Providence Medical Center To Have New Administrator

Hospital advisory board members learned Monday night that Providence Medical Center (PMC) in Wayne will be getting a new administrator effective Jan. 1.

Charles Thomas announced that he would be resigning his position Dec. 31 to become administrator of Our Lady of Lourdes hospital in Norfolk.

Sister Therese Koch, administrator of Our Lady of Lourdes since 1952, will trade jobs with Thomas and become PCM administrator. Both hospitals are operated by the Missionary Benedictine Sisters.

Thomas made the announcement during a Christmas party sponsored by the Benedictine Sisters and PMC for members of the hospital advisory board and their spouses.

Thomas became administrator of the now-defunct Wayne Hospital on Oct. 1, 1966. He became administrator of Providence Medical Center when the new hospital opened in September 1975. Prior to moving to Wayne he was a business manager and assistant administrator at Sacred Heart hospital in Le Mars, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have two children, Chuck, 13, and Jim, eight.

Thomas said he isn't certain yet when the family will move to Norfolk but said he might maintain his residence in Wayne for a period after changing jobs.

Fund Drive Tops $12,000 Mark

The Wayne United Way fund campaign had $12,340 in gifts and pledges reported, as of Tuesday.

"The goal of $13,000 is within reach," United Way board chairman Dick Manley said. "If all campaign workers can find time in this busy season to complete their visits, we will go over the top."

Business Shows Slight Upswing

Business activity in Nebraska improved modestly from July to August, according to a report published in the December issue of "Business in Nebraska."

"This improvement is reflected at the national level as well as at the state level. Nebraska's economy continues to inch forward after a very slight slowdown in the second quarter.

Writing in "Business in Nebraska," Duane Hackmann points out that the Nebraska output index (physical volume) increased to 134.5 of the 1967 level in August 1976. This compares to the July level of 133.3, a nine-tenths of one per cent increase for August 1976, over the previous month.

The increase in output from the July 1976 figures is centered in the distributive sector. This trend was noted in data for Nebraska and the U.S. Retail sales were usually strong in Nebraska during August of 1976.

Revisions in the wage and salary data, extending back to 1974, have raised Nebraska's growth rate slightly above the level previously reported. Total real output for the interval January through July of 1976 was revised upward to four per cent (from 3.5 per cent as reported last month), above the same period a year ago. The greatest changes occurred in the distributive sector where the revisions were upward nearly one percentage point. The government sector was also revised upward. These data revisions indicate a somewhat stronger Nebraska economy than was previously recorded.

Preliminary data for August reveals a small upturn in the Nebraska's manufacturing sector. At the end of August the bureau's indexes of real output in manufacturing in the state and the nation had recovered all but about three per cent of their pre-recession level.

Construction activity in Nebraska increased about 4.3 per cent from July to August. Allowance has been made for an See BUSINESS, page 10

Walthill Man To Begin Serving Jail Sentence

A 19-year-old Walthill man, Jim Fahrenholz, was sentenced to 90 days in jail after he was found guilty of two counts of assault and battery.

District Judge George Districk handed down the decision sustaining an earlier decision by judge Joseph Hunker in county court.

Fahrenholz' attorney Duane Schroeder of Wayne, filed the appeal in district court after Fahrenholz and a companion, James Tarhume, were found guilty during a hearing in April.

Both were charged with assault and battery following an incident at Wayne High School involving two students.

Fahrenholz, who was given credit for 10 days served in jail while awaiting trial, will begin serving the remainder of his sentence Monday, Jan. 3.

Winside Teachers File Petition on Negotiations

The Wayne County Education Association Thursday filed a petition with the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations in hopes of settling contract negotiations for the 1976-77 school year, a court spokesman said Monday.

The association, made up of Winside elementary and high school teachers, and the Winside school board were unable in May to agree on contract terms. The negotiations reached impasse and a three-man committee including attorneys for both parties and a third, impartial, member convened in an attempt to resolve the differences but were unsuccessful.

A Wayne State College professor, Dr. Arvid Emery, was the impartial member invited to both parties to sit on the committee.

A court spokesman said no date has been set for a hearing on the contract dispute, pending a reply to the petition by the school board, but said it could be a month before the case is heard.

Items included in the petition to be settled are tenure, conditions of appointment, base salary and index salary schedule.

The current base salary under terms of the settlement for 1975-76 is $7,500 a year for a first-year teacher. Teachers receive a four per cent increase above base for each year of teaching experience and a four per cent increase above base for each nine months of college credit beyond a bachelor's degree.

Accreditation Rule Pending

No decision has yet been made by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) regarding accreditation of Wayne State College graduate teacher education programs, college president Dr. Lyle Seymour said Monday.

The Wayne Herald said in its Monday issue, quoting an article from the Sloux City Journal, that the NCATE had decided to remove approval of the programs. Dr. Seymour Monday clarified the situation regarding accreditation.

An NCATE visitation team earlier this year reviewed a self-evaluation prepared by WSC staff members, and compared it with practices observed while on campus.

Dr. Seymour said conversation with the visitation team, made up of educators from other schools, indicated that WSC was "in good shape."

The visitation team mailed its report to an evaluation board, which in turn reviewed the report. The evaluation board then recommended to NCATE that accreditation be denied for graduate programs in elementary, secondary, and counselor education, Seymour said, but the council has not yet made a decision on the matter.

The initial news reports indicated that WSC has "appealed" the decision. Dr. Seymour said no appeal has been filed because no decision has been made. WSC has asked for another review of the visitation team report by a second evaluation board, independent of the first evaluation board.

Seymour said evaluation board reports will be considered by NCATE at a meeting Jan. 12 in Chicago, not Jan. 24 and 25 in Memphis as indicated by news stories. Dr. Seymour said the council meets at a number of locations and on various dates and that there probably is a meeting in Memphis on these dates. He said, however, that he has received a letter from Dr. Rolf Larson, NCATE director, indicating that the NCATE council will review the WSC case in Chicago on Jan. 12.

Seymour also said the college has no role in selecting evaluation board members as was indicated in news stories. He added that the college can reject members of the visitation team, but has no role in selecting team members.

Weather Is Spring-Like As WSC Graduates 109

A rare December heatwave made the day spring-like for 109 graduates at Wayne State College Saturday. President Lyle Seymour was reluctant to dub the commencement "winter" graduation as the temperatures soared in the 60's.

Main speaker for the ceremonies, Dr. William Fuller, stressed the meaning of graduation to the crowd numbering around 1,200. In his address "Commencement: A Beginning or an Ending," he stressed that graduation is not the time to stop growing.

"It is the end of one education cycle, he felt, but by no means the end of a lifelong educational process. He compared the continual growth to a mountain climber who vanished on his upward track.

When last seen he was still climbing, Fuller said. Fuller is the new executive director of the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Post Secondary Education. He took office Nov. 1.

Students from Wayne County receiving high honors included Catherine Cook of Carroll, who graduated summa cum laude with a perfect 4.0 grade average. Miss Cook, who majored in business, received a bachelor of science degree.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cook of Carroll and a 1973 graduate of Wayne Carroll High School. Sally McNeill of Wayne received a master of science in Education degree with majors in elementary education and special learning disabilities. Formerly Sally Ramm, she is married to Richard McNeill of Wayne.

Mrs. McNeill received her B.A.E. from Wayne State College in 1972. She is a graduate of See GRADUATION, page 10

'How Much Did Ya Get'

AFTER Santa Claus handed out the bags full of candy Sunday night, it was time for youngsters at St. Mary's grade school to dig in and see just how much of St. Nicholas gave. Scott Sherer and Mary Pat Gross didn't waste any time finding out after their performance during the school's Christmas program. "Oh boy," were the words the youngsters shouted before they started munching on the sweets. Parents of the youngsters are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sherer and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gross, all of Wayne.

State Eagles Want Wayne Club

Wayne area residents will be invited sometime in January to form an Eagles club in Wayne.

Robert Carlson of Blair, state Eagles president, said notices will be published in The Wayne Herald in January, inviting residents of Wayne County and the surrounding area to attend organizational meetings at which the function of the Eagles organization will be explained.

Norfolk Man Found Dead

A 69-year-old Norfolk man was found dead in his vehicle after it left Highway 15 on the north edge of Wayne shortly before 6 a.m. Monday.

According to the Wayne County sheriff's office the man was identified as Oscar Hendrickson, who was driving a star-route mail truck when his truck went off the east side of the highway near Fredrickson Oil Co. and into a corn field, a witness said.

An autopsy was to be performed to determine the cause of death.

ganizational meetings at which the function of the Eagles organization will be explained.

Carlson said he has previously approached the Wayne city council about organizing an Eagles Club in Wayne, although the presentation was informal, taking place before the regular council meeting had convened.

Carlson said negotiations for purchase of the building at 119 Main St., which formerly housed the ASCS office, are underway. Closing the purchase deal is pending an update of the building abstract, Carlson said. The state Eagles president said he will purchase the building personally and the Wayne Eagles chapter, if formed, would be able to buy the building from him if members decide to do so.

Eagles clubs in other communities sponsor weekend dances, suppers and other community activities. Carlson said. He added that if a club is formed in Wayne, the city council would be asked to grant it a liquor license. He emphasized that Eagles clubs sell alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises only and do not sell carry-out liquor or beer.

A number of people in Wayne have already endorsed institution of an Eagles club in Wayne, Carlson said, including mayor Freeman Decker.

The Eagles motto is "People Helping People," in addition to entertainment activities, the Eagles support a number of charities including the Max Baer Heart fund, the Jimmy See EAGLES, page 10

Shorty's Shop Is Full of Memories

Walking into Leonard "Shorty" Hallett's barber shop in Carroll is like taking a step into the past.

Several pieces of furniture and pictures dating back to the early 1900's adorn the shop, located adjacent to the Carroll fire hall.

"There's enough stuff in here to make any antique buff happy," Hallett said with a smile.

