.

The Lueker car sustained rear-end damage and the Fruwert car received damage to the right front end side.

Tommy Henschke of Wakefield was eastbound on a county road two miles south and two east of Wayne when he lost control and his car went off the north side of the road. The mishap occurred about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. The car sustained damage to the left front fender, left side, oil pan, and some wiring.

The car went through a fence and into a bean field owned by Louie Luft. Henschke was not injured.

A sheriff's department spokesman said the Eldon Heinemann home southeast of Wayne was broken into overnight Sunday.

Entry was gained by breaking the glass out of a door connecting the home to a garage, which reportedly was not locked. Heinemann said that $6 was taken from a wallet.

Sorghum Protein Supplement Needed During Bad Weather

Grain sorghum stubble needs to be supplemented with protein only during inclement weather, and supplementation in normal weather is largely unnecessary, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln graduate student discovered.

Dr. John Ward, UNL professor of animal science, reported on the experiments conducted by John Schmitz of Norfolk Monday morning (Aug. 16) during the 68th annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science at Texas A & M University.

Dr. L.J. Perry, associate professor of agronomy who worked with the project, said the grain-supplemented stubble of the Angus X Hereford and Hereford dry pregnant cows supplied protein with crude protein produced larger daily gains than cows on non-supplemented stubble.

But Perry said gain in non-supplemented cows was "satisfactory" during normal weather.

He said findings also indicated that bunched combine tailings did not significantly improve cow performance and was a "non-benefiting task."

Forty-four cows were used in each of the two grazing trials, Perry said. He said the first trial, lasting 84 days, consisted of grazing normally harvested or harvested stubble with bunched combine tailings with or without 23 kilograms of supplemental crude protein supplied daily for soybean meal.

Average daily gains of cows on normally grazed stubble was .18 kilograms, while gains of cows on grazed stubble with bunched combine tailings were .09 kilograms. Soybean supplemented cows gained an average of .25 kilograms daily and non-supplemented Herefords gained .21 kilograms.

The second study, lasting 105 days, compared corn and soybean meal supplementation, and found cows fed soybean out gained those fed corn by 34 to 29 kilograms daily, Perry said.

In both trials, he said, mature cows gained more than young cows, and Herefords gained less than X-bred cows, which may have been caused by higher body condition of X-bred cows before the test.

Watering Trees

It is just about impossible to supply all the water a large tree needs when the weather is hot and windy. Artificial watering will only help to sustain it. Watering to a two- or three-foot depth requires three to four inches of water. When there is grass growing in the area to be watered it could mean applying five to six inches of water. If a sprinkler is being used, evaporation will reduce the amount available.

For flood irrigation, a special ground-depression like a water basin is needed. A saucer shaped basin formed around the base of the tree should hold about 30 gallons of water. It is an efficient method of tree watering.

A water needle is another good method of watering trees. A water needle is a 2 to 3 foot section of pipe with 4 outlet holes at a sharpened end and a water hose coupling at the inlet end. The pointed end is worked into the ground at the base of the tree with the water running. Water should be allowed to run slowly for two to three hours at each setting.

Supplemental watering is almost a must for the high water requirement trees like birches, poplars and willows. Insufficient water will make branches susceptible to winter kill.

Grasshopper Control

Here is a list of chemicals that can be used for grasshopper control. The list includes Sevin, Diazinon, Malathion, Dibrom, Phosdrin and Toxaphene. For the amounts to use and the restrictions consult the label on the can or package.

Crickets

Crickets are quite a pest at this time of the year in the home. Chlordane two per cent spray or Malathion three per cent spray may be used. Apply to hiding places, not to large areas in the home. Use Diazinon or Sevin mixed with water to spray outside foundations.

Fastest Gaining Beef

RATE OF gain champion in a 4-H beef competition at the Dixon County Fair was Brian Bloom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bloom of Dixon. His entry gained at a rate of 4.149 pounds per day.

'Catch-a-Calf' Contest Is New for Ak-Sar-Ben

A new feature of the 1976 Ak Sar Ben Livestock Show, the Catch-a-Calf Contest, will result in forty 4-H club members each gaining a club calf to further their 4-H market beef project.

Announcement of the new contest came from Robert Volk, assistant general manager of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, and Dave Williams, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension 4-H livestock specialist and show superintendent.

The heart of the contest will involve sixteen eligible 4-H boys and girls competing for eight calves at each of five performances of the Ak Sar Ben Rodeo. The 4-H exhibitors must be at least 14 years of age as of September 15. They must have shown a market beef to the choice grade at a previous Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show, which is billed as the World's Largest 4-H Livestock Show.

During rodeo performances the afternoon of September 25, afternoon and evening performances September 26, and evening performances October 1 and 2, the 4-H'ers representing several states will attempt to catch, halter and bring back across a finish line a rodeo stock calf.

Each successful "wangler" will be entitled to receive a club calf later in the fall, and will be expected to show it at Ak Sar Ben in 1977. Winners will still be eligible to bring the usual two-market beef animals in addition. The 1976 prize calves will be purchased by Ak Sar Ben, probably from one herd, to assure common genetic background and uniform handling of the calves until they are taken over by their new owners, Volk explained.

Winners in the Catch-a-Calf contest, patterned after similar competition at other major national livestock shows, must agree to pay back to Ak Sar Ben 25 per cent of the purchase price at the time of showing next year, to help maintain a revolving fund and keep the program going.

"The contest should encourage youth to continue in 4-H market beef projects, and stimulate competition. Getting a calf for 25 per cent of its market value is a real bargain," Williams commented.

