Burn Victim Is Fire Prevention Speaker

A man who survived third-degree burns over 45 per cent of his body will be the key speaker at the Wayne city auditorium Monday night at 7:30 as the volunteer fire department begins the observation of Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9-15.

Fire chief Dick Korn said Lawrence Larive of Spearfish, S.D. will give an address at the auditorium, and the public is invited to attend at no cost. Larive is scheduled to speak to students at St. Mary's Catholic School and Districts 51 and 57 during the day.

Larive suffered severe burns over 45 per cent of his body during an accident seven years ago. Korn said burns covering more than 45 per cent of the body are usually fatal.

Larive was working on a construction project — a refinery in South Dakota — when the accident happened. He and another man were working inside the refinery furnace when it started prematurely. Larive's companion died as a result of the mishap. The South Dakota man since his recovery has been traveling, lecturing about fire safety and the consequences of being burned.

Monday will also bring this year's junior fire patrol training in Wayne. The first session will meet before Larive's presentation so the youngsters can hear his address.

The patrol will meet regularly on the first Monday after the first Tuesday of each month. Fifth graders are invited to attend the one-hour sessions, beginning at 7 p.m. each month.

Snowmobiles Now Licensed By Treasurers

Snowmobiles which will be used other than on private property must be licensed locally. Wayne county treasurer Leon Meyer said Tuesday.

Snowmobiles in the past have been licensed directly with the Department of Motor Vehicles, but LB 220 passed in the last session of the Nebraska Legislature changes that. Effective Sept. 2, snowmobiles should be licensed with the county treasurer.

Licenses are not required for snowmobiles which are used only on private property, but Nebraska law does permit operation on road shoulders and to cross roads. Snowmobiles operated in this fashion must be licensed. Licenses now take the form of small metal plates rather than decals which previously were issued. Licensing can be done at any time of the year.

In addition, the law requires that persons 12 or younger cannot operate a snowmobile. See SNOWMOBILES, page 12

Topics which will be covered in the classes, which will be scheduled through May, include rescue, first aid, fire extinguishers, and operation of the fire department.

A New Look

CREWS began work Tuesday to pave over Wayne's Main Street from Clark to Seventh Street. Department of Roads officials said it would take about two days to complete the job. Wayne city administrator Fred Brink Tuesday night informed the city council the project will cost the community less than had been anticipated. DOR cost estimates indicated the city's share of the project would amount to about $17,000. Bids on asphalt came in lower than expected, however, and Brink said the city now expect to pay between $8,000 and $11,000. The city had allowed $10,000 on the contract for downtown improvement project for asphalt "feathering" to even out a two-inch lip on the curb to allow for future paving. The asphalt feathering won't be required with the paving project already completed.

Commission Disapproves Zoning Request

The Wayne city planning commission Monday night voted 5-1 to recommend that the city council not approve for a change of zoning requested by Mrs. Anna Swinney of Wayne.

Mrs. Swinney had asked that four acres located at the west end of third Street, between the Oak Ridge and Knolls subdivisions be changed from A-1 (agricultural) to R-2, a residential zone permitting multiple family dwellings for more than two families.

Budd Bornhoft, Mrs. Swinney's attorney, said she has an opportunity to sell one acre of the property to a concern interested in building a 24-unit apartment building. John Struve, representing homeowners in the two adjacent subdivisions, presented a petition bearing 78 signatures opposing the R-2 zoning request. Struve said home owners believe the area should be reserved for R-1 zoning which permits only single family homes. Rezoning Mrs. Swinney's property and building an apartment house there would result in increased traffic flow in the neighborhood, he said. A substantial problem already exists on Oak Drive, he said, adding that 35 children 12 or younger live on the street. Petition signers also fear building an apartment house in the area could depress market values for adjacent homes.

Bornhoft said his client is actually asking for a more restrictive zoning designation than the property now has. The A-1 zoning, he said, would permit, for example, building a fire station; a sewage treatment plant, commercial recreation areas and mobile home courts on the property.

He said there is no statistical evidence that increased traffic flow would increase the danger of a pedestrian accident in the area, and said no evidence exists that an apartment building would lower the value of adjacent property.

Bornhoft said he had asked two local real estate agents if there is a shortage of housing in Wayne and both agreed there is. One volunteered his opinion that an apartment building wouldn't see ZONING, page 12

Hearing Centers on Student Needs

A hearing that Nebraska Senator Frank Lewis said "showed general concern on the basic problem of how to provide services for students based on student demand," was held at Wayne State College Monday.

Lewis, chairman of a legislative subcommittee created to study reciprocal post-secondary education agreements between Nebraska and surrounding states, said he feels the hearing showed an overall agreement on the need for cooperation in education between states.

"We think there is a trend to provide some kind of agreement on tuition," he said, "and I am encouraged by the comments heard here today (Monday) and at Chadron (Sept. 27)."

Other subcommittee members, including senators Sam Cullen and Doug Bereuter, also attended. Discussions centered on possible agreements on tuition, veterinary medicine, optometry, architecture and library and computer services.

Under the proposed reciprocal tuition agreement, Lewis said, the states involved would allow non-resident graduate students to attend state schools at resident tuition rates. The states would "trade off" dollars lost in the process at state levels. Lewis said the agreement would allow students to attend institutions, including professional schools, offering the best education.

Campaign Workers Have $14,000 Goal

One for nine. That's the theme of this year's United Way drive as campaign 1977 got underway Tuesday morning. One fund raising drive will help support nine agencies.

Drive chairman George Phelps addressed two groups Tuesday, outlining their roles to help make this year the second straight year the campaign is a success.

The idea, he stressed, is brevity. Canvass the city residents and employers and their employees in two weeks. The quick or fails is done, the sooner the city can get back to its normal routine, Phelps said.

During the residential workers' meeting at United Presbyterian Church, Phelps pointed out that the majority of this year's money will be returned to the city in the form of its recreation programs and the like.

A total of 47 per cent of the planned $14,000 budget will go to Wayne Recreation Association, Prairie Hills Council of Girl Scouts and Mid-America Council of Boy Scouts.

Phelps linked the strong support for these programs and for part of the six other agencies which are helped through UW funds as one of the reasons the quality of life is improved in the city.

One example of the quality of life in Wayne he used was the low crime rate in the city which has made Wayne a leader in the state.

At the early morning meeting, Phelps stressed to about 22 local businessmen and some of their employees that the increase in this year's budget should be understandable to most people in business.

He went on to say that the $14,000 goal, a hike of $1,000 over last year's amount, is due mainly to increased costs of operating the nine different agencies supported by United Way and administering the UW program.

Phelps said that the 10 per cent hike is small compared to the return in services to the community.

To help coordinate the drive through the business district, Phelps called on five team captains who will direct this year's fund raising campaign. They are Gaylen Wiser of State National Bank, John Dorsey of State Farm Management, Dick Dittman of First National Agency, Roger Madden of Columbus Savings and Loan, and Tom Ormeier of Allied Lumber and Supply. Their goal is to raise $8,000 from the business district.

In addition to helping support the three mentioned agencies, United Fund dollars also help the Salvation Army, Wayne Senior Citizens Center, Arthritis Foundation, Cystic Fibrosis, Florence Crittenton Home in Sioux City for unwed mothers and Red Cross.

Board member Bill Dickey will handle the business drive. See CAMPAIGN, page 12

Hearings Set On Power Line

Construction Plan

Public hearings have been scheduled by the Nebraska Public Power District in three Northeast Nebraska communities to discuss a proposed plan to build a 345,000-volt transmission line across Stanton, Wayne, Thurston, and Dakota counties.

Wayne county clerk Norris Weible said NPPD officials who met with the county commissioners said the line will extend from the Nucor Steel plant in Norfolk to a substation at Raun, Iowa.

The following hearing dates have been set: Oct. 11, 7:30 p.m. at the Winnebago school cafeteria; Oct. 13, 7:30 p.m., at the Pender fire hall; Oct. 17, 7:30 p.m., at the Winside city auditorium.

Councilman Wants To Know Opinions Of His Constituents

Fourth ward city councilman John Vakoc will sponsor an afternoon coffee and discussion session Sunday afternoon at the Women's Club room in the Wayne city auditorium.

Vakoc said a number of issues are now facing the council including a proposal to widen Seventh Street, a proposed highway by pass as an alternative, the trash transfer station being built by the city, conflict of interest on the council, city salaries, sewer and water line extensions, and annexation of property into the city. He said he wants to know the opinions of his constituents on those and other subjects and is inviting fourth ward residents to the meeting Sunday from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Any subjects concerning city business will be openly and candidly discussed, Vakoc said.

News Bingo Starts Today

Newspaper Bingo begins with this issue of The Wayne Herald, and Wayne shoppers have an opportunity to compete for a $100 weekly prize.

Rules for the contest are explained in an advertisement in this issue of the Herald.

