

Paving Projects on Agenda

The Wayne city council is expected to take action on two armor coat paving issues during its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Included on the 20-item agenda is Ordinance 868 which would create an improvement district for paving in Roosevelt Park, and a resolution to authorize paving at the south end of S. Douglas St.

The council was informed at the last meeting it could authorize the S. Douglas St. project without creating an improvement district because it is the extension of a previously completed paving project and less than two blocks are involved.

The council will also review with engineer Bruce Gilmore plans for a trash compactor transfer station the city plans to build.

The station was a subject of controversy at the last council meeting. Council member Vernon Russell, a commercial trash hauler, then revealed that he is planning to operate a landfill, and said he believes the council should reconsider building the transfer station. Based on his estimates, Russell said it will cost the city $21,000 a year over the next 10 years to build and operate the transfer station. He said, based on proposed fees for using the station, that revenues generated won't come anywhere near the cost of operation.

Also on the agenda is discussion of street lighting for Providence Road. The council had taken action on the matter previously, but Russell, at the last meeting pointed out that the vote was 3-3 with the mayor casting a tie-breaking vote in favor. Then city attorney Budd Bornhoff confirmed that a majority of the eight-member council is required to carry the motion and declared the action void.

Other agenda items include:

—Inquiries by Wayne Industries, Inc., president Dean Pierson and Chamber of Commerce president Roger Nelson regarding the possibility of the city contributing toward the salary of a secretary to serve both organizations. The two groups jointly announced the plan last week to hire a community development specialist.

—Proposal of an addition to the city fire hall.

—A report on the downtown improvement project by chairman Roger Nelson and Bob Carhart.

Bike Licenses Now on Sale

Bicycle licenses went on sale in Wayne this week and cyclists have until the end of the month to register their two-wheeled vehicles.

Police chief Vern Fanchard said owners of bikes previously registered need only stop in at the station in city hall to reregister.

Bicycles not previously registered should be brought to the station so officers can obtain necessary identification.

Cost for bicycle licenses remains 50 cents.

Fiberglass Co. Will Open in July

The National Nebraska Fiberglass Corporation plant under construction in the Wayne industrial park is expected to begin operation sometime during the first two weeks in July, a company spokesman said Friday.

Orrin Dowler, National Fiberglass vice president for operations, said construction of the company's office building and manufacturing plant are about 65 per cent complete.

Dowler, based in Oregon, arrived in Wayne Friday morning to help plan the layout of equipment in the manufacturing building. Assisting with the planning are Dave Frye, manager of the Wayne plant, and his brother, Jack Frye, production manager.

Both men have been with National Fiberglass for about 16 years, learning the business "from the ground up," having worked in various aspects of the company's operation. Dave was manager of the Gilroy, Calif., plant for two years before being appointed manager of the new plant in Wayne, and Jack was assistant production manager there.

Dave and his wife, Bonnie, have two children, Linda, 16, and Ardella, 12. Jack and his wife, Joanne, have three children, Nancy, 15, Jackie, 13, and Davie, six. Both families are now living in Wayne.

The Wayne plant will be the seventh for National Fiberglass, a company with more than 20 years experience in fiberglass manufacturing. The Wayne plant will produce shower stalls which will be distributed through plumbing wholesalers in nine Midwestern states.

Dowlers said applications are not now being accepted for employment at the Wayne plant but added an announcement will be made when the company is ready to begin interviews.

The payroll will initially number about 20, Dowler said, and he expects that number to eventually grow to about 40.

Moonlighting? Census Bureau Wants to Know

How many American workers are holding more than one job? How many are working overtime and what is their overtime pay? What are workers' usual hours on their jobs?

Richard Burt, director of the Census Bureau's regional office in Denver announced that information in response to these questions will be collected during the week of May 16-21 from a sample of households in this area. The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 70,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of economic conditions in the nation. The March survey indicated that of the 96.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 89.5 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 7.3 per cent, compared to 7.5 per cent in February, and substantially below the recession peak of 9.0 per cent reached in the May of 1975.

Art Instructor's Sculpture Wins Purchase Award

Ray Replogle, assistant professor of art at Wayne State College, received a $300 purchase award for his sculpture entitled "The Still Hour." The piece was entered in the 11th Annual National Small Sculpture and Drawing Show at Del Mar College in Corpus Christi, Texas.

The show was juried by Gabor Peterdi, professor of art at Yale University.

