

Eagles Ready to Begin Local Membership Drive

Nebraska Fraternal Order of Eagles (F.O.E.) president Robert Carlson of Blair said he will begin Wednesday taking applications for an Eagles air (chapter) being formed in Wayne.

Carlson last Wednesday met for the second time with local residents interested in forming an Eagles club in Wayne.

About 10 persons attended the first meeting and about 30 people Wednesday night indicated they were ready to apply for membership.

Carlson has previously said that 50 members are required to charter a club and he would prefer to have at least 100.

The Eagles state president has purchased the building at 119 Main St. in Wayne to house the club, although he said it will be up to local members to decide if they want to purchase the building or locate the club elsewhere, once the local charter is formed.

Initial cost of membership is $25 including a $15 annual membership fee and $10 charter fee. Carlson said $5 of the charter fee is returned to the club and the other $5 is used for purchase of supplies.

Membership application blanks have been distributed previously, but Carlson said he decided to wait to accept applications until he felt there was sufficient interest in forming a club.

The meeting Wednesday will begin at 7:30 p.m. Carlson said he will be accepting membership applications then. Application forms will be available at the meeting.

Zorinsky said the funds will enable the city to update and improve its sewage treatment facilities.

The city has now received about $160,000 in grants for the project, according to city clerk Marland Schroeder. EPA regulations require the city to eliminate sewage from draining into Logan Creek.

Estimated cost of the project is about $750,000. Construction is projected to begin in 1977 with the operation beginning before the end of the year.

Feeders Elect New Directors

The Northeast Feeders Association last week elected three new directors to four-year terms.

Elected were Art Greve of Wakefield, Richard Olsen of Allen, and Larry Morgan of Dakota City. John Kruse of Walthill was reelected to a four-year term.

Other directors are Ted Harbrock of Emerson, Norman Meyer of Wakefield, Gerald Muller of Concord, Werner Mann of Winside, Darrel Rahn of Wayne, Clifford Baker of Wakefield, Rodney Landerol of Pender, Leon Bruns of Pender, Harold Hermelbrach of Pender, Bob Boals of Dakota City, Marvin Russum of Hubbard, and Rodney Bonderson of Emerson.

Water Legislation Is Flooding Unicameral

This is the first of a series of articles which will appear in The Wayne Herald, written by Dan Looker.

Looker is publications editor for the Center for Rural Affairs, a nonprofit study group in Walthill.

This first article, and at least two more, will focus on water in Nebraska, an issue which has become increasingly important to farmers in particular and Nebraska in general.

By DAN LOOKER
As arctic winds sift dry cropland in southwest Nebraska and freeze the same northeast Nebraska streams that dried up last summer killing countless fish, the Unicameral has begun to grapple with an antiquated system of water laws.

By the end of last week, ten water bills had been introduced from the floor of the legislature and daily newspapers across the state carried reports of other proposals being drafted. Yet, for all the activity, the planned legislation continues loopholes and gaps in Nebraska water law and is adding to confusion about the state's precious resource — that striking sea of underground water. These are the water bills that have provoked the most discussion so far.

—LB 55, introduced by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, would place a constitutional amendment on the 1978 general election ballot to make ground water the private property of landowners, subject to regulation by the state "when it is in the public interest."

Wayne Dealership Has New Owner, Same Name

A 34-year-old Wayne native has purchased a majority interest in Coryell Auto Co. and Coryell Derby Oil Company in Wayne.

Michael Perry purchased the companies from Roy Coryell effective Jan. 1. Official announcement of the change in ownership was made Thursday.

Coryell will stay on with the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile automobile dealership for a year as a vice president. "After that, it's an open book," Coryell said, adding that he and his wife, Vivian, will continue to live in Wayne. Coryell will retain his interest in the Country Sportsman snowmobile and motor cycle dealership.

Perry is a 1960 graduate of Hahn High School, formerly operated by Wayne State College and attended WSC for two years before transferring to the University of Nebraska at Lincoln where he graduated with a degree in business administration in 1965.

Perry then became the first college trainee in the Ford Motor Co. heavy truck order department program at Louisville, Ky. He worked for Ford in sales and management for 10 years in Louisville, Kansas City, New Orleans, and Davenport, Ia. Prior to purchasing Coryell Auto he was general manager of a Ford dealership in Dubuque, Iowa.

Perry's wife is the former Jill Hendrickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hendrickson of Wayne. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perry of Wayne.

Mrs. Perry and Tom, nine and Anna, six, will be moving from Dubuque as soon as arrangements are completed. The Perrys have purchased a home in Wayne.

Vandalism Hikes City Crime Rate

The number of traffic accidents which occurred in Wayne in 1976 was 16 per cent less than the number for the previous year, according to an end-of-year report compiled by police chief Vern Fairchild, but numerous incidents of vandalism boosted the number of reported criminal cases.

A total of 103 cases of vandalism were reported to the police department in 1976, compared with 80 in 1975.

Officers investigated 175 traffic accidents compared with 209 in 1975.

The department received 198 criminal complaints, clearing or determining as unfounded 76 cases and making 79 criminal arrests, compared with 39 arrests in 1975.

There was an increase in the number of burglaries reported — 14 in 1976 compared with eight in 1975. However, two of five residential reports and one of nine non-residential reports were determined as unfounded, and six of the cases were cleared. Reported losses were $1,119 — $179 from residential and $940 from non-residential burglaries.

The department received 70 theft reports with losses totaling $2,541.12 in 1976. That compares with 68 cases, but $6,898.32 in reported losses in 1975.