Bingo cards are available from merchants with no purchase required. Cards will change each week, and are color keyed to match the advertisement which will appear in each Thursday's issue of the Herald.

Each of 13 advertisements placed by participating merchants contains one Bingo number. In addition 44 numbers are listed in a separate Bingo advertisement.

Offices to Close For Holidays

Federal offices will be closed Monday, Oct. 10 for Columbus Day, and Oct. 24 to observe Veteran's Day.

Included will be Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, Soil Conservation Service, and Farmers Home Administration offices in the USDA service center in Wayne, and post offices. There will be no mail delivery on either of the holidays.

The Wayne County court house will be closed Monday for Columbus Day, but will observe Veteran's Day on the traditional Nov. 11 date.

New Plant Possible for Wayne

A new manufacturer might begin building a plant in Wayne within the next 30 days, and the city council Tuesday night agreed to go ahead with a project designed in part to enhance the attractiveness of the city's industrial site.

The council approved plans for a project to extend an eight-inch water main line from the Providence Medical Center area east for 2,640 feet to a county road, and then south 1,000 feet to a hydrant in the industrial tract.

"Looping" the water line — connecting a new line to the hydrant served by an existing line — will help make the site more attractive to industrial prospects because the added water volume will provide for a better fire insurance rating and ensure sufficient water for industrial needs, city administrator Fred Brink said. The new line will also serve anticipated residential development in Wayne's northeast quadrant. Estimated cost of the project is $38,000.

Brink said he has received a $1,000 deposit for 10 acres of land in the industrial park from a manufacturer who will begin building a plant within 30 days if final details can be worked out.

Although declining to name the firm or identify the type of product to be produced, Brink said the company will initially hire about 50 people if it decides to go ahead with plans to locate in Wayne.

The council also discussed the proposed Roosevelt Park storm sewer project, but decided to wait until an ordinance creating a sewer improvement district has been passed before authorizing drafting of final plans.

If the council moves ahead with the project a new concrete tube storm sewer will be built and a drainage ditch now in use will eventually be filled in.

Discussion Tuesday night centered on how much of the project will be financed as a general obligation of the city and how much will be assessed to property owners.

The project engineer said people in the project area will benefit by having the ditch filled in but will receive little direct benefit because not much of the property adjacent to the new storm sewer will drain into it.

Most of the area which will drain into the new tube already has been assessed for storm sewer and cannot be assessed again. After reviewing a map of the city storm sewer network, street superintendent Vern Schults said it appears all storm sewers installed in the past 15 years have been financed through special assessments.

Councilman John Vakoc said that if more than half the city's storm sewers have been paid for by special assessment, he thinks property owners who have paid those assessments will oppose being taxed again, through general obligation financing, for a system which does not serve them.

In an interview, Vakoc said he is not necessarily saying the Roosevelt Park project should be paid for entirely by special assessment, but he wants to ensure that any property owners who receive a special benefit pay a fair share of the cost.

Speaker: Schools Now Teaching Fear, Violence, and Frustration

Schools once taught the good, the true, and the beautiful. Mrs. Mell Gabler of Longview, Tex., told an audience of about 600 assembled in the Wayne city auditorium Saturday night, but they now teach fear, violence, and frustration.

Mrs. Gabler's remarks prefaced the showing of the film "About Sex," which has become the center of controversy following its showing to a Wayne High School home economics class.

The Texas Good Citizenship Medal, was named a Texas Merit Mother, and was nominated for Texas Mother of the Year.

Other awards include one from the Texas Freedom Forum, and the Outstanding Parent Leadership Award of the National Congress for Educational Excellence. She has received the congress of Freedom Award seven times.

In addition to having appeared on ABC Television's "Good Morning America" program, she has lectured in New Zealand and Australia and is the subject of "Textbooks on Trial" about the work done by her and her husband.

The Texas textbook authority made it clear following a remark by a heckler Saturday night she would brook no interference. She told the hecklers if they had anything to say, to "rent the hall."

Criticizing schools in general, Mrs. Gabler said young people today can't read or write, "but they can tell you all about sex."

Mrs. Gabler said she began her textbook campaign in 1960 when one of her sons said he believed a history textbook didn't properly portray the writing of the Constitution.

Innovations in education can be harmful, she continued, because any time something new is added to the curriculum, something else must be left out. She cited reports of declining scores on college entrance exams as proof that academic performance is slipping.

Any time something new is added in schools, she said, parents should ask what kind of job it will help their children get. Sex education has no value, she said, except that it might help produce good hustlers and prostitutes. Sex education has no place in the classroom because it gets down to gutter sex, she said.

Given a choice, she added, students will prefer classes like sex education because they're easy. Students should not have a choice in what they study, she said. They are at school to learn.

She said she is also deeply concerned about violence. The PTA is trying to eliminate violence from television, she said. "I've read more violence in textbooks and seen more in classroom films than on TV."

She cited as an example a text entitled the "Inner City Mother Goose," containing rhymes about muggings and other forms of violence. She said a 10-year old in a U.S. school had found the book in his school's library.

She also displayed other texts she said were found in use dealing with murder, cannibalism, sexual intercourse, and wife swapping.

The more sex education taught in schools, the higher the incidence of sex offenses, Mrs. Gabler said, adding that the same holds true for drug education programs.

What a child reads and studies every day determine the kind of person he will become, Mrs. Gabler said. She was asked her opinion of a proposal to make sex education optional in the Wayne schools with programs presented at night and students not required to attend. Films would be reviewed by a committee including parents, a doctor, a nurse, and a clergyman, under the plan proposed by board president Dorothy Ley.

She said local officials will be more careful now about what is presented to students, adding "it shouldn't have come to this."

Linda Dorsey, one of the sponsors of the showing said the proposal is a step in the right direction, but it depends on whether members of the committee meet with her approval.

State Sen. Elroy Heiner of Coleridge who attended the showing said he continues to support the position that the question of materials used in schools should be left up to local control. "I would hate to think the state can come in and tell local schools what to do."

Fred Mann, also a sponsor of the Saturday night showing, said that while he acknowledges that Mrs. Ley's proposal would not force anyone to participate, the education would still be financed through tax dollars and he opposed paying for sex education with public money.

A group of about 40 Wayne High School students who had assembled outside the auditorium but were not admitted to Mrs. Gabler's lecture or the showing of the film confronted Mrs. Gabler following the program.

The Texas told the students they "can't read or write, but know everything about sex. The students responded, saying many youngsters don't receive sex education in the home and want answers to questions they encounter.

Asked if she thought girls who had viewed the film had "gone out and done something" because of it, Mrs. Gabler replied that some probably did.

"Well, I saw it, and I didn't," a student replied. "That's what you say," Mrs. Gabler answered.

Students said that a teacher recently had decided not to show them a photograph of a famous statue because the figure depicted was nude. The teacher is to be congratulated, Mrs. Gabler said. She finally broke up the discussion, forcing her way through the crowd and departing.

Students interviewed outside the auditorium during Mrs. Gabler's presentation said class members who had seen the film had found nothing objectionable about it. Young people need sex education at school because many do not get it at home, they said.

They disapproved of "putting down Mrs. Mohr. She's a good teacher," and said they believe the film is being used in an attempt to discredit the Family Health Services office.

PEOPLE

Wakefield Couple Mark 40th Anniversary Sunday

Nearly 200 friends and relatives helped Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nelson of Wakefield observe their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon at the Legion hall in Wakefield.

The open house reception, hosted by the couple's children and their families, was attended by guests from Sioux City and South Sioux City, Allen, Concord, Coleridge, Dixon, Doniphan, Emerson, Fremont, Hartington, Laurel, Norfolk, Omaha, Pierce, Thurston, Wakefield, Wayne and Winnebago.

Nelsons were married at Wakefield on Oct. 2, 1937, and have farmed in the Wakefield area since that time. Their children are Mr. and Mrs. Clayton (Margie) Kardell of Laurel and Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Donna) Swan of South Sioux City.

Mrs. Alfred Nelson of Wakefield registered the guests Sunday. Cards and gifts were arranged by Mrs. Edythe Johnson of Emerson.

The afternoon program included music by the couple's grandchildren and brief talks by other members of the family.

The anniversary cake, which was baked by Mrs. Larry Baker of Wakefield, was cut and served by Mrs. Jerry Bodlak of Thurston and Mrs. Donald Viksten of Sioux City. Mrs. Alvern

Anderson and Mrs. Joe Anderson, both of Wakefield, poured, and punch was served by Mrs. Reuben Johnson of Omaha and Mrs. Robert Anderson of Wakefield.

Women assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Clarence Nelson, Mrs. Harold Anderson, Mrs. Jerry Anderson and Mrs. Larry Anderson, all of Wakefield.

Visitors Welcome

Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Sharer and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Jensen will be hosts at the Wayne County Historical Museum Sunday afternoon.

