Norfolk Man Hurt in Crash

A pickup operated by Alfred Fox of Norfolk went out of control on a county road about one and a half miles east of Winside Thursday evening and crashed into a row of trees.

According to the Wayne County sheriff's office the 36-year-old Fox was taken to a Norfolk hospital by the Winside rescue squad with head and back injuries. Damage to the pickup was estimated under $250.

Earlier last week, the sheriff's office investigated windows damaged at Winside Dairy Inc. south of Winside. Vandals shot off five security lights, two window panes in a shop building and two side windows of a tractor with a .22 caliber rifle or gun.

Damage to the lights was estimated at $60 while the windows were set at $7. No value was given for the tractor windows.

Legislative Intern Appointed

The college routine of Lauren Haught will alter its course when January arrives. From Jan. 6 until the beginning of May, she will live in Lincoln, where she will work in the Capitol as a legislative intern.

Miss Haught is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Haught of Omaha. A 1974 graduate of Northwest High School, she is a junior at Wayne State College with a double major in foreign service and French and a minor in journalism.

She heard about the internship through Pat Vuchetich of Lincoln, who was a WSC legislative intern last year. A legislative internship committee composed of teachers from state colleges and universities selected Miss Haught for the position.

Head of the committee is Clifton Gint, associate professor of political science at Wayne State. "I think it's good practical experience," said Miss Haught, concerning her new appointment. "I wanted to get to know people in politics — how the mind of a politician works." Although she has no ambition to be a politician herself, she wants to work along with legislators. Her career plans may include a political angle if she works someday in the foreign service or an information agency.

Miss Haught will not receive her job assignment until she arrives in Lincoln. She will then be assigned to a senator to do research on bills, answer mail on bill inquiries, and will also be responsible for an individual research project.

Besides her regular daily work, Lauren will attend seminars for legislative interns. To keep her French up-to-date she also hopes to pick up a "light course" at UNL.

The interns work a 40-hour week, 8.5 daily, and receive over-the-minimum wage salary for their work. Miss Haught will also earn 12 credit hours for her internship under the political science heading at Wayne.

Nine hours will go toward her internship, while three more are for her individual research project.

Miss Haught has been news editor for the WSC campus newspaper, the Wayne Statesman, from September 1975 through May 1976. She is president of the Chi Omega sorority and also See INTERN, page 5

Elizabethan Dinner Tickets Nearly Gone

Tickets are nearly sold out for the Wayne State Elizabethan Christmas Dinners. Newest reports reveal that only about 80 tickets remain for the dinner, Thursday, Dec. 9. Performances the following three days are sold out.

This is the fifth year for the Elizabethan Dinners at Wayne State. In four years over 800 diners have attended the dinners hosted by the Wayne Madrigal Singers under the direction of Cornell Runestad.

Along with a five-course meal, diners also enjoy entertainment by the singers. Dressed like the English of old, they revive the celebration of English Christmastime customs singing traditional carols.

Transformer Scheduled To Arrive

A 50-ton electric transformer is expected to arrive in Wayne about 10 a.m. today (Monday), city administrator Fred Brink said Friday.

The transformer will be installed at the electric generating plant as part of a project to increase to 12,500 the plant's capacity to generate electricity, now at 9,500 kilowatts.

The Nebraska Public Power District pays the city for leasing the capacity of the plant to produce electricity. The increased generation ability will mean about $100,000 a year more into the city's coffers under terms of the agreement with NPPD.

Also included in the plant upgrading project is installation of a new cooling system for the generator motors. Total cost of the project, $490,000, will be financed through revenue anticipation notes.

Oil used to cool the transformer is expected to arrive Tuesday and the schedule calls for the transformer to be installed by Wednesday evening.

The smaller transformer it replaces has been sold to Schuyler for $30,000, Brink said.

Art Project Balloons Into Airborne Exercise

Wayne State College students Tuesday afternoon will release 140 helium filled balloons from the college football field, not in the interest of science, but as part of an art project.

Art instructor Pearl Hansen explained that the project is conceptual art—not just art objects, but involvement with art.

Miss Hansen teaches "Understanding Art," a required course at WSC. Students taking the course aren't always really interested in art, she said, and she feels conceptual art can help increase interest in the course.

Conceptual art, she explained, deals with a concept rather than an object and isn't necessarily permanent in nature. "It's more of an art happening," she said.

She and her 220 students came up with the project idea after they began talking about doing something with weather balloons. "It's hard to get 220 people involved at once with one large balloon, so we decided to use the smaller ones," Miss Hansen, a Wayne High and WSC graduate, said. The balloons to be used measure 40 inches in diameter.

Suspended beneath each balloon will be some type of art object, and an envelope addressed to the college, and a letter asking the finder to correspond with the class.

Items which will hang beneath the balloons include small paintings and sculptures, musical scores, poems, creative letters, and even an automobile key along with a note asking the finder to return it so the owner can operate his car.

Miss Hansen said the class will also film an hour-long movie sequence of the art happening.

The art students will assemble at the football field at 3 p.m. Then it will be "Up, Up, and Away" time.

Car-Cycle Crash Injures Student

A 20-year-old Wayne State College student was hospitalized Thursday at Providence Medical Center in Wayne following a car-motorcycle accident.

Kevin Gade of Laurel suffered head and neck injuries in the mishap. Hospital officials Friday said it was expected that Gade would be released Saturday.

Gade was a passenger on a cycle operated by Patrick Meuret, 870 Nebraska, when it collided with a car operated by Phyllis Hamm of Carroll.

According to police reports, Mrs. Hamm was northbound on the 1000 block of Main about 2 p.m. when she turned in front of the southbound cycle. The impact sent Gade hurling into a northbound car driven by Timothy Ronnenkamp, 922 Walnut.

Gade received head stitches and was placed in a neck brace. Meuret had a minor leg injury. Neither cyclist was wearing a helmet.

Nebraska Faces Question: Who Owns Groundwater?

Members of the Nebraska Unicameral's Public Works Committee Friday were told that the legislature should decide just who owns the state's underground water supply, rather than leaving that decision up to the courts.

Opinions on who owns the water, however, differed at the legislative committee hearing, held in the Fine Arts Center on the Wayne State College campus.

Representatives from a couple of natural resources districts (NRDs) are to settle disputes, attorney for a Madison County irrigator ruled against in a dispute over underground water said subsurface water should be the property of the landowner, so long as they make proper use of it.

Former Gov. Val Peterson of Wayne, a member of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) board of directors, said assurances that subsurface water supplies are public property are necessary if NRDs are to settle disputes, rather than having property owners seeking court decisions.

Sen. Kremer said his committee has received varied opinions on the subject, with some Nebraskans indicating they think the answer to the ownership question should be spelled out in the state constitution.

Kremer said he doesn't like that idea and Peterson agreed, saying that in the first instance, at least, the ownership question should be decided by the legislature.

Peterson also said he believes diversion of water from one river basin to another in the state is inevitable. Such action can stabilize the relationship between groundwater and surface water, Peterson said, and is a necessary step if the state is to make efficient use of available water supplies.

He said diversion projects should be considered case by case by the legislature. Warren Patfield of Laurel, a member of the Lewis and Clark NRD, said the organization's biggest concern is with possible conflicts between irrigators and domestic users of water. He made the following recommendations:

— Establish a minimum distance between irrigation wells and domestic wells. Regulations currently provides for a minimum distance between irrigation wells only.

— Require that new domestic wells be drilled to the lowest point in the aquifer from which they draw water. Many domestic wells now are shallow and can be affected by a slight draw down because of irrigation even though there is an adequate supply of water at a greater depth.

— Review South Dakota water laws. One provision in force See WATER, page 5

Allen Students Will Attend Government Day

Fourteen juniors from Allen High School will join students from four other Dixon County high schools Tuesday for the annual county government day at Ponca.

The students, who were elected by fellow students to the county board of directors, will convene at the county courthouse from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to learn about various functions of county government.

Other high schools which will send representatives are from Emerson-Hubbard, Newcastle, Ponca and Wakefield.