A total of $2,489.43 in stolen property was recovered during the year.

The number of stolen autos reported was the same — seven — for both years.

Spending tickets, 261 of them, accounted for $4,220 in fines during the year. The next biggest category was parking tickets with 115 tickets and $500 in fines collected. Police officers also issued 60 citations to dog owners who failed to keep their pets confined, for a total of $275 fines.

Total number of arrests for the year, including traffic tickets, was 706, up sharply from the 471 arrests in 1975. Fines collected in 1976 amounted to $7,840 compared with $5,481 the previous year.

In addition, 15 juvenile cases were referred to the county attorney, 10 cases were not filed, five persons were placed on probation, four were released to other agencies, three persons were sent to the Boys Training Center at Kearney, three persons received jail sentences, and one was placed on probation to his parents. WSC Gets Passing Mark, Accreditation Continued

By JIM STRAYER
Wayne State College president Dr. Lyle Seymour was notified Friday that the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) has granted accreditation of graduate programs through 1983.

An NCATE review board last fall recommended against accrediting the college's three master-level programs: elementary, secondary, and counselor education.

NCATE is a national accrediting agency for teacher education programs. Seymour said the agency's approval is important to teachers graduating from WSC because it means their qualifications are accepted by other states through reciprocity agreements.

Evaluations by the council are made at the request of the college or university being evaluated. The process for the current accreditation cycle at WSC actually began in 1973 when the college requested an evaluation.

At that time, NCATE approved all undergraduate teacher education programs but expressed concern over some areas of the graduate programs and indicated that a second evaluation would be made in three years.

The second evaluation began a year ago when the college submitted a self-evaluation report to NCATE. Then, in February, an evaluation team of professional educators from other colleges and universities visited WSC.

Seymour said the evaluation team, before leaving, indicated to WSC officials that there were some areas to concentrate on improving, but the team also said it appeared that much had been done to improve the three masters degree programs since the initial visit three years before.

In fact, Dr. Seymour said, the visitation team left WSC officials believing that the report indicated an acceptable level of quality for graduate programs.

Written text of the visitation team report did indicate some areas of concern but the graduate programs got passing marks on an item-by-item evaluation.

Various areas of the graduate programs were rated on the following scale: 1 — excellent, 2 — good, 3 — acceptable, 4 — area of concern, and 5 — unacceptable.

The three graduate programs were rated no lower than 3 — acceptable, in all areas. However, a review board charged with evaluating the visitation team's report was sufficiently concerned about three items to recommend in October against continuing accreditation of the masters programs.

Items which concerned the review board were governance and funding of graduate programs, and work loads of graduate program faculty members.

Institutions receiving unfavorable recommendations from review boards have the right to request another evaluation by an independently-convened review board. Seymour and Dr. Ed Elliott, vice president for academic affairs, and Dr. Lyle Skov, head of the education and psychology division, attended the second review hearing Jan. 12 in Chicago. No new material was presented by See ACCREDITATION, page 9

Family Leader Announced

Shirley A. Kleensang has been named Winside High School's 1976-77 General Mills Family Leader of Tomorrow.

She won the honor by competing with other Winside seniors in a written knowledge and attitude examination Dec. 7. She will receive a certificate from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational scholarship program, and becomes eligible for state and national honors.

The state Family Leader of Tomorrow, to be chosen through judging centered on performance in the test, will receive a $1,500 college scholarship, with second-ranking participant in the state receiving a $500 grant.

The state winner will also earn for his or her school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation.

In April, the 15 winners representing every state and the District of Columbia will be the guests of General Mills on an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D.C. During the tour, personal observations and interviews will be conducted to select the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Second, third and fourth place winners will receive scholarship increases to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively.

Miss Kleensang is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kleensang of Hoskins.

Planning Group Will Choose New Chairman

The Wayne County joint planning commission is scheduled to elect a new chairman at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Election of a new chairman was tabled at the last meeting. The commission will continue work on proposed zoning regulations for the county and will review land development regulations.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the district court room of the county courthouse. The public is invited to attend all commission meetings.

Fruit Delivery Delayed

A devastating freeze in Florida has delayed delivery of fruit sold earlier this month by Wayne High school band and choir members, bandmaster Ron Dalton said Friday.

Dalton said delivery of the fruit from Texas was expected last week. However, freezing temperatures destroyed much of the Florida fruit crop and shipments of Texas fruit have been rerouted to help compensate for the loss, delaying delivery of fruit sold by choir and band members.

Dalton said Friday it will be about two weeks before the order is delivered.

Students took orders for oranges and grapefruits to raise money for a new public address system for the high school.

Allen Group Hopes to Reopen Country Kitchen

Members of the Allen Commercial Club are hoping that their plan will generate enough interest from prospective managers to reopen the Country Kitchen Cafe.

The group Wednesday night agreed to talk with business owner Harold Paul of Sioux City about buying the kitchen equipment and then renting it at a low cost. The group hopes that by reducing the price someone will take over managing the business.

Last week, former managers Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burcham of Waterbury closed the door for good, according to club secretary Keith Hill.

Hill noted that the Allen American Legion Club, which owns the building, already included $1,200 toward the kitchen. Persons interested should contact Commercial Club president Bill Kjer of Allen.

STRAYER Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

A Broken Bow family took advantage of the comparatively mild weather Sunday, Jan. 22, to enjoy a picnic in Henry Victor Park in Wayne.

