

Former Governor, Presidential Assistant Will Lend Expertise In Course Offered By WSC, NTCC

A former three-term Nebraska governor, U.S. ambassador, and cabinet-level presidential assistant will be sharing his political expertise with students in North-Nebraska this fall.

Val Peterson, Wayne State College distinguished professor of political science and public affairs, will be teaching a course in World Politics, sponsored jointly by Northeast Technical Community College and the WSC continuing education department, on NTCC campus.

Peterson's experience in the political arena includes serving as Nebraska governor from 1947-53, as federal civil defense administrator and administrative assistant for President Dwight Eisenhower, as ambassador to Denmark under Eisenhower, and as ambassador to Finland under President Richard Nixon.

Still active in politics, Peterson just recently returned from Kansas City where he was a delegate to the Republican National Convention. More locally, he is a member of the board of directors of the Lower-Elkhorn-Natural Resources District.

Foreign affairs and international politics, however, are his primary interests. The former governor said in an interview

Monday, "He will devote the course to subjects important to world affairs. The course will blend Peterson's considerable experience in politics with textbook materials and up-to-date information on world events gleaned from the news media.

The course will meet for 10 weeks, beginning Sept. 15 in the Community Services Room in the McClay building on the NTCC campus in Norfolk.

Meetings will be one night a week, Wednesday, from 7 to 10 p.m. Peterson said he intends generally to begin each session with a 35-40 minute lecture, using materials drawn from his personal experiences and backgrounds.

Lectures will be followed by a discussion in which he will throw open the floor to the class and field questions pertinent to international affairs.

"I'm hoping the questioning will be vigorous and to the point," Peterson noted Monday.

Part of each meeting will also be devoted to discussion of textbook materials, with graduate assistants handling that part of the course.

The World Politics course can be audited for no credit, or taken for three semester hours of either graduate or undergraduate credit. Credit can be applied either at NTCC or WSC. Required course work will vary depending on which level it is taken at. Cost for auditing is $12. Cost if taken for credit as WSC is $54.50. Enrollment may be completed through registrars at either NTCC or WSC.

"I want to keep the course current," Peterson concluded. "Except for the first lecture, I want to be working from a prepared manuscript, just some notes. We will be learning about the significance of foreign affairs as they develop from day to day."

WSC Request Up 20 Per Cent

Wayne State College will ask for a 20 per cent increase in funding for 1977-78 when it submits its budget request some time before the Sept. 15 deadline.

The total appropriation for the current fiscal year is $4,604,190. The amount which will be requested for 1977-78 is $5,525,536 — an increase of some $920,000.

A pair of items — utilities and salaries — account for more than two-thirds of the requested increase.

The utilities appropriation sought is 6.5 per cent higher than that for 1976-77, or an increase amounting to about $297,000.

Both major suppliers of utility services — Energy Systems, and

The City of Wayne — announced price increases earlier this year. In the case of the city, a new rate structure will mean WSC will experience about a 107 per cent rate hike for electricity.

The largest increase for utilities requested by any of the other state college campuses is 1.6 per cent.

Wayne's increase for salaries, at 7.1 per cent, is the lowest of any of the four state college campuses. In terms of dollars, WSC is asking for an additional $326,399 for next year, to pay for additional salaries, and for high or salaries for existing employees.

Other categories for expenditures, the percentage of increase requested, and the dollar amount of increase requested, are: operating expenses, 8 per cent, $36,085; transportation service bureau (new item), 15.456; supplies and materials, 1.9 per cent, $20,033; travel, 1 per cent, $2,473; capital outlay, 5 per cent, $23,144.

Funds requested for expanding programs are: women's athletics, 1.9 per cent, $22,590; increase: faculty adjustments, 1.9 per cent, $83,841; counselors, 7 per cent, $22,590; facility rentals, 1.2 per cent, $60,000.

Salaries, as a percentage of the overall increase requested, are: personal services, 35.5 per cent; utilities, 22.3 per cent; program expansion, 23.1 per cent.

The Wayne County board of commissioners will conduct a public hearing Tuesday morning before acting on a proposed $2,133,567 budget for 1976-77.

About $69,000 of the total budget would be raised through the county property taxes, increasing the levy from 12.92 mills to 14.18 mills.

Nebraska law limits counties to a 14.28 mill levy, but a 4 mill for the County Agricultural Society, while included in the 14.18 overall levy, does not apply for purposes of limitation.

The proposed budget is about $953,000 higher than actual expenses for 1975-76, approximately $1,159,920.

Amount budgeted in the proposal for the county general fund is about $440,000, compared with expenses of a little over $372,000 for 1975-76.

Higher costs for utilities and supplies and a cost of living increase in wages account for much of the general fund increase, according to county clerk Norris Weible.

Also, county-wide law enforcement dictated a $12,000 increase in the budget for the sheriff's department. A $47,000 Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant will pay for equipment and first-year salaries for additional deputies who will provide police services for Winslow, Carroll and Hoskins. The additional funds were budgeted to cover added travel expenses which will be incurred in the increased number of miles

Foreign Student Hosts Wanted

Families who would like to learn about faraway places and people might want to consider entertaining one of about 11 new foreign students planning to attend Wayne State College this fall.

The campus ministry of the college is trying to establish a "host home" program whereby Wayne State students from other lands, including Taiwan, Kenya, Nigeria and Sri Lanka, would be invited into the host home for an occasional meal, trip or other family activities. Students will live in dorms all the college.

The Rev. Paul Reimers, campus pastor, said the host home program will give the students a glimpse of family life in America and help make them feel at home.

Pastor Reimers said families who are interested in becoming a part of the program should contact him at 375-3762 or 375-1742. He said the students will be arriving this weekend and assignments will be made the following week.

If enough families express an interest in the program, said pastor Reimers, the campus ministry may try to extend the program to include other foreign students who are returning to study at Wayne State this fall.

Butler Petition Verified

A petition filed by a former Wayne State College teacher to have his name placed on the November ballot as a 17th District state senator candidate has been verified as successful by Nebraska Secretary of State Allen Beerman.

Dr. Aaron Butler was notified by Beerman that approximately 600 signatures have been verified as valid, with 470 needed to place Butler's name in nomination.

Incumbent John R. "Bob" Murphy of South Sioux City was running unopposed until Butler's successful petition drive. Another Wayne man, Gil Fournier, had previously filed as a candidate but withdrew from the race.

Mrs. Butler and a son live in Wayne. Butler has maintained residence in Wayne while operating an educational consulting service in Kansas City, Mo. He said he will transfer his consultancy to Lincoln if elected.

Included in studies completed by his firm are one which concludes that Wayne State College is the most efficient of the four state colleges and the campus receiving the least support.

"I favor zero budgeting and the sunset law, which have functioned well in other states in reducing spending, but it did not get out of the committee last session," Butler said. "My preliminary study indicated that possibly 20 or more state agencies in Nebraska, which have outlived their original utility, or overlap with others.

Butler said he opposes several issues "favored by Murphy" including higher interest rates, extension of eminent domain, the medical malpractice bill, "and his established habit of passing on many controversial issues."

Changes in the evening class schedule at Wayne State College were announced Monday by registrar Mrs. Virginia Wright.

An addition to the fall schedule is Introduction to Cinematography, to be taught by Larry Dyer on Wednesday nights.

The road and bridge maintenance budget proposal is nearly $60,000, compared with actual expenses during the past fiscal year of $605,475.

Proposed allocation for next fiscal year is $23,245, up from $13,400 spent last year. The county fair will receive about $2,000 more than last year with the proposed figure set at $23,093. The county relief budget will drop from about $44,000 spent last year to about $37,000 under the proposal.

