Wayne Native Is Region IV Information Head

A Wayne native, Susan Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Wright of Wayne, has been hired as public education and information consultant for the Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities in Wayne.

The job includes media and public relations for the entire 22 county area administered by the Region IV office, as well as creating programs and materials to educate the public on all aspects of mental retardation and on the nature and philosophy of community-based mental retardation programs.

Executive director Mary Ann Brenden said Ms. Lewis' extensive background in journalism and advertising will be of great value in implementing various multimedia programs to educate the public on a topic about which so many myths and misconceptions have arisen.

"An aware public is essential to the success of our programs, programs whose primary goal is to assist each individual who is mentally retarded to lead as full and normal a life as possible. And this goal is only possible within a community setting," Mrs. Brenden said.

Ms. Lewis has been living in Atlanta, Ga., for the past few years. Her experience includes working as a copywriter with an advertising agency, freelance copywriter and journalist, music and entertainment columnist for a large Atlanta weekly, and associate editor of a monthly music magazine.

In addition to listening to and writing about others' music, she has worked as a professional musician herself, playing flute, guitar and singing, both alone and with groups.

A preliminary hearing in Wayne County court for a Norfolk man charged with first degree sexual assault has been continued.

A hearing was scheduled for Thursday afternoon for William G. Hill, 30, of Norfolk, alleged to have attacked a 16-year-old girl June 24 in Wayne County.

County attorney Budd Bornhoff said the hearing was postponed because Hill is believed to be hospitalized. No new hearing date had been set Thursday afternoon. Hill remains free on $25,000 bond.

BUD McNatt built this model sprint car from scratch, using a model airplane engine and parts from a bicycle, radio tuner, and a sewing machine. The 50 mile per hour speedster is radio controlled.

Hardware Man Is Master Model Builder

By JIM STRAYER

When Bud McNatt goes racing he takes along two cars: a 15-horsepower go-cart, and a one-half horsepower radio-controlled model sprint car.

McNatt last summer raced his go-cart on a track at Fremont, although he only competed twice because of brake problems on the Yamaha-powered cart.

The racer supposedly is capable of 90 miles per hour on a straightaway, McNatt said, adding, "I don't know if I've every gone that fast with it."

The model racer is older, one he built 11 years ago. He decided to take it along to the go-cart races, planning to give exhibitions with it. The demonstrations didn't materialize last summer, however, because of problems with the radio control transmitter.

The Wayne hardware store owner's interest in machinery isn't new. He built his first wire-controlled, powered model airplane when he was 11 years old, later graduating to radio controlled models.

He doesn't remember exactly when he built his first radio-controlled plane, but its name gives a clue as to the year of its origin. Named "Sputnik-1," the model was built shortly after the Soviet Union orbited the world's first man-made satellite.

That first model was relatively simple, McNatt said -- a trainer with controls only for the rudder. He has since built a number of models, much more sophisticated, with radio controls for rudder, elevators, throttle, nose wheels, and brakes. One plane, modeled after a World War II vintage

P-51 Mustang fighter plane, even carried six rockets which actually fired from brackets mounted under six-foot long wings.

McNatt took the miniature Mustang to a national model contest in 1962, finishing on top in one area of competition, but meeting disaster in another.

The plane placed first in scale competition -- judging based on how faithfully the model duplicated in miniature the real thing.

A unique feature which scored high for McNatt's entry was its camouflage finish designed to see MODEL, page 6

Caravan to Protest Seventh St. Proposal

A car caravan will leave from Wayne Tuesday to attend a public hearing in O'Neill and protest a Department of Roads (DOR) proposal to widen Highway 35 (Seventh St.) in Wayne to four lanes.

The Wayne city council a year ago voted to endorse the DOR proposal despite a petition bearing the names of nearly 80 per cent of the property owners involved, protesting the proposal. Council members had been informed the state will not share the cost of repaving the street unless it is widened.

Dave Ewing of Wayne, an organizer of the caravan, said he thinks the state has not given sufficient consideration to alternatives, including a bypass route. Ewing said the city planning commission four years ago recommended a Highway 35 bypass which would route traffic south along the road bordering the county fairgrounds on the west, then east along Grainland road, finally northeast along the old Chicago and North Western railroad right of way.

The DOR previously rejected the plan, but Ewing said he thinks the state should take another look at it, pointing out that other, larger Nebraska towns such as Grand Island with traffic problems similar to Wayne's have been successful in having bypass routes installed.

Another alternative Ewing suggested is to route Highway 35 through two streets in Wayne: with Seventh St. carrying traffic in one direction and Sixth or Eighth streets carrying it the other way.

