Understanding Children to Be Topic of Workshop in Wayne

A workshop, "Understanding and Communicating with Children," will be held on Friday, June 3 in the city auditorium in Wayne. Several of the workshops have already been conducted in the Northeast area.

"Children's behaviour has purpose and meaning," said Anna Marie Kreifels, area home extension agent at the Northeast Station, Concord. "If such behaviour patterns are not understood by adults, conflicts can arise within the family," she added.

Some topics on the day's program include active listening for praise, sorting out values, praise and encouragement, and developing courage to be imperfect. Those attending will have an opportunity to become acquainted with several methods of improving communication with children.

Miss Kreifels said the workshops should be of special interest to parents of young children, school teachers, counselors, principals, Sunday school teachers, 4-H leaders and babysitters. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Workshop leaders will be Dave Hassenstab, M.S.W., and Wes Wingett, Ph.D., mental health workers with the Northern Nebraska Comprehensive Mental Health Center. Both men have led Systematic Training for Effective Parenting groups in nearly 20 communities in northern Nebraska. They have also trained parent educators and pre-school staff and parents in procedures that enhance family relationships.

The workshop on June 3 will begin at 9 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. A registration fee of $3 per participant will be payable on June 3.

Pre-registration by May 26 is requested. To pre-register, persons should contact the Wayne County Extension Office or Anna Marie Kreifels, Northeast Station, Concord, Nebr., 68728, phone 584-2261. Those attending should make their own plans for noon lunch.

Bancroft Denies Devils Trip to State

By BOB BARTLETT
 For the second time in 10 years, Wayne High won't be sending a team to the state high school baseball playoffs.
 Bancroft made sure of that Monday with some timely hitting and quick defensive play to stop the Blue Devils, 5-3, in the finals of the Class B-2 district championships at the city ball park.
 For hurler Doug Carroll, who had three wins going into the match, the loss was his first and was the team's third defeat at the hands of the Bulldogs.
 From the outset of the game, the Bulldogs gradually took control with a double play in the opening frame to stop Wayne, then strong hitting to drive in five runs on eight hits.
 A two-out single to deep right center in the sixth scored two Bancroft runners and virtually locked out the Blue Devils from repeating as Class B district and state champions.

 Following a sacrifice bunt by left fielder Al Browning to advance runners to second and third, the Bulldogs' top hitter, Terry Bargmann, connected on Carroll's throw to put Bancroft in control, 5-2.
 With their backs against the wall, the Devils looks as if they may rally with two outs. Jeff Zeiss, who hit into a fielder's choice to second base, was safe on first and made the trip around the bags into home on Tom Ginn's booming double for a 5-3 margin.
 Center fielder Aaron Nissen kept the rally alive when he walked to put runners at first and second. But Carroll, who was among leading hitters for Wayne, went down swinging on Wegner's hard-throwing fast ball.

 "I've never seen a bunch of kids so dejected after losing a ball game," Mallette remarked. "They really believed they could win this one and win at state, too," he said.
 The Devils started off in the opening frame with that kind of attitude by loading the sacks with one away and putting themselves into scoring position.
 Zeiss singled and went to second on Ginn's sacrifice before Nissen and Carroll each walked. But misfortune struck. First baseman Vic Sharpe hit a bouncing single to Bancroft third baseman John Tietz who threw to home to force out Zeiss before catcher Steve Plambeck fired the ball to first to put Sharpe.

 Wegner, who was two for four at the plate, doubled in the first inning, stole second and scored off the glove of Wayne left fielder Zeiss. In the second inning, Bargmann, who also was two for four, including three RBIs, singled with two away to shallow center to score Jay Bring. Back-to-back singles by Wegner and LaMont Pagels drove in Bargmann for a 3-0 Bancroft lead.
 Wayne came back in the top of the third on base hits by Ginn and Nissen to cut the margin to 3-2. Number nine batter on the Wayne roster, Dennis Carroll, slapped a hard-hit double to the right center field fence and scored on Ginn's single. After stealing second and advancing to third on an error, Ginn came home on Nissen's base hit.