Replogle, who holds bachelor of fine arts and master of fine arts degrees from Kansas State University, teaches sculpture, jewelry, and art education.

Region IV Gets Reprieve

The Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities Friday learned it has gained some time before it must find a new location for its children's center.

The center is now located in Pile Hall on the Wayne State College campus but the agency was notified earlier this year the lease on the building would not be renewed when it expires June 30. The college intends to convert the building to apartments for students.

Region IV director Mary Ann Brennan said WSC president Dr. Lyle Seymour had informed her the center could be moved into Terrace hall until the first part of August.

The agency's board of directors is scheduled to meet today (Monday), to continue discussion on where to relocate the children's unit.

The board met April 29 but delayed making a decision on a new location for the training center because contractors who offered proposals for a building did not have final information available on building sites.

The children's center, is actually two programs, one education and the other residential. There are now 12 multiple-handicapped children in the training program and 10 of those children are also in the residence program because of the distance from their homes. Those children live at the school and visit their parents on alternate weekends.

Pile Hall has been described as an ideal location by members of the agency's advisory board, made up of parents of students in the program, but the college is planning to convert the building to student apartments.

The governing board, made up of one county board member from each of the 22 counties in Region IV, talked to representatives from Carhart Lumber Co., Vokoc Construction Co., and Otte Construction Co., all of Wayne, and Simpson's Structures of Norfolk, but couldn't come up with any firm figures, according to Region IV director Mary Ann Brennan.

The governing board delayed making a decision to give a contractor who had offered the best proposal a chance to come up with a more detailed plan.

The Village of Concord had offered the use of the old high school building there. Advisory See REGION IV, page 8

Setting Steel

WORKMAN FOR Midwest Bridge and Construction Co. of Norfolk set steel reinforcing rods in preparation for pouring concrete to extend a road structure under Highway 35 west of Wayne. A company spokesman said the work is necessary because of plans to resurface the road and widen its shoulders.

Skeahan Still Stable at Center

Jack Skeahan remains in stable condition at Providence Medical Center in Wayne with second and third degree burns he received in a fire last Monday.

Skeahan, 93, was rushed to the hospital after a next door neighbor, Bernice Fulton, extinguished Skeahan's burning clothes.

According to reports, he was attempting to light a stove burner in his home, 1121 Pearl, when the stove apparently blew up. Skeahan received burns to the arms, face and chest.

Scholarship Lists Grows

With the advent of spring and the close of another Wayne State College semester, list after list of scholarship winners come from the WSC Financial Aids Office.

Six students, some now attending WSC and others who will enter in the fall, have been awarded scholarships, which take effect in the fall 1977.

Cooperating schools scholarships for $992 and $866 respectively will begin to cover partial tuition for Gerald Steinauer of Millard and Beverly Eckmann of Peria, Iowa. Entering WSC in the fall as a freshman, Steinauer is currently undecided on major and minor areas of study.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steinauer of 5055 S. 130, Omaha.

A WSC sophomore now, Miss Eckmann carries a major in home economics and communication arts minor. She has been involved in intramural sports, the WSC Home Economics Club and the Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic honorary for freshmen.

With plans to teach home economics after graduation, Miss Eckmann may also possibly enter the home extension field in the future. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eckmann of Peria, Iowa.

The Lettie B. Scott Scholarship for $500 has been awarded to a Wayne State freshman, Jeanie Ramold of O'Neill. The English major with a perfect 4.0 grade point average is the See SCHOLARSHIP, page 8

Officer Escapes Injury in Chase

A high speed chase late Thursday night resulted in a one-car crash involving a Wayne police vehicle about a mile south of Wayne.

The driver of the wrecked car, reserve officer Dennis Spangler, told investigating officer Dave Headley he was in pursuit of another vehicle which allegedly violated a stop sign shortly before midnight. Spangler attempted to make a left hand turn from Highway 15 onto a gravelled road when he lost control of his car and rolled it on its top.

Spangler was taken to Providence Medical Center where he was treated and released for lower back pains.

The temporary loss of the police cruiser reduces Wayne's mobile force to one car.

Mother of Year Awards Dinner Is Tuesday

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce will present its first Mother of the Year Award Tuesday during a noon luncheon at Les' Steak House.

The winner, who will be notified Monday, will be presented with a traveling trophy to keep for a year, plus a list of merchants who are contributing prizes.

The Chamber plans to make the contest an annual event.