Not an earth shattering event, perhaps, but comments by the Steve Finney family help to point out that not many communities have a handy place like the park for use by travelers. Wayne has two: Henry Victor Park on Highway 15, and the Lions Club Park on Highway 35. It is often easy to take for granted the nice things about your own town. It's nice to know that other people are appreciative.

credit — or blame, depending on your point of view.

Insauguration Views
Speaking of points of view, it's interesting to see what youngsters thought of the inauguration ceremonies.

Fifth graders at the Wayne Middle School were asked to respond in writing to the question: "What did you think of the inauguration?"
"I thought it was very sad seeing Gerald Ford leaving office, yet it was a happy moment seeing Carter turn President. I guess something that's happy for one man is sad for another," was one youngster's description of her feelings. Other youngsters echoed regret at seeing Ford leave. "A sad part was when Gerald Ford got on his airplane to go to California," and "I think Mr. and Mrs. Ford felt sad because they were not going to live in the White House anymore," were typical comments.

Yet the fifth graders also expressed interest in the new Chief Executive. "I liked it when President Carter made his speech. I thought it was interesting because I wanted to see what kind of President he would make," one reply stated. "I enjoyed the oath most and I think Carter is going to be a great President," another youngster wrote of her impression of President Carter.

Other parts of the celebration captured the imagination of some of the students. One youngster liked "the well-trained horses... the clown on roller skates, and the float with the man in the bathtub," while a classmate was more intrigued by "the float from Alaska with snow on it." Still another fifth grader was impressed by "the people who walked with the giant peanut."

The President's walk down Pennsylvania Ave. also impressed many of the students. "I liked inauguration '77," when Jimmy Carter started walking down Pennsylvania Ave. and walked for a mile and a quarter. They said it was a long day for Amy."
One student seemed concerned about the President's safety, saying "I didn't like the idea of Mr. Carter walking all the way along Pennsylvania Ave." Another youngster painted a different picture, saying "there were secret service men in trees, on top of buildings, and walking beside him."

All in all, the class seemed to think it was a pretty big day. One youngster went so far as to say "I though January 20, 1977, was one of the biggest days in January."

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

Your wallet and the public purse

If a criminal knocked you down in the street and stole $50 from your wallet or purse, you'd be outraged. You'd talk about it for years. You'd never forget it.
When corrupt government officials steal millions from you, you read about it, shake your head in disgust and then dismiss it from your mind. Why? If you think the money stolen by corrupt government officials isn't being lifted from your wallet, you'd better think again.

There are a lot of honest politicians. Thank God, they exist. But the dishonest ones also exist.
If we're going to do anything about them, we'll have to begin with some basic preventive measures. One is to require our top officials — elected and appointed — to disclose their financial holdings. Citizens have a right to know whether their public officials have a personal financial stake in the very matters on which they're making official decisions — in other words, whether they have a conflict of interest.

The government's own inspectors — the General Accounting Office — recently uncovered hundreds of such conflicts of interest in the executive branch bureaucracy. They found, among other things:
— That an oil engineer in the Interior Department, responsible for monitoring oil company operations on leased lands, had owned stock since 1971 in major oil companies operating on leased lands.

— That a Civil Aeronautics Board employee, responsible for approving air fare requests, owned stock in a firm engaged in air charter, air taxi and flight services.
— That a Federal Maritime Commission official held 584 shares of stock in a company which was regulated by the Commission and has maritime operations in his district.

— That only seven out of the 125 Federal Power Commission officials required to file a financial statement in 1973 actually did so.
— That the Civil Aeronautics Board procedures are so vague that no CAB official filed a report in 1970, 1971 or 1973.
In one agency after another, the GAO found that nobody had set down a definition of what a conflict of interest was, that financial statements were not being reviewed, and that follow up remedial action was hardly ever taken.

The situation in the Congress is as unsatisfactory as it is in the Executive Branch. Congressional disclosure requirements are so weak that the public can have only the vaguest information on the extent of our lawmakers' financing holdings. We do know that in 1973:
86 Representatives had interest in banks; 48 had investments in the top 100 defense contractors; 66 House members were receiving income from their law firms.

The kind of disclosure law we need would not assert that such outside financial interests are necessarily improper. It would just insist that they be publicly disclosed.

Let us be clear about what is needed in the way of disclosure. Citizens do not need to know a public official's net worth. It tells them nothing of significance for the political process. Nor do citizens need to see an official's income tax forms.

Citizens do need to know where the public official gets his or her income (specific stocks owned, real property, etc.). And they need to know approximately the extent of the holdings. For example, if the official receives income from a law firm, a disclosure statute might require that he specify whether it is in the range between $1,000 and $10,000 per year, between $10,000 and $50,000, between $50,000 and $100,000, or over $100,000.

Some federal officials argue that requiring them to disclose their personal finances is a gross invasion of privacy. But no official is coerced into public service if they voluntarily assume responsibility for decisions affecting large amounts of our tax dollars, we must ask that they give us certain basic information on their own finances. It just makes sense. — John Warner, Common Cause Chairman.

Not Taking Sides
I suppose by now you have all heard about the infamous Tuesday trip to Peru last week. The one for the basketball game, only it was Wednesday night.

The athletic department at Wayne State College has taken quite a ribbing over the affair, including a "special" edition of the Herald distributed at Thursday's Second Guessers meeting, but there is another side to the story. According to our sources in the athletic department, Peru officials changed the schedule, though they had contacted WSC, but hadn't. Personally, I'm not going to take sides in the matter.