 "The one reason I've been so confident in this club is the good hitting throughout the lineup," Mallette emphasized.
 Carroll, who went into the district finals owning a 3.0 pitching record, shutoff Bancroft's scoring charges with three strikeouts in the third and good fielding help in the fourth and fifth innings.
 Bancroft broke the string in the top of the sixth on a single by designated hitter Glen Tietz and a fielder's choice by Bring, who made it to first when the attempted throw out at second was late.
 With one away, coach Gordon Fliche called on Browning to sacrifice bunt to advance runners to second and third. The strategy paid off when Bargmann came up to bat and walloped the ball to right center for the winning runs.
 "The turning point in the game that made it real difficult for a comeback was in the sixth inning," Mallette pointed out. "Instead of throwing the ball to first for the easy out, we went to the wrong base (second) and allowed both runners to safely get on the bags."
 Mallette labeled the pitching of Carroll as accurate, adding that the senior allowed only one walk. He didn't have many strikeouts, Mallette went on, because Bancroft is a good hitting club.
 Evaluating Bancroft's hitting, the coach noted that the Bulldogs hit the ball towards openings in the field while Wayne hit the ball hard but at somebody.

"This has been a very satisfying group to work with," Mallette concluded. The Devils lost eight players from last year's state championship team and were able to fill the infield gaps thanks to three sophomores and a junior.
 Wayne ends the season with a 10-4 record.

3 Individuals, Relay Team Bring Home Awards

Three individual girl athletes and a relay team brought home the honors from the state girls high school track meet at North Platte over the weekend.
 Sydney Mosley of Wayne won the long jump, senior Lori Erwin of Allen finished second in both the 800 and mile and Laurel freshman Paula Chase was third in the 440. Wayne's mile relay team of Jane Edmunds, Stephanie Dorcay, Peg Pinkelmann and Lesa Barclay finished sixth.
 Mosley's leap of 17-9/2 during the finals Friday of the Class B long jump was good enough to win her a first-place medal. Mosley already holds the best district mark with her distance of 18-8/2.
 Allen's premier distance runner, Erwin, ran a 2:24.9 half mile to land second, and was clocked in 5:44.2 to claim second in the mile.
 Laurel's Chase, who usually never finishes below first in the 440, had to settle for third with one of the best times, :59.6.
 In the mile relay, Wayne ran a 16:4.

Wildkittens Finish Third in Loop Softball

Third place in the eight-team Central States Interscholastic Conference women's softball tournament brought Wayne State's season to what coach G.J. Willoughby called a cheering close.
 Though the record finished at 12-14, the coach said she was pleased with the young team's conference rating — and the improvement over last year's 5-15 record.
 Fort Hays State won the tournament at Topeka, Kan., Sat., May 7, downing Pittsburg in the finals after Pittsburg had edged Wayne, 6-4, in the third-place game.

 A freakish play in the first inning might well have cost the game. A hard hit ball sent Wayne outfielder Connie Kunzmann racing, and while plunging for the ball, Kunzmann caught her spikes in the fence. Momentarily trapped, she could not get loose or reach the ball, and the second baseman had to make the play. With two Pitt players already on base, the mishap produced three runs. Pittsburg went on to win by two. In earlier games, Wayne first defeated Missouri Southern, 11-1, Friday, then downed Missouri Western by the same score Saturday morning. Karen Doeschott pitched a no-hitter in the latter while her teammates banded out a dozen hits.

 Fort Hays, Wayne's next foe took another step to the championship by whipping the Wildkittens, 8-1. Pitcher Janna Choitz gave up three hits and helped her own cause with a grand slam home run.
 Behind Wayne in the tournament standings were Washburn, Emporia, Missouri Western, Missouri Southern and Kearney — ranked in order of their departure from the double-elimination meet. Only the first three places were decided by competition.

 Kunzmann finished as Wayne's No. one hitter with a .493 average, also led with seven home runs and six triples, tied for first in RBI with Lori Mittelstadt at 23. Mittelstadt ranked second in batting among regulars at .390 and led in doubles, five.
 The team batted .292 compared with the .262 by opponents.

