Eagles Accept Applications

The first applications for membership in the Fraternal Order of Eagles came trickling in Wednesday night from local people interested in forming a club in Wayne.

State Eagles president Robert Carlson of Blair said he and his wife Elizabeth will be in Wayne today (Monday) and Tuesday to meet with business owners and talk to them about the Eagles organization. He said they might also visit other towns in the Wayne area on Wednesday.

The state Eagles president is hoping to attract membership from throughout Wayne County and from other communities and rural areas in the Wayne trade area. Minimum number needed to charter a club is 50, but Carlson has said previously he would prefer to have at least 100 before instituting a local chapter.

Initial cost of members is $25, including $15 in annual dues which stays with the club and a $10 chartering fee per member. Half the amount is returned directly to the local club and half is spent for supplies.

Carlson has purchased the building at 119 Main St. in Wayne which formerly housed the ASCS office for use as an Eagles club, although he said local members will decide after chartering if they wish to purchase the building or locate elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson have been conducting the meetings in Wayne since Jan. 1 to explain the function of the Eagles organization. The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. at the old ASCS office. Carlson said anyone interested in the club is invited to attend the meeting.

City Schedules Hearing for Street Plan

A public hearing at 8:15 p.m. is scheduled for the Wayne city council meeting Tuesday night to hear comments on the proposed one- and six-year street improvement plan.

Bids for a new police cruiser will be opened at 8. Discussion of the transfer station to be installed by the city to compact trash is also scheduled.

Pests, Herbicides Are Clinic Topics

Extension specialist will present a crop protection clinic Tuesday at the Wayne city auditorium from 1 to 3 p.m.

Entomologist John Witkowski, will provide up to date information for controlling rootworms, corn borer, greenbugs, alfalfa weevils and other insects.

Agronomist Russell Moorman will talk about herbicides to control weeds, and crop variety recommendations.

Ikes Plan Feed

The Wayne chapter of the Izaak Walton League will have its annual game feed Sunday, Feb. 13 at the Women's Club room at the city auditorium.

Guests at the dinner, beginning at 6:30 p.m., will be state president Elmer Hass and state secretary James Westphal, both of Fremont.

They will present the film "The Question of Hunting." Ikes members wishing to contribute to the dinner should turn game in to Glenn Walker.

Fun at Twilight

A PAIR OF Wayne seventh graders find winter on the tennis courts can be fun, too, particularly when they are converted to an ice skating rink. Kathy Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kay, and Tammy McClain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McClain, made use of the city's improvised skating rink in the twilight hours one day last week.

Dalton Will Receive Award

There are still a limited number of seats available for the 24th annual Mid-Winter Concert at Wayne High School, featuring the varsity band.

The concert begins at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13, in the high school lecture hall.

According to Ron Dalton, band director, tickets have been issued to families of band students. Dalton said nearly 400 tickets have been distributed, leaving about 80 vacant seats which will be filled on a first come, first serve basis.

In addition to an afternoon of musical enjoyment, persons attending the concert will watch as Dalton receives a special plaque and a $1,000 prize from the American School Band Directors Association (ASBDA).

Early in December, Dalton was notified by the ASBDA that he had been selected the Outstanding Young Band Director of the Year at the organization's national convention.

A delegation from the ASBDA will be present at Sunday's concert performance to present the Wayne High band instructor with his plaque and cash prize.

Purposes of the ASBDA award are to recognize young band directors who have made exceptional contributions to their schools and communities, and to provide financial assistance to the national winner to further his professional interests.

Nominations for the award are first screened at the state level and then sent on to regional and finally national competition.

Dalton said he plans to use the $1,000 prize money to attend professional workshops and clinics, including a bandmaster's convention in Houston, Tex., and a workshop at North Texas State University at Denton this summer.

Dalton became band director at Wayne High School in 1969. Prior to that, he taught for one year at Wayne's Middle School. He received his bachelor of fine arts degree from Wayne State College, and is currently working on his master's degree.