Ewing said he views with suspicion the DOR to hold its district public hearing in O'Neill. The hearing is scheduled to allow residents of 13 counties in the road district to voice their opinions on proposed projects. Ewing said Wayne is the most volatile town in the district regarding the hearing because of the Highway 35 proposal and suggested the hearing might have been set in O'Neill to make it difficult for Wayne residents to attend.

The council's decision to endorse the DOR plan was made prior to the 1976 election and two new members are now on the council. Ewing said that in addition to attending the DOR

Hearing on Tuition Set For Oct. 3

The second legislative hearing on reciprocal tuition agreements between states for post-secondary education will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 3, at Wayne State College.

A subcommittee, chaired by Senator Frank Lewis, was created by the Nebraska Legislature's Postsecondary Education Advisory committee to study the problems in financing a reciprocal tuition agreement. The states involved include Nebraska, South Dakota, Colorado and Kansas.

During testimony at the first meeting on the proposed agreement, held during August, educators said such an agreement would benefit all students by lowering the barriers of higher non-resident tuition in colleges.

Specific topics for the possible agreements will be discussed at the Oct. 3 meeting. These include the areas of veterinary medicine, mining, optometry and others. The meeting will also include discussions on reciprocal service agreements among institutions for computer services, transferability of credit and other services. The hearing is not restricted to these topics and comments and suggestions are invited.

Livestock Men Will Tell Outlook

A group of livestock men will form a panel to give their views of the livestock business for the coming year at a fall outlook meeting tonight (Monday) at the Black Knight restaurant in Wayne.

The meeting is sponsored by the Northeast Feeders Association. A social hour at 6:30 provided by Wayne County Banks will be followed at 7:30 by dinner.

Chamber Elects Board Members

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce has elected three new members to its board of directors for three-year terms.

Dean Bruggeman Jr., John Dorcay, and Bill Dickcy were elected to replace Al Wittig, Larry Johnson and Roger Nelson. Other board members are Gerald Botenkamp, Dean Pierson, Charles Surber, Glen Ellington, Darrell Moore and Steve Schumacher.

Wessel Named To State Dental Association Post

Dr. Wayne Wessel of Wayne has been selected by the board of trustees of the Nebraska Dental Association to serve as a member of the organization's council on auxiliaries for 1977-78.

Dr. H.C.C. Nelson of Sidney, president of the association, said the 15 councils and four special committees are an important part of the association since they carry out the plans and policies as proposed by the governing bodies, the board of trustees and house of delegates. Each is delegated an area of responsibility by these two groups.

State National Bank Plans Major Renovation

State National Bank official David Ley Thursday announced plans for an extensive remodeling and expansion project to begin in October.

When completed, the project will unite the existing bank building and the adjacent building which formerly housed the Black Knight bar and restaurant into a single facility, allowing considerable additional floor space for expanded customer service areas.

The accompanying architect's drawing shows what the building exterior will look like when the project is completed. Stone identical to that used in the lower half of the existing bank building will be extended from ground level to the roof line on both buildings. Ground-to-roof windows will give a strong vertical accent to the building's appearance. Fixtures mounted in the roof line fascia, which will extend two feet over the sidewalk, will provide indirect lighting to illuminate the structure.

The entrance to the bank will be relocated, with a foyer built at the current location of a night deposit box on the east side of the building.

Ley said a separate outside entrance will be provided for professional offices located in the building, including accountant Jerry Malcom, dentist Dr. George Goblirsch, and the bank insurance agency. The additional ground level floor space available by expanding facilities into the former Black Knight bar will permit a much larger lobby. Ley said plans include more teller windows, a receptionist's desk, a larger safety deposit box vault, and facilities for more personalized customer service. Ley said. See RENOVATION, page 6

School bus safety is everyone's concern

School bus safety is an area that teachers, parents, children — and all driver — need to be concerned about.

Drivers traveling in the lane of traffic behind a school bus and those in the facing lane are required by law to stop when the bus has stopped to load or unload school children, and the stop arm is extended. Drivers have this responsibility to stop, but not all drivers stop.

Teachers and parents can help protect children from irresponsible drivers. Children can be taught safety rules that may save their lives. They can learn what to do on their way to the school bus, how to act while on the bus and how to safely get off of it.

School bus safety actually begins even before children get on the bus. Children should leave their homes about the same time every day so that they will, without rushing, be at the bus stop about five minutes before the bus arrives. If they have to wait longer than five minutes, there is a greater chance they will begin roughhousing, and this could lead to an accident.

On the other hand, arriving at the bus stop late will make everyone on the bus tardy, if the bus driver waits. If the driver doesn't wait, some children will be

When parents know their children will not be riding the bus on a particular morning, they should always inform the driver of that fact. Courtesy pays.