The Allen students attending and the offices they were elected to represent are: Kris Young, clerk of the district court; Brad Chase, assessor; Mike DeBorde, sheriff; Diane Nagel, reporter; Joe Maggari, veterans service officer; Linda Strivens, treasurer.

Mary Jo Lundin, attorney; Stan McAfee, extension agent; Sue Brewer, judge; Denny Uhl, county clerk; Kandace Rahn, county clerk; Grace Luschen, welfare; Peggy Taylor, superintendent; Jack Warner, surveyor.

October Was Cool Month

Temperatures in Northeast Nebraska averaged five to eight degrees below normal, according to a report by the Conservation and Survey Division of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Data compiled at Wakefield shows an average temperature for the month of 45 degrees — 7.6 degrees below the normal average for October.

The average daily maximum was 57.2 degrees; average daily minimum was 32.7 degrees. The highest temperatures for the month — 85 degrees were recorded Oct. 1. Lowest temperature, recorded Oct. 25, was 25 degrees.

Total precipitation recorded at Wakefield during October amounted to .39 inches — 1.42 inches below normal.

Officials Told Nuclear Power Is Vital to Energy Production

Nuclear powered and coal fired generating plants are the short-term answer to meeting increased demands for energy, a spokesman for the Nebraska Public Power District Thursday night told officials from a number of Northeast Nebraska communities.

Ron Bogus, speaking at a utilities section meeting of the Nebraska League of Municipalities, held in Wayne, said NPPD believes that nuclear energy is vital to meeting demands for electricity over the next 20 or 30 years.

More exotic energy sources such as the sun and wind may provide the eventual permanent solution to providing enough energy to meet ever-increasing demands, Bogus said, but development of those forms of energy is years away and nuclear and coal generating plants must provide an interim solution.

Bogus and another NPPD representative, Clint Johannes, presented the program at the dinner meeting of the League of Municipalities meeting, which began at 7 p.m. at the Wayne Vet's Club. City administrator Fred Brink was master of ceremonies for the evening. Mayor Freeman Decker welcomed the officials from other cities and introduced members of the Wayne city council who attended.

Attending the meeting were officials from other communities in charge of utility operations. Included were city administrators, electric plant supervisors, street superintendents, and water system supervisors.

Many of the out of town officials arrived in Wayne in time for a 5 p.m. tour of the city electric plant.

The NPPD officials, following the 7 p.m. dinner, presented the film "The Story of Cooper Nuclear Station," the first public showing of the movie detailing construction of the plant.

Located near Brownsville, costs for the nuclear generating plant were shared equally by NPPD and Iowa Public Power. NPPD is legal owner of the plant but IPP receives half its output.

The film details construction of the plant, which began with site preparation in 1968. It was tested in 1974 and subsequently certified by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

An entire wing of the plant is devoted to radioactive waste control and even the air and water around the plant is periodically tested.

NPPD has been pleased with the operation of the plant so far, Bogus said. First-year availability for power production was above normal.

Complications, such as a vibration problem, are being solved.

Costs of constructing a nuclear plant are high, compared with other types of generating plants, Bogus said, but operating costs are lower.

Because of lower operating expenses, cost of nuclear generation is less than with other methods. Bogus said about 25 per cent of the electricity now distributed by NPPD is produced by the nuclear station. The company believes the optimum amount of nuclear power for an electric utility is 50 per cent, and NPPD is considering proposals for expansion. NPPD is considering a plan to cooperate with the Omaha Public Power District for a second nuclear plant at the site of OPD's Ft. Calous Nuclear Station, and is also considering building an additional plant of its own.

Bogus said three sites are under consideration. One proposal is to build a second nuclear station at the site of the present Cooper station. Other sites being considered are at Dunning and Decatur, both in Nebraska.

Lower Electric Bills Expected

Wayne electric customers can, for the most part, expect charges on electric bills being mailed this week to be substantially smaller than charges on the last bill they received.

A pair of factors combined to produce extraordinarily high charges on the "last" billings received by most customers.

First, the city council adopted a new rate structure which went into effect in September. In most instances, that means customers are now being charged more for the same amount of electricity.

Second, the city switched from its old manual billing system to computerized billing.

Because of the transition between systems, last month's bills weren't prepared and distributed according to the regular schedule. As a result, a portion of charges on the last bills received by most customers ranged from five to seven weeks, rather than the normal four-week period.

The new rate structure will remain unchanged. Customers in most instances will still be paying more for the same amount of electricity than they would have before September.

The normal four-week period for the bills being prepared for mailing this week, however, should result in electric charges less than those on the last bills, which covered an extended period, city administrator Fred Brink said.

For example, picking customers at random, Brink said one residential customer who was billed $65.29 last month will be charged $35.48 this month. Other examples, with the billing for the extended period first, are: $43.46-$31.55; $35.93-$17.79; $46.75-$37.70.

Walthill Man Hurt

A young Walthill man was still hospitalized in Wakefield Community Hospital Saturday morning following an accident at Big Red Farms, owned by Milton G. Waldbaum Co. of Wakefield.

For commercial customers: $363.23-$161.36; $399.11-$244.99; $371.83-$216.97.

Brink added, however, that for some customers, new billings could be higher than last month and that the difference for other customers might not be as great as the examples he provided.

With few exceptions, electric customers are now paying more for the electricity they use than they were before the rate increase.

The new rate structure, according to its designer electrical engineer Normng Armstrong, reflects the cost of providing the services received.

Under the old rate structure consumers of large amounts of electricity often received preferential rates and were, in effect, subsidized by the small consumers, Brink said.

The increase for residential customers in the middle of the range for kilowatts used each month—455 to 1,810—the percentage of increase was "moderate," Brink said.

What do we want from our leaders

The tumult of the 20th Century has taught us again the ancient lesson that people get the leaders they deserve. A populace can invite tyranny; it can foster mediocre leadership; or it can demand capable leaders. Good constituencies produce good leaders.

Today there is an unfortunate tendency among us to accept mediocre leadership of performance from our leaders, and then to be rather contemptuous of them. Both attitudes should be altered. We should set high standards of performance for our leaders and then honor them.

Most great leaders are the product of great emergencies or disasters — which is to say that they are made not born. They appear when a society needs them desperately. Perhaps only under such conditions of extreme need can there be both the mandate and the highly motivated followers that great leadership requires.

No society should expect to have an endless succession of extraordinary leaders. A healthy society — especially one with our tradition of dispersed power — should be able to function well with good rather than great leaders. Indeed, one of the glories of our society is that "the system" is not excessively dependent on The Leader.

Our kind of society doesn't need leaders to tell the people what to do. For us, the task of leaders is to help us understand the problems that all must face and to work with others in finding paths to those goals. It is part of the leaders' task to mobilize support for the goals chosen, maintaining motivation and morale and nurturing a workable level of public unity. Leaders must use existing institutions in pursuit of the society's goals or help redesign the institutions to achieve these goals.

Leaders must also help people know what they can be, at their best — calling forth the kind of effort and restraint, drive and discipline that make for great performance in leadership at its best. The leader stands as a symbol of the community, its traditions, values and purposes.

In a free society, leaders perform those functions within a framework of constraints — an uncorrupted electoral process, the rule of law, institutional checks and balances, a free press. In Watergate, the nation learned bitter lessons at the hands of a President who undertook to neutralize all of those traditional constraints. We learned how and why the checks on power must be kept in working order. Even our system can't function with fools, rascals or non-leaders in the leadership position. We have tested the proposition.

Centuries ago, a philosopher named Lao-Tze wrote: "A leader is best if people barely know that he exists. Of a good leader, who talks little. When his work is done, his achievement fulfilled.

They will say, We did this ourselves." Such a self-effacing leader would have trouble getting re-elected against our skillfully self-advertising politicians.

Even so, Lao-Tze's words carry wisdom for our society. — John W. Gardner, former HEW Secretary.

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

Nebraskans in the year 2076 will have an opportunity to learn again the history of Wayne County. A copy of The Wayne Herald Bicentennial Souvenir Edition will be sealed in a time capsule at the President Gerald R. Ford Birthplace and Gardens at 32nd and Wollworth Avenues in Omaha.

