State Job Service Opening Local Office

The manager of the Norfolk Nebraska Job Service, center Thursday morning announced that a satellite employment office will open Tuesday at the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. Ken Boyer said the main function of the Wayne office will be to serve as a placement office, taking job orders from employers and matching them with applicants seeking work. The Norfolk office in the past has made a representative available in Wayne one day a month. "That just wasn't enough for a community the size of Wayne," Boyer said, adding that the satellite office program is a relatively new, established by the State Labor Department to provide a full time Job Service representative in communities with 5,000 or more population. "I think we will be able to offer a good service in Wayne," Boyer said. He cautioned, however, that cooperation is necessary if the office is to be successful. It will be up to local employers and job seekers to make use of the office, he said. If enough placements don't result from the satellite clinic, funding for the office could be curtailed, Boyer said.

Manning the office will be John Kampert, a 1976 graduate of Southwest State University of Marshall, Minn., where he received a bachelor of arts degree in sociology.

Kampert, who will live in Wayne, has been training for the position in Norfolk. Boyer said he and another Job Service representative will begin setting up the office Tuesday. Kampert will also begin visiting area employers, Boyer said, adding that a schedule of office hours will be announced later.

The office will primarily serve Wayne, but will also serve other communities in the area.

Accept Posts

On Way Board

Two of the four vacant seats have been filled on the board of directors of Wayne United Way.

Appointed to those positions during Friday's noon meeting were B.J. Hirt and Bill Dickey. They replace Bob Reeg and Laura Franklin, whose three-year terms expire this year. Two other members of the nine-member board leaving their posts are Joan Potts, who finished her term, and Nell Dinges, who left his post when his company transferred him to Holdrege. Dinges had one year left to serve on the board.

Hirt is a member of the Wayne State biology faculty. Dickey is a loan officer at First National Bank in Wayne.

During Friday's meeting, secretary Marilyn Carhart reported that all but $33 in pledges have been collected to reach this year's goal of $15,000. The total amount is now later pointed out. It is the first time in almost 10 years the UW drive has reached its goal.

Youngster Gets

Quite a Ride

A Hoskins youngster got more of a ride than he bargained for Thursday when he started his parents' car.

Mrs. Georgia Gillespie had parallel parked on the street and left her three-year-old son, Jason, in the car.

The youngster managed to start the car and put it in gear. The tot's driving experience came to an abrupt halt when the car struck a pickup belonging to George Langenberg of Hoskins, angle parked farther down the street.

The youngster was not hurt in the mishap but the Gillespie car sustained heavy damage. The pickup received light damage.

The accident occurred at about 11:40 a.m., according to the Wayne County sheriff's department.

A car driven by Douglas Asmus of Hoskins and a pickup driven by Floyd Bloom of Dixon were both damaged at about 1:50 p.m. Thursday in an accident on Highway 57 in Carroll.

Asmus was traveling west on a Carroll street, had stopped at a stop sign, and was turning south on Highway 57 when his car was struck by the Bloom pickup, northbound on the highway.

Asmus told a sheriff's deputy that his view of the intersection was obstructed by a parked car. Bloom said he saw the Asmus car pull into the intersection, but not in time to avoid the collision.

The Asmus car sustained moderate damage. Damages to Bloom's pickup were in excess of $250, according to the deputy.

Neither driver was injured.

WH Band Tops

The swivling sounds of Wayne High School's jazz band were the notes which apparently turned the judges' heads Thursday as the locals walked away with the top prize in the Coyle Band Festival at the University of South Dakota-Vermillion.

A total of 12 bands competed in the all day contest which was highlighted that night by a concert presented in part by the Wayne band.

Hot Cakes,

Sausage on

Kiwanis Menu

The aroma of hot flapjacks, sausage and hot coffee will fill the city auditorium on Thursday night, March 10, when the Wayne Kiwanis Club holds its annual pancake feed.

The three-hour supper starts at 5 p.m. and is open to everyone at a cost of $1.50 for adults and $1 for youngsters. Proceeds will go to the club's youth activities in Wayne.

In addition to the feed, a blood pressure clinic will be held at the Women's Club Room, next to the auditorium. Local nurses have volunteered to conduct the tests free of charge.

The last blood pressure clinic held in Wayne was during the county fair. Again sponsoring this year's clinic is the county home extension council.

Speakers Will Delve Into Past

Wayne State College will become a center for Nebraska historians this week when the WSC social sciences division sponsors its Conference on Nebraska History.

Scheduled for Friday, and Saturday, the conference will feature 17 Midwestern history buffs, presenting papers on several aspects of Nebraska heritage.

Open to the public, the conference will open at 9 a.m., Friday, with registration in the Wayne State Student Center.

Rural Areas

Lose Power

Residents of Winside, Carroll and Hoskins in Wayne County and Laurel, Coleridge, Hartington and Osmond were without electricity for about an hour Friday morning when a Nebraska Public Power District transformer near Belden burned up.

Problems with the Belden transformer put three Cedar-Knox Public Power District substations and four Wayne County Public Power District substations out of order.

The power loss occurred shortly after 6 a.m., lasting about an hour and affecting about 1,500 rural power customers.

Training for Fund Drive

Farm Incorporation Offers Advantages

The first step most farmers should take when considering incorporating their farm is to retain an attorney familiar with corporate law and agriculture.

University of Nebraska Lincoln economist Phil Henderson told Wayne County farmers Tuesday Henderson, whose seminar on farm incorporation was sponsored by the county extension office, said one of the main advantages of incorporating is to facilitate the transfer of land from one generation to the next.

Gifts of up to $3,000 a year are excluded from taxation, and if both parents are living, each can give a tax-exempt $3,000 gift each year to each child, Henderson said. "It is impractical to give land," the economist added. "But it is easy to give $3,000 worth of stock."

Previously, any gifts given within the three years prior to death were returned to the estate for probate, but recent changes in law have eliminated that restriction.

Corporations can also offer tax advantages to farmers in certain income brackets, Henderson said.

