He has also served on the Wayne Country Club board of directors and now is a member of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church council, is a member of the downtown improvement committee, and of the city recreation board.

Wesel and his wife, Anna Mae, have four children: Scott, Brenda, Julie, and Jennifer.

Public Affairs Institute Schedules Interior Officer

An assistant Secretary of Interior and former Wayne resident will speak at Wayne State College Tuesday afternoon.

John Kyle, former six-term Iowa Congressman, will be at the WSC Student Union Birch Room at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

His appearance was scheduled as a special event by WSC Public Affairs Institute administrator Clifton Ginn.

Possible topics for discussion include energy resources, and Indian affairs. The address will be open to the public.

Kyle, a Wisner native, moved with his family to Wayne in 1922. He graduated from Wayne Prep School, then Wayne State in 1940. His wife, Arlene, also is a Wayne Prep and WSC graduate.

Kyle taught at Oakland, Craig, Tekamah and Wakefield, and served as principal and coach at Wayne High School in the late 1940's. Later he moved to Bloomfield, Iowa, to join his brother George in the clothing business. George, now retired, still lives in Bloomfield, and a sister, Mrs. Festa Thiel, lives in Wayne, as does Mrs. Kyle's mother, Mrs. Pearl Griffith.

Eye to Eye

AN EYE BALL to eye ball confrontation might be one way to describe Tuesday's election, as graphically illustrated by this display in the window of the Wayne Music Company. Mrs. Ben Ahlvers said she had the cutouts constructed 12 years ago and displays them every four years for the presidential election.

Registration Is Heavy For Tuesday Election

Voter registration in Wayne County for Tuesday's election has been heavier than usual according to county clerk Norris Weible.

Total number of registrations reported by Weible is 5,114. Registrations usually total about 4,800, he added.

Weible speculated that interest in the presidential race, sparked by a series of televised debates, is probably at least partially responsible for the increase in registrations.

The most hotly contested local race is for Nebraska's 17th legislative district seat. Aaron Bull of Wayne is seeking to gain the seat now held by Sen. John R. "Bob" Murphy of South Sioux City.

In a public service broadcast aired Thursday night Butler leveled a series of charges at Murphy, including one reference alleging that Murphy razes a dead neighbor boy. Butler contended the alleged razing is proof of Murphy's lack of concern for handicapped children.

During his rebuttal, Murphy said there is no dead boy in his neighborhood. Murphy also branded as a lie Butler's allegation that he had received a $500 contribution for introducing a coal slurry pipeline bill.

Murphy said that the only change from present law in the pipeline bill was to insert the word "coal."

Also read during the broadcast was a letter from Lincoln attorney Robert Crosby, counsel for the coal slurry construction company Crosby said had not made a $500 contribution to Murphy.

At the county level, commissioner Kenneth Eddie of Carroll is the only commissioner seeking reelection and is unopposed on the ballot.

The only contested race for a seat on the Wayne city council is in the First Ward where Sam Heiburn is challenging incumbent Ivan Beek's. Seeking reelection are Darrell Fuelbert in the Second Ward and Jimmie Thomas in the Third Ward. Gary Vopalsky had earned a spot on the Second Ward ballot during the May primary election but withdrew after a decision to move to another ward in the city.

Keith Mosley, a former councilman, is running unopposed in the Third Ward. Incumbent Ted Bahe announced prior to the primary balloting that he would not seek reelection.

Five candidates are vying for three openings on the Wayne-Carroll school board. Dorothy Ley and Milton Owens are running for reelection. The third school board position is being vacated by president Dr. Irv Brandt. Seeking first terms on the board are Jim Hummel, Neil Sandahl and Robert Sutherland.

Candidates on the slate for the Winside school board are Randall Bruggner, Dean Janke, Randall Bargaardt, Ray Roberts Jr., Earl Duering and Lonnie Fork. Winside voters will be selecting three board members.

Other local candidates for office include Walter Moller of Wayne seeking reelection as Third-District representative on the State Board of Education. He is challenged by Walter Thompson of Oakland.

Dixon County Ballots Reprinted

Dixon county officials Friday night decided to have ballots for the 17th Legislative District race reprinted following a protest registered by challenger Aaron Butler because names on the ballots had not been rotated.

Butler, seeking to unseat incumbent Sen. John R. Murphy of South Sioux City, said he wanted to have the election declared illegal because Secretary of State Allen Beermann had instructed the Dixon County clerk not to rotate the names of nonpolitical candidates appearing on the county's ballots.

A state statute requires rotation of the names of nonpolitical candidates.

Beermann said Friday night the law requires rotation of names on nonpolitical candidates only if both candidates had been nominated in the primary election. Butler's name was placed on the ballot by petition. Beermann said Butler had contacted his office and was informed about the state law governing rotation of candidates names. Beermann said he had previously informed Dixon County clerk Esther Brennan that it would not be necessary to rotate the names of Murphy and Butler. Ballots were rotated in Wayne and Dixon Counties, also in the 17th District.

Butler also contended Friday that another election violation took place because a campaign poster for Murphy was displayed on a bulletin board in the courthouse there.

Nebraska election law prohibits such literature within 100 feet of a polling place. The courthouse became a polling

Attendance Doubles At NSEA Convention

About 1,200 educators converged on Wayne Thursday and Friday for district and state conferences.

More than 800 teachers attended the annual District III Nebraska State Education Association teachers convention and another 400 persons attended either the Nebraska Industrial Education Association convention or the Nebraska Association of Children with Learning Disabilities Association.

Don Wood, current president for NSEA, District III, said Thursday that attendance doubled from last year, and that more than half of the District III NSEA membership was present for the conference. A few teachers from out of the district also attended, he said. District III is made up of local associations.

For the first time in several years, Wood stated, the Education Association selected main speakers to highlight the convention. The intention was to increase attendance said Wood.

Highlighting Friday's activities was Dr. Robert Manley, a well-known history buff, with experience in educational television filming. Manley's main concern, he said, was to get people understanding what history really is.

He explained that history is more than just academic but the people's own story.

He encouraged oral tradition — the relating of family heritage and history — and said that "people in our community are the real history we have."

Some of his suggestions to increase historical learning were: to teach children the meaning of "important" — they need to know about their heritage, he said, about how they are important.

Take a year instead of one unit of teaching for a child to compile family information, he said. Start a family map, or as is traditional in his house, on birthdays, put something away in a family trunk for your children to give to their future children.