The winner will be selected based upon letters written by her children. It was originally planned that four winners would be selected during the four weeks previous to the awards ceremony with the winner selected from among the finalists. Scheduling problems, however, prevented selection of weekly winners but a panel of judges will select the Mother of the Year recipient from among letters which have been submitted throughout the contest period.

Holstein Show Is Wednesday

Some dairymen will have an opportunity to show off their prize stock Wednesday during a Holstein show in Wayne sponsored by the Northern District of the Nebraska Holstein Association.

This will be the first year Wayne has been host for the show, according to John Anderson, vice president for the district organization.

Neal Owens of Boulder, Colorado will judge the entries. Owens is herdsman for Paclamur Farms near Boulder and has gained recognition for having rebuilt the Paclamur herd after the farm's livestock was sold in its entirety to an Italian dairy operation.

About 90 entries have been received so far, Anderson said Thursday. Anyone wishing to enter can register any time up to 9 a.m. Wednesday morning at the Wayne County fairgrounds.

The Holstein show will begin at 11 a.m., Anderson said, and should conclude by 3 p.m.

Health regulations will be strictly enforced, Anderson advised, and said all entries must have a veterinarian's health certificate for brucellosis and tuberculosis.

Other officers in the Northern District Holstein Association are Duane Buckendahl of Pierce, president, and Ronald Kittle of Winside, secretary.

'Temporary' Job Has Lasted 10 Years but Butcher Not Beefing

By PAT OSWALD
Winside Correspondent

When Marvin Anderson wanted a beef butchered a few years ago, Vernon Hill, owner of Hill's Locker in Winside, was short a butcher and was so busy he didn't have time to do the job. Anderson volunteered to work for Hill until a new butcher could be hired — and he's still at it today.

It wasn't the Winside farmer's debut as a butcher, however. Released from the armed forces in 1946, Anderson went to work at the Laurel Locker, then operated by Pete Christensen and Chris Jensen, to learn to be a butcher under a G.I. Bill on-the-job training program. He stayed a year, learned the trade, and then decided to farm.

It was 20 years later, Jan. 11, 1967, when he began working at the Winside Locker and Anderson has kept detailed records since then.

On the 10th anniversary of his start with the locker, observed in January, Anderson figured he had butchered 2,802 hogs, 3,333 beef, 564 deer and 22 sheep and goats.

Effective Wednesday, totals had risen to 3,470 beef and 2,866 hogs.

Equipment has changed considerably since Anderson became a butcher. He recalls helping butcher at home as a youngster, when he and his father scalded hogs, scraped them, and left the carcasses in a corn crib alley-way to cool before processing. Even equipment in locker plants has changed greatly, Anderson noted.

Since Anderson became a butcher in Winside, the locker there has changed owners several times and Anderson has worked for Gene Benjamin for a short time and now for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jacobsen.

"I have had good bosses all along," he noted. "This makes the job much easier, having good people to work with."

It takes about 45 minutes to process a large animal, Anderson noted, and he can process about 12 beef in a day. He can do three hogs in an hour if all goes well.

That isn't always the case, however, Anderson said, as he recalled the largest animal he has processed. It was a steer which weighed in at more than a ton and dressed out at 1,200 pounds. The animal was so large it was tough getting it through a door into the butchering area.

Another ornery critter broke loose once, Anderson said, charged into the smoke house and tore it apart before the dust had settled.

Butchering doesn't occupy all of Anderson's time, however. He has continued to farm 160 acres and has been a dairyman for 18 years.

The Anderson family includes his wife, Betty Ann, and five children: Howard Dean, Kevin, Gary, Betty Jo and Linda. The Andersons also now have two grand children.

MARVIN ANDERSON has kept detailed records of his work since he became a butcher with the Winside Locker plant 10 years ago. Here he checks the latest totals. Anderson originally agreed to "fill in" until a butcher could be hired. He's still at it today.

Motorcycle safety tips offered

Nebraska's streets and highways are witnessing a tremendous increase in the motorcycle and rider population. During 1976, motorcycle registration topped 49,566; a 75 per cent increase over the past five years.

The popularity of motorcycles is not without some sobering side effects, however. With the rise in motorcycle registrations, an increase in motorcycle-related accident statistics has also become apparent. Last year in Nebraska, there were 28 fatal accidents and thousands of injury accidents involving motorcycles.

According to the Nebraska Highway Safety Program, most of the fatal motorcycle crashes in 1976 involved collision with cars and trucks, usually at an intersection. The primary error made by motorists at intersections is failure to yield. Another common cause of accidents is motorists that fail to see motorcycles on the road, says the Nebraska Highway Safety Program.

