Barbecue Will Add Spice To Wakefield Festivities

A new event added to this Fourth of July observance at Wakefield should mean a mighty fine eating for Independence Day celebrants. A barbecue will be served from 7 to 8 p.m. at the shelter in the city park. The price of the meal will be $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12. Softball beginning at 11 p.m. at the Charlie Brown Field in the park will kick off the day-long festival. Almost Anything contests will begin at the ball field at 3 p.m. Four teams will compete and prospective members are asked to contact Gary Bennerotte. A tug-of-war is also scheduled with preliminary rounds starting at 6 p.m. Competitors 14 and over will be entered in a junior division with other contestants ranked as seniors. Junior division teams will have a 700 pound maximum weight and $5 entry fee. Senior teams can weigh in at up to 1,200 and will pay a $10 entry fee. Junior division winners will receive entry fees plus $25. Senior division winners will receive entry fees plus $50.

Each division is limited to eight teams. Weigh-ins will be at the Chuck Wagon. Tug-of-war finals will follow an American Legion baseball game which will begin at 7:30 p.m. A fire works display will follow the tug-of-war at the ball field. Admission for the day's activities will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Local Students To Attend KSC Music Camp

Scott Havener, Jay Hummel, Mark Shuffelt and Don Straight all of Wayne will be attending the annual high school music camp at Kearney State College August 1-5. The musical activities for the week will center around the concert band, concert choir, stage band, swing choir and piano. A full schedule of recreational activities is also planned, which includes swimming in the indoor pool at Cushing Coliseum. Members of the camp faculty are Ronald Crocker, KSC band director and percussion specialist; William Lynn, vocal specialist and director of the College Choraleers and Nebraskans; James Payne, brass specialist and director of the Jazz-Rock Ensemble; Nancy Whitman, instructor of piano and music theory; and Gary Thomas, instructor of woodwinds. The total cost for tuition and board is $50.

Committee Closes

The Wayne Bicentennial committee has officially closed out its books, donating $240 to the Wayne County historical society.

Out '200' Account

The money was the balance remaining in the committee's "200" account after meeting all obligations. Much of the money was provided by the sale of Wayne county Bicentennial souvenir plates and Bicentennial trays. The remaining plates have also been donated to the Historical Society, according to Bicentennial committee chairman Roberta Wolfe. The plates and Bicentennial trays will be available for purchase at the county historical museum in Wayne.

Weed Control

Weed control research that gives practical answers will be on display at a twilight tour scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Thursday said agronomist Russell Moomaw. The tour will be held at the Northeast Station near Concord. One example of this practical research, observes Moomaw, are experiments designed to answer the question: "Does 2,4-D injure corn? Corn variety tolerance to 2,4-D, and application dates of 2,4-D, are under study.

Tour Scheduled

Another experiment may begin to answer the question concerning planting soybeans directly into oat stubble. Selections and timing of herbicide applications will be discussed as well as herbicide costs in such a no-tillage system, Moomaw said. Warm season grasses usually take two or three years to become productive under presently used management systems, he added. By use of herbicides, warm season grasses may become established the first year. Grass species tolerance to herbicides is part of this study. Follow-up the tour, a lunch will be served courtesy of Chemagro Corp., Monsanto Corp., and American Cyanamid Co., Moomaw said.

Wisner Artist's Painting Is Latest Conn Addition

The Elkhorn River near Wisner could have been the artist's inspiration for "Along the Creek," a painting newly acquired by the Wayne State College U.S. Conn Library. The artist, Don Prawit, spent his boyhood summers on a farm in the Elkhorn Valley west of Wisner. Cottonwood groves, sloughs, and river scenes made a lasting impression on the artist, who today renders many of his landscapes from memory. "Along the Creek" is the fifth addition to the Yale K. Kessler Art Collection honoring the former director of the U.S. Conn Library. The library began the collection in 1972 with the purchase of "Trail's End at Scottsbluff," an oil painting by George J. Hautzinger of Omaha. Native Nebraskans must be the artists for the Kessler Collection. Other works include "Hideaway Range," an oil painting by Lawrence C. Faudel of Oakland, purchased in 1973. "Toys in the Attic," oil by Hortense H. Hagen of Norfolk, also purchased in 1973; and "The Wheelwrights," watercolor by Ralph Hawkins of Hebron, purchased in 1974. Rich and earthy colors daubed on canvas produced the series of trees by the creek in Prawit's "Along the Creek." The native Nebraska artist, who was born in Omaha, in 1904, attended Central High School and the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. He also recently attended the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Art instructors for Prawit have included Hettie Marie Andrews, Tom Palmerton, and Oscar Sorman. Since retiring from business in 1973, Prawit has intensified his art studies. Along with memory paintings, he also drives throughout the state for inspiration for other paintings. The painting "Along the Creek" was acquired through the Joslyn Museum in Omaha. It is on display in the U.S. Conn Library.