Throughout his presentation Manley showed slides of oldtime families, children in surroundings depicting the age, in-between slides and words, he sang songs, old and new, cowboy and folk songs.

He concluded by encouraging pride in yourself and your family, pride in your land, using both to build your community. He added a challenge: to make schools as important with this pride as back in the days of the sod house.

Yarrow, Timberline Concert Set

Peter Yarrow, formerly with the singing group Peter, Paul and Mary, will headline a special show Thursday at Wayne State College.

Yarrow, now a solo performer, will be appearing with Timberline, a group which performs in a variety of musical styles including bluegrass, rag time and rock.

The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in Rice Auditorium. Tickets for persons without a student activity card cost $5.

Absentee Ballot Still Available

County clerk Norris Weible reminds Wayne County voters who will be out of the county on election day to have their agent personally pick up a ballot.

Registered voters who are disabled have until noon on election day to have their agent personally pick up a ballot. Disabled voter ballots must be returned by 8 p.m. on election day.

State College Enrollment Shows Increase Over 1975

Enrollment at private colleges in Nebraska increased more than enrollment at public colleges and universities according to a report issued by the Nebraska Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

Wayne State College experienced a slight increase over last year, according to the report, with 1,719 full-time students, now attending compared with 1,598 last year.

Part-time registrations are down somewhat, 416 for 1976 compared with 513 for 1975, but this year's total, 2,135 exceeds the figure for last year, 2,099.

numbered close to 40, he said. Dennis Crippen, treasurer of NSEA was in charge of arranging exhibits.

In charge of the convention were Wood and Dr. Gene Bigelow, District III president last year.

The main speaker for the NSEA banquet Thursday evening was a crowd pleaser. Over 150 immediately rose to their feet after a speech by James Howard Metzger.

Metzger is the vice-president and director of public relations for the Security Benefit Life Insurance Company with its home office in Topeka, Kan. His speech "The Best is Yet to Be" expressed in a nutshell: problems are man-made and can be solved by man; people are getting excited about being Americans again; people should have faith in people, believe in God, never say "I wish," or tell each other how badly they feel.

Last Year's Storm Takes Bite Out of NEN Quail Numbers

Saturday, Nov. 6, is the first day quail hunters can take to the field in Nebraska, and according to the Game and Parks Commission, hunters can expect either a very good season or a very poor one, depending on where they hunt.

Ken Johnson, head of game management for the Commission, says that the overall quail population is just slightly below last year's. However, certain regions are down considerably, due primarily to an early winter storm last November.

"The storm hurt the population in some areas, notably the northeast, north-central and along the Republican River," said Johnson. "As a result, these regions are down 27 to 38 per cent from last year."

Hunters in the southeast and east-central, however, should find plenty of action because of population increases of 14 to 18 per cent from last year.

"The southeast is the traditional stronghold of the bobwhite in Nebraska," says Johnson, "and last year the area had a fairly mild winter, resulting in a good carryover of the breeding population. Northern Nebraska is a marginal area for quail, due to the often harsh weather and continually decreasing habitat. A bad storm such as the area had last winter undoubtedly reduced the breeding population."

Johnson says quail hunters tend to be more dedicated than pheasant hunters and he expects a slightly increased hunting effort and harvest in the southeast quarter of the state. The 72-day season runs through Jan. 16. The daily limit is six birds, with 18 allowed in possession.

BEHIND THE blocking of Ed Morris (47), Winside's leading rusher sophomore Mitch Pfeiffer (30) finds plenty of running room against eventual West division winner

Osmond Giving a helping hand is Neil Wagner (56) as he attempts to put Osmond's Roger Folkers (84) out of the play.

Osmond Captures West Division Crown

By BOB BARTLETT

Problem: What does a coach do with both of his varsity quarterbacks on the sidelines with injuries and his team is playing for the conference title?

Solution: Check the history pages and come up with the old single wing formation.

At least that was the solution Winside coach Ron Peck thought might help his Wildcats overcome heavily favored Osmond Friday night in the title match for the west division of the Lewis and Clark Conference.

For better than three quarters one of football's oldest formations seemed to be the answer as Winside marched up and down the field, finally scoring early in the fourth quarter to tie 14-14.

But smooth-running Osmond fired back with a 74-yard scoring march to all but seal the victory before adding a give away TD for a 27-9 ball game.

"The single wing (which closely resembles the shotgun, but without a quarterback) was our best play. Heck, we ran for 224 yards," Peck pointed out.

Gaining a big hunk of those yards was 180-pound sophomore Mitch Pfeiffer who juggled the ball 43 times for 155 yards to break the school's single year rushing record with a total of 850 yards.

Pfeiffer also scored Winside's touchdown after the Cats untrack their offense early in the fourth quarter with a drive from their own 28-yard line down to Osmond's eight where Pfeiffer took the ball in for the score. A lake punt resulted in Wayne Smith, who was holding the ball for the kick, to take off around left and following the snap and into the endzone for the two point conversion.

The first half was a defensive battle all the way. Both clubs went scoreless in the first period as neither penetrated inside the 10 yard stripe.

The Tigers of coach Al Porter broke the scoring ice in the second period when Osmond's leading rusher for the night, junior Pat Hoffman, bulled into the endzone from three yards out to cap a 61 yard scoring drive in 14 plays. Sustaining that long drive were two Doug Stratton passes, the first for 13 yards to senior Kevin Egler and the second for 15 yards to Roger Folkers to put the ball all the three. The extra point kick was good for a 7-0 lead.

The margin held up until mid way through the third period when Stratton intercepted a Winside aerial after the pigskin bounced off the hands of a Winside receiver. Stratton returned it to the 27 yard line where two plays later Osmond took the ball in.

On second and eight, Hoffman threw a halfback pass to senior Dean Koehler in the See OSMOND, page 5

Walthill Rambles Past Allen, 55-8

There may be a protest coming following Friday night's 55-8 Walthill victory over host Allen.

Allen coach Cliff Jorgensen is contemplating filing a complaint with the secretary of the Lewis and Clark Conference after Walthill refused to field a team with less than three seconds left in the game.

According to the coach, a fight between both benches broke out after Allen freshman Greg Carr returned a Walthill kickoff 80 yards for the score. Walthill, which claimed Allen used an illegal block to free its runner for the score, didn't field a team for the conversion so Carr ran the ball in for two points.