He advised against incorporation if there is any thought that the corporate arrangement will be on a short-time basis.

Stock is issued on the basis of the price paid for land, but when a corporation is dissolved, land is broken up on the basis of gift and estate value. The difference in land prices will represent capital gains which are subject to taxation, Henderson said.

Depending on salaries paid by corporations, social security tax also increases under the corporate arrangement. Sole proprietor farmers pay a 7.9 per cent social security tax. If employed by a family owned corporation, each individual will pay a 5.85 per cent rate, and the corporation must match the amount.

On the positive side, Henderson said, corporations can offer

Natural Gas Customers Can Defer Winter Heat Payments

Nebraska residential customers of Peoples Natural Gas, which serves 42 communities including Wayne, will have a chance to defer a portion of their gas bills this winter under a plan announced last week by the utility company.

Called the "Winter of '77 Even Payment Plan," the plan will allow residential customers to average higher than usual bills for natural gas in January, February and March in with lower bills in April, May, and June.

Under the plan, customers will make equal monthly payments during those six months. Any adjustment for over-payment or under-payment will be made on the June bill.

Keith Mosley, manager of the Wayne People's Natural Gas office, said records show that January 1977 was 30 per cent colder than January 1976. Extremely high winds and dry conditions, which in some cases have caused shrinkage of building materials, have also contributed to increased use of gas.

Peoples has also had five rate increases during 1976 raising the cost of gas by 39.1 cents per 1,000 cubic feet (MCF). One of those increases, effective Oct. 27, 1976, was a general rate increase. It raised costs by 7.9 cents per MCF. The other increases have been to pass along increased gas prices charged Peoples by its suppliers.

Prices now in effect are $3,792 per MCF for the first 500 MCF, $2,0181 each for the next 4,500 MCF, $1,6181 each for the

Petroleum Official Joins National Dividend Roster

An official from the American Petroleum Institute has been added to the agenda of the National Dividend Plan seminar scheduled for Thursday at Wayne State College.

Hastings Wyman will speak on "Government Intervention in the Market Place" at the seminar co-sponsored by the Wayne State Social Science Division and the National Dividend Foundation.

With a wide background of governmental work, Wyman served for five years as a legislative assistant to Senator Strom Thurmond (R.S.C.) and has also been on the staff of Secretary of Commerce Fred Dent.

Wyman will speak from 1:15 to 1:45 p.m. in the Wayne State Student Center.

The National Dividend Plan seminar, according to WSC social science department head Clifton Ginn, will deal with "a proposal to take the national government's revenue that comes from corporate taxes, and redistribute this directly to registered voters."

Three representatives from the National Dividend Foundation will visit Wayne to speak on this topic in the daylong seminar. The representatives are:

—Hal Allen, director of public affairs of the National Dividend Foundation. He has an extensive background in press and public relations including wide newspaper experience. He has received a Pulitzer Prize. Wyman See DIVIDEND, page 9

Settlement Said

To Be Possibility

A spokesman for the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations Friday said court files did not show that briefs had been filed in the Winside School District negotiations case.

The spokesman said the court had been informed that the negotiations would possibly be settled out of court, pending formal action by the school board.

Erwin Morris, president of the board of education, Friday morning said he had no information regarding a possible settlement. Winside teacher Ruth Puls, president of the Wayne County Education Association (WCEA) which represents teachers in the negotiations, was not available for comment Friday.

Deadline for filing the briefs was Feb. 16. The case was scheduled for hearing in court Friday, March 4.

The WCEA filed a petition with the court in December in hopes of settling the negotiations. Items for consideration in the court petition were base salary, index salary schedule, health insurance contribution, and extra duty pay schedule.

Negotiations were taken to a three-member fact finding committee in May after the teachers' association and school board were unable to reach an agreement.

Wakefield Teachers OK Board Offer

Wakefield teachers last week ratified salary contract terms for next year.

The Wakefield Education Association accepted base pay of $8,030, compared to $7,950 this year.

Teachers receive a four per cent increase in pay for each year of teaching experience and a four per cent increase for each nine hours of graduate level education.

The association also accepted an increase in the amount of premium paid by the district for health insurance from $36.50 to $42.50. The number of sick days was increased from 30 days to 40.

Planetarium Show Will End Soon

This coming week marks the last opportunity for area residents to view the current planetarium star show "The People" at Wayne State College. Presentations are scheduled for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. and March 6 at 3:30 p.m.

The show emphasizes American Indian concepts of the sky as seen through their myths and poetry.

"The People" begins with myths about the creation of the world and proceeds in successive legends through the creation of the sun, stars, the blossoms on the moon, the rainbow and the seasons.

Some of the legends are profound; some are humorous. All give a view of the first Americans living in harmony with all of nature.

Much of the production material for "The People" was developed originally by the Hansen Planetarium of Salt Lake City under a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Included in the Dale Planetarium production are segments adapted from the writings of John G. Neihardt.

The next production at the Dale Planetarium will be "The Archive Project," a science fiction journey into the intense gravitational Black Hole at the center of the galaxy. "The Archive Project" will begin March 20 and run through April 21, with presentations scheduled Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and Wednesday evenings at 7:30.

All visitors are reminded that no one can be admitted once a planetarium show begins, so early arrival is suggested.

The Fred G. Dale Planetarium is located at the south entrance of the Carhart Science Hall on the campus of Wayne State College.

The Wayne County Joint Planning Commission has cancelled Tuesday's regular monthly meeting so that members may attend a planning seminar in Norfolk that night.

A decision to reschedule the monthly meeting will be announced at a later date.

Friday, 9:30 a.m. Coffee and registration. 9:30-9:50 a.m. Plenary Session, Birch Room.

man. In 1932 his uncle died and Lerner became proprietor of the business, moving it first to the building which now houses on Karel's and later to the current Barner's Appliance and Lawn Care Center.

"I started out with $150 in my pocket," he revealed.