Luncheon Ticket Total at 450

Wayne Chamber of Commerce manager Howard Witt said Friday that over 450 tickets have been sent to area farm wives who have expressed interest in attending the Farm Ladies Appreciation Luncheon Thursday. The chamber-sponsored event begins at 12:30 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Union. The free luncheon is being held to stress the importance of farm women in the area's economy. Co-chairmen for this year's event are Mrs. Darrell Moore and Mrs. Glen Ellingson. Several other Wayne area women are working with the chairmen to prepare for the luncheon. An Outstanding Farm Woman will be named during the afternoon program. Selection will be made from a list of nominees sent in during the past month from area individuals and organizations. The program schedule also includes speakers on water use and the metric system, and a presentation by local iris grower and hybridizer Roger Nelson. Glen Ellingson will serve as master of ceremonies. There will be group singing, led by Sheryl Kopperud and Jana Rutledge. In past years, the luncheon saluting farm women has proven to be a success with over 500 persons attending. The first luncheon was held in 1974 and again in 1975. Last year's luncheon was canceled because of conflicts with Bicentennial activities.

Jaycees Plan

Fireworks Show

The Wayne County Jaycees will be sponsoring their annual Fourth of July fireworks display again this year at the Wayne City baseball park. The fireworks display will begin at dusk and area residents are invited to find seating in the park to observe ground as well as aerial pyrotechnic displays. The fireworks are provided through the Jaycees and donations from the City of Wayne and Wayne businessmen.

Early Morning Mishap

ROBERT BLADT of Wayne was taken to Providence Medical Center in Wayne when his car struck this tree adjacent to the golf course at about 1:50 Friday morning. According to the investigation officer, Bladt was northbound from Wayne on Highway 15 when his car left the road. No skid marks were found at the site of the crash. Bladt suffered a fractured right forearm and laceration in the mishap, according to hospital officials. His condition Friday night was listed as stable and he was being held for further observation.

OAS Ambassador Is Wayne State Graduate

The appointment this year of Nebraska native Gale McGee as ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS) gives Nebraska a respectable spot on the map, but McGee and two more appointed ambassadors from Nebraska have not only brought honor to Nebraska, but the Northeast Nebraska region and Wayne State College as well. A bit of research shows that McGee and Val Peterson hail from the Northeast Nebraska region and both are graduates of Wayne State College. The late Francis P. Matthews was also from northeast Nebraska. McGee, who graduated from Norfolk High School, received his bachelor's degree at WSC as did Peterson, of Wayne. Matthews, who died in 1952, was a resident of Albion and a graduate of Creighton in Omaha. President Harry Truman appointed Matthews to his position as ambassador to Ireland after he served as Secretary of the Navy. The late President Dwight Eisenhower placed Peterson in the ambassador to Denmark position, while Nixon appointed him ambassador to Finland. Now, under the leadership of Jimmie Carter, McGee has been appointed ambassador to the OAS, an organization of U.S. and Latin American countries. The backgrounds of the three Nebraska ambassadors show extensive educational, professional and political experience prior to their ambassador appointments. After serving as a history instructor at the University of Wyoming, McGee ran for the U.S. Senate, serving for 18 years. A 1936 graduate of WSC, he was extremely involved in campus affairs. After graduation he taught at Crofton and Kearney High Schools, earned a masters degree at the University of Colorado, taught at Nebraska Wesleyan, Iowa State College, Notre Dame, and earned his doctorate at the University of Chicago before his move to Wyoming and career in politics. Matthews, who lived most of his life in Nebraska, was a leading Omaha lawyer and corporation executive. He was active in the state Democratic organization, USO, the Knights of Columbus, and Catholic organizations. He was president of the WOW radio station and served as an officer for several Omaha corporations. Peterson, who likes to say that he has taught everything from fourth grade through the university level, also published and edited a newspaper, the Elgin Review, before entering politics. His political interest sparked after serving as campaign manager OAS, page 10

Two Win SBA Awards

Two business administration students at Wayne State College have been recognized as district winners of the U.S. Small Business Administration's Nebraska District Small Business Institute Team of the Year. The student team members are Howard Peters of Wayne and Terry Thorn, formerly of Omaha and now of Seattle, Wash. The awards are presented by Dr. Neil Swanson, head of the WSC Business Division and coordinator of the college's Small Business Institute. Dr. Swanson received an award for his services, presented by Dr. William Randall, Omaha, SBA's Small Business Institute coordinator. The Small Business Institute is a program which provides opportunity for college senior and graduate students in business to serve as counselors to a business firm, under guidance of a faculty adviser. The SBA assigns student teams to businesses, usually borrowers, that request assistance. The students work on specific problems. Dr. Randall said, "The cases selected representing the work of the Wayne State College team compose an excellent example of student teamwork — and close working relationships with owners of the business, as evidenced by the positive results of a better-managed, more profitable business." See SBA, page 10