Walthill varsity rang up a 28-0 halftime command and bolstered the final score with more scoring until two minutes gone in the fourth period when the head coach called on his reserves.

Allen, which finished the season 1-8, got down to the 30-yard line for its closest penetration most of the night.

Leading the Eagle rushers were Rayme Dowling with 45 yards on five carries, Denny Uhl with 44 yards on 10 rushes, Carr with 30 yards and Brent Chase with 29.

Chase also was the leader on defense, making 19 unassisted tackles and three assists. Carr ended up with nine takedowns and two assists and Lin Smith had eight tackles and four assists.

Thone: People Tired of Over-Regulation

First District Congressman Charles Thone made a final swing through Northeast Nebraska Friday in the waning days of the 1976 election. Scheduled stops during the day included Wisner, Pilger, Stanton, Norfolk, Wakefield, South Sioux City and Wayne.

Asked about accomplishments of the Congress during the last two years, Thone said the legislators had scratched the surface on the nation's energy problems but said a national energy policy is needed. "Congress hasn't been too interested in doing that so far," Thone noted.

The Republican incumbent legislator, challenged by Democrat Pauline Anderson, said the nation is more dependent on imported oil now than it was at the height of the so-called energy crisis and warned that oil-producing nations are now considering a substantial price increase.

Conservation efforts could do much to alleviate energy demand, Thone said. "Right now, about one-third of the energy consumed by the nation is wasted."

More effort should be devoted to developing alternate energy sources, Thone added.

A priority item for the next Congress and one of major importance to Nebraskans is new farm legislation. "The national farm act expires next year and I intend to be in the thick of developing a new one," said Thone, now a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

Important provisions of a new farm law will be realistic target prices and loan rates, Thone said. Other than that, he expects the law to remain basically as it now is.

One philosophy Thone will oppose if reelected is any provision of government reserves for farm commodities. Reserves are a terrible depressant on the market," Thone said. "The real key to prosperous agriculture is expansion of export markets as much as possible."

"Three out of four bushels of Nebraska wheat are exported now, along with about half the soybean crop and about a third of the feed grain," Thone continued. Without exports, grain prices would be depressed more than they already are, Thone said, adding that enhancing export of beef and pork is also vital to America's farmers.

Other important laws which will be considered include sunset legislation which would provide automatic termination dates for government programs unless renewed by Congress.

"I think the sunset approach is excellent," Thone said, adding the now government programs are perpetuated without review and many such programs consume tax dollars long after they have stopped serving any useful purpose.

The incumbent added that he also agrees with zero base budgeting, which requires that programs justify their existence and total expenditures each year a budget time, rather than merely seeking incremental changes to the previous year's budget.

The first place to start with zero base budgeting is foreign aid, Thone said. "We scatter money hither skelter with no rhyme or reason," Thone added, indicating his belief that Congress should exercise oversight to ensure that foreign aid dollars are going where they should to best serve the nation's interests.

The Congressman in the past has introduced legislation which would provide tax credit for vocational training and higher education. He said he believes such a measure is important. "I think there is a real need in that area," Thone said that while he is inclined to think the national defense system is in good shape now. It is important to be careful not to fall behind. "That is why I favor the B-1 bomber program. It very much fits as an important part of our defense posture."

"That doesn't mean there isn't waste in the Defense Department," Thone continued. "I've voted for cuts in the past and I think the Pentagon can tighten its belt just like the rest of the federal establishment."

Governmental belt tightening is the recurring theme encountered while campaigning this year, Thone said. "The message I get is that people are fed up with over regulation, over control, and over spending. I think members of Congress across the nation are getting the same message," he continued. "The average citizen believes there wants to be left alone."

Our judge picked these as the winners. Writers of the winning stories will be contacted today (Monday) to pick up their prizes at the Herald office.

If I Were a Goblin

Danny Gross
Second Place, Third and Fourth Grades
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gross
Wayne
Teacher: Donna Goeden
St. Mary's Catholic School

If I were a goblin I would jump out of my grave on Halloween. I would scare whoever would bother me for the rest of their life until they died and then they'll be with me. The ghosts, witches, the spooks, and all of us would all spook on Halloween. We would hang people on a full moon. Nobody would get away. If they ran to their house I would get them and kill them, Ha, Ha. On Halloween and then he'd be in his grave. With the ghost and goblins and witches and skeletons we would keep them in the dungeon and leave someone at the door to watch them so they won't get out.

Bad Broom

Pam Nissen
Second Place, Fifth and Sixth Grades
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nissen
Wayne
Teacher: Morris Jacobsen
District 51

One day there was a witch who was going down to a store to buy a broom. When she got the broom, it wouldn't fly. She was mad because she paid a lot of money for the broom. Winnie said, "I'm going to turn in into the Better Broom Bureau."

The first broom she had she left outside and it got wet and moldy. It wouldn't fly so Winnie didn't have a broom for Halloween Night. Winnie said, "I'll have to catch a ride with someone else so I can go out and scare some little children." I guess I must be a little child.

When Winnie and the other witch flew by my window, she stuck her tongue out at me. I got so scared I flew under the bed! After I came to my senses, I remembered it was Halloween. I turned on the light and the old witch was gone. From now on I guess I'm not afraid of Halloween stunts.

It's Halloween

Kris Loberg
First Place, Fifth and Sixth Grades
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Loberg

Teacher: Mrs. Kem Swartz
Wayne Middle School

It's Halloween. Witches and goblins can be seen:
Ha Ha, Ha Ha!

There's ghosts and goblins. With plenty of fright, And big huge monsters, With powerful might, Ha Ha, Ha Ha!
It's Halloween, Witches and goblins can be seen.
Ha Ha, Ha Ha!

There's masks and costumes.

And candy galore, and spooks and scares,
And a lot lot more. Ha Ha, Ha Ha!

It's Halloween, Witches and goblins can be seen,
Ha Ha, Ha Ha!

Mrs. Long Nose

Mike Nissen
Second Place, Seventh and Eighth Grades
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nissen
Wayne
Teacher: Morris Jacobsen
District 51

On a dark October night there was a boy and a girl who decided to say home on Halloween and make their own pumpkin. So they did, but a witch, Mrs. Long Nose, came in and wanted the pumpkin. The children didn't want to give it up. They had to, or she would turn them into ghosts. So she took him home and tied him up so he couldn't get away. Soon it was time to go out and scare people half to death.