According to Jim Pearson, director of the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Governor's Representative for Highway Safety, "The key to safe traffic mix is understanding and learning to share the roadway."

On Nebraska's highways, there are a large number of new motorcycle riders and even larger number of automobile drivers who do not understand how to mix with motorcycles in traffic.

The following is a list of safety tips on sharing the roadway with motorcycles:

—Both the motorist and the motorcycle rider should be extremely careful to see and be seen. The unexpected appearance of a motorcycle in a traffic situation where neither drivers are prepared can lead to a disastrous situation.

—At intersections where vision is limited, traffic hazards may be obscured. The motorist and motorcyclist both should slow down and make double checks of traffic.

—Being able to judge distance accurately is one of the most important abilities any motorist or motorcyclist can have. Use the two-second count to determine a safe following distance.

Proper use of signals is a must. By communication with other highway users, motorist and motorcyclist can prevent critical situations from developing.

The motorist, when being overtaken by a cycle, should maintain lane position and speed. Both drivers should use mirrors and head checks of traffic to keep aware of changing traffic conditions.

—Hand signals are a fast-disappearing technique for communicating intentions, so motorist should pay attention to the electric turn signals on motorcycles, and riders should pay heed to the turn signals of the vehicle ahead.

While the road surface is important to safe vehicle operation for drivers, it is critical to cyclists. Sand, mud and water will make starting and stopping more difficult. Be alert to hazardous conditions.

Apart from these safety tips, attitude also plays an important part in creating a safe highway environment for motorists and motorcyclists.

Curbing aggressive behavior and operating their respective vehicles in accordance with the law and with courtesy and common sense, motorist and motorcyclist will learn to live together on the road.

STRAY Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

You would think a farmer's daughter, particularly one whose husband works at the Northeast Station, would know how to plant a garden. Ann Wilkowsky, however, ran into a bit of a problem. Seems she put her onion bulbs in upside-down. Better luck next year, Ann.

Congratulations

Melodi Westerhaus' name was left out of the April 28 story on the District Music Contest. The Winside student earned a superior rating for her vocal solo. We certainly didn't intentionally slight you, Melodi. Congratulations on your musical accomplishment.

Interest Shown

I was glad to see a little interest finally shown in the activities of the joint planning commission. The group has been meeting for 15 months now and has had little participation from the public, despite repeated attempts to encourage citizen input.

For example, some of those who attended last week's meeting were surprised to learn that the commission has already approved a comprehensive plan which it will recommend to the county. They wondered if the public would have a chance to comment on it. The public will have another chance to comment, but the planning commission has already conducted a public hearing on the plan, and very little interest was shown.

Guess it sometimes takes a threatening situation before folks take an interest in public affairs. At any rate, I know the commission was happy to see someone show up and hopes the interest will continue and grow.

Sacred Circles

I'm not an aficionado of art, but I did thoroughly enjoy touring "Sacred Circles: 2000 Years of North American Indian Art" on display at the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art in Kansas City.

Kay and I, along with a host of other Midwestern journalists, were the guest of the Greater Kansas City Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Sacred Circles is a collection of more than 850 objects, which will be on display through June 19. It has been acclaimed by critics as the most important and most comprehensive collection of North American Indian art ever assembled. It was organized over a five-year period by Ralph T. Coe, director of the Nelson Gallery, and opened at the Hayward Gallery in London last October as part of the Arts Council of Great Britain in honor of the U.S. Bicentennial.

Priceless Works

Many priceless Indian works of art are on display in America for the first time, for example, the mantle worn by Powhatan, Pocahontas' father, which has been in England for more than 350 years.

The exhibition covers five widely separated geographic areas — the Woodlands, Arctic, Great Plains, Desert Southwest and the Northwest Coast.

The current exhibit will be the only Western Hemisphere showing of Sacred Circles and it is certainly worth seeing.

Our weekend itinerary illustrates many of the other attractions of the Greater Kansas City area: a Royals baseball game at what many consider the nation's finest sports complex, a stop at the Harry S. Truman Library and Museum for a sneak preview at a new wing, a tour of the Country Club Plaza area, renowned for its Spanish architecture and many fountains, a visit to Hallmark Cards' Crown Center shopping and hotel complex and a stop at the Worlds of Fun amusement park.