Lerner said the demand for buggy harness was good during his apprenticeship but faded early in his career, as automobiles began replacing carriages. The new fangled mode of transportation did offer some trade for a harness maker in those days.

"I upholstered quite a few seats on those early Fords," he recalled.

Lerner also repaired saddles and other leather goods but work harness for farm draft horses was the mainstay of his trade until tractors started replacing horses.

"I made my last new harness in 1937 for John Lower," Lerner said. "I sold it for $135. You couldn't touch that harness today for less than $500."

The toughest part of the trade was repairing old work-worn harness. Lerner said, and the long hours didn't end with his apprenticeship.

Drought is nothing new to Northeast Nebraska farmers and 1933 was a bad year, Lerner recalled.

"The corn was little over knee high that year and they harvested it with binders, usually used for small grain," he said.

Wayne Craftsman Out of Harness after 70-Year Career

By JIM STRAYER

Wall Lerner decided a couple of months ago it was time to take himself out of harness — in more ways than one.

The 85-year-old, life-long Wayne resident began his apprenticeship as a harness maker more than 70 years ago and was still working three hours a day at Ory's shoe repair in Wayne when he finally decided to retire completely.

Lerner, at the age of 14 was apprenticed for three years to his uncle, William Pelpenstock, owner of the Pelpenstock Harness shop then located in the King's Carpets building.

"In those days the thing-to-do was learn a trade," Lerner said. "My father whisked me on to

OBSERVATIONS

Budget bill considered

Omaha state senator Larry Stoney has introduced a bill in the Legislature to develop zero-based budgeting for state agencies.

Stoney's bill deserves consideration. Zero base budgeting has been successfully implemented in other states. The budgetary system required agencies to justify their entire budget request each year, giving a detailed report of each program, ranked according to priority.

If handled properly, zero base budgeting can be an effective tool for cleaning out fiscal closets and eliminating one-viable programs, which now have little or no chance of being continued because they are not subject to review under incremental budgeting.

Zero base budgeting isn't a panacea for fiscal woes, particularly if not handled properly. A poorly planned system could accomplish little more than adding to the volume of paper work, without eliminating programs no longer needed.

Changing budgeting systems is a big step, one which should be considered, but considered carefully. — Jim Strayer.

CHINESE agriculture will be the featured topic of a Rural Action meeting March 3 at Hartington's Lutheran Fellowship Hall. Roger Blobaum, principal investigator for Cedar County's Small Farm Energy Project, has made two trips to Mainland China in the last two years, and will be the speaker. All Rural Action Group meetings are open to the public.

SALARY negotiations between Pender Educational Association and the school board for the 1977-78 school year have been completed. The agreement calls for increasing the base salary — the salary paid to teachers with a teaching degree but with no experience — from $7,900 to $8,400. It also calls for increasing the school district's health insurance contribution by $2.40 to $25.80 per month for single coverage and by $14.13 to $54.13 per month for family coverage. No other changes were made in the pay schedule or fringe benefits, according to school superintendent James Brazee.

MEMBERS of the Pilger Volunteer Fire Department were called to assist the Stanton Fire Department in fighting a blaze early Thursday morning, Feb. 17 at Leonard Czarnek's Repair Shop. Also assisting with the blaze was one pumper from Norfolk. By the time help arrived, the garage was in flames and Stanton fire chief Walter Roofendel stated that it appeared the fire was set in various locations inside the garage.

THE WISNER Hiernian "Blarney Stone" is going, again. The taking of the Blarney Stone last week marks the first time since the stone was removed from its foundation before the big St. Patrick's Day celebration March 17. The stone has always reappeared sometime during the parade on St. Patrick's Day. St. Patrick's Day festivities in Wisner this year will again feature the parade at 2 p.m. and an Irish program at the city auditorium, followed by the Wisner Hiernian buffet dinner at the Indian Trails Country Club. The activities will conclude at the Wisner city auditorium where Bob Rabe and his combo will perform for dancing.

ROBERT PRAZAK of West Point recently took over the service of golf pro at the Indian Trails Country Club in Beemer. Presently Prazak is a business teacher and golf coach at West Point High School and said that his wife, Sarah, will be running the course during the school year.

THE Wisner-Pilger music department will present "The Music Man" on May 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. on both evenings. The musical is under the direction of Ronald Bourke and is accompanied by Judy Koch. The cast is headed by Carrie Rathke and Dave Lambert.

WAKEFIELD National Bank opened for business Tuesday morning in its new facilities. Among the many new services that are available in the bank's operation is the drive-in window on the South side. A grand opening is being planned for the near future.

E.J. SIMPSON Associates architectural firm has presented preliminary drawings of the second stage of the new Pierce county courthouse to the county commissioners. The second and final stage of the project would involve an additional 13,500 square feet of space and would cost about $560,000. Work started on the first stage during the summer of 1974, and that portion was occupied in the summer of 1975. That section cost $512,000 and included a wing of offices plus a new jail facility with sheriff's living quarters and office.

Family wants apology

Dear Editor: KTCB "Gets It On" You bet. This morning (Feb. 23) before the immediate family was notified of his death, the news was on the radio that a man had taken his own life and how it was done.

What a way for a recent cardiac patient to find out of a death in his family, needless to say of the rest of those affected.

I think an apology is needed even though irreparable damage was done. Maybe it need to never happen again that news means more than people. — Mary Nichols.

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

State Sen. Bob Murphy was the subject of a "roast" last week in his hometown of South Sioux City.

Among other things, Sen. Murphy learned, from his "grandmother" played by a local lady, that Aaron Butler of Wayne is indeed his "cousin" and that Murphy doesn't know all that went on in his ancestry.

Butler's claim to be a cousin of the senator was a point of controversy during the elections last fall, as most of you probably remember.

Sen. Murphy also received a "telegram" from Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha which concluded by saying, "I love you like a brother."

offered to give him a free ride to Scottsbluff "strapped to the underside of a tank car."

Sounds like a fun night, one which I imagine Sen. Murphy enjoyed as much as anyone who attended.