Demonstration Winners Selected

The Wayne city auditorium are Anne Liska, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J.J. Liska of Wayne; Karla Otte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Otte of Wayne, and Michelle Kubik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kubik of rural Wayne. Miss Kubik was awarded a purple ribbon for her demonstration entitled "Those Crazy Crepes" in the foods category. Also earning a purple ribbon was Miss Otte in the home environment category. Her demonstration was entitled "Do It With Yarn." Miss Liska received a blue ribbon for her demonstration "Husker Chops" in the foods division. Other demonstrations and ribbon placings were: purple ribbon, Karen and Anita Sandahl, team demonstration, "Royal Scrambled Eggs," and blue ribbons, Susan Burmester, Sherill Burmester, Shelly Emry, and Shelly Janke.

Enrollment Rising For Music Camp

The number of students enrolled in the Wayne State College Summer Music Camp set for July 24-31 is greater than last year, according to Cornell Runestad, head of the college fine arts division. Runestad, who will serve as an instructor for the Music Camp, said 130 registrations have been received compared with last year's 112 figure at this time. Along with Runestad, other instructors for the 33rd annual event will be Dr. Raymond Kellton, WSC professor of music and Dr. James O'Leary, associate professor music at WSC. Out-of-town instructors will be Don Schumacher, music instructor at Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk; John Hepfinger, Omaha Northwest music director; Myron Armour, Sloan, Iowa, high school music instructor; and Richard Palmer, music instructor at Ankeny, Iowa high school.

Herald to Observe Independence Day

The Wayne Herald will not publish its regular Monday issue for July 4 in observance of the Independence Day holiday. Anyone wishing to submit news or advertising copy is asked to keep the publication schedule in mind in order to insure timely release.

Region IV Board Oks Building Lease

The governing board of the Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities Friday morning approved a leasing arrangement for a new building to house a children's development center (CDC) in Wayne, although the monthly rent will be higher than originally proposed. Contractor John Vakoc said the increase in rent from $900 to $995 a month is necessary because modifications in the original plans required by the State Fire Marshal, and the hospital and medical facilities section and the division of housing and environmental health of the State Health Department. Included are steel door jams in lieu of wood, fire rated doors in lieu of hollow-core models, smoke doors and partitions, emergency standby lighting, pneumatic door closures, panic devices (opening bars) on doors, ionization type smoke detectors, a direct fire alarm link with the city fire department, a triple-well kitchen sink rather than a double-well model, a hand wash basin in the kitchen, water tempering provisions, and a double door entrance. Those additions to the original plan will increase construction costs by $6,575, Vakoc estimated. The contractor said the Wayne Church of Christ has agreed to sell one acre of land on east Highway 35 within the Wayne city limits, at a cost of $10,000. He added that the purchase agreement hasn't been completed but attorneys are ironing out legal technicalities and he hopes to sign the agreement in the next few days. Other items required which weren't included in the original estimate are installation of 1,000 feet of sewer line, a sewage pumping station, and 650 yards of compacted fill material. Vakoc said those items will not increase the lease price. The modified plans have been certified by an engineer and have been approved by the Fire Marshal and Health Department offices, Vakoc said. The 50- by 80-foot steel building will include a kitchen, six bedrooms, three classrooms, an activity area, a dining area, offices, and will be heated and cooled by heat pumps. In addition to the $995 monthly rent, the Region IV agency will also pay property taxes and some maintenance costs. Region IV director Mary Ann Brendan estimated total cost of using the new building will be about $1,100 a month. Vakoc said construction will begin within 30 days with a minimum of four months required for construction. The CDC, which includes a day training program and a residential program for mentally retarded children, was originally housed in Pile Hall on the Wayne State College campus. The building is being remodeled into student apartments and the center has now been moved into Terrace Hall. It will be necessary to vacate that building in the fall, but WSC officials have agreed to provide space in Morey Hall, hopefully until the new building is ready for occupancy. Pile Hall was leased to the 22-county region IV agency for $500 a month and the increased cost under the new leasing arrangement will mean higher costs for school districts contracting for services. Governing board members were concerned about the rising cost of services and questioned the advisability of approving the leasing arrangement before finally voting on the issue.