Hallett, who last week marked his 45th year in the hair-cutting business, vividly recalls See SHORTY, page 10

THE BARBER shop business has given Shorty, left, a lot of memories over the past 45 years. Last week the Carroll barber marked his 45th year cutting hair. In the chair as Shorty enters his 46th year is Richard Sands of rural Carroll.

City Preparing One- and Six-Year Plan

Wayne Street superintendent Vern Schulz Monday said he would be presenting a list of proposed street improvement projects to some city council members individually in preparation for submitting the city's one- and six-year street improvement plan for 1976-77.

Allen Driver Escapes Injury

An Allen man escaped injury Friday afternoon when a farm truck loaded with gravel he was operating tipped over near the junction of Highways 35 and 98.

The driver, 24-year-old Jerome Roberts, told State Trooper Dave Headley of Wayne he was northbound on 35 when the brakes failed as he attempted to stop. Roberts tried to make a right hand but lost control and tipped over on his left side. Damage to the truck was moderate.

The city council had scheduled a special meeting last Wednesday to begin work on the plan but only three members, Carolyn Filmer, John Vokac, and Keith Mosley were able to attend.

Without a quorum, the three members were unable to take any action on the plan but did discuss proposed street improvement projects. Schulz said he would compile a list of proposed projects to be included in the plan and would talk individually with members who did not attend the meeting.

If it doesn't appear that there are any major objections to the list of projects, the plan will be presented to the city planning commission Jan. 3. The commission will return the plan with recommendations. The council will then come up with a final proposal, and present it at a public hearing sometime in January before taking action to approve a final plan.

Schulz said Monday that if there appeared to be disagreement after the plan was presented to council members, the one- and six-year plan would be included as an item on the agenda for the Dec. 28 council meeting so that differences can be resolved.

The first one-third of the amount received is an outright grant with no matching funds required. The city must match on a dollar-for-dollar basis the second one-third of the state allocation. The city matches one dollar for every two dollars received as the last one-third of the allocation.

Deadline for sending the plan to the state is March 1. Nebraska municipalities are required to submit one- and six-year plans in order to receive an allocation of state tax money to be used for street improvement.

Wayne last year received $116,370.24. Schulz said estimates of amounts to be received by each city in Nebraska will be released in January. He predicted the city will receive about $120,000 for fiscal 1976-77 if the allocation of funds follows the trend of recent years.

The street superintendent said the one- and six-year plan is designed to include a list of all street improvement projects which city officials think need to be done. The plan is not binding, however, the cities are not required to complete projects listed in accordance with any set of priorities. Also, cities can undertake projects not listed on the plans as needs arise.

Projects listed on the draft of the plan which Schulz intended to present to council members Monday include: See STREET PLAN, page 10

International Faces Light-Up Wayne State President's Home

The Lyle Seymour home sparkled last Wednesday with Christmas decor, good food, and the faces of 12 international students, who joined the Wayne State College president and his wife for a pre-Christmas celebration.

Signing the guest book, the students listed their home countries, not their hometowns. And the range was widespread — from Indonesia, to Liberia, from Kenya to Palau.

All the students attend Wayne State and are members of the Foreign Student Association on campus. Faculty members Dr. J. S. Johar and his wife, originally from India, and Maria Grovas from Cuba, also attended the dinner.

Johar and Dr. Grovas both sponsor the Foreign Student Association, along with Dr. Allen O'Donnell of Wayne State.

The Seymour's international guests and their countries were: Linda Adelbal, Evelyn Tkel and Erica Tufli, all of Palau Island; Sarni Sultipto and Tim Sley, both of Indonesia; Cyril Lurley of Liberia; Shem Videdi and Charles Kagochi, both of Kenya; Enrique Guevara of Panama City, Central America, and Rowland Talla, Jimmy Iyavot and Dick Usanga, all of Nigeria.

Members of the Foreign Student Association not in attendance were Frances Dizon of the Philippines; Sampson Ymoren of Nigeria; Shu Min Tsal and Wing Tang, both of China, and Margaret Yew of Indonesia.

The first time for such an international get-together, Mrs. Seymour said she felt the evening was interesting and fun for everyone. "I think we'll do it every year," she said. "The students seemed to enjoy it."

Cyril Lurley is president of the Foreign Students Association. Other officers are Margaret Yew, vice president; Dick Usanga, secretary, and Linda Adelbal, treasurer.

In an 8 p.m. ceremony Dec. 10 at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne, Brenda Lynn Gaunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Gaunt of Wayne, became the bride of Blane Rubeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Rubeck of Carroll.

The bride appeared at her father's side in a floor-length Ivory Christian Dior design which she fashioned. The gown featured a pleated full skirt, empire waistline, round neckline, pleated bodice sleeves and a hood. Ecru rose point lace accented the waist, hood and sleeve edges. She carried bronze pompons, Robin Aby roses and white roses, accented with a brown leaf and baby's breath.

The bride's attendants were identically gowned in floor-length, rust portofino frocks. The hooded, A-line caftans featured deep V-necklines, tucked bodice inset and long, full sleeves. They wore baby's breath in their hair. The matron of honor carried a white rose and the bridesmaid's carried a Robin Aby rose.

MR. AND MRS. BLANE RUBECK

Designed to help couples enrich their relationships, the second in a series of four one-half hour television shows, entitled "In Touch," will be aired tonight (Thursday) over the Nebraska ETV network.

This week's program will focus on "Shared Meaning."

Kathy Klahn, area home extension agent, said couples are encouraged to watch the program whether they missed the first of the series or not. "The program will show how conflict occurs in a relationship and how it can be worked out," she said.

Film clips of couples in conflict situations begin the program. Dr. Ron Daly, extension family life specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and his wife, Donna, present a "communications model" which demonstrates why conflicts occur in a relationship.

For persons who miss tonight's program, the show will be repeated at 11:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The series was developed under the direction of the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service. It is part of the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Club program, "Enriching Family Relationships, Impact '77."

Plenty of Action

winces in pain as he skids along the floor after losing the ball on a fast break in action between the Gators and Wayne. Wayne's Jon Ley (23) hustled back and broke up the fast break. In other action at Wisner, Wayne's Tom Ginn (35) appears to be trying to punt the ball but in reality he is just pulling down a rebound and making sure no one gets too close. Wisner won that contest, 73-60.

Turnovers Halt Wayne's Rally Attempt

Three quarters of turnovers were just too much for Wayne High girls to overcome Monday night as Stanton held on in the final stanza for a 37-29 victory. The hosts scored 10 points each in the first three frames for a 30-14 lead while coach Curt Frye's Wayne club tried to shake off the giveaways which prevented Wayne from getting back into the contest. Finally in the last period, Frye put his club into a pressing defense where Wayne turned the tables and forced Stanton to give up the ball on turnovers and allowed the Blue Devils to loss in 15 points. "I guess that's what we need to do to get warmed up," Frye said referring to Wayne's use of the press more often in future games. Percentage-wise, Wayne was better from the field, making 14 of 28 tries for 50 per cent compared to 26 per cent for Stanton. The difference? Stanton put up 61 shots, making 17.

"All that first half we had bad passes and just couldn't get the offense going," Frye reflected. Leading pointmaker for Wayne was Sydney Mosley with 10. Julie Overin led rebounding with 11 of the team's 39 caroms. Two bright spots for Wayne Monday were wins by the junior varsity and the freshmen. The trosh posted an easy 21-7 decision in their opening game of the season. Jean Kohl led Wayne with eight points while Stacy Jacobmeier has six, Leslie Boyd, Diane Lindsay, Chris Harm had two each and Shelly Davis one. The B team also landed its first win in three starts by topping the home team 27-12. The varsity will take its 0-3 record into the Wayne State Holiday Tournament on Wednesday, Dec. 29, when it faces Ord in the first game of the high school girls' division.

'Wide-Eyed' Wildkittens Heading for Chadron

After a two-week "no game" lapse, the Wayne State women cagers should be wide-eyed for large scale tournament action at Chadron, December 28-30. The Wildkittens head to the pine ridge competition carrying a 4-2 record, the latest split a loss to Westmar 93-74.

Chadron's three-day affair is the largest in the college's 13 year existence. It's also the largest in the Midwest and in the United States. It is believed. Sixteen college teams and 32 high school squads will be participating in the tournament.

And for the first time in the tournament's history, women are included in the 72-game event. First on the Wayne State agenda is a battle with South Dakota Tech of Rapid City at 7:50, Dec. 28.

The winner here will vie the victor of a Kearney State-Panhandle (Goodwell, Okla.) game. Losers will go against losers.

Other women's teams included in the tournament are Peru Stat. Mt. Marty of Yankton, S.D., Chadron State and Northern See WILDKITTENS, page 6

Locals Win in Double Overtime

In double overtime Monday night Wayne's eighth grade cagers defeated host Laurel by the score of 37 to 29.

With the scored tied at 29 all at the end of regulation time, neither club could muster any scoring in the first extra-play period. But in the second overtime, Wayne got the scoring leadership from a number of players to tie down the team's first win against a solo loss.

Jerre Morris led the winners with 15 points while Kevin Nissen added 10 for the only two Wayne players in double figures. Also scoring for Wayne were Todd Heler and Steve Koll with four each, and Doug Proett and Tim Pfeiffer with two each.

For Laurel, Scott Norvell was the leader with seven points. He was followed by Jeff Anderson with six, Kevin Erwin and Joe Olson with five each, Mat Johnson with four and Bryan Buss with two.

2 WH Matmen Take Firsts At Pender

Kirk Echtenkamp and Kelly Hansen captured first-place medals to guide Wayne High to fourth place in the eight-team Pender Invitational Saturday.

Echtenkamp won the 119-pound division and Hansen won the 138-pound crown as the Blue Devils of coach Don Koenig collected 8 1/2 points.

Wisner-Pilger finished on top with 14 1/2 points while Pender was second with 122. Plainview third with 99 1/2. Also competing were teams from Columbus Lakeview, Howells, Osmond and Stanton.