Uberbat?

By now you've probably noticed my (perverse?) interest in typographical miscues — mine and those of others. Dr. Willis Wiseman of Wayne received a motor vehicle tax statement for an Uberbat.

Sounds like one of those new small cars which seem to be pouring in from locations throughout the world, except that the model year is 1965. Actually, the statement was for an international pickup and recalling past sins of my own, I figured out what happened.

Sit down at a typewriter, move your right hand one key to the left from the standard position, and type Uberbat. The result is Uberbat.

Inspections Curbed

The Labor Department suspended Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) inspections in Idaho in compliance with a court injunction that bars such inspections because the act does not provide for search warrants.

Congressman William A. Steiger (R-Wis.), one of the principal sponsors of the act, denounced the suspension.

Congressman George Hansen (R-Idaho) hailed the decision as a great present to the businessmen and farmers of the United States. Hansen heads a national "Stop OSHA" campaign for the American Conservative Union.

Grandpa's Boy

Out of Old Nebraska

In late May of 1863 the curious in Missouri River ports of Nebraska crowded the landings to watch a strange, forlorn human cargo sail upstream on the steamboat Davenport. It carried elements of Santee Sioux and Winnebago Indian tribes to a reservation on Crow Creek in mid-South Dakota as penalty for having made war on the whites during the Sioux Outbreak of August, 1862, in southwest Minnesota.

A preponderance of those on board were women and children huddled in blankets on the decks. Most of the warriors had been separated from their families and were being held elsewhere. Actually the Winnebago were involved in the hostilities only in a minor degree; yet, having lived in the area of the Outbreak, they too had become anathema to the whites and were included in the removal. The round-about river route from Minnesota to Dakota was chosen by the government as the most practical method of transporting the Indians.

In one of the bloodiest encounters in the history of white Indian confrontations, 644 white citizens and 93 soldiers, who had come to stop the marauders, were killed in the Outbreak, according to Sioux Agent Thomas P. Galbraith. His report may be read in the library of the Nebraska State Historical Society in Lincoln.

On December 27, 1862, "thirty-eight Indians and half-breeds" considered the ringleaders in the depredations, were executed in Mankato, Minnesota, on order from President Lincoln, who had reduced the sentences of scores of others. The President ordered the remaining prisoners imprisoned by Brig. Gen. H.H. Sibley "subject to further orders, taking care that they can neither escape nor are subjected to any unlawful violence." Animosly toward the Indians ran high, and there was little disposition to leniency at the local level. At the one time about 2,000 Indians were held as prisoners and 307 were at first sentenced to die.

In February, 1863, Congress closed out the Indians' reservation and left the tribes homeless while pondering their disposal. After spending the winter in tipi camps near Fort Sneyling, 770 exiles boarded the Davenport at St. Paul for a voyage to Dakota. The Rev. Samuel D. Hinman accompanied the party. There was stone-throwing and hooting by bitter whites as the boat floated downstream. Another boat, the Northerner, took aboard 540 Indians.

At Hannibal, Mo., in northeast Missouri the Northerner discharged its load of passengers. The Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad hauled them westward to St. Joseph, to await the arrival of the Davenport, which had taken the all-water route via St. Louis and the lower Missouri River. At St. Joseph the two groups were crowded together on the Davenport for the last leg of the voyage.

The Brownville Advertiser's reporter on May 23, 1863, who had observed the steamer heading upstream, filed this somewhat inaccurate report:

"700 Saws and Indian Babies — On Thursday last, the steamer Florence (Davenport) passed up the river with the first installment of Indians — the Minnesota Sioux — which the Government is moving from Minnesota to Dakota. They appeared to be all or nearly all women and children. The upper and lower decks were crowded almost to overflowing. Many of the children had paler faces than fullbloods could boast. Should the Florence (sic) either from accident or design be burned on its way up the river, there doubtless will be a vast destruction of life."

There was no room for all to lie down at night, and they were forced to sleep in relays. Death was not uncommon as a result of the "middle passage" to Crow Creek. The first winter there was grim, and living conditions were little better after three years. The Santee were then moved to the mouth of the Niobrara in Nebraska last, a more hospitable environment. The Winnebago also were permitted to take up residence farther south in Nebraska near the Omaha Reservation.

Kraemers Think Visitors 'Special'

Marlen and Shirley, and the rest of the Kraemer family from Laurel, were especially pleased to entertain some South American visitors last week. Kraemers feel Jose, Oscar and Patricia Vega are very special people.

It was through the Vega family that Kraemer's son, Randy, first became interested in foreign languages. Oscar Vega stayed with Kraemers five years ago under a Youth for Understanding Program.

And three years ago, Oscar's father, Jose, with Braniff Airlines, visited the United States bringing a reciprocal invitation to that Randy visit the Vegas in their home in Asuncion, Paraguay.

Patricia Vega taught Spanish to Randy, then 14. When Randy returned to the states, he continued to study foreign languages. He is now a sophomore at Wayne State College with a Spanish major.

Through Oscar and the rest of the Vega family, the Kraemers have become very alert to South American people and the countries — learning "what you couldn't get out of textbooks," said Shirley.

And Jose Vega feels his son has gained a "very good" mental attitude by experiencing the American culture. He and his family have also seen a broader perspective of government, noting that the Communist influence is evident in Paraguayan government classes.

Oscar, back for his first visit in five years, noted how "grown-up" his Laurel classmates have become. But he and his sister, have done some "growing up" too.

Twenty-two year old Oscar is about ready to graduate with a plastics degree from the University of Brazil in Sao Paulo, Brazil. Patricia now attends a computer college and hopes to attend Wayne State College some day.

Her first time in the Midwest, Patricia said she feels this area is more friendly and pleasant in contrast to the East and New York City. "There," she said, "everybody works so much and there is little family life."

Lucht, Goetz Kayo Bears

Wildcats Pull Out Title in Thriller

By BOB BARTLETT
Both the expected and the unexpected happened Friday night at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

The expected: Harrington's 6-8 center Dan Lucht would be a factor in the outcome of the Class C-6 district finals against Laurel.