He is a member of United Teachers Profession, in addition to several musical organizations.

Sunday's concert performance by the 76 varsity band musicians will include "Villabella" by Kenneth Williams, "Declaration Overture" by Claude T. Smith, "Tanglewood Overture" by John Tatgenhorst, "Prelude and Ron-do" by David Holsinger, "I Write the Songs Mandy," arranged by Jay Chattaway, selections from "Wiz," arranged by Bob Lowden, "Sea Songs" by R. Vaughan Williams, and "God of Our Fathers," arranged by Claude T. Smith.

During the past five years, the marching band has earned superior ratings consecutively at various contests. In concert competition, 1957 marks the last time that a Wayne High band did not receive a superior rating at the District Music Contest. Solo and small ensemble entries from the varsity band have recorded a total of 25 superiors and 27 excellent ratings at the district contest over the past eight years.

Concord Group Plans Projects

Members of the Concord Betterment Association will begin planning several fundraising events to help finance various park improvements.

The organization Monday night discussed building an all-purpose court for tennis, basketball and volleyball and a shelter house. The town board has agreed to help pay for part of the construction of a shelter house, according to outgoing president Norman Anderson.

Drill Team Performance Scheduled

Some extra entertainment was promised Saturday night for persons attending the Wayne State-Kearney State basketball game in the form of special pre-game and half-time shows.

A very colorful show was promised with the performance of Blackman's Rifles, the Marine Corps Junior ROTC Drill Team from Des Moines Technical High School. The group has earned top honors in drill competition not only in Nebraska and Iowa but in South Dakota, Illinois, and Missouri as well.

Currently Blackman's Rifles are Iowa champions in American Legion and VFW competition. About 35 members of the drill team will perform at Wayne Saturday beginning with a pre-game color guard ceremony at 7:20, followed by a half-time drill exhibition.

Ranging in age from 15-17, the group consists of teenage boys. The performers not only attend Tech High, but work after school. In addition, they practice for various drill functions an average of 300 hours per year.

In two years the group has collected nearly $3,500 for charity in addition to raising funds for their own travel expenses.

Directors of the program are Maj. Robert Mauckebaup, 1st Sgt. Dewey Horton, and Gy. Sgt. Chris Thompson.

Lions Set Date For Talent Show

The Wayne Lions Club has set March 27 as the date for its annual talent show.

Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place winners in each of four divisions: elementary — eight years old and younger; junior — nine to 11; intermediate — 12 to 14; senior — 15 to 18.

The age of the contestant on July 1, 1977, will be considered for purposes of the contest. The age of the oldest member in a group will determine the division in which the act will compete.

First place winner in each top division will be eligible to compete in the Lions district talent contest April 17 in Plattsmouth. District winner will compete in the state contest June 3 in Fremont. No more than nine performers can comprise a single act and no contestant can compete in more than one division. Time limit for each act is six minutes and use of fire is prohibited.

Deadline Not Until November

Personal property taxes are not due until Nov. 1, county assessor Doris Shipp said Thursday.

The Wayne Herald Thursday reported that taxes must be paid by March 1. That is the deadline for assessing personal property and a 50 per cent penalty can be imposed for property assessed after the date, but taxes don't become delinquent until after Nov. 1.

Mrs. Shipp said last week that fewer than 30 per cent of the persons in Wayne County who must file personal property tax statements had done so and urged taxpayers not to wait until the last minute.

Assessors are available at the courthouse during normal working hours to assist with preparing tax schedules.

WSC Alumni Teaching In State Number 2,000

Nearly 2,000 Wayne State College graduates hold teaching positions in 242 schools in Nebraska, latest reports from the Wayne State Placement Bureau reveal.

Omaha Public Schools employ the most graduates, 116, followed by Norfolk with 77, and Bellevue and Millard each with 55. The employment figures, taken from a Nebraska State Department of Education report, show that 16 more Nebraska schools employ 20 or more Wayne State graduates.