Taking second for Wayne was Kelly Hansen at 98. Heavyweight Randy Davie was third and 112-pound David Shock took fourth.

Wildkittens —

Colorado of Greeley.

Coach G.L. Willoughby of Wayne is sending an able starting crew to the late December event. They are: Connie Kunzmann, six foot junior from Evely, Ia. A continual top point maker for Wayne, Connie chalks up 128 points on her six-game spree.

Games against UNL and SDSU highlight her scoring efforts — in both she contributed 30 points each. Also head rebounder, Kunzmann's rebounder hits 100 after six games.

Also starting in tournament action will be Pat McKay of Knoxville, Ia. Following Kunzmann on the scoring list, the 6'2" sophomore holds 81 total points, averaging 14 per game.

Other starters include Julie Brinkman of Rohlf, Ia. a junior guard, high in free throws for Wayne. Also on the starting list are Lori Althelstadt, a player from Hampton, Ia., who's perking up for Wayne.

Ellie Studer of Mallerd, Ia., is number five on the starting list, a steady contributor to the Wayne team in all aspects.

The Wildkittens should be psyched up for tournament action, says coach Willoughby. After a Christmas rest, and a break from finals and studies, there should be "no outside things to bother them" she says.

Willoughby feels mental preparation is important for the Wildkittens and the girls should not underestimate opponents. She cited improvement in offense and team work with four girls in double scoring figures

Knights Rip Eagles, 63-36

Homer employed a fast break and a strong rebounding game Friday night to dump Lewis and Clark Conference foe Allen, 63-36, at Homer.

Led by three players in double figures, the Knights ripped the nets for 26 of 40 attempts for 45 per cent while the Eagles mustered only 14 baskets out of 42 tries for 33 per cent.

Paul Tighe poured in 19 points, Gall Jensen had 16 and Dave Jenkins followed with 15 during the Knights' strong in its home.

Homer cleared 45 caroms to 25 for Allen.

Backstop / Bob Bartlett

A SLUG of high school and college basketball tournaments will take up the slack in the sports scene during the next week and a half while classes are dismissed for the holidays.

Monday night three area high school teams jump right into the flurry of play. Laurel goes to the four-team Randolph tournament to face Valentine in the first contest at 7 o'clock. The other contest at 8:30 has Randolph going against Pierce.

Also Monday night, Allen and Wake field once again collide, this time in the four-team Holiday Tournament at Emerson-Hubbard. The area rivals clash at 6:30, followed by the Emerson-Pender match.

Finals of both tournies are scheduled for Tuesday night.

Tuesday also marks the beginning of the eight-team boys division of the Wayne State Holiday Tournament, which included Wayne High. The Blue Devils take on Ord in the final game of the night at 8:30. Prior to that matchup St. Edward faces West Holt at 4 o'clock. South Sioux City meets David City Acquinas at 5:30 and Walthill plays Bloomfield at 7.

Still in the high school ranks, Wayne High and Laurel gets get in their share of action during the first high school girls division of the college meet. The locals play Ord at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday and Laurel goes against St. Edward at 4.

All finals are scheduled for Thursday.

Turning to the college division, Wayne State's Wildkittens go on the road to Chadron State for its holiday meet, scheduled to start Tuesday. Meanwhile, the men will take on Luther College of Iowa. Wednesday night at 8:30 in the second game of the Wildcats' Holiday meet, Earlier at 2 p.m. Buena Vista takes on Bellevue.

I USUALLY don't comment about how officials and referees work a prep contest because it's a tough, thankless job. But I can't overlook Friday night's performance by two officials who worked the Laurel-Emerson game at Emerson-Hubbard High.

To say the least, it was one of the poorest jobs of officiating I've seen in this part of the state. The game closely resembled a professional basketball battle where referees seldom blow their whistle unless there's a flagrant foul.

Because the game was allowed to get out of control, players from both teams were hacking each other and committing other unnecessary fouls.

When a game gets that out of hand, there's bound to be an injury or two somewhere, and sure enough it happened late in the game. Laurel's Tim Harrington collided with an Emerson player, sending Harrington to the floor with a deep gash over his left eye.

Both coaching staffs and fans agreed afterwards that the pair did an extremely poor job. The Emerson fans went one step further by collecting donations to pay off a contract the school had for a future game to be officiated by them.

I hope we don't see anymore officiating like that again. Enough said.

was able to hold St. Edward to 37-14 and Clarks to 32-12.

This season Paul started out with two freshmen, five sophomores, five juniors and six seniors. He expects next season to be another rebuilding year, especially in the backfield, but hopes some promising sophomores will take up the slack.

Denny had two players make the all-conference team, including rusher Tim Kayten who gained 1,065 yards. Paul adds that what makes Kayten's total even more impressive is the fact that he missed a game. Dan Braun was another all-conference selection from Cedar who led the defense with 102 assists, 70 unassists.

In a closing note Denny said his junior varsity went undefeated this season to capture the conference JV title.

MAIL CALL: Denny Paul, former Wakefield resident and now football coach at Cedar Rapids High School, writes that his debut in the high school ranks was a tough one. Cedar finished winless in nine starts in the tough Goldenrod Conference which sported two powerhouses, St. Edward, the eventual state Class C-2 champion, and Clarks.

Denny pointed out that both clubs averaged 50 points a game, but his club

Mankato State Tankers Sink Wildcats in Dual 32 Turnovers Hamper 'Cats At Hartington

Wayne State swimmers began their season Tuesday against a traditional foe that usually comes late in the schedule. However, the change in timing did not change the usual outcome of Wayne duals with Mankato State, one of the nation's better tank teams.

The Minnesotans won for the 11th time in 12 meets, this time by 65.42.

Wayne coach Ralph Barclay said the score does not really reflect Mankato's mastery of the young Wildcat team. Mankato chose to swim four events "exhibition," thus not claiming any points, as swim teams often do when they have enough points to win and do not want to run up the score.

Actually, said Barclay, the score would have been something like 90-18, had the Indians gone for points in all events.

The Wildcat squad is made of mostly freshmen and a few sophomores. The only letterman is senior Scott Driscoll, who won Wayne's only legitimate first against Mankato, in the 200 butterfly. Unfortunately, Barclay noted, Driscoll is graduating this term. Several veteran swimmers are not competing.

Next on the Wayne schedule: a Jan. 14 dual at South Dakota State.

Hartington High scored 31 points on 32 Winside turnovers Friday night to bomb the Wildcats, 66-24, in a Lewis and Clark Conference match at Hartington.

Leading the home team was 6-8 Dan Lucht with 19 points. Senior Cliff Tillema was the top performer for Winside with 11 points and five rebounds.

Hartington used a full court press which hampered Winside's guards from bringing the ball across court in time resulting in the high number of turnovers, said coach Sam Colvin.

Winside, 0-5, hit 32 per cent of its shots, but Hartington had the edge at 44 per cent. The home club also led on the boards, 44 caroms to 20.

Next action for Winside is Monday, Jan. 3, when the Wildcats face rugged Osmond at the Coleridge invitational.

Laurel Frosh Edge Wayne 5

Freshman Paul Guern converted the first of two free throw attempts Monday night to lift Laurel to a 34-33 thriller over Wayne freshmen.

Wayne's Stuart Nissen tied the match at 33-all with 17 seconds left when he sank a basket. Guern attempted to put up his second shot in the closing seconds when he was fouled.

For Laurel the win was its second against no defeats while Wayne is 1-1.

Also scoring: Wayne — Nissen 12, Jeff Zeiss 9, Scott Wessel 5, Steve Sorenson 4, Jeff Dion 3; Laurel — Scott Nelson 12, Randy Dunklau 6, Clark Maxon 5, Blake Maxon 4, Mark McCorkindale 4, Guern 3.

Girls Division New Wrinkle In WS' Holiday Tournament

An old basketball tournament has a new feature this year — a high school girls division in the Wayne State Christmas Holiday Tourney Dec. 28-30.

The college division of four teams is in its 19th year, the high school boys division of eight teams is in its ninth year.

Four girls quints will go into action Wednesday, the 29th: Ord and Wayne paired at 12:30, St. Edward and Laurel at 4 p.m. Winners of those games will meet for the championship at 5:30 p.m. Dec. 30; the losers going for third place at 12:30 p.m. that day.

High school boys will have Rice Gym to themselves Tuesday, the 28th, as they begin pursuit of a vacant championship. Last year's finalists, champion Omaha Cathedral and Plattsmouth are not in the field this time.

Third-place Wayne, the only returning team, is matched with Ord in the 8:30 p.m. finale Tuesday. Ahead of that the pairings go this way: St. Edward and West Holt at 4 p.m.; South Sioux City and David City Aquinas at 5:30; Walthill and Bloomfield at 7 p.m.

Winners of the first two games will clash at 5:30, Dec. 29; winners of the last two games playing next at 7 p.m. Losers of games 1 and 2 will meet at 9:30 a.m. and losers of games 3 and 4 at 11 a.m., all Wednesday.

The boys championship match is set for 7 p.m. Dec. 30; third place game at 11 a.m.; fifth place at 4 p.m.; seventh place at 9:30 a.m.

In the college division, host Wayne State is aiming for a third straight championship in a field which includes Bellevue College, last year's runnerup.

Bellevue goes against Buena Vista at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 29, and Wayne will take on Luther College in that day's 8:30 finale. Losers will settle third place starting at 2 p.m. Thursday, the 30th; the winners battling for championship at 8:30.

Buena Vista has played in the Wayne tourney twice, 1958 and 1968; Luther is making a first appearance.

Admission prices for the event: all-tourney tickets are available until the first game, at the athletic office in Rice Gym, $4 for adults, $2 for students; single day tickets, $2 for adults, $1 students; children under six free. Students of the four competing colleges can attend free with I.D.

Svoboda Leads Cats at Tourney

Junior Bryan Svoboda won the 185-pound division Saturday to lead his Winside club to a fourth-place showing in the Hooper-Logan View Invitational Saturday.