The unexpected: The Bears came out on the short end. Lucht, who set himself a three-year career high rebounding record by surpassing the 1,000-career mark, dominated the boards with 20 rebounds and scored 24 points to lead his Wildcats past the Bears, 53-50.

Laurel, which had beaten Harrington in a close ball game earlier, was the slight favorite since the Bears of coach Joel Parks had the speed and scoring punch.

But such wasn't the case Friday night. Lucht and lightning-quick Wildcat Tom Goetz delivered the two-fisted punch throughout the night to kyo Laurel's hopes of a fourth straight ticket to the regionals, and maybe for the first time in a long while, a trip to the state tournament.

Lucht and Goetz, who both were named to the first team of the Clark division all-conference basketball team, put their club in front 8-2 in the early going of the opening period.

Both fueled the Wildcats to a nine-point spread at one point in the first period with their inside plays as Lucht would take the feed pass and one-handedly drop the ball through the hoop. In an effort to stop Harrington's big man, Parks assigned 6-4 junior Mark Martin to the job. Parks had to resort to a double-team defense of Martin and Bob Dahlquist in the second period after Lucht six points for a 15-7 Wildcat command. The two-man play temporarily slowed the big man to two baskets before he cashed in on two free throws for, a 12-point first-half effort. Before Parks assigned a third player to stop Lucht, Harrington ripped off seven points. Kelly Stockwell scored a basket, was fouled and converted on the extra point. Next, Goetz was fouled as his shot fell through. The free throw missed its target, but Lucht was there for the tip-in to put his club ahead by 11. As it has been in past games, the third quarter was Laurel's turn to show its strength. Down by 30-25 at the half, the Bears made three straight two-pointers — the last one by 6-2 senior Tim See WILDCATS, page 5

TRYING TO break through Harrington's zone defense for a quick two-pointer is senior guard Cleve Stolpe (23) of Laurel as the Bear attempts to escape the defenses of Tom

Wayne, Midland Paired in Finals

Two wins in state tournament action put Wayne State women's basketball team into finals Saturday, scheduled to play top-seeded Midland at 3 p.m. Thursday the Wildkittens demolished Peru 82-43, followed by an 84-66 victory over third-positioned Kearney Friday.

But as the Wildkittens won so did the Warriors. The Midland girls kept on a parallel with Wayne, defeating Wesleyan 84-54 Thursday, and St. Mary's of Omaha 71-60 Friday.

Twelve Wildkittens played and the same twelve scored in action against Peru Thursday. Tammy Compton, a freshman from Quincy, Ia., raked right up with Connie Kunzmann and Pat McKay in point production.

She contributed 12 Wildkitten points preceded by McKay's 17, and Kunzmann's 19. Compton also ranked high in rebounds with 11, followed by 10 for McKay, nine for Kunzmann.

For Peru, top scorer was Becky Graham with 17. The only other Bobkitten in double figures was Nancy Parker with 10. Julie Brinkman played her usual good passing game, leading in assists, and Peg Langel, a Wayne State freshman, also played a good game in rebounding.

Once the Wildkittens took the lead over Kearney Friday, they kept the lead, ahead at half 50-24. It was a back-and-forth ball game for the first few minutes until Wayne started a basket rally for 12 consecutive points. A hot-handed Kunzmann sunk 18 points in the first half, followed by Lori Mittelstadt with 10. Final game statistics showed Kunzmann as high scorer with 28 followed by Mittelstadt with 14. Brinkman, hitting from both sides on long shots sunk 12 and others in double figures were starters McKay with 12 and Ellie Studer 10.

The tournament wins lifted the Wildkittens season record to 23-5. Last week the women picked up the Central State Conference Crown with a 13-1 record.

Ten teams were entered in the AIAW of Nebraska Small College Basketball Tournament hosted by Midland in Fremont. In the first round Chadron defeated Wesleyan and Peru defeated Doane 57-43.

St. Mary's defeated Concordia 48-39 in order to face Midland, and Kearney lobbed over Creighton 63-39 for semi-final action with Wayne.

Wildcats Close Year With Loss

By a one-point margin, Wayne State's basketball Wildcats finished their 1976-77 season on a loss at Chadron State, 74-73, Friday.

Close all the way, never more than three points apart in the second half, the battle went through a series of late ties. A Wayne Robinson field goal about four seconds from the end could have tied the count, had the Wildcats cashed in a free throw a few seconds earlier.

The first half ended with the same margin at game's end — Chadron leading by one point, 41-40.

Mark Olsen, hitting 10 points over his average, led all scoring with 23 points. Robinson closed out his collegiate career with 16 — which lifted his season to a tidy figure, 600, averaging out to exactly 20 a game.

Also scoring for Wayne: Lennie Adams 10, Gary Rauch 9, Dale Meyer 6, Joe Curl and Joe Peitzmeier each 2, Ed Gogan 1. The Eagles had five scoring. See WILDCATS, page 7

St. Mary's Wins

Sixth grade cagers from St. Mary's Tuesday night waitz past host Dixon, 33-17.

Jeff McCright and Todd Schwartz scored six points each to lead the locals to a 14-9 halftime lead.

McCright finished with 10 points, for high while Schwartz had eight. Right behind were Todd Dorcay with seven, and two back for Chris Wieseler, Chad Dorcay, Pat Melena and Sean Dorcay.

Doug Moore led Dixon scoring with five followed by Tom Roder, Chip Young and Stuart Lubberstedt with four each.

Two elite baseball teams are those that share the record for the most home runs in one season. The New York Giants of 1917 and the Cincinnati Reds of 1956 each played 155 games and hit 221 runs.

Backstop/Bob Bartlett

BRAD LANGENBERG probably didn't realize until later just exactly what his winning a state title meant both to him and his school.

