

Bar Association Plans Court System Hearings

A special committee of the Nebraska State Bar Association will hold public hearings on the Nebraska court system throughout the state beginning this month. Committee chairman Thomas Tye of Kearney explains that the hearings are being held to give all citizens an opportunity to make known their criticisms and suggestions for the judicial system in Nebraska. Public hearings will be held in nearly every county, though some counties with sparse populations may be combined with larger counties. Any interested person is urged to attend and present his or her viewpoint on any aspect of the court system — from county court, small claims, municipal and juvenile court up through the Nebraska Supreme Court. A record of each hearing will be kept and all ideas and comments will be considered by the committee. Persons who cannot or prefer not to appear in person are urged to submit comments in writing to the Nebraska State Bar Study Committee, 1019 Sharp Building, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508. The committee anticipates that the entire study may take up to two years, though the hearing phase will be completed by the end of January 1977. Specific information on the date and location of the hearing in each county will be sent out in the near future.

Census Bureau Wants Facts On Election

Now that the 1976 election is over the Bureau of the Census wants to know who voted, who didn't, and why. Richard Burt, director of the bureau's regional office in Denver, said bureau workers will be canvassing for election information during the week of Nov. 15-20. The survey will provide a profile of the typical American voter and non-voter: age, sex, residence, education, labor force status, and family income. Burt stressed that no questions will be asked about party affiliation or for whom individuals voted. These voting questions are in addition to the high ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor. Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Damages Minor

A car owned by Wallace Victor of rural Wayne sustained about $150 damage to the engine compartment about 10:35 a.m. Wednesday when gas leaking from the carburetor ignited. Wayne volunteer firemen quickly extinguished the fire which was limited to the 300 block of West First.

Forensics Revived at WSC

The presidential election is over and debates from the just-ended campaign are history, but for a handful of Wayne State College students, interest in debating remains high. The 16 WSC students comprising the newly formed forensics squad are reviving the art of debate on the campus after a long lapse. The beginnings of a forensics revival on the campus were seen last year when a group of students formed a debate society after learning that no courses in debate were available. An increase in enrollment this fall and the need for forensic experience as a requirement for some teachers prompted initiation of a formal program under the direction of Jay VerLinden, formerly of Greeley, Colo. VerLinden said judges' comments were "favorable" following the team's first contest Oct. 22-24 at the University of Nebraska-Omaha. The WSC squad didn't go into the finals in the competition which included 31 schools but the judges indicated problems were minor, VerLinden said. Participation in debate is at invitation by the host school

MIKE RETHWISCH examines some of the specimens in his collection of insects. The particular display case features moths and butterflies. Rethwisch was one of five Nebraska 4-H club members selected to receive 4-H awards, his in entomology.

Entomology Bug Leads to State Award

When Mike Rethwisch caught the entomology bug six years ago he had no idea where it would lead. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Rethwisch, Mike has been a 4-H member for seven years and first became interested in the study of insects after viewing a collection at the Wayne County Fair a few years back. He has been collecting insects for about six years and now has mounted for display some 500 specimens including about 350 individual species. The aspiring entomologist attempts to identify each specimen as far as the family of insect it belongs to and often determines the exact species. That might not be as easy a task as it sounds. More than 650,000 species have been identified and entomologists estimate that there are about one million unidentified species. Mike proved his knowledge of insect species in 1974 when he won first place in Nebraska State Fair insect identification competition.

Since then he has continued to add to his collection and this past year conducted a class for other 4-H entomologists, demonstrating the use of a light trap to catch specimens. Light traps, using a fluorescent light to attract insects, are one method employed by Rethwisch in building his collection. The device is especially useful for attracting moths and Rethwisch has about 50 specimens mounted in display cases. The largest is a Cecropia moth, boasting a six-inch wingspan. Other methods are used to trap specimens, including use of a net or simply catching by hand. Rethwisch related one experience when he spent 45 minutes cooking a hog house off a sow at his father's farm. Once caught, specimens are popped into a killing jar, containing cotton balls soaked in fingernail polish remover. Insects are asphyxiated by fumes when the jar is tightly capped. Mike said one drawback to the method is that insect colors can become dull if specimens are left in the jar too long. The next step is mounting, an often delicate job. Rethwisch usually uses tweezers to handle insect specimens because the touch of a finger can often remove scales, marring the specimens. After the wings of the specimen are delicately spread the insect is left on a special drying board until the wings set in an open position. Special pins are then used to mount the specimens on a foam board in the bottom of the display case. Specimens range in size from the giant moths previously mentioned to tiny, pinhead size termites. Even those aren't really small by insect standards, Rethwisch said. His studies have revealed that some species of beetles, for example are minute enough to hide behind a grain of salt. Mike hopes to continue his study of insects after he graduates from Wayne High in the spring. He will pursue a degree in entomology, probably at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, although he hasn't made a firm decision regarding where to attend.

Entomology is important, Rethwisch said, because an ever-increasing world population will make progressively larger demands for food. Entomologists can contribute to food production through research leading to elimination of insect problems in farming. The young entomologist is quick to point out, however, that there are many beneficial insects, too. A number of species pollinate flowers, and bees, in addition, produce honey. Some species eat other insects which cause problems for humans. Selection for the state 4-H award is based on a number of factors. While Mike's award-winning project is in entomology, his other records of achievement in 4-H were also considered in the selection process. During his seven years of membership, Mike has completed 12 projects. He has been active in public speaking for seven years and competed in the 4-H district speaking competition for three years. His "entomology" displays have been entered at the state fair for two years and he has been an entry in the state entomology demonstration contest. He has also had food projects qualify for state fair competition and has been a member of state livestock judging teams. Other projects have been in areas including swine, leadership, bicycling, and achievement. He has been a junior leader with the Wayne Winners 4-H club and has received county achievement awards. Hercules Inc. is the donor of Mike's state award.