Svoboda, who upped his season mark to 8-1, pinned Terry Van Seggren of Scribner in 2:33 to help Winside gain 10 1/2 points.

Winning the meet was West Point with 137 1/2, followed by Logan View with 126 1/2, Valley with 113 1/2, Wiside, Oakland-Craig, Scribner, Leigh and Lyons.

Of the five Winside matmen who made it to the finals, four took second place. They were Rick Bowers (98), Kevin Cleveland (126), Neil Wagner (155) and LaVerle Miller (167).

Miller pulled the biggest upset of the day, according to his coach Ron Peck. On his way to the finals, he handed undefeated Steve Schmidt of West Point a 13-6 setback.

Finishing third for Winside was Brad Langenberg (145), and fourth was heavyweight Mitch Pfeiffer.

Following the holiday break Winside returns home Jan. 7-8 to host its annual invitational.

4 WS Spikers On CSIC Team

Four players on Wayne State's 1976 women's volleyball team have won selection to the All Central States Intercollegiate Conference team.

Deb Glaser, senior from Spalding, rated first-team citation along with six others. Kathleen Johnson, junior from Ithaca, is on the seven-player second team.

Jane Clark of Auburn, and Lana Peterson of Alliance, both seniors, are among 12 raring honorable mention from conference coaches.

CSIC champion Kearney State has two players on the first team; Emporia, Pittsburg, Missouri Western and Missouri Southern one each.

Of the dozen all-stars on first and second teams, only four are seniors. There are two juniors, five sophomores, three freshmen.

Wayne volleyballers finished third in the CSIC with an 8-6 record, and their season of 21-8 set a new record for Wayne victories.

Crime Rate Increase Is Slower During 1976

Serious crime in the United States rose two per cent during the first nine months of 1976 over the same period of 1975, Attorney general Edward H. Levi announced Tuesday. But he noted that violent crimes continued to decrease.

Levi said that the overall rise of two per cent compares with an increase of 11 per cent during the first nine months of 1975 over 1974. The latest nine-month figures represent the lowest increase nationally since 1973, when reported serious criminal offenses rose only one per cent over 1972.

Violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, as a group, decreased five per cent during the first nine months. Murder and robbery each decreased 10 per cent, while forcible rape and aggravated assault showed no change.

Larceny-theft was the only Crime Index offense to show an increase for the nine-month reporting period. Larceny-theft was up eight per cent, while burglary decreased five per cent and motor vehicle theft was down six per cent.

Levi noted, "There has been a steady slowing in the per cent of increase for the last nine months and it is, of course, gratifying that violent crimes as a group continue to show an absolute decrease. But the basic fact we mustn't forget is that crime still remains an urgent national problem."

The nine-month figures were contained in the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports released today by FBI director Clarence Kelley.

Kelley noted the overall crime picture for the period was significantly influenced by the large number of larceny-theft crimes reported to law enforcement. Kelley pointed out that thefts from motor vehicles and theft of motor vehicle parts and accessories, particularly, comprised 49 per cent of all reported larceny-thefts. This was an increase of 31 per cent for these two categories of larceny-theft as compared to the 1975 figures.

"The slowed growth of Crime Index offenses for the first three quarters of 1976 should, in no way, slacken our efforts in the constant struggle against crime," said Kelley. "It is too soon to determine if we have a long-term trend developing with these figures."

Kelley said the crime figures released today are based upon the number of Crime Index offenses reported to law enforcement.

The Crime Index is made up of offenses of murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated

Thought for Today

By Brian McBride

"Anything that inspires unselfishness makes for our ennoblement. Christmas does that..."

B. C. Forbes

Probably very few of us regard the frantic pre-Christmas shopping and preparations as "ennobling." The frustrations of futile searches for appropriate gifts are enough to discourage anyone. No wonder we say, "Christmas comes but once a year... Thank Goodness!"

But, because it is all inspired by giving, by unselfishness, by a desire to bring happiness to others, Christmas is a wonderful and rewarding experience. It makes us all a little better. Once a year is not really too often, is it?

We wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy Holiday Season.

Madrigal Singers Hosts For Elizabethan Dinners

The Madrigal Singers of Wayne State College can eat a meal now without dressing in costume, singing and acting. They have finished a taxing season presenting their annual Elizabethan Christmas Dinner five times in Wayne, then a final performance Wednesday at Mount Marly College, Yankton.

That series followed a tour with five performances — four of them with only the singing program and one with the complete menu, singing and the dinner at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Lincoln.

In the home series on campus, more than 900 persons attended live shows and accorded standing ovations each time. The four originally scheduled dinners were sold out, and the fifth — a Sunday matinee — likely would have drawn a capacity crowd except for its late addition, director Cornell Runeslett said.

The program, though basically unchanged in its five years, was different in script, in some of the music, and especially in one new feature. There was a jester this time. Logically, Dr. Runeslett said, because jesters had important roles in Elizabethan England.

Lance Clay, a junior from Ewa Beach, Hawaii, and a frequent performer in Wayne State plays, made an important role of the jester on this occasion. He tickled audiences with numerous lines and finally, in the concert of carols, he brought the house down with his humorous enactment of "The Twelve Days of Christmas." Even the singers chorled.

Also in a major role for the fourth year, Joe Manley of Wayne played the Herald, somewhat akin to a master of ceremonies.

Little Known Facts About How Things Get Done

Running the giant Philip Morris Manufacturing Center in Richmond, Virginia, which annually produces 140 billion cigarettes on machines turning out up to 4,000 cigarettes per minute, is made easier by a system of hierarchical computers. The operational technique allows the computers to communicate with each other while they maintain the progress of their separate manufacturing responsibilities.

Program Shares Tree Costs

This country's demand for wood is expected to exceed the supply within 30 years unless trees are planted each year and more forest land is placed under management, according to Rick Hamilton, district extension forester with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln department of forestry.

In 1973, Congress authorized the Forestry Incentive Program (FIP) to share the cost of tree planting and timber stand improvement with private landowners. The federal share of these costs is 75 per cent in Nebraska.

Lands owned by the forest industry and the public are being planted and improved at the fastest rate possible, Hamilton said. But smaller, private owners, who control the majority of forest lands, do not have the funds to make such long-term investments. The Forestry Incentive Program is designed to share expenses with these private, eligible owners.

Eligible forestry practices include tree planting and timber stand improvement, says Hamilton. Planting trees is intended to increase timber production and improve the environment. Timber stand improvement is aimed at increasing growth of trees on sites suitable for production of sawtimber and veneer logs.

Hamilton says there are some requirements a landowner must meet to be eligible for cost-share assistance:

- Own less than 500 acres of eligible forest land.
- Be a private forest landowner. An individual, group, association or corporation may be eligible if not regularly engaged in the business of manufacturing forest products or providing public utility services.

- Have land that is suitable for reforestation if not presently in trees; for reforestation or for timber stand improvement.

To get cost-share help under the Forestry Incentive Program, contact your county ASCS who administers the program, your county agent, or your district Extension forester who is responsible for the technical phases of the program.

Court to Settle Jurisdiction Question

The State College Board of Trustees Thursday filed suit in Lancaster County district court against Nebraska personnel director Roy Gardner and Gov. J.J. Exon regarding a ruling issued Dec. 9 by Gardner that a Wayne State College employee fired by the board be reinstated. WSC vice-president for academic affairs Dr. Ed Elliot initially recommended that Loren Barbe's employment as a radio and television technician be terminated, according to board of trustees executive secretary, Dr. Richard Bringelson.

That recommendation was appealed to WSC president Dr. Lyle Seymour, who upheld the recommendation. Bringelson said. The decision was then appealed before a committee of the board of trustees, which also upheld the recommendation.

Barbe then asked Gardner to review the case. Gardner complied with the request and recommended that Barbe be reinstated with back pay to his Oct. 22 termination date.

At issue in the suit filed by the board of trustees is whether or not the state personnel director has authority to review the case or issue a ruling.

The board of trustees in its court petition contends that the board of trustees is a constitutionally created authority charged with governing the state college system and that the executive branch of state government cannot delegate any portion of that authority to another state agency.

The petition cites a case decided earlier this year in which the court ruled that the legislature cannot delegate to outside agencies authority held by the Nebraska Board of Regents in governing the University of Nebraska system.

The board of trustees contends

COOKING Brilliantly HELPFUL IDEAS

There is no point in using an expensive vintage wine to flavor food for an everyday table wine either. The delicate flavor of a premier wine will be utterly lost in the cooking process. What is required for cooking is a good cooking wine. Imported Holland House Red, White, Sherry and Marsala Cooking Wines, for instance, are robust enough to retain their essential flavors during the cooking process, yet delicate enough to be savored at the eating.

Test Results Encouraging

Achievement levels of Wayne-Carroll students continue to exceed the national norm, according to the results of tests distributed Monday night to school board members.

Students in grades five through eight are tested annually. The Wayne-Carroll systems receives test results, showing how local youngsters compare with the national average.

In general, the 1976 results follow the pattern of previous years, schools superintendent Francis Haun said, with the aggregate scores for Wayne-Carroll students averaging in the 54th to 72nd percentile nationally.

"We feel that in general we're doing well," Haun said. "When the average scores for the system are well above the 50th percentile in all areas, things can't be too bad."

Half the students in the nation who took the test rank below the 50th percentile, and half rank above, Haun explained.

Haun said results of testing for use of reference sources are particularly encouraging. Scores have been rising steadily the past few years for Wayne-Carroll students. Haun attributed the improvement to intensive work by school librarians to teach students to use the library resources.

Test results, with the skill listed first, and then, the percentile average for Wayne-Carroll students, are:

— Fifth grade: composite, 64; reading, 67; language arts, 59; mathematics, 58; social studies, 62; science, 62; use of sources, 67.

— Sixth grade: composite, 67; reading, 67; language arts, 65; mathematics, 63; social studies, 64; science, 76; use of sources, 73.