Forty-three Wayne graduates are employed in Wayne Public Schools. Also in this area, Wisner-Pilger has hired 28 WSC grads; Laurel, 22; Winslow, 20; Pender, 24; and Emerson-Hubbard, 26.

Other schools in the Wayne State high employment bracket include: Fremont, 45; Lincoln, 44; South Sioux City, 32; Westside (Omaha), 28; and Randolph, 27. Papillion schools are next in line with 26; Columbus and Schuyler both have 24 each; and Ralston trails with 23.

Teacher employment and pupil enrollment in a 24-county region in Northeast Nebraska have maintained a constant trend since 1970-71. The Placement Bureau further reveals.

Teachers employment continues to go up, two-three per cent per year, while over all enrollment in K-12 continues on a gradual decline of four-five per cent.

This data, also from the Nebraska State Department of Education, shows that the teacher-pupil ratio in elementary classrooms was about 1:21 in 1970-71; 1:18 in 1974-75; and 1:17 in 1976-77.

For secondary classrooms, statistics show teacher-pupil ratios for these years as 1:18, 1:16, and 1:15 respectively.

In figures, the data shows for the period 1974-75 to 1976-77: — Elementary enrollment

Tree Survey Completed

Willow Bowl's trees became a landmark at Wayne State College, but the campus also has a number of other interesting species of trees for the person who knows where to look.

For those who don't, extension forester John Barber can provide the answers. He spent five days in October mapping the location of each tree on the campus, as well as compiling data regarding species, size, condition and value.

Barber took the survey as part of a program offered by the extension service to help government supported institutions come up with long-term plans for maintaining and improving trees.

Barber has completed a similar survey for the City of West Point. The City of Wayne decided against having a survey taken.

Barber mapped the location of about 1,400 trees on the WSC campus. There are about 50 separate species, including some which the forester said are relatively uncommon in northeast Nebraska. Included are several species of honey suckle, Japanese lilac, Boleana poplar, a Kentucky coffee tree, Buckeye, St. John's Wort, and flowering dogwood. Barber said St. John's Wort usually is found much farther south, in Central Missouri, for example, and the flowering dogwood on the campus is the only one Barber has seen in this section of the state.

Total value of trees at WSC is estimated at about $200,000. Values are computed by a formula which takes into consideration the type, size, condition, shape and location of the individual tree.

Overall, Barber said, trees at the college are in good shape, but some improvements could be made. Barber's report, turned over to college officials Wednesday, will be used by a college committee to come up with a master plan for maintaining and improving trees.

"We're looking at a 50- to 100-year period," Barber said. "There won't be any immediate results, but in the long run, the plan should improve the campus, increase its beauty and reduce maintenance costs."

Drama Club Edged Out In State Contest Finals

The Wayne High School drama club scored 115 out of a possible 120 points in state one-act play competition Wednesday at Kearney State College, but was edged out of the finals by one point.

The Wayne thespians, however, did receive a superior rating in the contest and finished in the top six in a field of about 20 Class A competitors.

The club, under the direction of Ted Blendenman, qualified for the state contest by receiving a superior rating in District III competition last month at Wayne State College. Wayne's presentation was "American Hurrah."

It was the third state outing in three years for the Wayne club. Two years ago the local acting organization won the state Class

A title and last year finished fourth.

Among other Northeast Nebraska schools qualifying for the state contest, Hartington Cedar Catholic made it to the finals in Class A, and Norfolk Catholic finished second in Class B. Blendenman said.

Census Bureau Will Survey Area Employment

The Census Bureau will conduct an employment survey in the local area Feb. 14-19, according to the bureau's regional office.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of about 70,000 households throughout the nation. Employment statistics based on results of the survey are used to provide a continuing measure of economic conditions in the country.

Information supplies to the Census Bureau is kept confidential and results are used only to compile statistical totals, the regional office spokesman said.