Debators on the negative side must be prepared to refute the opposition in as many ways possible using researched evidence. A large black case containing up to 3,000 pieces of evidence is used in the procedure. VerLinden said, adding that cases used in national debate competition hold up to 10,000 pieces of evidence. The resolution for the Missouri debate is "Resolved, that the federal government should significantly strengthen the guarantee of consumer product safety required of manufacturing." Wayne State debators will be researching topics such as food, drugs, guns, houses, household goods, and energy in preparation for the event. VerLinden said practice rounds will probably also be conducted. Because WSC is new to the forensics competition circuit, VerLinden said, the school will probably not sponsor an event this year, although a high school debate tournament is scheduled. Debators participating in the next tournament are: Marie Welsh, Hastings; and Doug Coffey, Columbus; open debate: Mark Placek, Bruno; and Aaron Hilkemann, Norfolk; novice debate; and Peter Hallberg, Norfolk; and Joe Heim, Auburn, Iowa, second debate team. Those in individual events are: Kay Rinehart, Wayne; and Betty Torgy, Atkinson; oral interpretation and poetry; and Val Wagner, Winneton, informal public address. Students involved in the tournament include: Juli Burney, Harlington; after dinner and impromptu: Kathy Rinehart, Impromptu and oral interpretation: Anita Orsman, Omaha; impromptu and oral interpretation: Charles Ferguson, Allen. Jordan, Johnson Win NRD Posts

Candidates from Wayne and Wakefield were among those elected Tuesday to the board of directors for the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District. Robert Jordan of Wayne was the successful candidate in a four-way race for the Subdistrict 4 seat, gaining 9,732 votes. Other candidates, all from Wayne, and their vote totals are: Wes Fritz, 4,551; A. Jewell Schock, 4,215; Rodney Varitek, 4,163. The only woman candidate, Rebecca Peeke Wilson of Wayne, was defeated in Subdistrict 7. By Lowell Johnson of Wakefield, 14,926 to 7,700. Other successful candidates are: Subdistrict 1 — Dale Lingenfelter, Plainview; Subdistrict 2 — John Hansen, Newman Grove; Subdistrict 3 — Dennis Nowland, Norfolk (unopposed); Subdistrict 5 — John Thor, Stanton; Subdistrict 6 — Paul Millard, Leigh; Subdistrict 8 — Clinton Von Seggern, Schram; Subdistrict 9 — Bert Peterson, Lyons (unopposed).

Cooking One of Many Occupations Chef's Hat Is Still Favorite for Gus

By JIM STRAYER
It's easy to wonder why a man with a doctorate in sociology and penology from Columbia University is working as a chef in Wayne, but Gus Ward has a simple explanation. "I like to cook. I enjoy people eating my meals." Ward joined the staff at Les' Steak House in Wayne two weeks ago after his release from a hospital in Lincoln. He's been successful in a number of endeavors in his 51 years, but cooking was his first and most enduring love. His first training in the culinary arts was as a child on his father's guest ranch at New Hall, Calif. "We had a Filipino chef," Ward recalled. "I would stand on a box and help him broil steaks. Every time I made a mistake, he knocked me off the box." Through apprenticeship, perhaps, but it didn't do anything to dampen Ward's enthusiasm for cooking. Although he's tried his hand at a number of occupations ranging from diving to teaching, he's usually managed to remain active as a chef at the same time. In the early '40's he was working as a professional diver using a helmet made from a water heater, supplied with air from the surface through a hose connected to a bicycle pump. The diving career was interrupted in 1943 for a three-year stint with the 82nd Airborne Division. And while many veterans complain about the time they spent in Army kitchens, for Ward it was the only extended period of See CHEF, page 8

Flea Market Reservations Open

Reservations for the Wayne Lions Club flea market Nov. 20-21 have already been received from points as scattered as Storm Lake, Iowa, Vermillion, S.D., and North Bend, project chairman Charles Maier said Thursday. So far, Maier said, 29 tables have been reserved for the event, about twice as many reservations as had been received at this point last year. The annual flea market will be open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 20, and from noon until 6 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 21. Anyone wishing to reserve a table should write to Maier at 322 Oak Drive, Wayne. Tables cost $8, each or $15 for two or $20 for three. Public admission to the flea market, which will be set up in

Door Damaged

Charges are pending against a 20-year-old Carroll man who allegedly damaged a car door on a vehicle owned by Tom Helthold of rural Wakefield. Helthold told police that he was stopped on a dirt road near Wheeler Trailer Court about 10 p.m. Thursday by the Carroll man who got out of his car and damaged Helthold's vehicle.

Ponca Man Wants State Investigation

Legal counsel for Gov. J. J. Exon Friday said a letter alleging violation of Nebraska's open meeting law by Dixon County township board members and county supervisors would be referred to the Attorney General's office for determination of whether or not an investigation is warranted. Tom Carey of Ponca wrote the letter to the governor, requesting that he appoint an investigator to determine if the open meeting law had been violated. Carey said in the letter that he had been informed that three meetings involving the county attorney, members of various township boards, and the county supervisors, had met three times during the week previous to the Nov. 2 election to discuss procedures for turning township assets over to the county if township organization of the county if township organization of the county had been discontinued. Carey was the chief circulator of a petition which placed on the ballot an issue to discontinue the supervisor-township form of government in favor of commissioner-based organization which would have eliminated townships as government subdivisions. Electors overwhelmingly rejected the proposal Tuesday, voting 2,387 to 570 in favor of retaining the township-supervisor organization. In his letter to the governor, Carey claims that in addition to discussing procedures for disbanding the townships had the issue been successful, the meetings were also scheduled "to exhort township board members to contact friends, neighbors, relatives, etc. to defeat the move to discontinue township organization in Dixon County."