While she was gone, the pumpkin soon wiggled his way out of the electric chair. He was trying to find a way out of her house. He couldn't find an opening so he soon started to cry. By then it was getting late and the witch was on her way home. She was anxious to see if the pumpkin was still there. When she got there, she saw him crying. She felt sorry for him so she let him go. The next thing was that the witch soon flew away and was never seen again.

'Good Evening, Kids'

Mark Doring
First Place, Seventh and Eighth Grades
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Neil Doring
Wayne
Teacher: Morris Jacobsen
District 51

Once there was a church that everybody went to. But one day the church was closed so everybody went somewhere else. Then one night these kids went to the fence that is around the church. They climbed over the fence and went in the church. They thought it was fun until they saw a coffin in front of the altar.

They went up to it, and they were going to open it, but the coffin started to open by itself. The kids turned around and began to run, but they saw Frankenstein coming at them. So they turned around and saw Dracula get out of the coffin. He smiled and said good evening kids. Then all of a sudden the church started to move in the air. Then a bunch of bats flew through the window. The kids were scared. They ran to the doors and opened them. They looked down and saw the steps. Then the church landed, they ran down the steps to the house across the street. From the window they saw the church fly away to the edge of town.

Don't Trick or Treat Anymore With a Witch

Lynell Billheimer
First Place, Third and Fourth Grades
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Billheimer
Wakefield
Teacher: Mrs. Doug Youngmeyer
District 59

One day a witch named Helen was thinking of something to do. Then she thought of something.

"I know!" she said, "I will go Trick or Treating tonight." So that night she got on her broom and went to town. She went with some kids. One kid said to her "You got a funny costume." But the witch said "It's my real clothes." All the kids laughed. She went to about fifteen houses and went home.

When she got there she ate two pieces of candy, then she heard a knock at the door. She opened the door. A little girl was standing at the door.

She said, "I'm sorry I laughed at you tonight."

The witch said "It was O.K. Do you want to come in my house and have a glass of milk and a piece of candy?" So she went in and ate the milk and candy.

Soon the girl said she had to go home. That same night, a little more kids said "Trick or Treat." The witch went and got some candy. On the way back to the door, she stopped. "I think I will have some fun." She brought the kids in and said, "You all sit in a circle. Then she said "You will be a toad, you will be a snake." So she turned them all into one.

The snake said to the toad, "Never go Trick or Treating any more with a witch!" They didn't ever, never again. So now they live in the pond eating flies instead of candy.

Voters will choose government

Dear Editor: Tuesday the voters of Dixon County have two choices of government on the ballot. One is to go to an at large system of government with the county board being elected at large. The other is to establish the commissioner form of government. I believe both of these are very advantageous over the present system.

Why is it that here in Dixon County approximately eight miles of township roads in Newcastle township have been attached to the county system and not an equal number of miles detached from the county road system and attached to the township? This township levies only about five miles while Emerson township levies the full eight miles.

Comments on Dixon County issues

Dear Editor: The strategy of the Dixon County supervisors and their supporters became clear this week. Wait until the last moment and publish some ridiculous charges and claims too late to be disproved and hope it will be received as fact by at least some of the voters. But there is, thankfully, one more newspaper to be published before election day.

One statement made by Mrs. Lund I will wholeheartedly agree with. She said that in years past the roads in Dixon County were sometimes impassable and also impossible. This is true. I have driven Dixon County roads for over 30 years prior to moving here in 1971. I know from personal experience. It is also true that after a good rain a good many roads in Dixon County fit the above description right now. My claim is that, although improved, the roads in this county are not improved in proportion to the amount of money spent on them.

One solitary fact should be borne in mind by voters. What kind of axe is being ground in these letters, to the editor? Personally, my own sole interest is the proper spending of my tax dollar. On the other hand Mrs. Lund is an employee of the Dixon County supervisor. Need I say more? In fact, with one exception, all the other letters of the editor, in opposition to our own position, have been written by Dixon County supervisors — who, understandably, do not want the applicant upset — and Mrs. Lund.

If the township system is so much better why is it that the county has taken over so many miles of township roads? Within the past five years the county took over a section of township road in Emerson township of one mile and just short of three miles in Hooker township. The largest turnover of a township road to a county road was an approximate eight mile stretch in Newcastle township. This change is shown on the supervisor minutes dates August 30, 1971. It is interesting to note that this road goes right past the farm on which Mrs. Lund now lives and which belongs to the brother of a Dixon County Supervisor. It also goes past the farm belonging to the Chairman of the Dixon County Supervisors. And it has gravel to match.

I sincerely hope the voters will consider the last-minute desperate attempts by the county supervisors and their relatives for what it actually is. I hope the voters will ponder the amount of their taxes and what these taxes are bringing them — and vote accordingly. — Tom Carey.

Writer digusted

Dear Editor: I would like to register my disgust with the none too subtle hatchet job The Wayne Herald is pulling on the candidacy of Aaron C. Butler for state senator. Surely the staff of the newspaper does not think that the public is so stupid not to see through these tactics. I am ashamed to see a paper with a creditable record and reputation for journalistic objectivity embark on such a gambit.

Misrepresentations

Dear Editor: The Ford campaign of misrepresentations must be answered. Jimmy Carter has never proposed a tax increase for the average wage earner. He has proposed tax reforms which would add to a tax decrease for the average wage earner.

Carter has never proposed increased taxes on churches. He strongly supports tax exemptions for churches. In the last year as Governor of Georgia, Carter had a surplus of more than $100 million. In addition he returned $50 million to the people for property tax relief. Carter is a successful farmer. No successful farmer is a "big spender."

As part of his campaign the Ford people have sent out at taxpayer expense a BOA memo of Oct. 7 which carries an Earl Butte endorsement of Ford; advertised in a Jewish newspaper that Israel Prime Minister Rabin endorses Ford at which Rabin expressed dismay (Jerusalem Post, Oct. 18); mailed thousands of the shabby tabloid called "Heartland" in violation of postal regulations and which Ford's Iowa chairman repudiated (Des Moines Register, Oct. 23).

The Ford campaign of misrepresentation is a deliberate effort to avoid discussion of the issues. The issues are the state of the nation and what has happened to it under Nixon and Ford since 1968. What has happened to the economy, to the farmer, to the consumer, to foreign policy, and much more.

We don't think the people will let this gimmick by Ford fool them. — Allen O'Donnell, National Committeeman, Nebraska Democratic Party.

STRAY Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

Probably the best thing that can be said for the 1976 elections is that after Tuesday, they will be over.