On the way to the bus stop, children should walk on the sidewalks. If there are no sidewalks, it is safest for them to walk single file facing the traffic, on the left hand side of the road. They should not cross people's lawns or leave a trail of litter behind them.

While waiting at the stop for the bus, children should stand on the sidewalk, not in the street.

When the bus arrives and has come to a complete stop, children can get in line, single file, with all the younger children first. When the door is opened, they all need to use the handrail as they get on the bus one step at a time.

After getting on the bus, children and bus drivers should be especially safety conscious. According to a national report on school bus safety, and estimated 6,100 pupils are hurt per year in school-bus-related accidents. Ninety-three percent of these children are hurt inside the bus. Over one-half of these injuries are to the head and face. The backs of bus seats are the cause of about three-fourths of all these injuries.

Teeth are especially susceptible to injury in bus accidents. According to a survey conducted by the American Society of Oral Surgeons, 1,350 children in school bus accidents required the services of an oral surgeon during a single school year.

While riding on the bus, children should put books on their laps or next to them on the seat. They should talk quietly and not distract the driver. It is best that they never stick their heads, arms or hands out of windows nor open windows without the driver's permission.

According to safety rules, snacks and homework should be saved for later, because flying pens, pencils, apple cores, etc., could hurt someone if the bus has to make a sudden stop.

When the bus arrives at school, children should remain seated until the bus comes to a full stop. Then they can stand up and get off the bus quietly and orderly without pushing or running, letting people at the front of the bus off first. Everyone should use the handrail and walk away from the unloading area as soon as possible.

Even though Nebraska law requires motorists to stop when a school bus has its stop arm extended, children need to be cautious when stepping out into traffic lanes when getting on or off school buses.

When the bus stops to let off passengers, children need to get off promptly. They should walk 10 steps ahead of the bus along the edge of the road and then stop and look back at the bus driver and wait for a signal to cross. At that point children need to be instructed to double check by looking both ways to see if traffic has stopped. If cars are stopped, the children may walk quickly across the road.

One of the most important things for children to be told about crossing in front of buses is to walk at least 10 steps ahead of the bus before crossing. This is important because of the driver's blind spot directly in front of the bus.

As yet unknown to most safety experts is why a disproportionate number of deaths and serious injuries result from accidents during field trips as compared with to-and-from school trips. Whether both children and bus drivers forget safety in the excitement of going someplace new is unknown. Whatever the reason, statistics prove this is a problem area that deserves special attention.

A survey of 20 bus accidents involving multiple fatalities indicated that field trips seem more dangerous than the regular bus routes. With only a few exceptions, most bus accidents that killed more than five people occurred on field trips.

Knowing the statistics concerning field trip accidents, teachers and adults responsible for children on school outings, should review safety rules with children before they go. They should be extra careful on such outings.

Another fine document need special safety training is in preparations for an emergency. Safety rules concerning an emergency say that children are to remain in their seats until told what to do by the driver. They are not to use emergency equipment unless told to do so. When directed by the driver to get out of their seats, children are to leave everything behind and to quickly, without pushing, go to the emergency exit. They are to wrap loose clothing around them so it won't get caught, duck their heads and bend their knees as they jump, and get away from the exit once they are out.

Nebraska's regulations, which comply with federal standards, require that "at least twice during each school year, each pupil who is transported in a school bus shall be instructed in safe riding practices and participate in emergency evacuation drills."

Safe school bus rides mean a team of people — children, bus drivers, teachers, parents, school administrators — working together. But the most important members of the team are school children. They have the most to lose if safety procedures are not practiced. — Nebraska Highway Safety Program

STRAYEr Thoughts

A new Explorer Post is being formed in Wayne, and the people responsible for organizing it are commended.

The post will specialize in learning about various aspects of medicine. Providence Medical Center administrator Sister Therese Koch said a similar Post in Norfolk, where she formerly was administrator at Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital, was successful. The leadership involved in organizing the Wayne Post should ensure similar success here.

The downtown area, along with other businesses which have or are contemplating renovation projects.

Refurbishing buildings of course is an important part of the downtown improvement project, along with the sidewalk and curb and gutter replacement now underway.

Youngsters sure looked like they were having a good time last week at the muscular dystrophy carnival at the Dick Keidel home. The kids who organized and operated the carnival certainly deserved to be commended for working to help others.

EPA mileage estimates not very useful

Government attempts to furnish consumer services often go awry, even with the purest of motives. A good example is those gasoline mileage estimates provided for new cars by the Environmental Protection Agency. Practically nobody is happy with them, according to a recent article in the Wall Street Journal. And it occurred to me as I read the story that the EPA's experience offers some valuable lessons.