The Catch-a-Calf contest will be conducted in two phases, the production phase and a carcass phase, according to Keith Giltner, contest superintendent and NU Extension beef specialist. Owners of contest calves will be required to keep a detailed record, beginning with the weigh in, and continuing through the growing and finishing periods. Four 4-H'ers will also be scored, on sponsor relationship (monthly letter written to the designated sponsor of their calf), the placing of the calf in the 1977 live show, total pounds gained by the calf by show time, and the exhibitor's accomplishments in showmanship. In addition, contest calves winning purple ribbons in live competition will be eligible to sell in the purple ribbon sale, Volk said.

All contest calves will be slaughtered and entered in a carcass evaluation following the 1977 show. Contest entry blanks are available at county extension offices.

Researcher Says Tallow Improves Gain

Adding animal fat in the form of tallow to swine feed significantly improved average daily gains and feed intake and efficiency, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln animal scientist reported from College Station, Tex.

Dr. Bobby Moser, assistant professor of animal science, made the remarks Wednesday during the 68th annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science at Texas A & M University.

He said maximum gain and feed efficiency were obtained when using eight per cent tallow in feed during tests he conducted at UNL to determine the effect of high energy diets fed swine during the fall and winter. At the same time, he said, backfat levels did not increase significantly at this level.

But Dr. Moser said caution should be taken in applying amounts greater than five per cent tallow of the diet because of what he called mixing and handling problems.

Tallow, which was used to develop high energy levels during the study, must be melted down and slowly added to feed, he said.

"It would take some doing to get it done," Dr. Moser said. "Most farmers would have to change some equipment to be able to apply it."

He said in many cases separate grinders and mixer are required to melt then add tallow.

However, he said adding three-five per cent tallow still would be economically advantageous to swine producers because of current higher corn prices.

All diets of the 196 pigs tested in the two experiments contained 14 per cent protein and 7 per cent Lysine. Six levels of dietary energy were tested, measured in kilocalories of metabolizable energy per pound of diet including 1462, 1511, 1560, 1614, 1661 and 1717, he said.

Dr. Moser said pig response to the six energy levels was similar for both fall and winter, but performance of pigs on the basal diet was depressed more during the winter trial.

Inherit a small fortune.

Your boat has come in, as they say. Fortune is gently smiling upon you.

just exactly which establishments do business by it. Establishments

Small fortune, that is. We wished it could be more, but you just can't give away big fortunes today. It's not realistic. So we did the next best thing. We figured a way to help you acquire a small fortune. We call it the Bankers Travel Card. It's a discount card, good at many, many places of business across the United States and Canada. Imagine. Eat and drink things till you burst. Buy things like you never bought before. Then just show your Bankers Travel Card. And you know what? The bill goes down 10 to 20 percent, automatically. Our booklet, "The Bankers Travel Card Directory," lists in Florida when you are on vacation. Establishments around town for when you go shopping.

And how do you get this incredible card? That's easy. Just waltz right into our bank and ask.

We'll tell you how and it's easier than you think. What's the catch?

One catch. You can't get one of these cards just any place. But you can get one at our place. That's why we call it our "trump" card.

Inheriting a fortune isn't make-believe after all. At least small ones aren't.

State Fair Premiums Higher

The already popular champion 4-H livestock exhibitor competition will be even more attractive to entrants in the 1976 Nebraska State Fair because of an increase in both the value of the top award and the number of placings with cash premiums.

Dave Williams, extension 4-H livestock specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln announced this week the overall champion 4-H livestock exhibitor will receive an expense-paid trip to the 1977 National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago. If the 4-H'er already has won a trip through another project, he or she will receive a $150 cash prize, Williams added.

As in the past, the contest will include the naming of champion 4-H exhibitors in the market beef, ewine and sheep divisions.

with the top trio competing for the overall championship. Safety Stores, Inc. of Omaha will provide trophies for champions and cash awards for the top five exhibitors in each species, along with the Chicago trip or equivalent cash award.

All 4-H members who are high school juniors or seniors at State Fair time — or are 1976 high school graduates — and have livestock entered, are eligible to compete, Williams said. All those interested will assemble at the State Fair Youth Complex on Saturday morning, Sept. 11. They will be given a written examination on their knowledge of 4-H livestock projects, judge classes or animals and be evaluated on their showmanship skills. Finalists will be interviewed to determine the champions and runners up.

Williams and Robert Scriven, Buffalo County extension agent, stressed that while the placing of an exhibitor's entry in the show ring will be taken into consideration, it has not been common for exhibitors of champion or grand champion animals to emerge as top over all exhibitors.

"Several 4-H'ers have come to the fair and hesitated to enter because of a relatively low placing in the show ring, but have gone all the way in the contest because of good showings in the other contest categories," Williams pointed out.

Shopper Almost Wins Top Prize

A Pender man narrowly missed becoming the second consecutive grand prize winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion.
He was Dr. Charles Bohlin who missed winning the $300 jackpot by one day. Bohlin was born on Aug. 27, 1937: the winning date was Aug. 26.
Bohlin, who was in El Toro Lounge when the date was announced at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, won the $25 consolation prize. Drawing the winning date was Bud McNatt, owner of McNatt's OK Hardware.
Two weeks ago a Wakefield man, Arnold Hammer, won the $50 prize when his date matched the date drawn at random.
Tonight (Thursday), another drawing will be held. The top prize will be worth $325.
It's easy to be a winner. No purchases or registration are necessary. However, a shopper must be present in a participating Wayne business.

C or A+? The difference could be their vision.

In most cases the cost of good vision is less than half what you'll spend on your youngsters' back-to-school wardrobes. And a lot more important.

We know how to make you and your children happy: with impact-resistant plastic lenses, precision-ground right in our own lab and a wide selection of sturdy frames for all ages.