In addition to funds raised through property taxes, about $730,000 of the total budget figure will come from miscellaneous revenues. The county has about $974,000 in cash on hand.

Other sources contributing to the overall budget are the LEAA grant, inheritance tax, estimated at about $61,000 for fiscal 1976-77, compared with about $25,000 last year, and revenue

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD ELOFSON

Waitresses were Sheri Carnahan and Susan Anderson, both of Ames, Lori Wiebold of North Bend and Angie Stevens of Battle Creek.

For her wedding day the bride selected a long dress of white sheergauze and re-embroidered lace, styled with an A-line skirt and chapel-length train. Lace fashioned the neckline, shepherd's dress sleeves and empire waistline, and outlined the ruffled-edged yoke. She carried yellow roses and daisies.

The attendant's dresses were of alternating blue and yellow crepe with low necklines, butterfly sleeves and A-line skirts. They wore bows in their hair.

The bride's mother chose a yellow and blue floral print and Mrs. Elofson wore a blue dress in floor length.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of North Bend Central High School and a 1976 graduate of Wayne State College. She is teaching near Pender. The bridegroom graduated from Wayne High School in 1972 and is employed with the Nebraska Department of Roads. The couple is making their first home in Pender.

The bride, given-in-marriage by her father, wore a traditional white wedding gown of dactron organza. 23 Lettermen Returning

Cats Are In Pretty Good Shape

"They came back in pretty good condition," coach Del Stoltenberg said Wednesday after his Wayne State football team had steamed through two days of practice — days of mid-90 temperatures and high humidity.

Close to 90 turned out for pre-season drill. All lettermen who were expected to return did come back — with one exception. That's Rod Hoops, sophomore linebacker from Wayne. He is expected to be in California, but has not indicated whether he will return to Wayne.

Stoltenberg has moved sophomore Tim Dant of Scribner to the linebacker corps. It's a position he played in high school, though at Wayne last year he played fullback.

Two-a-day drills will continue through Monday, except for Sunday. When classes begin Tuesday, field practice will drop to once a day, in late afternoon.

Adult Volleyball Starts Wednesday

Adult recreation volleyball will begin Wednesday night, Sept. 1, at the city auditorium.

All couples who haven't played in the league before should report to the auditorium at 7 o'clock. Couples who have played should report at 8:30, unless they are contacted by manager Hank Overin.

Practice will run for about three weeks before couples are paired for league play. Overin said he's hoping to have four couples to a team, enough to form a six-team league.

In past years, recreation volleyball has been held at the National Guard Armory in Wayne. The switch was made this year because of cost increases to rent the Armory.

Devils Setting Sights on West Husker, Playoffs

Prior to the start of pre-season practice last week, Wayne High coaches Ron Carnes, and Don Koenig sat down with their players to outline the goals for this year's Blue Devil football team.

Like most teams, high on their list is winning their conference. But the team wants to go one step further — win a berth in the state Class B playoffs.

With 23 lettermen out of 47 gridgers returning, both coaches believe their club has a good chance to be a contender for the West half of the Husker Conference. About Wayne's chances for a playoff berth, the coaches told members of Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday. "We have to be better than a good team if we're going to make the playoffs, we're going to have to be great."

Both feel that Wayne has all the tools to be a great team. The offensive and defensive lines will be bolstered by lettermen and the offensive backfield will have the explosiveness.

Starting with the line, veteran seniors Randy Davie, Tim Koll, Rick Straight and Joe Kenny will play on offense and defense. Standing 6-3 and weighing 238, Davie is the biggest player on the field for Wayne. Koll is 6-5 and tips the scales at 200, while Straight and Kenny are 185 and 175. Prime candidate for center is senior Ralph Atkins at 185.

Other linemen who lettered and are in contention for a job are seniors Dennis Murray, Kevin Marks, Tom Nissen, Mark Poehlman and Bill Marr. Junior linemen who lettered and are in the running are Scott Havener and David Hansen.

The speed in the offensive backfield will come from all-conference seniors Mark Brandt and Mike Wieseler. Wieseler, a husky 200-pound fullback who also plays middle guard on defense, attests training camp with a 5.4-yard average and Brandt at 125, holds a six-yard average. Also expected to see action in the backfield are 175-pound senior Aaron Nissen and 150-pound junior Kelly Hansen, who both lettered last year.

The quarterbacking duties may be shared by junior Vic Sharpe and sophomore Tom Ginn. Although neither has seen much varsity action, both have shown during practice that they can guide the club, the coaches noted. Right now Ginn is handling the chores while Sharpe is recovering from a twisted knee suffered during practice.

Top prospects for ends are seniors Mark Victor and Brian Heithold and juniors Kevin Murray, Mark Heithold and Danny Palga.

Earlier this summer Les Lutt and Connie Suhr fired hole-in-ones. Lutt aced the 177-yard hole and Suhr aced the 183-yard 9th hole.

Fuelberth Sinks Club's 3rd Ace

The third hole-in-one was recorded at the Wayne Country Club Saturday.

Using a driver, Darrel Fuelberth sank the ace on the par three 232 yard No. 12 hole, the first for the Wayne product during his golfing career. Witnessing the feat were R.G. Fuelberth, John Fuelberth and Jim Paige.

Wayne, which is figured by the Country Club staff to be 6,187 yards long from the men's tees and 5,684 yards from the women's, is a little bit short of the measurements taken during the survey.

The new figures show the distance from the men's teeoff area is 6,112 while the distance from the women's teeoff area is 5,480. As a result of the decrease in yardage, the course rating is below the normal par 72 rating.

From the men's, the rating is 66.3 and from the women's it's 66. Because the course is long enough, a rating was taken from championship tees if the club decides to place them in the tee box area. That rating was 67.1.

Other area courses and the ratings for men, women and championship tees: Midland Trail Country Club at Beemer, 65.6, 66, 66.5; Harrington Country Club, 64.2, 67.6, 66; Norfolk Country Club, 66.5, 68.4, 67.7; Oakland Gold Club, 63.8, 65.4, 64.8; O'Neill Country Club, 63.4, 66; Plainview Country Club, 61.8, 65.5, 62.6;

Wieseler, who suffered a shoulder separation last month and is still recovering, Nissen with a sprained ankle, Brandt with a pulled thigh muscle and Ginn with a sore back.

Carnes and Koenig are taking over the reins this year for head coach Allen Hansen who suffered a heart attack earlier this month. During Monday's meeting it was pointed out that Hansen wouldn't be able to return to the field this year.

Both expressed confidence in guiding Wayne to another successful year after the Devils finished the 1975 grid season with an 8-2 record. They explained that both have worked together with coach Hansen for about 16 years, and as a result know the system Hansen has used in past seasons.

"We don't anticipate any major play changes. Although we may add a few new wrinkles, we're going to play the same brand of ball as we have in the past," the agreed.

That brand of ball includes plenty of running, mixed with on-target passing. Running again will be the key in this year's offense, they emphasized, adding that their passing game will include tosses to the ends and to the backs.

They will be assisted this year by Duane Blumenkamp, who leaves his freshmen post to coaches Byron Heier and Curt Frye.

Looking at the West Husker race, Harrington Cedar Catholic, Wisner-Pilger and Wayne figure to be in the thick of it, Cedar, which won the West half last year and earned a spot in the B playoffs, has the winning tradition and the players back to be a solid ball club. Koenig said, Wisner, on the other hand, should have a strong offense.

This season opener at South Sioux is on the minds of the coaches right now. The past two years Wayne has emerged from its underdog role to knock off the Cardinals. For that reason, and the fact that SSC has a new coach, the coaches feel South Sioux will be gunning to beat Wayne. "We're the smallest team they will face this year, so you know they're going to be ready for us," Carnes said.

