

Friendly Computer Helps Librarians

Not only a money-saver, but a quick and efficient worker, too, OCLC is a welcome addition to the U.S. Conn Library at Wayne State College.

OCLC is the shortened term for Ohio College Library Center, a computerized relay system of library information. With a main computer base in Columbus, Ohio, the OCLC network services member libraries throughout the nation.

For OCLC refers to a small computer terminal recently installed in the U.S. Conn Library. Thanks to the work of the Nebraska Library Commission (NLC), WSC obtained the computer terminal through Nebase, a cooperative effort of nine Nebraska colleges and NLC.

Currently Kearney State College, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and NLC are operating on the OCLC system along with Wayne. Still to jump on the library bandwagon are Chadron, Concordia, Doane, Hastings, Wesleyan, and Union colleges.

The U.S. Office of Education has cited the OCLC system as a library cost cutter "by making work performed at one institution available to all."

Charles Stelling, director of informational services at WSC said the OCLC system will be used primarily for cataloging in Conn Library. Before the implementation of OCLC, a new book had to wait three to four months before finding its spot on the shelf.

During this time classification cards were being mailed from the library of Congress of other card filing bases.

Through OCLC, however, Wayne can send a computer order for cards, which should be mailed to the library within a month. OCLC allows colleges to share a cataloging system, rather than duplicating efforts.

Other benefits of OCLC include: the facility of inter-library loans resulting in a reduction of duplicated ordering, better and increased access to government document information, and general information on books such as names, authors, editions.

In the future OCLC may provide a check-list of magazines and may possibly replace the card catalog, allowing library users to develop bibliographies very quickly, Stelling said.

Because WSC is new to the OCLC system, Pat Gildersleeve of the Nebraska Library Commission came to Conn Library last week as a trainer for the Nebase network. With plans to train at all new Nebraska OCLC institutions, Mrs. Gildersleeve shows persons the fundamentals of running the system and leaves manuals so librarians can learn how to proceed on their own.

Included in the manuals are training instructions for terminal operation and cataloging information for all forms of library material.

OCLC seems to be a friendly computer. When logging, or pushing in a series of numbers, OCLC first politely jots out "Good Morning Barbara."

"Good Morning Charles" or "Good Morning Guest" before it gets down to serious book business.

Congressman Plans Telephone Surveys

Local residents might be getting a telephone call from their Congressman's office in the next couple of weeks.

First District Representative Charles Thone announced this week that he would be initiating a telephone survey of his constituency.

"The purpose of the effort will be to obtain up-to-date opinions on issues about to be voted on in Congress. Those telephoned in any month will be asked one or two questions and given the opportunity to tell what federal issue is of the most concern to them," Thone said.

Volunteers will be making the telephone calls for the Congressman. He said he will consult with polling experts to ensure the sample of people called represents a cross section of district residents, and to make certain questions are worded to avoid influencing answers.

Use of telephone surveys will enable him to gauge opinion of district residents within just a few days of when an issue is voted on in the House.

"Telephone surveying will be just one more means by which I will attempt to keep in close touch with the thinking of district residents," Thone said, adding that he will continue to send everyone in the district an annual questionnaire giving an opportunity to express opinions on a wide variety of topics.

The Congressman said he also plans to hold "Meet Your Congressman" sessions in each of the district's 27 counties.

Thone said the results of the monthly telephone surveys will be made public. He cautioned that it is impossible for him to pledge to always abide by majority wishes as shown by the surveys. "Sometimes I may feel that I have more information and background on a complicated problem than some of those expressing opinions. At other times, bills may be so altered during debate on the floor that I must change my vote on the matter."

Heart Fund Drive Underway

The 1977 Heart Fund drive in Wayne County was scheduled to begin Wednesday.

City of Wayne volunteers were invited to pick up work kits during an afternoon coffee at the city auditorium.

Drive chairman Mrs. Richard Carman said workers for other parts of Wayne County had received kits by mail and would also begin the door-to-door campaign.

Some 120 block workers in Wayne, under the direction of 13 captains, will be canvassing the town for contributions. Last year, Wayne County residents gave more than $2,800 to the drive. The Nebraska Heart Association this year is attempting to raise $400,000 in the state.

Councilman Wants Rate Review

Wayne city councilman Jimmie Thomas, during Tuesday's 28-minute council meeting, asked for a review of the city's electric rate structure.

The council quickly disposed of two of three agenda items, approving Vicki Lynn Jones as manager of the Pizza Hut and lowering landfill use fees for Wayne State College from $100 a month to $100 a year, the same fee paid by commercial trash haulers.

City administrator Fred Brink said the final item on the agenda — downtown improvement — was listed in case anyone had any comments or questions for the council concerning the project. He added that the city's consulting engineering firm had been doing some surveying for the project and said some preliminary designs might be ready for the next council meeting.

Thomas asked if it would be possible to meet with electrical engineering consultant Norman Armstrong and modify the electric rate structure adopted by the city, with an eye toward "attracting" rate payers by some customers. Thomas said he is concerned about businesses which he said are using the same amount of electricity used before the new rates became effective, but are now paying electric bills twice as high as before.

The councilman said he specifically wants to look at the possibility of modifying the rate structure to reflect a 15 or 20-year payout period for bonds of indebtedness, rather than the 10-year period used when the rate structure was set up.

Councilman Vernon Russell said the rates were predicated on the necessary bond redemption schedule and that cutting back on rates could cause some financial difficulties.

Councilman John Yakoc said his understanding is that the schedule for building up the electric reserve fund affected rates more than the schedule for paying of bonds of indebtedness used to finance light plant improvements.

Built into the rate structure now in effect is the goal of building a reserve electric fund of $400,000 over a 10-year period.

Armstrong, not present at the meeting, previously said the figure represents about 25 percent of the value of the city electric system. He added that a one-fourth of value reserve fund is a general power industry standard designed to provide for replacement when an electric system sustains major damage such as was suffered in parts of Nebraska last year by a devastating ice storm.

He also noted that revenue from customer billings will not account for the entire reserve fund. A sizeable portion of the reserve will be provided through an agreement whereby the city leases the capacity of its electric plant to the Nebraska Public Power District.

DR. N.L. DITMAN of Winside displays the Veterinarian of the Year award presented to him Monday during the 80th annual convention of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association.

Winside Man Given Veterinarian Award

A 44-year career was topped off in style Monday for Dr. N.L. Ditman, 69, of Winside, when he received the Veterinarian of the Year award at the 80th annual convention of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association.

The Stanton native retired from practice in December. Dr. Ken Liska of Wayne, one of three veterinarians who look over Dr. Ditman's practice, nominated the Winside veterinarian for the award.

Born in Stanton Aug. 3, 1908, Ditman graduated from Stanton High School and received his degree in veterinary medicine from Iowa State College in 1932.

He practiced in Stanton for one year and then moved to Winside in 1933 where he was a town board member and mayor for 34 years.

A past president of the Winside Community Club, Dr. Ditman has been active in community affairs, including the annual Winside Old Settler Reunion.

The Veterinarian of the Year award will join another plaque on the Ditman mantel. Four years ago while making a call as part of his practice, Dr. Ditman applied heart massage and artificial respiration techniques to revive a farmer suffering a heart attack. The Winside veterinarian was honored by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association for his life-saving efforts.

Other activities include raising hogs, feeding cattle and breeding palomino horses for several years.

Dr. Ditman and his wife have been married for 41 years and have three sons: William of Denver, Robert of Grand Island and Richard of Wayne. Dr. Ditman said the award came as a surprise to him, although he thought something was going to happen when he discovered that all of his sons were present at the veterinary medicine convention in Lincoln.

"During his 44 years of general practice," the association said, "Dr. Ditman has been extraordinarily faithful to his family, clients, community and especially his profession."

He has been a member of the Nebraska and American Veterinary Medical Association since 1932 and served on the State Board of Examiners in the 1950's.

In his younger days, he coached grade school basketball games in Winside and has been a supporter of young people's groups such as the 4-H.

Dr. Ditman is a lifelong member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside, and of the ATO Fraternal Organization at Ames, Iowa.