Incidentally, a note to Second Guessers: I failed to put a byline in the tongue-in-cheek story about "Seward's Riders," but Pat Gross deserves the

Out of Old

Nebraska

When a Missouri River steamboat from St. Joe docked at Nebraska City on a spring morning in 1865, there walked ashore 20 year old artist Charles S. Stobie, who was destined to become one of this state's foremost "Indian" artists.

Baltimore born, Stobie had attended the Maryland Institute and studied drawing and painting in Scotland. He was to become "an important chronicler of the West," but in Nebraska City he hired out as a "bulldozer" for $30 per month and job. At Fort Kearney, famous Frank North invited Stobie to join him and his Pawnee Scouts; but Stobie continued on the dangerous journey westward to the mountains. Three skirmishes with hostile Indians occurred on the Platte River between Forts Kearney and Sedgewick, but the train arrived safely in Denver. News of Stobie's heroism against the Indians preceded him, and he never lacked employment, friends or money while in Colorado.

In "Charles S. Stobie: Artist of Colorado," Colorado Magazine, Summer 1974 (published by the State Historical Society of Colorado), author Michael A. Sievers wrote that Stobie never did want for employment, for he ably combined scouting and painting.
"The winter of 1865-66 he spent working as a scenic artist for Jack Langrish's theatre troupe. Also during the winter months, he began to paint landscapes. One such painting, described by the Denver Rocky Mountain News as 'the most excellent and beautiful work in oil painting we have seen in this country,' was raffled off at Andy Stanbury's Tamblin Saloon.

"During the spring or summer of 1866, Stobie crossed the Snowy Range by way of Berthoud Pass and lived with Nevada's band of Ute Indians. Adopted into the tribe and known as Pahgeghet or Long Hair, he was a member of a Ute war party that took seven scalps with a band of Cheyenne and Arapaho in Middle Park near Grand Lake. It was during this time that Stobie, rugged yet sensitive border to paint in earnest... Artistically and ethnologically, his works vary widely (yet) his attention to detail in the case of Indian dress and village life remains a valuable record."

The rugged life on the frontier altered Stobie's appearance, and he became known as Mountain Charlie among the whites. Stobie wrote: "...I wore my hair very long. We wore our hair long as a protection from wind, sun and rain, and not to be odd, as some thought. When riding horseback our hair would shake and flout in the wind and in the summer served as a fan to keep us cool, while in the winter it protected the head and neck from the cold." Stobie hunted buffalo on the eastern plains of Colorado in the 1870's, but his painting of Buffalo Bill's hunting expedition did not satisfy his old friend Cody. Cody criticized the way Stobie painted the Indians, the horses and himself.

Charles S. Stobie — artist, scout, buffalo hunter, and poet — left Colorado in 1875, and painted mainly at his Chicago studio until his death in 1931. His "important collection of Indian and early western historical relics" was given to the Colorado State Historical Society. Included in the Stobie gift were thirty-two oil paintings. Other canvases are owned by collectors and museums throughout the United States.

The Nebraska State Historical Society has four oil portraits painted by Stobie in 1891. The portraits (from the D. Charles Bristol Collection) are of Sioux chiefs Sitting Bull, Rain-in-the-Face, Gall and one of D. Charles' Omaha, "Charlie". Bristol. Post card reproductions of Sitting Bull and Rain-in-the-Face are available at the society.

Bristol came to Nebraska in 1867 at the age of thirty three. Married to a Winnebago Indian woman, he spent most of his life as an Indian trader. He was probably nicknamed Omaha Charlie because of his close association with the Omaha Indians. Some of his ethnographic artifacts are still displayed at the Nebraska State Historical Society Museum.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

The auto people who worry about the appearance of the instrument panel, the color of the carpeting or the texture of the seats are rapidly coming into their own.

They call them interior designers and for most of the auto's long history they have been runner up to the exterior designers in public importance. They day may not be far away when customers will be color keying the car exteriors to match the inside decor, the Automotive Information Council suggests.
One of the most distinctive differences that set top-of-the-line entries apart from the base or standard offerings in today's cars are the interiors. The influence is so great that interior specialists are now transforming the pickup truck and even the van into objects of attractiveness.

The fact that nearly half the drivers today are women probably has had the greatest effect on interior changes for the better. If isn't just the eye appeal that has brought the changes about. Years ago, manufacturers found out that certain types of upholstery snagged or were not exactly compatible with various furs.

An interior designer for one auto maker believes we are at the beginning of a normal nine year cycle in interior design. For the future, he says that so-called bench seats will decline in favor of seats that can be individually adjusted. These seats would be light in weight and have the "think look" — partly for good looks and partly in the industry battle to reduce weight.

Instrument panels may be undergoing the biggest design change of all. Computers are just beginning to move inside the automobiles to take over and monitor various engineering functions. What they are doing and how various parts are functioning will be told to the motorist on instrument panel displays.

Interior space already is being used to the maximum as outer dimensions decline. The interior designer has an important job in seeing to it that the inside of the car continues to "make the passenger feel at home." A friendly atmosphere is conducive to safe and pleasant driving. Making it friendly is no small order in these times of safety and emission requirements that infringe on interior design.

OBSERVATIONS

Losing battle?

Members of Nebraska's Congressional delegation are fighting what could be a losing battle to protect the state's best interests during the shift in power in Washington.

The Senate Wednesday confirmed Ray Marshall as Secretary of Labor. Both Democrat Ed Zorinsky and Republican Carl Curtis voted against confirming Marshall.

The New Labor Secretary, who has been called a "friend of labor," favors repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits states to ban union shop agreements.