Schedule

September — 3 at South Sioux City, 10 Blair, 17 Wisner-Pilger.

October — 1 at Tekamah, Herman, 9 at Madison, 15 Columbus Lakeview, 20 at Emerson-Hubbard, 25 at Pierce, 29 Harrington Cedar Catholic.

Players also on Wayne's roster

Junior: Keith Schuffler, David Drauch, Neal Greenwood, Clay Engelson, Steve Bodenstedt, Bryan Ruwe, Brian Haun.

Sophomore: Jay Stoltenberg, Scott Kay, Ward Wacker, Alan Nissen, Brad Emry, Dennis Carroll, Dusty Ruback, David Hansen, at McAlester, John Kawartha, Bob Kenny, Don Straight.

Sports

Backstop/Bob Bartlett

RESULTS of the USGA course rating made last month are in and the figures show that the 18-hole course at the Wayne Country Club is in good standing with the 73 other courses across the state which were evaluated by two-man teams from Minnesota.

The course rating is an evaluation of the playing difficulty of a golf course compared with other rated courses for the purpose of providing a uniform basis on which to compute handicaps. The rating is based on yardage and the ability of a scratch golfer.

Schuyler Golf Club, 66, 69.4; South Ridge Golf Club at South Sioux City, 60.8, 63; Elkhorn Acres Golf Club at Stanton, 65.4, 68, 67.

Besides yardage, other factors figures into rating a course are traps, length of fairways beyond the green, use of winter rules, number of out-of-bounds and sizes of greens.

Wayne lost some points because of the few traps on the course, using winter rules to improve the line of the ball on the fairway and excessive yardage beyond the green. The course gained points on the number of out-of-bounds and the good condition of the greens.

RECAPING: Not to be forgotten after Wayne's Legion team won the Class C state title last week was a member of the coaching staff who was instrumental during the season.

That person was Danny Paul of Wakefield, who left before the state playoffs to prepare his Cedar Rapids High School football team for pre-season drills.

Legion coach Hank Overin made a special trip to the community of about 450, located southwest of Albion, to hand Denny one-of-the-state Legion jackets presented to the champs and their coaching staff.

GLANCING BACK at the tournament, Hank pointed out that he was real proud of his players for the way they won the title at Gottenburg and for the sportsmanship they displayed in winning and losing.

After Wayne's only loss in the double-

Youth Football Starts Monday

City recreation football for boys in grades three through eight will start next week at the city ball park.

Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock boys in seventh and eighth grades will begin workouts. The following day boys in fifth and sixth grades will start and Saturday at 10 a.m. third and fourth grade youths will begin practice.

All players should wear T-shirts, cutoffs, tennis shoes or shoes with rubber spikes.

Boys in eighth grade have two weeks to decide if they want to play football at the Middle School or in the recreation league, said coach Hank Overin.

The date to checkout equipment will be announced later.

Frosh Spikers Start Monday

Freshman volleyball practice for all girls at Wayne High School will start Monday, Aug. 30, reminds assistant coach Cindl Peterson.

A story in Monday's issue incorrectly reported that the first day of practice would be late in September.

Girls intending to go for the fall sport should report to the Middle School about 2:30 p.m.

elimination tournament, the team marched right over to winner Crofton and congratulated the team, Hank noted.

In the case of other teams which lost, Hank added that the players would hang their heads down.

Of course, there were some players who used their mouths more than their bats when it came to playing Hank's reaction. Never seen a team win with a mouth, just a bat and ball.

WINNING the Class C title after the Wayne High '9' claimed the Class B title earlier this year has to be a feather in the caps of those players, and coaches on both squads.

Mike Mallette guided the high school team to victory for part of the credit, Overin emphasized.

The only other town in the state to get back-to-back titles as such was Dodge. Overin pointed out. Wayne has joined the ranks of the elite.

3 Fishermen Fined

Three Wayne men, Dennis Marshall, Terry Lee Ellis and Scott Kraemer were fined for fishing without permits, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

Paying fines of $20 plus costs were Ellis and Kraemer while Marshall paid $25 and costs.

Turnout 'Disappointing' For Trojan Grid Season

Borrowing a nickname from the State's football team, "Wakefield coach John Torczon has labeled his group of grid hopefuls the "Dirty Thirty."

The nickname isn't to be cute, the head man pointed out. It's to reflect on the number of players out for the 1976 season.

This is the first time in Torczon's eight years of coaching prep football that he has had such a disappointing turnout for a football season. Blaming student apathy, the head mentor pointed out that the turnout is below last year's roster, but the players out are the people who want to play ball to win.

Half of the players out for ball are lettermen who can help mold Wakefield into a respectable ball club. "If we can stay away from injuries, we'll be able to play good games with most of the teams on the schedule," Torczon said.

Veteran linemen include seniors Dave Gustafson, Greg Simpson, Loren Bartels, Jerry Echtenkamp, Kurt Dolph, Carl Domsch and juniors Dean Sharp, Chuck Sherar and Craig Nelson.

Nelson carries the weight for Wakefield at 185 pounds. He and Echtenkamp are the tallest players, standing a 6-1 each. Backfield prospects are seniors Brooks Myers, Dan Byers, Brian Newton and possibly Gustafson. Inexperience at the quarterback position and defensive secondary will be the biggest problems for Torczon and his assistant coach Dennis Chigman to overcome. Sophomores Doug Starzl and Todd Swigart and Jeff Simpson are being groomed for the signal calling duty, but both coaches are unsure who will start next week when Wakefield opens at home with Lyons.

Torczon sees Wayne, Wisner-Pilger and Hartington-Cedar Catholic as the teams to beat for the West Husker crown.

Wakefield, which finished the '75 season with a 2-6-1 record, heads out of the conference the following Friday night to area rival Allen. The rest of the schedule:

September — 17 Dodge, 24 Madison.

October — 1 at Wisner-Pilger, 8 Bancroft, 15 at Stanton, 22 at Hartington Cedar, 29 Emerson-Hubbard.

Rest of Wakefield's roster:

Seniors—Wes Luth, Mike Portwood, Norman Slama, Chuck Wage man.

Freshmen—Baine Nelson, Mike Esser, Von Parwood, Dennis Tullberg, Scott Hallstrom.

RUNNING THROUGH the maze of tires during fall drills are part of the 30 players out for this year's Wakefield High football team.

Cats' Soap Tilt Tonight

Winside High will hold its annual intersquad football scrimmage tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Wildcat field, said coach Ron Peck.

Admission price will be one bar of soap.

WS Players Dominate Net Finals

THE MAJORITY of winners in the Adult Amateur Tennis Tournament in Wayne last week were Wayne State graduates or students at the college. Clockwise from bottom left, Wes Fritz of Wayne captured the men's 32-37 singles title and later combined with Tom Roberts to win the men's senior doubles. Roberts, who displays some of the top trophies for the tournament, also won the men's senior singles. The doubles team of Julie Ryan and Becky Mauding of Norfolk won the women's title and Mike Lidie of Wayne State won the 20-25 singles. Winners not pictured are Scott Chestley of Norfolk who won Men's 26-31 singles, Sharrri Braddie of Wayne State who won the women's singles and the team of Lidie and Russ Kirkpatrick who finished first in men's open doubles.

Wakefield Could Be State C Contender

Last year's state Class C representative, Wakefield, will field a volleyball team which has all the makings of another state contender.

The Trojanettes of coach Ernie Kovar have the depth and experience plus something Kovar hasn't had in his four years at the helm — more than one letter winner returning.