Council Okays Financing For Light Plant Project

The Wayne city council in a special meeting Wednesday afternoon approved an ordinance authorizing the city to secure notes totaling $490,000 for local banks to finance electric plant improvements. City administrator Fred Brink said the action will not affect city electric rates or billings. The generating capacity of the city light plant is now 9,500 kilowatts (kw). That capacity is leased to the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) at the rate of $14,000 a month. Improvements made possible by the $490,000 includes a new cooling system and new transformers, and will increase generating capacity to 14,500 kw. Monthly revenues from the agreement with NPPD will climb to $24,000 a month, or from $190,000 to $290,000 a year. Brink said the additional revenue will be sufficient to pay off the notes in five years. He also noted that outstanding bonds of indebtedness for previous electric plant improvements totaling $470,000 will also be retired within that time. At the end of the 10-year contract period the city electric fund should have a $1 million reserve, Brink added. The electric fund had a reserve of $500,000 in 1966 but that has since been almost totally depleted.

Wayne city council members Tuesday night will review sidewalk specifications, according to a prepared agenda published in its entirety elsewhere in this issue of The Wayne Herald. City administrator Fred Brink will forward proposals he has received for private operation of a landfill and the council will also discuss the possibility of installing a transfer station to compact refuse for transport to the Norfolk landfill. Wayne's landfill is fast running out of room. Other agenda items include consideration of an ordinance to grant an increase in rates to Peoples Natural Gas, downtown parking, downtown improvement, and speed limits on 10th St. and Providence Road.

Wayne Is Site For Hearing

Wayne will be the site Nov. 19 for a meeting with the Nebraska legislature's Public Works Committee, chairman Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora announced. Because of drought conditions in recent years, increased irrigation, and other factors, the water level is declining in several areas in the state. There are now very few guidelines in Nebraska's water statutes for settling disputes over water rights and use, necessitating court action to decide cases. The Public Works Committee has been instructed to study water and related land resources in anticipation of possible legislation. The Wayne meeting will convene at 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 19 in the district court room in the Wayne County courthouse.

Murphy-Makes Clean Sweep

State Senator John R. Murphy made a clean sweep of the 17th Legislative District in his bid for reelection. Early election returns indicated that challenger Aaron Butler was the winner in a single precinct in the three county legislative district. Dixon County clerk Esther Brennan, however, said Friday that the county's election canvassing board discovered that preliminary totals were incorrect and the final count reveals that Murphy was the winner in Wakefield's Ward 3, giving him a majority of the votes in every precinct in the district.

Littering, Assault Complaints Filed

Complaints of assault and littering have been filed against three men following a disturbance on the 100 block of Pearl Street about 1:30 a.m. Friday. The men, a 19-year-old from Emerson and two 20-year-olds from Randolph and Carroll, were picked up by officer Melvin "Lefty" Lamb after Tim Johnson, 108 Pearl, was allegedly attacked in front of his home. According to reports, Johnson spotted the men throwing paper which they found near the side entrance of The Wayne Herald, 114 Main, and told them to quit. No charges had yet been filed in county court Friday.

GUS WARD serves up one of his specialties. Wayne's newest chef has entered a number of occupations in his 51 years, but cooking remains his favorite.

engaged

The engagement of Alyce Bargholz to Tom Henschke has been announced by the couple's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Bargholz of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henschke of Wakefield.

Miss Bargholz, a 1976 Wayne High School graduate, is employed at The Wayne Herald. Her fiance graduated from Wakefield High School in 1975 and is employed with Ludwig Thos Masonry.

The couple are making plans for a January wedding at the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne.

Winside Congregation to Mark 75th

The 75th anniversary of the organization of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Winside will be observed Sunday, Nov. 14, with a special worship service, potluck dinner and program.

All members, former members and guests are invited to participate in the celebration, according to the Rev. Paul Reimers, pastor at Trinity Lutheran.

Sunday school classes will be held at 9:30 a.m. Dr. Reuben Swanson of Omaha, president of the Nebraska Synod, will be the guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. worship service.

A potluck dinner is scheduled for noon at the Winside city auditorium, followed with a program at 2 p.m. Special music will be presented and a question and answer session will be conducted by Dr. Swanson. Guest speakers during the afternoon will be the Rev. Otto Mueller, the Rev. Henry Knab and the Rev. Welface Wolf, all former pastors of Trinity Lutheran.

Trinity Lutheran Church was organized on Nov. 10, 1901, in the home of Ed Krause. Among those signing the charter were John Dimmel, Carl Wolff, Henry Pockrandt, Fritz Selmer, Chris Rushman, William Breuckner, Ed Krause, Fritz Siemers, Louis Thies, Fred Pepperkern and Fritz Muhs.

Mrs. Carl Wolff, wife of the charter member, is presently residing in Chadron.

The Rev. H. Karpenstein of Wayne was the first pastor to serve the congregation. The first meetings were held in the old Opera House and in the frame schoolhouse in Winside, and possibly in private homes.

The present church site was purchased from S. Needham for $50. Robert Benser and A.B. Clark were contracted to build the first church at a cost of $109. Mike Kieffer, Tom Johnson and D.J. Cavanaugh worked on the interior design.

The first service in the new church was conducted by Rev. Karpenstein on Feb. 23, 1902.

Pastor Karpenstein served the church until July 5, 1903 when Pastor Goehring accepted a call to become the first resident pastor. He remained until Oct. 15, 1904, and the church services were once again conducted by Pastor Karpenstein.

Pastors who have served since that time are: R. Moehring, A. Teckhaus, P. Rewaldt, W. Wolf, W. Most, H.G. Knab, M. Petersen, M. Gulbis, H.F. Otto Mueller and Paul Reimers.

