

Allen Hikes Base Pay

The Allen board of education and the Allen Education Association have completed negotiations for the 1977-78 school year. In a joint news release Tuesday, both parties announced that the base pay for teachers will increase $400 to $8,275 and increments will remain at four per cent of the base for each year of experience and four per cent of the base for each additional nine hours beyond a bachelor's degree.

The salary increase is 6.09 per cent higher than last year and the total package, which includes insurance, social security, coaches' pay, etc., is about nine per cent higher.

The exact amount of insurance rates and coaches' pay was not released by the negotiation teams. Board secretary and chief negotiator for the board, Wayne Stewart, said it was agreed by both parties not to release that information.

Final negotiations were reached following last week's board meeting. However, the results weren't made public until both the teachers and board could agree on a joint news release.

During the board meeting, members voted for new teachers. Doris Furness, who taught sixth grade at Allen about three years ago, has been rehired to teach third grade. Mrs. Barbara Heckathorn, whose husband has been named as the school's new superintendent, will teach in elementary school.

A pair of 1977 college graduates have been hired for the high school level. Eugene Lauritsen, a spring graduate from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will teach agriculture and direct the FFA program part time. Lauritsen, 22, is single and a native of Homer.

Lois Mendyke, who graduated this spring from Wayne State College, will teach instrumental music in elementary through high school and direct high school vocal. Miss Mendyke, 21, is from Dodge.

The hiring of four teachers leaves only three other teaching posts to be filled. The school is looking for an English teacher, a first grade instructor and an elementary vocal teacher.

'Mother of the Year' Honored

Mrs. Ervin Hagemann of Wayne was named Wayne's first Mother of the Year in ceremonies during a Tuesday luncheon at Les' Steak House sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber president Roger Nelson presented Mrs. Hagemann with a traveling trophy which will be hers to keep during her year-long reign as Mother of the Year.

Mrs. Hagemann's daughter, Mrs. Julie Brogren, read the letter she wrote which was selected by the judges as the best of more than 300 entries: "I think my Mom should be Mother of the Year because even though only having two children of her own, she has been regarded as "mom" by many. When my brother lost his wife, my mother was there to help as a mother to two small girls. My mom has always had someone to call her mom; my friends, 4-H members, Bible school children, and many more.

To me she is the greatest." Contest judges, introduced at the luncheon by Nelson, were Wayne mayor Freeman Decker, the Rev. Kenneth Edmunds, Mrs. Lela Maynard, and Mrs. Hallie Sherry, who was not able to attend.

Julie had the honor of giving her mother a corsage, donated by the Wayne Greenhouse. Mrs. Hagemann also received gift certificates donated by a number of other Wayne chamber of Commerce members.

Course Merger Possible

No final decision has been made but the Wakefield board of education is considering combining the school's agri-business and trades and industries classes.

The board met Monday with State Education Department representative Lloyd Mather to discuss the proposal but, look no action.

The board also discussed disposal of the old high school building after classes are moved into the new facility. Schools superintendent Dr. Gary Bennerotte said the two parties have expressed an interest in handling sale of the building for a percentage of the selling price. The board will meet with the representatives at the June board meeting.

The board Monday also decided to accept bids for furniture for the new building.

In other action the board: —Approved Dennis Engstede as instructor for summer driver education, scheduled to begin June 6.

—Decided not to offer band further because of the unavailability of an instructor.

—Tabled discussion of free high tuition rate for next year. Dr. Bennerotte suggested setting the rate at $3,200 but the board will wait until the next meeting to make a decision.

—Learned of one additional faculty resignation. Mary Sappingfield, high school media specialist, will not be returning in the fall.

Dr. Bennerotte said contracts have been offered for three other vacancies, one each in the math, English, and home economics departments. Those contracts have not yet been returned. Dr. Bennerotte said, but he expects them to be signed within a week.

Schools Announce Closing Dates

Seventy-nine Wayne High School seniors will receive their graduation diplomas on May 23. Ceremonies will begin at 7 p.m. at the Willow Bowl on the Wayne State College campus.

Dr. Anne Campbell, the Nebraska Commissioner of Education, will be the speaker for the commencement exercises.

A spokesman for the Allen Public Schools said classes there will dismiss at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 18. Elementary See FINAL DAY, page 10

Region IV Agrees to Lease New Building

Barring unforeseen complications, Vakoc Construction Co. of Wayne will erect a building to house a residential and child development center for the Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities.

The Region IV governing board Monday morning indicated it wishes to move ahead with a proposal presented by John Vakoc for a new building for the center, although details of the lease are still to be worked out. The children's center is now located in Pile Hall on the Wayne State College campus, but the lease on the building expires June 30 and will not be renewed. The college will convert the building to student apartments.

Region IV executive director Ann Brennan announced at the governing board meeting that the college will permit the center to move into Terrace Hall until sometime in early August. She said college officials have been "very cooperative" on the matter.

Tentative plans are to locate the new building about one mile east of Wayne between the Amber Inn and the State Roads Department maintenance yards, although negotiations for property have not been completed, Vakoc said.

The contractor predicted it will take about three weeks to complete land acquisition and draft final plans for the building, which will house both a day training center and residential program for mentally retarded students.

Vakoc said final plans will be drafted after consulting with the state fire marshal's office. He said the final design will comply with fire regulations and other building codes.

The 50 x 80-foot building will have steel exterior walls and lumber and sheet rock interior walls. It will be insulated to meet current standards for buildings with electric heat, Vakoc said. Heating and air conditioning will be provided by two heat pumps.

The Pile Hall lease has cost $300 a month including utilities. The governing board briefly discussed alternatives which had been presented previously, including accepting an offer of use of the old Concord high school building, and leasing an existing building in Wayne, but concluded those arrangements would probably cost nearly the same as the proposal presented by Vakoc.

The location east of Wayne will mean increased costs for school districts in the Region IV 22 county area contracting with the agency for services.

School districts are required by law to provide education for all children within their jurisdiction. Schools are not required to contract with the agency for education of mentally retarded children, but the arrangement is generally less expensive than school districts setting up their own programs.

Paving Projects Approved

A pair of paving projects received approval from the Wayne city council Tuesday night.

An ordinance passed by the council creates an improvement district for five blocks of the Roosevelt Park area. Councilman Sam Heppburn said that of 17 owners of property adjacent to the project, 13, representing 34 of 51 lots, had signed a petition in favor of paving.

Heppburn said that of the remaining four, only one property owner had expressed opposition. The council has previously indicated it favors a cost sharing arrangement with the city paying half, although that can't be decided until after the project is completed and the council sits as a board of adjustment.

Also receiving council approval was a resolution to pave the south end of S. Douglas St. It was not necessary to create an improvement district because less than two blocks is involved.

A request for a permit to move a house was approved, although a petition seeking to block the action was presented to the council.

Ed Schroeder requested the permit so he can move a house at 208 W. Third St., purchased earlier this year from the city, to a location in the College Hill second addition.

Harold Maciejewski, representing property owners in the neighborhood, sought to block the moving permit, saying the house would be incompatible with the neighborhood because of its height and age.

City attorney Ken Swartz advised the council that no restrictions or protective covenants exist to prevent moving the house to the neighborhood and that issuing the moving permit would not be an illegal act.

A group of businessmen approached the council to ask for a policy which would permit them to display wares on sidewalks adjacent to their buildings if pedestrian traffic is not blocked.

Al Wittig, owner of Wittig's Food Center, said he received a written warning from the police department last week, advising him he was in violation of an ordinance which prohibits sidewalk displays. Wittig said car dealers, lumber yards, feed dealers and junk yards are allowed to have display merchandise on sidewalks and asked that enforcement of the ordinance be relaxed. Also speaking See PAVING, page 10

Winside High To Graduate 30 Students

Thirty Winside High School seniors will receive their diplomas Monday night during graduation ceremonies at the high school auditorium.

School superintendent Don Leighton will present the graduating class to school board president Erwin Morris for presentation of diplomas following the opening ceremonies at 8 p.m.

Prior to handing out the certificates, the Rev. G.W. Gottberg, of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside and Carroll, will give the invocation and benediction and the swing choir will sing "Let's Get Together."