Will Emphasize Sight Saving

Exhibitors from as far as Vermillion, S.D., and Storm Lake, Ia., have already reserved tables for the Wayne Lions Club flea market Nov. 20-21, chairman Charles Maier said, and more reservations are expected. Last year a total of 42 tables were reserved for the event, but the number could go higher this year. Last week 29 tables had already been spoken for.

Anyone wishing to reserve a table should write to Maier at 322 Oak Drive, Wayne.

Exhibitors will display their wares in the Wayne city auditorium from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 20, and from noon until 6 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 21.

Sight conservation is one of the primary interests of the Lions International organization and the Wayne chapter will emphasize that during the flea market. Public admission will cost 25 cents and each person attending will receive a miniature white cane.

Persons attending the flea market can also stop in for a bite to eat. The Lions Club wives will be serving meals in the Women's Club room at the auditorium.

Wayne County Lags In Retail Sales In

New taxable retail sales in Nebraska totalled $1,638 for the second-quarter period of 1976, according to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Bureau of Business Research.

The dollar volume of taxed sales represents a 17 per cent gain over the amount recorded during the corresponding period in 1975.

Retail commodity prices have increased about 4.8 per cent since the second quarter of 1975 and population has increased about one-half of one per cent. Thus, the real, or physical volume of aggregate retail sales exceeded the second quarter by percentage points, the Bureau said.

For Wayne County, retail sales in the second quarter of 1976 increased 4.8 per cent over the same period in 1975. The county's retail sales are still below the state average, the Bureau said.

Third Man Pleads Guilty To Charge of Pig Theft

District court judge George Dittrich Nov. 3 ordered a presentence investigation following a guilty plea entered by Clifford Hurlbert of Neligh on one charge of pig stealing.

Hurlbert had originally been charged with two counts of pig stealing, a felony, in connection with thefts from the Brian Kal farm May 12 and May 20. The charge stemming from the May 12 incident was dropped.

Dittrich continued Hurlbert's $2,500 bond.

Two other men had previously been sentenced in connection with related incidents of pig theft. Morris Wayman, 20, was sentenced to 24 months of probation, ordered confined in jail on weekends from Oct. 8 until Dec. 11, for a total of 20 days incarceration, was fined 200, ordered to make restitution in the amount of $849 for half the amount of the stolen property, and ordered to pay $41.50 in court costs. He had been charged with three counts of stealing pigs from Kal, for incidents on May 12, May 20, and June 4. He was sentenced for one count only.

His brother, Terry Wayman, was sentenced to 24 months probation under the May 12 count and ordered to pay $45.50 in court costs.

The brothers were also ordered to pay costs of court-appointed counsel. Both are from Pender and both were sentenced Oct. 6.

Peoples Natural Gas customers will be paying about five per cent more for gas effective Dec. 27.

The Wayne city council Tuesday night approved a rate increase requested by the natural gas distributor. Gas rates will increase by an average of 7.9 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Keith Mosley, manager of the Peoples Natural Gas district headquartered in Wayne, told the council in making the request that the company is seeking the general increase because operation costs have increased by about 15 per cent in the past year and because the company has spent about $178,000 in order to comply with federal pipe safety regulations.

Business

Increase in construction costs, but this increase is still more what smaller than usually recorded for the month. Preliminary data indicate that the construction index will improve substantially in the months to come.

Retail sales continue as one of Nebraska's strong sectors. August 1976 retail sales were nearly 14 per cent above August 1975 figures.

Overall, retail sales were proceeding at an exceptionally rapid pace and are just short of matching December 1975's record level. Barring unforeseen events, retail sales will likely set new records in 1976.

Eagles

Durant Crippled Childrens Fund, the Golden Eagles Fund, the Cancer Fund, and a state project, the Eagles Boys Ranch in Alliance.

Eagles clubs are also active in promoting community activities, Carlson said.

There are now 31 Eagles clubs in Nebraska with 27,000 members. Towns nearest to Wayne having clubs are Norfolk and West Point.

Nationally there are 1,800 Eagles clubs with 990,000 members, and there are also clubs in Canada, Mexico and England.

Carlson said he hopes the Wayne club will be able to attract members from throughout the area surrounding the community. He added that he hopes to be able to obtain 200 members initially but indicated that 150 members would be sufficient to warrant proceeding with institution of the club.

Carlson said he travels extensively throughout the state and selected Wayne as a possible site for a new Eagles club because "I think it is a good, solid community."

Shorty

what it was like during his early years as a barber.

A picture clipped from the Midwest Messenger, a monthly farm magazine, provides a reminder of those early years, Shorty said. It is a photo of another Carroll barber shop, which was operated by the late Bill Belford.

Back then, Shorty reflected, the barber business was booming because most youngsters went along with dad for a regular trip to the barber shop. Haircuts cost 25 cents then. Now the price is $2.50. Halteen doesn't think the price is unreasonable today because "a barber has to make a living, too."

It is becoming more difficult to make a living as a small town barber, Halteen confided. There aren't many young people around today, he said, mainly because there aren't as many farms as there used to be. Shorty predicted that when he retires, there won't be a barber to replace him in Carroll.

Shorty, however, isn't thinking about retirement. He plans to continue working, as does his wife, Alice, who operates a beauty shop in their home.

Shorty's career in the barber business began in 1931 in Carroll after he completed two years of training, including 18 months at Belden.

Halteen's first shop was located next to what is now Ron's Bar in Carroll. Six months later, when the WFA confided building the town fire hall and office building, Shorty moved to his current location.

Among antique furniture still in use in his shop are a wooden bench, a cash register, and a desk. Shorty indicated that the items are pretty much permanent fixtures. He doesn't plan to depart with any of the memories he has collected during the past 45 years.

While some of the fixtures in Shorty's shop haven't changed, trends in hair cutting have, the barber said, and he thinks today's styles make people look better. "If I were 20 years younger, my wife and I would open a family shop where both the husband and wife could have their hair styled at the same time," he said.

Schulz emphasized that the list includes projects which city officials think need to be done but does not indicate that any of the projects will be initiated.

State allocation funds can also be used to replace equipment used by the street department. Items, and the year to be replaced, under the proposal, are: a truck in 1977 and one in 1981, pickup trucks in 1977 and 1979, a street sweeper in 1979, and a front end loader in 1977.

Dear Friends,
It is almost 2000 years since the birth of Christ, which we commemorate as Christmas. Over all these years, there have been too few when the 'peace on earth' of Christ's yearning has been a reality. Too often we have had wars fought in His name. As we move toward the 2000th Anniversary of Christ's birth, dare we hope that Peace on Earth — Good Will to All Men, will at long last become a reality?
Sincerely,

Wayne Man Wins Prize

Kevin Frerichs of Wayne is $100 richer after he won the consolation prize in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion.

Frerichs, who was shopping in Charlie's Refrigeration store Thursday night, won the prize when it was discovered his birthday was the closest to the winning date drawn at random that night. He was born on Oct. 14, 1953, just a week away from the winning date of Oct. 7, 1953.

Had his date matched the date drawn he would have won $375 in Birthday Bucks which can be spent just like cash in any participating Wayne business. As a result of no one winning it, the grand prize will be worth $400 tonight (Thursday) when another date is drawn by a Wayne merchant or employee and announced at 8:15.

Picking last week's winning date was Gene Fredrickson of Fredrickson Oil, just on the north edge of the city.

It's easy to be a winner. No registration or purchases are necessary, but a shopper must be present in a participating business to claim the prize.

EXTENSION NOTES
By Kathy Klahn

Wrinkle resistant, crease resistant, durable press and permanent press are terms which often are used synonymously. All four terms describe fabric finishes which ease care and resist wrinkling.

The effects may be the same, but each finish is achieved through a number of different processes.

It's important to remember that permanent press is just one of these processes. Keep in mind that not all wrinkle resistant fabrics are permanent press fabrics.

Permanent press fabrics require special handling techniques when you sew them. Fabrics with other types of wrinkle resistant finishes do not have these handling problems.

Fiber content is your clue as to whether a fabric is permanent press or another wrinkle resistant finish.

If the fabric is cotton, rayon, or a blend containing over 50 per cent cotton or rayon, it probably has a permanent press finish. Some of these fabrics may be labeled "wrinkle resistant."

Feel the fabric to be sure it has a permanent press finish. It will feel stiff, and grainlines will be stable and immovable.

Permanent press fabrics will require these special handling techniques:

- Look for patterns with few seams.
- Avoid set-in sleeves since permanent press fabrics are difficult to ease.
- Do not buy off-grain fabric with any type of wrinkle resistant finish. This results in a fabric which cannot be straightened.

Doctor Bills Can Carry Over For Medicare

Doctor bills for October, November and December may in some cases count toward the $60 annual deductible for both 1976 and 1977 under the "carryover" provision of Medicare medical insurance, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

"Medicare medical insurance can't help pay for your covered medical expenses until your record shows you've had $60 in covered medical expenses in a calendar year," Branch said. "But people who haven't had $60 in covered expenses before October should be sure to send in all the bills for covered services they receive in October, November, or December."

"Any expenses you have during the last three months of the year that can be counted toward your deductible for that year can also be counted toward the deductible for the next year," he said.

The carryover rule helps people who might otherwise have to pay the $60 deductible twice in a short period of time — at the end of one year and at the beginning of the next year, Branch explained.

Bills for covered medical services should be attached to a filled-out Request for Medicare Payment form and sent to Mutual of Omaha, Request for Medicare Payment forms are available at any social security office and at many doctor's offices.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and many other medical expenses of people 65 and over, of disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many people with permanent kidney failure.

Medical insurance is the voluntary part of Medicare, funded by individual premiums and Federal general revenues. Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Barbara Winter of the Norfolk social security office will be in Wayne Dec. 28 at the Senior Citizen Center in the city hall from 9 a.m. until noon.