Jim Denney of the Omaha World-Herald, incidentally, was a member of our party and I believe a "Magazine of the Midlands" article will be forthcoming on Sacred Circles. Also, I have a copy of a Kansas City Star special section on the art exhibit for anyone who is interested.

"Unguided Tour"

The trip wasn't all smooth sailing, of course. In making our way from our motel to Crown Center, we took our predictable unscheduled, unguided tour of the city. I think it was about the second time around when I finally gave up and asked for directions.

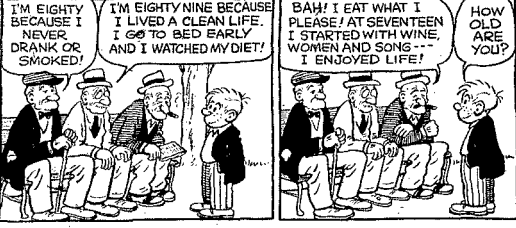

That was bad enough, but Sunday, I looked for a white as if we might not leave at all. We loaded our luggage, I slid behind the wheel and turned the key. Nothing. I fiddled with the gear shift lever, tried again. Still nothing. It was then I noticed the light switch was on. Dead battery.

Guess it's those little things that keep life exciting.

Not Moving

Marra Home Improvement isn't moving to Sioux City. The company will continue to operate from Wayne, but will open a branch office in Sioux City. Wilmer Marra said some local people apparently read something into an article about the expansion and came to the conclusion the business was moving. Also, Darrell Moore remains the general manager, and will eventually take over when Wilmer decides to retire.

Out of Old

Nebraska

Several months ago, through this column, the Nebraska State Historical Society requested readers to write us of their experiences during the Depression. A number of people have responded to this request, and their stories will be placed in the Society's archives for the use of future historians. We hope that other readers will share their stories with us. Following are short excerpts from some of the letters we have received.

Mrs. Max Kile, Campbell, wrote of the dust storm of March 15, 1935, when she, her husband, sister-in-law, and two small children were caught on the road between Campbell and Minden, taking some gold fish to a friend. "A few miles from home we noticed what appeared to be a huge black cloud in the northwest. We attempted to turn around and return home but immediately visibility was so poor that we ended up in the road ditch. Max attempted to get to a nearby farm house by crawling on his hands and knees but the dust choked him so badly that he had to return to the car. It was then that the bucket of goldfish became our life saver. We dipped the baby's diapers in bucket of fish and placed them over our faces to keep from choking."

Mrs. Eleanor H. Brown, Coresco, wrote several stories, including the following: "I taught a rural school during the 30's. My salary of $45 to $75 was a fortune compared to what some people had in cash. So children could have something hot with their sandwiches on cold days, I suggested they bring some milk, cocoa, soup or leftover food from supper in a jar for their lunch the next day. In Pleasant Valley School, District 34 of Lancaster County, we were fortunate to have a coal furnace. The children would put their jars on top of the furnace when they came in the morning. By noon their food was piping hot."

The heat and the drouth were remembered by Ila Christensen, York, formerly of Grand Island: "Many people slept on their porches or lawns. If you were outside early in the morning, you would see them picking up their mattresses and pillows, trying to get indoors before the neighbors saw them. To cool the house at night, we would hose down the sides of the house after the sun went down. No one in our neighborhood went to bed before midnight. Instead of sitting on their porches as they formerly had, everyone took chairs and sat on their lawns. All who could slept in the afternoon. In the summer of 1939 I took a trip to the eastern part of the state. As soon as the bus got close to Fremont, it was as if I were in another world. The corn was so tall and green, and there was green grass. When I returned, I felt as though I was in a desert."

Mrs. Medford James, Nebraska City, and her husband were a young married couple with four small children, trying to farm on the Missouri River bottom in northeastern Otoe County. She has written several stories, including a very interesting bizzard experience. She also wrote of farm failures: "People who had been renting could not meet their rent and had to go out and look for other ways and means to have a place to live. A few settled for a cave. A good number settled on building any sort of shelter. There happened to be more woodland than there is now and some cut and hued logs and laid them up into log houses. Some even went in for houses made of board and tin on the outside, finished with cardboard walls on the inside. In order to get the tin most of them saved their tin cans, cut them open at the ends, cut them open down one side and gently hammered them out smooth and straight. They used fruit-crates, wooden boxes or discarded lumber of any kind. After getting the outside walls up and the sheeting on the roof, they tacked or nailed the tin on by overlapping the ends much like putting on shingles."