The church has been remodelled several times in the ensuing years. The church was raised, moved back and a basement was built in 1926, and, in 1943, the church was redecorated and new windows were installed.

Carpet was installed in the nave and chancel of the church in 1961. In the spring of 1962, the congregation undertook the redecoration of the church basement.

The parsonage was purchased in 1944 and has since been remodeled and modernized. New pews, pulpit, baptismal were dedicated on Palm Sunday in 1944. The church kitchen was remodeled in 1974, and new front steps with wrought iron railings and a new north walkway were built during the summer of 1976.

The Ladies Aid was organized on Feb. 11, 1920, in the home of Mrs. Charles Unger. Officers were Mrs. Carl Wolff, Mrs. Louis Thies and Mrs. Unger. Present officers of Ladies Aid are Mrs. Lyie Krueger, Mrs. Stanley Soder, Mrs. Adolph Rohlf and Mrs. Dale Miller.

The Women's Missionary Society, now called Lutheran Churchwomen, was formed on Sept. 6, 1950.

Current officers of Brotherhood, which organized Nov. 12, 1941, are Dale Miller, Leo Jensen, Fred Brader and Andrew Mann.

The first Luther League meeting was conducted in the 1930's. Serving as officers this year are Mitchell Pfeiffer, president; Lori Jensen, vice president; Corrine George, secretary, and Mary Bowder, treasurer.

Sunday school superintendents who have served at Trinity Lutheran are Carl Wolff, Mrs. Charles Unger, Mrs. William Rabe, Mrs. Ed Weible, Mrs. Joy Podoll, Gladys Reichert, Elmer Monk, Mrs. Stanley Soder, Mrs. Kenneth Fler, Mrs. Robert Jensen, Mrs. Clarence Pfeiffer and Mrs. Warren Jacobsen, and the present superintendent, Mrs. John Gallop.

Currently serving the church as council members or trustees are Dale Miller, Andrew Mann, LeRoy Petersen, Robert Thies, Kenneth Wagner, Arthur Rabe and Fred Wittler.

Church services have been broadcast over radio WJAG in Norfolk for several years. At the present time, the church membership includes 261 baptized souls, 166 confirmands and 98 communing members.

Cuzins' Club

Cuzins' Club met with Mrs. Kenneth Dunklau Thursday afternoon. Her guests were Mrs. Ronald Wriedl, Amy and Heidi, and Jeremy Hurlbert.

Prizes in cards were won by Mrs. Virgil Moseman of Emerson, Mrs. Howard Mau and Mrs. Charles Nichols.

Mrs. Howard Mau will entertain the club on Dec. 2 at 2 p.m.

Five Members Attend Meeting

Five members attended the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Sunshine Home Extension Club. The group met in the home of Mrs. Thelma Day, answering roll call with recollections of a country style breakfast.

Family Life leader Mrs. Orville Nelson read an article, entitled "Are You Listening?" The lesson, "Be Your Own Best Friend," was given by Clara Echtenkamp.

Mrs. Gilbert Krallman will host the Dec. 1 dessert luncheon, set for 1 p.m.

Center Closed

The Wayne Senior Citizens Center will be closed this Thursday, Nov. 11, in honor of Veteran's Day.

The Choraliers, a newly formed singing group comprised of members of the Senior Citizens Center, held practice last Tuesday afternoon. The group will sing during the Thanks giving potluck luncheon on Wednesday, Nov. 17.

Guest speaker at the annual Thanksgiving affair will be Sue Spicer, who will talk about library services for the physically handicapped. Sue, who is blind, will also play the piano and sing. Her program will begin at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Joceli Bull, center director, will be in Lincoln this Friday, Nov. 21, to attend the quarterly meeting of the Nebraska Commission on Aging. Mathilde Harms will be in charge of activities at the center that day.

55 at Community Day

About 55 women gathered at the First Baptist Church in Wayne Friday afternoon for World Community Day, sponsored by Wayne's Church Women United.

Theme for the day was "Into the Third Century Unafraid." Special music was provided by Mrs. Burton Spicer and Mrs. Verni Maltson, who sang "I Know Who Holds the Future." Pianist was Mrs. Doniver Petersen.

The Rev. Verni Maltson, host pastor, delivered the afternoon message. His topic was "Life is a Choice," and he emphasized the three concepts of integrity, stewardship and interdependency.

Each woman attending the Community Day service added her signature for peace in Ireland. The signatures will be sent with Church Women United national members when they meet in Ireland.

The lunch was served by ladies of the Baptist Church.

Members of Church Women United held their business meeting in conjunction with World Community Day. Donations were given to St. Augustine's Mission for Indian Children at Winnebago, and the Ulla Haley Home for Girls and the Nebraska Children's Home, both in Omaha.

Officers elected to serve for the coming year were Mrs. Donald Nau of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, president; Mrs.

Blue Devils Are Second in District

Wayne High girls pulled the upset of the evening Thursday when they defeated highly-rated Wisner-Pilger in the Class B semifinals of district volleyball play at Norfolk.

The upset momentum stopped in the finals where Creighton prevailed 15-6 and 19-17 to earn a ticket to the state meet this week.

"We took their net game away," said a happy coach Mavis Dalton after her team finally knocked off Wisner in the two team's fourth meeting. "We had one goal in mind when going down there — beat 'em," she added.

The Devils did just that, 15-11 and 15-13. Peg Pinkelman had seven points to lead Wayne.

Key Speakers

To Highlight Cats' Clinic

Motivating, coaching and fundamentals of shooting will be the three main topics for the second annual "Cats Clinic" Wednesday night at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium. The clinic is free and open to the public.