DON RALSTON

Help People Help Themselves

The Center of Rural Affairs has started this year as a part of the state because the people of this area wanted to do something to help others, said Center representative Don Ralston as he spoke Monday to the Wayne Kiwanis Club. Ralston said the purpose of the Center, located in Walthill, is three-fold: to help people to identify problems, raise issues and search for solutions. The most recent undertaking by the private non-profit group is helping low income farmers in Cedar County find new methods of using low energy in order to cut the costs of production. The project started in November, and with the help of contributions from various religious and private groups, it will continue over a three year period, Ralston said. Through the Center's quarterly publication, "New Land Review," the group of 16 board of directors tackles issues which concern land and people. Ralston said the idea of the publication is to make people aware of some issues which aren't in the news and will affect people.

Heating Bills Can Be Trimmed

This winter's heating bills may be trimmed by insulating, weather stripping and installing storm windows to winterize the home, according to Norman Teter, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. In insulation, it's the fluff and the air that does the job — the lighter and more air-filled, the better. The insulation value can't be increased by stuffing more insulation into a fully insulated wall, but attic insulation may be doubled and the costs will be paid in heat saving, Teter said. Six or eight inches are now economical in the attic. If windows and doors leak air, big savings result from installing window covers and by sealing the cracks around the window. Wrap the screens with polyethylene on both sides and put them back on the window for the winter. It's not pretty, but it cuts drafts out, Teter said. Polyethylene film can be sealed with a slightly warm iron. Try the heat on a scrap to get the proper sealing temperature, he advised. Butyl or latex acrylic caulks last longer and have more resilience than the insed oil caulk. Usually the more expensive caulks are worth the extra money because recaulking is not necessary the following year, the engineer said.

Weatherstripping may not be simple. For example, thresholds sometimes wear out and it is difficult to find the stripping to fit the threshold. Although it somehow does not seem right to have to buy a whole new threshold, Teter said. Coiled metal pressure strips are good weatherstrips around doors, and the felts are more often used around windows. Some homeowners are building solar collectors on their homes. They probably will not return the costs at the present prices of fuel. The average system is costing from 10 to 15 dollars per square foot by the time all the cost of ducts, fans, pumps, panes and plates are added together, the engineer said. That means there is an annual cost of two dollars a square foot. A square foot of collector will give 75,000 to 100,000 Btu for the season, an amount obtained from 22 to 29 kilowatt hours of electricity, so power has to get at least seven cents per kilowatt hour for the solar collector to compete with electrical heat, he noted. It may be better to cut the heat off in little-used parts of the home and keep the rest of the house a little cooler by lowering the thermostat. With a lowered thermostat, a bit of insulation may need to be installed around the body in the form of a sweater or other clothing for the season, Teter said. A lowered thermostat setting does reduce heat costs — about two per cent for each degree.

Nebraska Is Good State for Bankers

The banking industry is more profitable in Nebraska than nationwide, according to a study in the December issue of "Business in Nebraska," a publication of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration. The study, covering 1968 to 1975, notes that banking industry profits, while subject to considerable variation, are generally on the increase. The rising trend in profits is especially noticeable for the Nebraska banking industry, which consistently outperformed its U.S. counterpart over these eight years. Writing in "Business in Nebraska," William Gerard, of the NU Bureau of Business Research, points out that bank profits, defined as net income divided by total bank capital, were higher for Nebraska banks in every year of the study except 1968. Not only are Nebraska banks more profitable, the gap between profits for banks in this state and those for banks throughout the country appears to be increasing. U.S. banks increased their profit ratio from approximately 9.5 per cent in 1968 to 13.4 per cent in 1973. In both 1974 and 1975, the profit rate for these banks declined. By way of contrast, profits grew more rapidly for Nebraska banks. They increased from 9.1 per cent in 1968 to a peak of 16.6 per cent in 1974, before declining to 14.4 per cent in 1975. In 1975, bank profit rates in this state stood more than three percentage points higher than the return for the average U.S. bank. There are a number of factors contributing to the growing prosperity of the Nebraska banking industry. A very important variable is the success of Nebraska bankers in controlling the growth of bank costs. Outlays for wages and salaries, a sizeable cost item for banks, grew much less rapidly for Nebraska banks than they did for banks nationwide. An additional cost factor, interest expenses on borrowed money (above those interest payments to depositors) also increased less rapidly for banks within the state. The smaller reliance of most Nebraska banks upon borrowed money enable them to avoid the sizeable growth in this expense item during recent periods of high interest rates. A more rapidly expanding deposit base also contributed to the growing profitability of the Nebraska banking industry. This was especially true for the year 1968 and 1973. During that period of time, bank deposits in Nebraska grew 11.6 per cent annually in comparison to a 9.5 per cent growth rate for banks throughout the U.S. This rapid growth in deposits enabled Nebraska banks to rely less heavily upon infusions of additional bank capital in financing their growing loans and investment portfolios. Whether the Nebraska banking industry can continue to outperform banks nationwide in terms of profitability, remains questionable. If recent trends continue, the continued growth and prosperity of banks within the state will depend, in large measure, upon the industry's ability to control rising costs.

For All Your Holiday Needs

Down through the years, eggnog became the traditional drink for the Holiday seasons, not only at Christmas, but for the 4th of July, Election Day and Easter. The beverage carries a holiday symbolism which other punches do not. According to Dairy Council of Central States, it is also available ready-made for those who wish to avoid the problems connected with mixing eggnog in great quantities.

Old Fashioned Eggnog

1/2 cup Sugar
6 Eggs, separated
4 cups Milk, scalded
1/4 teaspoon Salt
2 cups Heavy Cream, whipped
2 teaspoons Vanilla
Nutmeg
Mix 1/4 cup sugar and egg yolks in top of double boiler. Slowly add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Chill. Gradually add salt and 1/4 cup sugar to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites and cream into custard separately. Add vanilla. Chill. Garnish with nutmeg. Serves 20 half-cup portions.

Leadership post contests are getting most attention from Unicameral

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — Most of Nebraska's lawmakers and many of those elected to the Unicameral for the first time Nov. 2 were in the Capitol ahead of the session for the two-day meeting of the Legislative Council, the research arm composed of all state senators.

The West Senate Chamber was humming with activity but little of it was directed at the summarization of reports delivered to the chairman of the interim study committee.

Getting most of the attention of the legislators were the upcoming contests for leadership posts in the next session. Unicameral officers and committee chairman will be chosen on the first day of the 1977 session, Jan. 5.

Absent from the council meeting was Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, who announced months ago he wants to be elected speaker. Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island, another who long ago made his wish to become speaker known, busily contacted colleagues for support.

Kelly said he was "very encouraged" by responses he received but added the belief that just about everyone had made up his or her mind.

Luedtke was in Israel during the council meeting as a representative of the National Conference of State Legislatures.

He and Kelly are seeking to succeed Jules Burbach of Hartington in the legislature's top job. Burbach did not seek re-election and recently was hired as executive director of the legislature.

That having triggered a question from Sen. Lorran Schmit of Bellwood who asked the attorney general whether the appointment by the Executive Board was constitutional.

Schmit wanted assurance on a constitutional provision prohibiting a member of the legislature from being appointed to a state office and not being violated.

The State Justice Department said the job of executive director did not fall within the definition of a "state office" and therefore the appointment was proper.

Burbach accepted the position before he resigned from the legislature.

Committee Chairmen

Who will succeed Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel as chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee remained in doubt.

Those vying for the post include Sens. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha, Jerome Warner of Waverly and Douglas Bereuter of Ufa.

Goodrich's base of support in Omaha is expected to get him into the final ballot after one of the three is eliminated in a preliminary vote.

Marvel will relinquish the chairmanship after serving 16 years. He apparently will have no difficulty in landing the chairmanship of the Executive Board.

Also without apparent opposition is Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook who seeks the chairmanship of the Public Health and Welfare Committee, which will become vacant with the retirement of Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove.

The dean of the Unicameral, Sen. George Syas of Omaha, was defeated in the November election, and Sens. Donald Dworak and Gerald Koch of Ralston seek to succeed him as head of the Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee.

Sen. Robert Clark, who has been vice chairman of the Appropriations Committee, is going after the chairmanship of the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee. Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell, who is retiring, currently holds the post.

Lincoln Sen. Shirley March had thought about trying for the leadership of the Health and Welfare Committee but decided she should remain on the Appropriations Committee because of her experience and because of her belief the committee should have Lincoln representation.

Gone from the committee next year will be Marvel, Clark, Harold Simpson of Lincoln, Leslie Shull of Alliance and E. Thome Johnson of Fremont. Simpson won election to the Nebraska Public Service Commission, Johnson retired and Shull lost his re-election bid.

Budget Warnings

During his brief presentation to the council, Marvel noted the state is approaching the time when it will have a $1 billion annual budget. The total includes general fund, cash, federal and revolving funds.

For the benefit largely of senators-elect, Marvel advised seeking the help of the 15-member legislative fiscal staff for answers to any questions a senator might have about state spending.

A word of warning also came from Sens. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha and Jerome Warner of Waverly, two of the candidates for chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Goodrich said he doubts the University of Nebraska will come close to receiving its requested 18 per cent hike in state tax support. "I think it will be closer to eight per cent," he said.

Warner said it would not be realistic for the university to expect to get the kind of increase it has been given the past three years to four years. Last year it received a 23 per cent jump in state tax support.

Goodrich believes the demand for more state aid to schools and for higher expenditures for water problems will be among factors helping to hold down university appropriations.

Warner thinks the Unicameral will try to hold the state budget within limits that can be met with present state sales and income tax rates. Aid to schools may be increased but any additional aid would probably be implemented over a period of several years, he said.

Compounding the budget pinch, according to Warner, will be request for higher homestead tax exemptions, higher food tax credits, community mental health programs, special education programs and transfer of county medical costs entirely to the state and federal governments.

Goodrich would like to have the Appropriations Committee have its recommendations ready before each legislative session convenes. This could be done, he said, by having the committee work between Oct. 15 and Dec. 15. Under his proposal, the committee recommendations would be submitted to the lawmakers of the first or second day of the session, then would be returned to the committee for revisions before being submitted on the sessions' 30th day.