An Omaha World Herald promotion offered Nebraska residents an opportunity to make suggestions for items to be included in the time capsule. Wayne Herald sports editor Bob Bartlett responded, offering a copy of our Bicentennial special edition. We received a letter Wednesday inviting us to send a copy of the magazine.

The capsule will be sealed before the end of this Bicentennial year and will be opened for our nation's Tricentennial celebration in 2076. At that time, the items will be removed, properly displayed, and put back in the capsule along with appropriate additions from 2076.

The capsule, measuring 10 feet wide, 15 feet long, and six feet high, will then be resealed for another 100 years.

company will review the situation to determine what impact a policy change might have on power costs and future NPPD financing ability.

Open House
Anyone who has served with the 165th Tactical Fighter Group of the Iowa Air National Guard is invited to an open house Dec. 4 when the unit celebrates its 30th anniversary. The event will take place at the Air National Guard base at the Sioux City municipal airport. Special activities begin at 8 p.m. in the main hangar.

Good Neighbor
Its time again to think about nominations for the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards.

The program, in its 33rd year, honors individuals and groups cited by neighbors for performing unselfish, neighborly deeds during 1976 without compensation or personal gain.

Nominations will be accepted from newspapers, radio and television stations, Chamber of Commerce groups, Ak-Sar-Ben ambassadors, county extension agents, and interested groups or individuals.

Nomination forms are available by writing to Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards Committee, 63rd and Shirley Streets, Omaha, or from Ak-Sar-Ben district ambassador Al Cramer at The Wayne Herald. Nominations must be postmarked not later than Feb. 2, 1977.

$6,000,000,000,000
Six trillion dollars in the U.S. Treasury Department's own computation of the total Federal government debt right now. The frightening thing isn't the size of the debt, but the speed with which the government is increasing it.

The first $100 billion budget wasn't reached until 1962, 188 years after the nation was founded.

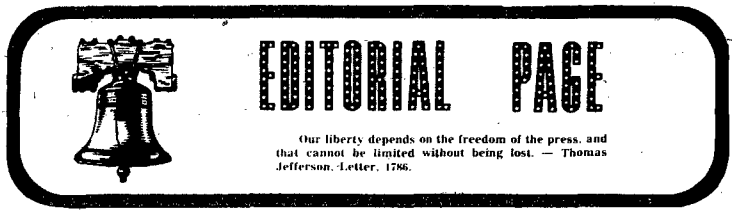

If only took nine more years, until 1971, to reach a $200 billion budget.

In 1975, four years later, the first $300 billion budget was reached. And the first $400 billion budget will be reached in 1977, two years later.

All of which reminds me of a comment overheard during a discussion of who president-elect Carter might choose for his cabinet. One was predicted that Carter wouldn't have a Secretary of Treasury. "With his spending policies, there won't be a Treasury," was the explanation.

Out of Old

Nebraska

Mary Gale LaFlesche, or Hinuagun, is one of 10 Nebraska women selected for inclusion in Mothers of Achievement in American History 1776-1976 standards by The American Mothers Committee, Inc. Bi-Centennial Project 1974-1976.

Other Nebraskans selected are Caroline Morton, Laura Pound, Elizabeth Abbott, Sarah Joslyn, Mary Elizabeth Bryan, Lenora Gray, Bess Streeter Aldrich, Hazel Abner, and Helen Hesse Brock. It is fitting that the biography of Mary LaFlesche appears first in the Nebraska section of the 636-page volume, for her people — the Omaha Indians — were living in what is now Nebraska long before 1776 or the coming of the white man. Her great deal of work concerning the Omaha and the following events is available at the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Mary Gale was born in 1826, the daughter of Army surgeon John Gale and an Indian woman named Nicomi. Dr. Gale was among those who boarded the keelboat bound for St. Louis when 7-year-old Fort Atkinson was abandoned on June 6, 1827. He had wanted to take Mary with him, but Nicomi was warned of his intentions by an interpreter and ran away and hid the child. Gale died shortly after reaching St. Louis, and Nicomi became the wife of influential Peter Sapp, who trading post at Bellevue was a rendezvous for Indians, fur traders, and travelers alike. Mary attended school in St. Louis but spent much of her time at Bellevue, and it was probably here that she met Joseph LaFlesche, who clerked for a time at the trading post. They married in about 1846 or 1847, and on December 27, 1850, their infant son was baptized by Jesuit missionary Christian Hoecken. (Hoecken died six months later of cholera aboard the St. Ange on the Missouri River.)

Joseph LaFlesche, the son of a French fur trader and an Indian woman, was still a young man when he cast his lot with his mother's people, knowing full well that the old ways of the Indian would soon vanish. He became Chief Iron Eye, the successor to Chief Big Elk, and was the last recognized head chief of the Omaha. He was the first to sign the Treaty of 1854 whereby the Omaha ceded all their hunting grounds except for 300,000 acres in northeastern Nebraska. The Nebraska Palladium, November 15, 1854, reported that Indian Agent George Hepler and the chiefs had signed the Treaty of 1854 at Bellevue. The newspaper perhaps reflected the temper of the times in adding: "Finding the country in that region too poor even for Indians to live, which was finally made of a location at 'Black Bird Hills' which place they will be removed next spring, LaFlesche said, 'We are strangers in the land where we were born.'"

Once settled in Blackbird Hills (present-day Thurston County), LaFlesche and his followers erected what was derisively called "The Make-Believe White Man's Village," by some of the conservative Indians. The earlodge and the tipi were replaced by wooden or sod structures, and the LaFlesche home was said to be the first Indian-built frame house west of the Missouri. A young territorial bride, who visited the LaFlesche household in 1859, described Mary as a "large handsome woman" busily barbecuing beef in the kitchen (Nebraska History, Summer Issue, 1969).

Their only son Louis died in 1860, but the four LaFlesche daughters — Susette (Tibbles), Rosalie (Fartley), Marguerite (Didcock), and Susan (Picotte) — attended the Presbyterian Mission School on the reservation and other institutions of higher learning elsewhere. They became extremely successful women, although Susette and Susan achieved the greatest fame. Susette, or "Bright Eyes," toured America and Europe as a spokeswoman for Indian rights. Susan was the first Indian woman in America to become a doctor of medicine and was also first in her graduating class. (LaFlesche had three children by another wife, and these children also attained prominence. Polygamy was not the custom of the Omaha, but it did occur among prominent men of the tribe.)

Joseph LaFlesche died September 24, 1888, and Mary died at the age of 63 on February 28, 1909, at the home of her daughter Susan in Wallhill. Both are buried in the Bancroft Cemetery, and although LaFlesche once said, "We are strangers in the land where we were born," their descendants are today respected and honorable citizens of the state of Nebraska.

Taxi advocate speaks out

Dear Editor:

It's about that taxi again. What a financial monstrosity. Think of it. It cost the City of Wayne an average loss of $3.13 for every passenger that boarded that rig in October, piling up a total loss of $256.72 for the month, and that hurts.

So now the city "power that be" are theorizing that if the taxi is not used more, it's not needed. "Use it or lose it," they say.

Why isn't it used more? For one thing, it is available only from 1 to 4 p.m. each day it runs — outlandish hours. No business personnel could possibly use it. A senior citizen couldn't make it to a 10 a.m. appointment, nor to a potluck dinner at noon and if he did use it to get to a 3 p.m. birthday party, he would have to leave before it was open, and hurry like crazy to get back by 4 p.m.

Also, there is another angle as to why it is not used more. That's the fare. If a person used it three days a week, that would add up to $3 a week or a total of about $12 per month. That's a sizable sum to a senior citizen who might make do with $10 per month. In fact, it is eight per cent of his income. At the same percentage ratio a person with an income of $1000 per month would pay $80 for the same service. Would that person with the $1000 income be willing to pay $80 a month just to ride the taxi three afternoons a week, and run like crazy to catch the thing by 4 o'clock to take him home? Chances are he would regard this as absurd.