Downtown Improvement Bid Opening Is Tuesday

Downtown businessmen will have an opportunity Tuesday night to find out just what the proposed downtown improvement project will cost, when the city council opens bids for the improvement. Items included in the bid specification are 13-foot sidewalk on Main St. and 10-foot sidewalk on side streets in the district, new curb and gutter, underground electric conduit, replacement of underground plumbing, and alternate items such as sidewalk planter, tinted sidewalks, and benches. The engineer's estimated cost when specifications were approved was $238,000. The council will also open bids for an addition to the city fire hall. The fire hall bids will be opened at 8 o'clock followed by the improvement district bids at 8:15. In addition, the city engineering consultant at 8:45 will present recommendations for accepting bids for a compactor station, opened at the last council meeting. See IMPROVEMENT, page 10

Mixing Stored Grain Allowed

Farmers can now store their 1977 crop harvest in the same bin with prior years crops and still be eligible for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan on the 1977 crop according to Ralph Olson, ASC county committee chairman. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) recently changed its rules on commingling crops from different years because the need for grain storage has increased. Olson noted some steps farmers would have to take before storing harvests from different years together. First, the producer would have to request ASCS to measure the grain in the bin. The ASCS office will notify the producer in writing of the number of bushels or hundred-weights of old crop commodity in the bin. An authorization to commingle or store the 1977 commodity in the same bin would come with the notification. Grain from 1977 must be of the same class and of comparable quality as the old crop commodity.

Hoskins Man Dies in Accident

Gerrald Wittler, 37, of Hoskins was killed in an accident near West Point late Wednesday afternoon. The State Patrol at Norfolk said Wittler died in a head-on collision on a county road. Also killed in the accident was Charles Bernhardt, 16, of West Point, driver of the other vehicle involved.

End of the Line

A CREW from Chicago North Western Railroad removed several rails of the abandoned line in the eastern part of Wayne Friday. Work started several months ago to tear down the line running from Dakota City through Wayne after railroad officials won a court battle to dismantle the line.

OBSERVATIONS

Tiemann's appraisal is valid

Former Gov. Norbert Tiemann has aroused the wrath of state GOP leaders by predicting that Democrat Gov. J.J. Exon will be unbeatable in a bid for the senate next year.

Tiemann said the state Republican organization is in a shambles, and was criticized for being out of touch with the state party organization since his move to Washington.

That, perhaps, is true, but if our experience locally during the 1976 senatorial campaign is anything to judge by, there is a considerable amount of truth in Tiemann's appraisal of the Nebraska Republican organization. At the grass-roots level, in Wayne County at least, there was no comparison in the organization of the campaigns for now Sen. Ed Zorlinsky and former Rep. John Y. McCollister.

Zorlinsky's visits to Wayne were always well organized, with the press and public receiving plenty of advance notice of a well arranged schedule.

That wasn't always true with McCollister's visits. At times it was difficult to learn just when he would be where. It is understandable that it was more difficult to arrange a timetable for a candidate coming from Washington than one coming from Omaha, but the difference, we believe, was in the local party organization.

We admit our viewpoint is a limited one. We are talking about one county in the state and it probably should be expected that local Democrats would be well organized in the community where the state national committeemen lives. But if the '76 campaign in Wayne County is anything to judge by, Nebraska Republicans have much preparation to complete if they expect to make a decent showing next year. — Jim Strayer.

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

Saw a headline in a column in another paper which read "Is Gasahol Good?" and my immediate reaction was "Depends on what you mix it with." Sort of reminded me of the stories World War I vintage sailors tell about torpedo fuel.

Instant Replay

Well, maybe not exactly instant, but all the controversy over the compactor station in Wayne has seemed old hat to me. Albin went through similar growing pains when I was editor there and there was quite a bit of haggling before things got settled.

We started referring to the issue as "Garbagegate" at the office. When the fireworks started in Wayne over the transfer station, Albin News publisher John Ward and Albin city administrator Steve Lind called to make me an offer. They said they could send me back issues of the paper with all the names and dates scratched out, and I could just fill in the blanks.

Position the Same

Incidentally, I've been accused of "capitulating" by suggesting that the council should take a look at any final offers for a landfill before letting bids for the compactor station.

No way. I've never been totally opposed to the idea of a private landfill. I just want to know what it will cost to use it. My position is that, by asking for bids, and hopefully arranging for a contract to haul compacted garbage, the city should be able to come up with an accurate idea of what it will cost to run the transfer station.

The council asked for figures on a landfill, and couldn't get them. It appeared then that drawing specs on the station and asking for bids was the only alternative open to the council, which would provide some cost figures before a final decision is made.

The council decided to go that route, and because it apparently was the only alternative open which could result in accurate cost information before going into operation, I support the decision.

As I said last week, if anyone can come up with an alternative solution to the garbage disposal problem that will be cheaper than the transfer station, along with some type of binding assurance that it will stay that way, the proposal might be worth considering.

Stubborn, Me?