—You can't please everybody. The EPA test cars under laboratory conditions, not out on the road. The test insures a reasonably fair comparison from one car to another, but bears little relationship to the actual mileage that will be obtained when driving in the real world. Consequently, even other federal agencies do not accept EPA's figures as a measure of probable gasoline consumption. The Department of Transportation discounts them by 11 per cent, and the Federal Energy Administration by 14 per cent.

The problem of de facto inflation in the official figures leads to the somewhat ludicrous situation of EPA requiring auto manufacturers to post its estimates on new cards, while also requiring the manufacturers to say that the figures may not be reliable guides to the buyer's mileage.

Epa defends itself by blaming consumers for not understanding how to use the figures it provides. This defense reminds me of a manufacturer complaining to a government regulator that his product is safe and effective "if the consumer follows the directions." It is often a valid defense, which the government often refuses to accept.

—People discount inflated claims. Government regulators like the Federal Trade Commission try by various means to ban puffery in advertising. It victimizes the consumer, they say. But surveys — and common sense — show the consumer to be a much more sophisticated animal than the government acknowledges. Very few people are so foolish as to take all advertising literally. And now, according to a government survey the Journal cites, 64 per cent of us have learned not to believe the EPA's claims either.

—Red tape begets red tape. EPA is reluctant to adjust its figures to more closely approximate actual mileage because Congress has legislated mandatory mileage goals for the auto manufacturers, and the goals are tied to the inflated EPA figures. If EPA suddenly lowered its figures, the manufacturers would find themselves facing goals nearly impossible to meet. Their mileage target would be stated in terms of the old, high EPA figures, while the performance of their cars would be measured by the new, realistic EPA figures.

Private enterprise provides what people really want. I know of at least seven national magazines that offer their readers test reports on new cars, including gasoline mileage figures. There are probably a lot more than seven. These tests are conducted on the road under conditions designed to approximate the actual experience of the average driver. They don't cost the taxpayer a cent. They are available to the consumer without charge at a public library, or for the nominal price of the magazine at a newsstand. — Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Stories clarified

Dear Editor:

In last Thursday's Herald, editor Jim Strayer took this local broadcaster to task for putting in our daily "News Gram" that the photo coverage of the downtown improvement project in Wayne was the first published by any newspaper. The editor of the "News Gram" regrets that error, as it should have said, "any daily newspapers."

However, this broadcaster would like to point out that although I did provide the photos for the photo page in the Sioux City Journal, I did not provide the text. That text was written by the Journal after a phone conversation with city clerk

Bruce Mordhorst. People have asked me if I did not know better, that no vote will be taken on the downtown improvement project. Of course, I did, it's just that the Journal did not, and misquoted Mordhorst.

I, too, wish that the Wayne news media could work closer together; this town, and this area needs both.

Sincerely — Ted Storck

Lessons Planned on Soups, Accompaniments

During September, home extension club lesson leaders and other interested organizations in Cedar, Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Thurston Counties will learn how to plan meals with soups as the main course.

The leader training sessions, entitled "Soups and Accompaniments," will be held for representatives of any interested group or club. Such leaders should notify Joycelyn Smith at the Northeast Startout at Concord if they plan to attend one of the meetings, so lesson materials can be prepared.

The session will give these representatives information that they, in turn, can present to their club members.

Meetings are scheduled to be held: Sept. 26 - 1:30 p.m., Dakota County Courthouse meeting room, lower level, Dakota City; Sept. 27 - 1:30 p.m., Hartington city auditorium, Hartington; Sept. 28 - 1:30 p.m., Villa Wayne, Wayne; Sept. 29 - 1:30 p.m., Northeast Station, Concord; Sept. 30 - 1:30 p.m., Fire Hall, Pender.

Blue Devils Get a Taste of Sweet Victory, 14-0

By BOB BARTLETT
One string of events came to an abrupt end and another started Friday night as Wayne High claimed its first grid victory of the season, a 14-0 shutout of visiting Hartington Cedar Catholic.

The string that came to an end for Wayne was Hartington's hanging threat of putting Wayne signal callers out of commission — a strong threat which the Trojans have proved to be true in the past, but didn't materialize Friday night.

The string that Wayne started and hopefully will continue for first-year coach Steve Cline is a long list of victories. "If we get past Cedar," he told members of Second Guessers Thursday, "Wayne has a good shot at producing a winning season."

The difference that made the Devils a winner after a loss and a tie was the elimination of costly turnovers.

"When we got our hands on the ball we kept it," the coach pointed out, adding that his club was fortunate in terms of field position and not giving Cedar the ball very often. "Just about everything went our way except for a few penalties."

The play that went in Wayne's favor and gave the Devils the insurance touchdown came late in the third quarter on first and 10 play when a pass intended for Kevin Murray went over its target and into the outstretched hands of Clay Ellingson who raced 46 yards for a 12-0 Wayne lead.