Winside Coach Resigns; Takes Post at Beemer

The head football and wrestling coach at Winside High School has resigned.
 Ron Peck, who has been at the helm for two years, handed in his resignation Thursday to school officials after he accepted the head football job at Beemer. Peck cited the split vote by the school board on his rehiring as a teacher as the main reason for quitting. "Harlan Brugger and Dennis Bowers (board members) voted against renewing my contract. When there's dissatisfaction like that, it's time to get out," Peck said.
 After two years, Peck's football teams finished with a 11-7 record.
 In addition to the head football job, Peck also will coach track and teach elementary physical education. Peck and his wife, who teaches high school English and speech at Beemer, have three youngsters, Ronda, 10; Nancy, 6; and Ted, 5.

Thought for Today
 By Rowan Wiltse
 "Thinking well is wise; planning well is wiser; doing well is wisest and best of all."
 Persian Proverb

Thinking well is a logical first step but it alone is not enough. Most of us have good intentions. We mean to get around to all those things that really should be done and we resolve to do them, "someday."
 Nothing is accomplished without planning. We must plan just what and how we will do well. The pay-off is when we actually do well, wisely making the thinking and planning pay off for us.
 Arrangements made well in advance of need means that the bereaved family will not be required to make painful decisions. Also, your wishes are sure to be carried out. Can we give you more information without obligation?

Scrambling Back to First

A PICK-OFF attempt of Wayne's Aaron Nissen missed its target as the center fielder dashes back to the bag to escape the tagout by Bancroft first baseman Tom Lutfien during early action of the Class B playoff Monday at the city ball park. Bancroft went on to win, 5-3, to earn a ticket to the state tournament next week.

Bases-Loaded Walk in 10th Lifts Kearney

Gloom descended suddenly on the Wayne State dugout Saturday afternoon. A moment before, Kearney State had, on a walk, defeated Wayne, 7-6, in the tenth inning of the Nebraska NAIA championship game, played here.

But amid the sorrow, two coaches had consoling words. Kearney coach Guy Murray was among the first to visit the Wayne dugout, heading straight for pitcher Roger Saul with compliments on a fine pitching effort and the comment, "I know how you feel."

And Wayne coach Larry Schultz added, "I am proud of you. This was a well-played game." And especially to Saul he said, "It was your best game of the year."

It had been the second 10-inning marathon with Kearney in the playoff and the second one-run. Friday, the Antelopes overcame a 10-4 deficit to win 12-11.

As a result, Kearney mastered the Wildcats in the district finale for the third straight year, thus qualified for the NAIA Area 3 playoff starting today (Thursday) at Hutchinson, Kan. The Antelopes are matched against 48-5 Southeastern Oklahoma in the first round while 43-9 Emporia State of Kansas goes against the Dakota district champion.

Kearney takes a 17-19 record into the area tourney. Had Wayne won the Nebraska playoff, it too would have carried a losing mark, 18-30, to Hutchinson.

Records like that are uncommon for Nebraska college baseball leaders. In most past years the champions and usually several other contenders have sported strong season marks.

For the Wildcats the lopsided won-lost statistics can be laid heavily to the quality of many opponents — 13 of their games against Big 8 teams, plus several others that coach Schultz rates as equal to or better than the Big 8 foes Wayne faced.

The Nebraska playoff finale brought baseball back to the type of game purists like to watch — quite in contrast to four of the previous five games. They featured astronomical scores and statistics that must set some kind of record.

Wayne wasted no time blitzing Kearney in the top of the first inning Saturday when cleanup batter Steve Russell lashed a grand slam.

In reply, Kearney's leadoff batter Dave Pratt belted the first pitch for a home run in the bottom of the first. Second batter Steve Sponberg walked, then scored on a double by cleanup hitter Bill Becker.

The Cats scored again in the third after Mike Soderberg tripled and Russell doubled him home. They did not cross the plate again until the seventh when a Soderberg single scored Lyle Smith with a tying run, 6-6. See BASES, page 10.

Lidie, Bradix Give Wildcats Strong Showing

A second place by the doubles team of Mike Lidie and Shari Bradix provided Wayne State's highest placing in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference tennis tournament May 6 and 7 at St. Joseph, Mo.

Wildcat netters settled into fifth among seven teams competing Emporia State and Missouri Western tied for the title with 41 points each. Kearney posted 38, Fort Hays 23, Wayne 15. Two others, Pittsburg and Missouri Southern, did not score.