Larry Creighton got a bit more than he bargained for when he answered a wrecker call for Coryell Auto last week. You see, there was this idiot editor who should have known better than to be on a country road in the first place because it was raining. Getting stuck wasn't the bad part, though. But this guy is so stubborn he wouldn't call for help right away. Oh, no. He had to keep at it, trying to get himself out, not giving up until he was 50 yards down the road with the car cross-ways in the road and axle deep.

At least it killed an hour on a slow news day. He didn't get the picture, by the way.

Is 89 Good?

Not being a golfer, I never know what to make of the stories our office duffers tell. Bob Bartlett came in Monday thrilled over his weekend showing on the links, going so far as to suggest he might be needing a little time off for some tours.

Thursday morning, however, he didn't want to say much about his league play on Wednesday. I figured it was probably modest, but since I don't play the game, I'm not sure. Can someone tell me, is an 89 a really good score.

Give checkoff a chance

Wayne
Dear Editor:

Within the next few weeks cattlemen in this county and across the country will be voting on the beef referendum. There appears to be considerable controversy and speculation on what enactment of this checkoff will do to the beef industry.

Certainly we all have fears about use or misuse of possible funds generated. Safeguards, however, have been built into this law which should prevent many of those problems from occurring. Probably the most positive factor in governing the use of generated funds is that members of agricultural organizations such as Farm Bureau, Farmer's Union, NFO and Livestock Feeders elect the cattlemen who would in turn control these monies.

The idea of a checkoff is not new to agriculture. In the past other agriculturally oriented organizations, specifically milk, citrus and cotton producers have formed to promote their products. Most recently the egg industry started a checkoff and reports by producers in this area are encouraging. Most of these producers feel their money is being well spent in promoting the use of egg products in the food industry. Probably the most highly visible use of product promotion is shared by milk and citrus producers. Our impression of these advertisements is always favorable toward the product and we trust it generally is for others who have seen or heard them.

Certainly any businessman would tell us that money used for advertisement or promotion is well spent. Keeping the public informed of the value or availability of a product enhances its image and use. The problem with beef however is slightly different. Where we live plays a big part in our acceptance of red meat as a major part of our diet. In Nebraska as in other agricultural states, it is an accepted fact that meat is needed in our diet. There are people in the United States, especially in large urban areas, who do not know the nutritional value of red meat or that it is one of the lowest priced sources of high quality protein on the market today. Food faddists thrive on the misinformed urban population encouraging them to buy more expensive non-meat protein sources. Without financial help the beef industry has no effective way to inform the public of the danger of food faddism. Hopefully a better informed public will consume more beef resulting in higher market prices for the producer.

A "yes" vote in July will enable the checkoff to proceed. What better way to determine if our money is well spent than to give the checkoff a try. Speculation on whether the checkoff will work or not is just speculation. Only by enactment will we know if our efforts are fruitful. If we find our money is not well spent, then we can cancel the checkoff or if enacted and an individual producer does not wish to participate he can so indicate and have his money returned.

A "no" vote will cancel the checkoff. Congress has determined that his referendum is the last it will allow for any product checkoff. The chance to improve beef as a product will be lost. For most producers the money spent on the checkoff will be the least expensive gamble they will take when compared to the chances taken in farming today. The rewards could be increased beef consumption and more favorable market prices. — Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Krause.

Out of Old Nebraska

At 9 a.m. on Feb. 22, 1934, Sen. George W. Norris, white-haired and battle-scarred, arrived in Lincoln to launch the campaign for a one-house legislature in Nebraska. That afternoon, speaking to an overflow audience of 800 people at a downtown hotel, Norris said that with a non-partisan, one-house legislature "there would be a possibility of dishonest men getting into office. There would be a possibility of dishonest men who were in office deceiving the people. But these possibilities would be very much minimized. Nothing has ever been said that is truer than the saying that 'eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.' To get a good government and retain it, it is necessary that a liberty-loving, educated, intelligent people should be ever watchful to carefully guard and protect their rights and liberties.

Opposition from traditionalists and party loyalists was immediate. A Lincoln newspaper warned: "The change proposed is radical, not necessary, and would involve the state in a readjustment that would be disturbing. Changes in present practice may well be made, but the plan in use (the bicameral) comes down to us after ages of government experiments and experience as the most practical."

But in 1934, according to John B. Semming's "The One-House Legislature in Nebraska," the people were resentful and ready for something new, and no one was better qualified than Norris "to assume leadership and win whole hearted support in so far reaching a reform... because the people trusted his judgment and had implicit confidence in his integrity.