The hottest race locally is in the 17th Legislative District where Aaron Butler is seeking to unseat incumbent Sen. John R. "Bob" Murphy.

I endorsed Murphy two weeks ago and other newspapers have endorsed him since then. Murphy is one of the four out-state senators endorsed by the Omaha World-Herald. And the South Sioux City Star endorsed Murphy Thursday, making a number of points in Murphy's favor.

For example, when many hospitals around the country were refusing practices because of excessive malpractice awards, Sen. Murphy introduced and steered through the legislature a bill which provided that if an emergency arose in the state for lack of insurance, the state would put into operation a plan to provide adequate liability insurance.

Call for Amendment

It was Murphy who was willing to stand up and ram-rod through the Unicameral a resolution which calls for Congress to either cause a constitutional amendment to be drafted for ratification by the states calling for a balanced national budget, or, failing that, for Nebraska to join in a calling a constitutional convention to accomplish that goal. To date, at least 16 states have passed such resolutions.

The Star also mentions that Sen. Murphy's opponent is actually employed in Kansas City. When Larry Melnts, editor of the Post newspaper, wanted to reach Butler recently, he had to call Kansas City.

Butler's campaigning has at least been incomprehensible and at worst misleading. If one case, for example, Nebraska Secretary of State Allen Borsmann was concerned enough about possible misunderstanding regarding use of his picture and name that he felt compelled to write letters to newspapers in the 17th District explaining the situations.

Better Luck Next Time Butler, of course, has every right to run for the legislature. And I can understand why those persons who find Murphy's political philosophy in opposition to their own felt it necessary to come up with someone to oppose Sen. Murphy. But I certainly hope that the next time around they find someone a bit more viable to oppose the incumbent.

OBSERVATIONS

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

Oppose Amendment 6

Amendment 6 on Tuesday's ballot contains two parts which bear careful scrutiny. Our examination dictates opposition to both parts.

Part 1 would allow the legislature to provide that the state or political subdivision may contract with private institutions for educational or other services for the benefit of handicapped children provided that services are nonsectarian in nature.

Present state law requires that school districts have educational programs for handicapped children with the state reimbursing districts for costs in excess of regular care.

A pool of educational service units has indicated practically no demands for special education which they or a public school under contract cannot provide.

The wording "other services" in the proposed amendment is not defined but could mean something other than education — possibly custodial care, residential care, therapy or transportation for therapy. There is nothing in the constitution prohibiting such service to handicapped children with private agencies.

Part 1 is not needed to provide this type of service to private and parochial schools. The state constitution does not need to be changed for this purpose.

The committee opposing Amendment 6 believes Part 1 is unnecessary because education of the handicapped is required by state law through tax funds allocated to schools or service units owned and controlled by the government. We concur.

Part 2 would provide that the state may match federal funds allocated to nonpublic colleges. The state now may receive federal money and distribute it to nonpublic secondary schools but cannot add state funds to the grants. Federal funds are not lost but must be matched by the non-public school rather than by the state.

Part 2 also provides that the Unicameral may provide financial aid to nonpublic colleges in the form of loans or grants to students.

This part of the amendment boils down to the question of how many colleges the taxpayers of Nebraska want to support. They now support two University of Nebraska campuses, four state colleges, and technical community colleges.

Approval of part 2 of Amendment 6 only mean a reduction in support for those institutions or an increase in taxes to help support nonpublic institutions. The latter portion of Part 2 — providing grants and loans to students at nonpublic colleges — has the potential of becoming very expensive, or of reducing support for public institutions, and we oppose it. — Jim Strayer.

People who care about their reputations are basically honest. So are automotive repair shops that want to stay in business, says the Automotive Information Council.

Three brothers, owners of a 30-year-old garage in Southern Michigan, have all the repair business they can handle. They told AIC their side of the story of what has become a subject for national debate at federal and state levels and in the media.

"Some people come in with an attitude of 'I'm going to get ripped off. So, let's get it over with.' We don't need that. There's enough honest work to make a good living. Over 90 per cent of our business is by customer referral."

The brothers also complained that some customers don't realize that today's automobile is a highly complex machine. "We go to seminars. We read shop bulletins. We keep up to date." They added: "We're technicians. A lot of folks see us in our work clothes with grease stained hands and arms. They even think we live in a dirty house."

Some other gripes: "We do all our work by appointment. It's the only way. But, it's not unusual to have eight or 10 motorists fail to show up in a day."

"Tell some owners that their cars aren't worth repairing and they become insulted."

"One man had his wife call us to explain his problem. She tried to pass the information along but it just didn't make sense. Her husband was on the couch while she spoke, wouldn't even come to the phone."

This garage provides estimates and guarantees. "If we know the estimate is low, we will call the customer. You can't always tell the extent of the problem until you start working on the car."

The brothers offer some advice: "Pick a repair shop with a good reputation. Ask your relatives, friends or business associates where they go."

"Don't tell us to replace an item or repair a part. Give us the symptoms. Our job is to diagnose the ailment. A customer wanted a front end alignment. We did it. The car still vibrated. Its wheels needed balancing."

Finally, they noted that mechanics have bad days, too, and might even grow back at a customer.

Out of Old Nebraska

Across Nebraska, there are probably hundreds of lost graves and small family or neighborhood cemeteries, many of which have fallen into disuse and decay. The library of the Nebraska State Historical Society, Lincoln, is trying to collect information on these graves, including the data taken from the tombstone inscriptions.

There are interesting pioneer tales to be told regarding the graves of those interred there. In Palisades Precinct, in northern Hitchcock County, for example is the grave of a woman with the following inscription: "Sacred to the memory of Evelyn Susan Cooley, wife of O.C. Murdock, Born Feb. 7, 1828, died May 13, 1895. Sometime thereafter, Mr. Murdock died and to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints or the Mormon Church."

Research has since shown that the husband, Orville Clapp Murdock was a pension-receiving veteran of the Mexican War — but not an ordinary veteran, O.C. Murdock was a member of the historic Mormon Battalion, made up of men recruited in the Mormon camps of Iowa, who served under Colonel Philip St. George Cooke. The 549 persons, including several families marched from Iowa to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where they were outfitting. They then marched to San Diego, California via Santa Fe. Many died enroute while others suffered severely from disease. They were disbanded in January, 1847, and most of the survivors pushed northeast to Salt Lake City. Murdock was among those who went to Utah, where he apparently married and had two children. Sometime about 1874, the Murdock's moved to eastern Nebraska, with their now married children, and in 1885 they settled in Hitchcock County.

