

Fair Book Schedule Includes Pickup Pull

One event has been added to this year's Wayne County fair roster, and another feature being dropped this year by many counties will be retained, according to Fair secretary Marilyn Koch.

The new event added to the four-day fair, July 28-31 is a pickup pull scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 30. A tractor pull is scheduled for that evening at 7:30 p.m.

Many counties are dropping swine exhibits this year because of the danger of pseudorabies, but Koch said the Wayne County Fair board has decided to go ahead with swine events.

State livestock experts have recommended either discontinuing swine events this year or ensuring that swine are isolated from other animals. Koch said swine will be housed in the old hog barn at the fairgrounds and no other type of animal will be kept there.

In addition to livestock and other exhibits, events include the annual junior rodeo, greased pig catch, and greased pole climb on Thursday, July 28; the annual barbecue, livestock parade, presentation of pioneer farm awards, and the LeRoy Van Dyke show on Friday night, July 29; a horseshoe pitching See FAIR, page 10

Report Incorrect

It was incorrectly reported in the Monday issue of The Wayne Herald that a Hoskins man, Gerriald Wittler, died in a head-on collision near West Point on June 22.

Wittler was the driver of a truck which collided with a car driven by Charles Bernhardt, 16, of West Point, who was killed in the accident.

July 11 Is Date For Registration

Final exams for the first summer session at Wayne State College are approaching and registration for the second, final session, will be held July 11 from 9 a.m. until noon.

Course offerings span the fields of art, science, business, education and others. A few courses: painting, speech fundamentals, remedial speech, fundamentals of school administration, types of literature and philosophy of history. Schedules listing all classes, time periods, instructors and credit hours are available now at the registrar's office.

A scheduled class on advising parents of exceptional children has been closed and a community recreation course has been substituted for a curriculum construction class.

New students, current students, past students and non-students are all welcome to enroll in classes at WSC.

Riders Compete in Benefit Show

Youngsters from Northeast Nebraska tested their riding skills Saturday night at Carroll to benefit less fortunate children in the area.

The Wayne County Hombres 4-H club sponsored the fifth annual Charity Horse Show at the Carroll Saddle Club arena, with proceeds from the event going to benefit handicapped children.

Shelly Davis of Carroll won the junior division, Debbie Woodford of Ponca took top honors in the senior division, and Gail Cunningham of Wausa received the high-point trophy.

About 100 riders and mounts competed in the show. A mishap marred the opening of the show when a horse ridden by Kevin Davis of Carroll smashed through a fence during the flag-posting ceremony which opened the show. Davis was pitched off his mount over the fence but recovered to finish posting the colors and went on to compete in the evening's events.

Following the grand entry by the Hombres, Mrs. Otto Manulak of Wayne sang the National Anthem, Vern Peters of Uhlring was contest judge.

The events and how riders finished:

Emphasis Stockholders Meet Today

Emphasis, Inc., stockholders will meet today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. to decide the fate of the company's building in the Wayne industrial park.

The company's board of directors has passed a resolution to stockholders recommending that the real estate be disposed of due to a foreclosure action filed in Wayne County district court by Wayne Federal Savings and Loan Association which holds a first mortgage on the property, according to the court petition.

A pre-trial conference on the case is scheduled for 3 p.m. on Wednesday for examination and identification of all exhibits to be presented in the case, and for listing of witnesses to be heard.

Second CPR Class Planned at Winside

Another class in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) will begin Friday in Winside.

Miron Jonness, certified as a CPR instructor by the American Heart Association, will teach the class in the Winside auditorium.

The class will meet at 7:30 p.m. on July 1, 5, and 7. Plans are also being discussed for another class because of the large number of people who took the first course and who have already signed up for the second course beginning Friday.

Anyone interested in forming another class is asked to call Charles Jackson at 286-4544. There are no prerequisites for taking the course and teenagers as well as adults are encouraged to attend.

Gunshot Wound Apparently Was Self Inflicted

The victim of an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound was still listed in critical condition Wednesday morning in St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City.

Wayne County attorney Budd Bornhoft said the sheriff's office was called to investigate at about 9 p.m. Monday after it was discovered that Mrs. Carl Mellor, 38, of rural Wakefield, had apparently shot herself with a .22 gun.

WSC Graduate to Head Savings and Loan Office

A 1972 Wayne State College graduate will return to Wayne to become manager of the Columbus Federal Savings and Loan Association branch office effective July 18, Columbus Federal president W.M. Ferguson announced Wednesday.

Roger Madden will replace Don Coughlin, who will become vice president of Gilmore Homes, Inc. in Fremont. Coughlin has been branch manager since the office opened in November.

Originally from Marathon, Iowa, Madden worked for the Wayne Federal Savings and Loan Association part time while attending WSC and on a full-time basis until 1975 when he became a loan officer with the Northwestern National Bank of Norfolk.

Madden is married to the former Debra Kay Saul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Saul of Wayne. The Maddens have one child, Laura Michelle.

Coughlin said plans for a new building to house the Columbus Federal branch office have been completed and construction should begin soon at the company's Seventh St. site, but no date for ground breaking has been set.

Murphy: Expect November Tax Hike

"Nebraska is fallin' upon hard times," is how state Senator John Murphy of South Sioux City described the present tax situation in the Cornhusker state.

Last year's drought had its customary effect upon farmers — reduced spending. And as a result, Sen. Murphy told members of Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday, taxes have to go up.

Two weeks ago Nebraska lawmakers okayed hikes of one-half per cent in state sales tax and one per cent in personal income tax in an effort to keep the state accounts in the black.

Murphy blamed the high cost of federal governmental regulations as one reason for increase operating cost of state and local governments. "We have to comply with those idiot regulations out of Washington," he shouted, pointed out that education is taking its toll in the upcoming budget.

Murphy termed some of the federal regulations handed down to state governments as just "blackmail." "We have to comply with the federal regulations or they will cut off our funds — that's blackmail."

Education, he went on, has its problems — money. Last year the Unicameral appropriated $147 million in state aid to schools and the amount will go up again next year.

Murphy was against the state helping to fund school busing in Omaha because the problem belongs solely to the state's largest city. But lawmakers couldn't see that, he pointed out. They went ahead and passed a bill which calls for the state to pick up the tab.

What that means is every property taxpayer in the state is paying to bus a child from one part of Omaha to another, in addition to paying other taxes including a local levy to support his own school district, Murphy noted.

"It's an unfortunate fact of life that inflation is going up and is eating us alive," he shook his head.

Going into next fiscal year, Nebraska will be in its worst financial shape in a long time. Only $1 million out of an expected $33 million will be on the books for the coming year. And in 1977-78 state expenditures are expected to top the $1 billion mark, Murphy emphasized.

Because of increases in government costs, Murphy is counting on another tax hike, probably in November. "Politically it's unwise to raise taxes, but the state needs the revenue," Murphy said.

Prior to the talk by Sen. Murphy, membership chairman Ted Storck inducted the latest member of the club, Jack Froloof, manager of the Northwestern Bell office in Wayne.

Members also learned that their annual club picnic will be Monday, July 18, at Bressler Park.

Renovation Contract OK'd

Tuesday is the official starting date on a contract approved by the Wayne city council Tuesday night to complete improvements in the downtown business district, although Leonard Gill of Gill Construction said work on the project won't actually begin until after a conference with the city engineering firm and the State Department of Roads.

The Jackson contractor submitted the lowest of four bids opened by the council for improvements which will include new sidewalk, curb and gutter in the district.

Gill's base bid was $189,923.82.

He did not bid on any of four alternate items which included two different patterns for colored sidewalk concrete, use of salvaged paving brick to accent the sidewalk, and leaving open squares in the sidewalk to be used as planters.

After conferring with city engineer Bruce Gilmore, Gill agreed to include the planter openings for an additional $3,000. Other arrangements must be made for bordering the planter squares with brick.

Tuesday is the starting date on Gill's bid, but the contractor said he will wait until after a pre-construction conference to actually begin work. An associate of Gilmore informed the council that the State Department of Roads has approved a contract for new traffic lights on Main St. and wants to make arrangements for installing underground conduit to serve the new lights.

In addition, arrangements must be made to inform individual property owners in the district that they will have an opportunity to install new utility service lines when the old sidewalk, curb and gutter is removed. Gill said it is vital that any such projects be completed quickly so his company is not forced to wait. His bid stipulates the project will be completed within 70 working days of the starting date, Tuesday.