Despite an off-side penalty after Al Nissen's successful PAT, Wayne was able to put two points on the board when quarterback Tom Ginn, who was holding the ball, unleashed a pass to Murray for a 14-0 lead.

Setting up that winning touch-down play was the Devils' fourth interception of the night when Kelly Hansen nabbed his first.

Hartington twice had scoring threats thwarted in the last three minutes of the first half by Wayne's stout defense.

Defensive halfback Tom Ginn stopped the Trojans' deepest penetration on his first of two aerial thefts, this time near the five-yard line with just seconds showing on the clock.

Cedar signal caller Mike Schieffer marched his team down to the 17-yard line on key passes to Callen Kathol and Brad Hochstetler after a pass interception by Neal Rolfs put new life in coach Dick Fitzgerald's club. Then Schieffer found Kathol open for a brief second, but the pass went incomplete when his receiver dropped the ball in the endzone.

On Hartington's first major scoring drive, runningback Todd Wieseler rushed for three consecutive first downs before the Devils put the clamps on the Trojans and forced them to give up the ball on downs at Wayne's 38-yard line.

Bulldog runner Brad Emry tossed and turned his way downfield to put Wayne into scoring position after he recovered a Cedar fumble on the Trojan's 35-yard line.

Quarterback Ginn, who went one for three in the first half, completed his second toss attempt to Kevin Murray for 18 yards and a first down at the 17. Four plays later Emry found paydirt on third and five when he hepped across the goal line unchallenged for a 6-0 lead with 3:43 left in the first half.

Nissen's attempt at the PAT went left giving Wayne the margin going into the second half. "Our defense took the ball game over in the second half," Cline said, pointing out that his defense almost lived up to its goal of holding its opponents to a total of 100 yards or less. Cedar gained a total of 106 yards.

Wayne's punting game also was instrumental in holding Cedar deep in its own territory. Emry twice put Hartington in bad field position when he booted the ball 52 yards into Cedar's endzone and drove a boot on the Trojan's six.

Roger Daniels was the leading ground gainer for Wayne with 75 yards. He was followed by Hanson with 59 and Emry with 48.

Defensively, Dennis Carroll had two solo tackles and 12 assists while Dan Mitchell had three takeaways and six assists and Don Straight was credited with two tackles and 12 assists.

"The main thing about tonight's game," the coach concluded, "is that the kids showed character. They were able to come back from a loss and a tie to win."

BREAK AWAY speedster Brad Emry tries to escape the clutches of a Hartington defender as the Wayne runner returns a punt early in the first half. Although Emry finished third on the rushing charts in the Devils' 14-0 victory, he was very instrumental in scoring Wayne's first touchdown for a 6-0 first-half lead.

8th Grade Ties

Wayne and Norfolk Catholic deadlocked at six apiece in eighth grade football action Tuesday night at Wayne.

The locals were the first to get on the scoreboard on Richard Poehlman's score in the first half. Norfolk tied the match with about a minute left in the game.

Coach Lee Mueller said he had never seen a game where his offensive line wasn't penalized for being offside. "Our line did a good job," he added.

Defensively, Poehlman and Eric Brink were credited with a good job. Besides Poehlman, Mark Bofenkamp and Jeff Nelson were selected for their offensive work.

Tuesday night the locals travel to Randolph.

Frosh Rip Pierce For 2nd Straight

Jere Morris and Tod Heier teamed up for touchdown passes of 18 and 14 yards Thursday and Tim Pfeiffer scored three times as Wayne High freshmen romped over host Pierce, 37-0, for the locals' second straight victory.

The bulk of Wayne's scoring came in the second quarter where the Blue Devils of Duane Blomkamp crossed the goal line four times for a 24-0 half-time command.

Quarterback Morris rifled the first two TDs to Heier for a 12-0 lead, followed by a two-yard scoring blast by Pfeiffer and a 55 yard pass interception by Heier who took the ball in unchallenged.

Wayne's first drive covered 57 yards as the Devils marched to paydirt during their second possession of the game. Bryan Aquino bolted for 45 yards on the Devils' next scoring drive to keep Wayne's 67-yard scoring march alive.

A blocked punt set up Wayne's third touchdown on the 18 yard line.

In the final stanza, Blomkamp sent in his second string squad which showed it had the same scoring potential as the varsity. Pfeiffer went three yards to put his team up 30-0 before Pat McCright booted the team's first successful PAT of the game for a 31-0 lead.

Pfeiffer raced 65 yards on the last march to end Wayne's scoring.

Blomkamp lauded the plays of his defensive unit which gave up only three first downs in addition to scoring once and putting Wayne's offense in good scoring position all day. Leading the defensive unit was Aaron Schuett.