Guest speaker Joe Dean of Converse Rubber Co. will talk about what it takes to motivate teams and build winning character. Dean's talk should interest a lot of coaches and athletes, pointed out Wayne State basketball coach Jim Seward, because he gave them some talk to the Indian University team before it climbed to the top in college ball. His talk is scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

Opening the clinic at 6:30 will be assistant basketball coach at Creighton University in Omaha, Tom Brosnihan, who will discuss "What is Coaching?" His talk will be followed by Jack Johnson, former Columbus High cage coach who has produced several state championship teams. His topic will be "Fundamentals of Shooting."

"This clinic isn't just for Wayne people. We want everyone from around the area to attend," Seward said. He added that the clinic is geared somewhat to the basketball season, but the talks should prove to be interesting to all persons in every sports field.

Seward is encouraging female athletes to attend the conference. After the talks the college swimming pool will be open for anyone wanting to swim.

5 Land All-Loop Honors

Junior defensive back Brent Chase of Allen High was named to the East division's Lewis and Clark All-Conference football team.

Chase ended up on the Allen squad, Chase ended up on the season with 139 tackles, including 28 unassisted and 12 assisted in his best game of the year against Coleridge.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Chase of Allen, Brent also was a mainstay on this year's Eagle club, almost surpassing 1,000 yards on punt returns, kickoffs and rushing.

"He could have played on any ball club in the area," praised his head coach Cliff Jorgensen.

Brent also was named to the division's honorable mention squad as voted upon by members of the seven-school division Monday night.

"Their just typical Winside kids," said a happy coach Ron Peck Tuesday night after he landed four players on the West division Lewis and Clark All-Conference football team.

Peck, wrapping up his second year at the helm, was referring to defensive linebacker Neil Wagner and offensive linemen Brad Langenberg, Bill Thomas and runningback Mitch Pfeiffer who were named among the 22 best players for 1976.

Hard-hitting plus having a good attitude are what makes these kids better players, Peck added.

Parents of the award winners are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pfeiffer, all of Winside, and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Langenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas, all of Hoskins.

This Receiver Isn't Going Anywhere

AFTER A SLUGGISH first quarter in which Wayne State's defense gave up eight points, the Wildcats started playing headsup ball the remainder of the junior varsity match with Morningside College Thursday to rack up a 22-8 victory. Part of second-quarter defensive action saw the white shirts shut out Morningside's long bomb threat in the early going. No less than four Wildcats swarmed around one would be chief receiver to nullify this long pass. Almost the capping is Mark Erhart (23) while moving in area, from left, Jeff Ingram, Mitch McCann and Bob Curry, who runs over another Morningside player as he races down field. The Wildcats scored on short runs by Rod Brummels and Rich Eiel, then topped it off with a 33-yard pass, Denny Wilson to Bill Foral. For conversions, Wilson ran a two-pointer and Joe Wineski kicked a pair of points. The win ends the JV's season with a 3-1 record.

Wakefield Downs Laurel For District VB Crown

Pending the outcome of Saturday night's regional volleyball clash against Dodge, the Wakefield Trojans' coach Ernie Kovar may be heading for their second straight trip to the state meet in Scottsbluff.

Wakefield was scheduled to meet last year's state runner-up team in Class C at 7:30 p.m.

Wakefield earned the trip to the regional meet Thursday night by downing area club Laurel in two sets of final Class C district play at Randolph.

Behind the scoring of senior Lynn Holm with 11 points, the winners scored victories of 15-9 and 15-6 for Wakefield's 12th win in 16 outings. Laurel, which finished a fine season with a 9-9 mark, jumped off to a 6-3 lead in the last period before the Trojans put their high-powered offense in gear.

Robin Mills and Renee Wilson were the leaders for Wakefield in sets and spikes with nine each.

Senior Patti Stark led Laurel scoring with nine points. She got help from Kelly McCoy and Paula Buss, whom coach Dwight Iversen praised for their excellent tournament play.

Laurel never really untracked against Wakefield, the coach explained. "They (Wakefield) are just a good team, he added. Looking over the season, Iversen noted that his club attained the goal it set at the beginning of the season: to play .500 ball. "We played well together and that's why we won," he said.

Winside Gridders Set Two Records

Winside High's football team snapped two school records during its 4-5 grid campaign this year.

The Wildcats of coach Ron Peck established a new team rushing mark and a record number of first downs. Winside finished the year with a rushing mark of 1,832 yards, 147 yards better than the old mark set two years ago. In first downs, the Cats got 114 compared to the school record of 108 last year.

Winside held their opponents to 990 yards rushing and 704 in the air. Meanwhile, the Cats got 304 aerial yards.

As a team, Winside scored 146 points to 138 for the foe.

Individually, sophomore Mitch Pfeiffer set a school rushing record with a total of 848 yards. That surpasses the old mark of 721 yards held by Larry Weible in 1972.

UNFOUNDED Fears

People afraid that they will be among the three out of four elderly Americans with cataract should take heart. It is usually a curable disease. Safe and simple surgery is available and overwhelmingly successful in most cases.

First Time Out

THE OPENING of bow and arrow deer hunting season last week turned out to be a good day for Wayne hunter Vern Schulz when he downed this 58-pound button buck near Wisner. The prize was especially gratifying since this is the first year Schulz tried his hand at hunting with a bow.

Brandt Leads WH Gridders

Senior runningback Mark Brandt led Wayne High rushers with over 1,000 yards in total offense, final season states revealed.

Brandt rushed for 590 yards, collected 263 in the air, 455 on kickoff returns and 25 on punt returns for nearly 1,300 yards for the 1974 campaign.

During the Blue Devils' 2-7 season, the team gained 2,781 yards both passing and rushing and scored 121 points. Their defense gave up 3,135 yards and 14 points.