The museum is open to visitors each Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Program to Deal With Government

A new Extension program aimed at involving citizens in the legislative process will be introduced to residents of Northeast Nebraska on Wednesday, Oct. 12, at the city auditorium in Hartington.

Residents of Knox, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota, Anselmo, Holt, Pierce, Wayne, Thurston, Madison, Stanton, Cuming and Boyd counties are invited to attend.

The new program, entitled "Impact '78 — Citizenship in Action," will include workshops, tours and special learning activities over the next year in an effort to get Nebraskans more involved and more knowledgeable about their government.

According to Kathy Klahn, area Extension home economist in Hartington and program coordinator, the meeting will include discussions, speakers and a panel on how citizens can make a difference in legislative policy. It will begin with registration at 9 a.m. and conclude at 3:15 p.m.

Although the meeting is primarily designed for extension club members, Miss Klahn said other interested persons may attend and should contact the Cedar County Extension Office as soon as possible. Cost of the noon meal is $2.40 and deadline for pre-registration is Oct. 10.

The day's main speaker will be Zachariah Boughn, a secondary education history teacher in Belden and an activist in political affairs in Cedar County. He will address the noon luncheon on citizenship and involvement in public affairs.

A morning panel on "We Care About Our Government," will feature three community members from Hartington. They are Mrs. Joanie Burney, a columnist for the Cedar County News and a freelance writer, Mrs. Marge Seim, a homemaker, speaker and Extension club member, and Ralph Leise, farmer and program assistant for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Other speakers will include Janet Wilson, Extension consumer education specialist, and Dr. Roberta Sward, assistant director of Extension home economics, both from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Wilson who is the statewide coordinator for the Impact '78 effort, will introduce the program and speak on "How Loud is Your Voice in Government."

Participants will also have a chance to attend an afternoon workshop on estate planning with Dr. Phil Henderson, agricultural economist from UNL. The meeting will be the first of several activities involving Nebraskans in local, state and federal government in the coming year. According to Wilson,

"We want Nebraskans to recognize they have a voice in government and that it's up to them to make it heard. We're just helping provide the tools."

The "tools" will range from pointers on how to write an effective letter to a representative to a "Leap on Lincoln" program next January which will bring Nebraskans from across the state to the capital to talk with their state senators and discover first-hand how the legislative process works.

Researcher Suggests Putting Garden Refuse to Work With Compost

While fall is a good time to clear weeds and dead plant material from the garden, it's also an excellent chance to start a compost pile for a better garden next year, according to Don Steinegger, Extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Composting, says Steinegger, is good for any garden and also is a good way to conserve organic materials. Composts are especially useful for Nebraska soils, he says, which tend to be heavy in clay and silt. They add to soil nutrients, help control weeds and conserve soil moisture, he says.

"Fall is a good time to start a compost pile because of all the materials available," adds the Institute of Agriculture and natural Resources specialist. Composting material like peat can be purchased, he says, adding that it's considerably less expensive for homeowners to gather their own.

Most homeowners should have plenty of plant materials such as leaves, weeds, grass clippings and garden refuse (which should be free of disease) to make a good compost, he says. "Tree bark is another excellent alternative, and with elm trees dying in parks, some places are making the bark available for this purpose, he notes.

Garbage, if any, should be limited to peelings, pods and tops of vegetables. Usually, a compost pile about five feet square at the base is large enough to take care of plant residues for most homeowners, according to the specialist. Homeowners can either dig a pit about one foot deep or build a box or bin to hold the compost, he adds. "Locate it in an out-of-the-way section of the yard, preferably in a shady spot," he suggests.

Next, layer the residues about six inches deep if the material is fairly solid and about twelve inches if it's loose. Add water if the material is dry. Fertilizer is next, or manure, for a source of nitrogen with an additional one-inch layer of soil. Continue to layer organic matter, fertilizer and soil, and complete the compost with a soil layer on the top and sides.

"Homeowners do not have to buy any special starters for a compost," notes Steinegger, "and they don't have to worry about offending odors. Odor can be detected only when the mulch pile is started with predominantly green material."

Materials in compost piles will break down more rapidly if they are turned every week to two weeks, he adds. And the pile should be kept moist, but not soggy.

Depending on how often the materials are turned, the compost will be broken down for use any time from one month to a year, he says. "By next spring, however, it should be ready to apply to the garden to step up its productive capacities."

Mandi Jo Hall Baptized at Carroll Sunday

The Rev. Kenneth Edmonds of Wayne officiated at baptismal services Sunday at the United Methodist Church in Carroll for Mandi Jo Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hall of Carroll.

Mandi's godparents are Mrs. Arlyn Hurlbert of Carroll and Ed Gerbitz of Sterling, Colo. Hall's entertainment at a dinner afterward in the church fellowship hall. About 60 friends and relatives attended from Menka-to, Minn.; Sterling, Colo.; Ocheydan, Ia.; Coleridge, Hubbard, Omaha, Norfolk, Hadar, Wayne and Carroll.

WAYNE TAKES 3-1 RECORD TO KEARNEY

Giant-Killing Cats Knock Off Rated Southern

By RUSS HERRMAN
Wayne State Staff

The first taste of Central States Conference football proved to be sweet for the Wayne State Wildcats Saturday as they dumped highly regarded Missouri Southern, 13-9, at Wayne.

The win was definitely a boost for Wayne and head coach Del Stoltenberg, but the Wildcat boss added that every conference game will be a challenge. Wayne will travel to arch-rival Kearney State Saturday for a 1:30 meeting. The Antelopes have beaten Wayne five straight years and they are coming off a 49-3 romp over Pittsburg State. The Wayne game will cap homecoming festivities for the Antelopes.

"Kearney's running game is strong and they can throw effectively, although they haven't had to throw a lot," said Stoltenberg. "They have a veteran quarterback in Kevin Roach. On defense, it looks like they've got a veteran crew."

Missouri Southern came into Wayne sporting a No. nine rating NAIA Division I and a healthy 37-point per game scoring average. That changed, however, as the giant-killing Wildcats and a continuous rain upset the Lions.

Wayne got on the board first in the opening period when Mark Johnson caught a pass from Rick Lade and raced 32 yards for a touchdown. Stoltenberg called that play one of two turning points in the contest. "I think we caught them by surprise with the pass," he added.

The other turning point was the goal line stand put up by the stingy Wildcat defense. Just before halftime, the Lions pushed their way to the eight yard line but an incomplete pass thrown by quarterback Rusty Shelley thwarted the drive.

Shelley scored on a one-yard plunge to cap a 78-yard drive midway through the first quarter, then the Cats took advan-age of a bad punt snap to score their second TD. Lion punter Lloyd Walker was dropped on his five-yard line after fielding the loose pigskin. Kirk Gardner bulled over from the one three plays later. The Wildcats forfeited a couple of excellent scoring opportunities in the third quarter. Southern's Randy Rome picked off a Lade pass at the four yard line and Bob Barry later lost a fumble on the Lion one. Barry was held to 74 yards in 24 carries, his lowest output of the year, but the wet conditions played an important role as the 6-3 tailback repeatedly lost his footing on the soggy turf. Barry had no yards in the first half. Southern's Larry Barnes wiggled through the Wildcat defense for 145 yards on 32 trips.

Lade iced the game with an intentional safety with 2:52 left. Lade took the snap on his 14 and ran straight back into his own end zone. The result was that Wayne received a free kick from the 20-yard line and the defense was able to keep the mammoth Lion backs bottled up. College station KWSC-FM will carry the play-by-play of the Kearney State game.

B Game Cancelled

The Winside-Wakefield serve football game scheduled for Monday at Winside was cancelled because Wakefield couldn't field enough players for a team, said Winside coach Jim Halterly. Next reserve match for Winside (0-1) is Monday, Oct. 10, at home against Coleridge.

SATURDAY'S mud bowl provided some slippery adventures for both Wayne State and invading Missouri Southern. Top, Bob Barry (51) gets a key block from an unidentified lineman. Below, right, the Cats defensive crew is jubilant after sacking Missouri's punter deep in Lions' territory. To celebrate, one of the linemen toss the football in the air. Just how muddy was it? Ask Wayne's Steve Ataman whose face is partially caked with mud.