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Howard Iversen, who taught at Winside for 14 years before her retirement two years ago. Principal Al Schlueter will present the honor awards and guidance counselor Lee Johnson will announce the scholarship recipients.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held Sunday before commencement beginning at 8 p.m. Rev. Gottberg will give the invocation, sermon and benediction. The mixed chorus will sing.

Council Ok's First Woman Fire Fighter

Wayne now has its first woman fire fighter as a result of city council action Tuesday night.

Mayor Freeman Decker appointed Mrs. Maureen Dorcy to the fire department upon recommendation by fire chief Dick Korn and the council unanimously approved the action.

Mrs. Dorcy is a dispatcher with the Wayne police department and police chief Vern Fairchild also gave his approval of her joining the fire department.

Valedictorian: Where From Here?

Too often high school graduates are faced with the question of "where they should go from here" after 12 years of schooling.

The question, said Allen High School's valedictorian, shouldn't be where, but what do you plan to do with your life.

Lori Von Minden, who topped Allen's graduating class of 25 with a 98-plus grade average, told a packed audience at the high school auditorium Tuesday night that "everyone present" should be evaluating themselves, choosing priorities and making that extra effort to be successful.

Relating to the class motto, "The Greatest Thing Man Can Create is Himself," the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Von Minden of Allen said that people should evaluate the talents they have and act accordingly.

"Life is like a ladder — it has its ups and downs. You have to determine which way you want to go," she said.

To help choose the direction, a person must set up a list of priorities, including happiness. Happiness, she went on, is being content with ourselves and what we possess.

Allen's salutatorian, Laurie Osbahr, directed her brief comments to the undergraduates, wishing them the best in the future. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Osbahr of Allen.

Eight graduating seniors were presented their diplomas prior to receiving their diplomas. Peggy Taylor was awarded the annual K.R. Mitchell scholarship.

The students and the scholarships they received: Brad Brown — Awarded a National Merit Scholarship to Wichita University in Kansas. Brown was one of only five Northeast Nebraska high school seniors to be a NMS finalist. He also was awarded a Regents scholarship to the University of Nebraska.

Lori Erwin — Received an athletic scholarship to Wayne State College. She turned down a basketball scholarship to Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk.

Kathy Maltcom — Earned a $500 first-semester scholarship to Midland Lutheran College in Fremont.

Lori Von Minden — Awarded the David scholarship for $500 to incoming freshmen at the University of Nebraska; named as an alternate Regent winner to NU; received the Ardlath Comm Music award to Wayne State College and a scholarship to a college in Texas.

Jack Warner — Awarded the Ken Memorial scholarship from the Lewis and Clark Natural Resource District.

Kris Young — Was given a Board of Governors scholarship to Northeast Tech.

Salaries for Wayne-Carroll school administrators and non-teaching staff were set during a school board meeting Monday night but negotiations for teachers' salaries have not yet concluded.

The board will meet Friday at 8 p.m. in special session to discuss a course of action regarding negotiations. School board president Dorothy Ley said she could not comment further because of an agreement between the board and the Wayne Education Association, representing teachers not to release any information until after negotiations have been settled.

Salaries Set for Administrators

The school system's four administrators will each receive a $300 increase in annual pay. The pay hike will result in the following salaries: superintendent Francis Haun, $25,050; high school principal Donald Zeiss, $19,650; Middle School principal Richard McHeer, $18,550 including $2,000 as special education director; elementary school principal David Luft, $16,800 including $2,000 as Title I administrator.

Mike Rethwisch of Wayne placed second in the boys division and received a purple ribbon. Cindy Bull of Wayne, also representing Wayne County, placed third and received a purple ribbon.

Dixon County did not field an entry in the boys competition. A total of 13 counties make up the district.

Vocal Music Instructor Hired

A May graduate of Luther College in Decorah, Iowa, was hired by the Wayne-Carroll board of education Monday night to replace Larry Stratman as vocal music instructor for the Middle and High Schools.

Stratman resigned his position and will enter the contracting business in Kearney.

Replacing him will be Rich Penning, a native of Austin, Minn., and a graduate of the high school there.

Penning is a recent graduate of Luther College with an education major in vocal and instrumental music. While attending Luther College he was a member of the concert band, orchestra, brass choir, varsity band, Lerka Singers, Nordic choir and was a Messiah soloist.

He was active in various music groups in high school and also participated in theater and wrestling.

Penning, who is single, was a student teacher at Pine Island Public Schools in Pine Island, Minn.

Other Wayne-Carroll teachers who have resigned are Mrs. Marilyn Pierson, elementary music teacher; Mrs. Hallie Sherry, ninth grade English teacher; Howard Peters, business teacher; Susan Daugherty, American problems teacher; Richard Neill, upper level English teacher, and Mrs. Marion Rennick, resources teacher for learning disabilities.

At Hansen, who has been head football coach for 11 years, has resigned from that position but will continue as industrial arts teacher and track coach.

No replacements have been hired for the other positions left open by resignations.

A series of educational video tapes, prepared by extension staff members during the past few months, will be shown for the public on Tuesday, May 17, at the Northeast Station near Concord.

Some of the tapes scheduled for showing are "Furniture Refinishing," "Patchwork and Quilting," "Creativity and Creative Ideas," "Food Preservation," "Let's Talk Turkey," "Shirt and Sweater Construction," "Meal From a Consumers View," "Fusible Interfacings"

'In Touch' Returns

A television series designed for Nebraskan couples, "In Touch," will be re-aired on ETV in May and June.

The program developed by Dr. Ron Daly, extension family life specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and his wife, Donna, explores ways couples can enrich their relationships.

In a series of four one-half hour shows, Daly and his wife explore some of the common problems couples face in a marriage and how to deal with them. Film clips of couples participating in Nebraska Home Extension Club workshops, along with three husband-wife teams in the studio, provide real, serious, and humorous examples of the situations couples often face.

The television series, which was first aired on ETV last December and January, has been receiving attention from other states as well. It will be shown in Nebraska in two sequences, beginning the week of May 23.

Specific dates and times are: Monday through Thursday, May 23-26, at 11:30 a.m. and again on Thursdays, June 9, 16, 23 and 30 at 9:30 p.m.

Save Mother's Day Memories

Drying flowers is one way to save memories of a special Mother's Day for years to come. According to Barbara Voigt-Boltes, extension home gardening coordinator at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, flowers that are dried can keep their beauty for years if prepared properly.

Start with flowers at the peak of their bloom, she says, making certain they're free of insects and moisture. Leaves should be stripped.

There are a number of acceptable methods for drying flowers, according to the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist. She says probably the easiest method for beginners is air drying.

To do this, tie the defoliated stems together with a rubber band or wire ties and hand them upside down in a dark, dry place. The flowers will take from one to four weeks to dry.

Another method, which is best for flowers that readily wilt, is drying in an agent, such as sand, silica gel or a borax mixture. Some tried and tested mixtures include dry, fine, washed sand that is salt free; one-third sand and two-third borax; one-half borax and one-half cornmeal or even just plain cat litter.

The procedures for using any of these methods is basically the same, says Voigt-Boltes. Place one-half inch of the agent and then the flowers (usually face up) in a container. The flowers should then be covered with one-fourth inch of layer of agent. Leave the container in a warm, dry place for six to seven days. When the flowers are dry, the petals should feel like taffeta, says the specialist.

Next, carefully remove the flowers from the agent and dust off excess powder with a fine artist's brush. The dried flowers can then be placed in a covered box, in which silica gel has been sprinkled. "This will protect the absorbent flowers from high humidity while being stored," she says.

The procedures for using silica gel alone are somewhat different, she adds. The substance can be found in most flower stores under trade names such as Flower-Dri, Flora-Cure and Dyrrox.

After drying is accomplished, Voigt-Boltes recommends sprucing up the flowers with a light coating of hair spray. "Application of hair spray will also brighten up your dried flower arrangement in another year or two," she says.

What Do I Do Now?

TWO BEWILDERED Hooper players found themselves in a perplexing situation Tuesday afternoon when a runner on first base decided he'd better head for second after a teammate slapped a high infield hit. He hesitated for a moment, thinking that Wayne first baseman Doug Carroll would make the easy catch. But to his surprise — and Doug's — the ball popped out of his glove, left. After both runners met at first, the first runner decided he'd better head for second. You guessed it — the runner was out at second.