Deer Season Approaches

Deer season's most popular big game season is approaching, with more than 26,000 hunters preparing for a go at the state's white-tailed and mule deer on Nov. 13 firearm season opener.

All of the available permits have been issued for sometime and most were taken during the first two application periods.

The firearm deer opener will mean a nine-day hunt for archery deer hunters, who will get back into action Nov. 22.

A small group of 100 hunters however, will have a special later season on the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge. Only muzzle loaders will be allowed for that hunt, which runs Dec. 18 through 22.

Most Nebraska deer hunters will use high-powered rifles, but they also have the option of using either muzzle-loading rifles or handguns of certain caliber. Muzzle loaders must be at least .40 caliber. The only legal handguns are the .44 magnum, .357 magnum, .41 magnum, plus the .44 special and .45 Colt, both using Keith magnum handloads. Modern rifles must deliver at least 900 foot-pounds of bullet energy at 100 yards.

The game and Parks Commission reminds hunters that they are required by law to wear at least 400 square inches of hunter orange on the head, chest and back while hunting deer with a firearm.

Water that has been boiled before cooling will freeze faster, because the boiling drives out some air bubbles.

This Season 'Hunters Must Wear Orange

As this fall's firearm deer and antelope seasons approach, some Nebraskans will have to go shopping for the hunter orange duds required by law.

In the past, many big game hunters waited too long, then found sporting goods stores in short supply of the proper vests, coats and caps.

"Often this resulted in a citation from a conservation officer, but there were also more serious consequences.

The law requires 400 square inches of the material (also called "international orange") on the head, chest and back.

The same law defines hunter orange, but it sends the average sportsman retreating to his dictionary to decipher terms like "nanometer," "excitation purity" and "luminance factor."

Hunters should have no problem in obtaining proper gear if they act early.

Hunters should have no problem in obtaining proper gear if they act early. Selection usually ranges from inexpensive outer vests and stocking caps for a dollar or two up to special orange hunting caps and hunting jackets with sewn on hunter orange panels for considerably more.

Chef

his life when he was not engaged in cooking.

After being released from service in 1946 Ward resumed his underwater occupation, attending a special diving school in California. At the same time, he worked as a chef four or five days a week in a steak house owned by a friend.

A diving job took him to the east coast, and he decided to stay. He enrolled at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania and received a bachelor's degree in sociology in 1951, then became a lecturer at the University of Vermont, also cooking for various ski resorts.

He received a master's degree from Bucknell in 1953 and doctorate from Columbia University.

He returned to teaching at the University of Vermont but remained active as a chef. He is a former instructor in gourmet cuisine at Goddard College and the University of Vermont, and at New Hampshire Culinary School, was chef three seasons at Mt. Philo, Charlotte, Vt., and for three seasons at St. Elmo Hotel in Chautauque, N.Y. Other credits include operating his own steak house in Plainfield, and chef at Mountaineer Inn at Slow, both in Vermont.

While a sociology instructor at the University of Vermont, Ward spent his summers as head steward on a yacht which at various times traveled to the Mediterranean, Africa and South America.

It was then that Ward became skilled in the cuisine of a dozen or more nations.

"We would have guests aboard from a number of countries and I had to know how to prepare their native cuisine," Ward said. "Often I would fix as many as five or six different entrees for a single meal."

Recipes and English language cookbooks from a dozen or more nations were gathered while in port. Ward would try recipes, select the ones he liked, and then modify them to his own taste.

One such recipe is Shrimp Le Jacques, given to him by world famous French marine scientist Jacques Cousteau. Ward said, and modified to suit the chef's own tastes.

"That's one of the keys to being a chef," he said. "You must be creative. I don't follow recipes exactly, except when baking."

Presentation is important to a pleasing meal, also, Ward added. "Many people don't know how to arrange a meal on a plate to make it attractive. Proper arrangement is important to enjoying a well prepared meal."

Ward prepares continental cuisine from 12 different countries and specializes in Mexican gourmet dishes. Other specialty dishes include Portuguese stuffed halibut, Russian Chicken Kiev, and Ethiopian Accau — stuffed and marinated flank steak on rice.

"I enjoy trying different sauces and desserts," he added. "Many people are afraid to experiment. I improvise and add to, never measure and never eat my own food. I only taste it."

In 1967 Ward became disgruntled with teaching because of what he described as administrative difficulties. He took a one year sabbatical to Alaska where he was chef at Chena View Hotel. Fairbanks, in addition to serving as convention chef at various other locations in the state.

After a year he resigned completely from teaching and remained in Alaska, spending about 10 months each year there and a couple of months in the summer in the lower 48 states preparing meals for conventions at various locations.

He developed another specialty — a pot latch. Ward explained that a pot latch is an Alaskan version of a pot luck supper, featuring dishes such as caribou, beaver tail, seal, muskrat, fish head (salmon) soup, and special treats such as moose nose and tongue.

Earlier this year, however, Ward decided it was time for a change.

"I'd had it with big places," he said. "I wanted to work someplace where I could develop an intimacy with my clientele."

He left Alaska, visited a son in California, and was en route to Vermont when he stopped in Cothenburg to visit an aunt and uncle.

He became ill and was admitted to the Veteran's Administration hospital in Lincoln. In July he saw a newspaper advertisement for a chef for Les' Steak House. He applied, was hired, and planned to start his new job in a couple of weeks. It wasn't until four months and four operations later, however, before he arrived in Wayne.

Ward said he's interested now in finding out what people want. "I like to fix whatever people like to eat."

Folk Art is Her Hobby

By PAT OSWALD Winside Correspondent

"Anyone with extra time on their hands does not have to be bored," according to Mrs. Gary Farrens of Winside.