CSIS ROUNDUP
KS Romps To 49-3 Win

Sixteen backs carried the ball and 77 players saw action as Kearney State opened the 1977 CSIS season Saturday with a 49-3 win over Pittsburg State. The Antelopes, defending tri-champions of the Central States Intercollegiate Conference, scored at will against the out-manned Gorillas in a wet game. Kearney scored three times in the first quarter to ice the game. A 10-point second quarter made the half-time score 30-0. Pittsburg scored in the third

Next 3 Games Tell Story About Allen's VB Future

Three games during the next two weeks will answer coach Gary Troth's questions about his club's chances of being contender in the East division of the Lewis and Clark Conference. Allen, which is 3-0 in conference volleyball, will face Newcastle, Homer and Walthill in that order as the season starts to wind down. The Eagles had to struggle Tuesday night to overcome their overconfidence to beat Winnebago in two games. Allen, which figured the Indians to be an easy win after last year's victory, got past the invaders with a pair of 15-10 decisions. "We didn't play well throughout the game," Troth noted. "We might have been looking past them to Newcastle next week," he added. Sue Lanser and Pam Brownell had eight and six points respectively to lead the 4-3 Eagles in the first game. Stacey Koester came up with six crucial points in the closing of the second game to pull out the win. The reserves posted their first win of the season in four outings with 15-5 and 15-10 wins. Cheryl Koch had five points in the first game and Lisa Rastade had six in the second to lead point-makers.

Wayne Runners Sixth at Meet

Wayne State took sixth place in a nine-team field at the Wayne State Invitational Saturday. Nebraska Wesleyan won the meet with 40 points. Other scoring went: Doane, 52; Kearney, 85; Concordia, 101; Augustana, 129; Wayne State, 145; Hastings, 199; Chandler, 226; and Midland, 256. Southeast Fairbury didn't have enough runners to validate a point standing. Pat Veik topped Wayne's hurdlers with a 14th place finish of 27:17 over the five-mile course. Other scoring times for the Wildcats were: Jerry Sanders, 20th, 27:41; Andy Myrtye, 31st, 28:18; Al Libbe, 39th, 29:16; and Arid Johnson, 41st, 30:02. Coach LeRoy Simpson was pleased with the overall effort of his team and said they ran well despite the inclement weather. Wayne will travel to Westmar Saturday for a dual, with Westmar.

Wayne Rolls Past Norfolk

Wayne High girls keep rolling past Class A clubs. Tuesday night the Blue Devils chalked up their second straight win over a Class A team by beating Norfolk on its home court, 15-5 and 15-7. The win pushes Wayne's record to 8-1. Kelly Frevert and Sydney Mosley had eight points each. The reserves kept their perfect record going by topping the hosts 15-3 and 15-6 for Wayne's sixth win. Sandy Jacobmeier led Wayne scorers with 11 points. The freshmen dropped their second contest against four victories. Jennifer DeTurk had 14 points for Wayne.

WS Defense Leads Loop In the Rush

Wayne State leads in rushing and total defense but Dana College has taken over the pass defense lead, according to the latest figures released by officials from NAIA District 11. The Wildcats under defensive coach Ralph Barclay have given up just over 86 yards, rushing and 86 yards in the air for 122 yards per game — the lowest total among the nine teams in the district. Dana has given up the least amount of aerial yards with 66. Wayne State's rushing leader Bob Barry is fourth in this week's rushing charts with an average of just over 96 yards a game. However, the sophomore from Battle Creek remains the leader in scoring with 26 points. In other categories, Mark Erhart is fifth in punt returns with about a 10-yard average; Tim Thomas is eighth in punts with a 32-yard average; freshman quarterback Rick Lade is sixth in passing, completing 20 of 48 with five interceptions for a 66 per cent average; Mark Johnson is first in kick off returns with two carries for 99 yards, and Jeff Ingram is seventh in pass receiving with seven catches for 134 yards.

MOVE ALONG!
The first police force in America was formed in New Amsterdam in 1658.

A PHILOSOPHY shared by most coaches, including Del Stoltenberg, is that a team which takes advantage of opportunities likely will come out a winner.

There wasn't much doubt in the minds of die-hard fans Saturday that Wayne State did just that — cash in on two crucial plays to post the Wildcats first conference win, 13-9 over, Missouri Southern.

The plays that the Cats cashed in on weren't the plays that produce points. But plays which stopped the Lions from gaining points.

The two events which come to Stoltenberg's mind are the goal line stand just before the half and the safety Wayne gave up with just three minutes left in the game. Normally, giving up a safety isn't what you call a game-saving play (that's exactly what fans thought when the coach pulled out his punting unit on fourth and long deep in Wayne territory and replaced it with the offensive unit).

Ralph Stoltenberg and defensive coordinator Butch Barclay had another idea in mind. Regardless of the two points, Southern would still have to score a touchdown to win. As a result of the safety, Wayne got a free kick from the 20-yard line and avoided the on-rush of Southern linemen on the punt. That rush, the coach looked back, could have resulted in a Lions' touchdown if they would have blocked it or caused Wayne to get off a poor kick.

"If I had to do it over again, I'd do the same thing," the coach reflected.

STOLTENBERG knew from the outset of the game it was going to be a physical contest. Both teams were hitting hard all during the game as shown in the final stat sheets where both teams piled up the yards for unpunished conduct as well as other penalties. The terrors finally boiled to a peak with just seconds left in the game when both benches emptied in a free-for-all fight.

Officials stopped the clock with two seconds left, but the players kept on swinging despite the efforts of both coaching staffs and referees to break it up. As a result, the game was called.

The coach agreed that move was the smartest thing the referees did. Another play and there likely would have been a donnybrook, he added.

THE 3-1 Wildcats venture to always tough Kearney St. for another Central States Intercollegiate Conference match, which again has all the makings of another Missouri Southern-Wayne battle.

The Lopers and Cats have a long rivalry. And to make things more interesting, Saturday is homecoming for Kearney.

The past several ball games Kearney has shown improvement both in its passing and rushing game, Stoltenberg noted. During Kearney's last two outings the Lopers have scored 85 points, including 49 against Pittsburg St. last week.

AFTER MISSING two of five predictions last week, the Herald's backstop crew of Ray and Dave are certain they have the right prep selections this week.

"They're going to stick with Wayne this Friday night when the Blue Devils host Madison for homecoming; Wayne 21, Madison 16. Elsewhere, Osmond over Winside, 14-6; Allen past Newcastle, 21-6, and Bancroft to beat Wakefield, 33-12.

Last week they missed on picking Wayne and Allen as winners. The same holds true for this reporter.

RACING WRAPUP: Hoskins' race drivers Gerald Bruggeman and Gene Brudigan will call it quits at least for this season after the pair competed in final races at Sioux Falls Sunday.

Bruggeman won the semi-finals of the "Cheater's Day Races" while Brudigan came in sixth.

Fumbles and penalties stopped Wayne's reserves at West Point Central Catholic Monday when the hosts took advantage of 35 yards in penalties against the JVs in the first quarter for a 6-0 victory.

West Point moved the ball down to Wayne's one yard line after penalties, against Wayne, where on fourth and one the Blue Jays passed for the six pointer.

The locals (1-2) had numerous scoring opportunities, but failed to cash in because of fumbles or penalties. The reserves moved the pigskin in West Point's three where they fumbled. Again Wayne had the ball deep in Blue Jay territory, but was stopped on penalties. Wayne also had two other scoring chances failed. Coach Ron Carnes singled out Rick Johnson for his play on offense and defense. Also on defense were Jay Stoltenberg, Doug Hummel, Steve Sorensen and Tim Thomas.

Injuries Hamper Wayne Spikers

Injuries are hurting Berniece Fulton's Wayne State spikers. The Wildcats lost the services of Karen Heeny with an injury over the weekend. Sue Homan suffered a knee injury last week.

Mrs. Fulton's charges slipped to 7-8 on the season and 1-2 in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. They lost to NW Missouri State, 13-15, 15-4, 9-15 and Missouri Western, 11-15, 8-15 at St. Joseph, Mo., Friday.

On Saturday, the Cats dropped two of three matches at Joplin, Mo. Wayne defeated Pittsburg, 15-5, 14-16, 15-7, then lost to Washburn, 8-15, 15-7, 12-15 and Missouri Southern, 5-15, 7-15.

Wayne will face Fort Hays.

Prep Picks

The following is a list of this week's prep football games involving area teams. Winners are selected by sports writer Bob Bartlett and printed in boldface.

Madison at Wayne, 13:45; Ponca at Winside, 28:6; Newcastle at Allen, 24:6; Wakefield at Bancroft, 33:6.

Last week's record: 3-2. Overall: 13-8-1.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"A man travels the world over in search of what he needs and returns home to find it." — George Moore

A person's search for happiness, satisfaction or contentment may take him to far off lands. Often, that for which he searches is found to be readily available right at home.

Whatever one's need may be, it is a reasonable assumption that it might be satisfied more easily in the friendly atmosphere of familiar surroundings.

For friendly, sympathetic understanding, you can depend on us. Three generations of family service.

Paleontologists Study Crinoids

A University of Nebraska-Lincoln staff member and a University of Iowa researcher have teamed up to gain a better understanding of the crinoid that lived in midcontinent seas some 300 million years ago when Nebraska was not far north of the equator. The crinoid's modern counterparts are related to today's starfish and sea urchin. Professor Roger Pabian of the U.S. Geological Survey Division and Iowan Harrell L. Strimple studied some 15,000 fossil crinoids gathered from mid-North America, with accumulated data fed into computers. They learned that the crinoids were distributed in three different faunal realms: The crinoids of Nebraska, for example, differed markedly from those of Illinois or from those of Kansas and Oklahoma. Species that were abundant in one area were entirely absent in another.