New WSC Division Created

A change in programs at Wayne State College has created a completely autonomous division of health, physical education and athletics for the first time in the college's history, according to Dr. Ed Elliott, vice president for academic affairs.

Elliott said it was decided in 1974 to switch the biology department from the math and science division and combine it with the health, physical education, recreation and athletics division under the school of applied and professional studies.

Reason for the decision at the time was the hope that the change would result in increased programming in health related areas. The new program, along with other WSC programs, has been continuously monitored and based on observations, the college administration came to feel that program activity had not reached originally anticipated level.

In late November 1976 college administrators raised the question of whether or not it would be advantageous to return the biology department to the math and science division and create an autonomous division of health, physical education, recreation and athletics, equal with the seven other college divisions. The question was referred to the faculty senate, college administrators and to the two divisions concerned. Following discussion by those groups, the decision was made to realign the program.

The decision affects three college administrators. Dr. Frank Prather, head of the math and science division, will assume added responsibility with the return of the biology department and will have an increase in staff of five.

Dr. Robert Sutherland previously was head of the department of biology, health, physical education and recreation. Dr. LeRoy Simpson was head of the athletic department. Those two chairmanships will now be combined into a single position as head of the new division of health, physical education, recreation and athletics.

"Because the position is a new one," Dr. Elliott said, equal opportunity laws require the college to announce the new position and accept applications for it. Applications can come from outside the college or from any of its staff members.

The new division, like other college divisions, will be responsible for its own budget and will have direct administrative access to Dr. Elliott and to president Dr. Lyne Seymour.

Out of Old Nebraska

Nebraska's contribution to the building of the Springfield, Illinois, tomb of Abraham Lincoln, whose name the state had early taken for its capital city, was delayed nearly fourteen years. In 1869 the first Nebraska Legislature to meet in Lincoln debated a proposal to aid the construction of an Abraham Lincoln monument at Springfield. The Feb. 12, 1869, Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star, on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society, contains the recollections of David D. Reavis, Falls City businessman, lawyer and historian, whose father, Isham Reavis, played a prominent role in securing the appropriation. "Isham Reavis, who represented Nemaha County in the senate at that time (1869) was one of the active supporters of the original bill, which provided for $1,000 to aid in the construction of the monument. . . (There were) amendments to reduce the amount of money from $1,000 to $300 and then to $500, at which figure that act was finally passed an approved February 15, 1869. "Nearly fourteen years after that legisla- ture adjourned, Mr. Reavis was in Springfield, and while there went out to Oakridge Cemetery to visit the tomb of Mr. Lincoln. When he met the custodian, J.C. Power, he remarked, 'I had the honor to help appropriate $500 from my state to assist in building this beautiful structure.' "Then you are from Nevada I presume." "No, I am from Nebraska." "We never got any money from Nebraska," was the reply. "Are you certain of that?" "I am! The only state to give us $500 was Nevada." "In answer to that information Mr. Reavis assured the custodian that there was something wrong for he was certain the appropriation was made. When he returned home he examined the Session Law of 1869 and found the act had been passed and approved as he had remembered it. Without waiting to hear from Mr. Power he wrote to the auditor of the state to ask what had become of the appropriation. In due time he received his reply saying it had never been drawn against but had lapsed back into the treasury. So he notified Mr. Power accordingly. He was told by that gentleman that the association was as much in need of money then as it ever had been and it would be greatly pleased if the legislature would reappropriate the money. "This was in the fall of 1882 and a new legislature would be elected in November. Mr. Reavis then wrote Mr. Power to have the association certify the fact of its needs of the money with matter of detail and he would see what could be done. He wrote a letter to C.H. Gere, an associate member in the legislature of 1869, giving him all the facts of his strange discovery and asked that he recommend a reappropriation of money. He did so, and the legislature met in 1883. "Mr. Reavis prepared a bill (proceeded) by a preamble reciting a history of the matter and R.E. Gristead, a member of the house from Richardson County, introduced it and it was promptly passed. Governor (James W.) Dawes in the presence of both Mr. Reavis and Mr. Gere drew the money and transmitted it to its destination, Nebraska. In this manner was privileged to contribute at long last to the building of the tomb of Abraham Lincoln."