Back from last year's 13-6 squad are five veterans out of 38 girls out for the season. Among those vets are senior starters Lynn Holm, Mary Kober and Renee Wilson. Other veterans are juniors Lisd Paul and Kathy Schwarten.

Holm stands the taller among the starters, she's 5-9 while Wilson is 5-7 and Kober is 5-5.

commented about his varsity netters after last year's club was knocked out by the eventual state champs.

Kovar feels that the battle for the West Husker title won't be an easy one as the league looks to be balanced. Wayne, he said, has to be the favorite to repeat after its reserve team finished with only one loss last season. Wakefield's reserves were 4-7 a year ago.

Schedule:
September — 2 at Oakland, 7 at Emerson Hubbard, 13 at Bancroft, 14 at Wisner Pilger, 20 Hartington Cedar, 23 West Point, 27 at Walthill, 30 Norfolk.

October — 4 at Coleridge, 5 South Sioux City, 12 at Stanton, 18 19:21 West Husker Conference at Wayne, 26 at Lyons.

November — 1-6 Class Distributed by the Wayne State student Mike Voight, has 10 seniors, 12 juniors five sophomores and 11 fresh men on the team.

Also on the roster are:
Seniors—Kerry Fischer, Mary Ann Hanson, Cheryl Nelson, Cindy Rouse.

Juniors—Heidi Carlson, Deb Greve, Gloria Hansen, Robin Mills, Paky Murphy, Joy Myers, Kim Plott, Laurie Sampson, Nancy Taylor.

Freshmen—Jolene Bartels, Jon Erb, Kim Fischer, Kathy Gustafson, Donna Kickpater, Jackie Luth, Kathy Murphy, Kelly Murphy, Anne Newton, Janet Siebrandt, Rhonda Wilson.

Grand Island, 3. Gene Bruggman, Hoskins A Feature 4, Bruggeman, 5, Bruggman.

Fourth Heat—2, Gerald Bruggman, Hoskins A Feature 4, Bruggman

Second Heat—2, Bruggman, 3, Gene Bruggman, Hoskins A Feature 4, Bruggeman, 5, Bruggman.

Wayne Schools Announce Lunch Policy

The Wayne-Carroll school system has announced its policy for free and reduced price meals, free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, and Special Milk program.

Eligibility is determined by family size and income. The chart below lists incomes for each family number in order to qualify.

Children from families whose income is at or below the level shown are eligible for free or reduced-price-meals-or-free-milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office at each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Application may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy the building principals will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Superintendent Francis Hahn, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown below.

Each school and the office of the superintendent has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Family Size	Free Meals, Milk	Reduced Price Meals

Grandson Married at Wahoo

Cynthia Lee Albert and Craig Douglas Heier were united in marriage July 18 in 6 p.m. double ring rites at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Wahoo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Markham Albert of Wahoo. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Harlan Heier of York, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heier Jr. of Wayne.

Officiating at the wedding ceremony were the bridegroom's father and the Rev. Danile Monson. The couple's honor attendants were Kay Bel-schnor of Denver and Fred Gartner of Kearney. Bridesmaids were Lucinda Munson of Council Bluffs, Mrs. Linda Nord by of Omaha, Sandra Albert of Wahoo and Beth Heier of York. Groomsmen were Mark Wilfse of Lincoln, Geoffrey Henning and Kenneth Johnson, both of Fremont, and Daniel Albert of Wahoo.

The newlyweds will make their first home in Fremont where the bride will teach in a Dodge County school and the bridegroom will attend Midland Lutheran College.

Some scientists predict that by studying how a plant absorbs energy from sun we will some day be able to more efficiently use the sun's energy for our own heating and cooling needs!

Automotive engineers are striving to achieve maintenance-free vehicles in the future—a 50,000-mile maintenance-free car. There can be no maintenance-free vehicle until replacing water loss and evaporing corrosion from batteries is a thing of the past!

Some day maintenance-free batteries with out filter caps to add water will be standard. Engineers at Gould Inc. developed such a battery and predict it will be standard original equipment on both cars and trucks by 1980. Eventually the automotive battery will disappear from under the hood of an automobile and be placed out of sight completely!

the court determines if use of underground water by the defendant is reasonable.

In at least one case, a district court found that an irrigation well was responsible for the failure of a domestic well and ordered the irrigator to pay damages. However, Aiken said, courts might also consider the condition of the domestic well involved, and, if modernizing will solve the problem, might not find the irrigator at fault.

A Nebraska statute, LB 577, does provide for some control of groundwater use, said James Cook, legal counsel for the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission.

That law gives the Department of Water Resources responsibility for decision-making in control of surface water, and gives natural resources districts (NRD's) the basic responsibility for establishing controls of ground water where necessary. NRD's can request a hearing before the Department of Water Resources to determine if a control area is necessary. If a control area is established, the NRD is then charged with developing rules for regulating use of underground water.

While regulations are tailored to specific situations, LB 577 does list three specific types of controls: allocation, where the total amount of withdrawal from the aquifer is determined and distributed equitably among users; a rotation system, where allocation is made on the basis of times individual users are allowed to pump water; limitations on well spacing. New wells can also be prohibited on a one-year temporary basis.

LENRD manager Steve Oltmans, moderator for the panel, said no control areas have been established yet in Nebraska, but predicted that some would be. Addressing the question of control areas in the local vicinity, Oltmans said he believes the LENRD will have some control areas by the end of the decade, adding that not enough information is available now to predict if such measures will be necessary in Wayne County.

Problems in the county so far have been confined to relatively small areas with a single irrigation well affecting domestic wells within a one or two-mile radius.

In any case, better management would mean better utilization of water, long pumps and now, according to irrigation specialist Steve Pohl of the Northeast Station near Concord.

Pohl said three main methods are now used in irrigation management: a water use curve, irrigation scheduling by computer, and programmed soil moisture indicators.

Spitzo explained an experiment now underway in Wayne County using the latter method. Sensors buried at depths varying from six to 36 inches provide a reading on soil moisture content, telling the irrigator when it is time to switch on the pump.

Good management practices can save dollars as well as water. LaVerge Stetson told the audience. Stetson, representing the Agriculture Research of the USDA, said it now costs about $150 for a center pivot system to make one round. Unnecessary irrigation is expensive now, Stetson said, and will become increasingly so as energy costs continue to rise. He predicts fuel allocation within three to 10 years, and said that eventually, all stationary installations such as an irrigation pump will be operated by electricity.

Irrigation is particularly expensive because it is largely responsible for peak power demands in the summer. Many power districts are now offering incentives for irrigating during off-peak hours and said the trend must be expanded, or irrigation would have to be limited.

Fred Salmon, a local well driller, told farmers in the audience to have test holes drilled to insure an adequate supply of water before spending any money on irrigation equipment.

"Many farmers have gotten into irrigation hastily in recent years, and may have some good used equipment for sale because of insufficient water supply," Salmon cautioned.

Nebraskans have been mining water over the past two decades, Oltmans said, taking it out of the ground faster than it is naturally replenished. As the world-wide demand for food and fiber continues to grow, irrigation will become increasingly important. Although domestic applications now account for only six per cent of water consumption in the state, Oltmans said, he wouldn't be surprised to see Nebraskans adopting the practice of crushed rock frost yards such as now are common in Arizona.

Ground water is limited, and the only way to get more is through irrigators if the present pattern of development continues, Oltmans said.

Huge Crowd Attends Meeting

AN OVER FLOW crowd Tuesday afternoon filled one of the rooms at Wayne State Student Center to hear discussions on the current outlook for irrigation in Northeast Nebraska. Sponsored by the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District and the Wayne County Extension office, the three and a half hour talk involved a panel of nine persons who are specialists in historical, legal and technical aspects of water problems in the area.

cent, operating expenses, 3.9 per cent, capital outlay, 7.5 per cent, supplies and materials, 2.2 per cent, travel, 3 per cent, transportation service bureau, 2 per cent.