The frosh will go after their third straight victory Thursday when they host Emerson Hubbard.

Wayne Runners

Finish Second

At Logan View

Wayne High runners nudged out host Hooper-Logan View to take second in a triangular cross country meet Thursday.

Dave Hamm posted the fourth best time to lead coach Harold Maciejewski's Blue Devils. Hamm completed the 2.2-mile course in 12:24, just four seconds off the winning time recorded by Wilson Barry from North Bend Central.

Jeff Backstrom took sixth for Wayne in 13:02 followed by Kurt Powers in 14:07 and Vic Sharpe in 15:01. Powers finished seventh and Sharpe came in 12th. Wayne's fifth runner Dennis Fleer was clocked in 15:58.

North Bend won with 11 points while Wayne had 31 and Logan View collected 32.

It was difficult to compare the times with the last performances because of the different terrains, Maciejewski pointed out.

Today (Monday) the Devils will host a triangular with Hartington Cedar Catholic and Cedar ridge at the Wayne Country Club.

State Hosting Rifle Shoot

High school shooters from across Nebraska will compete later this month in a small bore version of a fast-growing high powered rifle sport, metallic silhouette shooting.

The Game and Parks Commission and the Nebraska Rifle and Pistol Club are sponsoring the first annual Nebraska Invitational Small Bore Metallic Silhouette Championships on Sept. 24 at Pressey Special Use Area, 17 miles south of Broken-Bow on Nebraska Highway 21.

The silhouette shoot is the small bore rifle portion of the Game and Parks Commission's Sport Shooting curriculum for Nebraska high schools. The shotgun portion is already a big success, judging by the annual Cornhusker Invitational Trapshoot held at Doniphan each year.

Silhouette shooting is a more interesting and informal kind of rifle match than the military-oriented competition on paper targets with fancy rifles and special sights. Silhouette shooters fire at steel metal replicas of game animals at various ranges with rifles that they might also use for hunting. No heavy target rifles or supportive shooting jackets are allowed.

Scoring is simple and direct. Everyone, shooter, judges and spectators, knows the results as soon as the shot is fired. In the big bore matches, a target left standing is a miss, and one that is knocked over is a hit. No fancy scoring, and no judges decision to appeal. In the small bore contest at Pressey, targets will not be knocked over, but will be held in a special device that will indicate hits.

Shooters will fire 20 rounds, five each at chicken replicas 50 meters away, javelina at 75 meters, turkeys at 96 meters and high horn sheep at 125 meters. If time allows, the shoot may be expanded to a 40-round program.

In addition to the unique format of the silhouette shoot, the event will also offer a look at another interesting shooting sport, muzzle loading. A group of Nebraska muzzle loaders will be on hand with a couple of tepees to demonstrate some of their black powder equipment. They will also conjure up a muligan stew in a 10-gallon cast iron pot, and serve it with hot drop biscuits and honey for lunch. No guarantees are made on the lunch, except that it's free.

Don Hammer of Herman, president of the Nebraska Rifle and Pistol Association, is handling pre-registration for the event, and rifle and pistol club members will conduct the match and assist shooters on the line.

The shoot is open to any high school student who is academically eligible to participate in extracurricular. See STATE, page 5

Guessers Choices

Knights Spoil Homecoming Norfolk Pounds Laurel, 46-0

"We got beat by a better ball team and they beat us bad," is how Laurel coach Nick Danze summed up Norfolk Catholic's 46-0 thrashing Friday night before the Bears' homecoming crowd.

Norfolk, which is rated among the 10 Class C-1 teams in the state, scored almost as well as the invading Knights scored twice in each of the first three quarters enroute to their third straight win.

Led by the Knights' top rusher and scorer Mike Meistrick, Norfolk built a 14-0 first-quarter lead and went into the locker room at the half, carrying a 26-0 cushion.

"Norfolk is a very good team. They're quick... a lot quicker than we were," Danze pointed out after the Bears suffered their second setback in three outings.

Laurel never got beyond Norfolk's 35-yard line as the Knights defense consistently pushed the Bears back on a strong pass and ground rush.

The Bears, behind the running of Steve Anderson, mustered only 59 yards on the ground while Norfolk picked up 215 yards and passed for 88, for a total of 303 yards offensively.

Brad Saunders led Laurel's defense with 12 takedowns.

Next on the Bears' schedule is their fourth home game of the season Friday against Lewis and Clark tonight, Walthill.

Eagles Down Cats 21-6 to Stretch Win Streak to Two Upstart Allen High continued its dominance over Class C clubs Friday night when the Class D Eagles notched their second straight win by beating invading Winside, 21-6.