A pot luck dinner and open house will honor Dr. Ditman Feb. 6. Family and friends are invited to attend the event, which will begin at 1 p.m. at the Winside auditorium. Each family should bring one covered dish. A short program and coffee will follow the dinner.

Further information can be obtained by calling 286-4831 or 286-4488.

Wayne Man Observes Inauguration 'Awe-Inspiring'

"It was exciting, being there in person and seeing a lot of hard work come to fruition," Allen O'Donnell said following his return from Washington D.C. where last Thursday he and Mrs. O'Donnell attended the inauguration of President Jimmy Carter.

O'Donnell, Nebraska Democratic national committeeman and his wife Ann were among several Wayne area people invited to the inauguration. He said that in addition to himself and Mrs. O'Donnell, four members of the Young Democrats organization attended the inauguration from Wayne State College where O'Donnell is a political science professor.

The O'Donnells flew to Washington Wednesday and began Thursday's activities by attending a 7 a.m. prayer ceremony at the Lincoln Memorial, officiated by Leonlyn Price of the Metropolitan Opera, Martin Luther King Sr., and President Carter's evangelist sister Maureen Stapleton.

The key event of the day, of course, was attending the inauguration of President Carter. The O'Donnells obtained tickets through Democratic Senator Ed Zorinsky's office. "We were fortunate," O'Donnell said. "We were within 50 yards of the president."

The political science professor commenting on Carter's speech, said, "It was short, low keyed, and contained no great rhetoric. It was exactly what we need and told it all about the man, particularly his desire to keep close to the people."

Even more impressive, O'Donnell said, was the walk down Pennsylvania Ave., when the First Family summoned a limousine and instead walked the mile between the Capitol and the White House.

"It was exciting. It put a lot of people in awe," O'Donnell observed. "It told more about the man than the speech."

Gov. J.J. Exon was host at a party at the Statler Hilton Hotel for about 100 Nebraskans. Sen. Zorinsky and Second District Representative John Cavanaugh III were guests of honor.

Thursday evening the O'Donnells attended one of seven inaugural balls, this one for Midwesters at the National Visitors Center in Washington's Old Union Station.

About 21,000 people were invited to the ball and about 15,000 attended, the Nebraska national committeeman estimated. The President and Mrs. Carter attended, thanking the audience for their support and dancing one number before moving on to other celebrations.

Other highlights included a concert at the Kennedy Center, viewing King Tut's treasure at the National Art Gallery, and attending a performance of "Travesties," the play selected for awards by London and New York.

Friday O'Donnell attended a meeting where national committeemen confirmed President Carter's choice of former Maine Governor Ken Curtis as national Democratic Party chairman. O'Donnell later participated in a Midwest caucus during which national committeewoman Daana Vidal of Iowa was chosen as executive committee member.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell attended a White House reception by President Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale and had an opportunity to meet a number of celebrities who attended the reception.

"I saw one man I was sure I knew, but couldn't place him," O'Donnell related. "I walked up to him and said 'I'm Allen O'Donnell and I think we've met before.'"

The reply? "Hi, I'm Warren Beatty."

Beatty was in the company of another film star, Jack Nicholson, and Mrs. O'Donnell met television star Chevy Chase. Other celebrities attending included Cher of television's Sonny and Cher program, and Muhamad Ali.

Meeting celebrities, however, wasn't the really impressive part of the experience for the national committeeman. It was "seeing the strength of American democracy and the peaceful change of power."

"The outgoing and incoming Presidents departed as friends, and in peace. Seeing the reality of democracy was awe inspiring by itself," O'Donnell concluded.

Transactional Analysis Class To Be Offered

"When I speak to you and you answer, what has occurred? Why do you respond to different people in different ways? What happens inside you to trigger freedom and autonomy?"

Harrington is the location for the course offered Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning Feb. 15. Registration deadline for "Transactional Analysis" is Feb. 7.

Bingo Players Take Home $300

Folks lucky enough to pick the right bingo card took home more than $300 in Wayne Chamber of Commerce Birthday Bucks Monday night.

More than 250 Chamber members and their employes attended the Fun Night get-together which this year replaced the traditional Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Employees were the guests of their bosses for a night of bingo, at the city auditorium, followed by lunch.

A lion's share of the more than $300 in Birthday Bucks given away as prizes went to 27 major winners, but nearly 50 bingo players got into the act in one game, when the last person to black out his card was to receive the prize. With only one number left, nearly 50 persons were still in the game and received $1 each.

Darrell Moore was chairman for the event and other chamber board members helped with preparations. Wives of board members prepared the lunch.

Nelson presented the past president's award to Roy Hurd for his services during 1976.

Members now on the board in addition to Nelson and Moore are president-elect Gerald Bonkamp, Glen Ellingson, Dean Pierson, Allan Wittig, Larry Johnson, Charles Surber and Steve Schumacher. Schumacher and Botenkamp were bingo callers.

Allen Man Injured in Landfill Mishap

A 61-year-old Allen man is listed in good condition at a Sioux City hospital following a tractor accident about 4 p.m. Saturday at the Allen landfill.

LeRoy Roberts suffered a broken arm, leg, smashed wrist and possible internal injuries when the tractor he was operating slid off a five foot embankment into a ditch and on top of Roberts.

According to reports, Roberts managed to free himself with his broken arm before a passer-by, Dale Kennedy, spotted him. Kennedy explained that he was walking his dogs near the landfill when one of the dogs started barking after spotting Roberts. Kennedy flagged down a motorist, Marlene Smith, who called the Allen rescue squad.

Roberts was taken to Wakefield Health Care Center and then transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City.

Roberts—who has worked for the village for about three years told members of the rescue squad he doesn't remember how the accident happened. It is believed that Roberts was adjusting his windshield when the front wheels strayed too close to the edge of the landfill and went into the ditch.

Finding Roberts was just a coincidence, Kennedy said. Normally Kennedy doesn't walk his dogs to the landfill, located about a quarter of a mile west of the village. He said he decided to walk the extra distance to give his dogs more exercise.

The accident Saturday was the second time within a year that a tractor has gone into the ditch. A tractor operated by Doug Kluever went into the ditch and caught fire. Kluever escaped injury by jumping off the vehicle before it flipped over.

DESPITE suffering a broken arm and leg, 61-year-old LeRoy Roberts managed to free himself from beneath the tractor Saturday afternoon when it flipped over in the Allen landfill. The Allen rescue unit took Roberts to the Wakefield Health Care Center before he was transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City.

Extension Agent Says Families Must Adjust To Meet Needs of Time

American families are undergoing a period of rapid change, with increasing divorces, one-parent families, and the changing role of women, says Kathy Klahn, area home extension agent at the Cedar County Extension Office.

There has been some speculation that the family is on the way out, says Miss Klahn, adding that most authorities, however, believe that when the "smoke clears," the family will still be of prime importance in most people's lives.

There are a number of adjustments that can be made to help families better adapt to change, said the home extension agent.

An example, she says, is further education and training for future parents to help offset the spiraling divorce rate. This includes "parenting" courses in schools and "parenting" conferences such as those being sponsored by the National PTA and the March of Dimes.

Child abuse is becoming a serious concern, warns Miss Klahn. Day-care facilities are now encouraging participation of parents in other family members. Other recommendations for easing child-care problems include tax breaks and child-care allowances for the growing number of working parents.

As more families find it necessary for both parents to work, more flexible working arrangements would be desirable, suggests Miss Klahn. Flexible hours for full-time workers, plus more opportunities for part-time work would make it much easier to be a mother or father, she says.

Nebraska was admitted into statehood in 1867. During 1869, a number of families moved from Illinois and settled in this area. The Illinois settlers were drawn to the area by Willard Graves, who is said to have owned 40 sections of land in Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Cuming Counties.

LaPorte was established as the first county seat, but when the railroad came through in 1882, missing LaPorte, the businesses were moved to Wayne. The LaPorte courthouse cupola and a granite marker were dedicated in 1937, marking the spot where LaPorte once stood.

Hostess for Monday's Minerva Club meeting was Mrs. Stan Morris.