Nebraska is one of 20 states with a right to work law. Senate confirmation of Marshall may be the first pro-labor victory in the expected battle over repeal of 14-B. Such an action would not be beneficial to the people of Nebraska.

Even more threatening to Nebraska, we think, is the expected appointment of Carl Tucker Foreman, president of the Consumer Federation of America, as assistant secretary of Agriculture.

First District Representative Charles Thone has attacked the nation as "politically self-serving."

Mrs. Foreman reportedly would be given a firm-merged-down area of responsibility at the Agriculture Department as an assistant secretary for consumer services. Previously, there has been an assistant secretary for marketing and consumer services. Mrs. Foreman would retain authority over the food stamp, meat and poultry inspection and certain other programs, according to reports, but farm marketing programs would be supervised by another assistant secretary.

We must agree with Thone that Mrs. Foreman's appointment would weaken agriculture's influence in the department which is supposed to represent agriculture.

Consumer interests are well represented in most cases now, over represented in some, and the influence of consumer groups continues to grow.

The influence of the nation's farmers, by contrast, is limited. Some attempt at organization continue but it is unlikely that agriculture will ever organize to the point where it has a base for influence anywhere near comparable to, say, organized labor.

Without discounting the importance of consumer protection, we also believe agriculture needs someone to speak for it. The Department of Agriculture should provide a voice. — Jim Strayer.

Wood can be purchased through the Jaycees.

WALTER JAMES, a certified police officer from Walthill, was officially hired as Bancroft Police Chief last Monday at a special meeting of the Bancroft Village Board. The hiring of a new chief of police for the Village of Bancroft stemmed from an incident the previous Friday when Village Board chairman Clarence Beutler asked for and received the resignation of Police Chief Raymond Manchester, a native New Yorker appointed to the job less than a month ago.

WORK WAS begun last week on the addition to the Emerson Hubbard High School building, approved by voters last summer. Contractor for the building is Kahler Construction.

ZACHARIAH BOUGHN, history teacher at Laurel-Concord Public School, has submitted his resignation for reasons of health. Nick Danza has been hired to fill the position. Boughn has been with the Laurel school system for 6 1/2 years. Danza, a native of Omaha, received a BAE degree, with a major in history, and a minor in physical education, from Wayne State College in December, 1976.

LYLE VON SEGGERN, formerly of Scribner, will begin a one-year intership as pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Madison on June 1. Von SeggerN is completing seven years of seminary training at Waterloo Lutheran Seminary at Waterloo, Ontario, Canada.

Care Centre staff Thanks community

Dear Editor:
We wish to take this opportunity to thank the many kind and generous people in our community. It was these people, who, as the various social circles, clubs and groups, really sponsored our Christmas party for the residents. They donated most of the gifts which Santa was delighted to pass on.
We were honored to share the smiles discovered on that day. This honor rightfully belongs to the people of Wayne.

We salute you — Tim Boyle and the Staff of the Wayne Care Centre.

Trio Leads Laurel Past Hartington

Three Laurel girls scored in double figures Thursday night as the hosts bombed Hartington High, 61-15.

Cheryl Abts led the trio with 17 points and Elaine Guern and Paula Buss had 13 each to lead the Bears of coach Ev Jensen to their sixth win against four losses.

"What had to be one of the highlights of the season for us was our 47 per cent shooting from the field," Jensen pointed out. The coach added that the consistent play from Abts was another contributing factor as well as the hustle and play of Buss and Guern. "Paula has been shooting well in practice, but this is the first time she showed it during a varsity match."

Tonight (Monday) Laurel travels to Coleridge, then returns home Tuesday night to face Bloomfield.

Two Teams Tied Midway Through B Loop Season

The season has reached the halfway point in men's B league recreation basketball with two teams tied for first place. They are Teams 3 and 4 each holding a 5-1 mark after posting their latest wins Wednesday night. Team 3 got by Team 2, 60-54, and Team 4 recuperated from its first loss two weeks ago by beating Team 1, 42-37. In the first game of the night, Ron Dalton scored 29 points to get Team 5 by Team 7, 65-59, for the winners' third victory against three losses. The win put Team 5 in fourth place in the seventh-team standings.

Idle Team 6 with a 4-2 mark holds on to third place in the league while Team 1 is fifth with a 2-4 mark and Teams 2 and 7 are tied for sixth place with 1-5 records. At the beginning of the season, the league was set up to have See TWO TEAMS, page 5

Wayne Wins Third Straight Hot Shooting Devils Nip Pierce

With its hottest shooting night of the season, Wayne tripped host Pierce 71-65 Friday. The Blue Devils, hitting on 55 per cent of their field goal attempts, won their third contest in a row with strong second and third quarter performances. The Bill Sharpe-coached Wayne cagers pushed their season's record to 5-8 with the win and faced eighth-rated Schuyler Saturday night. Tuesday at 6:30 the Devils will face Emerson-Hubbard in the opening round of the West Humber Conference tourney at Columbus Lakeview. Leading 18-16 after the first eight minutes, coach Sharpe said the Devils used their height advantage in the middle two periods by going to six-foot-five senior center Tim Koll. "We went to the double post exclusively in the second quarter and just lammed 'em 11 to 10," Koll," Sharpe remarked. Koll responded with 10 second quarter points and the Devils led 36-29 at halftime. Wayne extended its lead to 14 points during the third period with some balanced scoring but then saw Pierce rally to narrow the margin to just four points in the final period before the invaders led the win. Koll led the winners with 22 tallies while sophomore Brad Emry flipped in a dozen points and Jon Ley got into double figures coming off of the bench with 10 points. Mark Weber led the losers with 23 points while Andy Anderson had 18 tallies.