"But," say the "City Dads," "We have had no complaints from our senior citizens." True. But many of these folk weathered a severe depression years ago and became schooled in the art of making do with what they have. Remember when corn was 12 cents, eggs were 10 cents a dozen, and a quart of milk could be had for a nickel? Remember, too, that a delicious double loaf of white bread that sold for a dime? Remember, also, that fresh country butter that was so delicious or so awful, depending upon who brought it to town to sell? It was pretty hard to pay the interest on the farm loan with 19 cent corn, 10 cent eggs and hogs for less.

So, coming back to Wayne's controversial taxi, these folks are not the complaining kind. They simply decide it's beyond their means and make do without it. How can the man who can spend $25 or $30 for a family dinner out, and think nothing of it, possibly understand the problems of the person who must make do with $5 per day for his entire living? If just is not his problem. The one with only $5 for the day will spend a dollar of that five for taxi fare only when he must, especially when he runs the risk of having to ask a kindly police officer to take him home from a doctor's office because he just got out in time to catch that cab, that vanishes from service for the day at 4 o'clock.

The taxi hours should be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. instead of from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The fare ought to be a quarter instead of fifty cents. This would increase the number of passengers and help take up the slack in revenue. Maybe it could do a little grocery delivery service, too.

It seems a shame that a city the size of Wayne should be without any transportation except shoe leather or the kindness of friends for those who do not drive. — Genevieve Craig.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

STREETS IN Bancroft are now being patrolled by Gilbert Nelson of Roselle. Nelson has agreed to stay on with the Village of Bancroft as police officer for the winter months or until another arrangement can be made. Nelson was formerly a state deputy.

NORBERT TIEMANN, former Nebraska governor and Wausa resident, says he has no plans following the election defeat of President Ford. Tiemann's present position as Federal Highway administrator, to which he was appointed by president Nixon in 1973, will probably be filled next year by an appointee of the new President.

MR. AND MRS. Albert Anderson of Wakefield were presented an aerial view picture of their farm at a Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District banquet held last week at King's Ballroom in Norfolk. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Dixon County winners in the 1976 program earned the award for incorporation of over 9,000 feet of terraces plus waterways and contour farming. The 160 acre farm is farmed by Willis Kahl.

THE RANDOLPH fire department answered a call to a trailer home belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nieman on Friday evening, Nov. 12, in west Randolph. The local department made short work of extinguishing the fire that had engulfed the trailer before they arrived. The Nieman family had moved out of the trailer home several days before the fire and are presently residing in a home near the Randolph swimming pool.

PLANS FOR THE new addition to Laurel Concord school are now complete and available to contractors for bidding. The addition contains over 35,000 square feet of building area. It will be constructed immediately north and adjacent to the existing gymnasium. The addition consists of two main areas, an elementary school and a gymnasium and locker facility.

JAMES FRANK, 48, of South Sioux City, was charged with first degree murder—Ecladay, Nov. 12, in the fatal early morning shooting of Joseph-Baselt of Newcastile. Authorities said the shooting took place at Frank's mobile home on a gravel road about two blocks north of the U.S. 20 bypass. Frank was arraigned before Dakota County Judge Cecil Orton and was being held in the Dakota County jail without bond.

IN A recently-completed business transaction, Cominco American Fertilizer has purchased the fertilizer facility northwest of Pierce from Paul McInloch of Norfolk. The facility has not been in operation for several years. Cominco, which has operated a facility at Norfolk since the early 1960's, plans to open the plant by spring and will provide dry and liquid fertilizer and farm chemicals on a retail basis.

Three Courtesies Held

Jeanne Ann Pippitt of Laurel was honored during the past week with three miscellaneous bridal showers.

Miss Pippitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Pippitt of Laurel, was married to Dennis Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Stewart of Waterbury, Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church in Wayne.

Bridesmaids: Pat Purcell, Shaon Hansen and Mary Ream, all of Wayne, hosted a shower last Tuesday evening in the home of Pat Purcell. For entertainment, the bride attempted to bake a cake from scratch.

November 5, 28 guests from Waterbury, Wayne, Allen, Harfington and Laurel attended a courtesy at the Baptist Church in Wayne. Decorations were in green and gold, the bride's chosen colors. Games were played and prizes were forwarded to the honoree.

Mrs. Judy Peters poured and Mary Ream served punch. Lisa Peters and Mary Ream assisted with gifts. Hostesses were Mrs. Bette Ream and Mrs. Mavis Penn.

The bride-elect's high school classmates hosted a shower for her Oct. 31 in the Don Pippitt home at Laurel. Seven attended.

Vows Exchanged

NOW AT HOME in Lincoln are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Wells. Mrs. Wells, nee Penelope Kusek, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kusek of Burwell. She was employed at the Farmers Home Administration office in Wayne until last month. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wells of Comstock. The couple's wedding was Oct. 30 at 6:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Elyria.

UMW Officers Installed

United Methodist Women met Nov. 10 with about 50 present for a 1 p.m. luncheon, served by the Sisters of Patience Interest group.

Officers for 1977 were installed by Mrs. Alvin Ehlers, assisted by Mrs. Ora Wax. Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Melvin Wert and her committee for serving the finance supper in October and to the Theophilus Interest group for cleaning the church kitchen. A letter of thanks was read from Gladys Cole, secretary of the O'Neill United Methodist Women, for hosting the fall meeting and the picnic for college students.

Mrs. Don Cattle told about the Christmas Fair, which will be held Dec. 4 at the church. Members are asked to donate socks for making stuffed animals and to bring items for the Attic Treasures.

Just Us Gals Plan Christmas Supper

Members of the Just Us Gals Club will hold a Christmas supper Dec. 1 at 6:30 p.m. at the Up-Town Cafe in Wakefield.

The club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Waldron Bull. Nine members answered roll call with a Thanksgiving prayer. Card prizes were won by Mrs. Floyd Hupp and Mrs. Douglas Spahr.

The club's next regular meeting will be Dec. 15 in the home of Mrs. LeRoy Echtenkamp for a 1 p.m. dessert luncheon.

Mrs. Richard Kettel is in charge of the program, which was the annual pledge service. She presented a skit, entitled "The House That Women Built," assisted by Mrs. J.J. Liska, Mrs. Jim Marsh, Mrs. Darrel Fuelberth and Mrs. Kenneth Edmonds.

The Treble Clef Singers sang "Somebody Bigger Than You and I," written by Mrs. Richard Kettel to the tune of "My Cup Runneth Over With Love." The World Thank Offering was accepted.

The next meeting will be at 1 p.m. Dec. 3 for a Christmas luncheon and program with the Charity and Congregation Care groups in charge of serving. Mrs. Don Zeiss will present the program, entitled "First Night"

Center Members Enjoy Thanksgiving Dinner

The Wayne Senior Citizens Center will be closed Thursday, Nov. 25, in observance of Thanksgiving.

No hot meals will be delivered by center volunteers Thursday as Jeff's Cafe will be closed for the holiday. Meal service will resume Friday.

Hot meals can be ordered at $1.96 per person, and will be delivered by volunteers Monday through Friday if meals are ordered by 11 a.m. each day. Orders should be placed through the center.

Fifty members were present Wednesday noon for the Thanksgiving potluck dinner. The floral centerpiece was arranged by Tena Bargholz and Rachel Bull. Table decorations, arranged by Cordelia Chambers, were in the Thanksgiving motif. Viola Lawrence gave the invocation.

On the volunteer committees were Pearl Gilfill, Virgil and Cordelia Chambers, Wes Pflueger, Mathilde Herrms, Goldie Leonard, Emma Soules, Lottie Longnecker, Gladys Perersen, Grace Johnson, Louise Hoeman, Viola Lawrence, Lucille Wert, Tena Bargholz, Mildred Wacker, Mary Echtenkamp and Alma Spittlinger. Mrs. Helene Meyer donated the Thanksgiving dinner napkins.

Energy Gap a Chilling Thought

The need for energy to light, heat, cool, cook meals and bring entertainment into our homes is growing faster than new supplies can be found.

Even when a new oil field is found, it takes from five to 10 years to develop it. Meanwhile, consumer demand for fuel is increasing.

There are a lot of ways to make the most efficient use of the energy supply now during the winter months that will not only extend the usefulness of energy resources, but will also save the consumer money.