The Feb. 14 meeting will be with Mrs. William Koerber at 2 p.m.

'Foreign' Powers Dominate WS' Wrestling Tourney

Wayne State wrestling coach Marion Haeyer might be excused if he bannied out-of-state teams when he sends out invitations for next year's round robin tournament.

However, three "foreign" teams who came into this year's second annual tourney Friday and Saturday declared they want to "come back." Good reason: They finished 1-2-3: South Dakota-Springfield repeating as champion, unbeaten again in five duals, Westmar moving up to second from last year's fourth, and Fort Hays State taking third in its first visit to the meet. Wayne finished fourth, Midland fifth, Peru State sixth.

Haeyer reported hearty compliments from most of the coaches and wrestlers. They liked the idea of packing five duals into a two-day session. In contrast to the traditional tournament — with wrestlers in each weight moving through pairings to a championship match — this round robin system pits all teams against all the others.

And most of the individuals also compete five times, although coaches can use more than one wrestler at any weight.

Under the Haeyer scoring system — his own creation last year — won-lost records take first priority in placing of teams and individuals. If ties occur, then total team points come into the reckoning. That happened when Westmar and Fort Hays finished with 3-1-1 dual marks. Westmar got second with 142 meet points, four more than Fort Hays totaled. Curiously, winter Springfield accumulated only 138 points, but no matter — the Pointers won all five duals.

Wayne had a 2-3 dual mark, with wins over Midland and Peru. Midland finished 1-4, Peru 0-5. All three suffered from manpower shortage. Peru was open at four weights, Wayne open at three in some of the meets because of injuries, and Midland short two wrestlers.

Sophomore Dwight Lienemann gained Wayne's only individual championship, unbeaten at 177 pounds. Three of his wins came on falls — the quickest of the tourney in a startling 34 seconds. His record: 18-2, with seven falls.

Three Wildcats placed second: Kevin Cuvelier at 142, with two pins; Herb Harris at 150 and Kirk Hanson at 158. Heavyweight Chuck Brockman claimed a third for Wayne.

Springfield had three champs: Dan Mechtenberg, 134; Art Rohlik, 142; Pat Rohlik, 167. Fort Hays also had three: Bill Hovice, 150; Randy Hill, 158;

Dave Jones, heavyweight. Westmar had winners in Larry Winslow, 118, and Jack Harrison, 126. Peru's Ken Coleman won at 190.

Three of these were repeaters: Winslow, Mechtenberg and Pat Rohlik.

The Wildcat dual record moved to 4-9-1 going into a Wednesday dual with Northwestern at Orange City, Ia. The Cats have another dual ahead, Saturday at Mankato State.

Three Area Matmen Win At Oakland

Three area matmen won first-place medals at the Oakland-Craig Invitational Saturday.

They were Neil Wagner and Bryan Svoboda, who paced their Winside team to second place in the eight team standings while Brian Newton of Wakefield, who guided Wakefield to fifth.

Elgin Pope John finished first with a team total of 155 points followed by Winside with 147 1/2. Tekamah-Herman reserves 119 1/2, Norfolk Catholic with 96 1/2, Wakefield with 91 1/2, Oakland with 74, South Sioux City reserves with 23 1/2 and Lyons with 19.

Both Wagner and Newton won their matches in the first round by pins. Wagner at 155 stopped his man from Elgin in 51 seconds. No time was available for Newton who took first at 105. Svoboda stopped Lindstrom of Oakland 1-0 to capture the 185-pound class.

Second-place finishers for Winside were Tom Anderson (112), Eric Vahkamp (138), Brad Langenberg (145) and LaVerle Miller (167).

Rick Bowers of Winside pinned Tim Neuhaus of Wakefield for third at 98. Third-place showings also went to Keven Cleveland of Winside over Lyle Borg of Wakefield, 4-0, and heavyweight Mitch Pfeiffer of Winside pinned Trojan Lyle Ekberg.

Scott Mann of Winside was fourth in 119.

For Wakefield, third place medals went to Chuck Sherer (145), Dean Sharp (155) and Dave Gustafson (167). Doug Starzl (185) finished fourth.

'Beat Newcastle' Rings In Mind of Allen Coach

Allen girls Tuesday night added another win to their long list of victories, but the 46-23 drubbing of host Ponca wasn't putting smiles on the face of coach Steve McManigal.

The Eagles' offense played the game the way it should, McManigal hastily pointed out. But he wasn't so much concerned with this game as with next week's meeting with undefeated Newcastle.

The Red Raiders, which are ranked second in state Class C ratings, already own one victory over McManigal's club. The head man doesn't want that to happen again.

What will he have to improve upon in order of possibly beat Newcastle? Defense. "Our defense was a little sluggish against Ponca," he added.

Allen outscored Ponca for three quarters behind the torrid shooting of senior Lori Erwin who sank 11 baskets and made three of four free throws for a game high of 23 points. Right behind her was sister Susie Erwin with 11.

The Eagles jumped off to a 19-4 first-period lead and increased the margin to 31-12 at the half. By the end of the third period the Eagles were coasting to a 44-21 margin.

Before taking on the Red Raiders, 7-2 Allen will face Walthill tonight (Thursday) at the Bluejay gym.

Allen's reserves ended their season on a winning note by nipping Ponca, 11-9. The victory pushed Allen's record to 4-5.

CSIC Kingpin Emporia Invades Wildcats' Gym

Wayne State basketball men are gearing up for invasion Friday night by the Emporia State Hornets, currently No. one in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. After that, the Saturday night foe in Rice Gym will be Washburn's Ichabods, who are coming up third following a slow start.

Wayne Wildkittens also are matched against Emporia and Washburn women in 5-30 games preceding male games each night.

Emporia's men boast a 1-2 season, 4-1 in conference. Washburn male cagers are 2-3, ranking sixth in the CSIC, and were 6-10 before a Tuesday nonconference game with Benedictine.

Emporia women share second place with Wayne in the league, both with 4-1 records. However, Wayne has played more games and heavier schedule for a 11-5 season compared with Emporia's 5-4. Washburn women are 6-7 overall and 2-3 in CSIC.

Emporia's single loss in the league was inflicted Friday by Pittsburg, 66-61. The previous weekend Wayne whipped Pittsburg, 91-76.

Two of the top CSIC scorers will be here this weekend for men's games: Washburn's Dave Hull, the leader with a 22.3 average, and Emporia's Cleo Gardner, fourth at 20.7. Wayne Robinson of Wayne is fifth with a 19.7 clip. Hull also leads field goal percentage with a phenomenal .672.

Among women, Wayne's Connie Kunzmann is on top in scoring by a wide margin, 366 points and a 22.9 average. No. 2 Deb Robinson of Fort Hays has 208 points; a .16 average.

rebounds, Gary Billings' season-high 17 points.

At Kearney Saturday results went the other way. First the Wildkittens made easy pickings of Kearney State gals as they jumped to 44-32 half — compared with their 12-point half deficit at Fort Hays — then climbed to an 82-56 finale. Kunzmann matched points and rebounds, 25 each, and got fine support from Lori Mittelstadt's 19 and Lori Langel's 16 points.

Next, the Wildcats set about bagging the Antelopes. They led most of the way to a 55-52 half, climbed quickly to 63-55 within 2 1/2 minutes of the second half.

Then the Antelopes gained momentum in rugged physical combat and owned a 17-point at 89-72 with 6:59 left.

A spirited Wayne rally chipped down to the final 102-96. Coach Jim Seward counted that a notable achievement considering the handicaps. "It's hard to shoot with somebody hanging onto your arm," he said.

Wayne scoring leaders took an unusual order, with Mark Olsen at 23, Lennie Adams 15, Robinson 14, Billings 10.

For Kearney the big killer was Loren Killton, who posted a season-high 35, about 13 points over his average.

The loss put Wayne at 10-7 before a game at Peru State Wednesday, rescheduled from Tuesday. The Wildkittens are 11-5.

Jr. High Topples Wakefield Quint

Wayne's eighth grade cagers chalked up their second win in five games by defeating visiting Wakefield, 32-29.