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

Hope everyone noticed the correction on the front page about property tax assessments. It was my mistake and I hope it didn't create difficulties for anyone. Speaking of personal property tax, Ariand Aurich got a not so pleasant surprise when preparing his tax forms. A tractor valued at $250 last year increased in value to $750 this year. The reason? It is now 25 years old and therefore considered an antique, increasing its value by $500. That sounds ridiculous to me. I don't blame the people who help with the assessing; they have a set of books to go by. I do think a review of those standards might be in order, however, so that assessed value reflects realistic market prices.

Bright Spot
There is a bright spot for me however. If I hang onto my car just a little bit longer, maybe it will be worth something as an antique. Only trouble is, the way things are going, it won't be genuine. I calculated that if the past pattern continues, in two years, four months and 11 days, I will have replaced all of the original parts, so it won't really be an original antique when it reaches the right age.

A Bad Idea
Guess I'll throw in my two cents worth about proposals for unionizing the military. The military itself is partly responsible for the movement towards unionization. People change a lot faster than the military does and that can create problems. And I'll admit there was a time when I might personally have welcomed a little union support. (Testing a strobe light at a distance of four inches from your sergeant major's face can be hazardous to your health.) But unions for the military just won't work. Or rather, if unions are permitted, the military won't work. Regardless of opinions regarding the military, any serious thinking person knows that armed forces are vital to the nation and I just don't see any way they could function effectively under the union plan. I would still rather see the services run by officers and NCOs instead of shop stewards. I think agriculture researchers are barking up the wrong tree where corn hybrids are concerned. For example, you may recall last year I mentioned the work being done to develop cobless corn. That's well and fine but with growing concern over water in Nebraska, research might be better directed elsewhere. Kay suggested the other day, for example, that seed companies produce a corn plant with a stalk that looks like a fire hydrant. I'm not going to say any more about that, but who knows? Maybe it would work.

OBSERVATIONS

Subsidy worth studying

In general we don't favor government subsidies but fuel shortages in parts of the nation indicate that perhaps it is time to consider a new program — one to subsidize purchase of solar heating furnaces for private homes. According to a local contractor holding a franchise for distribution of a solar furnace on the market, the unit can provide about 80 per cent of the winter heating needs of a single family dwelling. The unit costs $8,000. That is a sizeable expenditure, one which many families can't seriously consider. A subsidy program could possibly make solar heat more attractive in two ways. First, by providing for partial payments and/or low interest loans. Second, by stimulating demand for the systems, price per unit could probably be reduced.

Whether or not such an idea is workable, we don't pretend to know. But it might be worthwhile for the government to study the idea, taking into account the amount of fuel which could possibly be saved, the reduction in our foreign trade deficit, the number of jobs which could be created by stimulating a relatively new industry, and the potential for preventing in future years unemployment experienced now in many areas because industries dependent on natural gas are not able to operate.

Petroleum companies doubtless would oppose such an idea and it might not find favor with some legislators because it would largely benefit the middle class and not special interest groups, but we think it is worth considering. — Jim Strayer.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

By the Automotive Information Council

The government has set some tough fuel economy standards for automobiles in the next eight years, so strict that a possible breakthrough in electric car technology would not ease the goals.

The goal for 1985 is 27.5 miles to the gallon based on the average car in a company's total production. That means some cars could get better mileage and some could be less economical. Importantly, the law, which will be administered by the Department of Transportation, stipulates that the standard is based on gasoline or diesel fuel.