Compared to the $920,000 in credits requested by WSC, Peru State is asking for $376,143 more, Chadron, $542,126 more, and Kearney, $1,133,896 more, for a total increase for the state college system of $2,872,331.

If those requests are approved, Wayne State's budget would be $5,524,356; total budget for the system would be $19,031,874.

Some $4.29 million of the WSC total budget request would come from general fund tax dollars, with the remaining $1,220,500 being provided by revenues, such as tuition, generated by the college.

System-wide, some $17 million would be from the state's general fund.

The only new item is the WSC request for $65,000 for curriculum development. WSC president, Dr. Lyle Seymour said the college wants to improve instruction and develop new curriculum. The requested funds would make it possible to divide heads, who now carry a half time teaching work load, to reduce the hours in the classroom so they could devote more time to curriculum development.

The money would pay salaries for faculty members to take over some teaching duties now carried by division heads, and would also provide for a curriculum development specialist in the college administrative department.

Requests for capital construction are $60,000 for a greenhouse botany laboratory adjacent to G. Gartt Science Hall, and $35,000 to proceed with planning phase of a project to remodel the education building.

Each state college will submit its budget individually, but the board of trustees gives prior approval to the requests.

Budget requests will be reviewed by fiscal analysts for both the legislature and governor, before the Unicameral goes into session in January.

The second session will meet as a skills workshop for students and teachers at local high schools. The programs will address the role of the mass media in a democratic society, and the meaning of the "First Amendment."

The Nebraska Committee for the Humanities funds projects statewide, focusing on public policy issues. Projects must be designed to involve scholars in the humanities and their backgrounds in a discussion with the adult public.

25 Golfers Out For Breakfast

Ann Barclay and Marion Evans were low score winners for Ladies Day golf Tuesday at the Wayne Country Club. Twenty-five golfers attended the breakfast. Ruth Kerstine received a special prize.

Twenty-eight ladies attended the luncheon, and guests were Adeline Vakoc, Helen James and Clara Sutherland. A bridge tournament is being held for the next three weeks. Bridge winners Tuesday were Adeline Vakoc, Helen James, Muriel Ingalls and Dorothy Troutman. Glennis Swift and Elizabeth Gress will host next Tuesday's breakfast—and Pauline Nurnberger and Muriel Ingalls are luncheon hostesses.

Dr. and Mrs. Tien and their four children arrived in Laurel in June, 1975, after initial contact in Camp Pendleton by Laurel pharmacist Dave Felber and banker Rick Adkins. The two Laurel men visited the Marine Corps base in southern California earlier that spring.

By agreeing to sponsor the Tien, Laurel ended years of searching for a doctor for the community, now served by only one physician, Dr. R.P. Carroll. Felber said Monday that Dr. Tien will establish his own practice after receiving his state medical license.

That may not happen immediately, Felber said. Dr. Tien is presently enrolled in an internship at the University of Nebraska-Omaha medical center.

The internship combines aspects of family practice, pediatrics and surgery. Felber said Dr. Tien may continue the internship for another six months to completely familiarize himself with medical techniques and the English language.

Born at Bac Ninh, North Vietnam, Dr. Tien received his medical degree from Saigon University in 1960 and a public health certificate from the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine in 1963. An experienced general practitioner, he has specialized in treating tubercular patients and persons suffering from other respiratory diseases.

Unicameral committee staff member questions construction practice

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — Has the state been on a six-year, $148.6 million, government over-construction binge?
 That question surfaced recently during a meeting of the Unicameral's Appropriations Committee. But the committee staff member who asked it then said he could not give the answer.
 Roger Ruffedge said the reason he couldn't was that state agencies were not following the law when they submitted their requests for building construction dollars.
 The law requires that each construction request be accompanied by a complete justification, including a utilization study of existing buildings. Ruffedge said those utilization studies simply are not provided.
 Stanley Matzko, head of the State Department of Administrative Services, singled out the University of Nebraska as one of the prime builders and said they were the most blatant offenders.
 The $148.6 million is the money appropriated for construction each year beginning with 1971 including this year's budget.

The amount of space tied up in new buildings roughly equals a duplicate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus, minus the dormitories, Ruffedge said.
 Not only did the state build, but most was space in addition to that already available.
 "We don't seem to tear anything down," Ruffedge said.
 That presents a problem, he said, because of government's history of filling open spaces. Ruffedge said the square footage added in new buildings could house up to 18,000 brand new employees.
 He said the whole thing would be okay if the new buildings were prompted by increasing numbers of those who use government services. The final report isn't in yet, but Ruffedge said it looks as if there has been no increase and in some cases a decrease has been registered.
 Another facet is the additional expenditure besides construction costs new buildings require.
 He said the buildings previously owned by the state require $31 million a year to heat, cool and clean. The $148.6 million worth added since 1971 will require an additional $7 million to heat, cool and clean each year.

 The new buildings added amount to 23 per cent of all the building space owned by the state.
 Jon Ober of the Edison administration's budget office hopes to be able to force state agencies into explaining all the building that they are planning.
 The budget office plans to return any and all budget requests without taking any action on them unless utilization studies are attached.
Question Varner
 The appropriations committee members have decided they want to talk to NU President D.B. Varner next month.
 The subject is a little letter which says the university won't cooperate in setting up a computerized government employee information bank designed not only to handle paycheck withholding but tell the legislature whether salary dollars are being spent on salaries tied to whom.
 "The university is opposed to full disclosure" of such information, charged Matzko.
 Matzko told the committee he needs the university's full cooperation soon. Otherwise, he said, the whole $1.5 million system will be turned upside down and stopped.

 But Matzko isn't all life appropriations unit wants to know.
 In his letter of non-compliance, Varner said he just didn't have the money to cooperate in setting up the state's central information system.
 Son Douglas Borel of Utica said he for one wanted to know where the university found the money for its own system. He also wanted to know where the university got the idea it could set up that system.
 The idea was studied, but the Unicameral decided against providing money for it or passing legislation which said if the university could find money it could proceed.
 Matzko said the university system was a bad idea anyway. Varner said his system would, or at least was capable of, taking over the job of writing university paychecks.
 Matzko said there would then be no controls at all over university spending, let alone information.
 He said Nebraska is a leader in centralizing such functions and those states, which have yet to make the move are having nothing but control problems.

 "Realistically, how can you have control when you have 16 or 17 people writing checks?" Matzko asked.
Budgets Considered
 It's that time of year when state agencies put the finishing touch on their budget proposals for the next fiscal year.
 The proposals must be submitted to the State Budget Office by September 15 in order to be cranked into the administration and legislative money machinery.
 Among the first batch of budget proposals approved by policy boards and commissions were the spending plans for the Nebraska Educational Television Commission and the State Department of Education.
 The ETV budget proposal includes a plan for a statewide public radio network in the state, a system hotly disputed by commercial radio.
 The commission vote to recommend establishment of the system was 6-3. Voting against were Dr. Steven Sample, the University of Nebraska representative, Dr. Anne Campbell, state education commissioner, and Dorothy Obbink, a member of Gov. J.J. Egan's personal staff.

 However, Sample said while he had to oppose the suggestion as a representative of the university, "I personally feel that a public radio network would be of great benefit to the citizens of Nebraska."
 The education department, which Mrs. Campbell is in charge of, is requesting a $138.4 million budget for next year.
 Included is a $15 million increase in the $55 million a year state aid to local schools program and $3.7 million more in state aid for special education programs for the physically and mentally handicapped.
 The proposal, overall, represents a 57 million increase over this year's budget.
 The State Board of Education, ironically, approved the request just one day after the State Board of Equalization increased Nebraska's sales tax rate from 2.5 per cent to 3 per cent and the income tax rate from 15 to 17 per cent.