Tom Heier was high point player for Wayne with seven. Right behind him were Kevin Nissen with six, Steve Koll, Jeff Brandt and Brian Fleming with four each. Tim Pfeiffer with three and two each for Jere Morris and Doug Praett.

Wakefield's scoring was Brent Kahl with 10, Mark Starzl had six, Doug Verplank four, Doug Carlson three and two each for Roger Echtenkamp, Dale Phipps and Bill Warren.

Two area hunters paid fines totaling $25 each plus costs for hunting with the aid of an artificial light. They were Mike Roemer of Allen and Perry Sherman of Dixon, according to the State Game and Parks Commission.

Prep Picks: Is Wayne a Favorite?

By BOB BARTLETT

After posting seven straight wins, Wayne High coach Curt Frye is reluctant to say that his team has to be one of the favorites in the first annual West Husker Conference girls basketball tournament.

Frye considers other factors first before making any commitments. For one, Wayne has to get past Wakefield in the 8 p.m. contest Saturday. A win would then put Wayne against the winner of the Hartington-Cedar Stanton contest Monday. A victory at that stage of the tourney would then earn the Blue Devils a trip to the finals Wednesday.

If logic plays any part in the selection of a winner, then Wayne would have to be a favorite to go to the finals. The Devils this season have beaten all three teams — Wakefield, Stanton and Hartington CC.

Frye still takes another view point. Play one game at a time. "I don't want them (his players) to go beyond Wakefield," he cautioned.

The eight-team tourney starts at 2 p.m. at the Wakefield High gym where top-seeded, Wisner-Pilger takes on Madison. Other games are at 3:30 when Columbus Lakeview plays Emerson-Hubbard, and at 6:30 Cedar plays Stanton.

Record for the week: nine wins, four losses. For the season, 44-28.

This week's selection (winners in boldface):

- Boys: Friday — Wayne at Pierce, Allen at Ponca, Winside at Coleridge, Laurel at O'Neill, Point at Wakefield, Saturday — Schuyler at Wayne, Tuesday — Wausa at Winside.
- Girls: Tonight (Thursday) — Wakefield at Homer, Wynot at Winside, Hartington High at Laurel, Allen at Walthill, Monday — Laurel at Coleridge, Tuesday — Allen at Macy.

Winnebago Gets First Victory

Winnebago capitalized on Allen's scoring slump in the fourth quarter Friday night to win its first game of the season, 43-36.

The Eagles were up by four at the end of the first period, ahead by five at the half and in front by six before the area club couldn't buy a basket. Allen made only four points in that frame compared to 15 for Winnebago.

Allen's slump not only was apparently from the floor but also at the free throw line where the 3-10 Eagles of coach Jim Koonitz made only two of 15 tries.

Allen's reserves fared a lot better by downing the Winnebago team, 41-23.

SUNDAY was one of those days when that familiar saying, "The agony of defeat," never rung more true. That was the day our bowling team, Gambles, just finished rolling one of the highest handicapped scores in the city tournament we've had in a long time — 3,104.

For a brief moment we were first in the team division, ready to begin celebrating as soon as we slipped on our street shoes. The feeling of being a champion didn't last long, though. Minutes later the team of Melodee Lanes wrapped its series by throwing a 3,140. Oh, the agony.

Although tournament director Harold Murray hadn't made it official, our team knew we probably would have to settle for second place. Still it pays better than not placing at all.

SOME PEOPLE think I'm a little off my rocker for throwing out over $40 for a new bowling ball. Perhaps they're right. After almost 10 years, I feel it's time for a new ball. I feel even more confident that now is the time after being bombarded with advertisements that brand X is the best ball a kegger could buy if he wants to improve his scores. After Sunday's miserable 541 series (200, 171, 170) it seemed like the only other step to get ready for tournaments in Grand Island, Wayne and Lincoln. The Maves Bowl in Grand Island again will be hosting one of the top tournaments in the state early in February; Wayne is the site of the annual St. Mary's Bowling Tournament the last part of February and early March, and Lincoln will host the state tournament, also in March.

RAMBLINGS: Wayne will host a junior high and freshmen basketball tournament, starting Monday, Feb. 7.

In addition to Wayne, other teams include Laurel, Hartington, Holy Trinity and West Point Central Catholic. Wayne and West Point open the tourney at 3:30 p.m. in the seventh-eighth grade division. Trophy Scoring Starts Soon for Deer, Antelope

Most deer and antelope trophies taken during 1976 are eligible for scoring for possible inclusion in the state record book, and perhaps, national recognition by the Boone and Crockett or Pope and Young clubs.

Game and Parks Commission scorers at offices in Lincoln, Norfolk, Bassett, Alliance and North Platte will measure trophies at the end of a 60-day waiting period. The delay allows for drying and shrinkage to the rack and cartilage in the skull, both of which can affect the score.

Deer bagged on opening day of the firearm-deer season became eligible for scoring on Tuesday. All antelope bagged in 1976 are also eligible, as are archery deer taken in the first portion of the season.

There is no charge for scoring or entry in the state record book. But, if a trophy qualifies, there is a fee for inclusion in the Boone and Crockett or Pope and Young books if the hunter wishes to enter.

High-scoring deer racks in the typical category are generally quite massive, reflected in measurements of diameter at various places. A long main beam and wide spread also helps, while irregular points detract from the score of a typical rack.

In the non-typical category, the criteria are basically the same, except that both regular and irregular points add to the score.

Laurel Loss Throws Loop Race Into Tie

Randolph's '82-75 upset of former NENAC leader Laurel Tuesday night has thrown the conference race for first place into another three-way tie.

The Bears are tied with Crawford and O'Neill, who each have one loss, in the hotly-contested battle for conference honors.

Laurel, which was riding a eight-game win skid, lost its starting five players — four on fouls and one by injury — in what coach Joel Parks termed a very good ball game for Randolph.

"I have to give a lot of credit to Randolph. They shot the heck out of the ball," Parks said.

Laurel's problems started in the second quarter when the senior playmaker Gordie Kardell, who injured his eye when his glasses shattered. Although Kardell didn't play the rest of the game, he should be ready for Friday night's showdown with O'Neill, the coach commented.

Walt Kardell out of the game, Randolph made good use of the mismatch of players and rung up 21 points in the second period for a 43-43 first-half score.

Continuing the hot shooting pace of 51 per cent, the Cardinals forged a four-point advantage going into the fourth period where foul trouble for Laurel spelled defeat.

The Bears lost the remainder of the scoring lineup, including Bob Dahlquist, who ended up with 24 points and nine rebounds, Cleve Stolpe with 22 points, Mike Martin with 13 and Tim Harrington with three.

Randolph senior Rick Alderson pumped in 20 of his game-high 34 points in the second quarter to kindle the Cards' home floor win. The 6-2 forward riddled the nets from the outside while teammate Lyle Poppe garnered 21 markers.

Laurel Pair Power Bears To 72-60 Win

Cleve Stolpe poured in 25 points and Tim Harrington pumped 22 Saturday night to push Laurel to a 72-60 win over Host Wakefield and up the Bears' record to 11-3.

Both teams battled to a 11-all first quarter score before the Laurel quint pulled out to a 10-point halftime lead, 24-14. Using its strong defense, the Bears continued their go-ahead scoring in the third period by dropping in 29 points to the Trojans' 16. Coach Joel Parks called on his reserves in the final period, allowing the home team to battle back from a 20-point deficit.

"Laurel broke away in the third period but we worked our way back in the last period," pointed out Trojan cage boss Joe Coble. "It was kinda pleasing to wind up the game with a 46 per cent clip against an excellent defense."

Wayne Kline ripped the cords for the Trojans with 19 points for his season high.

The loss dropped Wakefield to 4-9.

In reserve action, the junior Bears battled Wakefield (javes to a 56-53 overtime decision. Steve Anderson was the big gun for Laurel pouring in an amazing 37 points. Von Portland led Wakefield with 18.

Winside Wins Sixth Mat Dual

Winside won its sixth dual of the season Tuesday night by pinning Osmond grapplers, 36-24.