YOU AND YOUR CAR

The future of the diesel engine in this country depends to a large extent on what happens to gasoline prices and how tough the Congress will be on emissions, says the Automotive Information Council. Diesels currently are a prime topic among automotive engineers and marketing people. General Motors officially has announced diesels for full-sized Oldsmobiles and at GMC and Chevrolet pickup trucks at the start of the 1978 model year. Volkswagen already has introduced a diesel Rabbit that is rated at 52 miles to the gallon on the highway, 39 mpg in the city.

To date, the passenger car market here has been exclusive to Mercedes-Benz and Peugeot with sales last year of 24,000.

Some executives aren't all that enthusiastic about diesel cars. Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford, questions whether the public will pay the additional cost of a diesel over a gasoline powered engine to save six cents a gallon in fuel. GM aims to find out as the production projection is for 100,000 units. VW is talking in terms of 10,000 cars this year.

How much more will a diesel cost? For a four-cylinder engine, Iacocca estimates the difference a $300 to $400 and talks in terms of $600 to $700 more for a V-8 version.

The diesel already is strong in the heavy duty truck industry because the engine is so durable, offers superior fuel economy and does a better job on carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions. Oxides of nitrogen, the third pollutant, represents a problem. If Congress insists on a level of less than a gram per mile, the diesel simply won't make it based on current technology. If it should be noted that the gasoline engine can't meet that low level either — at least for the 1978 model year and probably well beyond.

In Europe, a rush to produce diesel powered cars has been accelerated by the high price of gasoline. England's Lucas Industries, a prime supplier of components, predicts diesels could account for five per cent of world output early in the 1980's. That's about 1.25 million units a year. Lucas sees the U.S. future as primarily in full-sized passenger cars and light trucks — an outlook that coincides with GM's plans for 1978. Chrysler Corporation has a program which would utilize its 225-cubic inch six cylinder engine. Experiments to convert it to diesel are underway but that engine will be fueled primarily by gasoline for a long time to come.

One final point. There are 5,000 truck stops in the U.S. that sell diesel fuel. Only a fraction of the other filling stations offer it.

Kovar's Girls Miss the Boat

When Was the Last Time Wakefield Didn't Go to State?

Ernie Kovar can't remember when Wakefield has not sent a girl to the state track meet, nor can he recall when the Trojans have scored 47 points, yet fail to qualify anyone for state.

Perhaps, he said as he glanced over the final tabulation sheet, this is a first time that Wakefield hasn't qualified anyone.

The fourth-year head man at Wakefield was referring to the fact that during Thursday's Class C district meet at Plainview, Wakefield had a lot of individual talent, but not enough to match the likes of Battle Creek and Pender, which finished 1-2 in the 13-team race, and are sending a total of 12 girls to the state meet in North Platte Friday and Saturday.

Kovar was resting his hopes of taking someone to state on either the 400 or 800 relay squads to land first. The four-some of Geryl Nelson, Angie Rouse, Joy Myers and Robin Mills came the closest by finishing second in the 800. But as Kovar pointed out "it wasn't good enough."

Kovar wasn't completely disappointed. As a team, this may have been the best Wakefield has had, he added, pointing out that his team consistently has, done well in most every meet this spring.

As a team, Wakefield finished third, followed by Laurel with 36 points, Hartington High with 32, Norfolk Catholic with 32, Crofton with 30, Emerson-Hubbard with 24, Ponca with 18, Wynot with 15, Randolph with 9, Wausa with 6 and Winside with 4.

Laurel is the only area team of the three Class C schools which is sending a girl to state.

Freshman Paula Chase, who has been a terror on Northeast Nebraska tracks, again came on strong in her favor event, the 400, with her best time of :59.8 to win it.

"I think she may have a pretty good chance to place down there (state). She hasn't been beaten this year in the quarter. I would think she would be pretty good competition because she is a freshman," said Laurel coach Ev Jensen.

Laurel's miler, senior Patti Stark, ran into a little bad luck when she pulled up lame after she reinjured her leg.

Area girls from Allen, Wakefield and Winside who didn't place and aren't seniors have a chance to compete in one more high school meet.

Wednesday, starting at 1 p.m. Winside will host a non-qualifiers meet. Besides those three teams, entries will come from Clarkson, Coleridge, Hartington, Stanton, Osmond and Wynot.

Going to State

Wayne Sending Six Girls West to State Track Meet

It's no mystery to followers of Wayne High girls track just how their Blue Devils managed to land six entries to the state track meet.

Take a closer look at coach Mavis Dalton's roster and you'll find the answer.