NAIA Entries Minus Winning Records for Today's District Playoffs

Nebraska NAIA baseball comes to a climax in Wayne this week as the state's top four collegiate teams contend for a championship which will take the winner to higher levels. Action begins this morning (Thursday) on the college diamond.

Oddly, not a one of the four owns a winning record, but that won't take the edge off old rivalries. Three of the entries are perennial playoff contenders — Wayne State, Kearney State and Dana. Newcomer Midland has not made the tournament in many years.

For Wayne and Kearney the rivalry has extra heat, but as the pairings go, they will have to wait a round or two before they meet.

The opening game at 10 a.m. today matches Kearney and Midland. Game two pits Wayne against Dana at 12:30. Then losers of the first two games will clash at 3 today, one of them bowing out with a second loss.

Friday has two games scheduled, with winners of games one and two meeting at noon, then the loser of that one going against the winner of Thursday's game 3, at 3 p.m.

Championship play is billed for Saturday at noon. If that does not eliminate one team with a second loss, they will go again at 3 o'clock.

Somewhere along the way, Wayne and Kearney should meet, assuming one or the other is not eliminated earlier. For Wayne there are memories of the last two playoffs — both won by Kearney in the finale.

Kearney defeated Chadron twice Saturday to claim the Nebraska College Conference crown with a 5-1 record — the one loss to Wayne. The Wildcats finished second at 4-2, after six years winning or sharing the title.

Kearney brings a 14-19 record into the tournament.

Wayne slipped to 16-28 after a harrowing five losses in the Colorado invitational tournament of Boulder last week.

In only two of the defeats were the Wildcats thoroughly whipped — both times by Iowa State, 6-0 and 14-2. Coach Larry Schultz said, "They just completely mastered us. No doubt in my mind Iowa State was the best in the tournament, but the Cyclones finished third."

Host Colorado won, and Denver took second. The other games could just as well have been Wayne victories, Schultz said. After losing the opener to Iowa State Thursday, Wayne came back later that day against Colorado and lost, 13-9.

Friday the Cats fell to Denver, 5-3, then Colorado again, 14-13. Both times Wayne led Colorado. In their first encounter, the Cats jumped ahead, 7-0, after two innings, only to falter on the bottom of that frame. Despite the losses, Schultz said, Wayne players earned praise from many observers, including coaches and sports writers.

In their next game, Wayne came from behind twice, 8-4 after the fourth inning, then 13-8 after the top of the seventh. Six Colorado runs against reliever Rod Hegge spoiled it in the bottom of that frame.

Included among Wayne's 28 losses are 13 to "Big 8" teams and two others to Northern Colorado, which Schultz considers the finest opponent Wayne has faced this year.

Hansen Steps Down As Head FB Coach

Wayne High head football coach Al Hansen is calling it quits after a successful 10-year season.

Hansen handed in his resignation Monday night during the regular monthly school board meeting, citing his health as the main reason for stepping down.

Last summer he suffered a heart attack at his home and was forced to give up coaching during the 1976-77 campaign to his assistants: Ron Carnes and Don Koenig.

Hansen said he intends to teach Industrial Arts at Wayne and continue his job as head track coach. Asked about the possibility of him serving as assistant coach, Hansen replied that it would be in the best interest of the players not to get involved in the sport.

Hansen started his coaching career at Wayne High in 1966 with a 1-7-1 record. The next nine years his teams blossomed with a record of 75 wins, 11 losses and two ties to make him one of the most successful high school coaches in the state.

During his 20 years of coaching, including four years at Pilger and three years each at Homer and Wakefield, Hansen has compiled a 128-48-8 record.

He also has served as assistant coach for four years at Chadron High.

A native of Mowile, Ia., Hansen moved to San Diego where he graduated from high school. In 1952 he received his bachelor's degree from Wayne State and nine years later earned his master's also from WS.

No successor has been named by the board.

No Doubts Now Track Is Strong In Kansas Area

The axiom that track is a strong sport in Kansas got additional proof when three Kansas universities dominated the Central States Intercollegiate Conference meet Saturday at Emporia.

Wayne State men finished sixth among seven teams as they totaled six points in four places.

Jerry Kruger claimed a fifth in the high jump with a 6-2 leap. Kevin Peterson's 13-6 pole vault gained a tie for fifth. The mile relay quartet placed fifth with its best time of the year, 3:25.8, the 400 meter relay took sixth.

Coach LeRoy Simpson put Kansas excellence into perspective as he noted that most of the Wayne runners posted the fastest times of the year — or their career bests — yet finished well back of the placers.

Fort Hays State steamrollered to 246 points, more than double the 106 by runnerup Pittsburg. See TRACK, page 5

Devils Swamp Hooper, 12-2

Zeiss, who walked three times, singled off losing pitcher Mike Braun in the third frame to score two of Wayne's four runs in that frame for a 10-2 lead.

Center fielder Aaron Nissen, who shared the lead in Nissen hitting with two hits in three at bats, closed Wayne's scoring in the abbreviated fifth inning with a two-run double to score Zeiss and shortstop Tom Ginn.

Catcher Kevin Murray also banged out a pair of hits, both singles, in three at bats.

Wayne led 3-1 after the first on three hits, including singles by Nissen, Murray and a two-run bagger by winning pitcher Vic Sharpe.

Three hits again produced three more Wayne runs in the second frame, this time it was singles by Ginn and designated hitter Al Nissen coupled with a two-run scoring doubled by first baseman Doug Carroll.

The only casualty of the day for Wayne was the loss of shortstop Steve Bodenstedt who received a dislocated shoulder when he tripped over second base and landed on his shoulder during warmups.

The win advanced the totals to semifinal play at 4 p.m. Wednesday against Wakefield, a 7-2 winner over Laurel. In the first game at 2 p.m. Homer, which beat Allen 6-0, was scheduled to take on Kimpin Bancroft, which drew a bye in the first day.

Winners will go to the finals at 4 p.m. Monday.

Trojans Spot Openings in Laurel Play

Wakefield batters apparently knew just where to hit the ball Tuesday as the Trojans aimed their infield shots at Laurel's weak spots for a 7-2 win in the second game of the Class B district high school baseball tournament at Wayne.

The 6-2 Trojans scattered their shots between second and third bases to roll to the win and set up a 4 p.m. meeting Wednesday with Wayne in the semifinals.

The winners wasted little time in driving across runs. In the opening frame, winning hurler Jono Kline smacked in a pair of runs by Wes Lueth and Dean Sharp with a single for a 2-0 See TROJANS, page 10

Backstop / Bob Bartlett

FOLLOWING the end of spring football workouts at Wayne State, the word was out that the Wildcats are going to have to find a quarterback with experience if they want to be respectable in the tough Central States Intercollegiate Conference next fall.

There's nothing wrong with Wayne's two leaders, Mark Mintken and Mike Herman, that a little height and experience won't cure. In the meantime, the two yearlings will have to rely on their scrambling ability and speed to get the Cats' offense going.

Head coach Del Stoltenberg said he's hoping to improve the quarterback situation this fall if a couple of recruits come through. On that list are incoming freshman Rick Lade of Tokamah-Herman who will play in the Shrine game this summer and returnee Denny Wilson, who didn't pan out in his freshman year, but promises to be in shape this fall. Also on the list is a prospect from Hawaii, Keith Moniz.

High on the coach's list is a junior college transfer from Illinois. The 6-3, 190-pound junior has all the makings Stoltenberg is looking for. "I think we've got a pretty good shot at him," the coach added about his nameless player.

The star recruit played Big 10 ball as quarterback before he ran into academic problems. Supposedly he wants to go someplace where he can play, and as far as Stoltenberg is concerned that someplace is Wayne State. "He should be able to play here if he's good enough to play in the Big 10," Stoltenberg quipped.

Hope to know about this situation in a week or so.

About a junior college prospect from Kansas, Stoltenberg pointed out that chances are slim Wayne will draw Andy Hallauer. The 6-2, 180-pounder doesn't want to leave his Kansas home now that his mother has terminal cancer. He'll either stay home or go to a closer school.