Aiding the win was senior Neil Wagner's fastest pin of the season — 28 seconds over 155 pound Tom Gansbom.

Coach Ron Peck received some more good news this week. Returning to the squad after several months absence due to mononucleosis are 132-pound Tom Kohl and 136-pound Ed Morris. Both are expected to wrestle in Saturday's Plainview Invitational. The coach expects both to be in ltop shape by the time districts roll around.

Wayne took a 13-5 first-period command and stretched the lead to 26-13 at the half. The Blue Devils stayed in command with 11 points in the third frame for a 37-21 lead going into the final stanza.

Wayne's first half scoring made all the difference in the outcome of the game, reflected coach Curt Frye. The locals shot 40 per cent, before they cooled off in the second half to finish the game with 24 per cent.

Osmond Trips Cats, 73-45

Despite a 73-45 loss to Osmond Tuesday night, Winside coach Sam Colvin rates the performance by his Wildcats as one of the best in a struggling season for the first-year head man.

The Cats reduced the number of turnovers to 22, outrebounced the taller Tiger club 40-38 and improved on their shooting by hitting 35 per cent of their shots.

"Osmond used a fast break and ate us alive," Colvin pointed out about the Tigers who are in second place in the West division of the Lewis and Clark Conference.

Cliff Tilleta led Winside scoring, with 14 points and on the board with 14 caroms. Top guns for the Tigers were Dean Koehler 23, Roger Folkers 19 and Kevin Engler 11.

Friday night the 0-9 Cats travel to Coleridge in another league battle.

Winside's junior varsity, which hasn't seen action since Dec. 17, also showed improvement, the coach noted, despite the 42-32 loss.

2. In large saucepan cook egg plant cubes in boiling water about 7 minutes until very tender. Drain well and mash thoroughly with potato masher; set aside.

3. In small saucepan heat butter until melted, blend in flour smoothly. Add milk all at once, heat to boiling, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Season with salt and pepper.

4. Beat egg yolks lightly with fork. Add a little of hot cream sauce, blending well, add egg mixture to cream sauce.

5. Stir cracker crumbs and mashed egg plant into cream sauce mixture.

6. Beat egg whites in large clean bowl until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites into egg plant mixture. Pour into prepared pan and bake 1 hour until puffed and golden brown. (Makes 4 to 6 servings).

BREAD

Would you like some good toasting bread? It's easy.

Scald 4 cups milk into which 4 tablespoons solid of liquid fat has been added together with 2 tablespoons of salt. Cool milk with 2 cups cold water and add 2 packages of yeast which have been dissolved in 1 cup of warm water together with 3 tablespoons of sugar.

To the liquid, gradually add 10 cups of sifted white flour, and enough more to keep from sticking to bowl. Knead this dough until smooth and airy — about 5 minutes keeping board well floured — dough should just barely lose stickiness.

Place in large bowl, brush with oil, place in oven which has been warmed to 140 degrees — cover and let rise to double, about ¾ hour. Be sure oven is turned off after warming. You don't have to do this but it's faster.

When risen, shape into loaves — 8 in all using a 4"x8" bread pan — the small pan is best. Bake until nicely browned — 350 degree oven. Cool and freeze all you don't eat while it is still warm out of oven.

Wrap cool loaves to freeze in saran and foil — toast or french toast ½ to ¾ inch slices — or enjoy it without toasting.

Recipe may be cut in half for 4 loaves. The above is double and just as easy as a single recipe.

ERNEST SIEFKEN
Siefken Is Latest Winner in BBucks

A rural Wayne man, Ernest Siefken, is $25 richer after winning the consolation prize in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion.

Siefken, who was shopping in Gambles when the winning date was announced, was born on April 10, 1914, just six days away from being the grand prize winner.

Had his birth date matched the April 4, 1914 date drawn at random by Terry Karel of Karel's, Siefken would have won $25 in Birthday Bucks. As a result of no one claiming the top prize, the amount goes up $25 to $50 tonight (Thursday).

It's easy to be a winner. No purchases are necessary, nor must the shopper register. However, he must be in a participating Wayne business when the date is drawn at random by a Wayne merchant and announced at 8:15 p.m.

Feed Grain Tonnage Up

Nebraska farmers harvested 40 per cent more feed grain tonnage during 1976 than in 1975. This was 16 per cent above the 10-year average production but seven per cent below the 1973 record, according to the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Farmers generally found the yields of corn and sorghum better than expected before harvest, especially in the eastern part of the State.

Corn Production Up

Nebraska corn growers produced 514.6 million bushels of corn in 1976, up two per cent from 1975 but still seven per cent below the 1973 record production. The average yield of 83 bushels per acre was two bushels below 1975 but farmers harvested five per cent more acres for grain in 1976 than in 1975. Dryland corn production totaled 100.2 million bushels in 1976, compared to 124.7 million bushels in 1975. The average dryland yield of 40 bushels was down 8 bushels from 1975 and was the second lowest of record dating back to 1959 when separate dryland and irrigated estimates were initiated. The record low was set in 1974 at 27 bushels per acre. Irrigated corn production totaled 414.4 million bushels, nine per cent above 1975. The average yield, at 112 bushels, was one bushel below 1975, but 10 per cent more irrigated acres were harvested in 1976. Irrigated acres accounted for 60 per cent of the total acres harvested for grain compared to 57 per cent in 1975.

More Sorghum

Sorghum producers harvested 119.7 million bushels of grain sorghum in 1976, 15 per cent above last year's crop. However, this was 16 per cent below the '66 record production. The average yield of 57 bushels was two bushels above 1975. See USDA, page 5.

Expert Warns Against Winter Feeding

Well-meaning persons who try to feed pheasants and other birds during cold, snowy periods of the winter should resist the temptation, for the outcome, directly or indirectly, will be futile. That's the advice of professor Howard Wiegiers, wildlife specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, who says that trying to feed wild creatures like domestic livestock is a practice truly "for the birds."

"It is true that frigid temperatures along with deep snow will cause birds problems in getting enough food to maintain their body temperature through long winter nights," Wiegiers said. However, it is possible to feed only a few birds under any circumstances, he said, and it is possible to artificially feed pheasants in a particular location over a period of time, there will be a serious side effect.

"Anytime pheasants or quail flock and stay in an area and always gather at the same place to feed, they become easy prey for predators," Wiegiers explained. "Thus, the effect that is most desired — to maintain existing populations — is not achieved, and in fact, numbers may be reduced."

Wiegiers urged citizens to consider the beneficial feeding and protecting of birds at another time of year. The simplest way to make sure that a pheasant or quail population is maintained is to develop and implement a habitat management plan, Wiegiers stated.

"This means that if the habitat providing the life requirements of a species is present, the animals and birds that require it will follow immediately. The advice to those who are interested in increasing wildlife numbers is plan now, plant later.

"If you do your part, Mother Nature will take over and provide the habitat with the maximum of wildlife holding capabilities," Wiegiers said. Wiegiers said it is unfortunate that many individuals "get excited" this time of year about the plight of wild animals, especially game birds. The stark reality of the pressure of winter on wild animals focuses the attention on a shortage of cover for wintering and next season's early nesting, he said.

"One of the facts of life we must accept is that as agriculture becomes more intensive, the opportunities for wildlife homes are proportionately reduced," the wildlife specialist pointed out. A recognition that the current trend in reduction of wildlife is likely to continue should not be interpreted as a plea to discontinue production agriculture for the sake of wildlife, he said.

However, Wiegiers said those Nebraskans who are concerned about the problems of wildlife, getting through the winter can do something about it, by purchasing a combination fishing and hunting license and habitat stamp.

"This approach is not a panacea, but is one way in which everyone can do something if really interested," Wiegiers advised. The expense of providing public services by the State Game and Parks Commission has been borne largely by hunters and fishers over the years, he added.

Wiegiers suggested that while those who hunt and fish have been willing to tax themselves to provide resources for the intelligent management of wild resources, "the non-hunter and non-fisher also can participate in providing more environment for wildlife."