A few years ago Mrs. Farrens decided to fill her extra time. She took a class in folk painting at the Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk, and received a certificate three years ago.

Today, Mrs. Farrens uses her imagination and "raw materials," including old barn boards, wooden shingles, cream cans and coal buckets to create her folk art. "I paint anything that stands still," she said.

The majority of her designs and patterns are original ideas and sketches, using such sources as nature—books, magazines and real life animals. When she's pressed for time, however, the Winside craftsman uses acrylic paints, which dry faster than oil bases, and designs from pattern books. Mrs. Farrens says she prefers to use oil base paints, even though they sometimes take two to three weeks to dry, because they depict better coloring.

One of Mrs. Farrens' biggest sellers is an owl family tree painted on an old barn board. Larger owls depict the parents and smaller owls are used for the children.

Mrs. Farrens said her most complicated project involves restoring old trunks for girls who want them as hope chests. Materials include velvet, upholstery material, brocades, braid for trim, and brass or antique latches. "Sometimes all the hardware must be replaced," she said.

Mrs. Farrens usually makes her crafts from antique articles. "A five or 10 gallon cream can makes a handy ash tray when it's painted attractively," said Mrs. Farrens, adding that glass ashtrays can easily be purchased to sit on top of the can.

And for a unique house planter, Mrs. Farrens uses large enamel coffee pots. For magazine holders, she selects nail kegs, coal buckets and crocks.

Mrs. Farrens' hobby pretty much involves the whole family and there's very little expense, since most the items are purchased at sales the family attends. Mrs. Farrens said her husband is handy at making whatnot shelves from old lumber. He also saws all the boards she uses to make plaques and decoupage projects.

Farrens' sons, Scott, 14, and Chad, 10, also get a hand in all the fun. Both boys like to decoupage, an art they learned from their mother, who enjoys making memory books using decoupage to preserve wedding and graduation announcements.

MRS. GARY FARRENS of Winside doesn't remember what it's like to be bored. Several years ago, she decided to fill her spare time by learning folk art. Now, said Mrs. Farrens, "I'll paint anything that'll stand still."

And, the boys are learning that making their own trinkets is a lot more fun than buying them. For example, an ordinary rock makes a perfect paper weight or door stop when it's decorated and varnished.

When Mrs. Farrens isn't busy with her crafts, she enjoys cooking for her family. Some of her favorite recipes are from a "Home Comfort" cookbook, which came with her mother's first stove, and from an old "Successful Farmer" cookbook. The books contain "down to earth, common" recipes, said Mrs. Farrens.

Some of her favorite recipes are:

Old Fashioned Lemonade
2 1/2 cups water
2 cups sugar
6 lemons
Heat water and sugar until sugar dissolves. While heating, add two or three lemon rinds from squeezed lemons. Strain. Squeeze remaining lemons. Let syrup cool and add lemon juice. This makes a lemonade concentrate that will keep well in a closed container in the refrigerator. To serve, use equal parts water and concentrate.

Sweet Boiled Dressing for Potato Salad
3/4 cup sugar
3 Tbs. flour
1/2 Tsp. mustard
1/2 Tsp. salt
2 beaten eggs
3/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
4 Tbs. butter

Mix dry ingredients, add beaten eggs and beat until smooth. Add vinegar and water and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until smooth. When thick, add butter and mix. Chill, then add to diced potatoes, onions and boiled eggs.

Applesauce Cake
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 1/2 Tsp. salt
1 1/2 Tsp. baking soda
1/4 Tsp. baking powder
3/4 Tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cup water
2 eggs

Sift first six ingredients into bowl, add shortening, water and applesauce. Beat two minutes. Add eggs and beat. Bake 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Cool and frost.

Iowa Student Will Present Senior Recital

Alyson Toyne of Glidden, Iowa will present her senior music recital in Ramsey Theatre at Wayne State College, Thursday, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m.

Currently a senior at Wayne State, Alyson carries a music major specializing in clarinet with a keyboard minor. She plans to practice teach in January, graduating in May.

Her senior recital Thursday represents a four-year study of music at Wayne State. Included in the recital are the first movement of a Mozart clarinet concerto and a Brahms sonata movement featuring the clarinet.

Selections for the organ range from a Bach piece to 20th century music.

With Miss Toyne on the harpsichord, Roslyng Nyquist of Millard will add a vocal dimension to the instrumental recital. She will sing two songs that Antony Garlick, professor of music at Wayne State, found on microfilm in the library at the University of Virginia. They are Garlick's rendition of the original, unpublished manuscript.

Accompanist for Alyson is Linda Baddorf of Wayne, Nebr. The recital is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Four Earn All-State Honors

FOUR MEMBERS of Wayne High's music department have qualified for All-State on Nov. 18 to 19 at Omaha Westside High School. Earning the honor are, clockwise from left Joleen Wiener, Gwen Preston, Jay Hummel and Robin Mosley. Joleen will play the alto clarinet, Gwen will participate in choir, Jay will play trombone and Robin will play the viola. After two days of practice with other top high school artists from around the state, they will perform in a concert for the Nebraska Music Education Association at the University of Nebraska-Omaha fieldhouse Saturday night, Nov. 20.

WINSIDE NEWS / Winside Senior Citizens Plan Christmas Party

Winside Senior Citizens met Tuesday at the city auditorium for a potluck dinner. Seventeen attended and a thank you was read from Lori Oberhelman. Cards provided entertainment.

Plans were made for a Christmas dinner and party on Dec. 7. Mrs. Martin Pfeiffer and Mrs. Gustav Kramer were the kitchen committee for Tuesday's meeting.

Music Boosters met at the music room Monday evening with 10 members and Vincent Boudreau, band instructor, attending.