ABOUT the defense, Stoltenberg pointed out that coach Ralph Barclay's crew looks good — as it usually does most seasons. But as one coach emphasized, you can't keep the defense on the field most of the game and expect to score points.

AWARDS banquets will make their yearly arrival this month at three area schools. Today (Thursday) Allen High will present its monograms at a special honors program beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. On Tuesday night, May 17, Winside High will hold its honors dinner at the city auditorium for all sports and other school-related honors. Also that week, Wayne High will present monograms to their athletes, Thursday, May 19, following the 6:30 p.m. potluck super at the high school commons.

Stoltenberg 'Just Misses' Golf Playoffs at Fremont

Sophomore Jay Stoltenberg missed by one stroke of getting into the playoffs for a possible berth in the state high school golf tournament.

The Wayne High product fired an 18-hole total of 82 during district play at Fremont Monday to finish in the second 10 among the 52 players.

Stoltenberg shot rounds of 43 and 39, which included eight pars, eight bogies and a pair of double bogies. Hampering the young golfer from making the playoffs were two penalty strokes.

As a team, Wayne was seventh among 13 teams. The Blue Devils shot 358 behind the scoring of St Prather with a 44.4 for an 85, Mark Gansbom with a pair of 46's for 92 and Bob Bornhoff with 45-54 for a 99.

Looking over his roster, coach Harold Maciejewski pointed out that he'll lose the only one senior member of the squad, Prather, but should have a good nucleus returning in sophomores Stoltenberg, Gansbom, Bornhoff and juniors John Keating and Doug Pierson.

Elkhorn won the team title with a score of 321. Blair was second with 331, followed by Omaha Cathedral with 333, Schuyler with 338, Columbus Scout with 351, Arlington with 355, Wayne, Hooper-Logan View with 366, Hartington Cedar Catholic with 369, Omaha Ryan with 372, Omaha Paul VI with 380, West Point Central Catholic with 438 and Boys Town with 461.

Top individual score was a 76 by Bill Fox of Scotus.

To qualify for a trip to state, only the top three teams and the best five golfers can go.

They're Going To State, Also

THESE TWO Wayne High girls, Peg Pinkelman, top and Lesa Barclay will travel with four other Wayne girls to the state girls track meet Friday and Saturday in North Platte. The pair qualified last week during districts at Plainview. Lesa will compete in the shot put and the 40, while Peg will run on the mile relay squad. They weren't available for picture last week when the rest of the team members had their pictures taken.

Eagles Load Bases 3 Times, But Fail to Produce a Run

Three times Allen had the bases loaded Tuesday and three times the 4-4 Eagles of coach Gary Troth failed to score as Homer chalked up a 6-0 Class B district win at Wayne.

Behind the hitting of shortstop Paul Tighe and starting pitcher Dave Jenkins, Homer spread out its scoring through seven frames to push its record to three wins against three losses.

Tighe, who scored the Knights' first run in the opening frame and the sixth in the final frame, drove in a pair of runs in the fourth with a single off the glove of Allen first baseman Bart Gotch.

With two away in the fourth, Homer center fielder Scott Green singled and stole second before left fielder Brad Harris walked to first. Green and Harris advanced on a wild pitch and stolen base to put runners at second and third before Tighe stepped up to the plate.

Homer scored its second run in the third when Harris, who walked, scored on back-to-back Allen errors. All told, Allen committed six miscues.

In the fifth, relief pitcher Mitch Kruse singled and with the help of several Allen errors later scored for a 5-0 lead.

Allen had the bases loaded in the opening frame with walks issued to Rayme Dowling and pitcher Brent Chase (2-2) before Kevin Hohenstein went to first on a single. Allen left the sacks loaded when Jenkins struck out the next two batters.

The Eagles came back in the next frame to again put runners See EAGLES, page 10

'Most Homes Not Protected from Burglaries'

Most of the houses in Wayne are inadequately protected against burglary, said detective sergeant Ron Penlerick of the Wayne police department.

Speaking to members of Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday, Penlerick pointed out that Wayne is fortunate the burglary rate in the city is almost nil, but that doesn't mean that homes can not be broken into.

It would take about a minute and a half for me to break into a house simply because most homeowners haven't taken proper protection methods to safeguard their homes, he said.

During a movie presentation, sergeant Penlerick noted that the earliest forerunner of the motor car is believed to be a three-wheeled steam-driven carriage built in 1769-70. It ran for about 20 minutes at two to three miles an hour.

the public has to safeguard itself from crime. In the film "Invitation to Burglary," the public is advised to purchase proper door and window locks, to keep up the outside appearance of their homes while on vacation and to record serial numbers of their valuables.

In Wayne, persons who go on vacations for an extended period are asked to contact the city police department so a periodic check can be made of their homes.

About the growing number of arrests for shoplifting in Wayne, Penlerick pointed out that most persons caught in the act of stealing range in age from teen's to mid-20's and some are in their late 60's.

Prior to two or three years ago, the department had nearly 100 per cent prosecution rate. Now that rate has fallen due to a new wrinkle in the law which is designed to deter juveniles from shoplifting by wiping out their record if no similar offense occurs within 90 days of the first act.

Before the film presentation, club members elected officers for the 1977-78 year. Taking the office of president in October will be Deryl Lawrence, Lawrence, who is president-elect, will replace Bob Jordan.

Serving as president-elect will be Leon Meyer, who moves up from his vice-president post. Sid Hiller was named vice president. Remaining as secretary-treasurer is Vern Fairchild.

Two new board members were elected to replace outgoing Don-iever Peterson and Bill Workman. They are Lyle Marotz and Dick Runquist. They also will take office in October.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Kathryn Klahn

What's in a name? Plenty, when a meat or poultry product bears the mark of federal inspection.

Specialists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture check each product's name before it ever goes on the label to see if it really tells what is inside the package.

For example, products labeled "beef with gravy," must contain at least 50 per cent cooked beef. If it is labeled, "gravy with beef," it must have at least 35 per cent cooked beef.

Knowing USDA's standards can help you plan menus and compare products. Some popular foods and their USDA formula are:

Baby food — High meat dinner must contain at least 30 per cent meat; meat and broth at least 65 meat; vegetable and meat at least 8 per cent meat.

Promotion Groups Ask For Increased Funding

The presidents of Wayne Industries and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce attended the city council meeting Tuesday night to outline their activities during recent years and to request an increase in support from the city.

Dean Pierson, president of the Wayne Industries, Inc., told the council 17 industrial prospects visited Wayne in 1976. He pointed out that one of those prospects, National Fiberglass, is now building a plant in the city industrial park.

Pierson cited city administrator Fred Brink for work he has done in presenting the community to prospects.

"Every comment we've had indicates the city administrator is doing a wonderful job in meeting with prospects and giving them the answers they need," Pierson said.

The industrial development corporation has committed $10,760 in promoting the community in the past three years, Pierson said, adding that $4,500 of the total is budgeted for 1,000 full color brochures now being prepared.

Wayne Industries board member John Nigh showed the council members plans for the 12-page publication which will include about 40 photographs of community facilities. Nigh said 1,000 of the brochures will be printed initially and will be distributed on a selective basis to industrial prospects. He said similar brochures have proved to be an effective first contact for other cities seeking to attract industry.

Pierson and Wayne Industries and the Chamber of Commerce recently decided to join forces in hiring a community development specialist to serve both organizations.

Wayne Industries now receives revenues generated by three-tenths of one mill in property tax levied by the city, which has produced about $2,800 a year. He requested the appropriation be increased to six-tenths of a mill.

"We're working to make Wayne a better and prosperous place," Pierson said. "We have the ball rolling. Let's keep it going."

Chamber of Commerce president Roger Nelson outlined promotional activities which included support of Band Day, helping to host the annual District III teachers convention, supporting the All Star Basketball camp, putting out "Welcome" flags on special occasions, and maintaining a float which appears in parades within a 100-mile radius.

Cost of supporting those activities is increasing, Nelson said. The city has budgeted $1,800 for the Chamber for the current fiscal year and Nelson asked that the appropriation for 1977-78 be increased to $2,500.