In addition to new findings that contribute to scientific knowledge, the two investigators' work also has an important practical application in petroleum exploration. Statistical analyses of various measurements of crinoids enabled Pabian and Strimple to make more precise correlations of rock strata between Nebraska and the Kansas-Oklahoma area. Petroleum and mining industries depend heavily on precise correlations of rock strata in carrying out exploration programs.

Pabian and Strimple presented their findings recently at the North American Paleontological Conference II at Lawrence, Kan., attended by 450 paleontologists from around the world.

Bid to Move Up In Standings Faces Wayne

Wayne High's chances of climbing the district playoff standings will unfold Friday night when the Blue Devils take on unbeaten Madison.

Madison is ranked second in Class B District 4 with a 4-0 record, a notch ahead of Wayne which was second a week ago. Coach Steve Cline's Devils are 2-2-1.

In other district standings compiled by the Nebraska High School Activities Association and released this week, area team Allen continues its showing.

The Eagles are third in Class D District 2 with a 3-2 record. They trail Coleridge (4-1) and Stuart (3-1).

Winside (3-2) which entered in the Class C-2, District 3 standings last week, dropped out this week.

Foundation Re-elects Officers

The Wayne State Foundation re-elected the current officers and appointed eight new members at their annual meeting Saturday at Wayne State College.

Re-elected were Val Peterson, president; Henry Ley, vice president and Lelia Maynard, secretary-treasurer.

New members are Clarence Schwarz, South Sioux City; Henry Schroeder, Norfolk; Walter Kinne, Sidney; George McKim, Albuquerque, N.M.; Dorothy Grover McClellan, Laguna Hills, Calif.; Neva Skinner Bernatz, Sun City, Ariz.; Dorothy Bilson Thompson, Lincoln and Carroll Frederickson of Omaha.

In other business the Foundation voted to allocate $9,500 for an admissions counselor for Wayne State College. At the present time the state will not allow expenditure for state funds for the position.

The Foundation allocated $30,000 for use in the WSC student loan program. The funds will be loaned to the Student Loan Fund and repaid as students repay loans.

Funds were also allocated to beautify and improve an area of WSC campus near the Hahn Administration Building. The Foundation will also sponsor a tree-planting ceremony as part of the Arboretum certificate presentation scheduled for Oct. 20 on campus.

Carroll Thompson, consultant to the Nebraska Board of Trustees, was a special guest at the meeting. He commended the Foundation on their work and support of Wayne State College.

FACTS & FIGURES

According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, there are nearly eight billion telephones in the state of Pennsylvania, about 65 for every 100 persons.

About 20 calls a day come over the phones belonging to Jim Curran, Pennsylvania's Business Ombudsman. Working for the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, he does for business what an "action line" does for the individual citizen: helping with business regulations, tax problems and financial assistance.

Curran's 20 years of experience in state government, his know-how and all his personal contacts assure that whenever a businessman calls Curran's toll-free number, 800-232-0664, he gets an answer.

Eight From Wayne Attend RNA Meeting

Olive Longe, Julia Haas, Ruby Jensen, Ellen Huxford, Thelma Young, Florence Siemers, Phyllis Cauwe and Hattie McNitt, members of the Wayne Royal Neighbors of America, attended an intercounty meeting last Thursday, hosted by the Harrison RNA camp.

Other towns represented at the day-long meeting were Bloomfield, Randolph, Belden and Wausa. Special guests included supreme oracle Edith Evans of North Platte, state supervisor Vera Rishling of Neligh, and district supervisor Susie Forbes, also of Neligh.

Newly elected intercounty officers for the coming year include Gladys Reichert of Winside, oracle: Olive Longe of Wayne, vice oracle: and Anna Wylie of Winside, recorder.

An invitation was extended from Winside to host the 1978 intercounty meeting.

12 Attend Bible Study

Twelve residents of Villa Wayne turned out for Bible study in the Villa community room Sept. 28. The Rev. Vern Mattson of the First Baptist Church in Wayne showed slides of his recent trip to the Holy Land and conducted Bible study of the 14th chapter of Romans.

Ladies Aid members from the First Trinity Lutheran Church in Alliance entertained 21 members of the Villa Tenants Club and 11 guests Sept. 27. The group sang songs and had several readings, followed with lunch.

Predict and Prevent Begins Third Year

Parents of preschoolers with special needs can once again receive services through Educational Service Unit 1 in Wayne.

Youngsters, ranging from infants through five years of age, who exhibit developmental delays, including speech and language disorders or delays, hearing impairment, learning disabilities, physical handicap, mental handicap, or visual impairment, can get help through Project Predict and Prevent, according to project director Kay Cattle.

After evaluation, the specialists confer with project staff to establish learning goals and plan a teaching program. Project staff then meet on a weekly basis with parent and child to carry out remediation through prescriptive teaching.

Mrs. Cattle pointed out that one aspect of the project includes group sessions in which parents and project personnel meet to discuss parent-child relations and other topics of concern. By doing this, she added, parents realize that they are not alone in their situations and can receive support from one another. Guest speakers will be included in the fall session of parent meetings which will run on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 7, 14 and 21, and Dec. 5, 12 and 19. The spring session of parent meetings will offer the nine-week course, "Systematic Training for Effective Parenting."

A large toy lending library is available to parents of children enrolled in the project, and suggestions for use of some of the toys are given at parent sessions. Mrs. Cattle said that parent counseling is available upon request. "Project Predict and Prevent was built upon the philosophy that parents are the best teachers," said Mrs. Cattle, adding, "our intention is not to establish values or criteria for parenting, but rather to offer assistance to parents in helping their child develop to his fullest potential."

Parents or other interested persons who have questions about the project, or wish to refer a preschool youngster, can contact Mrs. Cattle at the ESU-1 office at Wayne State College.

Policy on Weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

FREEZING POTATOES
Most types of preheated potato preparations may be frozen at home, but don't expect commercial processing results.

Potatoes contain a lot of water that expands in freezing. When thawed, they become limp. Commercially frozen potatoes are usually low moisture varieties such as those used for baking and potato chips. Chippewa and Katahdin are considered to be better than Bliss Triumph or Cobblers for freezing.

Allow potatoes to mature at least a month after digging. Some moisture will evaporate during this time. Wash, peel, and cut potatoes into desired pieces — sliced, shredded, diced or in strips as for French fries. Blanch in boiling water or steam until heated through. This usually takes 2 minutes in boiling water (water should not stop boiling) or 3 minutes in steam (thin layer so steam reaches all sides of the vegetable). Small whole potatoes require up to 5 minutes. Chill the potatoes in cold running or ice water for 3 minutes.

French fries may be precooked in boiling water or prepared as follows. Rinse in cold water and dry thoroughly between towels. Fry small amount in deep, hot fat (360 degrees F.) about 5 minutes until heated through but not brown.

Drain and blot excess moisture. Package. Freeze as rapidly as possible. Faster freezing discourages ice crystals that later cause the potatoes to go limp. Freezer temperature should be below 0 degrees F. The colder the better.

To use the potatoes, complete the cooking process without thawing them. Use as you would fresh, raw potatoes.

Storage time is two to three months.

Quick Quiz!

Q. A porpoise is a (a) fish (b) mammal (c) bird?

ANSWER: (b). A porpoise is not a fish, as many people think, but a mammal. These lively ocean inhabitants are members of the "whale" order. They eat ten percent of their body weight a day (which may account for "sea hog" as the Latin translation of porpoise). Recent government statistics estimate that even those porpoises once thought by some to be in danger are now increasing handsomely. In part this is because American tuna fishermen, who depend on the porpoise to find tuna, have developed fishing techniques and equipment which permit them to net the tuna while releasing practically all of the porpoises.

Funds Requested for Two Mental Health Projects

The Northern Nebraska Comprehensive Mental Health Center has applied for two grants to provide services to residents of 22 Northeast Nebraska counties.

Herb Spears of the Greater Nebraska Health Systems agency which will review the application said the Northeast mental health center is requesting funds for a drug abuse program, and for a rural emergency mental health service program.

The drug abuse program would be designed to provide prevention, education, consultation, and treatment to persons identified as suffering from drug abuse or through to be potential users.

Total cost of the project would be about $100,000 with a $40,000 grant requested from the Nebraska Commission on Drugs and the National Institute on Drug Abuse. Another $30,000 would be provided in matching funds, and $30,000 would come from local sources in the 22-county region.

The second project is designed to develop a comprehensive system of rural emergency mental health services using trained paraprofessional people. The object would be to recruit and train a person in each community in the region as a paraprofessional mental health technician capable of early detection of mental health problems, intervening in event of crisis, and able to refer clients to other agencies which can provide needed services.