This then is the story of just one lone grave in Nebraska. Often these people died at a time when there was no newspaper to record their death, the only record being that of the tombstone inscription. It is important that the records left on these markers be recorded for both the genealogist and the historian. If there is such a cemetery in your neighborhood, we hope you will take the time to copy the inscriptions and note any unmarked graves, along with whom is buried there, if you should happen to know. Add any relevant detail that you might know about the people, their relationships, etc. does not take a great deal of time. A cemetery of forty graves can be copied in an hour. We suggest that this information should then be filed in at least two places — (1) with your county or town historical society, and (2) with the Library of the Nebraska State Historical Society, 1550 R Street, Lincoln, 68508. When mailing in this information, try to give an exact land description — section, township, and range. Also give the various names it might have had.

Anyone is qualified to do this sort of historical research, and it will surely be appreciated by others in the future. Work to preserve these lonely prairie graves, wherein lie the remains of so many Nebraska pioneers and their families.

It's Not Too Early to Plan Mailing

It's not too early to begin planning the mailing of holiday parcels and greeting cards overseas.

In fact, Wayne postmaster Wilbur Giese says, "the earlier, the better."

In an effort to encourage local and area residents to deposit Christmas mail early this year, Giese recommends the following dates for mailing items to points listed below:

Iran, Israel, Saudi Arabia and Turkey; international parcels to surface to Africa and the Near East.

Nov. 4 — International surface greeting cards to Africa and the Near East.

Nov. 8 — Parcel air lift (PAL) parcels to Armed Forces in Ethiopia, Iran, Israel, Saudi Arabia and Turkey.

Nov. 11 — Surface mail and space available mail parcels to Armed Forces in South and Central America, Liberia and Republic of Zaire; surface mail to Armed Forces in Belgium, Denmark, England, France, Finland, Germany, Greece, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal and Spain; international surface parcels to South and Central America and Europe.

'Pond Mills Can Help Reduce Winter Fish Kill'

Chances of losing fish populations in many of Nebraska's farm ponds will be high again this winter, but their owners can still take steps to prevent such a loss, according to Darrell Felt, the Game and Parks Commission's farm pond specialist.

Special wind-driven devices called pond mills greatly improve the chances of fish surviving a hard winter, particularly this year when water levels are low. Their low condition means ponds will have a smaller volume of water and less oxygen for fish once they freeze over.

The pond mills keep a portion of the surface from freezing by agitating the water with wind-driven propellers. The exposed water absorbs enough oxygen from the atmosphere to keep fish alive.

According to Felt, winterkill takes place when sunlight is shut off from the underwater plants in the lake. As long as sunlight enters the water, the plants survive and produce life-giving oxygen through the process of photosynthesis. But when sunlight is cut off, the plants die and consume oxygen as they decompose.

Hard, clear ice lets plenty of sunlight through. But murky ice, a blanket of snow over the ice, or prolonged periods of cloudy skies can spell doom for the aquatic plants and the fish. Pondowners can combat the snowcover by cleaning off about one-quarter of the lake's surface. But the other conditions may dictate the use of a pond mill if fish are to survive.

The Game and Parks Commission tested pond mills on the market last year, and found two that worked well. One of these was made by Farmco, Inc., 522 West Commercial, Springfield, Mo. The other was the Pondmaster, produced by Wadler Manufacturing Co., Galena, Kan. Prices ranged from $130 to around $200 per unit. Each unit was able to take care of ponds up to about 2 1/2 acres.

Pond owners wanting more information about winterkill and precautions they should take may contact Felt at the Commission's Lincoln headquarters, or fisheries biologists in commission office at Norfolk.

HOGWASH? Not If You Go To The Horse's Mouth

My opponent lists some of my claims as Hogwash. He did the same thing with the Equalization Bill, LB 691, till I produced the photostat record showing that the bill failed by only one vote. The following references are just as good as that photostat:

HIS PREVIOUS CAMPAIGNS WERE CLEAN: Ask Former Senator Pfister, who will tell you Murphy takes credit for Pfister achievements (Wayne Hospital)

ATTENDANCE: I said he had POOR RECORD Not Attendance. I said good attendance didn't matter, if he is going to pass when he gets there, as Murphy so frequently does.

ABORTION: Murphy says he couldn't go three ways at once. But he did manage to go two ways. Check with the Right-to-Life people in Lincoln.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION: Ask the elderly in retirement homes why the exemption didn't make the sale of their homes necessary.

EQUALIZATION: Ask your school Superintendent what he thinks about Murphy positions on the schools.

PIPELINE: Probably Murphy's worst mistake. Underground construction is sales talk. Five of the lines are planned, the second parallel to Hiway 20. I admit Murphy may not know that. But which would farmers prefer: Torn-Up Ground or a Pipeline above ground? Five Times? Ask any engineer. Too much loss would occur underground before a leak could be located. As for the Railroad Danger this is an appeal to emotion. The real menace is trucks. So Should We Build a Milk Pipeline?

SPECIAL TO DIXON COUNTY

My name is not rotated on your ballot, as it is in Wayne & Dakota counties. This is not the fault of your County Clerk nor the Printer. Also the advertising for Murphy (only) in your Courthouse Lobby is illegal. Disregard it if you can.

Class Takes Students on Job

Building construction studies are taking some Wayne High students out of the classroom and onto the job. The 13 students in Mike Mallette's building-construction class are building a garage for Wilfred Gehner of Wayne. Gehner supplies all materials and pays the school a fee based on a percentage of the value of materials. The students began the project two weeks ago under the direction of Mallette and Roger Geiger, filling in this semester for mechanical drawing instructor Al Hansen. The garage includes a work shop area and the building measures 26 by 30 feet, larger than a regular double garage. Last week framing had already been completed and the students were putting on sheeting and roofing. Mallette said work on the garage has gone smoothly so far with no problems encountered. Other projects undertaken by the class this year are fencing, concrete work including sidewalk and parking ramps, and installing a suspended ceiling in a room at the high school. After completion of the garage, Mallette said, the class will move on to its next project — remodeling a basement. Students in the class are Duane Westerhaus, Ron Damme, Gary Damme, Dennis Murray, Mark Victor, Joe Kenney, Aaron Nissen, Mark Brandt, John Gooden, Kenton Lindsay, Doug Carroll, Bryan Heithold, and Burdette Heithold.