The council agreed to take the requests under consideration.

Melvin Baumgardner, Clifford Jones, Eldon Bareلمان and Wendel Karth. The officers were inducted during special ceremonies Sunday, May 1 at the Wayne National Guard Armory.

Paving

in favor of permitting sidewalk displays were Gambles manager Larry Hinz, True Value Hardware store owner Bob Sherry, and LeRoy Barner, owner of Barner's Appliance and Lawn Care Center.
The council took no action but agreed to take the issue up at its next meeting and directed police chief Vern Fairchild to suspend enforcement of the ordinance until then.
The council approved specifications and agreed to advertise for bids for a transfer station which will house a trash compactor.
A representative of the city's engineering consultant said the firm estimate of the project cost is $60,000, rather than the $90,000 figure presented as a rough estimate at the last council meeting. The cost estimate includes building construction, the compactor, a 44-cubic-yard trash container and cost of moving fill earth.
Councilman Vernon Russell questioned the engineer's specifications but abstained from voting on the issue because of a conflict of interest. Russell is a commercial trash hauler and has announced his intention of opening a landfill. He had asked to be excused from the council for the transfer station item but did participate in discussion of the issue.
A special meeting was scheduled for May 24 at 7 p.m. to review plans for the downtown improvement project under development.

Chairman Roger Nelson said the downtown improvement committee is recommending that the council ask for final plans to be ready for its June meeting in hopes that bids can be taken and the project be started this summer.
Nelson outlined recommendations for beautification items including tinted sidewalks, benches and mini-packs in alleys to be closed between Second and Third Streets on Main St.
In other action the council:
—Directed city administrator Fred Brink to proceed with installation of street lighting on Providence Road.
—Approved by-laws for the fire department.
—Directed Brink to proceed with plans for construction of addition to the fire hall to house a new ladder truck. Estimated cost is $7,500.
—Failed on second reading to finally pass an ordinance to change from four to two months the amount of time unlicensed vehicles will be permitted on residential property. Final reading will be at the next meeting.
—Approved a request to add a storage building to the El Toro package liquor store and lounge. Council approval is required because the business holds a liquor license.
—Directed Brink to meet with State Department of Roads officials to discuss modernization of the city's traffic signals, and to arrive at a mutually acceptable speed limit for Highway 35 in front of the high school.
A letter had previously been received from the DOR saying the department would pay half of the estimated $30,000 cost of the traffic signal project if the council would agree to change the speed limit.

A protest charging "coercion" was filed with state Sen. John R. Murphy, Brink Tuesday informed the council he had received a letter saying there had apparently been a misunderstanding and that state participation, in the traffic signal project was not contingent on changing the speed limit.
Went into executive session to discuss negotiations for property owned by the Chicago and North Western Transportation Co.
After both clubs scored single runs in the second, Wakefield added two more runs in the third off back-to-back singles by designated hitter Dan Byers and Lueth.
Sharp drove in the Trojans' sixth run with a single in the fifth and center fielder Brad Jones in the sixth singled in Klire in the sixth.

The board also:
—Approved hiring a full time aide to assist a student designated as borderline trainable-educable mentally retarded by Educational Service Unit-1 testing. The aide will assist with other special education programs when not helping the designated student.
—Approved development, beginning in August, of a remedial math project for grades 1-10. Cost will include a $500 salary for each of four teachers for two weeks in August plus Saturday meetings, benefits, and $500 in supplies.
Approved three parts of a program proposed by Middle School principal Richard Metter for minimum standards for promotion. Provisions include giving students a course outline and minimum standards for passing at the beginning of a course, establishing teaching teams to discuss course requirements, student progress, problem situations, and assignment loads, and a statement that individual differences in students will continue to be the prime concern of teachers.

—The board referred for further study a proposal to set a minimum standard for promotion to the next grade.
—Set $2,750 as the tuition rate for next year, an increase of $250.
—Agreed to let the Senior Citizens Center rent a school bus at the standard rate of 60 cents a mile if the organization can provide insurance coverage.
—Raise the rate for bus transportation for non-resident students from $2 a week to $4. Buses will pick up non-resident students on Highway 35 and 15 if space is available on buses.
—Agreed to accept a quarter section of land eight miles southeast of Carroll into the district. The property is now in District 83, which will be dissolved after this school year.
—Agreed to award distinguished service pins to Marion Rennick for 13 years of service as a teacher, and to Ila Pryor for 15 years service in the school kitchen.

and she proposed following a similar procedure after the lease for the new building goes into effect. She said costs for the Wayne center under the new arrangement will be above average for the region.
Region IV attorney Kem Swarts said he would propose some modification of the sample lease presented by Vakoc but indicated it is generally acceptable. The governing board agreed to meet again June 3 with the intention of giving final approval to the agreement if all complications have been resolved by then. Vakoc estimated construction time at about four months, although it might be possible for the center to move in while outside work on the project is finished.

Sunshine law amendment delays implementation for a year

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — Nebraska's so-called "sunshine law," adopted last year and scheduled to go into effect on July 1, apparently won't be implemented for another year.

The legislature, at the suggestion of Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus, recently approved an amendment to that effect. Dworak said he was not trying to sabotage the law but added it was "a half-baked piece of legislation which would create problems."

The law enacted in response to an initiative petition headed by Common Cause of Nebraska, provides for stricter regulations covering campaign finance reporting, disclosure of conflicts of interest and lobbying activities.

Dworak's argument that the statute needs changes and that another year's delay to refine it would be advisable was supported by more than 30 of the lawmakers.

But Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, who led the effort to get the measure passed last year, was against further delay. He told the Unicameral: "It's never going to be easy to implement this law."

According to Luedtke, the Dworak amendment was "putting off until tomorrow what we should have done yesterday."

He said any changes needed won't become evident until after the statute has been in effect for awhile.

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston proposed that the Unicameral establish a study committee to review the law during the period its implementation is suspended. He said members of the newly-formed Political Accountability and Disclosure Commission should take part in the review.

Capital Punishment Bill

The bill that would abolish capital punishment in Nebraska has been revived after having been killed. But it won't come before the legislature for further debate this session.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, sponsor of the legislation, told his colleagues if they would agree to bring the measure back to life, he would then move to forego any more arguments over it this year.

Barbara Gajner, executive director of the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union, said abolition of the death penalty "is not far off."

She claims many state senators have been told by their constituents they want the capital punishment law stricken from the books.

Chambers said he is sure the four men on death row at the Nebraska Penal Complex would not be executed while a bill proposing abolition of the death sentence is pending in the Unicameral.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has set execution dates for three of the men but further appeals are expected to be made on their behalf.

Opinion Requested

Unicameral Speaker Roland Luedtke says he will ask the attorney general for an opinion on the constitutionality of a bill that would penalize counties which fail to reappraise property by next Jan.

The bill would provide for withholding from counties a portion of their allotment from the personal property tax relief fund if they failed to make the reappraisals.

The bill proposes holding back 10 percent of a county's share of the fund next Jan. 1, 20 percent in 1979 and 50 percent in 1980.

Luedtke's decision to ask the attorney general for advice stemmed from a letter sent to Lancaster County senators by Jan Gauger, a member of the county board.

She said she found the penalty section in the measure "particularly offensive."

Mrs. Gauger also asked the lawmakers to oppose the $70 million limit on personal property refunds to local governments proposed in another bill. The second measure would phase out personal property taxes on farm equipment, business inventories and livestock during the next three years.

Flood Tax Increased

One of the most debated bills in this session of the legislature was the one which raised the annual food sales tax credit from $16 to $20.

The bill was passed on a 35-7 vote and sent along to Gov. J.J. Exon who had recommended the $20 figure in his budget address to the Unicameral on Feb. 10.

Just before the legislation was forwarded to the governor, an attempt was made to kill it. But that was turned down as was an effort to abolish the tax in 1969.

The idea of doing away with the tax had triggered stiff opposition from some of the senators. Warren Swigart of Omaha said that city generates close to $4 million with its one percent municipal sales tax on food and needs that revenue source to meet its financial obligation.

Veto Sustained

Gov. J.J. Exon's veto of a bill aimed at forcing state agencies to implement all laws passed by the legislature easily withstood an override attempt recently.

Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City has been miffed because some governmental department heads have refused to put into effect some laws the attorney general said might not be constitutional.

Murphy argued that "the three branches of government are supposed to be equal but we allow misuse of attorney general opinions to upset that balance."

All his bill called for, he said, was that executive officers either implement laws promptly or seek a judicial review within 10 days if they doubt the validity of the legislation.

He added that a "clearly unconstitutional" law would not have to be followed.

Opponents of the Murphy proposal admitted there have been some problems but said there are solutions other than the one suggested by Murphy, including the right of a citizen to take matters to court.

In his veto message, the governor said the Murphy bill was "a flagrant attempt of the legislature to overreach its legitimate constitutional legislative authority."

According to Exon, the proposal would have directed executive officers in the governments to "violate their oaths to uphold the constitution."

OBSERVATIONS

Only the beginning

You can't win 'em all, or so the saying goes, and that's probably not more true than on the floor of a legislative body, as South Sioux City senator John R. "Bob" Murphy found out when an attempt to override Gov. Exon's veto of LB 45 failed.

LB 45 would have required the implementation of laws passed by the legislature despite an Attorney General's opinion that the law may be unconstitutional. Some Nebraska agencies have refused to enforce laws that the Attorney General declares invalid.

Murphy told the senators in his override attempt that it was time for the legislature to take its place as the third power of government and eliminate the Attorney General as the fourth power.

The question is whether part of the administrative branch of government can override laws made by the legislative branch. It is Murphy's contention that the power rightfully lies with another branch of government, the judicial system. The question of a statute's legality, he says, should rest in the hands of the courts and not with the Attorney General. The defeated override attempt might seem to be the end of the issue, but we're betting it will come up in succeeding Unicameral sessions as more senators find bills they worked hard to get passed invalidated by the Attorney General. LB 45, as we see it, was the first round of what could be a long fight.

It was predictable that the governor would veto the bill, and defeat of the override is also not surprising. It is a tough issue, one that many senators would hesitate to tackle. Sen. Murphy has shown in the past he's not afraid to take on the tough ones. Last year he pushed through a resolution for Nebraska to join other states in calling for a constitutional convention. Again, perhaps a somewhat delicate issue that other senators might hesitate to introduce.

The same goes for LB 45, but Murphy didn't balk at introducing a bill bound to be controversial, but in which he believes. It didn't become law, but we think it did get the ball rolling. — Jim Strayer

Television-terrorism links

There's been a lot of talk but not enough soul-searching about the link between television and terrorism.

There has always been terrorism — of sorts — but now the news media — radio and TV in particular — need new standards for covering these horrors. Such improved standards won't eliminate the disease but they may help contain the contagion.

I started to say I'm not talking about violence in so-called entertainment programming on the air. Then I suddenly realized that in a way that's what I am talking about.

The psychologists and psychiatrists can't agree among themselves whether violence on the tube breeds violence in the streets though I, as an amateur, am inclined to think it does. Certainly there is impressive argument that programs of violence won't nourish a growing child as dependably as, say, orange juice.

But let's get back to terrorists and their hostages. What the captors want, among other things, is a large audience to whom to air (no pun intended) their grievances. And broadcasting obliges. Whether we're aware of it or not, I think radio and television journalism, in following the terrorist's story, has allowed itself to become hooked on programming entertainment. For this real-life drama is a grisly kind of entertainment, a suspense thriller, a deadly soap opera in instantaneous installments, changing by the minute instead of by the day.

Now the fiendishly orchestrated terror by which a small band of Hanafi Muslim fanatics held more than 100 hostages in three separate places in Washington, D.C. for nearly 40 hours was of course a major news story. On the whole the media performed well — except for the fact that, particularly on radio and television, there seemed to be no other story in the world.

But Philip Revzin, of the Wall Street Journal's Cleveland bureau, wrote a thoughtful column a while back about the dangers of the media's role in such events. He recalled how local radio and TV had field days with two terrorist incidents in or near Cleveland — one involving a Vietnam veteran holding hostages for nine hours to vent his anger against the Chessie system, the other involving the "kidnaping" of a police captain.

Reporter Revzin quoted Newton Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission under President Kennedy as saying:

"The basic problem is how professional journalists use what they call news judgment on these types of stories. They tend to cop out by saying they don't want to make any moral judgment, so they'll use the story in full. But that is moral judgment. It's just the easiest one to make."

Minow urged thoughtful journalists, without government involvement, to take a weekend off together somewhere and re-examine the whole problem. "They might come up with some ethical guidelines," he hoped.

But the Wall Street Journal's Philip Revzin is dubious and so am I. — Edward R. Morgan.

Government contributes to inflation

In 1775, a harassed New England merchant complained: "Men of war, cutters, marines with their bayonets fixed, judges of the admiralty, collectors, comptrollers, searchers, tide waiters, land waiters, with a whole catalogue of pimps, are sent either not to protect our trade but to distress it."

Such a state of affairs was obviously intolerable, so we threw out King George and his "swarms of officers."

And now? Well, the poor Navaho Indian who was ordered by the government to install a two-way intercom in his mine... even though he works it alone.

He's as perplexed as the Portland employer who was told that 15 per cent of his two secretaries and one bookkeeper must be of minority extraction. Fifteen percent of three people!

Then there's the small businessman who was fined for having too many fire extinguishers. That's right, too many.

In Chicago, they confiscated a batch of rubber squeeze toys... for squeaking too loudly.

The head of a meatpacking operation recalls being ordered by one federal agency to put an opening in a conveyor line, and being ordered to close it by another federal agency. "We have been told by various federal agencies," he says, "to provide smooth and rough floors in the same area, salt and not salt the same area, paint and not paint the same area, and so on."

Those are just the petty frustrations. Get into the excesses of the environmental protection movement and you make the big time.

The snail darter — a small fish — has stalled a $116 million dam in Tennessee. The Furbish lousewort — a useless weed — blocks a $600 million hydroelectric project in Maine.

The soft-shelled clam has halted a $2 billion nuclear power plant in New Hampshire.

And a $3 billion coal-fired power plant in Utah was sacrificed on the altar of the black-footed ferret and the kangaroo rat.

Doesn't it boggle your mind — four major energy facilities being held up for petty reasons while the President reminds us of the energy crisis?

So far, no one in the bureaucracy has tried to make his horse a consul... but I expect it soon.

I had a letter the other day from a writer who asked me to explain the contradictions of the government. He said, "I understand there is a move to legalize marijuana while at the same time they are outlawing saccharin!"

This bizarre behavior is certainly reminiscent of the eccentricities of history's mad kings and emperors. And yet it occurs — with increasing frequency — right here in the democratic, middle-class U.S.A.

Estimates of the total consumer cost of government red tape vary widely. But the educated guesses usually run between $700 and $2,000 a year, for each and every man, woman and child in the country.

Who "I" would like to know — is "protecting" the consumer from this?

In the words of Bart Lance, director of the President's Office of Management and Budget, "We consistently talk about 'wages' and 'prices' being the causes of inflation. (But) the most serious perpetrator of all is government itself." — Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Consumer Protection Act Will affect agriculture

There is no way that agriculture can be isolated and exempt from the chaos which is sure to come if Congress passes the Agency for Consumer Protection Act (ACP) which has been introduced in this session.

The bills (H.R. 6118 and S. 12620) are very similar to the one passed in the last session and ultimately vetoed by President Ford. This time, the House bill carries an exemption for agriculture, just as it carries an exemption for labor. Both exemptions are bait to gain passage of the act, for neither agriculture nor labor can be excluded from the potential disruption and interference that the proposed law entails.

Under the guise of "protecting consumer interests," a super government agency would be created with authority vested in an administrator who could decide where and when he would appear in other governmental proceedings, with power to initiate court actions. Since every governmental agency in some way affects every American, there is no limit to such broad interpretation.

The ACP is wrong in concept... in reality no group can be singled out as "the consumers." Every farmer and laboring man is a "consumer," the same as all other Americans. The press has been quick to talk of the ACP areas of interest as including "exports of agricultural products." That means embargoes and there are many Americans who would just as soon not one bushel of grain left our shore. Misguidedly they think that would mean cheaper food prices for them.