Electric, according to the Automotive Information Council, would have miles per gallon rating of zero. However, public utilities produce electricity and more generating plants consume oil rather than plentiful coal in the process. Obviously, there would have to be some measurement of the oil that is used to produce power for electric cars. Considerable research is under way on the electric car but most industry leaders view the mass production stage as at least 10 years away.

DOT does have a loophole when it comes to another fuel source contender called methanol. The law says its secretary may include other liquid or gaseous fuels at his discretion. Methanol is getting a lot of attention because it is plentiful and can be processed from wood, grain, garbage, coal and a few other sources. The hitch is that the chemical is expensive to produce.

Research in methanol is under way in this country as well as with Volkswagen in Germany and Volvo in Sweden. The VW experiment involves 45 cars running on a mixture of 85 per cent gasoline and 15 per cent methanol. Results have been encouraging in the first year of the tests. Emission checks have indicated a sharp reduction in carbon monoxide (up to 60 per cent), hydrocarbons (about 15 per cent) and oxides of nitrogen (up to 30 per cent) over gasoline fueled cars.

Looking at economy, VW said the hybrid fuel burned about 4 per cent more fuel mass but that fuel energy consumption was reduced about five per cent.

Methanol shows promise but among its other problems, there would have to be a massive construction program to provide methanol-refining facilities.

Should methanol come to pass, it's nice to know that DOT has an out and can include it in the economy standards.

Last year, more than 180,000 men died before the age of 65 because of cardiovascular disease. Think of all they'll miss.

Wildkittens Tie For First

It's second place no more for the Wayne State women's basketball team. Continuing their pattern of wide margin wins, the Wildkittens savored a long-awaited victory Friday night over previously undefeated conference Fort Hays.

The 77-50 win placed Wayne State hand-in-hand with the Kansas team, both 7-1 and sharing first place in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference.

Hereafter, the first place tie may totter either way, with every conference game resulting to Fort Hays and Wayne. For Wayne there are six conference games ahead, five on the road and a duel with Kearney that was scheduled for here Saturday night.

Wayne is also scheduled to play a non-conference game Tuesday, the University of Nebraska at Omaha, beginning at 7 p.m. in Omaha.

Connie Kunzmann continued on her high point streak Friday night, hitting her usual 22 point average, followed by Pat McKay with 14, who also established her all time high in rebounds with 23.

Two other Wayne State starters, Lori Langel and Lori Melststadt, contributed their share with 11 and 8 points each. And another Wayne State, Julie Brinkman, led with 7 assists.

Coach G.I. Willoughby also cited a good back-up crew of Ellie Studer, Peg Peterson, and Cathy Betz, all hitting offensively with good defensive play, too.

For Fort Hays Janna Choitiz hit from anywhere for a contribution of 24 points. Following her were Deb Robinson with 11 and Sheri Piersall with 10.

EVEN WITH his wide reach Fort Hays' center B. J. Nunn (43) at 6-foot-8 has trouble stopping Wayne's fast break Friday night as here Wildcats Gary Rauch (50) and Wayne Robinson (14) get around the Tiger defender.

Madison Wins

Bill Elsassner's last-second desperate shot missed its target Friday night, giving the state's top-ranked Class C club, Madison, a 54-53 win over Emerson-Hubbard in the finals of the West Husker Conference tournament at Columbus Lakeview.

Emerson held a two-point halftime edge, 28-26, but Madison roared back in the second half, building a nine-point margin, 44-35, late in the fourth quarter.

For Madison, the win was its 17th against no losses. Earlier this season, both clubs duelled to another close match as Madison staged a three-point victory, 58-55.

Devils Ousted From Tourney

Favored Emerson Hubbard advanced to the semifinals of the West Husker Conference boys basketball tournament at Columbus Lakeview Tuesday night by topping Wayne, 62-45.

Steve Bell led the parade of Firale pointmakers who shutout Wayne's bid for its sixth win of the season. Steve Bell poured in 19 points while Dave Heeney added 15 and Mic Fuchser 11.