Councilman Vernon Russell, the only member to oppose the awarding of the contract, along with John Vakoc and Keith Mosley also voted against letting a bid for construction of a transfer station to house a trash compactor.

Bids for the compactor station were opened at the last council meeting and the project engineer Tuesday recommended accepting the bid of Otte Construction of Wayne for the station building and of the Highway Equipment Co. of Lincoln for the compactor equipment.

Total cost of the project is $84,575 including $63,065 for the building and $21,510 for the compactor.

Russell estimated the project will cost slightly more than $91,000 when engineering fees are included and said the council still has not answered the question of what the city will do with trash after it has been compacted into containers. The city has previously proposed See RENOVATION, page 10

Fireworks OK In Some State Recreation Areas

Nebraskans will be able to touch off their Independence Day fireworks displays on nine state recreation areas come Monday, July 4, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

They are Branched Oak, Memphis, Fremont, Louisville, Bridgeport, Two Rivers, Kearney County, Wagon Train and Pawnee State recreation areas.

Signs at the recreation areas will point the way to fireworks sites, and their boundaries will be clearly marked. They may be used for that purpose from 8 a.m. to midnight on July 4 only. Use of fireworks elsewhere on state areas or at other times is prohibited.

Legal fireworks generally include sparklers, spray fountains, vesuvius fountains, aerial shells without noise-making charges, and cap pistols with caps which contain no more than one-quarter grain of explosive material.

Vacation Cost Said $68 a Day

With many Wayne County residents preparing to take off on vacation jaunts in their cars, the matter of cost becomes a prime consideration.

According to figures that have just come in, the word is — be prepared for higher prices. Local travelers will have to pay about 29 per cent more than their food, lodging and other daily requirements than they did three years ago.

The changes are detailed in a report released by the American Automobile Association, which surveys the national situation every year or two. It finds that inflation has left its mark everywhere.

The net effect, for two people traveling together this summer, is that they will have to spend about $15.50 more per day for necessities than they did in 1974.

On the basis of the AAA figures, Wayne County vacationers must count on a daily budget of about $68 per couple for essential needs.

Assumed in that estimate is that they will average 300 miles per day and get 15 miles to the gallon of gas.

The budget is broken down as follows: $26 per day for meals, not including alcoholic beverages, $27 a day for accommodations and $15 for gas and oil. In addition, there will be expenditures for recreation, admission to places of interest, tolls and miscellaneous items.

The matter of vacation costs leads to the larger question, for Wayne County car owners, of how much it is costing them per year to own and operate their cars.

According to the new AAA figures, the average intermediate-size car, driven 10,000 miles a year, costs $2,019, equivalent to 20.2 cents a mile. This compares with 16.6 cents in 1974.

The fixed costs, such as insurance, depreciation and license fees, represent $1,439 of the total.

The variable expenses of gas, oil, tires and maintenance, come to $580 for the 10,000 miles.

Applied to Wayne County and to the 4,700 passenger cars in its area, the overall cost is about $9,489,000 annually.

Despite the bigger expense, auto travel has been on the rise and local gas stations have benefited from it. Their receipts last year amounted to $2,133,000, as against their total, three years before, of $1,606,000.

Grand Island's Schmah! Can Thank Lidie for the Winning Tip

Mike Lidie's good samaritanism didn't pay off the way the former Wayne State tennis star had hoped.

Lidie, who persuaded University of Nebraska player Jeff Schmah! to enter the Wayne Tennis Open over the weekend, was ousted from the two-day meet by Schmah! in the semi-finals of the hotly-contested men's open singles.

Lidie was just one of several local and area favorites to be knocked out first ever United States Tennis Association sanc-

Danze's Bat Lifts Laurel To 3-0 Win

Catcher Nick Danze doubled and singled to drive in two runs Sunday night to lead Laurel to a 3-0 shutout over Norfolk in Tri-County Amateur League play at Laurel.

Danze, who hit .500 ball for the night, doubled in the fourth to score pitcher Bob Weisenberg for a 1-0 lead. Weisenberg singled to leadoff the frame and went to second on a walk issued to George Schroeder.

In the fifth, Schroeder and Danze put together back-to-back base hits to score John Abts and Weisenberg.

Weisenberg scattered only two hits and struck out 15 Norfolk batters to chalk up his first mound victory. Randy Benish took the loss for Norfolk, giving up five hits.

The win put Laurel (5-2) in a neck-and-neck race for first with Crofton and Orchard — both with two losses.

There seems to be no stopping Wayne town team once the locals get their bats warmed up.

For instance, take Tuesday night's performance against visiting Dakota City. Wayne hitters swung the timber for nine big hits, including three hard hit singles by shortstop Terry Luff, to blast Dakota City, 10-5, in a Northeast Nebraska Baseball League makeup game at the city ball park.

Luff unleashed his hitting after the town team got the ball rolling with four runs in the first frame on a two-run double by second baseman Steve Hix and three Dakota City miscues.

In the second, Luff and teammates Mike Green, a transfer from Dakota City, and Hix each rapped base hits to score three runs in that frame for a smooth 7-1 count.

Relaxed and fired up is about the best way to describe Wayne players as the club posted its second straight win and second in league play. The players were relaxed when it came time to hitting — and hitting they did. They were fired up in the field to chalk up a double play in the fifth on a throw from Hix to Luff and to first baseman Mike Meyer.

Wayne put the game away in the seventh with three runs on one hit. With one away, Dakota City loaded the bases when hurler Bill Benson walked Meyer, saw right fielder Dave Hix reach first on an outfield error and intentionally walked Earle Overin.

Benson couldn't find the target when center fielder Mike Creighton went to the plate and, as a result, walked in Meyer from third. Third baseman Larry Raabe blasted what looked to be a sure candidate for a grand slam only to have the ball fall just short into the hands

Thought for Today
By Rowan Wiltse

"The five great enemies to peace are avarice, ambition, envy, anger and pride. If these were banished, we should enjoy perpetual peace."
— Petrarch

Since the dawn of time, men have fought with one another. It would be interesting to analyze each war and see where any of the five traits listed above caused a tribe or a nation to go to war.

In themselves, these traits are not all bad. Without ambition and pride, mankind would make little progress of any kind. But, when ambition involves taking over a neighbor's property and price refers to deadly armaments, the peace is easily shattered.

Schmah! didn't leave the two-day meet empty-handed. Later, he and Roach teamed up in the men's open doubles to beat Kerry McDermitt and Larry Rugg of Lincoln, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

"We had a lot of good comments about the tournament, players and the trophies," said tournament director Tom Roberts. Many of the players said that they would return if the meet is held again next year, he added.

A record 141 competed in the tournament held Saturday and Sunday at Wayne State tennis courts. Trophies were awarded to first and second-place

Bancroft Nips Laurel, 8-7

Bancroft came up with three runs in the sixth inning Monday night to nip Laurel Midgets, 8-7.

Brad Saunders was the top hitter for coach Bob Weisenberg's Laurel club, smacking three hits in three at bats and collecting five RBIs. Saunders ripped a two-run homer in the second inning to tie the game at two-apiece before Laurel pushed across two more runs for a 4-2 lead.

Laurel hurler Marty Calhoun gave up five walks in the sixth to score one Bancroft run. Bancroft shortstop Larson doubled in a pair of runs.

The loss evened Laurel's record at 4-4 prior to Tuesday night's encounter with Pender.

In a trip to Madison, Laurel Juniors posted an easy 13-0 whitewash in four frames. Gordie Kardell threw the shut-out. Big hitters for Laurel were Don Dalton with two bases-loaded doubles to score six runs and Brian Johnson's three hits.

The win pushed the Juniors' mark to 5-2.

Wakefield Pounds Pender for 2

Both Wakefield teams took a pair from host Pender in Ralph Bishop League play Monday night.

The league-leading Juniors (4-1) got by 3-1 in a squeaker with three runs in the top of the sixth. Doug Starzl's squeeze bunt with runners on second and third tied the game at one-all. Dean Sharp unloaded a line drive to score Wakefield's lone run.

Pender scored its unearned run in the fifth when first baseman Harris walked and with two outs scored from second on an error to shortstop Wes Lueht.

Rick Guy got his third win in four starts on the mound in the Midgets' 2-1 victory over Pender. Guy also led Wakefield.

Overconfidence nearly got the best of Wayne Midgets Monday night.