During the last hearing on the ACP proposal, the supporters of this bill said, in effect, that given the job of the administrator, the first thing they would undertake to do would be to shut off the export of grains.

No industry or segment of the population can be insulated from the consequences of the act. The American farmer produces only when and what he perceives will return him his costs and a profit. The farmer's price risk is tied identically to the risk of the processor, the wholesaler and retailer, and arbitrary government interference anywhere along the line can limit and destroy the farmer's market.

U.S. agriculture and the entire food chain is today constantly affected by a wide variety of government agencies, not just the USDA. Prime examples are the Environmental Protection Agency, the Food and Drug Administration, the Labor Department, the Federal Energy Administration, the Health and Welfare Department, OSHA, etc. Complicated as the regulations and rules which pour from these agencies are, imagine what will happen if a new super agency such as ACP is empowered to inject itself into all of their decisions, to nullify and delay them with injunctions and court actions.

Americans have watched appalled and unbelieving as a completed dam project on which several hundred millions of dollars have been expended to control floods and generate electric power, cannot be put into operation because a tiny fish the size of a minnow is listed as an "endangered species" and its natural habitat would be disrupted. Examples of such nonsense from the "power to intervene" can be found throughout the government system.

It is amazing that President Carter who campaigned against Big Government and who promised to take it off the people's backs, supports creation of such a monstrosity for mischief as the Agency for Consumer Protection offers. — M.M. Vankirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Parents air school grievance

Dear Editor:

Since when has the teaching profession slipped so far that young people in our school are called "God damn idiots," and "S.O.B.'s" (not using the abbreviated form) by one of their teachers?

When did teaching ethics in our state start allowing teachers to label their pupils with nicknames such as "fudger" or "super-jock", just to name a couple of the nicer ones? Why do students who have a physical handicap have to suffer relentlessly at the hands of their classmates while teachers conveniently don't hear?

But yet if a teacher's called a name in the halls or a classroom, all year and punishment is dealt out, along with a lecture on how teachers should be treated.

We did not realize there was such a double standard allowed in schools — there certainly wasn't when we attended school. Has the Nebraska teaching code changed so much? In this age of non-discrimination, aren't our children entitled to the same rights as their peers? Before our children return to the Winside School in the fall, we are going to get answers to some of these questions, even if it's at the state level. Do we really want our children to believe that name calling and harassment of the less fortunate is the only way to fly? We don't. — Mr. and Mrs. Gary Farrens.

Wanted baccalaureate

Dear Editor:

The truth about baccalaureate is out — horrible as it is. The survey that the school sent out revealed that there weren't 50 parents who cared enough to have it.

It would have meant so much to me if we could have had it and so I find it so hard to believe that it could mean so little to other parents.

I think it is time that we assess ourselves as parents and decide whether we're Marys or Marthas. Are we choosing the one thing needful for our children or are we so busy with the cares of the world that we don't discern what is most important.

I guess I should have been prepared for this decision because one pastor told me that it is nearly impossible to schedule church events for the youth because they are busy every night of the week with sports. I do want to thank the Ministerial Association for having it on their agenda and to the high school for conducting the survey. Evidently the principal knew the parents better than I did. I know what the term means, "the agony of defeat." — Mrs. Dale Lessmann

Sierra Club Will Feature Energy Project

The co-director of the Small Farm Energy Project in Hartington will be the featured speaker at the regular meeting of the Elkhorn Valley Group of the Sierra Club Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District office south of Norfolk on Highway 81.

Deis Demmel will explain how the project attempts to communicate to the public the latest in alternative energy agriculture.

The Small Farm Energy Project is a research and demonstration project sponsored by the Center for Rural Affairs, Wallkill, and funded by the Community Services Administration. Its purpose is to find renewable alternative energy sources for farms, such as organic farming, waste recycling, composting, energy conservation, wind, solar, minimum tillage and alcohol, methane, hydrogen and other bio fuels.

The Elkhorn Valley Group, in conjunction with the national Sierra Club organization, is observing its first annual membership week May 15-22. The Sierra Club is comprised of individuals interested in the enjoyment, preservation and conservation of our natural resources. Membership in the Elkhorn Valley Group is open to anyone in northeast Nebraska.

For more information, write the membership chairman M.P. Finn, 405 Bluff Ave., Norfolk, 68701.

Rains Cause 'Moderate' Erosion

Wayne County received the brunt of an early morning storm in eastern and central Nebraska Sunday with a four-inch accumulation of rain in some locations between 6 and 8 a.m.

Logan Creek was bankfull with some roads covered near Wakefield. Highway 35 west of Wayne was also covered briefly, reports indicate.

County Soil Conservation Service director Arnold Marr and ASCS director Ray Butts Monday morning toured the southern part of the county where rains were reported heaviest, to determine how much damage to fields the downpour caused.

There was plenty of evidence of water having covered roads and debris was left dangling from the top wires of many fences. County commissioner Merlin Beiermann said backwalls of two bridges were damaged but now bridges were washed out. A considerable amount of gravel was washed from sections of road in low areas, Beiermann said.

Damage to fields was moderate, Marr said, although in localized areas there was some rill and sheet erosion.

"Fortunately, it was before most crops were in so there won't be much replanting," Marr said, "but there was considerable soil loss in localized areas."

There was evidence that fields where minimum tillage is practiced suffered minimal erosion, Marr said. Crop residue left on the surface by minimum tillage helped prevent soil from being washed away. "Where fields hadn't been worked yet, there was negligible erosion," Marr said. "There was much less erosion where residue was left on the surface."

Future Feeders 4-H Club met the evening of May 2 at the Northeast Station with two leaders and 20 members answering roll call with "The Jippiest Thing I Ever Bought."

Slides were shown on grooming and preparing calves for show. Lunch was served by the Verl Carlsons.

A HEAVY DOWNPOUR Sunday morning flood fields in some areas of Wayne County and washed over roads, as shown in top photo. Damage to fields was moderate, according to SCS director Arnold Marr, said, although there was some sheet and rill erosion in localized areas. Considerable soil loss in some areas is illustrated by silting in low lying areas, shown in bottom photo.

Carter Plan 'Pleases' Peppery Earl Butz

President Jimmy Carter's original target price supports and loan rate recommendations for the nation's farmers received a boost from an unlikely supporter in Lincoln May 5.

Former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz said during a news conference that the plan "was so conservative that it rather pleased me."

"I think we ought to keep American agriculture pretty much market-oriented," he said. "I think we ought not to go overboard in throwing this system away based on one year's experience."

Butz predicted that the plan to be approved by the U.S. Congress could come closer to the version being considered by the House Agriculture Committee, and would cost between $2 billion and $3 billion annually.

That, he said, compares with the trend during his five-year tenure as secretary of reducing payments to farmers from $4 billion annually to $5 billion a year.

He said last year was the first time in the last five years that total grain production exceeded total grain consumption, and said policymakers must assume "normal stress (on food supplies) somewhere in the world."

Butz also said that farmers consistently failed to make profits under what he termed the "curtailed output" policy of Democratic administrations. He said it will "be difficult" for Carter to veto farm legislation exceeding his revised recommendations, although Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has threatened such action, because of the President's campaign promises to develop legislation meeting the cost of production and supplying a profit.

"In the mind of politicians, the cost of production includes a nine per cent return on highly inflated land values which gets the cost of production up to the point that no price will cover it," he said.

"There's nothing illegal about that position. It's just important that's all."

Butz called Congress "the most irresponsible part of government now. It has no sense of fiscal responsibility."

"We built exports to a record $22 billion a year not by having high internal price supports by being competitive in world markets," he said.

Dr. Butz, who currently is professor emeritus of agricultural economics at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., praised America's grain reserve system, which is held by individual farmers and elevators.

"Putting grain under loan to the government is the initial step in making the U.S. the residual world supplier and residual storehouse as we were for 40 years," he said. "Government-owned reserves are a cost to taxpayers and a signal to the rest of the world of the United States' minimum price (for grain)," allowing underselling by other nations.