Let the sun help you. During winter daylight hours, leave windows which face south or west unshaded and enjoy the free energy of the sun heating your home.

Thin coatings of dust on radiators or baseboard units act as insulation and waste heat. Dust or vacuum these surfaces frequently.

If your home (including your attic) is not properly insulated, you may be spending money to heat the outdoors.

In search of Noah's Ark

High atop a mountain in Eastern Turkey is a giant 5,000-year old wooden ship containing hundreds of stalls and cages.

IS IT NOAH'S ARK?

With Brad Crandall
Technical Advisor/Historian DAVID WALSER Directed by JAMES L. COMYAK
Copyright © by Classic Features, Inc. 1976. Produced by CHARLES E. SELLERS.

It is a question what to expect in Wayne State College men's basketball. Coach Jim Seward describes his team as "the finest group of young men I have ever been associated with," but he remains uncertain how the mix of nine lettermen, five transfers and three freshmen will blend into a unit.

The Wildcats will get their first test Tuesday when the Red Raiders of Northwestern College come to Rice Gym, junior varsities playing at 5:30, varsities at 7:30.

Heading the cast of lettermen are senior Wayne Robinson of Denver, a frequent starter last year when he averaged 9.7 points, and junior Lennie Adams of West Point, also a regular starter with a 6.8 average. Seward mentions senior Ed Gogan of Arcadia, and junior Dale Meyer of Sioux City as much improved among lettermen. Also expected to fortify the Wayne cage system are freshmen Joe Carl, South Sioux City; Gary Rauch, Tinley Park, Ill.; Paul Benson, Milwaukee, Wis.; Dave Schael, Wakefield, and Reggie Balderas, Makawao, Hawaii.

Transfers bring strong credentials. Seward notes Joe Peltz, a former letterman at Northeast Tech, champion of the 1976 NLCAA national tournament. He was a second-team all-star at Plattsmouth High. Gary Billings, co-captain from Kansas City, Kan., where he rated all-state at Wyandotte High, a frequent Kansas state champion, then won all-conference honors at Kansas City Junior College. He started all three years at Wyandotte.

Mark Olsen, another Northeast Tech transfer, learned about winning basketball at Hampton High School, which had a 51-game victory spell and a state championship during his career. Olsen made all-state twice in basketball, once in football, and won the state Class D shotput.

Two other transfers are Tom Jones, who played prep basketball at Indianapolis' Chateaufort High School then went to Western Wyoming College, and Sam Wright, from Chicago's Harper High School, Chicago State College and Sioux Empire College. Among freshmen, Bob Kelly of Carroll, Ia., is a strong prospect, coming off Krumpholtz High School honors as first team Northwest Iowa and first team Southwest Iowa.

Warren Ortmeier moves up from a sixth West Point Central Catholic team. As a senior he was named the team's most valuable player and an all-state honorable mention.

Wayne's 30-game schedule includes full participation — 14 games — in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. Regulars Fortify WS Gals

Ten regulars return to fortify women's basketball at Wayne State college going into a 26 game grid.

Coach G. L. Willoughby has a pair of tall and talented veterans for post positions: 6-0 Connie Kunzmann, junior from Every, Ia., and 6-2 Pat McKay, sophomore from Knoxville, Ia. Kunzmann set two Wayne game records last year: 40 points and 25 rebounds.

Also returning from last year's 16-10 team which finished second in the state tournament for big colleges, are three seniors, Cathy Betz, Laredo, Mo.; Lori Mittelstadt, Hampton, Ia., and Elsie Studer, Mallard, Ia. Mittelstadt earned most valuable player citation at Ellisworth Junior College.

Among junior returnees is Julie Brinkman of Rolfe, Ia., a play-making guard who fires an accurate long shot. She was selected as Wayne's woman athlete of the year in 1975-76.

Other juniors with considerable experience: Lori Langel, Renssen, Ia.; Julie Jones, Hinton, Ia.; and Peg Yockey, Central City, Ia. Also returning is sophomore Becky Kelley, Heward, Ia.

Coach Willoughby's freshman crop claimed a flock of high school honors. They include Peggy Langel, Renssen, Ia., sister of Lori; Tammy Compton, Quimby, Ia.; Robin Walsh, Mapleton, Ia.; Barb Keele, Blencoe, Ia.; Julie Nielsen, Springfield; Peg Peterson, Sloan, Ia.; Cathy Buryanek, Westfield, Ia.

Most of the rookies rated at least all conference citations in high school.

The Wildkittens will play a full 14-game schedule in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. For a dozen of those games, they will play preliminaries before men's CSIC games.

After a Nov. 30 opener at Tarkio College, the Wildkittens schedule continues this way:

December — 3, Kansas State University; 5, Midland; 7, Nebraska-Lincoln; 11, at South Dakota State; 14, Westminster; 18, Chadron Holiday Tournament.

January — 8, Northwest Missouri State; 9, at Midland; 14, Missouri Southern; 15, Pittsburg State; 18, Missouri Western; 21, at Fort Hays State; 22, at Kearney; 28, Emporia State; 29, Washburn.

February — 4, Fort Hays; 5, Kearney; 8, at UN-Omah; 11, at Missouri Southern; 12, at Pittsburg; 16, South Dakota State; 18, at Washburn; 19, at Emporia; 20, at Missouri Western; 25-26, state tournament at Fremont.

March — Regional AIAW tournament at Wayne.

Questions Still Loom as Cats Prepare for Opener

McManigal admits that rebounding will be one of the team's weaknesses, but he feels his club can counter that part of the game with quickness on defense. With three lettermen complimented by those five, the coach said they should make up "an awfully strong crop."

Home and Newcastle of the east Lewis and Clark Conference will be battling favored Allen for the division title as well as the Class D district title.

Before his team meets with conference foes, McManigal's club opens with what could be the toughest game of the season—against Laurel. Defense will be stressed in this contest, the coach added, pointing out that his girls want to settle the score after last year's only loss.

Junior Cheryl McManigal this year is Gary Troth.

3 Veterans Bolster Allen Girls

"We lost some valuable players from the 1975 club, but I think we'll have as good as team this season," observed Allen High girls basketball coach Steve McManigal as he looked over his roster of 18 players.

Three of those players, seniors Peg Taylor, Lori Erwin and sophomore Susie Erwin, are returning lettermen from last year's 11-1 squad which looked to be a conference contender in the first year of the sport.

Lori will paper the team with her 11 point average while Peg and Susie contribute five and three points, according to last year's charts. Working with the varsity likely will be seniors Grace Luschen, Kathy Malcom, junior Cheryl Koch, sophomore Pam Brownell and freshman Stacey Koester.

"Pam is good on rebounding, Grace and Cheryl have reserve and some varsity experience, and Stacey and Kathy show quickness," the coach explained as his reason for either one of girls making varsity.

One Varsity Player Back On Cats '5'

With only one varsity letter man returning, first-year coach Sam Colvin is faced with more than just a rebuilding year at Winside High.

Colvin, who is tackling the 1976-1977 season without an assistant coach, has to shape up his team in only 11 games prior to districts in March.

The abbreviated season was decided by the school board to limit the number of nights students are participating in sports. Because of the cutback, and the fact that there's only one coach, Colvin believes he'll have his hands full trying to mold a respectable team.

"We're young, but we've got a lot of desire," he pointed out as one of the reasons he's still optimistic about the upcoming case season.

Junior Cliff Tillema is back from last year's club which sported one of the best records at Winside in a long time.

... And the Race Is On

IT WAS labeled as The Great Run, all the way from Wayne to Kearney. Who was it for? Members of Wayne State's cross country team who volunteered their legs to run the 200 plus mile trek, starting Friday and ending early Saturday morning, just in time for the Wayne-Kearney football game being played at the Antelopes' field. The hope was to generate enthusiasm for the rival game. Some of the runners who gathered at one point outside of Wayne included, from left, Andy Myrtue, Chip Hagerman and Al Libbe. Other members of the team who are running are Dale Sohl, Don Rinehart, Mark Baurmerl, Bob Schliecher, Roger Kuhman, and, below, Jerry Saunders, as he completes the first two-mile leg of the run just west of Wayne.