The locals, who are riding atop the Ralph Bishop League with a 7-1 record, had to come from a 6-0 deficit to overpower visiting Emerson, 7-6.

Shortstop Tom Clnn drove in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth when he singled a hard line shot to third to bring home center fielder Jeff Zeiss.

"We were just playing too relaxed," admitted coach Hank Overin after his club posted its fifth straight win. "We were just too cocky because we thought we could come back and win. But Emerson almost stopped us."

The visitors started out with a 2-0 lead in the first on runs by Randy and Doug Belt. In the second, Emerson pushed across four runs on four hits, including a two-run double by Jeff Philby.

Thanks to the erratic pitching of Jeff Utemark, Wayne was able to answer back in the bottom of the second with five runs on two hits and five bases on balls. The locals knotted the game in the third when catcher Dave Schwartz, who walked, stole second and third, came home on a wild pitch.

Other than the walks, Utemark had a good night on the mound. He gave up only three hits in the six-inning affair while his teammates got to Dennis Carroll (4-1) for nine hits.

MUTTERINGS around the ball park: Both Marsha Cretighton and Cindy Krekemeier don't worry when it comes to their men playing town-team baseball for Wayne. Marsha takes it in stride that her husband, Mike, who plays centerfield, will look good at the plate; ditto for Cindy who keeps an eye on her boyfriend, right fielder Ray Wagoner.

The idea of their men being injured in a game doesn't cross their minds. But one thing that does bother Marsha is the possibility of Mike colliding with another player in an attempt to get a fly ball.

When it comes to pointing out both good and bad plays, Marsha's right there to criticize Mike or pat him on the back. She knows what the game is all about since she comes from a baseball family in Carroll. "If he makes a good play, I'll tell him about it. If he makes a bad play, I'll let him know about it, too," she smiled.

On the other hand, Cindi prefers to hold back any words of wisdom if Ray makes an error. She confides that it's best not to say anything at that point. The only thing she likes to point out are the good plays, especially when Wayne wins.

Although Cindi doesn't come from a baseball family, she says she had a pretty good idea about the game from watching Legion and Midget teams play in her home town of West Point. Ray also played on both West Point teams, but at that time she wasn't watching Ray, she admitted.

When first asked what Marsha thinks when her husband goes to the plate, a friend, Trixie Newman, responded, "Hope he doesn't say the same thing he said (when he struckout) the last time at bat."

GENTLEMAN (?) Gerry Hix has a few kind words for base umpire Kevin Peters before the start of Tuesday night's Wayne-Dakota City battle. Hix remarked that it must be tough for Peters to see over the "extra stomach" and be able to call strikes or balls when he's behind the plate. Peters retorted saying that he has no problems seeing his toes when he's standing or stooping over. That comment prompted Hix to point out that you don't look at your toes when you're behind the plate — maybe that's why you can't see what's going on.

OH YES, Gerry had a few words for me, too. He kept badgering me why his son's name, Dave Hix, didn't appear in the last story on the town team which beat West Point last week. Although his name was listed in the box scores, Dave wasn't mentioned in the story about his pitching the first eight frames. "What's the matter, don't you know how to spell

Backstop Bob Bartlett

Hix-x?" he quipped.

REVISED: Now that NNBL secretary Merlin "Lefty" Olson is back from a well-deserved vacation and town teams are back on playing schedule, Olson has revised the league standings.

There are a couple of changes in the win-loss columns for some teams, but basically the standings are the same: Homer leads the pack with a 6-0 mark, closely followed by Newcastle with two losses.

Mosley Sweeps Honors at Cats Girls Cage Camp

A week ago Sydney Mosley made The Wayne Herald's sports column in a story about her track prowess. This week she's wearing a different uniform — basketball — and rating a bunch of honors again.

When awards were handed out as the girls cage camp ended at Wayne State Saturday, Sydney collected no less than seven, including the premium citation of most valuable player. She was one of nine so honored, among 31 girls participating.

Other Mosley awards: Miss Rebound, Miss Drive, Miss Quick, Miss Hardest Workers, Miss Dunk and a one-on-one champion.

One other girl also gleaned seven honors, Linda Morey of Sloan, Ia. Three girls earned six honors — Connie Janata, Howells; Janet Matzner, York, and Liz Gleeson, O'Neill. All of these were named most valuable.

Also winning the most valuable award among other honors were Patty Carney, Norfolk; Gail Krohn, Osmond; Patti Scheinost, O'Neill and Carol Burneheid, Howells.

Scheinost and Heidi Hansen of Sloan, Ia., received the Miss Spirit award, which camp director Jim Seward rated one of the top honors, along with most valuable.

In the closing session he commented that the girls "really worked hard, really improved." He invited them all back for next year's camp.

Walks Push Homer Past Allen, 12-7

Gerald Jackson's solo home run for Homer in the sixth didn't do half the damage to Allen-Marlinsburg Friday night as the number of run-scoring walks Allen issued to the leaders of the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League.

Allen put 17 men on base to literally hand Homer its fifth undefeated league win, 12-7, in a makeup game at Allen.

Dewey Edgar had a no-hitger going for Allen until the sixth when Jacobsen smacked the ball over the fence with no one on for a 6-4 Allen lead. Homer, which scored three runs in the first frame with the help of base on balls, put five more runners across the plate in the fifth, including four walk-in scores for a 9-6 turnaround.

Bob Baxter gave up six Allen runs in the first four frames before Dale Martinson stepped in to record the win. Catcher Lyle Smith put Allen on the scoreboard with a home run in the second. The home team tied the score with two runs in the third for a 3-3 ball game.

Allen jumped into the lead via three runs on fourth-inning singles by Kevin Hill, Neil Blohm and Bill Schultz and a sacrifice fly by Loren Book.

Allen (3-3) is scheduled to face Homer again tonight (Thursday.)

Mike's Captures Slo-Pitch Meet

Mike's Tavern slo-pitch softball team won first place at the Winnebago Power Tournament over the weekend.

Brothers Mike and Dan Loofe shared the pitching chores in wins the local team posted over Claussen Electric of Sioux City, 7-4; Rosalie, 8-7; B&H of Winnebago, 13-1, and a pair from Whitey's of Sioux City, 16-5 and 9-8.

In the final game, the Wayne team had a 5-0 lead on home runs by all-tournament players Tim Robinson, Mic Daehneke, Marty Hansen and Tim Johnson. Whitey's tied the game in the bottom of the third and made it a see-saw game until the bottom of the seventh where Mike's scored the winning run on Hansen's deep fly to center to score Johnson.

Deer Application Deadline Nears for Hunters

Nebraska hunters who plan on applying for a 1977 rifle deer permit are reminded they only have a few days left to apply during the second round of applications, according to Ken Johnson, chief of game management for the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

According to Johnson, several units have already received more than enough applications and will require a drawing to determine who gets permits. "As of June 15, we already had received more than twice the number of applications than available permits in both the Blue and Elkhorn units," Johnson said. "The special December season at DeSoto Bend had only nine permits left at the start of the application period and we already have 66 applications," he continued, "and we expect the Buffalo and Calamus East units to be over-subscribed before the end of the period."

Officials Urge Honor America

Independence Day, Monday, the 21st birthday of the United States, with its accompanying reminders of traditional American values, is at hand and proclamations from assorted levels of American government are calling the public's attention to the significance of this occasion.

Two themes stand out in these official documents.

One is that the American flag, like the nation itself, has also passed its 200th milestone. The related thought is that the United States has crossed the threshold of its third century with brave expectations.

President Carter's proclamation notes that with the passing of two centuries, "Our Nation has changed in many ways, but our flag remains an appropriate symbol of America. Its bold colors reflect the courage and determination of the American people, as its straight and simple lines reflect their straight-forward character."

The President called upon all citizens to observe the period from Flag Day through Independence Day as a period to honor America through public gatherings and other suitable activities that will demonstrate their pride in their Nation and its accomplishments.

Leonard H. Marks, president of the American Historic and Cultural Society, sponsor of the program to Honor America, voiced the hope that all Americans "will pay homage to the real significance that lies behind our symbolic Fourth of July celebration—the fact that we are a free Nation."

The U.S. House of Representatives staged a special tribute to the country's colors on Flag Day. As part of the program, Rep. Ted Risenhoover of Oklahoma said, "The United States of America gave the world a new example of human liberty and responsible personal freedom. These promises still shine brightly today."