Referring to Bergland, Butz said that "if you must have a Democrat as secretary of agriculture, he'd be my first choice," although he stands for high price supports and government involvement in agriculture. Butz said the new secretary was competent, a farmer, well-informed and had good experience as a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

In other remarks, Butz said: "His most significant contribution was not raising farm income, but 'developing a new sense of pride among farmers and the feeling that the nation had some degree of appreciation of them that came as a result of food (production) being moved to the front burner.'" He said this has resulted in more young people returning to the farms because "they see hope... they see dignity out there."

"The law creating the Occupational Health and Safety Administration should be repealed or substantially revised. The act, administered by the Department of Labor, is 'run by a bunch of kids... some of them up to 60-years-old' and some restrictions on farmers are being made by guys who couldn't tell the difference between a steer and a coyote," Butz said.

"The 'main thing' needed on the nation's farms is additional net income. 'We have to get the money out there... it develops.'" —Former President Ford had a better knowledge of agricultural problems than farmer President Nixon because of his rural constituency.

"The Ford Administration 'made a mistake' in raising wheat loan rates to $25 a bushel last fall during the 'heat of the election campaign.'" —Carol Foreman, new assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services, has been misquoting him by saying that Butz charged her nomination "was an insult to farmer." "I said her nomination was the ultimate insult to farmers," Butz retorted.

"The chief obstacle to reducing the USDA's 80,000-some employe staff lies in the Congress, where pressure from various districts originates when such cuts are attempted."

Soybean Research Revealed

Increasing the organic matter in soil may be one way of increasing soybean yields, according to Dr. Dale Flowerday, professor of agronomy at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

A three-year study funded by the Nebraska Soybean Development Board will investigate methods of increasing soybean yields. Raising organic matter in the soil to the levels found in eastern Iowa and western Illinois may increase soybean yields to the level found in those areas, Flowerday said.

The study will also deal with irrigation and its effects on soybean production. Furrow and sprinkler irrigation will be tested to determine the effect of increased yields, Flowerday noted.

"Composted feedlot manure will be used to raise the level of organic matter in soil from the present level of 2.5 to 2.75 per cent organic. By the end of three years it should be increased 4.5 to 5 per cent organic matter," he said.

Flowerday said the advantage of boosting the organic matter content of soil was an "improvement in the overall soil structure." He added that some researchers believe that herbicidal action may be improved when the organic level is raised. "Some herbicide may be tied up temporarily by the organic matter and released more slowly. There isn't as much damage to the soybean in the early stages of growth that are so important," he said.

Additional benefits to roots, nodulation and nitrogen fixation may be possible effects of increased soil organic content, Flowerday noted.

Curly Dock

Description — Curly dock is a perennial, reproducing only by seed. It grows in wild and tame hay meadows and pastures and along roadsides. The plant has a large deep taproot, which every year sends up a flowering stalk two to four feet tall.

The leaves are lance-shaped with wavy margins. Large numbers of reddish-brown, winged pods are produced on each plant. Usually three small, shiny, reddish-brown triangular seeds are produced in each winged pod. In the fall of the year the plant produces a large rosette of basal leaves.

Control — Spray when the dock is approaching the getting-ready-to-head state. Use 2,4-D plus Banvel for effective control. Apply one quart, 2,4-D plus one-half pint of Banvel per acre when temperatures are mild and wind velocity under 10 miles per hour.

They're Just Dandy

DANDELIONS — they choke yards and it's a constant battle this time of year to keep them from taking over a carefully-kept lawn. But beauty is in the eye of the beholder and a closer look (top right) shows that dandelions have aesthetic value, from the proper perspective. Honey bees are attracted by the yellow flowers (bottom, left), pausing long enough to load up with nectar before taking off (top, right) for the return trip. If only the yellow flowers didn't produce so many seeds to be wafted away by any stray breeze.

The best way to avoid poisoning by poison ivy is to learn to recognize and avoid the plant. It is a perennial weed and its leaves are always divided into three leaflets. There is an old saying "Leaflets three, let it be." The leaves are often dark green and shiny.

During the summer it forms clusters of green berries which turn whitish in the fall. In the fall the leaves turn scarlet.

Poison ivy can be grubbed out by persons who are resistant to the toxin. It is usually best to kill the poison ivy with a suitable weed killer.

Two of the best chemicals for killing poison ivy are amitrole (sold as Amino Treazote, Weed-azol and Poison Ivy Killer) and silvex (manufactured under various trade names).

You can apply amitrole and silvex after the plants have made their early spring growth and the leaves have reached full size. Do not attempt treatment after the leaves have turned yellow.

If used carefully and strictly according to the directions on the label, amitrole and silvex are not considered to be hazardous to the applicator or to the environment. Silvex will not kill grasses. Amitrole, being non-selective, will kill all plants exposed to the spray.

CUCUMBERS IN THE GARDEN

Cucumbers are a warm season crop which can be planted in your garden after all danger of frost has passed. Plantings of cucumbers early in May is not necessary. Cucumbers planted later will mature almost as quickly in the garden as those planted earlier this month.

There are a number of new varieties you might wish to try. SMR-labeled varieties are more disease free and some new varieties produce a female flower at every node. Using pollinator plants, this provides you with more cucumbers.

Pickling cucumbers which have been grown successfully in Nebraska include Spartan, Dawn and SMR-18. Good slicing varieties include Burpee Hybrid, Marketor, Straight Eight, Victory and M and M hybrid.

The first man to identify plant cells through the microscope was an English scientist named Robert Hooke. The year was 1665.

Swine Researchers Gives Ventilation Recommendation

Ventilation systems in mechanically ventilated swine systems should be checked now for efficiency, according to district swine specialist Bob Fritsch.

Nearly all ventilation systems were installed with no margin of safety — that is, the equipment when newly installed barely met the requirements for the built-in capacity, Fritsch said.

Then too, over a period of time the equipment loses efficiency. In the winter time this presents little problem since the ventilation needs are only a fraction of the summer requirement. However, efficiency of ventilation equipment during summer may influence gain, feed efficiency, conception rates and behavior.

Air inlets should be checked and cleaned as these tend to become plugged during winter. Birds tend to nest around air inlets when given the opportunity — bird nests should be removed. If screens are placed over inlets to prevent bird nesting the screens should be thoroughly cleaned. All dirt and dust particles should be removed from inlets as this reduces the efficiency of the system. All fans, shutters and other equipment associated with the system should be thoroughly cleaned.

Care should be taken not to scratch fan blades when cleaning as this further reduces efficiency. Graphite or oil should be used on the shutters to improve their operational efficiency. Baffles should be adjusted for summer use which for many systems means the directional air flow will be the opposite of winter.

Studies at the Northeast Station have shown that air entering under the north eave (out of the shade) is enough cooler when compared to air entering under the south eave that pigs on the north side of the alley gained faster and more efficiently than those on the south side, Fritsch revealed. This suggests that as much air as possible should be brought in from the shady side of the building and as little as possible from the sunny side. Other management techniques may be equally effective. With feed costs being on the high side, management that results in improved gains and feed efficiency will be highly rewarded this summer.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"There is no right without a parallel duty, no liberty without the supremacy of the law, no high destiny without earnest perseverance, no greatness without self-denial..."

Lieber

In modern terms you might restate Lieber's observation as "There's no free lunch". You're simply not going to get something for nothing.

Examples of those who disagree are easy to find. Demonstrators demand their "rights" with no thought of their own "duties" which might justify those rights. How much better the world would be if all of us were more concerned with our obligations and less with our own selfish aims.

One of our obligations is to put the interests of each family that comes to us above our own interests. You can depend on our integrity.

LEA KOESTER
Wayne Woman Wins $25 Prize
Lea Koester of 819 Valley Dr. in Wayne is the latest winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion.
She received $25 in Bucks as a result of being the shopper with the birthday closest to the winning date announced last Thursday night.
Her birthday of April 29, 1958 was almost three months away from the winning date of July 26, 1958, but apparently no one else born that year was present in a participating Wayne store to claim the money.
Had he or she been born on that day and was in a participating store, the lucky shopper would have won $750.
As a result of 70 not winning, that amount stays the same for the drawing tonight (Thursday) at 8:15 p.m. Drawing the winning date last week was Darrell Doescher of Doescher Appliances.