Colleges oppose federal encroachment

Not long ago we received a copy of "A 1976 Declaration of Independence" proclaimed jointly by the presidents of four major private universities in the District of Columbia — American, Catholic, George Washington and Georgetown.
 These presidents believe that "governmental interference is disrupting higher education to a point where institutional autonomy is seriously threatened."
 Among the specific indictments in this declaration:
 "The multiplicity of federal and local regulatory guidelines on (equal education and equal opportunity) programs have driven up administrative costs as much as three hundred per cent since 1968."
 "With fifty administrative agencies and two dozen committees of the U.S. Congress under the District of Columbia having direct responsibilities that impinge on our universities, governmental regulation and oversight can become a disguised form of governmental control."
 "Federal spending is often used as a lever to move colleges and universities toward transitory or unachievable goals."
 "By aggressively assuming the role of social engineers, the courts have not only intruded their ideologies into the private, voluntary sector, but have by their decisions contributed to the proliferation of cases whose issues are better resolved by . . . the universities themselves."
 The presidents also lament "the loss of public confidence in — and understanding of — higher education."

 They are by no means alone in their views. Many university administrators have suddenly noticed that the federal camel has followed its nose into their tent. It has not been very long since President Derek Bok of Harvard raised the cry in their respective annual reports.
 While these latest victims of regulatory tyranny have my sincere, heartfelt sympathy, it will be difficult for any American business executive to resist muttering at least one small "I told you so."
 President Bok even acknowledges the possibility: "When educators grumble about excessive regulation or criticize the costs of complying with federal law their complaints must seem familiar to every businessman who has experienced the travails of government intervention."
 The final irony, of course, is that much of the philosophy underlying federal "social engineering" originated on some of the very campuses that are now complaining about it.
 You would think the way for an educational institution to avoid federal control is to refuse federal money. Indeed, the presidents of the universities in Washington, D.C., conclude their declaration with a resolution "to maintain institutional independence from any external intervention which threatens the integrity of our institutions, including refusal of federal funds which carry such threats."

 Unfortunately, it isn't that simple. Hillsdale College in southern Michigan has never asked for federal, state or local funds. Nevertheless, last fall it was informed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that if eleven of its students receives a federal grant, then the college itself qualifies as a "recipient institution" and is covered by all applicable federal regulations.
 Hillsdale's courageous board of trustees refused to accept that reasoning in a polite but firm letter, the college informed HEW that it would discriminate now and does not intend to start, but that it also does not intend to take any action which would acknowledge federal jurisdiction over its internal affairs.
 Hillsdale's stand eventually brought a letter from HEW offering to talk it over. The college's president, Dr. George Roche III, replied that he'd welcome further discussion. That was last March. HEW has not done anything yet and President Roche doesn't think they'll try — until after the election.
 It seems entirely appropriate in this Bicentennial year that it should be gutsy little Hillsdale standing boldly on principle in the path of the federal juggernaut.
 — Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Cannery strike losses 'irretrievable'

What happens when the monopoly of union power can be applied against the nation's food production has just been demonstrated in California in the 11 day $200 million dollar strike of Teamster cannery workers.
 A California farmer during the strike gave this word of warning to farmers in the rest of the nation. "Our problems in California today may well be your problems tomorrow."
 As thousands of tons of California tomatoes, peaches, apricots and pears rotted on the ground, there was strange silence from the so-called "consumer protection" groups, the church groups who have injected themselves into farm labor disputes and supported farm commodity boycotts, the union leaders who lament high food prices and demand "cost of living" wage benefits, and politicians of both parties.
 The irretrievable losses (80 per cent of the nation's supplies of these canning crops come from California) will show up this winter in increased prices on the grocery shelves for every American family. The loss of wages among field workers who normally make their top money harvesting these crops will appear in increased welfare payments and food stamp applications this fall and winter.

 The most severe losses of course were experienced by the growers who had invested season's work and millions of dollars of borrowed money to produce these crops, only to see a large percentage of their loss because of a cannery strike timed to coincide with those few critical days when the harvest must be accomplished.
 Tomatoes on the vine and ripe fruit on the trees won't wait for the slow mechanics of court injunctions and prolonged hassling of labor management negotiators quibbling over each paragraph of a union contract. The damage has been done on months before the fruits and vegetables won't wait days to invoke the Taft Hartley Act which requires a presidential appointed board of inquiry to find that the strike imperils the national health or safety.
 The prolonged farm labor controversy in California involving the growers, the United Farm Workers (AFL-CIO) and the rival Teamsters goes on without legislation in the U.S. Congress to end such things as strikes at harvest time and nationwide secondary boycotts of farm products and that could at the same time guarantee farm workers the right to choose or reject union representation by secret ballot, supervised elections.

 Tomatoes, head lettuce, grapes, peaches, apricots, . . . these are not auto mobiles, tires or other products produced on assembly lines that can be shut down for weeks and months while negotiations drag on. Think what would happen if the Nebraska wheat harvest this summer had been shut down from July 4th to the 15th, or if the workers in the sugar beet refining plants went on strike from the 10th to the 21st of October.
 Through years of the festering California farm labor situation, the U.S. Congress has refused to pass a workable Farm Labor Relations Act to protect the rights of both workers and growers. The disastrous California cannery strike should have created nationwide demand that Congress get down to business and enact practical legislation which would protect the nation's food supplies from such callous attacks. — M. M. VanKirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Opposes movie
 I feel this movie will have a poor influence on all who see it. The Bible says that all influence is other than God's are that of Satan and I can assure you that "The Exorcist" is not that of God's. I've recently been baptized in the Holy Spirit and have finally gotten my head together after a year of many difficulties. For the first time in my life I feel a complete person. Now that I can love myself I'm able to love others.
 I often heard citizens say they feel Wayne needs to open up and come together, young and old alike to become a loving community. I believe the only answer is Jesus Christ.
 I feel strongly against the permission of "The Exorcist" being shown in Friday. Our time on this earth is short and should be spent on positive purposes. I suggest a town dance for young and old alike. I think we'd find it much more fulfilling and the benefits great.—9th Grader Annie Hapburn.

OBSERVATIONS

Federal spending inequitable

A report just recently released by the Government Research Corp. shows where federal tax dollars are going, and guess who the big losers are?
 The Midwest and Northeastern states are pumping billions of dollars into Southern and Western states the report said, and the trend is contributing to the erosion of tax bases.
 As a result, adversely affected communities may be forced to "raise taxes to prohibitive levels or cut services so drastically that the quality of life would be severely diminished," the report said.
 The report continues that Northeastern and Midwestern congressmen are beginning to lobby for changes in federal policies and formulas that have resulted in what they view as inequitable distribution of federal spending.

 That would be a good first step. As long as the federal government is going to take it upon itself to redistribute wealth, it could at least be done on a more or less equitable basis. (Some states' probably think it is already done that way. "More for us, less for them.")
 The next step would be to give some of that taxing authority back to local government. We don't always agree with local governmental leaders, but then, democracy isn't designed to be an agreeable process. We would rather see local leaders making decisions about how to spend our tax dollars locally than someone in Washington. — Jim Strayer.

STAR Report Predicts More Grassland, Forage-Fed Beef

Most Nebraska beef soon will be grown on grasslands and fed forage feeds, with perhaps as much as 85 per cent of cattle feed nutrients consisting of those two materials by 1985, according to a Strength Through Agricultural Resources (STAR) report.