Press Credentials

Under the proposal that will go to the Legislature's Rules Committee, anyone not meeting the definition of a legitimate news reporter would be denied access to the floor of the legislature.

A three-member news media panel would review credentials and the legislature's speaker would have the final say in the event of disputes which might arise.

The proposal was discussed briefly before it received 3-1 approval from the Legislative Council Executive Board. Casting the dissenting vote was Bellwood Sen. Lorran Schmit who argued it was unnecessary and might limit the access of some reporters to the lawmakers.

He was told not to worry because any bona fide reporter, including those from weekly newspapers, would never have any difficulty getting authorization to get onto the legislative floor.

Sen. John Savage, a former photographer for the Omaha World-Herald, said the proposed rule was aimed solely at prohibiting access to anyone bearing a "phony" press card. Such cards, he added, "are easy to obtain if you know where to look for them."

Farm cooperatives are still under fire

Agricultural cooperatives have been under fire for the past three years as never before, enough so that there have been moves in Congress to repeal the Capper-Volstead Act which dates back to 1922.

Up until 1973 agricultural cooperatives had their ups and downs but throughout most of more than 50 years the Capper-Volstead Act was relatively non-controversial. But inflation struck full force in 1973, retail food prices which had been relatively stable for years took some large increases and consumers who had been conditioned to take "cheap food" as their right and privilege began blaming everyone in sight for increases in their family food budgets.

Also, in 1973 the Justice Department testified on rising food prices before the House Judiciary Committee and the head of the Justice Antitrust Division made a statement that he felt cooperatives were solely responsible for rising food prices. Then in 1975, Rep. Robert McClory (R-Ill.) introduced H.R. 6029, a bill seeking to transfer from the Secretary of Agriculture to the Attorney General the authority to determine when a cooperative's market position has resulted in undue price levels.

In the early 1900's, certain Justice Department officials felt that when farmers formed cooperatives, they were restricting competition, which was forbidden by the Sherman Antitrust Act. As a result, between 1910 and 1920, some farmers and cooperatives were prosecuted for conspiracy to restrain trade.

So the Capper-Volstead Act was introduced and eventually enacted into law. Certain conditions are laid down in the law but two important points should be emphasized:

First, without saying so directly, the Capper-Volstead Act implies that farmers may "jointly market their products" without violating the Sherman Antitrust Act.

It does not give any specific exemption from the antitrust laws to the cooperative as a corporate body. Numerous court decisions have made clear that the cooperative as a business organization is no more exempt from unfair trade practices, coercion or predatory practices in its business operations than is any other corporation.

Second, Capper-Volstead applies only to farmers' collective marketing activities. It says nothing about farmers' purchasing activities, or the furnishing of farm supplies, or the organization and operation of farm supply cooperatives.

The Capper-Volstead Act benefits to farmers boil down to these obvious benefits to farm action:

— Farmers can grade, sort, size and package their production in a way which makes them desirable to wholesale and retail buyers.

— Farmers can process their farm products so they can be stored for year-round consumption, and thereby become more desirable to processors, retailers and consumers.

— Farmers can brand their consumer products with a distinction and level of quality that enables them to compete favorably with private trademark labels.

— Farmers can sign contracts with processors and refiners for delivery of products at certain times and by certain methods. This helps them achieve a greater degree of security and assurance in marketing.

The idea that farmers, through their cooperatives, may be able to unduly enhance prices is unrealistic. Agriculture is intensely competitive between products. Even if a cooperative could control the national supply of turkey, for example, and were able to raise the price slightly, consumers would quickly switch over to other meat products or meat substitutes and turkey producers would soon be out of business. So it works with virtually all farm commodities. It's hard to see how consumers or anyone else could gain by taking away the farmer's right to organize and operate his own marketing cooperatives. — M. M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Voluntary restraints to curb inflation?

At his Dec. 3 news conference, President-elect Carter declared, "I have no intention of asking the Congress to give me standby wage and price controls and have no intention of imposing wage and price controls in the next four weeks."

It was a highly responsible and necessary — statement; one that he may need to repeat with increasing firmness in the coming months.

From such statements, we can guess Mr. Carter understands the damage that can be done to an economy struggling to revive itself by even the threat of controls. The critical question then becomes, can he convince Congress and the business community that he really means it? The specter of controls is so fearsome that once its name is invoked a long rite of exorcism is required to allay the fears generated thereby.

The fear of price controls leads business managers to delay spending for plant and equipment because they worry that they will not be allowed to recover their investment. The result is fewer jobs now and a shortage of equipment and facilities for the greater numbers of workers in the future.

Also, fear of controls can encourage workers and businesses to protect themselves. Workers seek higher wages while they can still get them. Managers reason likewise with respect to prices. Consequently, both may go up more than purely economic considerations would justify.

Even if controls don't materialize, prices that are higher than the market will support will come down. But wages — once raised — tend to stay up. Caught in this trap, business can find themselves unable to make enough to cover the added cost of the higher wages. That means still less available for investment in new productive facilities, possibly layoffs, and in some cases, business failures.

Even Mr. Carter's unambiguous rejection of controls has not completely resolved the problem of expectations. First, there remains the clear likelihood of presidential jawboning. And political pressures often cause jawboning to escalate to mandatory controls.

In his press conference, Mr. Carter voiced his support for the development of wage and price "guidelines," done "jointly" in consultation with labor and business leaders.

Experienced Washington-watchers view all such pronouncements with hope tempered by memory and a healthy skepticism. During the Kennedy-Johnson administration, wage and price guidelines and jawboning were the political order of the day. And there were sharp teeth in the bill then unprecedented use of the Internal Revenue Service to intimidate those who resisted the jawbone of the President.

Hard upon protestations to the contrary, President Nixon imposed wage-price controls Aug. 15, 1971, sliding quickly from so-called voluntary limits to a mandatory wage-price freeze, and its subsequent phases.

So there is understandable concern about President-elect Carter's future course of action. The possibility of an expanding network of guidelines and more jawboning looks like a velvet glove over an iron fist. Jimmy Carter could, therefore, contribute little to economic stability by publicly renouncing both jawboning and wage-price guidelines.

What, then, to do about inflation? When prices and wages generally are rising, as they have been for the past decade, they are for the most part reflecting inflationary forces, rather than causing inflation. Inflation today — worldwide — is large part a function of excessively liberal government spending, finances in good part by newly-created money.

To curb inflation, we do need voluntary restraints — on the part of our public officials. — Richard Lesher, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Tire companies want to end registration

Working in shirtsleeves in his loft office, where his desk is stacked with trays of paper forms of all kinds, Robert W. Zveare, a Washington (D.C.) tire dealer, talks excitedly whenever the subject of government paperwork is brought up.

"Several years back," he recalled, "the new requirement of registering all tires we sold nearly threw the industry into a panic. We were losing time because of the confusion and delays. Ultimately, it was necessary through our national trade association to conduct seminars around the country in order to train people on how to fill out and process the forms."

While few motorists may be aware of the problem, tire dealers across the country are required by federal law to fill out the forms and mail them — all at their own expense — to the manufacturers who put the data on computers.

Why? So that in case the tire is recalled for any defects, the manufacturer can pay the customers who bought the particular series of tires.

Mr. Zveare's complaint — and that of tire dealers like him who are members of the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association (NTDRA) — is that the cost of the frustrating paperwork far exceeds the potential benefits to the public.

Since 1971, when the federal regulation became effective, his company has never had to replace a single tire because of the registration program. So his costs, which he estimates at $1.50 per tire, has been a 100 per cent needless expense. Industry-wide, according to NTDRA surveys, the average cost per tire is 49 cents and annual costs of the registration paperwork runs an average of more than $3,600 per dealer.

Mr. Zveare, president of Leath Brothers, Inc. which does $1.5 million a year in sales, reports he has a force of 30 to 35 employees, with five working in the office. His costs in processing the tire forms include the training and supervision of salesmen. With turnover, this is a continuous process. A bookkeeper then must check the salesmen's entries. And the company must retain its own records and pay the customers who bought the particular series of tires.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, which requires the tire registration, reports that about 3 million tires have been recalled since May, 1971, when Congress passed the law compelling the registration.

Total production since then has been more than 600 million tires, so recalls come to about one per cent. This means that 199 customers must pay $1.50 per tire so that one customer may be told if his tires are possibly defective. Or using the national average, customers must pay an additional 49 cents per tire — or nearly $86 million based on the 1975 production of about 175,000,000 tires.

In a recent interview with "Washington Report," published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Mr. Zveare emphasized that the tire dealers are mindful of the safety factors. Consequently, they do not propose outright elimination of the requirement.

Through the NTDRA, they have recommended to the government that the customer be given the form and left to decide whether he wanted to fill it out and send it to the manufacturer.

"In other words, it would be a voluntary system," explained Mr. Zveare. "The customer is sophisticated enough to know whether he wants his tires registered for a possible recall."

Producers Outlook Good

Dr. Allen Wellman, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension agricultural economist, found that you can't please everyone when he delivered a market outlook report in Columbus Thursday morning during the annual convention of the Nebraska Poultry Industries, Inc.

Wellman forecast continuing price problems for the turkey and broiler chicken industries through mid-1977, but said egg producers should continue to enjoy what he called one of their longest periods of profitability, at least through the first part of next year.

But he warned that competition from heavy red meat supplies, especially pork, likely will remain strong through the rest of this year and next. Coupled with anticipated feedstuff cost increases because of rising soybean prices, he said, the two factors could play major roles in focusing the market picture for poultry.

Wellman said the egg industry has gone through a curious phase of relatively stable production and declining egg consumption.

He said figures indicate that mature chicken slaughter rose more than four per cent in 1976, causing egg production to increase only about one per cent, to 5.4 billion dozen eggs. At the same time, egg consumption continued to decline about three eggs a person annually from 1975's total of 278 eggs.