Allen, which owns a 14-8 upset over Wakefield, pushed its record to 2-1 as quarterback Tod Ellis and his favorite receiver Rayme Dowling directed the Eagles' first scoring drive and Dowling finished Allen's scoring in the final stanza.

The duo combined for a 23-yard touchdown pass play when the gun sounded to end the first quarter for a 6-0 lead, before Brent Chase booted the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Dowling who caught two passes for 58 yards, capped an 84-yard drive in four plays with a one-yard plunge. Halfback Chase finalized the scoring on a pass to Kevin Kraemer for the two-point conversion.

Winside runningback Ed Morris, who was second in rushing for the Wildcats with 76 yards, whittled the Eagles' lead in the second quarter when he booted two yards to score for a 7-6 halftime deficit. Allen's Steve Johnson foiled Winside's two-point play when he blocked a Paul Roberts pass intended for Mitch Pfeiffer.

The second half was all Allen as the Eagles scored in each quarter. Chase, who led Allen with 101 yards in eight carries, went two yards to score and put Allen in front 13-6 in the third quarter.

Chase picked up most of his rushing yardage in the fourth when he went 80 yards to put the ball at the four yard line and set up Allen's final score.

Winside could move the ball but turnovers — four interceptions and four fumbles plus 90 yards in penalties — just don't help.

Bruce Smith, who had seven tackles, blocked one Allen field goal attempt in the first period, and Bill Thomas stopped another in the last quarter to lead Winside's defensive efforts. Top tackler was Dan Brockman with nine takedowns. Leading ground gainer was Mitch Pfeiffer with 152 yards in 31 carries.

Chase also led Allen's defense with 13 takedowns and eight assists. Greg Carr followed with 11 tackles and six assists and Lin Smith had seven solos and four assists.

Wakefield Varsity, Reserve Post Wins

Wakefield's varsity and reserve volleyball squads posted their first wins of the season Thursday night by taking sets from visiting Harrington High.

Karen Johansen and Lisa Paul led the varsity spikers with 13 and nine points respectively as the Trojannes of coach Ernie Kovar claimed 15-9 and 15-2 victories.

Johansen was credited as the leading spiker while teammate Robin Mills led in setting enroute to Wakefield's 1-3 record.

Ardie Barker and Janet Siebrand had nine and eight points to lead the B squad to 15-5 and 15-9 win to push their record to 1-3.

In freshman action, the Trojannes dropped their third straight 10-12 and 8-11 to remain winless.

Model

blend in with the terrain below, offering some concealment from high flying enemy aircraft. Most model plane finishes are glossy, McNatt said, but he needed a dull finish if the camouflage was to look authentic. He achieved his goal by mixing talcum powder with paint, and contest judges were impressed with the results.

McNatt's hopes of winning a national title were dashed in the performance competition, however. When McNatt launched his P-11 he found he had no control at all. Another contestant, operating on the same wave length as McNatt, had inadvertently left his control transmitter switched on, blanketing out the Wayne man's signal. McNatt had no control over the plane and it crashed, suffering extensive damage. The remains are still in the basement of McNatt's store along with numerous other miniature planes and he is now thinking of restoring the P-11. "I'm kind of getting the bug again," he said in an interview Friday.

Loss of radio control once was a fairly common hazard for remote control pilots, McNatt said. Transmitters weren't as well built as they are today. "I've spent a lot of time and money looking for lost planes," he said. "He spent two weeks once looking for a downed wayward Sabre jet model, finally spotting it from the air in a cornfield."

McNatt built his miniature racer 11 years ago, applying the skills he had learned building planes, with some added touches.

The car is powered by a one-half horsepower model airplane engine. A model plane's propeller usually provides air to cool the engine, but for his tiny racer, McNatt designed and built a finned tin shroud to dissipate heat. Gears for the steering mechanism were taken from an automobile radio tuner. The main axle drive gear is a sewing machine pulley, and bearing centers for the wheels were made from bicycle wheel center cones. McNatt even made a flywheel for the racer, turning in on a lathe. Three servo-motors controlled by six radio channels control the racer, one each for steering, throttle, and a clutch and brake combination. McNatt explained that two channels are needed for each control function, one channel controlling each direction of operation (left and right on steering, for example). When the throttle control is not in use, engine speed automatically drops back to idle. When the clutch is engaged, brakes are automatically applied to slow it, and the car's lights and horn operate.

Caravan

"When the car is a couple of blocks away, the lights and horn help you know when it is slowed down enough to turn around," McNatt explained. "That is important, he said, because the racer is capable of hitting 50 m.p.h."

The body of the car, molded from fiberglass, is modeled after a 1950 sprint car. The flashy, hand painted body is relatively new. "I had it molded for years but never got around to pouring the body because it is so much fun to run the car," McNatt said.