Assistance in State About $26 Million

Federal expenditures in Nebraska for the operation of food assistance programs administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) were about $26 million during fiscal year 1976 which ended last June 30. Major food assistance programs administered by FNS are the Food Stamp Program, the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs, and the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC). Other programs administered by FNS include the Special Milk Program, Child Care Food Program, Summer Food Service Program, Nonfood Assistance Program and the Food Donation Program. All food assistance programs administered by FNS are operated in cooperation with appropriate state agencies. With the value of bonus stamps issued to participants totaling nearly $12 million, almost half of some $26 million FNS expended in Nebraska went into the Food Stamp Program. Bonus coupons, which equal the difference between the total value of the stamps issued and what the participants pay for the coupons, are USDA's contribution to the program. In June, the final month of the fiscal year, nearly 44,000 Nebraska residents were participating in the Food Stamp Program. This was about 6,000 fewer than a year ago. However, the average bonus in June was $21.68 a person, $1.83 above a year earlier. At the end of the school year, about 199,000 Nebraska children were participating in the National School Lunch Program at 1,205 schools. This was an increase of some 7,300 from the previous year. School breakfasts were being served in 76 schools to about 5,900 children. Federal expenditures for child nutrition programs in Nebraska were in the neighborhood of $14 million. WIC Program operations in Nebraska resulted in the expenditure of more than $10,000 of Federal funds in '76. Average monthly participation at the three clinics operating in Nebraska was about 350 and the average monthly cost of the supplemental food package was $19.80 per person.

Years of good yields for you, good customers for us. That's why we choose to offer the greater irrigation systems with the best warranty package in the business — 20 year corrosion warranty on steel and aluminum pipe, and a 3 year warranty on all parts, including trees!

We could list dozens of reasons why the features on Reinke Water Management Systems are unmatched in the irrigation industry. But you invest more than features when you invest in irrigation — you buy a company and a dealer, too. If we didn't offer America's Finest Circular Irrigation Systems, we couldn't make this kind of offer. JIM HUMMEL
Candidate for Wayne-Carroll
School Board

'Education System Excellent'

I believe that the patrons of the Wayne-Carroll school district must feel very fortunate to have an excellent educational system available for their children. As a candidate for the school board, I have no axe to grind; no controversial issues are at stake. I'm proud of our school system! I am merely volunteering my time and effort to assure a continued quality program.

Credit must go where credit is due. We, as patrons, may take a bow. It has been our willingness to lend our financial and moral support to new buildings and equipment, new programs and concepts, and well-qualified and dedicated administrators and teachers.

Yes, we wanted what we now have. Our wishes were conveyed through the very capable school board members we have elected in the past to serve as our representatives. They have listened and acted wisely — present board members included.

The dignity of every human being must be treated with respect. We are dealing with human lives. Each child must be provided with every opportunity possible to achieve his or her fullest potential. To this end I firmly believe that it is the responsibility of our school system to continue our present programs designed for the disadvantages, as well as the talented. Improvements must be encouraged and financed.

The needs of each young person must be met, whether educational, physical, social, or emotional. The total program offered through our schools must be constantly evaluated, upgraded, expanded if necessary, and most of all adequately funded. I believe in wise and prudent spending of the tax dollar. But, I also strongly believe that the dollar must be spent to meet the needs of all students.

The task is great! Administration of the school system becomes increasingly more difficult each year as federal and state regulations become more stringent and complex. Our society is ever changing — faster today than ever before. We must keep abreast of these changes and be prepared to implement the necessary and desirable aspects, and then be prepared to meet the cost.

I have dedicated my life to helping young people look to the future and then, to strive to reach their goal in life which they have the potential of achieving. I have served as a teacher, counselor and high school principal for three years. The following three years as a public school superintendent provided me with a working knowledge of school boards and the problems they face, meet squarely and solve.

My family has lived in the Wayne community for the past 12 years, during which time I have been employed by Wayne State College as director of admissions. In this position I have the opportunity to observe young people from all parts of the country, from all sizes and types of school systems. Our local high school graduates can, and should, be proud of their educational background.

My wife, Vera, and I feel very fortunate that our three boys have had the opportunity to receive their entire formal education in the Wayne-Carroll schools. We are members of Redeemer Lutheran Church, where I have served as lay chairman for the church council, plus on numerous other committees. I am a member of the Wayne Kiwanis Club, having served in all of the offices, including the presidency. I have served as a committee chairman for the Nebraska Iowa District of Kiwanis. I am a member of the American Legion, as well as numerous local, state and national professional educational organizations.

I believe that the role of a school board member is far-reaching, not as an individual, but acting unitedly toward a common goal — the welfare of our children. My experience in education is a positive asset. My concern for our young people is genuine.

Campaign Collection

MRS. J.R. JOHNSON of Wayne displays some of the buttons from past state and national campaigns which she will be presenting today (Monday) at the Confusable Collectors, Wayne's chapter of Questers, Inc. Mrs. Johnson's late husband, began collecting the buttons while an American history professor at Wayne State College.

Statehouse Letter By Dick Herman

One lobbyist of acquaintance considers Sen. John R. Murphy, South Sioux City, "a dangerous man." The lobbyist succinctly explained: "Murphy reads the bills." That translates into an understanding guy who knows what's going on, asks embarrassing questions. Nasty fellows, those.

In the dull labor of digesting potential legislation and related horror stories, Murphy has some aid, however. It comes from an attractive, sparky blonde who has been Mrs. Murphy for 25+ years and whose daily presence makes the Nebraska legislative chamber a more cheery place. In a special way, Murphy is a lucky man. He acknowledges the fact.

Legislative Races

Warner is now the dean of the Lancaster delegation, a position he probably never thought he'd reach. In his 14 years, Warner has scored so many achievements and has wrought so much responsible good for Nebraska he rates among a select company of legislators. We support his election in May and November.

Other incumbents who The Journal thinks have earned good words — for different reasons —

In northeast Nebraska, a special salute is due the reelection efforts of J. R. Murphy of South Sioux City, a man who combines physical courage, personal integrity and brains along with an unbudging mind set.

Omaha Debate Draws Fire

World-Herald Lincoln Bureau, Room 2, Executive Building, Omaha
Freshman State — Sen. John R. Murphy of South Sioux City said Wednesday he feels the Legislature could do with a little bit less legislating about Omaha.