Lidie and Bradix won their first round by 7-6, 6-1, defeating the Missouri Western duo of Steve Latos and Dave Sego. Next they beat the Washburn pair of Yancy and Nusbaum, 7-6, 6-3 then lost to Crow-Houghland of Emporia, 5-7, 4-6, in the finals.

Another Wayne doubles team, Ron Thompson and Craig Buford, placed fourth after winning their first round over a Fort Hays team, then losing to pairs from Emporia and Western.

Rick Fritz, in fourth flight singles, placed fourth with a win and two losses, the last one to Jeff Wragge of Kearney.

Pat Denmehy, in sixth flight, also took fourth on a win and two losses, the later to John Forester of Fort Hays.

In dual meets, Wayne netters posted a 13-6 record — the most wins ever in a season. The team included one woman, Shari Bradix, who played regularly, nearly always against men, and two others who played occasionally.

Hasenkamp, Russell Land NAIA Honors

Don Hasenkamp of Scribner and Steve Russell of Omaha represent Wayne State College on the Nebraska NAIA District baseball all-star team for 1977, announced Tuesday by coaches.

Hasenkamp, senior shortstop, made his third appearance on the honor squad following his selection last year as an NAIA All-American honorable mention. He finished his campaign with a .283 batting average. Although this ranked fourth on the team, coach Larry Schultz credited Hasenkamp for repeatedly getting the clutch hit.

Russell, a senior, made the all-star team as designated hitter, with a batting average of .287. Besides that role, he also played first base or pitched, and when pitching he usually did his own batting. Russell led the Wildcats in home runs, 10, and in runs batted in, 37.

Three other Wayne players earned district honorable mention: Steve Kleinsmith, Woodbine, Ia.; Brian Poldberg, Carter Lake, Ia.; and Dewey Edgar, Omaha.

Kleinsmith, junior outfielder, topped Wayne in batting at .329. Poldberg, sophomore who alternated between first and third base, ranked second in hitting at .318, up a bit from the .314 which led Wayne last year.

Edgar, sophomore from Millard High School, led Wayne pitching with a 3.32 earned run average.

Also named to the district all-stars were outfielder Dave Pratt of Kearney for the fourth year; outfielder Ed Spicer and catcher Dan Hult, both of Dana, for the second year.

Hoskins Woman Wins $25 Prize

A Hoskins woman, Mrs. Henry Langenberg, won the $25 consolation award in the Birthday Bucks contest last week.
 Mrs. Langenberg was present in Swan-McLean Clothing, won the prize when it was discovered that her birth date was the closest to the date announced at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.
 Mrs. Langenberg was born on Aug. 8, 1924; the winning date was July 16, 1924.
 Had those two dates matched, she would have won $750 — the top prize which hasn't been claimed in a long while. As a result of no one winning the top prize, the $750 remains up for grabs tonight (Thursday).
 It's easy to be a winner. Just be present in a participating store when the date is called. No registration or purchases are necessary to be a winner.
 Drawing the winning date last week was Joe Nuss of Ben Franklin Store.

SPOTLIGHT ON WEEDS

BY DON C. SPITZ

Description — Canada thistle is a perennial, reproducing by underground rootstocks and seed. The plant has somewhat fleshy underground rootstocks, which send up new shoots every eight to twelve inches. In the fall, the plant produces a rosette of basal leaves that are three to six inches long and have wavy spiny margins. In the spring, a flowering stalk two to four feet high is produced. The plant does not produce seed in all the heads. The seeds are smooth, light to dark brown color, oblong, slightly flattened and slightly curved.

Control — In pasture or waste areas, use one quart 2,4-D plus one pint Banvel in fall rosette stage or early bud stage. In the spring, if Canada thistle is treated in corn fields use one-half pint 2,4-D ester plus one-half pint Banvel per acre. Avoid tillage five weeks before and one week after application. Plan to treat for several consecutive years.

Special remarks — Fall developing rosettes of Canada thistle can be treated in the fall after harvest of crops like soybeans and silage corn.