Some 25 governors and hundreds of mayors have urged their constituents to observe Independence Day in an appropriate fashion, either through patriotic ceremonies or recreational events, so envisioned by John Adams.

As a typical example, in the nation's capital, mayor Walter E. Washington noted "... this American experiment has produced the largest measure of freedom and highest standard of living for more people than the world has ever known ..."

While the country moves further into its third hundred years many familiar problems remain unsettled and undoubtedly fresh ones will be encountered not far down the road.

When the 13 original colonies were struggling for freedom, the obstacles must have seemed insurmountable. But Americans' determination and willingness to cooperate were strong.

The Founding Fathers were widely acclaimed. But hundreds of skilled craftsmen worked in obscurity to contribute to their country's triumph.

Along these lines, Gov. James R. Thompson cited the most celebrated citizen of Illinois, Abraham Lincoln, who on July 4, 1958, penned this thought:

"We hold this annual celebration to remind ourselves of all the good done in the process of time; of how it was done and who did it and how we are historically connected with it."

On a contemporary note, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California remarked philosophically, "As we begin the third century of our country, we must recognize the importance of revitalizing our institutions and taking those actions necessary to restore confidence in the political process. I find it fitting to recall the words of the Spanish philosopher who said that patriotism is not so much protecting the land of our fathers as preserving the land of our children."

Dr. Richard L. Leshar, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S., summed it up with these words: "The day has been set aside for the purpose of helping to create a greater spirit of unity among all American citizens. A day to rededicate ourselves for our love of liberty. We, as a federation, have asked our members to rededicate themselves."

IT'S THE MOST

Among the most costly federal government expenditures in any one year on any one regulatory agency was for the Environmental Protection Agency in 1970. American taxpayers contributed $203 million to set it up.

Now Congress is considering bills to create a new consumer agency, designed to watchdog the watch dogs, and preliminary estimates are that it will cost $60 million for the first three years. This idea may be one of the most wasteful that has been proposed in years!

Contracting to haul the refuse to the Norfolk landfill.
 Russell also chided the council and city administrator Fred Brink for not being able to provide any figures on what the cost of trash disposal will be under the transfer station arrangement.
 Brink said his estimates based on costs of operating transfer stations in other Nebraska communities indicate commercial trash collectors in Wayne, including Russell, should be able to recover costs they will incur through paying a fee to use the transfer station by increasing their rates by 43 cents a month per customer.
 Brink, at the request of councilwoman Carolyn Filter, said an examination of property within five miles of Wayne revealed only two sites potentially suitable for a new landfill. One property owner flatly refused to consider any proposal for a landfill on his property, Brink said.

 The owner of the other site agreed to leasing his property for a landfill, Brink said, but only for one year. Site preparation costs would make such an arrangement unfeasible, Brink said. He added that a third site near the current landfill was discussed, but found to be unsuitable because it is part of the Logan Creek watershed, Nebraska Department of Environmental Control and federal Environmental Protection Agency regulations prevent locating a landfill there, according to the city administrator.
 Brink added his opinion that commercial trash haulers have little to fear from competition by the compactor station. He said trash service proprietors in other communities have indicated most customers feel the inconvenience of taking their trash to the compactor station far outweighs the fee for regular commercial trash service.
 Recommendations for usage fees should be ready for presentation at the next council meeting, Brink said.
 City attorney Ken Olds delivered an opinion that two claims for paving in Henry Victor Park are legal. Russell has questioned payment of the claims at the last meeting.

 According to Brink, the paving was done in two projects each costing about $3,000. Russell contended that breaking the paving down into two projects circumvented a Nebraska statute which requires municipalities to advertise for bids on any project costing more than $5,000.
 Brink at the last meeting said asphalt used in the project was from test batches mixed by the company resurfacing Highway 35 between Wayne and Winside, and the city was able to get the asphalt at cost, $11.40 a ton, rather than the usual cost of about $20 a ton. Tuesday night he said he has talked to the mayor and five of the council's eight members before going ahead with the paving project.
 Russell asked why, if the action was legal, the city couldn't avoid advertising for bids on any paving project by breaking them down into phases, each costing less than $5,000.
 Olds said he doubts if such action would be upheld legally if it could be proven it was done deliberately to circumvent the law.
 "Aren't we doing the same thing here?" Russell asked.
 "I would guess, Mr. Russell, that this probably won't happen again," mayor Freeman Decker interjected.
 "I would guess, Mr. mayor, that it had better not," Russell replied.

 In other action the council: —Approved appointments by the mayor including reappointment of Mathilde Harms, Galdie Leonard, Wes Pfleger and the Rev. Ken Edmonds to the advisory commission on aging; Ruth Etofsen, Robert Sutherland, Jim Hummel, Joy Hein, LeRoy Simpson, William Workman, Annie Reeg, George Thorbeck and Kern Swarts to the college-community board; Phil Griess and Richard Keidel to the city planning commission; Cal Ward to the housing authority, and Bob Vakoc and Dick Carman to the board of appeals.
 —Approved a permit for a sign for M & S Radiator and Repair on Main St.
 —Approved a new health and accident insurance contract for city employees. The city will pay $65 per employee per month.
 —Accepted a low bid of $13,727 from Ofte Construction to build a fire hall addition.
 —Conducted a public hearing but received no testimony regarding use of federal revenue sharing funds for next year.
 The city will have about $95,500 in revenue sharing, including about $55,000 in new funds to be received during the 1977-78 fiscal year.
 —Received copies of the administrator's budget for the next fiscal year. Brink said the total of the proposal has not been tabulated so no dollar figure is available now for comparison with the current budget, but he indicated that if the council arrives at a final budget similar to the one proposed, the city mill levy would not be affected to any great extent.
 The council will meet for its first budget work session Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Patrol Preparing for Holiday Weekend

Just a minor traffic violation — nonsense, according to Colonel C.P. Karthaus, superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol.
 Any traffic violation, in his opinion, should be labeled as a personalized invitation to death or serious injury. The apathy that exists in relation to traffic violations is amazing, according to Karthaus.
 Many letters received by his office reflect such apathy. Col. Karthaus suggests that if motorists and pedestrians alike could only once experience the pain, suffering and death that accompanies many accidents, people would view traffic violations and accidents from an entirely different perspective.
 Many times state troopers arrive on the scene of an accident only to witness a person gasping for their last breath of life; in some cases pleading for the troopers to pray for them as they are about to succumb. Not a pleasant sight, no indeed, but we do pray and share the sorrow that accompanies such tragedies with the families and many friends of those involved. Receiving a traffic ticket is not pleasant, Karthaus said. "It should not be, we don't intend it to be, we're tough on traffic violators and proud of it, we must continue to be aggressive in our enforcement actions and maybe, just maybe we can prevent some tragedies on our highway system. Did you ever consider thanking an officer for giving you a ticket? Quite possibly such an action may have saved your life."

 The State Patrol doesn't really expect such thanks, Karthaus said. "We're paid to do a job, and our thanks will come from statistical data that reflects less accidents and resultant deaths."
 "Let's take the 'bang' out of the Fourth of July Holiday weekend," he added, stating that auto accidents cause tremendous noise upon impact and usually result in death or injury; not to mention the tremendous loss in property damage.
 "Let's leave the noise that accompanies the various Independence Day Holiday celebrations to authorized fireworks displays and concentrate our efforts to safe streets and highways in Nebraska."

 Karthaus indicated that all available Patrol personnel and resources would be out in force, attempting to curb motor vehicle accidents through their enforcement efforts.

for the limited landowner permits are also reminded that they must have first applied during the first or second round of permit applications to be eligible to apply for a limited landowner permit.
 Deadline for all second round permit applications is Tuesday. Johnson stresses that applications must be received on or before the 28th in order to be eligible for consideration. Any remaining permits go on sale to residents and non-residents alike on July 15 on a first-come, first-served basis.

ARE YOU FOR OR AGAINST THE PROPOSED 25 ACRE SALE AND BUILDING LIMITATIONS PROPOSED BY THE COUNTY PLANNING AND ZONING COMMISSION?