1986 may be the farthest thing from your mind when comparing flexible irrigation systems to the others. But we think of it as the last of 20 potentially good years. Years of good yields for you... good customers for us. That's why we choose to offer the circular irrigation systems with the best warranty package in the business — 20 year corrosion warranty on steel and aluminum pipe, and a 3 year warranty on all parts, including treat!

We could list dozens of reasons why the features on Reinke's Water Management Systems are unmatched in the irrigation industry. But you buy more than features when you invest in irrigation — you buy a company and a dealer, too. If we didn't offer "America's Finest Circular Irrigation Systems," we couldn't make this kind of offer. If we weren't your neighbor, we wouldn't want to. Want more reasons? Stop by, we'll give you more.

Honey Sunday Is Successful

Volunteers sold Wayne's entire quota — more than 600 jars — for the annual Honey Sunday sale, Nov. 13.

Wayne chairman Mrs. Carl Haas said members of Boy Scout Troops 174 and 175, high school students, and staff members of the Region IV Child Development Center and Adult Workshop assisted with the sale. In addition, a number of individuals contributed refreshments for the volunteer salesmen.

The Honey Sunday sale is sponsored locally by the Northeast Nebraska Association for Retarded Citizens.

Proceeds from the sale support programs designed to help mentally retarded persons help themselves and become productive in society. Programs include workshops, training center, and recreational and religious activities.

Honey Sunday funds are also used to coordinate legislation activities regarding assistance for the mentally retarded.

Mrs. Merlin Kenny, chairman of the sale for Sholes and Carroll, said the Carroliners 4-H Club collected more than $240 through their efforts with the sale.

Mrs. Owen Hartman reported sales of about $217 in Winside and Hoskins. She and Mrs. Don Votwiler were co-chairmen for sales in those communities. Sales there were handled by members of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church Luther League, plus a number of individual volunteers.

Mrs. Louis Abts of Dixon said 38 jars were sold in the Dixon County community by the United Methodist church youth organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Abts are also chairmen for Concord where the sale is still in progress by members of the Three Cs and Merry Homemakers extension clubs.

Mrs. Maurice Davenport, chairman for Allen, Martinsburg and Waterbury, said the sale would also continue in those communities during the week.

Goal for "Northeast" Nebraska is 3,585 jars of honey, which were sold for $1.25 each. No reports on total sales was available early in the week.

Water — (Continued from page 1) there is that applications for legal permits be published as legal notices in newspapers.

Reconsider surface water rights. Patefield said surface water has been over appropriated.

Amend LB 577, which gives NRD regulatory powers when groundwater usage is disputed. Patefield said water quality should be added to the law in standards for establishment of control areas by NRDs.

Donald Eisenman of Madison, advocated adoption of what he termed the "American rule" to govern groundwater usage in Nebraska. Under the rule, landowners would be entitled to use the water under their land without regard to the effect on neighbors so long as the use is beneficial and not wasteful.

In a district court ruling Wednesday, Eisenman was ordered to pay $5,346 in damages to neighbors who sued him after pumping from his irrigation well interrupted their domestic water supplies.

DeLay Friday said he would appeal that decision to the state supreme court.

DeLay said that if the state adopted the rule of coal water rights, whereby irrigators are liable for damages if their wells interfere with neighboring wells, an entire new court system will be needed to govern water law in the state and full use of underground water cannot be made.

DeLay said it is impossible for irrigators to know at the time they drill a well how that well will effect their neighbors. The threat of possible suit could hamper further development of irrigation, DeLay said.

DeLay said the legislature should pass a law that negates liability between well owners unless it can be proved that water is not being used for beneficial purposes.

A Jewell Shook, a Wayne State College biology professor, told the committee he is appalled at the reluctance to face the issue of establishing minimum standards for natural resources.

Shook said everyone is concerned about such issues as minimum flow standards for rivers and streams, but nothing is being done. He said the technology is available now to establish such standards and that it is time something is done.

In addition to members of the Public Works Committee, Sen. John R. Murphy of the 17th Legislative District and senator-elect Elroy Heffner of the 19th District attended the hearing.

Potts' Average Tops in League

A Wayne kepler, Jim Potts, holds the highest average in the Northeast Traveling Classic bowling league after two meetings.

Potts bolsters a hefty 196 average among the top scorers, in third place is another Wayne bowler, Val Ketenash, who rolls a 186 average.

The two are members of Melodee Lanes team of Wayne which is sixth in the eight-team league.

In first place is Main Street Bowl followed by Rainbow Lanes 11, Sky Bowl, Sissel Bowl, Rainbow Lanes, Wayne, Bib Red Lounge and Sky Bowl 11.

Leaders Plan — The Wayne County 4-H Live-stock leaders and county extension agent, Don Spitz, will meet in the courtroom at the courthouse tonight (Monday) at 8 p.m.

Waterbury, said the sale would also continue in those communities during the week.

Goal for "Northeast" Nebraska is 3,585 jars of honey, which were sold for $1.25 each. No reports on total sales was available early in the week.

The NRD Board That Is Sincerely Concerned About Proper Resources Development!

Corn production near pine and cedar windbreak.

Corn production next to cottonwood windbreak.

Nebraska's dryland corn yields have been reduced this year to the point that many fields could only be cut for silage. The Nebraska Department of Forestry has been performing research which shows yields would have been better if windbreaks had protected fields.

In 1966, the Forestry Department formulated a plan of six windbreaks at the UN-L Field Laboratory at Mead, Nebraska.

These two-row windbreaks, now ten years old, had the following effects on this year's corn crop.

- 1) 50 per cent more green weight on July 1st over unprotected fields.
- 2) Protected fields were 25 per cent taller.
- 3) Tasseling was one week earlier.
- 4) Corn yield was 55 bushels per acre on protected plots compared to only 10 bushels on the unprotected site.

On irrigated corn, soil moisture during critical periods of crop development may not be the problem. However, windbreaks on the edge or corners of an irrigated field will help reduce evaporation and require less irrigation water for maximum yields.

Efficiency of the sprinkler systems is increased because evaporation losses are cut especially when wind velocities are reduced in windbreak protected fields.

The Forestry Department also noted that increased irrigation efficiency would also reduce groundwater demands because evaporation is less of a factor.

When planning a field windbreak, the research has shown that there was considerable difference in crop yield near the windbreak by using trees such as pines and red cedar that have deep root systems.

The sapping effect of shallow rooted trees such as cottonwood can affect crop growth near the windbreak by creating competition for top soil moisture with the crop. Aside from crop yield advantages, windbreaks have long been used for farmstead protection.

The loss of a few cattle or reduced rates of gain can make the difference between profit and loss. In addition, heating costs can be reduced by 20 to 30 per cent with a properly placed farmstead windbreak. Other considerations for a farmstead windbreak are breaking hot summer winds and adding beauty and value to your farmstead.

CLARK-McNARY TREES AVAILABLE

Trees available under the Clark-McNary program went on sale November 1st in Nebraska.

Stock may be purchased in lots of 100 per species from the Extension Service or the Soil Conservation Service Office in each county.

This year a broad range of trees and shrubs are available to custom design a windbreak best for your needs. Species available are: Red Cedar, Rocky Mountain Juniper, Ponderosa Pine, Austrian Pine, Scotch Pine, Jack Pine, Eastern White Pine, Southwestern White Pine, Colorado Blue Spruce, Siberian Elm, Hackberry, Honeylocust, Cottonwood, Red Oak, Silver Maple, Black Walnut, Green Ash, Russian Olive, Cotoneaster, Lilac, Honeysuckle, Chokecherry, American Plum, Ginneta Maple, Autumn Olive, Skunkbush Sumack, Winterberry and Bristly Locust.

Rural landowners are encouraged to contact the Soil Conservation Service in their county to plan a windbreak pattern and select the kinds of trees that would provide the best protection. At that time, the trees can be ordered and planted and weed control can be scheduled. Clark-McNary trees are $14.50 per hundred with planting costs as follows:

- Planting and one year's weed control — $12.00-100.
- Planting and two year's weed control — $18.00-100.
- Planting and three year's weed control — $24.00-100.