Wayne hit on 33 of 60 field goal tries in the ball game compared to 30 of 64 shots for the losers. The Devils committed only 16 turnovers while the losers were guilty of 19 miscues. Wayne also held a healthy 41-30 edge in the rebound department with Koll pulling down a dozen rebounds and Emry getting eight. After stumbling to a 2-8 start this season, the Devils have won three straight in the final days of January. Coach Sharpe pointed out that Wayne has gotten more help out of its bench in the last few games while facing the lighter part of the schedule. "We've also been playing a lot more consistently on offense," Sharpe pointed out. "We are coming down court and looking for a good shot instead of just casting it up."

Cats' Domineering Defense Stops Top-Ranked Emporia

Emporia State came to Wayne Friday night owning the best defensive record in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference — and left decisively beaten by Wayne State's Wildcats. The Hornets had held 16 opponents to an average of 67.7 points, but yielded a 100-84 decision against Wayne's domineering defense. Typically, the Wildcats swarmed over the foe and, finally, after a seasaw first 10 minutes frustrated the Hornets for a 52-37 half. A couple of times in the second round, the Cats appeared to be slipping in on one of those scoring chills that has plagued them at times, but neither chill lasted long. The Cats never let Emporia closer than seven points, the last time at 85-78 with six minutes to go.

A rash of fouls calls between five and four minutes sent three Hornet starters out of the game, including Cleo Gardner, the top season scorer (20.9 average), who departed with 18, and Eddie Fields, who finished with 20, high for the Hornets. Three others tallied 10 or more.

Game Cancelled

Friday night's game between host Ponca and Allen was cancelled because Ponca cancelled its classes due to poor road conditions and frigid temperatures.

According to a NSAA ruling, a high school can not hold an athletic contest during a school day if classes are dismissed because of inclement weather.

Wayne was scheduled for another CSIC battle Saturday night, hosting Washburn, 6-11 overall and 2-3 in conference before a Friday game at Missouri Western.

Winside's Second-Half Rally Proves 'We Can Play Better'

Outside of a scoring lull in the first period, Winside High played almost even ball with Coleridge during the Cats' 62-43 loss at the Bulldogs' gym.

Coch Sam Colvin credited his team's second-half play, which saw the Cats outscore Coleridge 35-33, to his players' decision that "they could play better ball."

"We just forgot about the first half," Colvin said, noting that for the night Winside made 31 per cent of its shots and played a more aggressive game on the boards by pulling down 34 caroms. Dan Brockman was the leader on the boards with 11.

The 0-10 Cats host Wausa Tuesday night.

In two preliminary contests, the junior varsity and junior high teams posted their first wins of the season. The JVs, now 1-4, topped Coleridge, 32-29, and the junior high evened its record at 1-1 with a 22-15 decision.

Scoring for Winside in the junior high game were Brian Foose with 10, Brad Roberts, Bill George and Jim Krajicek with four each.

Mitchell, Straight Rally Wayne Matmen

Pins by Dan Mitchell and Rick Straight lifted Wayne High grapplers past visiting Wakefield Thursday night, 30-21.

Mitchell stopped Wakefield's 165-pounder Doug Startz in 1:27 of the first period to put the Blue Devils back into the lead, 24-21, then Straight sealed the Devils' second dual mat win of the season with a pin over Verdel Ekberg in 2:30.

The locals started out with a 6-0 lead on Larry Hank's pin of 98-pound Tim Neuhaus, and stayed in front until the 132-pound bout where the Trojans tied the score at 12-all on Carl Domsch's pin of Dusty Rubeck.

The visitors increased the lead by six points, 18-12, on decisions by 138-pound Blaine Nelson and 145-pound Chuck Scherer before the Devils started their rally.

Displaying his quickness, Echtenkamp jumped off to a 5-0 start early in the opening period by getting two points for a take down and three for a near fall. Foul Trouble Slows Allen

Allan girls overcame first-half personal foul problems against Wakehill Thursday night to nail down a 51-39 victory in the Lewis and Clark Conference battle.

Four of Allen's starters collected their third foul each in the first half, forcing coach Steve McManigal to bench some of his players in second half.

Starters Lori Erwin, Susie Erwin, Pam Brownell and Grace Luschen sat out the last part of the first half.

Allen built a 20-4 lead going into the second stanza when the Eagles ran into foul trouble and Wakehill closed within 32-14 at the half.

Allen, 8-2, shot 31 per cent from the field and collected 42 rebounds. Lori Erwin was the leader with 12.

In a junior high contest, Allen handed off previously undefeated Wakehill its first setback in four games, 16-12.

Led by Lisa Erwin with six, Allen boosted its record to 2-0. Also scoring for Allen were Beth Stalling with five, Sherry Jones and Andrea Walsh with two each and Des Williams with one.

Wildkittens Roll in Win Over Emporia

The Wayne State Wildkitten basketball machine wheeled out another lopsided win Friday, 88-47, over Emporia State women, to make their Central States Conference record 5-1, their season 12-5.

It was the fourth time the Kittens had beaten conference foes by around 40 points. They won another by 17, and lost one by 19.

The Wayne gals had their sharp-shooting eyes in focus as they cashed 51 per cent from the field, well above their 40 per cent average, and 70 per cent from the free throw line, also far over the 54 per cent season.