Disease, including Anthracnose, bacteria wilt, downy mildew, leafspots, viruses and root rot. The report projected that overall disease losses will continue at 10 to 15 percent and warned of the possible introduction of alfalfa stem nematode, now found in Kansas. It said new systemic fungicides may help control some diseases in the future, but what it called the most practical and economical control will continue to be plant breeding for resistant varieties.

Energy requirements for dehydration. One possibility being researched to reduce energy consumption in field wilting of alfalfa prior to dehydration. Harvesting and storage losses. Of two million tons of forage lost annually, 1.4 million tons could be saved by improved management, scheduling and storage methods.

Grass and legume seed production. It said Nebraska could assume a major role in seed production in the near future, providing improved profitable varieties are developed. The study predicted that forage acreage in the state, which was more than 34 million acres in 1975, will remain about the same, but production per acre should increase.

Only total grassland and range acreage, which was estimated 25 million acres in 1975, is expected to decline in the future, largely to make room for crop production and irrigation development.

However, the report said most grazing acreage, which makes up 54 per cent of the state's land, will be maintained and used in the near future because of what it called restrictions imposed by associated soil and climatic conditions. It said potential for, increase forage crop production primarily is in areas of arable cropland and where livestock production is secondary to grain crops.

The report said approximately 62 per cent of Nebraska's rangeland "can benefit from improved management practices," including everything from conservation grazing to complete reseeding and establishment of improved grasses and legumes. Reseeding is needed in most cases because existing native grasses and forbs are not productive grasslands.

"The productivity of Nebraska's rangeland has not increased by the same magnitude as have harvested forage crops, grain crops, and other agricultural products," the report said. "In fact, it is generally agreed that over the Great Plains as a whole, range productivity has declined since domestic livestock were introduced."

The study said "urgent attention" is needed to develop grasses having improved seedling vigor, better weed control practices and improved preparation and seeding technology. It also called for increased use of various combinations of warm- and cool season, permanent and temporary pastures, use of fertilizers, especially on irrigated pastures and subirrigated meadows; and rotation grazing strategies to increase grassland production.

Irrigated pastures, which have resulted in an increased carrying capacity of about 20 times that of dryland range, are seen as continuing to be an important forage resource, especially since more emphasis is being placed on finishing cattle for market with less grain and more forage.

Concerning other forages, the report said hay acreage has declined somewhat recently, but major changes are not expected. See STAR, page 5

'Ground Those Center Pivots'

University of Nebraska agricultural engineers expressed strong concern last week over the hazards of electrical shock or even electrocution from inadequate grounded or defective electrically-operated center pivot irrigation systems.

An increasing number of injuries and deaths are occurring from contact with center pivots which have shorted out or have worn insulation from wiring, Rollin D. Schneider, NU extension safety specialist said.

He pointed out that some electrically-operated center pivots are becoming "older age," and as a result pose a greater hazard.

He said manufacturers must engineer in safety features based on research and experience from the field. Equipment suppliers must be safety-minded, to the point of including safety equipment in bids; and equipment retailers have a moral obligation — if not a legal one — to point out safety features and practices to customers.

Installers must also "be salespersons of safe equipment," Schneider said. In some instances, installers have left safety shielding off equipment, directly leading to deaths and injuries. Power suppliers, installers and retailers share in the responsibility of making sure an irrigator knows how to use the equipment properly and safely, the Extension safety specialist said.

"Finally, the burden falls on the irrigator-operator to observe basic safety precautions, assuming there are no inherent defects in the equipment and installation, he pointed out.

Schneider outlined some of the major precautions against electrical accidents center pivot owners and operators should observe. The list is not exhaustive, he stressed, and does not include general safety practices which should be observed with all types of center pivots.

Such as not blocking the wheel track. A comprehensive publication of overall safety practices with center pivots is in the works, Schneider said.

'Import Act Violations Bankrupting Producers'

Congressman John Y. McCollister said this week that violations of the Meat Import Act are bankrupting Nebraska livestock producers.

McCollister painted a bleak picture for beef producers. The only bright spot, according to McCollister, the Republican candidate to be the new U.S. Senator for Nebraska, was the decision by Ag Secretary Earl Butz to close the import loophole of beef being imported into the U.S. through Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

The action had been urged by McCollister and other Congressmen from cattle producing areas.

Congressman McCollister placed the blame for the dismal situation squarely on Federal policies. "The USDA hasn't been given the freedom to act," McCollister said. "Earl Butz must walk a tightrope between a hostile, consumer-oriented Congress while the Kissinger State Department takes the lead on our international economic policies."

Congress doesn't understand the cattle industry, McCollister maintained. "All those Eastern city Congressmen have their heads filled with visions of cattle barns growing rich at the expense of their hard-pressed housewives," he noted. "If President Ford tried to cut off or slow imports, this crew would have his scalp."

McCollister predicted higher consumer meat prices next year unless domestic livestock producers get better protection against over-quota imports in the next few months. "Combined with a 23 cent a pound built in cost disadvantage and environmental regulations, competition from over-quota imports in the back-breaking prospect for our cattlemen," said McCollister. He warned that Canada may soon begin to export to the port patterned after the Puerto Rican evasion device.

McCollister also told the Senators that he expected the Federal Trade Commission to complete its study of the producer-retail price spread within two months. "It will then become clear that farmers are still responsible for high grocery prices," he said.

Second Straight Year

NAMED grand champion in the dairy division of the Dixon County Fair last week was an Ayrshire owned by Jean Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Warner of Allen. Her grand champion award was the second in as many years. On the right, brother Jack Warner continued his string showing in the senior showmanship division by winning his third straight title.

Feed Grain Crop May Reach Record Level

Despite recent dry weather, this year's feed and feed grain crop production in the United States may reach a record, according to Dr. Michael Turner, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension economist.

Turner said supplies during the 1976-77 marketing year should be large enough to meet what he called a substantial domestic and foreign demand, and still permit an increase in carry-over stock.

More than 70 million acres of wheat, about 10 million more than last year, are expected to be harvested this year, yielding nearly 30 bushels an acre for a total production of 2.04 billion bushels. That figure is down four per cent from the 2.124 billion bushels produced in 1975, but an increase in carry-over stocks, and some reduction in export disappearance will result in an additional buildup of wheat reserves, Turner said.

White House Conference on Handicapped Set

A Region IV White House Conference about conditions of handicapped individuals will meet Saturday at Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk.

Regional director Roger Shaffer said the conference, beginning at 10 a.m., will have four goals: —Bring handicapped people together with government leaders and other interested persons. —Make suggestions for improving the conditions of disabled people. —Make the public more aware of the problems of the handicapped. —Elect delegates to a state conference in Lincoln Dec. 6-8.

Moth Could Control Spurge

The spurge hawk moth seems to be having its trouble adapting to Nebraska's environment, but even with a 50-50 chance of success, researchers at the University of Nebraska Lincoln think it's worth a try.

The two-inch caterpillar stage of the insect "eats leafy spurge like you wouldn't believe," said Jim Forwood, NU graduate researcher in range management and a USDA ARS research technician.

O'Neill and Lincoln show that the insect has possibilities but the usual problem with many biological controls emerges. Until and unless the insect adapts to the climate, it cannot overwinter, said Forwood. Even though Swiss and Canadian winters are similar to Nebraska winters, some adaptation is required. Without the ability to overwinter, control with the spurge hawk moth would not be economically feasible.

Dr. M.D. McCarthy of the USDA ARS Range and Pasture Management Weed Project and Forwood have been increasing research efforts in biological control over the last few years.