"The preliminary test of interest... was indicated in the number of signatures secured on the petitions for the initiative. The law required only 57,600 signers; the number secured was 95,000. The formal campaign did not begin until the second week in October. Within the short space of four weeks, Senator Norris visited all the important centers of the state where he addressed large audiences and by means of radio talks succeeded in reaching practically all the voters of the state. His arguments and those of other proponents of the amendment may be epitomized in the language of Senator Norris. "Why should the Legislature of Nebraska have two branches instead of one? The qualifications of members of both branches of our State Legislature are exactly the same. The official duties they are to perform are of exactly the same nature. Why should we then have two bodies instead of one, and burden our taxpayers with the necessarily increased expense, to attain the object that can be fully attained by one house instead of two?"

At the height of the bitterly fought campaign, Norris sent his personal check for $1,000 to help defray the mounting expenses. When the ballots were counted on Nov. 4, 1934, the total showed that 286,086 Nebraskans had voted in favor of a constitutional amendment providing for a one-house legislature and 191,152 had opposed it. Forty-three members of the first Unicameral assembled on Jan. 5, 1937, and Nebraska became the first and remains the only one of the 50 states to enter into such "a major political experiment."

There had been earlier attempts at legislative reform. Former state legislator Addison E. Sheldon, head of the Nebraska State Historical Society from 1917 until his death in 1943, was the original proponent of the Unicameral for Nebraska in 1913 and wrote a 48-page report in its favor. The report, adopted by the Legislative Committee on "Reform of Legislative Procedure and Budget in Nebraska," became the original basis for discussion of the single chamber.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Carroll Church Site of Hansen Wedding Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Hansen, who were married in June 18 evening rites at The Zion Congregational Church in Carroll, are making their first home on a farm near Wisner.

Mrs. Hansen, nee Mary Ellen Hansen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen of Randolph. She graduated from Randolph High School and Wayne State College and taught at the Sholes Elementary School.

The bridegroom attended Wayne High School and Wayne State College and is engaged in farming. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hansen of Wayne, formerly of Wisner.

The Rev. Gail Axen of Stanton officiated at the double ring ceremony and Nancy Truby of Randolph sang "The Wedding Song," "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Wedding Prayer." Pianist was Mrs. Dorothy Rees of Carroll.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a white gown of jersey polyester knit. Venise lace trim and sequins accented the bodice and short cap sleeves, and the floor-length skirt extended into a chapel-length train. Missouri Synod to Be Represented in Dallas

The Rev. Ronald Holling, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church at Wakefield, and Al Wittig, a member of Grace Lutheran Church at Wayne, will represent the parishes of this area at the 52nd convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod when it meets at the Dallas convention center, July 15-22.

The two will be among 1,100 voting delegates representing the Missouri Synod, the nation's second largest Lutheran body with 2.8 million members in 6,000 parishes.

The convention is due to take action on more than 250 resolutions. In addition, elections will be held for many positions, including those of president and first vice president of the Synod.

One of the most important issues facing the 130-year old LCMS at Dallas, according to director Rev. R.C. Greene, will deal with its continued fellowship with the American Lutheran Church. Pastor Greene said since the Missouri Synod declared altar and pulpit fellowship with the American Lutheran Church in 1969, a number of doctrinal disagreements have surfaced which are resulting in the convention proposal that the Synod declare itself "a state of fellowship in protest" with A.L.C. to allow study of the issues before the Missouri Synod would take further action at its 1979 St. Louis convention.

Delegates will also act on a new common hymnal which is being proposed for most North American Lutherans. It is expected that delegates will pass a measure that would keep the Synod participating in the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A., and will authorize new mission work in West Africa.

A sensitive issue in the church has to do with its relationship to the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, a new body formed by Missouri Synod dissidents at the end of a recent controversy over interpretation of the Bible. Many of the AELC dissidents have also retained their membership in the Missouri Synod. The convention is set to determine how long such dual memberships should be allowed to continue.

Other resolutions call for increased awareness of world hunger, housing concerns, stepped-up work among blacks, affirmation of the Synod's stand against abortion, and many other actions relating to the church's missions and ministry.

Theme for the 1977 LCMS convention is "That We May Grow," the title suggested for all programs of the Synod over the next two years.

Arrangements for the workshop were made by VISTA workers Pat Atorey and JoAnn Squire. Northern Nebraska Mental Health Center, and Anna Marie Krefels, area extension agent at the Northeast Station, near Concord, St. Anne's Altar Society served refreshments.

Though it might seem a bit early to be considering a waterfowl hunt, hunters desiring to hunt on the Platts-mouth Waterfowl Management Area or the Clear Creek Waterfowl Management Area during the 1977 season can make their first move starting Friday.

This is the date when the Game and Parks Commission will begin accepting applications for blinds or blind sites on two of its controlled shooting areas.

Hunters wanting a chance at waterfowl on the Platts-mouth Waterfowl Management Area may apply for a blind reservation beginning Friday. These applications will be accepted through Aug. 30.