Noting that "the opportunity has been available for all to become involved," Wiegiers said that if adequate support develops, "people would not have to be as concerned about whether pheasants and quail are going to get through the winter."

Tests Show Best Grazing Dates

Cool-season grasses will give the biggest returns per acre when pastured by yearling steers in spring and fall only. Dr. L.J. Perry, Jr., told the Nebraska Forage and Grassland Council (NFGC) at its winter meeting in Lincoln, Thursday.

Perry, an associate professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said UNL research has shown 46 per cent greater beef production per acre when cool season pastures near Lincoln were used April 30 to June 22 and Sept. 8 to Oct. 26, rather than during the entire season.

There is a slight difference with a cow-calf operation, where the cow will continue to supply milk to the calf at the expense of her body condition during the summer months when forage quality is low, Perry said. "The calf is therefore not as affected by lower quality forage as is the yearling during the summer on cool season pastures," he said.

Nitrogen fertilizer generally is needed to maintain cool season grasses on a continuing annual basis, he said. "In eastern Nebraska, an additional pound of beef an acre can be produced with each pound of nitrogen up to 160 pounds an acre," Perry said.

The potential use of warm season grasses by yearling steers generally is limited to June 1 through Sept. 15, he said. Rate of gain by steers grazing cool and warm season grasses in separate pastures generally is relatively constant throughout the grazing season, he said. Perry said grasses should be located in separate pastures because the combination of cool and warm season grasses in the same pasture has more disadvantages. The cool season component captures the soil moisture and nutrients in the spring at the expense of the warm season component, Perry said.

Interest in legumes in cool season pastures have been spurred by high nitrogen prices, and although alfalfa is the most common legume seeded with grass, the bloat problem is causing examination of other legumes.

He mentioned cicer milkvetch and birdsfoot trefoil as having potential use in low rainfall areas and in the eastern third of Nebraska, respectively. "Sweetclover can be found in several pastures throughout Nebraska. Sweetclover is cyclic in that its abundance and production appears to be very oriented to weather changes," he said.

He said the proposed regulations will "insure the selection of a British breed champion every year, short of some kind of disaster."

The group also agreed to recommend that a minimum of 25 steer entries of each breed be required to insure retention of that breed in the market beef show.

Should entries fall lower than 25 in the 1977 show, the breed still will be allowed to show in its respective class as scheduled, but would be placed "on probation" for a year. If the required minimum is not met in 1978, that breed's entries will be switched to one of the two crossbred divisions, and the breed's name will be removed from the State Fair 4-H premium book.

Breed officials pledged renewed efforts to increase Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn market steer and heifer entries, and agreed to provide added "special" cash premiums for high-placing British breed animals beyond the premiums provided by the State Fair.

"I think we'll increase our numbers over the standards that were set up," Melcher said. Kruse said he doesn't believe breed representatives will "have any problem" attracting the required minimum number of steers, especially since the recent elimination of beef breed divisions by the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show in Omaha.

Producers Plan Annual Convention

The 53rd annual meeting of Producers Commission Association will be held on Feb. 5, at the Marina Inn, South Sioux City, Nebraska, at 11:30 a.m.

Plans for the event, which is usually the largest gathering of livestock feeders and ranchers held annually in the Siouxland area, are being finalized by the board of directors and manager David F. Mitchell.

It is expected that more than 1,000 livestock producer-members of the marketing co-op, their wives and guests, will attend the meeting. The program will begin with a free dinner as guests of Producers, a business meeting, election of three directors, entertainment and drawing — many door prizes.

Speakers on the program will include Richard Letherland, assistant to the General Manager of the National Live Stock Producers Association and Dr. Richard Vilstrup, professor of meat, animal science and agricultural economics at the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin.

Here is information concerning weather that I have found quite interesting.

Winter Weather Warnings
Being familiar with terminology used by the Weather Service will help you know what to expect when weather warnings are issued. The following terms are used frequently in winter weather releases.

Freezing rain occurs when temperatures are below 32 degrees F and rain freezes on impact. This causes an ice coating on all exposed surfaces. If the coating is heavy, falling trees or wires can be additional hazards.

Freezing rain or drizzle is called an ice storm when substantial glaze layer accumulates. In some parts of the country, ice storms are called "silver thaws" or "silver frosts".

Sleet is frozen rain drops (ice pellets) which bounce on surface impact. Sleet does not stick to objects, but sufficient accumulations can cause dangerous driving conditions.

Travelers advisory means that falling snow and/or drifting snow, strong winds, freezing rain or drizzle will make driving hazardous.

Heavy snow warnings are issued when four or more inches are expected during a 12 hours period, or when six inches or more are expected during a 24 hour period.

Blowing and drifting snow results from strong winds, blowing falling snow, or loose snow on the ground and can produce sizeable drifts.

Blizzard warnings are issued when wind speeds of 35 miles per hour or more are expected with blowing or drifting snow.

Snow squalls are brief, intense snowfalls accompanied by gusty surface winds.

Stockman advisories are issued with combination of cold rain and/or snow with temperatures of 45 degrees F or colder and winds of 25 miles per hour or higher. If the temperatures are in the mid 30's or lower the wind speed criteria are lowered to 15 miles per hour.

Wind chill factor is the combined effect of wind and cold. A very strong wind combined with a temperature below freezing can have the same chilling effect as a temperature nearly 50 degrees lower with no wind.

Soybean Production Down
Soybean production in Nebraska totaled 20.6 million bushels, down 36 per cent from the 1975 crop and the lowest production since 1971.

Sugar Beets Down
Sugar beet production totaled 1.7 million tons, down five per cent from last year.

More Corn, Sorghum and Soybeans
Nebraska farmers as of January 1, 1977 intend to plant more acres of corn, sorghum and soybeans but fewer acres of oats and the same amount of barley and sugar beets.

Corn producers expect to plant 7.15 million acres to corn in 1977, two per cent above last year. The acreage would be the largest since 1953 but still far under the 1932 record acreage of 10,746,000.

Sorghum growers plan to plant 2.4 million acres to sorghum, four per cent more than 1976. This acreage would be the largest since 1967.

Soybean plantings, if materialized, would total 1.15 million acres, 10 per cent above the previous year but below both 1974 and 1975 plantings.

Cattle on Feed
Nebraska cattle feeders were fat tending 1.58 million cattle for slaughter market on Jan. 1, up 14 per cent from last year and 36 per cent from 1975.

A weight breakdown shows cattle on feed weighing 700 pounds or more on Jan. 1 totaled 500,000, down five per cent from a year ago.

During the October-December quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 910,000 lb. cattle, up 34 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

Cattle in 23 States Down
Cattle on feed for slaughter market in the 23 major cattle feeding states totaled 11,928 million head on Jan. 1, down three per cent from a year ago but up 24 per cent from January 1, 1975.

By weight groups, there were a total of 3,343,000 over 900 pounds, down four per cent, 4,284,000 at 700-899 pounds, down three per cent, and 4,238,000 under 700 pounds, down three per cent from last year.

Marketers of fed cattle for slaughter during the October-December quarter totaled 5,696,000, a 15 per cent increase from last year.

Cattle feeders in the 23 major feeding states intend to market 6,113,000 head during the January-March quarter. This would be a four per cent decrease from the first quarter marketings last year.

Nebraska's 1976 weather was, in a word, dry. How dry? Only two years in the past 25 were drier - 1956 and 1974.

Lowest reported temperature was 26 degrees below zero on Jan. 4 at Elsmere, Rose and Halsey.

January: Blizzard conditions prevailed in the western part of the state during the first few days of January.

Changes Recommended For Contest

A revised set of rules governing the 4-H Beef Show at the 1977 Nebraska State Fair that proposes formation of a division for British breeds has been completed and is presented to the State Fair Board at its meeting Saturday in Lincoln.

The plan was developed here last week at a meeting between officers of state beef breed associations, Nebraska Extension 4-H Livestock Committee and other representatives of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln animal science department.

In essence, the new plan will divide the show animals into two divisions for crossbred steers, a single division for British breed steers and a market hifers division. A grand and reserve champion 4-H market beef animals will be chosen from among the champions and reserve champions from each of the four divisions.