50-Year Pin Presented Eastern Star Member

"Faithful Chapter No. 165 of the Eastern Star met last Monday night at the Masonic Hall. Initiatory work was exemplified.

Twenty-three members and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Anderson attended the meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Bob Newman, worthy matron.

A 50-year pin was presented to Mrs. Kenneth Ramsey.

The program included readings by various officers. A quartet, consisting of Mrs. Gordon Davis, Mrs. Don Farmer, Mrs. Lem Jones and Mrs. Wayne Kerstine, accompanied by Mrs. John Rees, sang "In The Garden."

Lunch was served by Mrs. Bob Newman, Mrs. Vernon Hill, Mrs. Lem Jones and Mrs. Leo Jensen. Decorations, in gold and white, included a floral centerpiece. The cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Russell Prince, was served by Mrs. Ramsey's daughter, Mrs. Janet Anderson. Mrs. Ramsey nursed.

Next meeting will be Dec. 20.

Members will go out for supper on Dec. 3 at Prenger's in Norfolk.

Brownie Meeting
Brownie Troop 167 met Tuesday after school in the home of their leader, Mrs. Donovan Leighton. Connie Smith, Lana Prince, Julie Brockman and Peggy Landanger participated in the flag ceremony.

Members answered roll call by telling how many calendars each had sold. Minda Janssen furnished treats.

Kerri Lighon, scribe.

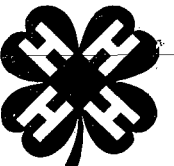

June Renander, and presented the lesson, "Be Your Own Best Friend."

Mrs. Clarence Pfeiffer reported on a family life program she had attended.

Leaders for 1977 are Mrs. Chester Marotz, reading; Mrs. Lyle Krueger, health; Mrs. Herbert Jagers, music; Mrs. Clarence Pfeiffer, social; Mrs. Wilmer Deck, citizenship and Mrs. Charles Jackson, family life.

A thank you was read from Warren Marotz and Val Dean.

Plans were made for a Christmas dinner party Dec. 15 in the Warren Marotz home.

Peppy Pals
The Wayne Peppy Pals 4-H Club held its regular meeting in the home of Matt Baier, rural Wayne, last Wednesday evening. Seven members were present.

Roll call was answered by naming a club project. Three new members installed were Lance Corbit, Jeff Keidel and Shelli Schroeder.

The next meeting will be Dec. 5 at Waketield skating rink at 7 p.m.

Randall Runquist, news reporter.

Teen Supremes
The Wayne County Teen Supremes Junior Leader Organization met Tuesday in the Wayne County courtroom. It was decided that the club would buy some trees for the fairgrounds and some photography equipment for a darkroom to be set up in the Courthouse. It was also decided that the Teen Supremes would award two $25 scholarships for upcoming classes.

The schedule for the 1976-77 year was discussed. Upcoming activities include roller skating, family night, a bake sale and cleaning up LaPorte Cemetery.

Following the meeting lunch was served by Linda Anderson, Lori Mikkelsen, Judy Temme and Leslie Greunk. The next meeting will be Dec. 22 at 7 p.m. for a Christmas caroling party.

Antia Sandahl, publicity chairman.

Hi Raters
The Hi-Raters Girls 4-H Club met last Thursday evening at Grace Lutheran Church. Ten members answered roll call. The Charles Maier and the Duaine Rethwisch families were hosts.

Officers elected for the coming year are Michelle Kubik, president; Trisha Willers, vice president; Jennifer Uelch, secretary and Sandy Uelch, news reporter.

Members received yearly pins and certificates and discussed what projects they were taking. A list of projects was given to the leader.

A Christmas party was discussed for Dec. 9 at Grace Lutheran Church at 8 p.m. There will be a gift exchange.

Sandy Uelch, news reporter.

U.S. Air Force Master Sergeant Monte Schram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Schram, Wayne, has been decorated with the Department of Defense Joint Service Commendation Medal at Offutt AFB, Ne.

Sgt. Schram, an electronic intelligence operations superintendent, was cited for meritorious service while assigned at the American Embassy, Helsinki, Finland.

Now assigned at Offutt, Schram serves with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Sgt. Schram is a 1960 graduate of Wayne High School. His wife, Delvont, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Noyes, also of Wayne.

Two No Parking signs were reported damaged sometime before 8:15 a.m. Thursday on the 300 and 400 blocks of Logan Street.

Wednesday night about 11 p.m., police investigated a complaint of breaking and entering at the Herman Peters residence, 816 Logan. Police discovered that both the front and back doors had been opened along with a basement window. Nothing was reported missing.

In a parking lot at Gibson's Discount Center, a car operated by Duane Westerhaus, Winside, was backing up when it hit a car owned by Cary Damme, rural Wayne. The mishap happened about 10:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Media Director Gives Report On Conference

Charles Shelling, Wayne State College director of media, presented a report on the Governor's Conference on Library Services when he attended the Northern Library Network meeting Tuesday in Norfolk.

Discussion followed a slide-tape presentations being shown throughout the library network.

Board members from Wayne, Columbus, Norfolk, Neigh, Stanton, Waketield and Laurel attended the meeting.

Troop 168 Meets
Winside Junior Girl Scout Troop 168 held their regular meeting at the Winside Fire Hall Tuesday afternoon. Ten girls attended, along with leaders Mrs. Lee Gable and Mrs. Dale Toop. Dues were paid.

During the patrol meeting, members said the flag salute and conducted a court of honor. Leaders handed out the troop crest. Badges were discussed and will be worked on at the next meeting, scheduled for this Tuesday at the fire hall at 3:45 p.m.

Tammy Brudigan, news reporter.

Revue Held
A ladies revue was held Wednesday afternoon at the Winside Public Library. Plans were made to meet the third Wednesday from 7 to 3 p.m., beginning Jan. 19.

The revue is for women of the Winside community who are interested in reading.

Attending Wednesday's meeting were Mrs. Warren Holmgren, Mrs. Kent Jackson, Mrs. Jo Thompson, Mrs. Duane Thompson.

Nine Attend Hunter Safety Course

The first meeting of a Hunter's Safety Course was held Tuesday night at the Hoskins Fire Hall with nine attending. Instructor is Orville Brockmeier.

The course is locally sponsored by the Aid Association for Lutherans in cooperation with the Nebraska Game Commission.

Two films, entitled "Sweet Sundays Gone" and "Learning to Hunt," were shown at Tuesday's meeting. A second meeting was held Thursday evening and two more films were presented.

The third and final meeting will be this Tuesday night. Ben Schole of the Nebraska Game Commission will show slides.

Garden Club
 Eleven members and one guest, Mrs. Elmer Peter, were present for the Tuesday meeting of the Town and Country Garden Club. Members met with Mrs. A. Bruggeman for a 2 p.m. dessert luncheon.

Mrs. Lyle Marotz opened the meeting with a poem, entitled "Before." Members answered roll call by telling what they plan to do for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Mary Koltath was elected president for the coming club year. Other new officers are Mrs. Art Behmer, vice president, and Mrs. George Langenberg, secretary-treasurer.

Names were drawn for hostesses for 1977 meetings. Mrs. A. Bruggeman gave the comprehensive on the meadow lark and Mrs. George Langenberg had the lesson on house plant ferns. She displayed several varieties.

Date for the group's December meeting has been changed to Monday, the 13th, with Mrs. Emelia Walker for a 1:30 p.m. dessert luncheon and Christmas gift exchange.

Pinocle Played
 The Pinocle Dinner club met in the Emil Feddern home last Tuesday night. Card prizes went to Lester Kleinsang and Mrs. Marvin Schroeder, high, and Mrs. Marwin Schroeder, and Mrs. Clint Reber, second high.

Next meeting will be a Christmas dinner at the Villa Inn in Norfolk, followed with cards in the Emil Feddern home.

21 Meet for Cards

Twenty-one members of the Elders' Club met last Wednesday night at the fire hall to play pitch.

Prizes were awarded to Wally Brubaker and Mrs. Carl Wittler, high, and Art Behmer and Mrs. Ed Winter, second high. Mrs. Carl Wittler and Mrs. Kathryn Black were on the coffee committee.