Connie Kunzmann took a familiar role as top scorer with 23, hitting 65 per cent of her field tries. In strong support, Julie Brinkman hit 17 points (67 per cent), Lori Langel, 11 (77 per cent), Lori Mittelstadt, 11, and Pat McKay, 10.

Emporia came within a 4-1 record in conference.

Saturday night, Washburn women were scheduled to provide the opposition in another CSIC game, starting at 5:30, ahead of the Wayne-Washburn men's game.

Looking for a closer game with Emporia, coach G.I. Willoughby tried "a different approach" in early minutes — a full-court zone press that rattled the Hornet offense. And for awhile, the Kittens tried a different offense, using a triple post with Langel, Kunzmann and Pat McKay. Result: a 46-29 half lead and a second-half defense that yielded only 18 more points.

Hoemann Sets Scoring Mark

Junior Paula Hoemann set a new school scoring record for girls Thursday night by pouring in 33 points to lead Winside in a one-sided battle over visiting Wynot, 65-26.

The win was the third for the Wildkittens against four losses.

Winside booted off an 18-1 first period lead and at one point in the second period led by 27-1.

The winners shot 53 per cent from the field and controlled the boards in the Lewis and Clark Conference contest. Tuesday night Winside continued loop play with a key contest against Wausa, one of two teams which are tied for first in the division.

A loss for Wausa could mean a three-way tie for first, including Winside, pointed out coach Kathy O'Connor.

18 Hear Sermonette at Center

Eighteen Wayne Senior Citizens Center members were present Friday, Jan. 21, for the sermonette, "Symbolism of the Light of Jesus Christ," by the Rev. S.K. deFreese, pastor of the Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Pastor deFreese told the group about small lamps which were made in the Holy Land and burn olive oil. He said the lamps are still used today in old Jerusalem. Pastor and Mrs. deFreese toured the Holy Land several years ago.

Mrs. Alma Spittgerber accompanied hymn singing, led by Pastor deFreese.

Following the sermonette and sing a long, members viewed a film from the Wayne Public Library, entitled "Our Small Town Heritage: Memories of Main Street."

Authentic graphics, readings, quotations and folk songs were blended to portray the contributions of the American small town and how it continues to influence the American conscience.

Refreshments were furnished by Rose Heithold, Alma Spittgerber, Alice Dorman and Mary Echtenkamp.

Next sermonette and sing-a-long will be at 2 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 18.

The Rev. Larry Ostercamp, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church in Wayne, was at the center Monday afternoon to conduct the Bible study of Acts. Nine attended and refreshments were furnished by Besse Peterman and Little Swinney.

The next Bible study is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 7, at 2:30 p.m.

Oops! Better Let Dough Rise Again

A recipe for bread which appeared in Thursday's recipe section of The Wayne Herald inadvertently omitted a line which would have told readers to let the dough rise again after it has been shaped into loaves.

Bill Koerber, submitter of the recipe, said that after the dough has risen to double in size in the bowl, shape it into loaves, place in pans, and once again let it rise to double in size before baking.

The entire recipe appeared in the Jan. 27 newspaper issue.

Forester Says Heat With Wood

"Heat with wood," says Gil Stuart, district forester assistant, at Northeast Station near Concord.

A wood stove used to supplement your present heating system will save on the fuel bill. Stuart added most farms in Northeast Nebraska have a grove or field windbreak that is in need of improvement.

Removing insect and disease damaged trees, dead wood, thinning a row or removing a row can improve a windbreak. The removed material is valuable fuel wood. By removing some trees you will have a more effective windbreak.

Wood burning stoves can be purchased locally. For further information contact the district forester at Northeast Station.

Two More Pesticide Workshops to Be Offered in Near Future

A greater than expected response by area farmers to attend pesticide workshops has resulted in two more meetings being scheduled.

This Thursday Wayne County extension agent Don Spitzke will hold the first of two day-long workshops at the city auditorium. The second meeting will be on Monday, Feb. 14. Both meetings will run from 9:45 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Last week nearly 400 persons registered for workshops at the city auditorium and at the Northeast Station. In Wayne 270 registered, but 50 left because there weren't enough materials, Spitzke said.

At the Northeast Station, 117 persons packed the auditorium for the program which was conducted by Dixon County extension agent Roy Stohler.

Under a federal law, persons who plan to use specified pesticides for private use must be certified through a workshop.

ONE HUNDRED and seventeen persons registered for a pesticide workshop Thursday at the Northeast Station at Concord. The course, which was offered to certify private users, was conducted by Dixon County extension agent Roy Stohler. Another workshop also was held in Wayne where 270 registered.

Quarterly Wage Reports Due

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by Jan. 31, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

"People who pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any three-month calendar must send a report of the wages, along with the social security contribution, to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter," Branch said.

Quarters are January-March, April-June, July-September, and October-December. "Wage reports and social security contributions for the last quarter of 1976 are due by Jan. 31, 1977," Branch said.

People who employ household workers can file the wage report on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service office — "Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security)."

The 1976 social security contribution for a household employee is 5.85 per cent of covered wages. The employer pays a matching amount.

Social security contributions help build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for 1.5 million household workers and their families.

Ak-Sar-Ben Contributes $1.2 Million

The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben contributed $1,205,004 to sixty-two agricultural, charitable and educational programs during 1977 according to year-end figures recently released.

The $1.2 million total compares with $548,659 donated in 1976.

An increase of more than $650,000 in 1976 resulted from passage of a federal income tax revision bill by Congress exempting Ak-Sar-Ben and similar organizations from federal income tax on certain activities. The extra funds had been set aside awaiting the outcome of the legislation.