Historical Marker Dedicated

John Lindahl of the Nebraska Historical Society and Hilda Neihardt Petri, daughter of Nebraska poet Laureate John G. Neihardt and Lyle E. Seymour, president of Wayne State College, formally unveiled the cornerstone of the first mason building on the WSC campus as part of dedication ceremonies for a state historical site at WSC.

braska Post Laureate John G. Neihardt, unveiled the cornerstone Saturday of the first mason building on the Wayne State College campus. The ceremony was part of the dedication of a state designed historical marker on campus.

About 25 people, including members of the Wayne State Foundation, were on hand to view the formal dedication. The marker area, indicating the location of the first mason building, has been designated a state historical site by the Nebraska Historical Society. The original bell used to signal class times at the college complete the historical site. John G. Neihardt earned his way through what was then "Nebraska Normal" by ringing the bell, marking the changing of classes in the 1890s.

Members also signed a contract with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation to reaffirm its present contract to provide the village with 405 kilowatt hours of power.

Winside Board Grants Permits

One building will be going up and another will be going down in Winside. The village board Monday night granted Guy Stevens a building permit to construct a garage and okayed a razing permit for Dale Hanke to tear down a building east of the old post office.

In other village action, the board agreed to sell a shotgun, revolver, and camera. LaVerle McDonald bid $55 for a revolver and $60 for a shotgun and Scotty Thompson gave $35 for a camera. No bid was received for the police car.

Members also signed a contract with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation to reaffirm its present contract to provide the village with 405 kilowatt hours of power.

FRIDAY IS THE DAY OF THE CAT

INTRODUCING THE ENERGY ENGINEERED 1978 MERCURY ZEPHYR. LIKE NO CAR WE'VE OFFERED AT ITS PRICE.

ENERGY ENGINEERED FOR MILEAGE. EPA EST.

33 HWY. 23 CITY

With 2.3 litre engine and manual transmission. (Your actual mileage may vary depending on your car's condition, optional equipment, how and where you drive. Wagon estimates lower.)

ENERGY ENGINEERED FOR SPACE.

Engineers can improve gas mileage by making cars smaller. But the Energy Engineered Zephyr provides good mileage ratings and inside room.

RATED MORE TRUNK SPACE THAN A VOLARE.

Zephyr EPA rated 17 cu. ft. to Volare's 15 cu. ft.

RATED MORE CARGO SPACE THAN A VOLARE WAGON.

Zephyr 4-door Wagon is EPA rated 4 cubic feet more cargo space than a Volare Wagon.

SEE ALL THE EXCITING '78'S. THE BOBCATS, NEWLY STYLED MONARCHS, THE COUGARS, AND THE MARQUIS.

ENGINEERED FOR RIDE.

Zephyr's Wide-Mount Strut Suspension was engineered for this new car design. Computer-selected coil springs. Vertical mounted shock absorbers.

ENGINEERED FOR TOUGHNESS.

Passes the same durability tests as big Lincolns and Mercurys. Created with the help of computer stress-analysis. A car built tough.

ENGINEERED FOR PRECISION STEERING.

Zephyr has the same type of steering as many high-performance cars. Rack-and-pinion steering for precise control.

ENGINEERED POWER PLANTS.

Every precious gallon works hard. Zephyr has a 2.3 litre engine, 4-cylinders, overhead camshaft, and two-stage carburetor. Also available, a 3.3 litre Six or a 5.0 litre V-8.

ENGINEERED ROAD COMMAND SEATING.

Zephyr's new design offers excellent visibility, a commanding view of the road and inside dash instrumentation. Your passengers also share the view. Just get behind the wheel of a Zephyr. See for yourself.

AVAILABLE IN 2 AND 4-DR. SEDANS AND 4-DR. WAGONS.

Think about it. Gallon for gallon. Inch for inch. Dollar for dollar. A car for today and tomorrow. Mercury Zephyr.

Irrigators Advised to Winterize Equipment

Another growing season is over and farmers have been fortunate this year, said Extension Irrigation specialist George Rehm. Precipitation has replenished the soil profile.

For the irrigation farmer this means irrigation equipment will not be needed until next season. One way to minimize operational problems and repair costs next year is to winterize irrigation equipment soon, Rehm said. All irrigation equipment including distribution systems, pumps and power units should be inspected and be given the proper treatment. All portable pipe sections should be stacked and tied down. This will aid in minimizing damage from high winds and cattle. All rubber gaskets should be removed, inspected for damage, and stored in a dry place protected from rodents, sunlight and petroleum products.

or replacements and order needed parts now. Pump water out of buried pipelines. Cap or plug all openings to the pipeline and close all valves in the pipeline.

The inside of turbine driven traveling guns should be sprayed with oil Rehm noted, and all openings covered and the gun and hose should be stored inside. Center pivots should be tied down with one anchor per tower if wind is able to move the system.

He also advised farmers to check the manufacturer's manual and your dealer for tips on winterizing your particular unit. "Since a center pivot is a high-priced machine, special care should be used especially during the winter. Safety shutoffs, gear boxes, tires, and magnetic starters should all be checked before and during winter."

The discharge pipe of turbine pumps should be covered to keep rodents out, he added. "Drain the oil from gear heads while warm and refill with a rust preventative turbine oil. Lubricate the drive shaft and store belts in a cool dry place. Portable pumps should be stored inside. Water should be drained from centrifugal pumps and all openings covered."

Place rodent screens on all openings of electric motors. This is very important, Rehm said. However the material used should not cut off circulation of air and allow condensation of moisture to occur. All conduits and circuit boxes should be sealed.

Change the oil and filter on internal combustion engines. Run the engine long enough to circulate the fresh oil. Drain the cooling system and put an ethyl or ethyl glycol-base permanent anti-freeze in the cooling system. Pour two tablespoons of engine oil into each sparkplug hole and turn the engine over a few times to spread oil over the upper portion of the cylinders. Replace the sparkplugs and cover the exhaust pipe and crankcase breather. Remove batteries, charge them and store

In a dry place. Drain fuel from the carburetor, vaporizer-regulator and fuel lines. Also drain all water lines.

"Time and money spent doing this now could save much more time and money next year," Rehm concluded.

Service Appreciated

CHRIS BARGHOLZ of Wayne displays the plaque he received Thursday during the annual meeting of the Nebraska County Veterans Service Officer Association in Lincoln. The service award was presented to Bargholz in recognition of "16 years of dedicated service to the veterans and dependents of Wayne County," according to the plaque's inscription. Dwight Higgins of Washington, D.C. addressed the group, giving the latest information on veterans' benefits.

OBITUARIES

Mary Lou Reiss

Funeral services for Mary Lou McQuistan Reiss, age 72, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Wilfong Mortuary in Wayne with the Rev. Robert Haas officiating. She died Saturday in Madison.

Pallbearers were Larry and Robert McQuistan, Jacob North, Edward Mittelstadt, Stephan Moses, John Graham and Richard King. Burial was in the Rose Hill Cemetery in Pender.

Mary Lou McQuistan Reiss, the daughter of William and Margaret McCorkindale McQuistan, was born Feb. 2, 1905, in Wayne County. She attended Wakefield High School, Wayne State College and the University of Nebraska, where she was a member of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority.

She taught in rural school south of Wakefield for two years and later spent many years as a teacher in the Lincoln, Nebr. school system.

Preceding her in death were two brothers, Edward and Lloyd McQuistan, and two sisters, Margaret North and Jeanne Graham.

Survivors include one brother, William McQuistan of Pender, and three sisters, Mrs. Alfred (Kathleen) Mittelstadt of Laurel, Mrs. Richard (Helen) Moses of Lincoln, and Mrs. Gerald (Betty) King of Woodside, Calif.

Ted Fuoss

Theodore (Ted) Fuoss, age 46 of rural Carroll, died Saturday at his home. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

The Rev. John Upton officiated and honorary pallbearers were Otto Test, Jr., Noel Bennett, Dale and David Miner, Todd Test, Louis Jensen, Harlan Ruwe, Ronnie Mau and Harry Manning.

Active pallbearers were Levi Thompson, Kevin Frerichs, Mike Test, and Roger, Dennis and Robert Fuoss. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, Wayne. Military committal was by the Wayne Veteran's Group.

The son of Herman Samuel and Esher Burgeson Fuoss, Theodore Robert Fuoss, was born Aug. 17, 1931, in Dixon County. He was raised in the Dixon and Wayne area.

On Aug. 8, 1959, he was united in marriage to Sally Jean Logan in West Point. They had lived in Wisner and Norfolk before making their home west of Wayne for the past six years.

He had served in the armed services and was employed at Logan Valley Implement Co. until his health failed.