Refeeding Is Safe, Can Be Economical

Feeding livestock and poultry manure to beef cattle is safe, both from an animal and human health standpoint, and may provide economic advantages to cattlemen while extending the nation's food supply, according to Dr. Paul Guver, extension livestock specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

But he said manure refeeding requires more careful management than conventional grain feeding programs for such benefits to be realized.

The advantages of refeeding waste were detailed by a panel of national experts recently in Ada, Okla., during a seminar on feedlot manure recycling sponsored by the U.S. Cooperative Extension Service and Experiment Station committees of the 10 Great Plains states, including Nebraska.

Waste refeeding must be justified economically by its nutritional contribution to animal rations, the experts said, and may be limited by its variability in composition, high moisture content and rapid nutrient loss.

Ten years of research on manure refeeding at Auburn University of Auburn, Ala., indicates that mixing manure with other feed ingredients and ensiling it is the most feasible refeeding method, Guver said. He said consumer taste panels consistently have shown the flavor of manure-fed beef to equal or exceed that of grain-fed animals.

Guver said ensiling manure protects it from parasites, eliminates pathogenic organisms and preserves the nutrient content through acids produced in the fermentation process. Fattening cattle rations can contain as much as 40 per cent ensiled manure without decreasing animal performance, he added.

Manure scraped from an open, dirt surfaced feedlot in the Southwest is much lower in value, according to Dr. Robert Albin, animal science professor at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Tex. His research indicates that five per cent is the maximum level at which feedlot manure can be substituted in a fattening cattle ration without decreasing performance.

Two weeks. With conventional manure collection and handling procedures, you're lucky to recover 50 per cent of the total nitrogen. Confinement housing for beef cattle can save a lot of volatilization and leaching losses by allowing frequent collection. "Only about half the manure can be utilized for refeeding to the same number of animals, he advised.

Pathogen transmission to animals is not a problem in refeeding, according to Joe Fontenot, professor of animal science at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Va., who has researched the topic for nearly 10 years. "No instances have occurred in the United States where refeeding raw or processed manure led to animal disease problems," he said. "While it is impractical to completely sterilize wastes, nearly all pathogens are killed by fermentation in a silo."

"Drying manure for refeeding currently is not economical with high energy costs — ensiling may be the best processing approach, followed by chemical treatment with preservatives," said Dr. Gene Masters, Agri-Consultants Inc., official from Athens, Ga.

He stressed that waste refeeding requires better management and greater technical competence than standard feeding programs. "A poor manager can lose more money with refeeding than a superior manager can save," said Masters.

Feeding caged layer manure to steers at 12 per cent of the diet gave increased levels of copper in liver tissue and iron in kidneys, but cadmium levels decreased or remained the same in tissue, according to C.C. Calvert, Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Fly Controls Are Recommended

The control of face and horn flies in cattle was the subject of a report given by University of Nebraska-Lincoln researchers, D.L. Boxler, J.I. Sugar and J.B. Campbell, of work conducted at the University's North Platte Station.

In a presentation before the Central States Entomological Society meeting the scientists compared forced use dust and gel bags applying various insecticides.

Self-treatment dust bags and others can, especially under forced-use conditions, provide excellent control of horn flies. However, they do not provide adequate control of the face fly nor does any other method of control currently known.

The face fly is more difficult to control than the horn fly because it spends little time on the animal while the horn fly is on the animal almost continuously. The face fly also concentrates on the face of the animal which is difficult to treat, whereas the horn fly spends much of its time on the back of the animal.

Face flies are attracted to difficult-to-treat calves while horn flies are not unless the cows have extreme infestations.

Another important difference is that horn flies have an economic level of infestation below which it is not profitable to treat, whereas it would be desirable to eliminate the face fly completely because of its role in transmitting pinkeye.

Because of these differences in the two parasites, Nebraska researchers are concentrating on improving methods for the control of the face fly and since the horn fly is an accompanying pest they are also checking their methods against it.

In preliminary trials conducted in 1974, the scientists found that the slow-release gel formulation of 0.1 per cent dichlorvos + 3.0 per cent stirophos provided about 52 per cent better face and horn fly control than the standard caumaphos dust bags. However in more extensive trials in 1975 and 1976, it was determined that this method failed at temperatures under 60 degrees F. (16 degrees C) apparently because the gel did not release the chemical or perhaps because the chemical was not active. Above 90 degrees F. (32 degrees C.) the gel liquefied and the chemical broke down before getting on the animal.