Next meeting will be Dec. 1, Mrs. Edwin Ulrich and Mrs. Ed Meierhenry are in charge of arrangements.

Meet Wednesday
 The Medical Mission Sewing Group of the Trinity Lutheran Aid met in the Arthur Behmer home Wednesday. Members spent the afternoon sewing articles for the African Mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Davids, Kurt, Paul, Scott and Kory, of Hoskins, and Imogene Svenson of Stanton were dinner guests Wednesday evening in the Irvy Svenson home at Stanton, honoring Bettyr Davids of Topeka, Kan.

Rick Davids family attended the Nov. 13 wedding of Mary Svenson and Don Carroll at Stanton. Mrs. Davids is a cousin of the bride.

The Art Retzblaffs of Lynch were visitors Nov. 14 in the Howard Fuhrman home.

Mrs. Walter Koehler left Tuesday for California to be with her sister, Mrs. Hilda Schiecht, who is seriously ill in a Los Angeles hospital.

Weekend Visit
 The Norman Andersons and the Jerry Stanleys spent the weekend in the John Ammon home, Bassett.

Attend Baptism
 The Erick Nelsons and the James Clarksons attended the baptism of their great grandson, John Douglas, infant son of the Douglas Cunninghams, Wausa. It was held last Sunday at the Tabor Lutheran Church's morning worship with the Rev. Whitebread officiating.

They all joined other relatives for dinner in the Cunningham home following the service.

Host is Honored
 Birthday guests in the Erick Nelson home Wednesday evening in honor of the host were the Jim Nelsons, the Cliff Stallings, the Glen Rices, the Ervin Kreamers and the Dean Nelsons, Wisner.

New officers elected are Shirley Kleinsang, president; Kevin Marotz, vice president; Sherri Marotz, secretary and Jon Meierhenry, treasurer.

Leaders, the Harold Wittlers, and Dennis Puls, presented year pins and achievement certificates to the members. Three new members were welcomed into the club. They are Paul Davids, Russell Puls and Terry Bronzynski.

Plans were made for the next meeting, Dec. 6, which will be a Christmas party at the Firehall. Marlin Strate, news reporter.

Churches Planning Services

Carroll churches have announced plans to hold church services in observance of Thanksgiving.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, served by the Rev. G. W. Gottberg, will hold services Thanksgiving day at 9 a. m. The Presbyterian and Congregational Church will hold a joint Thanksgiving service Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the Congregational Church. The Rev. Gail Axen is pastor.

The United Methodist Church held its Thanksgiving service, including special music, Sunday at 7:30 p. m., followed with a fellowship hour. Al Ehlers of Wayne delivered the message.

Plan Party

Members of the Happy Workers Social Club made plans for their annual Christmas party when they met Wednesday in the Russell Hall home. Mrs. Anna Hansen was hostess and eight attended.

The Christmas party and $1 gift exchange will be held Dec. 15 in the Myron Larsen home, Winside, at 8 p. m. Husbands will be guests.

Entertainment Wednesday consisted of pitch. Prizes were won by Mrs. Cliff Rohde, Mrs. Adolph Rohlf and Mrs. Lena Rethwisch.

Meet Monday

The Lyle Conninghams were hosts last Monday evening for the Pirotoche Club with all members attending. Prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eddie.

The Nov. 30 party will be in the Russell Hall home.

November Birthday Mrs. Tom Bowers was honored for her birthday Sunday afternoon when guests were the Herb Wills family of Winside.

Mrs. John Bowers and family, Jeanine and Jim Harmer, the Bernie Bowers of Winside and Mrs. Opal Bowers of Norfolk.

Monday supper guests in the Herb Wills home, honoring Mrs. Bowers' birthday, were the Tom Bowerses, Mrs. Don Harmer, Jeanine and Jim and Mrs. John Bowers and family.

Dorcas Society

The Dorcas Society of the Methodist Church met last Wednesday in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. Ruby Duncan and Mrs. Charles Whitney had the devotions, entitled "Let Each Day Begin With Prayer."

Mrs. Louise Boyce read a poem, "Let The Old Portrait Burn." It was announced that crafts made by the group will be displayed on a table at the annual Christmas party of United Methodist Women on Dec. 8.

Mrs. Ruby Duncan had the closing prayer and Mrs. Louise Boyce served. There will be no Dorcas meet in December. Mrs. Perry Johnson will serve at the next meeting in January.

part. The lesson, "Be Your Own Best Friend," was given by Mrs. Jones.

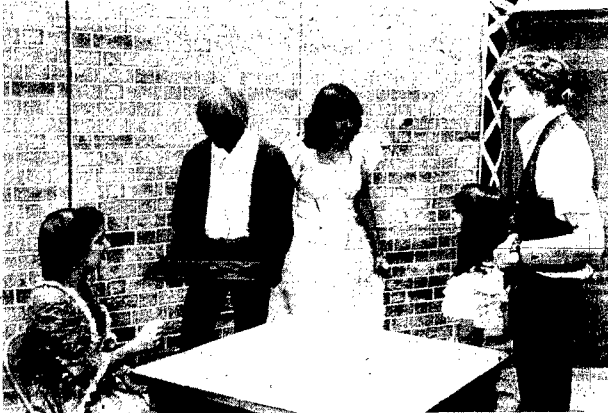

Plans were made for the annual Christmas supper and gift exchange on Dec. 14.

The Charles Whitneys attended funeral services in Bloomfield Monday for Mrs. Belle Whitney, a cousin of Charles.

Scott and Valerie Jenkins of Schaller, Ia. spent last week in the home of their grandparents, the Melvin Jenkinases. The Gary Jenkinases came to get their children and spent the weekend.

Mrs. Will Davis of Stromsburg is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Esther Batten. Mrs. Batten returned home Nov. 11 from Providence Medical Center in Wayne where she underwent surgery. Mrs. Jim Jenckes of Sonora, Calif., spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Batten.

Mrs. Ervin Wittler, Mrs. Lynn Loom and Mrs. Edward Fork visited Mrs. Anna Paulsen of Carroll at the New Haven Rest Home in Coleridge. The ladies presented Mrs. Paulsen with a plant on behalf of the Carroll Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 3019.

'Curtain Goin' Up'

Winside Girl Is UNL Tech Honor Student

Patricia L. Holtgrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Holtgrew, Winside, is one of 41 University of Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture students who was named to the Honor Roll for the fourth quarter of instruction.

Selection is based on grades and on a personal adjustment rating. Minimum requirements are a grade average of B or above and a personal adjustment rating of 3.0 overall average on a 4.0 scale.

In addition, Patricia was also commended for her perfect attendance record for the quarter.

Dad's Helpers

The Dad's Helpers 4 H Club held its organizational meeting last Monday evening in the Dixon Methodist church basement.

Newly elected officers are Verlin Hanson, president; Anette Fritschen, vice president; Anite Fritschen, secretary; Tom Dalton, treasurer; and Monica Hanson, news reporter. New members are Sandy and Ronnie Manz, Doanna Livengood, Tom Dalton, Nancy Dempster and Craig Hanson.

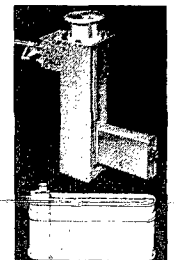

Leader Marvin Hartman presented information on feeding market beef. Premiums were given out for the completed 1976 projects and the new 1977 projects were discussed. Lunch was served by the Dempsters and the Thomases.

The next meeting will be Dec. 12 at 2:30 p. m. for a Christmas party and gift exchange. It will be followed by a family chili supper at 5 p. m. at the North-east Station, sponsored by the officers' families.

Monica Hanson, news reporter.

Irrigation target: Corners
Only way: Valley Corner System

If you can make money with an ordinary center pivot, you can make a lot more with a Valley Corner System. That's because total cost per acre is equal to or less than ordinary center pivots and you are putting idle acres into production for profit. In a square quarter, 150 acres versus 131. In a long rectangle, 165 acres versus 131. On odd-shaped fields, it may be the only efficient way. VALLEY.