A policeman using undue force in the exercise of his police duties can be disciplined for the use of undue force in carrying out his duty.
 The Planning and Zoning Commission is to be commended for many hours of work and planning and we agree that proper planning and zoning is a proper function of government.
 The question is whether Wayne County, with a declining population, and without major problems in the use of farmland should have a reasonable or an unreasonable restriction to the sale or use of farmland for residential purposes. There is a further question, if one area does need more control than the other area, of whether the County should be uniformly zoned to meet the problem of one smaller area.
 Generally, police powers, which include zoning, are for the public good. WE QUESTION WHETHER THE 25 ACRE PROPOSAL WILL BE FOR THE GOOD OF THE GENERAL PUBLIC. IT MAY, BE DENIAL OF PROPERTY RIGHTS, BE A COMPENSABLE TAKING?
 The 5th Amendment of the Federal Constitution provides that private property, which includes the property rights, shall not be taken without just compensation. THE NEBRASKA CONSTITUTION GOES FURTHER AND STATES THAT PRIVATE PROPERTY SHALL NOT BE TAKEN OR DAMAGED WITHOUT JUST COMPENSATION.
 We feel that the Planning and Zoning Commission, or the County Commissioners, should employ legal counsel to determine if the proposed 25 acre limitation may not go beyond the legitimate need and be a compensable taking with resultant damages to the County.
WE ARE FOR THE PRESERVATION OF FARMLAND. WE ARE ALSO FOR THE PROTECTION OF PROPERTY AND PROPERTY RIGHTS. WE STRONGLY URGE THE PLANNING-COMMISSION AND THE COUNTY-COMMISSIONERS TO SEEK LEGAL COUNSEL ON THIS QUESTION, NOW.

Steady Hands Continue Quilting

HERE ARE just two of the quilts industrious 90-year-old Carrie Apking has completed since Christmas. Her plans are to keep quilting "as long as my good eyesight holds out," she quipped.

By PAT OSWALD
Winside Correspondent
 At age 90, Carrie Apking has no thoughts of quitting her active life, settling down and letting time pass her by.
 As long as her eyesight is good enough to allow her to use her hands, the Winside woman will continue her quilting and crocheting.
 The spry mother of three, who has seven grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren, has kept herself especially busy since Christmas making four quilts as well as doing other handy needle work.
 "I can see to thread needles with a threader," she quipped as one good reason she continues to quilt and sew.
 Born in 1887 in Ranthow, Ill., Carrie and her family moved to Nebraska in 1905 where she took up quilting as a young girl. Forty-one years later Winside became her permanent home.
 Back when she really got into quilting, Mrs. Apking used to buy thread for 10 cents a spool. Now you're lucky to get that same spool for 80 cents, she laughed.
 Another change in quilting is the materials she uses. Cottons and wools were the primary materials used to make quilts, but now most materials are synthetics, such as dacrons and polyesters which are "easier to wash and work with," she added.
 Carrie's favorite batting is Mountain Mist, but she also has several other favorites including long cabins, lone star, Washington steps, sun bonnet, patch, brick and spider web.
 Using her 78-year-old pedal machine, Carrie keeps on sewing her own clothing. And when she has extra time, she delves into knitting stocking caps, mittens, baby sets and sweaters for friends and relatives.
 "It's a busy life, but I would not have it any other way," she said.

 Readers were Mrs. Sam Colvin, Mrs. Lee Gable, Mrs. Loren Beckner, Mrs. Duane Field, Mrs. Howard Iversen, Mrs. Ron Peck and Mrs. Donavon Leighton.

Strawberry Waffle Loaf

- 3/4 cup Butter or Margarine
- Two-Thirds cup Sugar
- 4 Eggs
- 3/4 cup Cornstarch
- 1/4 cup All-Purpose Flour
- 1/2 teaspoon Almond Extract
- 1 pint Strawberries, sliced and sweetened
- 1 container (4 1/2-oz.) Frozen Whipped Topping, thawed

Cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs alternately with cornstarch and flour, beating thoroughly after each addition. (Mixture will look curdled.) Add almond extract. Bake two 9-inch square waffles in preheated waffle iron. Cool on rack; cut each waffle in half. Place one waffle half on a serving platter and spread with half the strawberries, reserving a few for garnish, if desired. Then top with another waffle half and spread with half the whipped topping. Repeat layers, ending with whipped topping. Garnish with reserved strawberries. Chill at least 30 minutes; cut in slices. Makes 8 servings.

Open Peach Pie

- 1 cup Unsifted Flour
- 1/2 teaspoon Salt
- One-Third cup Margarine
- 3 to 4 tablespoons Ice Water
- 1 can (29-oz.) sliced Peaches, well drained
- 1/2 cup Sugar
- 1/4 cup Cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon Ground Cinnamon
- 1/8 teaspoon Ground Nutmeg
- 3/4 cup Heavy Cream
- 1/2 teaspoon Vanilla Extract
- Sweetened Whipped Cream

Measure flour and salt into bowl. Cut in margarine with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in ice water. Mix well.

On lightly floured board, roll out dough to fit a 9-inch pie plate. Transfer into plate and shape edge. Arrange peach slices in overlapping circles in bottom of pie crust. Combine sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon and nutmeg. Beat together heavy cream and vanilla extract while gradually adding sugar mixture. Pour evenly over peaches. Bake at 400 degrees 40 to 45 minutes, or until set. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Fresh Strawberry Pie

- 1 baked 9-inch Graham Cracker Crumb Crust or Pie Shell, cooled

1 1/2 cups halved Fresh Strawberries
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; measure 1/2 cup and chill until slightly thickened. Fold thickened gelatin and sugar into the whipped topping; add food coloring. Chill again, if necessary, until mixture will mound. Line bottom and sides of crumb crust with the whipped topping mixture, mounding high around edge. Chill. Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatin until thickened; stir in strawberries. Spoon into the whipped topping-lined crust without covering the rim around the edge. Chill until firm, at least 3 hours.

Peach Ice

- 1/2 cup Water
- 1 envelope Unflavored Gelatin
- 4 cups peeled, pitted, Ripe Peaches (about 2 lbs.)
- 2 tablespoons Lemon Juice
- 1 1/2 cups Light Corn Syrup

In small saucepan sprinkle gelatin over water. Cook over hot heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves. Place half of peaches and lemon juice in blender container; cover. Blend at high speed 1 minute or until liquefied. Add remaining peaches 1 at a time continuously blending until all are liquefied. With blender at low speed gradually add gelatin mixture and corn syrup until blended. Pour into 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Freeze 1 to 2 hours or until almost firm. Beat until smooth but still frozen. Cover and freeze 3 hours, or until firm. Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

$20 million state aid to schools increase is under attack

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — S.H. "Zeke" Brauer Jr. has announced that the $20 million hike in state aid to schools is under attack.

He has said a petition campaign to block implementation of the higher aid law, enacted by the legislature over the veto of Gov. J. James Exon, has been under serious consideration by the Nebraska School Improvement Association of which Brauer is executive secretary.

Brauer also said he believes the campaign will be launched "because the people expect it."

Those who oppose the new school aid law would have to gather 54,000 signatures by Sept. 2 to put the issue before the voters.

If they were successful in gathering that many signatures, the law would be suspended until a 1978 referendum election.

Brauer said that would remove the necessity for the half-point increase in the state sales tax recently approved by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

The governor and state tax commissioner William Peters both said the state sales tax had to be raised from 3 to 3.5 per cent to raise the extra $20 million for the schools, bringing the state level of school support from $55 million to $75 million.

Brauer said he has been contacting many of the persons who were successful in a 1974 state aid repeal referendum. He added the 1977 unicameral was "contemptuous" of the people who in 1974 voted down a higher school aid law.

Brauer said the emphasis in gathering signatures would be in the cities because the summer months aren't the best time to contact farmers.

He added he expects to have good luck in Douglas County because the people whom he contacted there are "absolutely irate."

According to Brauer, the state financing of schools is not the only question involved in the controversy. He claims the major objection to the new law is the formula for distribution of the state money because many people feel it discriminates against some school districts.

Tax Rate
 Peters has rejected raising the state income tax rate to 19 per cent.

He said the rate will be 18 per cent of an individual's federal income tax liability starting during the first full pay period in July.

If the figure had been raised to 19 per cent, most taxpayers would have kicked in enough by the end of the year to satisfy their obligations under the 18 per cent rate, which when adopted recently was made retroactive to January 1, 1977.

"The more money we leave in the economy, the more it is likely to help our sales tax receipts," said Peters.

He added raising the food sales tax credit from 16 to 20 this year will also offset the need to withhold at the 19 per cent rate.

There was a mid-year income tax increase last year, but Peters said he doubts if the withholding schedule proposed this year will turn usual state income tax refunds into checks for the state treasury.