Despite the shortcomings in these results, the scientists concluded that the method can eventually work if chemists can formulate a gel that will perform well over a wide temperature range.

May 1 Feed Cattle Report
Nebraska cattle feeders had 1,380,000 cattle on feed on May 1, up five per cent from 1976 and up 45 per cent from the level of 1975. However, the current inventory is seven per cent below the record set in 1973.

Marketing of fed cattle during April by Nebraska feeders totaled 320,000. This is an increase of 19 per cent from last year and 16 per cent from two years ago. Placements of cattle into feedlots during April totaled 300,000, down 20 per cent from a year ago but up nine per cent from 1975.

Cattle in Seven States Down
Cattle and calves on feed May 1 for slaughter market in the seven states preparing monthly estimates totaled 7,196,000 head, down four per cent from a year ago but 29 per cent more than May 1, 1975. The number on feed May 1 was below a year ago in six of the seven states.

April placements of cattle and calves on feed in the States totaled 1,658,000, the highest in six years of record, two per cent more than April last year and 20 per cent greater than April 1975. Placements were above last year in five of the seven states.

Fed cattle marketed during April totaled 1,564,000 up three per cent from 1976 and 23 per cent larger than April 1975. Marketings were equal to or exceeded a year ago in four of the seven states.

Other disappearance totaled 178,000, compared with 121,000 in April last year. Movement out of feedlots to early pasture was heavier than usual for the month of April.

This and That... from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Don't be in a hurry to cut down evergreens which turned brown this past winter — give them until the last part of May at least to see if they will come out of it.

The browned evergreens could recover to some degree. The foliage could stay brown, but the buds may be alive. The buds are the part of the tree which put out this year's new growth and green foliage.

Reason for the browning comes from insufficient moisture caused in part by drought conditions.

If the trees have not budded out or if new growth is not noticed by late May, removal and replanting may be necessary. If these trees are in a shelterbelt, let them stand even if they are dead. They will provide some wintertime wind-break effects for a few years. But plant with replacements as soon as possible.

Six Rules for Making Haylage
Here are six rules in harvesting and storing alfalfa for top quality haylage.
—Haylage should be harvested at the bud stage. Alfalfa harvested at this stage is higher in protein content, more digestible, eaten in larger quantities by livestock and results in higher milk production and growth rates than more mature forage.
—Fine chopping is important for keeping out air. The air needs to be kept out to prevent mold growth and excessive heating.

—Even distribution is very important. Spoilage and excessive heating results when light materials fall next to the silo wall.
—Rapid filling —Continuous filling. If the process of filling is delayed over several days the upper layers from each filling will be noticeably different in quality.
—Use a top seal of wet forage. The top seal should be covered with a "silage cap" or sheet of plastic film.

Garden Fertilizer
Nitrogen may leach out of the soil as you water your garden. An application of nitrogen fertilizer beside the row of growing plants can be applied when corn is 12 to 18 inches high, after fruits are set on tomatoes and when plants lack a healthy green appearance.

Side dressing isn't a cure-all for vegetable plant problems and you can overfertilize your garden. Do not use more than one pound of ammonium nitrate per 100 feet of row.
Do not exceed these rates or you may over-stimulate plant growth. Apply the fertilizer beside the row and water the fertilizer in, if possible.
Use nitrogen fertilizer sparingly in the garden and have a soil test to determine other fertilizer needs.

Cutworms Now Emerging

Surveys by extension entomologist John Witkowski, indicate newly emerging corn is being bothered by cutworms in many areas of northeast Nebraska.

The two predominant species are the sandhills cutworm in the sandier soils of Antelope, Pierce and Knox counties and the black cutworm in those areas with heavier soils.
Witkowski advises that the cutworms will appear in spots in corn fields during the next few weeks. As the corn emerges, watch for cut, wilting or missing plants, he said.

When the cutworms are small (less than one-half inch long), they feed primarily on the leaves of whorls. When the worms are larger and almost full-grown they assume the cutting habit and are capable of cutting off several plants.