Within the British breed division, separate classes will be formed for Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn cattle, and a champion and reserve champion will be selected for each breed.

Champion and reserve champion Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn steers then will be combined to compete for British breed champion and reserve champion honors.

Cattle will be divided by weight within the two crossbred and market hifer divisions, and will be categorized by weight within each of the separate breed classes.

"Such an arrangement will not provide for separate divisions for Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn steers, but will retain the identity of each breed," said Dave Williams, 4-H general livestock superintendent.

The proposed rule changes would replace recommendations made in November by the Nebraska Extension 4-H Advisory Committee, which approved elimination of breed classifications in favor of weight categories in the 4-H Beef Show.

Williams said to insure the integrity of breed identification, the first, second and third place steers of each British breed class will be blood-typed for verification at the expense of the representative state beef breed associations.

He said they're fine," said Ed Kruse of Genoa, secretary of the Nebraska Shorthorn Association. "Some of the changes are better than the system we always have had in the past and yet maintain the identity of the straight breeds."

Harold Melcher of Page, president of the Nebraska Hereford Association, said he was "pleased" by the rule changes and said he "can't see that they will change (the show's) purpose."

"I would have liked to have seen all breeds compete for the grand champion market animal," he said. "But I feel our big objective is to get quality cattle (attracted to the show) that will grade at a decent weight so that cattle are profitable to raise."

He said steers should be about to grade choice at between 1,000 and 1,200 pounds.

Other breed representatives hailed the meeting's results as being "good for all concerned."

Warned to Watch Nutrients

Many dairymen are in danger of losing thousands of dollars in milk production if they fail to more closely examine the nutrient balance in their rations, according to Dr. Foster Owen, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension dairyman.

Owen warned Friday that a precarious situation has arisen because dairy producers balancing their roughted areas are feeding their herds rations that differ considerably from what they are accustomed to feeding."

"The need supplemental nutrients in the grain ration are quite different from normal years when there's plenty of alfalfa hay."

"It's our number one concern this winter in terms of profits," he said.

He said alfalfa hay production was reduced "sharply" last year, which has caused many dairymen to reduce the amount fed to between five and 10 pounds for each head daily.

"This winter, dairymen in droughted areas are feeding their herds rations that differ considerably from what they are accustomed to feeding."

Owen warned that trace mineral levels in high corn silage rations also are lower than in high alfalfa hay rations, and can be met by including one per cent trace mineralized salt in the grain mixture.

Just How Dry Was It in 1976?

Nebraska's 1976 weather was, in a word, dry. How dry? Only two years in the past 25 were drier - 1956 and 1974.

Lowest reported temperature was 26 degrees below zero on Jan. 4 at Elsmere, Rose and Halsey.

January: Blizzard conditions prevailed in the western part of the state during the first few days of January.

February: Unusually warm was February, averaging five to 11 degrees above normal across the state.

March: Temperature averaged one to four degrees above normal in most of Nebraska.

April: The warming trend continued as temperatures averaged one to four degrees above normal throughout the state.

May: Nebraska began to dry out in May, as precipitation dropped below normal in all divisions of the state.

June: Precipitation was light and far below normal in all areas of the state.

July: The month of July was hot and dry. Temperatures averaged one to three degrees above normal over most of Nebraska.

August: This was another hot, dry month in most parts of Nebraska. Rainfall was highly variable from one site to another.

September: Precipitation was below normal in all divisions. The accumulated precipitation for October and November was far below normal in all divisions.

October: The dry trend continued through October as all divisions in the state reported below-normal precipitation.

November: November was a cold, dry month. Temperatures averaged from two to three degrees below normal in the Panhandle Division to as much as five to seven degrees below normal in other parts of the state.

December: Precipitation was light and far below normal in all areas of the state. Preliminary figures for December show that monthly average temperatures were above normal in the west and below normal in the east.

There are those who argue that there is a difference between private morality and public morality. Those who believe this usually feel that public morality is most important where getting caught could be most embarrassing. It is difficult if not impossible to switch between two different standards of morality and be convincing in either. Disability Decisions Are Made Jointly

The decision on whether or not disabled people are eligible for social security disability benefits is a joint effort of the Social Security Administration and the Nebraska Rehabilitation Services Division, Disability Determinations Section.

To get benefits, a disabled worker must have worked long enough and recently enough in jobs covered by social security. The work record is checked by social security. Most workers need at least five years of covered work in the 10 years before they become disabled, although for workers disabled before age 31, the requirement decreases with age to as little as one and one-half years of work.

Under the law, payments can be made to disabled workers and their families if the worker is severely disabled and not expected to be able to do any substantial gainful work for a year or more.

Medically that means a physical or mental impairment that is expected to last, or has lasted, for at least 12 months — or is expected to result in death.

The actual decision on whether or not a worker is disabled within the meaning of the social security law is made in the disability determinations section by two disability evaluation specialists, one of them a doctor.

In most cases they reach a decision based on the medical reports from sources listed by the worker — his doctors, hospitals and other institutions that have treated the disability. The worker is responsible for charges, if there are any, for these reports.

Or they may need additional information, tests, or examinations to make the decision. The government pays for those.

Conditions ordinarily considered disabling under the social security law include severe heart disease, progressive cancer, a severe mental illness, permanent kidney failure, and loss of major function of both arms or both legs.

The definition of disability under the social security law is a comparatively severe definition. People can be eligible for disability benefits under some other programs but still be ineligible under the social security program.

The workers is notified of disability determinations section's social security disability decision in an explanatory letter. If benefits are to be paid, the letter tells how much a month they'll be and when to expect the first check. If the worker is found ineligible, the letter explains why and tells how the decision can be appealed.

The disability determinations section also considers whether or not vocational rehabilitation services might help a disabled worker get back to work. The services include counseling, teaching of new skills, training in the use of prostheses, and job placement.

Legislative bills flood Unicameral hopper during opening period

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN Bills covering a wide variety of topics flowed into the legislative hopper during the period when individual lawmakers could sponsor up to 10 measures on any subject they desired.

The large batch of proposals included several bills to trigger heated debate because they deal with the control and use of a precious commodity — water.

Most water measures came from the Public Works Committee of which Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora is chairman. Among them was LB 296 which would authorize, under strict procedures, the interstate transfer of surface and ground water. Generally, no person could withdraw or divert water from outside the basin of origin without a special permit from the Nebraska Department of Water Resources.

The bill would establish an advisory board whose members would come from six state agencies. Together with the director of the Water Resources Department, the board would develop rules and regulations to govern diversion.

Among provisions in the bill is one that the basin of origin's water supply for domestic, municipal, agricultural, industrial, fish and wildlife, pollution control, recreation and conservation uses could not be jeopardized by any transfer.

Other bills would give landowners rights to water under their property if they used the water for beneficial purposes on their land and would guarantee them use of surface water adjoining their land.

Still another bill — this one supported by well drillers — calls for adoption of the Nebraska Ground Water Control Act. Under this proposal, the State Health Department would be empowered to make rules and regulations governing licensing of well drillers, septic tank and pump installers.

The bill provides for a nine-member well contractors examining board and an advisory committee, both appointed by the governor.

Kremer said the Health Department, was suggested as the administering body "probably because it was put in charge of the state's safe drinking water act by a previous legislature."

Dworak Amendment

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus continues pursuing his belief that a single board should be in charge of all of Nebraska's public postsecondary educational institutions.

He is promoting a constitutional amendment bill that would wipe out the University of Nebraska Board of Regents. Dworak is proposing creation of a nine-member board of trustees that would be the governing body for the university, the state colleges, technical community colleges and all other public-supported postsecondary institutions.

His bill would also strike a constitutional clause that permits the student body president from each of the University of Nebraska's three campuses to be non-voting regents.

The Columbus lawmaker would like to have the nine trustees, elected by districts, serve six-year terms. Duties and powers of the trustees would be defined by the legislature.

Parole Commission

Many of the first bills in which public hearings were held were non-controversial. Not so with Ralston Sen. Gerald Koch's LB 69 which proposed creation of a five-member State Parole Board Nominating Commission.