Preceding him in death were his parents and one brother. Survivors include his widow, Sally and three sons, Robert, Ted, Jr., and Kevin, all at home near Carroll; four daughters, Patricia Hauger of Council Bluffs, Ia., Debbie of Omaha, and Pamela Joan and Tanya Kay, both at home; one granddaughter, Nichola Love Hauger of Council Bluffs; two brothers, Marvin Fuoss of Winside and Earl Fuoss of Wayne; and four sisters, Mrs. Kenneth (Evelyn) Reikofski of Omaha, Mrs. Noel (Alice) Bennett and Mrs. Gayle Hensgar, both of Wayne, and Mrs. Otto (Esther Mae) Test, Jr., of Norfolk.

Local Student on UN-O Rural Health Committee

Joyce Gurrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Haun, Wayne, is one of 13 students from the University of Nebraska Medical Center who have formed a student rural health committee to seek solutions to Nebraska's rural health manpower shortage.

According to Medical Center student senate president Pete Whitted, the students will work with the UNMC rural health task force to develop guidelines for handling the problem.

"We'll place special emphasis on what the students can do to solve the problem," Whitted said.

The committee will examine such issues as why students choose to practice where they do and what role health education can play in solving the health manpower shortage, he said.

The committee may also establish a program where students would visit outside communities to explain what the Medical Center is doing to funnel more health professionals to western Nebraska.

"I think it's important for Nebraskans to realize that students are interested in the problem and recognize that something has to be done," Whitted added.

'Rubberband Man' Stretches Talent

By RANDY HASCALL
 Co-Editor, Wayne State
 Faster than the speeding Houdini. Able to leap through his arms in a single bound. It's a bird, it's a plane, no it's "Rubberband Man."

junior does contortions that some people say are not possible.
 Kanago's favorite act is to skip rope with his arms. He connects his hands in front of him and jumps over them like a rope. Without disconnecting his hands, he brings them behind his back and over his head. It is difficult to explain and to picture, but Bryce can continue this cycle for several minutes.

 "It was a real ego trip," the Spencer, Iowa, native said after he received a standing ovation from several hundred students at his first performance in Wayne Wanoy accredits his ability to do unusual contortions to his tall and lanky build.

 "I first learned of my ability as a freshman in college," said the history major. He carried 22 credits last semester at WSC with a 4.0 grade point average. "Now I practice one hour each week on various contortions."
 Kanago said one of his goals is to go on "The Gong Show" with his brother Kerwin, who also possesses the unusual talent.
 Bryce said he would also like to write a science fiction novel within the next two years.
 Kanago said his coordination and agility have improved only by constant exercise.
 "Putting both legs behind by head and walking on my hands is my most difficult act, but I can also place my arm behind my neck and pick my front pocket," he said.

Lewis said the subcommittee has been working through the National Legislative Conference to study post-secondary education's "role and mission." A final draft of the subcommittee's recommendations on post-secondary education will be presented to the legislature in January 1978.

Dr. Lyle Seymour, president of Wayne State College, testified that WSC would be interested in investigating agreements with other areas if such agreements would be in the best interest of students. Seymour said after the meeting that he was encouraged by the general comments during the day.

"All the discussion was in the interest of the students," he said. "Everyone was concerned about ways to make educational programs available for the students. After all that's what we are all about."

Seymour said he thinks Wayne State and all schools would benefit from reciprocal agreements in the outlined areas. He cited a need for centralized library and computer services for Nebraska and surrounding states.

"We are in need of a way of exchanging information and making it available to the students," Seymour said. He said most schools do not have the resources available to maintain the large informational centers needed.

Zoning

 hurt neighborhood property values, the attorney said.

Knolls and Oak Ridge homeowners asked why Mrs. Swinney's property couldn't be Zone R-1 and sold in lots for single unit homes. They questioned the availability of off-street parking for the proposed apartment building, and expressed their fears that if one building is built, others might follow on the four-acre tract.

Planning consultant Richard Woznaik said city zoning regulations require 3,000 square feet per unit for apartments, indicating 72,000-square-foot would be needed for a 24-unit building. There are 43,560 square feet in an acre.

Bornhoff, emphasizing he represents only Mrs. Swinney and not the people proposing to build the apartments, said more than one acre will probably be sold if additional area is needed to meet zoning regulations. He added that it is possible that additional units could be built on the tract if the zoning request was granted. "It could happen, but doesn't make it wrong. We are just never going to get any apartments built in Wayne if we must secure the consent of 100 per cent of the people in the area. If demand is such that another apartment building is justified, there probably will be one."

During discussion, planning commission member Dean Bruggeman said he is included to go along with property owners who signed the petition presented by Struve and all but one of the commission members present apparently agreed. The recommendation against granting the R-2 zoning will be forwarded to the city council, which must decide the matter. Property owners including Roy Corvett, Richard Carman and Joe Dorcy attended the meeting to question a recommendation by the commission to annex property on Wayne's western edge into the city, while failing to make any recommendation about 43 other tracts of land contiguous with the city, they said.

The council at its last meeting returned the recommendation for further study. Planning commissioners Dr. Ken Liska agreed they had raised a good question. He said it wasn't the commission's intent to discriminate against anyone, explaining that the recommendation had arisen from a discussion of development west of the city.

Chairman Dan Sherry said the board will take more time to reconsider the recommendation, and the board approved a motion by Walt Moller to study all property being developed adjacent to the city limits for possible annexation.

City clerk Bruce Mordhorst also noted an opinion by the city attorney indicates property used for agricultural purposes cannot be annexed.

Thone announcement answers questions for Nebraska Republicans

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — The question Nebraska Republicans have been wondering about for months has been answered — almost. Congressman Charles Thone of Lincoln has announced he very probably will run for the GOP gubernatorial nomination next year.

In a statement, the four-term congressman said, "An announcement of my decision regarding my political future will be made during the first week in January. It is likely the announcement will be that I will seek and work hard for the Republican nomination for governor."

Three men had earlier announced they would run for the nomination. They are Vance Rogers, former president of Nebraska Wesleyan University; Bob Phares, former North Platte mayor, and Stan Juelfs, a Kimball businessman.

Thone had been prodded by a number of high level Republicans to make his plans known. Some GOP spokesmen thought he should stay in the Congress and expressed fear the seat might be picked off by a Democrat unless Thone was the candidate.

The congressman had replied it was too early to make public his intentions. At the same time he urged any Republican to file for any office that will be on the ballot.

When he released his most recent statement, Thone said he does not want his January timing to handicap other Republicans in any way.

There had been speculation he might set his sights on the 1978 U.S. Senate race in which Gov. J. James Exon is expected to be the Democratic candidate.

Among those who have been mentioned as Republican candidates for Thone's congressional seat are State Sens. Douglas Beruter of Uta and Loran Schmit of Bellwood.

Lancaster County Commissioner Bruce Hamilton of Lincoln has announced he will be in the race for the Democratic nomination, and there are several others in his party considering the possibility of getting involved. One of them is Hess Dyas of Lincoln who was in a close contest with Thone in the crowd asked Mrs. Gabler if she thought some of the girls who had viewed the film in a home economics class had "gone out and done something" as a result of it.

"Some probably did," was her response.

"Well, I saw it, and I didn't," the student said.

"That's what you say," Mrs. Gabler replied.

If that wasn't rude, I'm badly mistaken. I have little doubt that were a high school teacher to talk to a student like that, the same people who sponsored Mrs. Gabler's address would be clamoring for the teacher to be fired.

The only way the students' conduct could be construed as rude, in my opinion is that they asked pointed questions to which Mrs. Gabler has no answers. When that happened, she responded with a shrill, arrogant, artificial "Ha, ha, ha," and retreated safe and smug behind the self-righteous wall of a closed mind.

Rude? Those youngsters sought mainly to defend their school from condemnation by a person who knows nothing about it. I was darned proud of them for the manner in which they conducted themselves, and their parents, their school, and their community should be, too.

Juelfs said he was disappointed Thone didn't choose to seek re-election to Congress.

Exon Surgery Scheduled

Gov. Exon announced recently he will undergo surgery about the middle of October to have one or more parathyroid glands removed because they are releasing too much calcium into his bloodstream.

He said the abnormally was discovered during a routine physical examination early last summer.

Exon told a news conference he will have the surgery done in a Lincoln hospital and that the operation "is not considered a serious one."

He expects to be hospitalized five or six days and to follow that with about a week of recuperation.

The surgery will be performed shortly after the governor and his wife return from Switzerland and Austria.

The Exons will join a delegation of the executive committee of the National Governor's Conference for the trip to Switzerland and then will spend four days in Austria before returning home.

Pesticide Regulations

Nebraskans have asked Uncle Sam for enough time to develop a pesticide regulation program that would be acceptable to the Environmental Protection Agency.