Projects receiving financial aid from the additional funding included $300,000 for a planned $1 million aquarium and visitor center in the Schramm Park State Recreation Center near Gretna; $250,000 for an "Ak-Sar-Ben Courtyard" in the Omaha Henry Doorly Zoo's new cat complex; $25,000 to the new Omaha Junior Theatre; $25,000 to the Council Bluffs YMCA; and $10,000 to the Lincoln Children's Zoo.

"Ak-Sar-Ben was extremely pleased to be able to share these extra funds with so many worthwhile programs," Jack MacAlister, contributions committee chairman, said. "Adding this to our already extensive programs in the areas of agriculture, civic and educational support, we believe Ak-Sar-Ben remains in the forefront of civic organizations whose goals are to improve the quality of life for the area."

Heading the list of agricultural contributions in 1976 was more than $80,000 in the form of county fair improvement grants to 80 county fair organizations in Nebraska. Other agricultural programs receiving Ak-Sar-Ben support were:

Nebraska 4-H Camps, breed shows, FFA programs, 4-H leaders' institutes, Agricultural Achievement and Pioneer Farm Awards, district dairy shows, Nebraska 4-H development, 4-H and FFA judging teams.

Civic and charitable programs throughout Nebraska and western Iowa received $859,048 from Ak-Sar-Ben during 1976. They included:

Fire and rescue units, fire and safety patrol belts, lifesaving equipment, Jr. Achievement Citizen Soldier Awards, newspaper, TV and radio awards, Good Neighbor awards and volunteer fire schools.

Ak-Sar-Ben's scholarship program, which now provides 375 four-year scholarships at twenty-six area colleges and universities, received more than $185,000 in 1976.

Date Is Set For Assessor Examinations

State tax commissioner William Peters has announced that the Nebraska county assessor and deputy assessor certification examination will be given March 25 at the State Office Building, 301 South Centennial Mall, Fifth Floor Conference Room, at 10 a.m. in Lincoln.

Applications must be filed with the Nebraska Department of Revenue no later than Feb. 23.

Certification and eligibility to hold office as a Nebraska county assessor or deputy assessor are conditioned upon successful completion of this examination. Nebraska law prohibits assumption of either office without having first obtained a county assessor's certificate.

Application blanks and additional information can be obtained at the office of the local county assessor or from the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

English Honors Group Invites Noted Writers

Two famous writers will speak at Wayne State this spring if Sigma Tau Delta money-making efforts reap needed profits.

The English honor society has accepted the recommendation of the Sigma Tau Delta money-making efforts...

Some of his works, both fiction and non-fiction include "The End of My Life," "The Hound of Earth," "The Unnatural Enemy" and "The Man Who Knew Kennedy."

Stafford, a professor at Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore., since 1948, has been a consultant on poetry for the Library of Congress and also received prizes for his short stories and poetry.

His writing appears in many leading magazines and in leading anthologies. Stafford received the National Book Award in 1963 for "Traveling Through the Dark."

Thomas Baynum, part-time English instructor and convention chairman, feels confident that the English honor society will raise sufficient funds to bring in the authors.

A book sale, with books donated by several local persons, brought in more than $180, and "it's a nice place to raise a family."

The auto dealership, which will retain the Coryell name, represents a good business opportunity, Perry said, adding that he doesn't plan any immediate changes in personnel.

Even if the legislature isn't tackling all of Nebraska's water issues, this session promises excitement. As Sen. Donald Dworak puts it, "I don't think anyone in Nebraska can be totally disinterested in water."

Gordon Peterson, legal counsel for the Public Works Committee, which will consider most of the water bills, expects groups from all over the state with conflicting water interests to converge on his committee's hearings.

In the weeks to come this column will cover that shootout, the bills and interest groups at the center of attention, as well as the problems the legislature is ignoring — such issues as ground water pollution and minimum stream flows.

merce, banks and power districts. Kremer's Ground Water Protection Act is less controversial and has the support of a group it would regulate — well drillers.

By allowing the State Health Department to license drillers, the law may stop the practice of leaving test wells uncapped, a practice which sometimes lets fertilizers and pesticides run back into the ground water.

The bill doesn't address another health problem: contamination of ground water by nitrates in areas where sandy soil has been heavily fertilized and irrigated.

Nitrate contamination of well water is just one of several water problems the legislature hasn't tackled, even though underground pollution has increased dramatically in irrigated areas such as Holt County, where nitrate levels have doubled since 1961.

Also unresolved is the legal relationship between ground water and surface water. Ground water usually feeds lakes and streams and some states, including Colorado, have laws which coordinate irrigation from underground aquifers that border rivers.

Even if the legislature isn't tackling all of Nebraska's water issues, this session promises excitement. As Sen. Donald Dworak puts it, "I don't think anyone in Nebraska can be totally disinterested in water."

Gordon Peterson, legal counsel for the Public Works Committee, which will consider most of the water bills, expects groups from all over the state with conflicting water interests to converge on his committee's hearings.

Dealership

Roy Coryell became owner of the auto dealership in 1955. His father, Bill Coryell, originally was co-owner of an independent repair garage in Wayne. In 1927 he purchased the Chevrolet dealer franchise. The Oldsmobile franchise was added in 1933 and a Goodyear franchise in 1941.

The auto dealership was located in downtown Wayne until 1974 when it was moved into new facilities at its present location, just west of Wayne's city limits on Highway 35.

Perry said he decided to return to Wayne because "my kind of people live here" and "it's a nice place to raise a family."