Leading the list of girls heading to the North Platte meet is junior Lesa Barclay, who will be competing in the Class B portion of the shot put, 400 run and anchoring a leg on the Wayne mile relay team.

If that's not enough of an individual winner, take another look at freshman Jane Edmunds, who represents the Devils in the 400 and the mile relay.

Now it's time to sprinkle in individual leaders, such as long jump winner junior Sydney Mosley who set a district and meet record with her leap of 18.8½.

Then comes sophomore Sandy Jacobmeier in the 200 and the rest of the mile crew of Stephanie Dorcey and Peg Pinkelman.

Although coach Dalton was pleased with the numbers going, she expected both her high jumpers Mosley and Lesa Nuss to earn tickets to the state meet after they had been going about five feet every meet. However, both finished in a tie for fifth at 4.8. "Just a bad day, I guess," the coach added.

The top two relay teams and the top three individuals will go to state.

As a team, Wayne was fourth among nine clubs. Pierce won with 45 points while Hooper-Logan View was second with 42 followed by Wisner-Pilger with 57, Wayne with 56, Creighton with 53, Albion with 52, O'Neill with 47, Hartington Cedar Catholic with 9 and West Point Central Catholic with 2.

Results:

Field

Laurel Win Overshadows No-hitter

Wayne's Doug Carroll gets the credit for throwing a no-hitter, but it's Laurel which gets credit for the win.

In a wild finish Thursday, Laurel came up with two runs on a pair of long-ball hits by Mike Martin and Cleve Stolpe to stop the Blue Devils Thursday, 2-1, at Laurel.

What started out as a pitching duel between Carroll and Laurel's Doug Thompson, continued that way through five frames before each team found the range and started to score.

For Wayne in the top of the sixth, Aaron Nissen doubled with one away and scored on Vic Sharpe's base hit for the Devils' only run of the afternoon.

Laurel countered in its half after Wayne coach Mike Mallette switched Carroll on the mound for Sharpe on first. That switch, however, proved to be Wayne's downfall.

Sharpe loaded the sacks on two walks and an error on catcher Kevin Murry before Carroll returned to the mound. But Laurel bats were just warming up. Martin and Stolpe smacked back-to-back drives to deep center where Nissen picked both of them off. Meanwhile, Mike McCorkindale and Gordie Kardell raced home.

In recounting the game, coach Mallette pointed out that his game strategy was to keep Carroll on the mound for four innings, then bring in Sharpe, because he wanted to keep his pitching staff fresh for this week's district tournament.

"Doug was throwing the ball low and off speed. He really was successful, but it's too bad things had to happen that way . . . maybe I should have left him in there," Mallette added.

Several times Wayne had chances to score, but couldn't get men across the plate. With two away in the fifth and runners on second and third, left fielder Jeff Zeiss hit a line shot to right field only to have Laurel's Rusty Gade grabbed the ball.

Mallette doesn't feel that the

Favorite E-H Walks Away With Husker

Powerhouse Emerson-Hubbard cleaned up in the West Husker Conference track meet at Wisner-Pilger Thursday with a team total of 421 points out in a field of eight teams.

In a close race, Columbus Lakeview and Wisner, which are strong horses in their own right, finished second and third respectively with 87 and 82 points.

Stanton was fourth with 76 followed by Madison with 51, Wakefield with 74, Wayne with 51, Wakefield with 22 and Hartington Cedar Catholic with 14.

Pacing coach Al Hansen's Wayne squad were a couple of second-place finishes by the 880 and two-mile relay teams.

Wayne's 880 team of Terry Lessmann, Brad Emry, Kelly Hansen and Mark Brandt finished with a time of 1:35.4, and the two-mile team of Hansen, Dave Hamm, Jon Ley and Jeff Backstrom was clocked in 8:34.4.

"I couldn't ask for any more. Emry brought down his times which is good," Hansen said.

Placing for Wayne and Wakefield:

Field
 High jump — 2 Brooks Myers, Wake, 6.1.
 Triple jump — 2 Brad Emry, Wayne, 42.1; 3 Myers, 41.65.
 Long jump — 6 Emry, 19.6½.
 Shot put — 4 Tim Koll, 44-10½.

Track
 120-yard high hurdles — 3 Myers, 16.3; 4 Mike Wieseler, 16.8.
 100-yard low hurdles — 5 Lessmann, :21.9.
 200 — 3 Brandt, :23.8.
 800 — 3 Backstrom, 2:05.9.
 2 mile — 5 Hamm, 10:57.5.
 Mile relay — 5 Wayne (Jeff Backstrom, Jon Ley, Brian Haun, Dennis Flier), 3:48.4.