Celerio euphorbia, the technical name for the spurge hawk moth, is a native of Switzerland and has an affinity for leafy spurge, one of the state's toughest noxious weeds. Research has also shown that the insect is particular — the host specificity tests prove that the insect will not eat any other vegetation, particularly if it is important to crop growers, said Forwood.

The insect progresses through several stages, starting out as a moth that lays eggs; the egg develops into larvae that pass through five stages, or instars, and then pupates to emerge as a moth. The last two instars of the larvae stage cause most of the damage to the spurge, eating 97 per cent of the spurge that the insect will eat during a lifetime. The life cycle is short enough that two defoliations of leafy spurge could take place in one season, he said. These two cycles, however, necessarily wipe out the weed but the defoliations could give the surrounding plants enough of a competitive edge to gain a foothold on the area.

Women Split B Bucks Prize

A Wayne woman and an Oscoda girl split the $25 consolation prize during last Thursday's Birthday Bucks drawing.

They were Judy Korn of Wayne and Rachel Boden, a Wayne State student, who were born on March 18, 1957, one day earlier than the winning date of March 19, which was drawn at random by Gerald Borenkamp of Gerald's Decorating Center of Wayne.

Both winners work in Wayne. Judy of Wayne Book Store and Rachel at El Toro.

Had the pair been born on the winning date they would have shared the $25 grand prize. As a result of no one winning it, the total climbs $25 to $50 for the drawing tonight (Thursday).

It's easy to be a winner, no purchases or registrations are necessary. However, a shopper must be present in a participating business when the winning date is announced at 8:15 p.m.

WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

WATERING TREES
If your shade trees look a little wilted after a hot day, the chances are that watering will do a lot of good.

In one day a large tree will transpire about 100 gallons of water if the water is available for the tree roots to take up.

During periods when the rain received is light showers or when sprinkling your lawn is necessary to keep it green very little of this moisture ever gets deep enough to do a tree much good.

Stands of trees in a forest are better able to adjust to periods of low rainfall. They are much less exposed, the soil is better protected from drying out and forest sites are capable of storing a great amount of moisture during periods of abundant rainfall. Trees planted along paved streets are particularly in need of extra watering because there is little possibility of a large part of the root system ever getting much water.

A good method of watering a lawn tree is to cut the water flow in the hose to a weak stream, let it run on the surface of the ground in the drip zone or until soil is thoroughly soaked. This may take an hour or so when watering a large tree.

A deep watering probe can also be used and can be made by fitting a garden hose coupling to the end of a four-foot long piece of quarter inch pipe. In using this turn the water on full force and the force of the water will drill a hole in the soil very rapidly.

GREENBUGS

I have looked at a number of so called greenbug "tolerant" varieties of milo and they seem to be living up to their name. Although in several cases there were as many greenbugs on the tolerant varieties as the non-tolerant varieties the tolerant varieties seem to suffer little damage. I hope this tolerance will remain true at this will be a real advantage to milo growers.

Tops in Hogs

DISPLAYING HER grand champion hog at the Dixon County Fair last week is 14 year old Annette Fritschen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fritschen of Concord. Winning the junior and senior showmanship honors in the hog category were Annette Fritschen, left, and Ricky Schweers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Schweers of Ponca

in the near future. It said changes will be stimulated mostly by changes in feed grain production, the demand and cost of protein feeds for cattle and the role of alfalfa, the most important legume for hay and pasture, as a forage source in animal production.

The report stated that variety adaptation, fertilizer requirements and management systems for sandy soils will play major roles in enabling full use of hay crops as livestock feeds by 1985.

There should be some concern for the identification, use and improvements of nonbloating legumes and legumes that can be mixed with grasses in Nebraska's dry climate to produce high quality, hay using minimum amounts of nitrogen fertilizer, the report warned. On sandy soils, researchers need to determine if nitrogen fixation by legumes can be improved, since in tests, inoculation of legumes has failed.

In hay production, machinery must be refined in the near future, incorporating large roll balers and loader and mechanized into effective systems for individual farms and improving handling and efficiency in feeding packages of hay.

As with other forages, major increases were projected in silage use for growing and finishing beef because of increased numbers of feeder cattle, available equipment for harvesting, transportation and mechanized silage feeding, recent higher grain prices and less relative demand for very fat beef.

Despite high grain prices, the report projected increased planting, production and use of corn silage. Corn acreage harvested for silage has increased from 37 percent in 1959 to 8 percent currently, and by 1985 should reach 800,000 acres producing 12 million tons of silage.

Sorghum and grass and legume silage acreage and production also were projected to increase by 1985, with both reaching 100,000 acres from their current 80,000 acre levels. The report forecast harvesting of 12 million tons of sorghum and 700,000 tons of grass and legume by 1985.

It noted that silage quality, forage feeds with enough moisture to preserve through fermentation, has improved recently through greater use of low moisture, and high grain content plants which are finely chopped. In the future, the report said, silage crops will be the main "roughage" feed source in the relatively short finishing period, and said a major effort must be made to inform farmers and ranchers of current research and technical findings on silage production.

Of crop residues, parts of plants remaining after grain harvest, corn is most abundant, followed by grain sorghum and wheat. Corn crop residue forage supplies are produced to increase from 5.85 million acres in 1973 to 7.6 million acres by 1985, with no change in grain sorghum and wheat.

Thought for Today

By Brian McBride

"Everyone has had breaks but everyone also has opportunities. I think luck is the sense to recognize an opportunity and the ability to take advantage of it."

Samuel Goldwyn

We have all known people who spent much of their time complaining of their "rotten luck" . . . the bad breaks fate had dealt them. In fact, they may have been so busy blaming their shortcomings on ill fortune that they failed to see the opportunities that presented themselves.

"Lucky" people, Goldwyn suggests, are those who have learned to watch for opportunities within their capabilities.

The needs of each family at the time of bereavement are different from any others. For that reason, we provide a completely personalized service.

Another Quilt

MRS. ELLA MILLER of Winslow works on another quilt. Patterns used in her hobby include lone, star, grandmothers flower gardens, and diamond field. Mrs. Miller learned to quilt years ago, but didn't take it up as a hobby until 1964 when she retired from her job in the Winslow School lunch room. Since then she had made 56 quilts for people in Hawaii, Washington D. C., California, and Iowa as well as Nebraska. Polyesters have replaced the cotton material in use when Mrs. Miller learned to quilt. She said the modern fabrics are better because they are stronger and can stretch. She uses dacron batting. In addition to her quilting hobby Mrs. Miller is president of the Winslow Senior Citizens, a member of St. Paul's Ladies Aid and Lutheran Women's Missionary.

Sunday, August 29

FOR A BEAR ARCHERY SEMINAR

These seminars are being held all over the country by top archers in order to meet public demand. The purpose of an Archery Seminar is to help educate the general public as to the sport of archery, including shooting techniques, equipment and safety. According to a recent NSGA survey, archery equipment is projected to increase 14 per cent within the next year.

Mr. Howell, a resident of LaVista, has been interested in archery only for the past four years. However, in those four years he has accomplished a great deal. He is presently the President of the Fred Bear Bowhunters League as well as a member of the international Fred Bear Sports Club. He has participated in several tournaments, taking Third Place in the free-style Round and finished "third" in the Nebraska State Tournament. Aside from his interest in bowhunting and target archery, Steve also finds time to help the young people of his area, as he is active in the Junior Olympic Archery Development program.

Upon appointment to the Bear Advisory Staff, world-famous archer and bowhunter, Fred Bear, stated "We are pleased Steve Howell has joined our professional Advisory Staff, and we know that he will help thousands of people to become more familiar with archery, man's oldest sport and one of his most challenging."