Koch argued the commission he suggested would decrease the chances for the governor to make politically motivated appointments to the board. He also supported salaries ranging from $25,440 to $30,740 for the three full-time board members and about $70 a day for part-time members with the argument they have a mission similar to county court judges and should receive comparable pay.

Membership of the nominating commission would be appointed by the governor after he had received recommendations from the secretary of state, attorney general, chief justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court and the state director of correctional services.

Koch's bill would also mandate that the board have at least one member of a minority, one woman and one former inmate of the Nebraska penal institution. Each would have to hold an academic degree or practical experience deemed sufficient to replace an academic degree.

Tax Bills

State tax commissioner William Peters has given the Revenue Committee a dozen tax change proposals — including three he said could produce about $4 million for the state's highway trust and general funds.

The three measures with the potential for generating the big money would change cigarette, sales and motor fuel tax collection fees.

Peters is proposing a graduated fee to wholesalers who are paid for affixing stamps to cigarette packages. They are not paid a flat five per cent but Peters would have the fee range from five per cent for the first half million packs down to one per cent for eight million or more. The change, he said, could bring the state $600,000.

Another Peters proposal was that fees paid businesses for collecting sales taxes be no more than $100 a month plus $25 for each additional business outlier. The plan, according to the tax commissioner, could generate as much as $3 million for the state.

He estimated $300,000 could be realized for the highway trust fund with a change in motor fuel tax collection fees. Dealers now get two per cent on the first $5,000 collected and .5 per cent for amounts above that. Peters would eliminate the .5 per cent.

Jail Standards

A lively topic among law enforcement officials is that of minimum jail standards.

That became evident again during a recent explanation of proposed jail standards to the Unicameral's Judiciary Committee.

There is a law on the books allowing the State Department of Correctional Services to develop the standards, which have met stout opposition in many sections of the state.

Standard administrator Bob Cote advised the committee the proposed rules and regulations for jails cannot be put into effect until after they have been submitted to the attorney general and secretary of state.

In addition, Cote said, nine public hearings on them have been arranged across the state.

Even after the standards are approved, Cote said, the department cannot order a county to close its jail because the power to order renovation or construction of facilities rests with the district judges.

Price competition creates farm dilemma

The fact that the United States is currently being undersold in the world grain market illustrates the dilemma of those who must administer federal farm policies.

In late December, U.S. exporters offered U.S. domestic wheat on the world market at $2.89 per bushel, but Canada, with a record 1976 wheat crop, was selling orders at $2.50. Argentina and Australia are about ready to harvest their new crops and have been competing aggressively for exports.

Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota, a major wheat producing state, recently took part in the tour by U.S. senators (including Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska) of the Peoples Republic of China. In a newsletter describing his trip, Sen. Young reported knowledgeably on what he observed concerning China's agriculture. And, he told of the conversation with a Chinese official who told him, "We have not been buying your wheat because it is too high." Sen. Young said the Chinese official told him they were buying Australian wheat for 13 cents per bushel less than what they would have to pay for U.S. wheat.

Meanwhile the loan rate on U.S. wheat is at $2.25, having been raised to that level last Oct. 13. Wheat producers are putting more wheat under loan and the USDA has estimated that probably 400 to 700 million bushels will go under loan this year. By next July, the carryover of old crop wheat is expected to be over one billion bushels for the largest surplus that has developed since the early 1960's.

The Soviet Union and most of the major wheat producing countries had excellent crops in 1976 and overall world supplies have gained considerably. The international grain trade has changed from a seller's market to a buyer's market and U.S. grain producers are losing sales to competing nations. Farm commodity exports from the U.S. exceeded $22 billion last fiscal year and contributed to a favorable balance of trade for the nation. Exports this year have already dropped off and the nation's balance of payments has been running in the red by sizable amounts, with part of the reason being our huge pay-outs for foreign oil. This puts increased pressure on the value of the dollar in world trade.

The problem stacks up when some farm groups and politicians advocate raising federal target price and loan rates for producers to 100 per cent of parity and costs of production." Not long ago a well-known farmer declared concerning the cost-price squeeze currently on U.S. farmers: "All you have to do is raise the loan rate on wheat to $3.50 and you would solve everything." If U.S. wheat is being priced out of the world market now, think what would happen if the loan rate were placed at $3.50. With one-third of U.S. wheat normally going to export customers, the wheat glut would intensify and the costs of storage mount. Wheat sitting in storage isn't going to feed the world's steadily growing population.

The immediate danger in this situation is sure to be a form of government subsidies to producers. This didn't work in 40 years of farm programs and isn't likely to work any better now. As one political realist said, "The farm program used to cost the taxpayers $4 to $5 billion per year, but now is down below $1 billion. The taxpayers aren't going to stand hitched for going back to $4 and $5 billion a year programs." Remember the cry that went up when it was found that the 1972 wheat sale to Russia was subsidized in accordance with a law that had been in existence and used since 1949?

There just aren't any simplistic answers and most farmers know this better than anyone else. — M. M. VanKirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Deregulation of natural gas advocated

Ask the folks in Dalton, Georgia, if there is really a shortage of natural gas. On Friday, Jan. 14, they received 12 hours notice that their supply would be cut back by 52 per cent. It was, Dalton suffered an immediate loss of 8,000 jobs.

Other communities all over the nation are experiencing similar curtailments, although few — so far — are as drastic as Dalton's.

What happened? First, this winter has been unusually severe over most of the country. The prolonged cold weather has increased the need for fuel of all kinds. It has also frozen many navigable waterways, which prevents barge deliveries of petroleum products and coal. Industries deprived of these fuels must either shut down or switch to natural gas (if they have the equipment). So the demand for natural gas has suddenly ballooned.

Second, this sudden increase in demand is meeting dwindling supplies of gas. Gas production peaked in this country in 1972. We are now using more every year than is being added to the reserve. Our present reserves are good for only eight or nine years at most.

This situation should not come as a surprise. The National Chamber, the gas producers and other business groups have been warning that it would happen for 22 years. That's right, 22 years ever since the Supreme Court decided in the Phillips Petroleum case that the Federal Power Commission is required to regulate the wellhead price of natural gas sold in interstate commerce.

The inevitable result of federal regulation has been to hold the price of gas well below the level necessary to attract producers to discover and develop new supplies. It has also encouraged waste of a fuel that should be reserved for premium uses.

Why can't the FPC permit a realistically high price? Because every time it tries it gets sued by so-called consumer representatives who demand that the price be "cost based." And what's wrong with that? "Cost based" to a regulatory agency means last year's costs, not this year's costs or next year's costs. In an inflationary economy, the difference can be ruinous. "Cost based" also means average costs. But the energy company exploring on Alaska's North Slope or offshore in 900 feet of water is not experiencing "average" costs.

An idea of just how far from reality the "official" prices are can be gained by a comparison of free-market intrastate rates and federal interstate rates. Gas is selling in the producer states for $2.50 per thousand cubic feet. That's what it's really worth in contrast, the federal ceiling for newly-discovered gas is $1.42 per thousand, and much interstate gas is still moving under contracts reflecting earlier ceilings around 40 cents.

The only way out of this problem is total deregulation of gas prices. Temporary waivers of the rules can paper over the cracks for another winter or two, but that would only postpone the inevitable. However, since deregulation is politically unpopular, I am not too optimistic about the prospects. It makes a dandy issue for the demagogues.

Would deregulation cause hardships for present users? No. If it were done, it would certainly cause a price increase at the consumer level, although not as great as you might think (most of the cost of gas service goes to pay for the distribution system, not for the gas itself). And whatever price increases occurred would undoubtedly be phased in gradually to allow people time to adjust.

Nobody ever likes higher prices. But let me pose two extremely relevant questions which deserve consideration on both the individual and the national levels:

—By and large, consumers who use coal, electricity or fuel oil for heat are now paying the free-market price. Why do those who use natural gas deserve a special subsidy not available to others?

—Would you rather have gas at $2.50 per thousand cubic feet, or not have gas at $1.42 per thousand cubic feet? — Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.