"Evidently population increases and other uses of eggs have allowed for some reduction in consumption per person with our hurting profitability in the industry," he said.

Wellman said an increase in pullet numbers this year will result in a "controlled expansion" of the nation's laying flocks during the first half of 1977.

"There will be a seasonal change in egg prices in the first part of next year, he said, but by the second half, "as we begin to get a little shakier, it would look as if prices could be down about five cents per dozen from where we are now."

He said increasing feed costs and other factors could play major roles in determining egg prices by mid-year, depending upon the production plans of egg men and the number of laying flocks.

"The egg industry should continue to be relatively profitable if the output doesn't expand too rapidly," Wellman said. But that's not the case for turkey and broilers, he told about 35 egg and poultry producers.

"The cost of production and competition will continue to exceed the prices received (for broilers) through mid-1977 or later, depending upon the degree of red meat competition and feed grain prices," the economist said.

Wellman said broiler prices during the first half of the year should be between 36 and 38 cents a pound.

But the outlook was not all gloomy, he noted, as there was a record broiler consumption of 44 pounds per person this year. Exports also nearly doubled in 1976 and are expected to continue at a strong rate.

He said some sources predict overproduction of broilers will continue through 1977 despite financial losses because poultrymen will try to retain their newly attained name brand markets.

In turkeys, Wellman said production during the first quarter of 1977 likely will be similar to the first half of this year. Production for 1976 was up more than 10 per cent, he said.

"Most turkey producers lost several cents a pound in the last half of 1976, and it looks like there will be continued pressure on prices into 1977, making the cost of production higher than the prices received," he said.

He said turkey prices are anticipated to be in the mid-40 cent a pound range in early 1977, and indications are that "this would not allow turkey producers to make any money." Wellman said production must be reduced markedly before "pulses are returned to the ledgers of turkey growers."

"If producers respond as we expect them to during this situation, output will be reduced for the second, third and fourth quarters," Wellman said. But again he noted that the degree of reduction will depend upon the amount of red meats on the market and feed costs.

He said the supply picture is complicated by sharply higher stocks of cold storage turkeys. On Jan. 1, 1976, Wellman said, there was just under 200 million pounds in storage, but recent surveys indicate that figure has more than doubled to about 500 million pounds.

But as in the broiler industry, he said, 1976 turkey consumption was at a near record on nine pounds a person and exports are expected to have risen 60 per cent or more, which should continue into 1977.

U.S. Department of Agriculture turkey purchases for school lunch and food assistance programs also increased considerably in 1976 and helped reduce the oversupply situation, he said. But he said such purchases probably won't be significant enough to counter financial losses.

In feedstuffs, he said, reduced soybean supplies, which are down about five per cent from a year ago, will increase costs of the protein supplement "fairly substantially," depending upon exports.

"Soybean prices could go up 10 to 15 per cent fairly easily," Wellman warned. Such an increase will more than offset lower concentrate corn prices, which he said should be equal to or lower than current prices during the first half of next year.

"Corn supplies are up slightly, and I think the bottom line on corn prices probably has been reached," he said.

Wellman said he expects stronger corn and feed grain prices in the late spring and summer, but that prices will not be significantly different than 1976.

Here are some tips on caring for the festive — but finicky poinsettia plant.

The plants are especially sensitive to heat and light and will not tolerate a draft. Most do badly with either too little or too much water.

As soon as you get your poinsettia home remove foil or any other wrapping around the pot and place the plant in or near a sunny window. During the day, try to keep the plant in a room where the temperature stays between 65 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit. The plant needs a cooler spot at night, but no cooler than 60 degrees or your poinsettia will suffer.

PROBLEM SIGNS
If your plant starts to drop leaves, check to see if it's in a draft from a window or a nearby outside door.

The problem could also be lack of water. Touch the soil every day — if it feels dry, pour on enough water to saturate the potting soil. Pour on just enough water so that it drips out the drainage hole. Let soil become quite dry before watering. Never let your plant stand in water and be sure to empty out any water in the saucer or flower pot.

NEXT YEARS FLOWERS
Keep your plant healthy during the warm weather months, then coax it into its flowering stage in mid-December.

Poinsettias flower about 10 weeks after daylight time drops to 11 hours or less. To have it blossom for Christmas you may have to shorten the days for your poinsettia.

Keep the plant in complete darkness from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m., starting October 1st and continuing through Thanksgiving. A closet or a dark basement corner will do. If the plant receives any light during those hours the flowering will be delayed.

During the day put the plant back in its sunny window. Continue fertilizing until mid-December.

Follow the care instructions talked about earlier until the end of April. Then each day water the soil a little less until the soil is very dry, but not so dry the stems shrivel.

Keep the plant in a well-ventilated room where the temperature stays about 60 degrees. In Mid-April cut the poinsettia stems back to six inches above the soil and re-pot the plant. Use a container an inch or two larger in diameter than the poinsettia's original container. A number of potting mixes are available commercially, but you can mix your own. Use two parts soil, one part peat moss, and one part perlite by volume.

Water the plant thoroughly and keep it by a sunny window where the temperature stays between 70 and 75 degrees. Every two weeks put on a water soluble fertilizer at rates recommended on the label.

SUMMER CARE
During the summer months, put your poinsettia outside. Find a slightly shaded place in the yard, and in early June move your poinsettia to its new home. Cut the stems again between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, leaving each shoot three or four inches long. Remove the plant from its garden spot, re-pot it, and place it near a sunny window in your home where the temperature is between 65 and 70 degrees. Continue to water and fertilize.

Farm Assets Increasing

Farm income next year may be around 1976 levels — and 1976 has been relatively good year for both farmers and their lenders. Major exceptions are many livestock producers and producers in areas suffering from drought.

Asset values and equities of farm owners throughout the nation continued to increase in 1976, largely because of increases in real estate values. A further, though not as rapid, gain is forecast for 1977. The value of farm assets is expected to reach $634 billion by the end of 1976, a gain of $49 billion during the year, not as large as the 1975 increase of $65 billion. In 1976, a slower rate of increase occurred in farmland values, and livestock inventory values declined in contrast to the large gain during 1975.

The farm debt-to-asset ratio, has remained rather stable in these recent years of high farm incomes and prices. While the overall average — at 16 per cent — is favorable, there are some farmers who have no debts at all, and some that have very large debts. Numbers who are heavily indebted are not known, but the scattered available evidence indicates the total has not been changing very much in recent years.

Farm real estate values are expected to increase nine per cent in the year ending Feb. 1, 1977, according to a group of lenders who were surveyed. ERS forecast an 8 to 10 per cent increase a few months ago. The lenders believed that the important North Central States would continue to lead the land price increase. Cotton producing regions should also do quite well, while cattle producing areas will probably continue to show slower rates of growth.

Between March 1, 1975 and Feb. 1, 1976 farmland values nationally increased an average of 14 per cent rising from $354 per acre to $403. Since 1971 values have doubled. Increases have been largest in the North Central and Northern Plains States and least in some of the Western and Southern States.

Farm enlargement is the major reason for purchasing farmland, and therefore, continues as a significant factor affecting farmland values. Between March 1975 and March 1976, 60 per cent of all tracts transferred were for farm enlargement. Regionally, it was most important in the Northern Plains and Corn Belt States where it accounted for 85 per cent and 68 per cent of total transfer respectively. The proliferation of part-time farms is another important factor which affects market values.

Among individual farm types, income conditions and prospects have varied widely in 1976, affecting farmland values and net worths. Incomes have been most favorable for dairy, poultry (except turkeys) cotton, and tobacco producers. Wheat producers' incomes reflected large supplies of wheat, lower prices, and rising carryover stocks. Many meat animal producers have continued to experience relatively low net returns and some have had heavy losses. See ASSETS, page 6

Speaker Named For Lincoln Crop Conference

The president of the National Association of Official Seed Certifying Agencies, Roy Becker, of Columbus, Ohio, will be a featured speaker at Crop Improvement Days, Jan. 17-18 at the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel in Lincoln.

According to Dean Lancaster, secretary-manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, which sponsors the two-day meeting, Becker will discuss compliance with the Federal Seed Act and point out the advantages of planting genetically pure and identifiable seed.

"Certification is a part of the Federal Seed Act and all producers and processors of certified seed should be familiar with it so they will have sufficient records for pure seed," according to Lancaster.

"The certification program is increasing every year," Lancaster said. "Each year, there are more acres planted in certified seed than the year before." In the past, certification dealt with varieties released only by experiment stations. Now, privately developed varieties may be certified.

"The American Seed Trade Association in 1976 is more receptive to certification as a total picture. The majority of member seedsmen accept certification as an important program and an integral part of the seed trade business," Lancaster stressed.

Crop Improvement Days will deal with a variety of topics including soil fertility, water, energy, restricted use pesticides, insecticides, herbicides, and the seed situation, among other topics.

Assets

However, with the sell off of cattle herds starting to lessen, this unfavorable situation is expected to start to be corrected in 1977.

Total farm debt is expected to reach $102 billion by the end of this year, an $11 billion, 12 per cent increase. Both real estate and non real estate loans rose more rapidly than in 1975. Among lenders providing real estate credit, the most striking change has been the sharp expansion by life insurance companies. All non real estate lenders increased their lending activity in the stronger among farm machinery and some other retail dealer. Interest rates eased a little during 1976, but little further change is expected next year. Rates of 8-10 per cent continue near historic high lending will probably rise further in 1977 with strong demand, and lenders are well supplied with funds.

Farm loans became more risky during 1976, lenders said, but they look upon them as desirable investments. The econometric model used by ERS to forecast 1977 financial condition indicated a further, though slower growth in asset values and farmers' equities. Farmers are expected to curtail their "personal consumption and other uses" of funds while expanding further their capital investments. Large sums are being invested for farm expansion purposes. Investors need to be counseled more than before to be made aware of the greater uncertainties in farm prices and income and the impact on their debt-carrying capacities.