Treatment is justified when five per cent or more of the plants show cutworm feeding injury and the worm is less than one inch long. Fields having a history of cutworm should be scouted every other day.
Sevin, Dylox, Toxaphene and Diazinon are the recommended insecticides for soil cutworms and should be used at the maximum label rate per acre. Toxaphene is not recommended for use on dairy farms. Application should be in the 7- to 10-inch band over the rows and enough water should be used to insure good coverage. There are conflicting field reports on the value of incorporation following application.
For additional information, contact your County Agent or the Northeast Station.

State Forests Could Disappear

If the present drastic changes in land use in Nebraska continue, forests may be a thing of the past, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Forestry inventory and utilization specialist.

Mark Shasby says "losses in some counties along the Missouri River have been in excess of 40 per cent. These losses have occurred over a 22-year period since 1955.

Nebraska, founder of the annual Arbor Day observance and once nicknamed "the tree planting state" may soon be referred to as "the tree removal state," Shasby commented.

The Department of Forestry at UN-L has just completed the first part of its survey which involves identifying the forested land in the state from aerial photographs. The survey shows a total of 840,000 acres of commercial forest land based on the date of the photography. The second part of the survey will involve going into the field and examining wooded areas. This will bring the estimate up to a 1977 figure.

"Most photography is four to five years old and losses over the period have been averaging an additional 10 per cent for the counties we have completed," Shasby said.

"The final projection is that close to 33 per cent of the land forested in 1955 (the date of the last survey) had undergone change to some other use, primarily agriculture."

The Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist expressed concern over those losses in that the state is losing valuable and uniquely renewable resources. "Forested land under proper management, which our department (Department of Forestry) offers as a service to the citizens, can be a valuable asset to landholders. In addition to the dollar value which can be given to trees for their value as forest products, they are almost invaluable in their ability to serve as soil stabilizers, wildlife habitat, and to add to the scenery of the state," he said.

Shasby says the tree situation in Nebraska is bad, but could get worse. "It takes a chain saw five minutes and a bulldozer less to undo 50 years of nature's work. "Wooded land can be something much more than a seemingly unproductive piece of property."

The UN-L specialist noted that many forest management practices can be federally cost-shared if the owner desires. Something Nebraska lacks, he said, is legislation granting reduced tax rates to forested land. "This can be a strong incentive for owners and has worked well where the guidelines have been followed."

Shasby hopes that citizens will be concerned with the losses. "Before you clear your next piece of land we ask that you give us a chance. Contact your local district Extension forester and ask for advice."

Disability Means Total Impairment

Many people who apply for social security disability benefits are just not disabled under the law, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.
Social security pays monthly disability benefits to eligible workers and their families if the worker meets both the disability requirement and the work requirement. About two-thirds of the social security disability claims that were denied last year were turned down because people didn't meet the disability requirement, Branch said.
"Under the social security law," he said, "you are considered disabled only if you have a physical or mental impairment that prevents you from doing any substantial gainful work and it is expected to last, or has lasted, for at least 12 months — or is expected to result in death."

"If your impairment prevents you from doing your regular work," Branch said, "your age, education and work experience may be considered in deciding whether or not you can do any other sort of work. But — if you won't do your regular-work-but can do other substantial gainful work, you generally won't be considered disabled under the social security law is made by doctors and other disability experts in Nebraska. Disability Determinations Unit in Lincoln, Branch said.
To meet the work requirement for disability payments, most workers need at last five years of work covered by social security in the 10 years before their disability began. For workers disabled before age 31, the requirement ranges down to one and one-half years of covered work, depending on age.

Severely disabled people who haven't worked long enough under social security to be eligible for social security disability payments may be eligible for supplemental security income (SSI) payments. The SSI program, administered by social security, makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are disabled or blind or 65 or over.
"You can get more information about the social security disability program and the SSI program by calling or writing any social security office," Branch said.
The Norfolk social security office is at 1310 Norfolk Avenue. The phone number is 371-1595. The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.
Barbara Winter of the Norfolk office will be in Wayne Tuesday from 9 a.m. until noon at the Senior Citizens Center.