A public drawing for blind reservations on the Platts-mouth Area will be conducted on Sept. 7. Successful applicants will be permitted to use a blind on the area for one day during the season.

Applications for the Platts-mouth Area may be obtained from the Lincoln Central office, or by writing to the Plattsmouth Waterfowl Management Area, P.O. Box 525, Platts-mouth, NE 68048.

Those who want to hunt waterfowl on the Clear Creek Area near Lake McConaughy may apply for a blind site also beginning Friday. Applications will be accepted only from Nebraska residents who are 16 years of age or older through Aug. 10.

A drawing for blind sites will be conducted on Aug. 19. Successful applicants will be permitted to construct a blind on a designated site, and may use the blind during the open waterfowl seasons, providing they adhere to area regulations.

Applications for the Clear Creek Waterfowl Management Area can be obtained at the Commissions Central office in Lincoln, district offices in Alliance or North Platte, and the Commissions Lake McConaughy headquarters building.

Several Area Boys Earn Awards

"It was a fine camp," coach Jim Seward declared of the Cats Cage Camp he directed last week. As proof, at the closing session Saturday he announced a grand total of 144 awards, and most of the 91 boys received at least one citation.

There were 27 kinds of awards, most of them honoring basketball skills and a few fun awards that provoked lusty cheers or gasps.

But the loudest cheers came when Seward announced recipients of what he called one of the major awards — Mr. Spirit, to Brian Hoffman of Norfolk and L.R. Beermann of Dakota City.

Eleven boys received another major honor, Most Valuable — Peery Larson and Tyron Larson, Verdigris; Bryan Reichmuth and Robb Alderson, Humphrey; Mike Peltzmeier, Salina, Kan.; Marlon Hennig, Rosalie; Bill Biondi, Granger, Ia.; Jon Swanson, Malmo; Eddie Stansberry, Walthill; Bill Thiele, Creighton, Russ Uning, Hartington.

Seven Wayne boys gained other honors:

Joel Mosley and Scott Wessel, Mr. Team; Scott Wessel, Most Improved; Kurt Fritz, Hardest Worker and Mr. Dunk; Mark Hummel, Mr. Intensity, and Paul Sutherland, Mr. Rebound. They were among several receiving each of these awards.

Two from Laurel got citations: Lon Swanson, Mr. Defense and Steve Stark, Most Improved.

Two Winside boys also received awards: Paul Roberts, Mr. Team, and Bill Gottberg, Hardest Worker.

Cats Cage Camp continued this week, with girls going through the same routine the boys followed last week. They do the same conditioning exercises, the same drills on fundamentals, and the same scrimmage games every evening after morning and afternoon sessions.

Assisting Seward this week are Rusty Parker, who also worked with the boys camps, and newcomers Jana Jones, Sloan, Ia.; Terry McMillen, Howells; Paul Stuart, O'Neill; Tom Sheppard, York and two WSC basketball varsity players, Connie Kunzmann and Julie Brinkman.

Wayne Snaps Losing Skein

After five straight losses, Wayne town team got back on the winning track Tuesday night by nipping visiting West Point, 7-6, in a non-league game at the city ball park.

Relief pitcher Earle Overin scored the winning run in the bottom of the ninth off a single by right fielder Ray Wagner with two out and two men on base.

As in most of the locals' games, Wayne (2-5) had to come from behind to post its second win of the season. West Point took the lead after three scoreless innings with a run in the fourth for a 1-0 count and another run in the sixth for a 2-1 score. Wayne countered with runs also in the fourth and sixth to knot the score before the winners unleashed a four-run attack in the seventh.

Left fielder Lyle Blevins scored Wayne's first run in the fourth on Steve Hix's base hit. In the sixth, Larry Raabe scored on a bases-loaded walk issued to center fielder Mike Creighton.

It was in the sixth, West Point turned to Kenny Wuestelwald to take over mound chores from starter Warren Orlmeier. Wuestelwald got into trouble in the next frame when he again loaded the sacks on a pair of walks and an error before he walked home Lyle Blevins. Dave Hix rapped a two-run double and catcher Mike Meyers later scored on Wagner's base hit, for a 6-2 count.

After scoring a single run in the seventh, West Point pushed across three runs in the eighth off a three-run homer by Rollie Ulrich for a 6-6 ball game.

Overin came in the last frame to retire the side.

Airport 'On-the-Map'

THE BUILDING behind airport manager Al Robinson is small but important, because it houses a non-directional radio beacon which will serve as a guide for pilots wishing to land at Wayne and gives the local air facility a legal instrument approach. The post supports a lead-in wire from the antenna to the radio equipment housing. The equipment was installed by the navigation aids division of the Nebraska Department of Aeronautics and will cost $50 a month. Robinson said the addition to airport services will qualify the Wayne air field for inclusion in a standard guide book used by pilots, "putting Wayne on the map" where general aviation is concerned. The equipment is in working order now but must receive a flight check from the Federal Aviation Authority and a license from the Federal Communications Commission before operation can begin.