For the 145-pound senior, winning a state title is the highest honor any high school grappler can achieve and is the most rewarding after a grueling and long season. For his school, the win moved the Wildcats up from a 10-way tie for 23rd to a six-way battle for 21st among the 135 state high schools which produced individual champions since the first wrestling meet in 1928.

Winside has mustered eight champions—three under coach Ron Peck—to be in the running with such schools as Alliance, Cambridge, Crawford, Curtis Medicine Valley and Valentine.

Undoubtedly, helping to push Winside up the ranks of schools having state champions was the last thing on Brad's mind. At least, that's what Peck believes. There wasn't any need to talk to Brad too much before the finale. Peck is willing to concede that at that point in the tournament Brad probably knew as much if not more about wrestling and what to do than his coach.

The only words Peck spoke were that Brad's opponent, Rollie Tramp of Amesist, could be beat. His record proves that: 19-9.

Winside wrestlers Peck was counting on to win state titles and give Winside a solid chance of winning a second class title in three years.

Besides Langenberg, Peck had high hopes for 185-pound Bryan Svoboda, 155-pound Neil Wagner and 126-pound Kevin Cleveland. Svoboda was sidelined in the semifinals of the championship round and had to settle for third; Wagner finished fourth and Cleveland came in fifth.

"I felt that Winside had a good team and I wouldn't be surprised that if the tournament would be held over again that another team would win," Peck emphasized.

TWO BASKETBALL coaches from Northeast Nebraska high schools, Larry Fletcher of Walthill and Fred Letheby of Madison, have been selected to a 10-man committee to pick players and coaches for the ninth annual Nebraska All-State high school basketball game.

Also on the committee are Joe Folda of Sidney, Don Kelly of Lincoln Plus X, Tom Lawson of Grant, Larry Moore of Nebraska City, Sam Sharpe of Hildreth, Ken Trubey of Ord, Gene Vannier of Arapahoe and Bro. Mike Wimoto of Omaha Creighton Prep.

JOE CIPRIANO for Coach of the Year? That's what UNL athletic director Bob Devaney proposed last week during a dinner in Norfolk. He reasoned that Joe, who is the head basketball coach of NU started the season with very little playing talent and turned Nebraska into a respectable club.

To be more specific, Devaney claimed that NU's basketball players had trouble chewing gum and dribbling down the court at the same time.

Question comes to mind: Who's responsible for recruiting those inept players? I always thought the coach had the last say.

WS Matmen Land Three NAIA Champs

Wayne State wrestlers won three individual championships in the Nebraska NAIA district tournament Friday at Seward. Chadron State also claimed three titles, Peru State and Midland two each.

But Kearney State, without a single winner among seven finalists, claimed its first district championship on 70% points. Defending champ Wayne settled for second with 59%.

Chadron State finished with 54, Peru State 40%, Midland 40%, Dana 21%, Concordia 13%.

Coach Marion Haayer counted it a good performance by the Wildcats and added, "I think we could have won it except for some injuries earlier in the year."

Wildcat champions were Dwight Lienemann of Winside, gaining his second crown at 177, Billy-Weyland of Spearler, Kirk Hanson of Ruffalo, Ia., at 156 pounds, and Randy Humpal of Butte, at 167. Both Hanson and Humpal took second last year.

Lands for Wildlife Goal Is Proper Habitat

The key to any wildlife is proper habitat, and that is the primary goal of the "Lands For Wildlife" programs of three natural resource districts in northeast Nebraska.

Land which was once cropland is now back in cover consisting of native grasses, alfalfa, vetch, red clover and sweet clover. The result is over 3,600 acres of new wildlife lands in northeast Nebraska of which almost 50 per cent is open to public access.

The vegetative cover on these lands must remain undisturbed for three years under the program. This provides excellent nesting and winter cover for both upland and small game animals. In addition, the program provides erosion control, public access and retirement of land for conservation.

The three natural resource districts involved in the program include the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District, the Lewis and Clark Natural Resource District, and the Middle Missouri Natural Resource District. Each of the natural resource districts involved has its own "Lands For Wildlife" program and spends a significant portion of its budget for the program.

Glen Spreeman, assistant manager of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District at Norfolk, indicated that with over 97 per cent of Nebraska in private ownership, a program had to be established to encourage wildlife on private lands. Spreeman said, "The program is not only beneficial to wildlife, but is also an excellent method of building soil fertility and preventing soil erosion problems."

Farmers enrolled in the program receive $25 per acre and an additional $2.50 if the land is open to the public. Last year, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District, which is the largest natural resource district in northeast Nebraska, spent $44,000 and enrolled over 1,800 acres in the program.

Tom Moser, manager of the Lewis and Clark Natural Resource District at Hartington, indicated that the "Lands For Wildlife" program is the most popular program in the district. "Over $31,000 was spent on the program last year to enroll over 1,500 acres," said Moser. "We had to turn people down who wanted to enroll. Those enrolling are paid $20.00 per acre and public access is required."

Rodney Storm, manager of the Middle Missouri Natural Resource District, indicated that the board of directors was very much in favor of their "Lands For Wildlife" program. Storm said, "It not only helps wildlife, but is an excellent means of re-establishing native grasses and preventing soil erosion."

Presently, the Middle Missouri Natural Resource District is spending over $5,000 annually for 400 acres of wildlife habitat and hopes to increase this amount to $7,000 or $8,000 on the new habitat program. Those enrolling are presenting paid $25 per acre and $2.50 in addition if public access is allowed.

8 Players Score To Lead Team 3 In Men's League

With eight players in the scoring column, Team 3 had little trouble convincing Team 5 who should be the winner during the first game of men's city recreation B league play Wednesday night.

Howard Peters and Ric Wilson combined for 33 of those points for the club's seventh win against two losses, good enough to keep their quint tied for first place with idle Team 4.

Peters balanced his scoring with nine points in the first half and eight in the second. Meanwhile, Wilson contributed eight in each half.

Boe Reeg ripped the cords for 22 markers to lead Team 6 to a 47-45 escape of Team 2, and four players scored in double figures for Team 7 as it got by Team 1, 62-57.