He said last year there was no increase in the food tax credit and a larger income rate went into effect later in the year. That led to under-withholding that Peters does not expect to happen this year.

Tiemann Returns
 Former Gov. Norbert Tiemann was back in the state recently and it didn't take him long to get back into the headlines of Nebraska newspapers.

While in Lincoln to participate in an institute at the University of Nebraska for teachers of government, he said the state's Republican party is in a "shambles." And when he was challenged and accused of distorting the facts, he repeated the statement and refused to back down even an inch.

Tiemann, never known as one who was afraid to express his opinions, said the facts are that Republicans have been losing important elections. He ventured the suggestion that Gov. Exon cannot be defeated by any of the persons who have been suggested as possible opponents, if Exon shoots for a U.S. Senate seat in the next election.

The former governor, defeated by Exon in the 1970 gubernatorial balloting, didn't completely concede the senatorial election to Exon and went far as saying "he can be beaten."

But what it will take, he added, is a comparative unknown, a fresh face with a fresh approach" who is willing to do a tremendous amount of work.

Tiemann recalled, seemingly with a bit of relish, that when he first talked about running for governor he was told by party leaders to go after the state treasurer's job or a seat in the unicameral because "Val Peterson is our boy."

Tiemann didn't listen to that advice, took on Peterson in the primary, won that contest and then was elected governor.

Several of the current party leaders said Tiemann, who lives in Virginia and is employed by an Omaha architectural engineering firm, has been away from the state too long.

According to William Morrow, an Omaha attorney who is Republican National Committee chairman from Nebraska, Tiemann "has the usual level of information about Nebraska of an individual from Washington."

State GOP chairman Anne Batchelder of Omaha said there are far more Republican senatorial candidates than Tiemann realizes.

Tiemann said he has no plans to re-enter the political arena and is considering returning to banking or taking a job with some other industry.

Concerning the race for governor next year, he said he thinks Congressman Charles Thone of Lincoln could make his best contribution to the party by seeking reelection to the House.

"But I understand he wants to run for governor," Tiemann said.

Director Gets Raise
 Dr. Henry Smith, director of the State Health Department, has become one of the highest paid state officials, outside of the University of Nebraska.

The State Health Board recently gave Smith a $1,990 a year boost, raising his pay to $40,882.

Dr. Clarence Davis of Osceola, a member of the State Health board, made the motion to give Smith the additional money.

Davis complimented the job the health director has done during his seven years with the department and described him as a smart administrator who stands "head and shoulders above any other health director in the nation."

Smith stands a little bit more than five-foot-four inches.

OBSERVATIONS

Energy policy taking shape?

Congress might finally be getting serious about formulating a national energy policy. The House Ways and Means Committee Monday approved a tax credit of up to $400 for persons who insulate and weatherize their existing homes, and a credit of up to $2,150 for purchases of solar- or wind-operated equipment for heating, cooling or generating electricity in a home.

It is important, we believe, that Congress approve the measures given the committee's stamp of approval. Both will result in a substantial savings of fuel. Estimates indicated the insulation credit alone will save 320,000 barrels of oil a day.

It has been argued that the tax credits are not necessary, that the public would begin taking such conservation measures of their own accord without government incentives which will mean a loss of tax dollars.

There may be sound basis for such reasoning, but without incentives the process of instituting energy-saving measures in homes would be slower to develop. The term "energy shortage" became, it appears, a permanent part of our every-day language more than four years ago, yet the government so far has taken little action to promote really effective conservation measures. Congress should approve the two tax credit measures.

A third measure which received the committee's approval is subject to questioning. The committee decided to stick to its guns on a position taken earlier this month, eliminating the gasoline tax deduction.

We agree with Rep. Ed Jenkins of Georgia who said repealing the deduction will amount to a tax increase on rural Americans who have no alternative to driving.

Considerable federal dollars have been and will be spent to develop mass transit systems in those areas where it is practical. We don't quibble with expenditures for that purpose, but at the same time question whether some of us should be penalized for living in areas where it is improbable that efficient public transportation can ever be developed. Government, we agree, should not encourage driving, but as Rep. Richard Schulze of Pennsylvania said, repeal of the tax credit will make it more difficult for state legislatures to raise state gasoline taxes to finance highway repairs. In Nebraska and other farm-oriented states, those highways must remain our primary means of transportation. — Jim Strayer.

Study recommendations threaten farmers

The hard-pressed American farmer and rancher, squeezed between falling farm commodity prices and the inexorable inflation of his production costs, is being besieged and baited these days to give up the struggle and turn everything over to government management.

The theme runs like this: "Free enterprise has failed, you are all alone and cannot survive. The time has come to have experts in government tell you at the beginning of each year how much to plant, how many head of calves and pigs to raise, etc. In return, your friendly government, which also guarantees to hold down food prices to consumers, will guarantee you your costs of production plus a profit."

This refrain has been going on for the past 40 years and gets louder when the farm economy is under the kind of stress that prevails right now.

Last February, the Washington Post published an article headed, "Major Restructuring of Farming Urged." It has a report on the finding of a Washington-based research group funded by 27 foundations and individual philanthropists, so a spokesperson said, and the purpose was to start a national debate on the finding of the group's various studies.

Following are highlights from that article:

"A drastic restructuring of the American food production system that would subsidize farmers to keep down prices and curb agribusiness growth was advocated in a study released yesterday by the exploratory project for economic alternatives.

"Low stable food prices, a secure income for family farmers, and shift dairy products, vegetables, fruit and meat and location of diversified farms near population centers."

"Our agricultural system has substituted machines and fuel for labor and land," the study said. "Unfortunately, today we have a surplus of labor and a shortage of energy."

This kind of concepts is being voiced by powerful forces both in and out of government and have to be taken seriously. In reality, they are a blueprint for dismantling the world's greatest food production system under the guise of "saving the family farm" and "providing cheap subsidized food for everybody." — M.M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

"As part of an overall plan to keep down food prices while protecting the incomes of family farmers, the study recommends the establishment of food reserves, government control over farm imports and exports, break-up of agribusiness monopolies and direct government payments to compensate farmers for what they would have gotten from higher prices.

"The subsidy program — which harks back to a program (The Brannan Plan) for direct payments to farmers that was proposed, but never implemented during the Truman Administration — would cost between $12 billion and $15 billion per year, depending on the number of commodities covered.

"The payments would be financed by a 'steeply progressive' income tax weighted toward upper-income taxpayers, it added; contending 'this could be more equitable and less inflationary' than paying for cost increases with higher food prices.

"According to the study, the cost to the taxpayer would be offset by positive gains for the economy. The report noted that continually rising food prices contributed to an average annual increase of $15 billion in the nation's food bill for the last four years."

And now comes a very revealing "kicker" which is being sounded more frequently and indicates much of the study was done by people who know little about modern agriculture, particularly in the Midwest.

The study also suggested a shift toward nationwide production of most crops on small, multi-crop farms, which it said would produce an agricultural system that is "cleaner, more energy-efficient, more conserving of land and water and of a more human and natural scale." In particular, the study suggested labor-intensive organic production of

Committeeman: We Are looking for 'Davids' for '78

Dear Editor:

It was interesting from a Democrat's point of view to have read Jim Strayer's observations. "Tiemann's appraisal is valid."

Jim was more than charitable in not mentioning the "results" in Wayne County of the Zorinsky-McCollister race of 1976. But it was good of him to mention the work the local Democratic county organization. They did work very hard. But then we are like "Avis" — we have to work harder.

Just count the number of Democrats serving in elective office in Nebraska and one knows why we must work harder: Democrats are greatly outnumbered in the Unicameral, in state office, and in the congressional delegation the Republicans are ahead three to two.

In terms of voter registration in Nebraska, the Republicans lead by nearly 20,000. The only congressional district that contains more Democrats than Republicans is the second — where Omaha is located.

When we Democrats look at the Republican party we do not see a party in shambles. Rather we see a number of "Goliaths" like Thome, Smith, Beerman, Marsh, Douglas, and others. And we look about us for a number of "Davids" for 1978.

I recently served on a panel with former Governor Norbert Tiemann, Senator Dick Marvel, and Republican National Committee chairman, Bill Morrow. I was the only Democrat there. It was at the Taft Institute in Lincoln and the comments I make here, I made there.