The NRD Board That Is Sincerely Concerned About Proper Resources Development!

CONSERVATION AT WORK

By the use of small watershed projects and cooperative efforts of neighborhood groups, soil and water conservation problems can be solved.

This group watershed project was completed in December of 1976 and has been very beneficial during the intense spring rains. The project was initiated by the American Telephone and Telegraph company because of an exposed communication cable. This cable had been buried six feet below in the late 1960's. The severe erosion in the area threatened interruption of the communications cable.

The cable laid across the land owned by Lyle Marotz. Mr. Marotz was interested in healing the eroded gully on his farm, but this was dependent on the help of his neighbors. So a neighborhood group including Lyle Marotz, Harold Wittler, Donald Langenberg and Lane Marotz banded together to solve a community erosion problem. In this project area, there were two bridges that were deteriorated and unsafe for traffic.

Floyd Burt, the Wayne County commissioner, was contracted by the group to see if he would be interested in replacing the bridges with road dams. The cost of the dams were considerably less than the cost of replacing bridges so Mr. Burt agreed to cooperate with the group.

When the work plan for the watershed area was completed, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District agreed to give financial assistance. The ASCS also gave financial assistance under the ACP cost-share program. The remainder of the cost was shared by the county, AT&T and the participating farmers. The cost of the project was $57,000.

What was accomplished with this $57,000 watershed project? First, three unsafe bridges were replaced with road structures, one farm pond for livestock water and recreation, one water retarding structure, one mile of eroded gully shaped into a grass waterway. Secondly, an eighteen hundred acre watershed with complete conservation treatment which will improve the area and will protect downstream areas from flooding, gullying and siltation.

McLean Student Wins Scholarship

Only a month after receiving a $400 Ak-Sar-Ben Scholarship, Tod Voss of McLean has received $400 more — this time in the form of a special Riessen-Reed Scholarship.

Voss, a Wayne State College senior, was the first recipient of the Riessen-Reed Scholarship in 1974 when he graduated from Osmond High School. The scholarships are regularly given to Osmond graduates who will be freshmen at Wayne State College.

But this Riessen-Reed Scholarship is special — it's the first award given to a student in college, who has contributed both academically and through extracurricular activities.

Voss, a student in pre-medicine, carries a double major in chemistry and biology. Medical school is the next step after Voss graduates from WSC in 1978. He currently holds two leadership positions at WSC: president of Lambda Delta Lambda physical science honorary, and president of the Blue Key national honorary fraternity. He has also participated in intramural sports.

Outside of school activities, Voss is a member of the Masonic Lodge 207 in Randolph, and he is a licensed amateur radio operator.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Riessen of Evanston, Ill., (formerly of Osmond) donated funds for the scholarship. The Riessens and Mrs. Glaze Reed, wife of the late Glaze Reed, donate funds annually for the regular award.

Voss is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Voss of McLean.

The first baseball game between two organized teams according to World Book Encyclopedia, took place in Hoboken, N.J. on June 19, 1846 between the New York Nine and the Knickerbocker Baseball Club of New York. The New York Nine won 23-1.

Over 100 Attend Open House at Library

Nearly 100 people attended an open house at Graves Public Library in Wakefield on Sunday, June 19th. The open house was held to encourage people of the community to observe the improvements and recent remodeling of the basement, which included the installation of new carpeting, two new rest rooms and paneling on all walls. The stairway also was widened and new shelves were built for magazines and books.

The purpose of the remodeling not only was to improve the library, but also to provide a meeting room which is open to the public by appointment said librarian Ron Larson.

Over the past several months the library has received monetary contributions and various articles, many of which were given in appreciation for using the basement meeting room.

However, the money needed for the remodeling was derived largely from revenue sharing and state grants, Larson said. Future plans are to completely remodel the children's rooms.

Besides Larson, also on the library board are Mrs. Iris Larson, chairman; Miss Margaret Patterson, Mrs. Roberta Engstedt and Mrs. Lois Berns.

Other persons, who are not native to Nebraska, but have lived in Nebraska, were also appointed to ambassador positions by U.S. presidents.

The first woman to be appointed ambassador in America's history, Ruth Brian Owen Rohde, was appointed by Roosevelt as minister to Denmark. Mrs. Rohde, who lived in Lincoln at one time, served later as a congresswoman from Florida.

A graduate of UN-L, John Allison of Kansas served as a career ambassador to Japan. Charles Dawes, known best as a one-time vice president of the United States, was appointed as an ambassador to Great Britain. He came from the East to practice law in Nebraska.