Frank Overin led the foursome with 17 points, including 10 in the first two periods as Team 7 climbed to a 35-19 halftime lead. Randy Shaw had 13 while Curt Frye and Bill Woehler each scored 12.

In the standings: Team 6 is second place with a 6-3 mark followed by Team 5, 4-5; Team 7, 3-6; Team 2, 3-7; and Team 1, 2-7.

Teams 3 and 1 will open play Wednesday night at 7 p.m. Also playing Wednesday night are Team 4 and 7 at 8, and Teams 5 and 6 at 9.

Also scoring:
Team 3 — Jerry Dorsey 9, Larry Stralman 8, Tom Roberts 8, Dave Luff 5, Gene Casey 5, Bob Bladt 1; Team 5 — Ron Dalton 19, Bill Workman 11, Dennis Spangler 8, Dick Ditman 6, Dave Krusemark 4, Bill Dickey 2, Kevin Dorsey 2.

A Look Back At Saturday's State Tourney

Involved in some of the action are, clockwise from top left: Going down on the mat is 126-pound Kevin Cleveland during Friday night's action: Kneeling down on one knee in hopes of surprising his opponent is Wildcat Bryan Svoboda; 185; Locking arms are two unidentified grapplers, including one from Winside; Yelling advice is 112-pound Wildcat Tom Anderson, and holding his head down during the 155-pound tussle is Neil agner. As a team, Winside finished third in the Class D standings.

Hanson also wrestled twice, winning one by a fall. Hampal had to go three matches, getting one of three wins by a fall.

Three Wildcats claimed third places. Dan Fernau of Norfolk, at 118; Herb Harris of West Lafayette, Ind., who did not make his usual 150-pound weight, so grappled at 190, where Wayne has a vacancy, and Kevin Cuvelier of Oakland, 150. Wayne residents Ken Daniels, 142, and Chuck Brockman, heavyweight, took fourth places.

The Nebraska College Conference rivals matched 37 rebounds, but Chadron won on a vital statistic: 46 per cent field accuracy compared to Wayne's 28.

So the Wildcats finished on an 18-12 record — the most wins since the 23-6 season of 1969-70. In NCC play, the Cats are 3-3. Chadron logged a 17.9 record, 2-4 in the conference.

Winside Mentor: We've Improved But Lack Wins

Paced by three players in double figures, Hartington High breezed to a 72-31 win over Winside Monday night, to advance in the Class C district basketball tournament at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

Hefty 6-8 Dan Lucht poured in 20 points while Kelly Stockwell added 11 and Jote Hansen popped in 10 markers for the top seeded Wildcats of coach Mike Salonen.

Hartington ran off 19 points in the first quarter to lead Winside by 13 before the Cats took a 31-18 lead going into the third quarter.

In the second half Hartington opened up its attack with 15 points in the third period and 26 in the last quarter.

The winners made 28 of 70 attempts from the field for 40 per cent while Winside connected on 13 of 40 for 33 per cent. Hartington also dominated on the boards with a 52-38 margin.

Noting that his club did make some improvement over the season, Winside coach Sam Cavin added that it would be nice if his team would have won a couple of ball games. The Wildcats finished the season winless in 13 outings.

Hartington advances to the semifinals rounds Thursday against Randolph, a 71-60 winner over Wausa.

The Cardinals got off to a slow start, trailing 10-2 early in the game and 18-10 after the first period. Junior Jeff Sauser put the Cards back into the game in the second period with five baskets and a free throw to trail Wausa by one at the half, 30-29.

Senior Rick Anderson put Randolph in front with his eight points as the Cards began to pull away, 47-43, at the end of three periods of play.

Card of Thanks I wish to thank all my family, relatives, neighbors and friends for all their help in getting everything organized for my farm sale and for all accord brought in. It was all appreciated very much. Mrs. Roy Davis. 128

Farm (Continued from page 1) minority stockholders in a farm family corporation might be in a position, following the death of their parents where they are not involved in the farm operation, and cannot sell their stock to the corporation.

Articles of Incorporation should allow children not involved in the farming operation to get their share of the estate, while at the same time not loading heirs operating the farm with impossible burdens.

"You must be careful to give both minority and controlling share holders a fair shake," he said.

Henderson also discussed changes in the law which affect estate planning. Included are: —Land value was figured at its market price for estate tax purposes under the old law. Now "current use" value may be used.

Joint tenancy property. Under the old law, property which the decedent held in joint tenancy was presumed to belong to the deceased unless the surviving tenant could prove they had contributed to acquisition.

Under the new law, property placed in joint tenancy between spouses after Jan. 1 will be considered as belonging half to the husband and half to the wife provided a gift tax return has been filed and any tax due has been paid.

Under the new law, executors or administrators of estates need not file a federal estate tax return in most cases if the estate is less than the following amounts, 1975: $200,000; 1976, $134,000; 1977, $147,000; 1980, $161,000; 1981 and after, $175,000.

—Marital deduction. Under the old law the value of property going to a surviving spouse could be subtracted from an amount equal to half of an amount equal to half of the adjusted gross estate. The new law provides that the value of property going to a surviving spouse could be subtracted from a deceased person's estate up to an amount equal to half of the gross value of the estate.

—Orphan exclusion. Under the new law, $5,000 can be deducted from the estate for each year an orphaned child's age is below 21.

The new law also makes provisions for extending the period over which estate taxes could be paid if "undue hardship" can be proven.

OUR SINCERE THANKS to all our relatives and friends for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, flowers, cards, memorials and the dinner and lunch served by our neighbors. Friends, Center Circle Club and Ladies Aid at the time of the death of our loved one. A special thanks to Rev. and Mrs. Gotthberg and Mrs. Pat Melcher. God bless you all. The family of Rosie Hoffman. 128

WE TAKE THIS MEANS to thank everyone for flowers, gifts and beautiful cards we received for our loved one. It was very necessary. Also a very special thank you to our children and grandchildren who were so thoughtful and responsible. Thanks also to Rev. John Upton. May God bless you all. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rethlisch. 128

Wanted Harrington — to tie the game for the first time. From late in the third quarter to less than 30 seconds left in the game, the lead sea-sawed back and forth between the once-rival Wildcats, who hold an 18-3 record, and the Warriors, which finished with a 17-6 mark.