In the past six to eight years we Democrats have worked very hard to make Nebraska a true "two-party state." We believe it should be that way because the competition between the parties can produce the "better" person who will truly represent the people. — Allen O'Donnell, national committeeman, Nebraska Democratic Party.

Fabric fiasco costly for garment industry

Several years ago, the U.S. Department of Commerce — acting under the Flammable Fabrics Act — ordered that children's sleepwear be fireproofed. Industry quickly complied with the order. Who could oppose such a benevolent decree?

But as time passed, suspicions grew that the major fireproofing chemical — known as "tris" — might itself be harmful, perhaps even a cause of cancer. And so, after considering prodding from the Environmental Defense Fund, the Consumer Product Safety Commission banned tris-treated children's garments.

The combination of these two federal orders leaves the clothing industry facing a loss of $120 to $150 million in now-worthless merchandise, plus the grim possibility of future suits alleging fire-caused illness. Who will pay for what is being thrashed out in the courts. But one thing seems certain, the federal government, which caused the problem, will not pay a red cent.

There are some important lessons in this whole, sad affair. The first of them is that good intentions are not enough. Before the government tries to force industry into some worthwhile action, it should be sure that the means to accomplish it safely are at hand. At the time of the original fireproofing order, tris was the most effective fireproofing chemical known for certain fabrics.

The second lesson involves one of the virtues of the free market. In the absence of the government order, some companies would probably have offered flame-resistant sleepwear, and others would not. Of those that did, some might have turned to tris, while others would have concentrated on fabrics that are inherently incombustible, or selected other chemicals. Consequently, the damage done by tris — if any — would have been much more limited than is now the case, both medically and economically.

People with a naive faith in government action tend to think only in terms of the potential good that the government can do. And indeed, when the government decides wisely, everyone is likely to benefit. But the coin has another side: When the government makes a mistake, everyone is likely to suffer.

Then too, there's the question of over-protection.

Normally, I would expect few people to quarrel with the twin objectives in this case: Protection from fire and protection from cancer.

But as the saccharin and smoking controversies have demonstrated, the American people do not like paternalistic government, even where the risk of that dread disease are concerned. People want to be informed of the degree of risk and then allowed to make their own decisions.

This issue of how far to trust the consumer's judgment is one of the most difficult on the public scene today, for both government and industry. And yet it is seldom debated head-on, but rather comes up in the context of something like the seat belt-ignition interlocks of recent memory.

I wish we could reach some sort of national consensus on the extent of the consumer's responsibility for his own welfare, or, conversely, the extent of the business-government responsibility. As it is, we are following a painful process somewhat akin to the development of the English common law, defining the parameters of responsibility one case at a time. There must be a better way. Neither the economy nor the consumer can stand many more tris-type fiascos. — Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

BBucks Prize Goes To Wayne Shopper

An employee of Northwestern Bell Telephone in Wayne is the latest winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks contest. Jack Bruna won the $25 consolation award Thursday night while shopping at Gambles Store in Wayne. Bruna, who was born on Feb. 18, 1947, missed winning the $75 jackpot by two days. Had his birth date fallen on the winning date of Feb. 16, Bruna would have won the big money. Drawing the winning date was Marie Mohr, of Black Knight. To be a winner, a shopper must be present in a participating Wayne business at 8:15 p.m. tonight (Thursday) when the lucky date is announced. No purchases or registrations are necessary to enter the weekly contest.

Project Aimed at Better Forecasting

Improvements in the accuracy of agricultural crop forecasting in the Great Plains region may be attained if a pilot project involving two University of Nebraska-Lincoln scientists proves successful.

Dr. Blaine Blad and Dr. Norman Rosenberg are aiding in a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) and U.S. Department of Agriculture Project that will evaluate the use of weather satellites for accurate measurement of solar radiation. The solar radiation values predicted from the satellite will be compared with those measured with a pyranometer, a solar radiation measuring device on the ground.

While the pyranometer already has been proven effective, there are not enough of them in the Great Plains region to provide sufficient information. Blad, associate professor of meteorology and agricultural engineering, explained that the satellite would be capable of measuring solar radiation for anywhere in the world several times each day.

"The satellite has instruments that scan cloud cover to determine types and densities. It then assigns a brightness number to the amount of light reflected from the clouds or land surface which is correlated to radiation. This number is then compared with the pyranometer's measurement," Blad said.

He added that the test would be conducted almost daily during the summer of 1977. He

A lot of silage is put up in Wayne County. But sometimes there are problems. Here are some suggestions for preventing certain silage difficulties.

Moldy Silage
Molding in silage is caused by air coming into contact with moist forage or silage and is the result of poor packing, or a poor seal.

Prevention of moldy silage includes good packing, filling the silo rapidly, avoiding leaks in structures, using a plastic cover for sealing the top of upright or trench silos. The cover should be applied immediately after filling and must be weighted down.

Roiling Silage
Silage will rot when acid development is low or when activity is reversed by protein breakdown and when there is high exposure to moist ensiled forage.

Preventing includes the following:
—Promote effective fermentation. Forage for ensiling should be at least 60 per cent moisture, but not more than 73 per cent without a preservative. If more than 73 per cent moisture, a preservative may be needed to obtain enough acidity.

Black Silage or Overheating
Silage may turn brown or black during storage when excessive heating occurs. Normally the temperature in silage reaches 90-100 degrees Fahrenheit. But when air penetrates the silage a temperature of 120 degrees or higher may be reached.

To prevent black or overheated silage ensile forage at above 60 per cent moisture content and prevent air from penetrating into ensiled forage by using good silos, silo seals and effective packing.

Strong Odors
Butyric acid is the main ingredient of strong smelling silage. This acid is usually the result of failure of a rapid, early lactic fermentation and acidity development. Odor problems are most often associated with high moisture legume silages that are low in fermentable carbohydrates.

Preventive measures includes wilting forage to 60-70 per cent moisture before ensiling and adding fermentable nutrients (ground grains or molasses) or other lactic acid fermentation stimulants. This is especially important for crops ensiled at above 73 per cent moisture.

Research Team Finishes Testing Noise Levels

Do agricultural workers need noise standards presently applied to other industries?

This question has been studied over the past year by Neil Sullivan and Rollin Schnieder at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Reporting at the American Society of Agricultural Engineers meeting in Raleigh, N.C. Sunday through Wednesday, Sullivan said that he did not believe such standards were necessary for the average worker or if precautions were used for certain pieces of equipment.

Six agricultural employers cooperated in the year-long study by furnishing records of the frequency and duration of use of numerous items of equipment. Sullivan and his colleagues measured noise levels and the daily cumulative dosages.

Though some pieces of agricultural equipment produces five times the daily dosage of noise presently allowed in other industries, those items were used for relatively short periods.

Tieman: Urban Congress Faces Rural Transportation Efforts

An urban-oriented Congress is one of the problems facing rural transportation organizers, according to the former Federal Administrator of Highways, Norbert Tiemann. Tiemann addressed an agricultural economics seminar June 21 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Union.

He cited a real need for transportation of the 54 million people in America living in towns with populations of 5,000 or less. The former governor of Nebraska said it is difficult to get public transportation for these people because they are so dispersed throughout the countryside.

"They are dependent on private cars, have a tendency to travel more often and have 4,000 more miles on their cars annually than do urban dwellers. Rural routes have always been the first to be eliminated in the case of a budget cut, since they are usually the least profitable," Tiemann said.

He added that availability of public transportation in an area sometimes doesn't help, when many people live more than five miles from the bus stop.

As two alternatives, he suggested use of small buses or school buses during off hours.

"Size is critical in buses. If a bus is too large, it would have a hard time maneuvering country roads in good conditions, much less after a rain or snow. A small bus would have less chance of running empty, since it has less seats and it costs less to run," he said.

Tiemann said it was suggested at one time that a $3 excise tax per barrel of crude oil be enforced. While such a move would raise about $25 billion for transportation, it would also increase inflation and force the price of gasoline up by 30 cents per gallon, he added.

Except for the completion of the interstate highway system, Tiemann said, most new high-priority construction is done. He noted that while the federal government has done a good job of building a highway system, it hasn't managed it very well.

Tiemann also recommended regional regulation of airlines. "We can't solve airline problems for the whole country at once. Things might work better if we doled out a certain amount of funds to each region and let them regulate themselves," he said.

As a former member of a Red Tape Committee, designed to reduce the amount of needless paperwork and overcomplicated regulations, he said he had wanted to trim the categories of highway construction from 34 to four.