"They're just quicker than we were and we couldn't stay with them," said Wayne mentor Bill Sharpe after his team dropped its 10th contest in 15 outings.

Senior center Tim Koll once again stepped in for Wayne by hitting 23 points and pulling down 16 caroms.

Cats First In Scoring

Not surprising to most Wayne State basketball followers is the fact that their Wildcats are ranked first in scoring among the 10 college teams in NAIA District 11.

According to reports released Monday, the Cats average 91 points an outing, almost five points better than Saturday night's foe, Kearney State.

Defensively, Wayne is on the other end of the spectrum, giving up over 86 points a game. On top of those charts is Haslings, which gives up an average of 89 points.

The Cats failed to produce a scoring leader in this week's charts.

Cats Hit Hays; Lopers Next

A fourth straight victory kept Wayne State basketball men close to the Central States Conference lead when they beat Fort Hays State, 98-82, here Friday night.

Meanwhile, Kearney State lost to Missouri Western, 103-96 in overtime, Friday at St. Joseph.

and Emporia State tipped Missouri Southern, 82-80, Friday at home, and Pittsburg edged Washburn, 51-49, at Topeka.

Going into Saturday games, that left CSC standings this way: Emporia 6-2, Wayne and Missouri Western 6-3, Kearney and Pittsburg 5-3, Fort Hays and Washburn 2-6, Missouri Southern 1-7.

Kearney was heading for a Saturday night date at Wayne — the men's game at 7:30 after Wayne Kearney women at 5:30 in Rice. For the Wildcats, a win could mean continuing second place, or first if Emporia should lose to Pittsburg.

In fact, all of the top five teams remain in contention.

The Wildcats deployed their usual ball-hawking defense to keep Fort Hays off balance and build sizable leads early. That defense cashed turnovers repeatedly for fast break layups, or long shots coming off smooth assists.

The fast pace of Wayne offense took a heavy toll of fouls as the Tigers were whistled 31 times. Result: Wayne hit 32 of 37 free throws — for 86 per cent.

Wayne Robinson hit 10 for 10 in that free throw parade, setting a team season high. His 20 points topped all scorers. Bob Kelly, finally overcoming a month-old injury, got back up in scoring at 13. Gary Rauch and Gary Billings got 11 and 10.

Leaders Are Same

Front runners in the Wakefield Lions bowling tournament remained the same going into the final weekend of Kegler action.

Ron Brinkman of Pender led singles with 696, Stark and Olsen of Ponca were on top men's doubles with 1,294. Scott and Lackas of Randolph were in front in mixed doubles with 1,243 and Boatman's Turkeys of Wakefield held down the top spot in the team division with 3,001.

Pheasant Stocking Program Open

The Game and Parks Commission has begun accepting applications from farmers, ranchers, sportsmen clubs, 4-H and FFA groups and natural resource districts who want to participate in the Commission's 1977 pheasant stocking program.

This will be the third year of pheasant stocking in Nebraska. Some 12,000 birds were released in 1975 when the program was begun on short notice, and another 50,000 were stocked in 1976 when there was more time to get the program rolling. This program has been set at providing up to 100,000 birds in 1977.

Applications for chicks will be taken until April 1. The minimum order is 25 chicks, and the maximum order for individuals is 500. No limit has been placed on the number of chicks which clubs and natural resource districts may request, except that the size of the order must be approved by the conservation officer.

Harrington Propels Bears in NENAC Win

Laurel got back on the winning trail in NENAC basketball Friday night by dropping Bloomfield, 63-56, in a close struggle at the Bears' auditorium.

Tim Harrington gave one of his top performances for coach Joel Parks' Bears by scoring 22 points and pulling down 18 caroms. Harrington got help from a pair of teammates who scored 12 points each. Gordie Kardell contributed six field goals and Cleve Stolpe made five baskets and two charity tosses.