With 1:57 remaining Harrington went up for 52, 48, on baskets by Lucht and Goetz. Gordie Kardell trimmed the margin back to two with his sinker before Laurel was forced to foul in an effort to get the ball back.

Lucht, who was held to 12 in his team's 45-39 win over Randolph Thursday night, was held to only two points in the period as Laurel took over the inside game and mastered the boards.

Harrington led the Bears with 13 points while Cleve Stolpe was right behind with 11.

Thursday night in semi-final play against Crofton, the Bears broke away from a slim 32-31 halftime lead with a second quarter offensive to advance to the finals, 66-52.

Balanced scoring and a strong man-to-man press defense allowed Laurel to pull in front by 10 going into the last period, 47-38. The Bears' defense helped bring back six players, never allowed the Warriors to play their brand of offense once they got the ball.

Double-teaming defense of the Warrior's 6-5 Rick Peitz cut off Crofton's scoring. In the final minutes, the Bears took the lead with a 17-10 run in the first half, the junior made his presence known early in the first half continually battling down Laurel aerials and clearing the boards for Crofton's fast break. A back-swing shot by second quarter sidelinet Peitz.

Laurel forced Crofton to turn the ball over in the second half, mainly on its pressing defense which coach Joel Parks usually incorporates in the second half to throw his opponents off.

Senior guard Cleve Stolpe tore up Crofton's defense when the 5-8 speedster zipped around and through the Warriors for a game-high 20 points. Stolpe, who converted six of seven free throws, totaled 14 points in the first half.

The Bears' Doug Thompson finished second high for Laurel with 13 points and Gordie Kardell rounded out Laurel scoring in double figures with 10.

Mark Jackson led Crofton with 15 markers while Peitz had 13 and Larry Leader had 10.

Gas (Continued from page 1) next 45,000 MCF, $1,568 each for the next 50,000 MCF, and $1,518 per MCF above that amount.

"Because of extremely cold weather in Nebraska this winter, residential heating bills are higher than normal," Mosley said. "The even payment plan acknowledges that fact and attempts to level the financial impact of those high bills."

Participation in the plan is voluntary, Mosley said, and carries no charge or other fee. However, customers buying appliances or making other purchases from People on Time contracts will be required to continue those payments.

A letter explaining the even payment plan has been mailed to each of the company's residential customers. Customers who enroll can drop out at a later date.

Language Project Shaping Up

Plans for a regional study program of foreign languages will start taking shape this week when two consultants meet with the Wayne State College Foreign Language Department.

Lorraine Straszheim and James Becker will visit Wayne Saturday to begin implementation of the program, funded by a grant from the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, a subsidiary of the National Endowment for the Humanities in Washington, D.C.

Distinguished in the area of foreign language pedagogy, Ms. Straszheim is the coordinator of school foreign languages at Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind. She is also the president of the American Teachers of French Association.

Becker, who describes himself as a "foreign language public relations man," has developed several community foreign language programs in Iowa. He is the chairman of the foreign language department of the Malcolm Price Laboratory School at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls. Others who may attend the Foreign Language Grant Planning meeting are Mike Holland, executive director for the Nebraska Committee; and Mel Nielsen, foreign language consultant for the state of Nebraska.

Donald Schultz, project director and head of the Humanities division of WSC, said the planning session will include an explanation of the terms and conditions of the regional grant discussion of objectives, plus a series of working sessions dealing with public relations and a regional survey.

A formal and timetable will also be established to schedule regional foreign language workshops, Schultz said. The WSC Center for the Development of the Humanities received the $6,000 grant from the Nebraska Committee last fall.

The purpose to plan a regional foreign language study program, the grant covered three areas in the program's development:

—A regional community survey citing foreign languages courses offered and public interest and opinion.

—Four workshops in different quarters of the region involving public school faculty, WSC personnel, and consultants.

—A weekend seminar at WSC "to bring together a regional understanding of the present and potential future roles of the foreign languages in Northeast Nebraska."

Wayne County and 11 Northeast Nebraska counties are included under the grant.

Student Senate Elects Leaders

Two new leaders were elected recently to the Wayne State College student senate. John Thomas has been selected as president of the student senate. Lyle Blevins is the senate's new vice president. Both are from Decatur.

Thomas and his running mate defeated contenders Roger Kuhlmann of Onawa, Ia., and Mary Batters of Omaha by a 411-344 vote margin. Kuhlmann and Batters will now serve as senators-at-large.

Thomas is a first-term senior at WSC with a double major in political science and history. He was first elected to the Student Senate last October, representing off-campus students.

A junior at WSC, Blevins carries a major in physical education with an endorsement to coach, plus a business education major. He was first appointed to student senate in January as an off-campus representative. Blevins is a member of the Wayne State Education Association (WSEAN), the Yoga Society and NORMIL. He is also a participant in the intramurals program.

Both Thomas and Blevins will serve for a year in the Student Senate positions. During this time Thomas hopes to achieve "more student freedom pertaining to social environment and more input into academic affairs of this college."

Thomas now replaces Jim Ludvik, outgoing president from Wahoo, who plans to graduate in May with a bachelor of science degree in public service. His vice president was Bill Scarborough, a senior from Spencer, Ia., with a major in industrial education and physical education minor.

Other student senators elected are: Vicky Carsey of Fremont, Mernie Storms of Omaha, Larry Kenealy of Pierson, Ia., Dave Ryan of Plattsmouth, Pam Mentzer of Missouri Valley, Ia., Curt Ott of Oakland, Deb Bodenstedt of Wayne, John Haugaard of Winslow and Mary Riedmann of Omaha.