Junior High Boys Reign As West Husker Champs

Wayne track teams continue to roll in the first-place honors. Latest to pick up a West Husker trophy is the junior high track squad of Howard Peters which won the title Thursday at Wisner-Pilger.

Only three Wayne youngsters picked up first-place medals, but a host of competitors grabbed second through sixth-place placings to anchor what coach Peters called a "good effort."

"We started the season in poor shape, but these kids have really come along. I'm really proud of them," he added.

Wayne finished with 108 points, ahead of Emerson-Hubbard with 91, Wisner with 68, Harlington Holy Trinity with 39, Madison with 38, Wakefield with 36 and Stanton with 23. Two weeks ago Wayne and junior high girls captured Husker titles in track.

Wildcats Lose Four

Plenty of hitting and scoring occurred, but Wayne State's first four opponents in the Colorado invitational baseball tournament at Boulder did more of both.

The Wildcats lost Thursday to Iowa State, 6-0; Colorado University, 13-9; and Friday to Denver University, 5-3, and Colorado again, 14-13. A final game was scheduled Saturday for third place.

Only against Iowa State were the Wildcats thoroughly mastered as Cyclone hurler Dan Loes gave up two hits.

In both games against host Colorado, Wayne led at times, but each time the Buffaloes managed a six-run inning.

The Cats built a 7-0 lead in the first two innings of the first game as starter Roger Saul dominated. Then the Buffs collected nine runs on six hits in the next two innings. Wayne tied at 9-9 in the fifth before Colorado added four more tallies on three hits against third pitcher Dave Kuhl. The Wildcats outthrew the Buffs, 12-11.

In the second encounter, Colorado took the early lead, but Wayne recouped for 8-3 and 10-8 leads going into the top of the seventh. That's when Colorado got another six-run rally. Wayne came back in the bottom of the seventh but fell short on three runs. Neil Blohm started for Wayne, and Rod Hegge relieved in the seventh, taking the loss.

Earlier Friday, Denver earned its 5-3 win with a four-run fourth inning against Steve Russell, who pitched the full game for Wayne. The Wildcats were scheduled for a home doubleheader Sunday against Missouri Western, first game at 1:30 — closing the regular season. Wayne will host the NAIA district tournament Thursday and Friday this week.

Kittens Win In Central State First Round Play

Wayne State softball women won an 11-1 decision Friday in the first round of the Central State Intercollegiate Conference tournament, after rain delayed the opening and forced a move from Topeka, Kan. to suburban Silver Lake.

Starting pitcher Karen Doeschot walked the first three Missouri Southern batters, yielding one run. Then Pat Lenihan took over to dominate with a two-hitter while Wayne bats connected for seven hits. Lenihan got credit for a full game because there were no outs when she began.

In other first round games, Emporia State edged Kearney State, 7-6; Fort Hays defeated Pittsburg State, 4-1, and Missouri Western beat Washburn, 7-1. Wayne was matched against Western in the second round Saturday morning, and a win then would guarantee Wayne at least third in the double elimination meet.

Lung Association Seeking Center Buzzes With Activities

The American Lung Association of Nebraska is seeking nominations of interested persons throughout the state to serve on its 50-member board of directors.

According to Mrs. Ethel Kirwin of Scottsbluff, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, this is the first time that the Association has sought nominations directly from the public. "As an organization which receives contributions from thousands of Nebraskans to continue our programs aimed at the prevention and control of lung disease, we believe it is crucial that the public have access to the nominating process. It is hoped that this public involvement will make our board more responsive to local community needs and problems."

The Nebraska Lung Association conducts public and professional education programs, supports medical research, and assists lung disease patients and their families. It also works for the improvement of community health care facilities and services for the care of lung disease patients, supports efforts to protect the rights of non-smokers, and seeks to protect Nebraska's clean air.

Persons who wish to be considered for nomination to the board or who wish to recommend other candidates, should contact the Association at 7363 Pacific Street, Omaha, NE 68114, (402) 393-2222. An application form will be mailed directly to the person(s) nominated. Deadline for applications is May 16.

The board of directors determines policy, authorizes program activities and budgeted expenses, and assists with fund raising and publicity. Board members receive no pay but are reimbursed for expenses involved in attending meetings.