Class Takes New Approach In Teaching French Language
 Fifteen dollars and a hearty appetite — these are two requirements for a new Wayne State College night class set for next term. And those who attend should have one goal in mind — the desire to learn French.

"French Through Cooking," a fresh addition to the Wayne State curriculum, places a new slant on learning French. Leading the class will be Carol Lafon of Paris, instructor of foreign languages at Wayne State.

The class requires no text. The $15 fee goes toward the purchase of raw materials. Rather than a classroom atmosphere, "French Through Cooking" will be located in the kitchen quarters of a dormitory, Terrace Hall. Scheduled for each Tuesday, course hours are 5:30 through 8 p.m. No prerequisites are necessary.

Regents Give Scholarships
 Ann Owens of Wayne will receive a University of Nebraska Regent's scholarship for the current academic year.

Miss Owens is one of about 100 upperclass students at the UN Lincoln campus to receive one of the Regent's scholarships this year.

Farmers Night Forms Are Due
 Today (Monday) is the deadline for Wayne merchants to return registration forms for the annual Farmers Appreciation Night dinner scheduled for Saturday.

 Carey claims those meetings violate sections of the open meeting law and requested an investigation.

Bill Hogner, legal counsel for Gov. Exon, Friday said the letter will be forwarded to the Attorney General who has the authority to determine if an investigation is warranted.

Hogner said it appears to him that the meetings were for informational purposes and that no official business was conducted, but added that he was not certain if any laws were violated, if Carey's information is correct.

Doyle Hanson, chairman of the county supervisors board, Friday said no formal meeting was held. According to Hanson, he and a couple of other supervisors and some township board members met with the county attorney to find out what would be necessary if the townships were disbanded.

"The meetings were held just so we could get some information," Hanson said. "He (Carey) is just sore because his issue lost four to one."

Wakefield Native Begins Law Practice

A 33 year old native of Wakefield, Gary Giese, has purchased the law library and office equipment of Leo Capesius, long-time Pierce attorney.

Giese will assume the law practice in Pierce.

Giese was born in Wakefield and raised on a farm near Wisner where he graduated from high school. He graduated from Wayne State College and the University of Nebraska Law School at Lincoln following graduation last spring. He passed his bar exam and has been working as a law clerk for the Lincoln firm of Davis, Bailey, Polsky, Huff and Denney.

He served four years in the United States Air Force and served in Vietnam.

Mrs. Giese is the former Mitzi Hurd of Wayne. She attended the Lincoln School of Commerce and plans to work in her husband's office as receptionist. She will also do tax work and book keeping.

Gieses are the parents of a daughter, six year old Lisa Marie.

GI Bill Becomes Effective VA Pension Rates Increasing

The nation's third GI Bill, which has provided educational assistance for 6.6 million veterans and active-duty members with military service since Feb. 1, 1955, will not be available for persons entering the armed forces after Dec. 31, 1976.

James C. Smith, director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, Lincoln, said the Veterans Education and Employment Assistance Act of 1976, signed into law by President Ford Oct. 15, set the termination date for GI Bill eligibility. It also designated Dec. 31, 1989, as the closing date for all training under this program.

Offsetting the end of GI Bill eligibility, Smith said the new law created a voluntary contributory educational assistance program for persons initially entering military service after Dec. 31, 1976. Jointly operated by the Veterans Administration and the Department of Defense, the program will offer 36 months educational assistance entitlement with a 10-year delimiting date.

Participants in the new program may contribute $50 to $75 monthly from their salaries, up to a maximum of $2,700. The contributions will be matched by the VA at the rate of $2 for every $1 made by the service member.

He said the new law also provided for an eight per cent increase in monthly allowances for all current training offered by the GI Bill, except flight training, retroactive to last Oct. 1. The basic entitlement for trainees was extended from 36 to 45 months.

A seven per cent increase in monthly rates for Veterans Administration pensioners will benefit some 8,200 veterans and 11,600 veterans' survivors in Nebraska who receive VA pensions, James C. Smith, Director, VA Regional Office, said today. The pension rate hike, plus increases in the annual income limits on which the pensions are based, were approved by the President on September 30.

Smith said income limitations were raised as follows: To $3,540 for veterans or surviving spouses without dependents; to $4,760 for those with dependents under the current program; and to $3,100 and $4,460 for those under the prior pension law. For parents under the dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) program, the limits were raised to $3,540 for a single parent and $4,760 for parents living together or with a spouse.

The maximum unearned income limitation for children entitled under the current pension program was increased by $100 to $2,890.

He said a significant addition in the new law provides for a 25 per cent added differential to all pension rates for eligible veterans who are 78 years of age or older.

Aid and attendance rates for veterans on the pension rolls were increased by $22 to $155 and the household rate by $4 to $57. For surviving spouses on the pension rolls, parents receiving death compensation, the aid and attendance rate was increased to $74.

Another new provision, Smith said, permits payment of a reduced aid and attendance monthly allowance to eligible veterans whose pension payments were denied or terminated because annual income exceeded the statutory limitation by less than $500.

The pension bill also makes permanent an eight per cent increase in monthly pension payments enacted last year with an Oct. 1, 1976, expiration date. Pensions are paid to wartime veterans who are totally disabled from nonservice-connected causes if they are disabled before age 65 and come within income limits. After age 65, only income is taken into account. Pension payments to widows of wartime veterans are determined by income limitations, he said.

Carroll Okays Stand Pipe Work

Work on the stand pipe in Carroll is expected to get underway sometime this month, members of the village town board learned during their monthly meeting Tuesday night.

A Sioux Falls firm is slated to replace a sleeve covering pipes extending from the ground to the tank and repaint the stand, according to town officials.

Members also learned that Cunningham Well Co. of Carroll completed installing three new fire hydrants at a total cost of $1,500.