"Instead, Congress ended up cutting four categories and adding six. Another idea was to simplify, change or drop any regulations that needed changes. It was also suggested that we write broad guidelines and allow states to write regulations on their own. However, these were not accomplished," he said.

Tiemann was in Lincoln for a two-day series of speeches at UN-L's City and East Campuses.

Medicare Premiums Increasing

Monthly premiums on the medical insurance part of Medicare will go up starting Friday. The basic premium rate will go from $7.20 to $7.70 a month, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses and is funded by individual premiums and federal general revenues. The protection is offered to people 65 and over; to disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more, and to many people under 65 with permanent kidney failure.

The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program. Based on this review, an estimate is made of the cost of this coverage for the following year. "Under that provision," Branch said, "the Medicare beneficiaries' basic premium rate would have been increased by over 70 per cent to $12.30 a month because of rising costs of medical services covered by Medicare's medical insurance. "But," he said, "the law also limits any increase in the basic premium rate to the percentage that social security benefit payments increased in the previous year. Social security payments increased 6.4 percent in 1976, so the Medicare medical insurance basic premium rate was limited to an increase of 6.4 percent starting July 1 — to $7.70 a month." The premium is about one-third the cost of this protection. The federal government pays the remainder from general revenues.

Hospital insurance protection is extended without premium charge to people 65 and over who are eligible for social security benefits, to disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more, and to many people under 65 with permanent kidney failure.

"People 65 and over who aren't eligible for social security benefits can get Medicare hospital insurance premium rate is based on the average monthly cost of this protection. Starting Friday this rate will go from $45 to $54 a month.

More than 24 million people have one or both parts of Medicare.

People can get information about signing up for Medicare by calling, writing, or visiting any social security office.

Whey Nutrients Now Wasted

Eight hundred million pounds of valuable nutrient solids from dairy products are now going down the drain each year, according to Dr. Khem Shahani of the University of Nebraska's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR).

Speaking to the 72nd annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Association in Ames, Iowa, Sunday through Wednesday, Shahani reported work by himself and associates, Drs. Arun Kilara and B.N. Mathur, on the utilization of the more than 30 billion pounds of cheese whey produced annually in the United States which is now wasted.

The wasted whey contributes to pollution of streams and the overloading of sewage systems.

Dr. Shahani and his co-workers are investigating the use of whey nutrients in human foods such as soup and gravy bases, geriatric and baby foods, and the preparation of bacteria growth media.

In a series of five papers presented by this group, various solutions for the surplus whey problem were discussed. In addition to whey utilization, modification of dairy foods such as cheeses, buttermilk and yogurt with lactic microorganisms was discussed. These bacteria have been shown to affect the flavor, body, texture, and nutritive value of dairy products. The lactic microorganisms synthesize certain vitamins as well as some natural antibiotics.

In addition to bacterial actions, the Shahani group is using immobilized enzymes in hydrolyzing the proteins and fats in cheese whey. With the collaboration of Dr. Fred Wagner in the IANR's Laboratory of Agricultural Biochemistry, they have shown that immobilized enzymes can be used repeatedly which makes them drastically cheaper than regular enzymes which can be used but once.

Dr. Mathur has used the whey products in the production of Italian Ricotta cheese which is normally made from whole milk. The use of whey as a major ingredient of such cheese is another example of a food use to utilize what is now wasted.

'Ice Bin' Is Energy Saver

Now they've invented a house that "saves" cold February days to cool off stifling summers, and hot August days to take the chill off winter.

And, at no extra charge, the homeowner saves up to 70 per cent on his year-round heating and cooling costs.

The house or the novel method of heating and cooling it is among the most promising in the increasing effort to find economical substitutes for oil and gas as these natural resources get scarcer and more expensive.

That's the way engineers size up the Annual Cycle Energy System house, or ACES house, for short. It is also called "the ice bin house" because the basement tank of water that sits under the living room, garage, or patio and freezes up every mid-winter.

The idea of the ACES system, according to the National Geographic Society, is based on the fact that in much of the United States the heat you need to get rid of to be comfortable in your house during the summer is just about equal to what you must add to be warm in winter.

Heart of the house's heating system is the heat pump, a variation of the machinery that keeps household refrigerators cold. The heat pump, once believed to be economically worthwhile only in the South, now is being used in more northern climates, thanks to improved technology and to the rising costs of fossil fuels.

The heat pump does not burn gas, coal or oil to produce heat or to run an air conditioner. Instead, it removes heat from the air outdoors and warms the house with it in winter, and pumps heat out of the house to cool it in summer. Electricity is needed not for heating but mostly to run the heat pump's compressor.

In the ACES house, the heat pump takes heat not from the air but from the large tank of water that has gradually warmed through the summer. As the heat is absorbed, the water drops to freezing and starts turning to ice — just as a pond outdoors freezes in winter's grip.

Then, as spring days start turning into a hot summer, a reservoir of icy water is ready to cool the house. Coils of pipe, filled with water diluted with alcohol so it won't freeze, twist through the ice-water tank.

The water-alcohol mixture is chilled and pumped continuously through a heat exchanger where air picks up the chill and blows it through the duct system of the house.

By the time winter comes, the ice has all melted, and the water has picked up the summer heat taken from the house during the cooling days. The circulating water-alcohol mixtures then begins slowly taking away the heat from the water and warming the house, again by way of the heat exchanger and air ducts.

The most ideal climate for an ACES house is within a broad band across the map split by 36 degrees north latitude, a line that runs within miles of Winston-Salem, N.C., Nashville, Tenn., and Oklahoma City. Farther south, backup air conditioning may be needed, and farther north supplementary heating, which could be solar.

So far, test houses near Knoxville, Tenn., and Pittsburg, Pa., have been successfully heated and cooled with ACES systems, and in Wilmington, Del., a 60-bed Veterans Administration hospital will use the system.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Gladys Stout

HOME-MADE BABY

Baby food has gone up in cost along with other foods. Infants can often be fed well, however, and at lower cost if home prepared rather than commercially prepared foods are used. Home prepared baby food can save up to 50 per cent of the cost of feeding your child.

Baby foods made using proper home procedures are as nutritious as those that are bought at the store. Some are even more nutritious because of the low total solids contents and the addition of sugar and starch to many commercial baby foods. Also, concentrations of protein, vitamins and minerals are likely to be less for store-bought baby food than for corresponding foods prepared in the home.

Parents concerned about the amount of salt their child is getting, can circumvent the problem by preparing food at home from unsalted meats and vegetables. However, if canned meats or vegetables are used, the salt content is likely to be even more than that in store-bought foods.

A variety of strained baby foods can be easily made at home with a blender or food chopper, a freezer and a little planning. Most foods prepared for the family also are suitable for the baby. These can be pureed for immediate use or quick-frozen in ice cube trays or small sterilized containers for later use. Serving the baby a few thawed cubes at a time will save both time and energy.

Foods which are not frozen, should be kept for only a day or two, and high standards of cleanliness need to be maintained whenever preparing baby food at home.

Commercially prepared baby foods are a definite convenience to busy mother and may be well worth the additional cost. The mother should consider the child's needs, her time, the cost and whether or not the home has adequate sanitation, refrigeration and storage for foods.

Maple syrup and maple sugar are exclusively North American products.

Family Finances

brought to you by Pat Gross

Q. We've been married three months, and like most of our friends we've made a few purchases on credit. We sure don't want to bite off more than we can chew, but how can we tell? Credit seems so easy! Are there any signal flags that will let us know if we're getting close to the dangerline?

A. There sure are! The first danger signal is when you have to defer payment of a bill because there just isn't enough money to pay them all. Another signal is when you make a part payment on a credit account, to try to give all creditors a little something on account. Another danger signal is when you have to defer the purchase of current necessities to pay old credit obligations. Do you sometimes depend on overtime or other uncertain income to pay normal monthly expenditures? Well, if you do, it's another danger signal. And finally, if you have an open debt that has no maturity date, but allows you to pay just enough to keep you under a "perpetual debt" ceiling balance (revolving credit), this is a danger signal, too. Every credit obligation ought to have a definite termination point, established at the time the credit contract is signed.

We wish to reiterate that it is advisable to call the funeral director of your choice promptly after death occurs, regardless of the hour of the day or night. If your clergyman was not in attendance at death, courtesy dictates that he also be notified during the day, not that he first read of the death of a church member in the obituary column.