Despite their difference in size, the go-cart and model racer share one piece of equipment. For years, McNatt started his model by hand with a starting box. When he began go-cart racing, he adapted a six-volt automobile starter, not mounted on the cart, to start the Yamaha engine. By making a few modifications, he is able to use the starter to get his model car fired up, too.

McNatt plans to have both cars in top shape when the racing season begins next summer. He will pilot his go-cart around the track from the driver's seat, vying for top placing in the competition. And he will pilot his miniature spring car from the sidelines via radio transmitter, just for fun.

Renovation

The former Black Knight restaurant will be converted into a community and board of directors meeting room. Ley said the project will be the first major remodeling effort for the bank since 1963. Since then, he said, the bank's business volume has tripled and the number of employees has doubled. The increased necessitated interior remodeling and expansion. Ley said, and the bank's board decided to undertake a major remodeling project in conjunction with efforts to renovate Wayne's downtown business district.

Number of Years' Income to Purchase Median Price Home

In relation to average income

Homes cost less today than they did in 1890

The prices of new homes in relation to average income have been dropping steadily since 1890. In that year it took almost 10 years of income to pay for the average new home. By 1940 that dropped to 5 years' income. By 1975 (the last year for which complete figures are available) it had dropped to only 2.8 years' income. And think of the extra convenience in new homes built today compared with 1890.

More and more people are recognizing that now is a good time to buy a home. More and more people are coming to Columbus Federal for home loans.

Best way to beat inflation

Buy a HOME. As prices go up, the value of your home goes up. The home you buy now will be worth more next year. Your home is one of the best financial investments you can make. It is one of the best happiness investments you can make. And we'd like to help you with the kind of home loan plan that will help you become a home owner.

As this chart shows, now is one of the best times in 85 years to buy a home

The Conservation and Survey Division, University of Nebraska, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, has established a sub-office at Norfolk. Mr. Dennis Lawton is assigned to the sub-office, which is located with the Lower Elkhorn NRD headquarters.

The sub-office, working with the NRD's, other local interests, state, and federal agencies, will carry on the authorized responsibilities of the Conservation & Survey Division. These flexible responsibilities include such activities as: the collection and dissemination of geologic and groundwater data; assisting in the development of soil surveys; working with well drillers, farmers, ranchers, other citizens on groundwater problems; working cooperatively with extension agents and the Concord Experimentation Station; and working with local and state health officials on groundwater quality.

The initial high priority work of Mr. Lawton has been in the field of groundwater, including advice and assistance on technical matters of groundwater management and potential control areas.

He also assists citizens on evaluating the groundwater potential for domestic or irrigation purposes based on presence of water yielding geologic materials.

In conclusion the Conservation and Survey Division is community referred to as the technical agency in regard to inventory of natural resources in the state of Nebraska.

The Department of Water Resources has also cooperated a branch office in the LENRD headquarters at Norfolk, Nebraska. Mr. Thomas R. Lamberson has been assigned to the Norfolk Office. The Department of Water Resources has the duty of determining rights to the use of the waters of the natural streams of Nebr. for domestic and municipal uses, for irrigation power, and other useful purposes. The Department must also regulate the use of water from natural streams in accordance with the rights which have been determined and made of record.

The Elkhorn River Basin and Missouri Tribes in NE Nebraska are served by the Norfolk Office.

Department of Water Resources Activities from the Norfolk Office include:

- 1) Stream gaging — 14 streams in NE Nebraska.
- 2) Monitoring and regulating surface water stream & reservoir irrigation.
- 3) Assist public in acquiring necessary permits (water rights & flood plains) required by Dept. of Water Resources and by investigating any complaints or problems with surface or underground water.

The initial high priority work of Mr. Thomas R. Lamberson has been recording stream flow measurements on small streams currently without permanent gaging equipment.

The Department of Water Resources is often referred to as the State's regulatory agency in regard to Water.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD is pleased to provide office space for these two cooperating agencies. Obviously it is of benefit to all concerns in coordinating water issues in NE Nebraska while at the same time providing better service to all taxpayers. Citizens in NE Nebraska are encouraged to call on these agencies offices as stated above.

Kiwanians 'Tour' Jewish Masada

Members of Wayne Kiwanis Club got a quick tour of the Jewish fortress, Masada, and the long history behind it, during a slide presentation Monday.
Kiwanian Doniver Peterson, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne, toured the Masada with two other Wayne ministers to learn about the history of the Jewish fortress and what it meant to Jews.
He explained that Masada had been occupied by pro-Roman forces until 66 A.D. when the Jews overthrew the city, marking an end to Roman domination in the area.
The trio took part in the special tour conducted by the Central Baptist Church in Kansas City, Kans., during the first three weeks in July.