Laurel torped a four point margin, 20-16, at the end of the first period and kept that span until the half for a 38-34 lead.

The Bears hustled to a nine-point cushion early in the second half, but mistakes in the running game allowed quick Bloomfield to get the turnovers and score.

"Against Randolph and O'Neill, we weren't playing together," Parks pointed out about two crucial losses in the tight conference race. "Tonight we hustled. We made plenty of mistakes, but those were hustling mistakes," he added.

Parks said his team looked ragged at times, but the kids showed better team spirit against Bloomfield.

Bloomfield made 24 of 40 tries for 40 per cent while Bloomfield, behind the torrid shooting of Vernie Broders with 26 points, converted 21 of 61 for 34 per cent.

Both teams were about equal on the boards; Laurel taking the edge, 41-39.

Sporting a 12-5 overall mark, and 4-2 in loop play, Laurel will host conference foe Plainview Friday night.

Bloomfield scooped up a loose ball and tossed it up for a two pointer and a 52-51 victory over Laurel reserves.

Team 3 Is Now Ahead of Pack in Men's Loop

Team 3 has climbed its way through the ranks of city recreation men's B league basketball to the top of the seven-team league.

The winners made it official Wednesday night with a 45-36 victory over Team 4, which was tied for first.

Lanky Howard Peters drove in 22 markers to lead Team 3 to its sixth win against a solo loss. Peters pumped in 10 in the first half to boost his club to a 26-16 halftime command.

The loss, for Team 4 drops it into a two-way tie for second with Team 6, both with 4-2 marks. Behind the scoring of Dave Schulte with 25 and Jerry Jensen with 16, Team 6 easily handed Team 1, 56-47.

In other action, Team 2 got by Team 5, 49-43, to push its record to 2-5 while Team 5 drops to 3-4. Idle Team 7 is 1-5.

WS Tankers Claim Third

Wayne State's young swimming team had a bit of triumph Saturday in the Grinnell Relays, after losing all four previous dual meets. All events in the Grinnell Relays are done with pair entries — the best combined performance winning.

Winside Finishes Schedule Winless

Winside finished its regular season cage slate without a win as invading Harrington prevailed 60-33 Friday night.

The host Cats, now 0-11, were never in the contest as Harrington raced to a 34-13 halftime lead. Ranked with the best teams in the state in Class C this winter, Harrington was led by its six-foot-eight center Dan Lucht as he flipped in 24 points.

Lucht also helped the invaders to a 25-35 edge on the boards.

Plugged with 3 cold hits from the field, hitting on only 24 per cent of its shots, Winside failed to get a varsity cage led into double figures. Cliff Tillema led the lopers with nine points while Skip Deck, Wayne Smith and Paul Roberts each had six for the Cats.

Family Finances brought to you by Pat Gross

Q. Some counselors say that children should have a voice in how the family's income is spent. Since they don't know the financial problems we face, wouldn't that be dangerous?

A. In these days, running a family is big business, and all members of the family should be informed stockholders. How can children be reasonably in their requests if they don't know what the family's resources are?

Suppose the boy next door gets a new bike, and your Johnny asks if he can't have the bike, too. You feel the family can't afford it, but what do you tell Johnny? Most parents don't like to admit they don't have the money, so they come up with some phoney reason why they don't think it is wise for him to have the bike (too dangerous, etc.). You can't defend it, so you get angry with him for arguing, and neither of you is happy with the result.

Suppose, however, you are a full partnership family, with all children old enough to understand sitting in on the family council. Johnny then brings his bike request to the council. The family, together, examines the income and expense picture to see if there is enough money for the bike. Let's suppose Dad is right, and there isn't. Then Johnny can't have the bike. Let's suppose the family will suggest that he can take on a paper route to earn the money, or maybe he'd rather have the bike than the week at summer camp.

Whatever the outcome, Johnny will feel that he was a part of the decision, so his relationship with the family will be better, and his preparations for managing his own money started.