He's Applauded
Murphy drew applause from fellow outstate senators when he said:
"I thought when I came to Lincoln I was going to participate in the State Legislature. But since I've been here we've taken as a chairman's 'snoot' (building) tax 50 per cent, deeded the Omaha city councilmen should be elected by districts and considered other Omaha legislation.
"I haven't had the privilege of living in Omaha and that keeps me at a disadvantage. Maybe the State Building Commission should jack up this chamber and slide it to Omaha so we'd be closer to our work."

Chalk Up Another

Remember that aborted trip to Washington, D. C., the Nebraska Legislature voted itself to confer with President Nixon concerning the truck problems?
We never reported this before in the Star but State Senator Bob Murphy of South Sioux City said they wanted no part of it. Of course, the trip never came off. Only laborers than the very brainy Dakota County Irishman. Operating with a physical handicap that would daunt lesser men, Murphy is recognized as a Senator who does his homework, in depth.

Does His Homework

We think those words from the Lincoln newspaper are worth sharing with those in Dakota County.

Murphy Hard-Nosed?

DICK HERMAN, the statehouse reporter for the Lincoln Star, recently referred to our own Sen. Bob Murphy as the "hard-nosed freshman," after Murphy had the audacity to challenge the renowned Terrible Terry Carpenter.
Murphy jumped on Carpenter for alternately berating and chiding the legislature, jumping into bed with Exon and then jumping out.
I'm told some veteran lawmakers came up to Murphy after that incident and said something to the effect, "Good going. He (Carpenter) is without a doubt considered the most fiery person in the Legislature. He must have been somewhat shocked when a verbal blast emanated from a freshman member of that body."

Murphy Takes On 'Sleeping Giant'

Lincoln (UPI) — South Sioux City's Sen. John R. Murphy set the stage for a takeover of Congress unless that body moves to erase the national debt.
"For 200 years the people have had a sleeping giant in their constitution," Murphy said. "It says you can control the government." He referred to a provision allowing states to petition Congress to call a constitutional convention. Murphy wants the states on its own motion, refuse to put to its own motion, refuse to put to its own motion a proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit the national debt.

A resolution calling for a constitutional change to require a balanced federal budget received 26-13 second round approval in the Nebraska Legislature Tuesday.

The resolution, LB 883, has sparked days of intense debate. It was offered by South Sioux Sen. John Robert Murphy.

Nearly two hours of debate preceded the vote, with Sens. John Cavanaugh of Omaha and Frank Lewis of Bellevue pulling out all stops in an effort to kill a section that would call for a constitutional amendment.
There may be no member of the current Nebraska Legislature more conscientious and dedicated to his public labors than the very brainy Dakota County Irishman. Operating with a physical handicap that would daunt lesser men, Murphy is recognized as a senator who does his homework, in depth.
He is as passionately committed to leaving his grandchildren a country not burdened with debt and IOUs of political clowns as a born-again environmentalist is about leaving his grandchildren a livable landscape.

Budget Bill Is Increased By $287,694

By Dana Parsons
Room 7, Executive Building, World-Herald Lincoln
There were floor amendments for the first time this session Friday to the 1973-74 operating budget. The Legislature raised the ante by $287,694.
The largest of the four riders attached to LB 582 was sponsored by Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City, who got 28-0 approval for $118,000 to provide utilities for Wayne State College.

Perhaps the sharp-knifing involved Terry Carpenter and hard-nosed freshman John Murphy of South Sioux City Murphy announced he, for one, doesn't trust Carpenter at all. He landed on Terrible Terry for alternately berating and chiding the Legislature, jumping into bed with Exon and then jumping out. In response, Carpenter accused Murphy of uttering an "absolute lie" postulating Carpenter's motives relating to Hurst Scott College.

Another Feather

ANOTHER feather in the legislative cap please, for Senator John Murphy who has attained the chairmanship of a Nebraska Legislative committee in only his third year in Lincoln.
Murphy beat the challenge of Senator John DeCamp of Neligh and then Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenberg is a head-to-head confrontation, 25 to 24.
Duis is especially well known around the Legislature. In fact he was also a candidate for Speaker.
Both DeCamp and Duis have considerably more legislative experience than our Robert.

He Said It

LT. GOVERNOR Gerald Whelan discussed the Nebraska Legislature in an article prepared by him for the Nebraska Press Association.
From comments in the article it is clear that Whelan considers South Sioux's John R. "Bob" Murphy as one of the most articulate in the state senate.
Sample the following quote from the Whelan article.
"Few senators possess great oratorical skill. The Chambers, Lewis, the Cavanaughs, the Murphys and a few others will compare in an article appearing in a Lincoln newspaper, Whelan said he admires those who are skillful at it. He nominated Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha, Frank Lewis of Bellevue and John R. Murphy of South Sioux City as "three who know how to attain a goal" in the Nebraska Legislature."

Later in the day, Murphy was sitting in the Urban Affairs Committee during a discussion on a bill to change the way Lincoln pleads its city councilmen.
"I'm already a member of the super board of Omaha," Murphy said, "and I don't want to become a member."
The colorful rookie senator from South Sioux also had a blunt comment on what he brought his fellow Urban Affairs Committee members ought to do with the Lincoln bill.
"Committees need more guts and ought to stop putting this garbage out on the floor."
Murphy is one of 11 freshmen this session.

The Public Pulse

Senators: Watch Your TV Tactics

Wayne, Neb.
Our state senators should remember what happened to Joe McCarthy when he acquired television exposure in 1953. His support waned rapidly with his delaying tactics and quibbling.
Our Sen. Murphy tells it like it is. We are of different political persuasions, but if every state legislature had a majority of candid and capable members like Murphy, this country would make progress a lot faster. Arthur Butler.

Finalists

Finalists in The World-Herald's "Love is" contest covered a lot of territory in their definitions. Here are a few examples:
—Love is...
—Kissing your dog on the mouth without wiping it off. Debra Adams, Red Oak, Ia.
—Going hunting at 4:30 a.m. because the guys couldn't make it. Ruth Bahr, 2520 South Tenth Street.

er that doesn't fit. Debra Firman, 9477 Wirt Street.
—Remembering with laughter the disasters. Joe Ann Lawson, 5115 Emmet Street.
—When daddy kisses mommy on the nose and she smiles. Diana Deares, Mound City, Mo.
—Campaigning for him, though you'd rather he weren't in politics. Mrs. John Murphy, South Sioux City, Nebr.