John Wicklund, head of the EPA's pesticide branch in Kansas City, told a recent hearing in Lincoln the agency is arranging office space in Lincoln that could be utilized by Oct. 21, the scheduled date of the federal government's takeover of the program.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh told EPA officials during the hearing Nebraska has one of the best pesticide education and certification programs in the country. The EPA recently advised it intends to reject the program, which provides for education and licensing of persons who apply pesticides on farm fields.

Wicklund said testimony received at the hearing will be reviewed before the federal government takes the next step.

Both state and federal officials expressed hope they could arrive at some way to have the state administer the program.

EPA spokesman said Nebraska has 25 deficiencies, including the absence of enforcement procedures.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood said his Agriculture and Environment Committee believed the EPA went beyond its authority in demanding that the states establish enforcement programs at their own expense.

He said his committee is working on amendments that would penalize non-certified applicators who apply restricted chemicals. Another amendment, he said, would delete a provision for self-certification by applicators.

The State Agriculture Department could handle other deficiencies cited by the EPA, Schmit said.

William Abell, attorney for the Agriculture Department, said 80,000 farmers and ranchers who are pesticide applicators will face additional problems if the federal takeover becomes a reality.

Schmit contends Nebraska's program is better than what the EPA requires. Some time ago, he threatened to file a lawsuit to bring the matter — which he considers a state rights issue to a head.

than a dozen administrators and consultants have resigned their positions with the State Department of Education. In most cases, those who resigned did so to accept positions paying considerably more in other states.

The latest to quit was Al Bijten, finance administrator for the past two years who left a $22,400 job for one that will pay $27,500. He will become associate director of the Illinois Community College Board.

Reports coming out of the Education Department indicate there are problems other than low salaries which have prompted so many persons to resign.

Some of those who departed said there is too much bureaucracy and that morale is low.

State Education Commissioner Anne Campbell says she can't compete on salaries unless the Legislature provides a larger budget, or some jobs are combined so employees can receive better compensation.

Mrs. Campbell expressed concern about the bureaucracy but said there is little she can do about it.

Most of those who have left praised the commissioner but said they were afraid the inability to retain some of the department's top personnel will continue.

OBSERVATIONS

A question of rudeness

By JIM STRAYER

I should, I suppose, begin this with an apology for what I consider a lapse in professional conduct. I voiced an emotional opinion at an event I attended as a newsman, and therefore, should have remained a detached observer.

The incident happened Saturday night, following an address by Mrs. Norma Gabler and the viewing of the movie "About Sex" at the city auditorium. About 40 high school students who were not admitted to the program came in afterwards and began questioning Mrs. Gabler. The questions apparently became a bit too pointed and she huffed out. One of the sponsors of the event told the kids they had been rude. My response: "I think it's the other way around."

While I apologize for voicing an opinion better left to the editorial page, that opinion remains the same. She was rude to those kids. I think they conducted themselves, with enthusiasm, yes, but also with restraint. They were more intent on defending their school system than attacking anyone.

Mrs. Gabler, for example, informed the youngsters that they don't know how to read or write, or know anything about their nation, but know everything about sex.

Without knowing anything about the Wayne-Carroll school system, she condemned it, and the students disagreed. I probably couldn't name a half dozen of those youngsters, but I recognized many of them from having taken their pictures at various times. Usually for things like having gone to the state drama contest, or having earned an award in speech competition, or posing with a trophy the band has won. Not bad for a bunch of illiterate kids, huh, Mrs. Gabler?

Those activities might not meet with her approval. One of the students informed her that a teacher recently had been afraid to show a class a photo of a classic sculpture because the figure is nude. Mrs. Gabler's response: "I congratulate her."

Mrs. Gabler also condemned the school system without being aware, for example, that local students have historically scored above the national norm on college entrance exams, or that an educational program developed locally has received national acclaim and served as a model for school systems in numerous other states.

Most of us are well aware that test scores nationally have been slipping in recent years and we don't pretend that the local schools operate without any problems. But if it is bad form, in my opinion, to come into a town and knock its schools to its students without knowing a thing about local conditions.

One of the girls in the crowd asked Mrs. Gabler if she thought some of the girls who had viewed the film in a home economics class had "gone out and done something" as a result of it.

"Some probably did," was her response.

"Well, I saw it, and I didn't," the student said.

"That's what you say," Mrs. Gabler replied.

If that wasn't rude, I'm badly mistaken. I have little doubt that were a high school teacher to talk to a student like that, the same people who sponsored Mrs. Gabler's address would be clamoring for the teacher to be fired.

The only way the students' conduct could be construed as rude, in my opinion is that they asked pointed questions to which Mrs. Gabler has no answers. When that happened, she responded with a shrill, arrogant, artificial "Ha, ha, ha," and retreated safe and smug behind the self-righteous wall of a closed mind.

Rude? Those youngsters sought mainly to defend their school from condemnation by a person who knows nothing about it. I was darned proud of them for the manner in which they conducted themselves, and their parents, their school, and their community should be, too.

Wisdom of city-county mergers questioned

Rumblings of late indicate a movement is underway to crank up another bill come January in the Nebraska Legislature to encourage (or possibly coerce) mergers of city and county governments.

The city-county merger idea is usually promoted by urban interests in the largest city in a county. The sales pitch runs, "Look at the money we could save by eliminating duplication of services and how much more efficient a single city-county government system would be."

Those in opposition or with reservations are portrayed as unprogressive and prejudiced and the theme is, "We don't understand how anyone could be opposed to such obvious progress."

Perhaps the promoters would be more successful if they made some attempt to understand that in the eyes of farm people and residents of the small communities, that the potential benefits are overwhelmingly on the side of the large city community.

Rural residents see no advantage in being included in all the sophisticated predatory codes, inspections and special taxes that are a necessary part of congested urban living. Residents of small towns do not wish to lose their identity and the freedom to handle their own affairs by passage of city and village ordinances. With good logic they ask, "Why should we be subject to the legislative and policy-making decisions of a city-county body dominated by residents of the metropolitan area of the county?"

City and county governments are distinctly different in many of their functions. City governments are empowered with legislative capability applicable to their jurisdiction. County governments do not legislate. A county attorney is concerned, not with enforcement of city ordinances, but with state laws. County assessors handle matters of property valuation for the entire county. City treasurers perform the mathematical determination of local property tax mill levies to raise the necessary revenues to fund budgets set by the school districts, cities and villages and other taxing agencies of government. And then to collect and disburse the revenues in accordance with the guidelines set by the State Constitution and state law.

Arguments about money-saving efficiency through merger are questionable when one gets down to specifics. The county sheriff is responsible for law enforcement and protection in the rural areas. Would a combined city-county police force do the job with fewer men and equipment and provide better service to the rural areas? Not likely. Governmental services incline to attach primary responsibility to those areas where there is the greatest concentration of people (and incidentally the most voters).

Historically there is competition between strong city and strong county government and occasionally failure to cooperate. This probably lends impetus to those who press for merger. But mergers and consolidations of agencies of government rarely reduce expenditures or improve services to the public. When government units get bigger, they usually become more bureaucratic, more expensive and more unresponsive. That principle holds true whether one is talking about government or private business and industry.

State senators in considering any city-county merger proposals that may be made, must make sure that the rights and wishes of residents outside the limits of the major cities are protected. On a purely voting numbers basis, the larger urban area interests are capable of grabbing the rural and small town residents by the scruff of the neck and ramming a city-county merger down their throats in the name of "progress."

— M.M. Van Kirk, Nebraska Farm Bureau.

Alaska plans called elitist attitude

You can imagine the outcry that would result if a group of private companies were caught conspiring to withhold from the American people major reserves of petroleum and natural gas, as well as other scarce resources.

Well, there is such a "conspiracy," but private enterprise has nothing to do with it. The plans are being cooked up by some members of Congress, in league with the more zealous elements of the environmental movement.

The idea is to "protect" vast stretches of Alaska by preventing any kind of economic use that might conceivably benefit a human being. The most extreme of the bills on the subject — H.R. 39, by Rep. Morris Udall (D-Ariz.) — would put a "Wilderness: No Trespassing" sign on 146 million acres of Alaska. That's an area equal to a 75-mile-wide strip of land across America from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

By some estimates, up to 40 per cent of these lands have oil and gas potential. The restrictions in H.R. 39 could prevent the development of resources that might amount to as much as 26 per cent of our domestic crude oil supply and 10 per cent of our gas supply in the 1990-2000 period. That is, if these reserve estimates are correct, up to 2.5 million barrels of oil and 1.5 billion cubic feet of natural gas per day would be denied to energy-short consumers. Both fuels together are equivalent to 3.5 million barrels of oil per day, or 40 per cent of current U.S. consumption, which is more energy than is supposed to be saved by the entire Carter Administration National Energy Plan.

Nor are oil and gas the only valuable resources likely to be affected. Alaska is also rich in timber, coal, iron ore, copper, platinum, lead, mercury, nickel, phosphate rock and titanium.

Blocking the full development of these American resources would further aggravate two problems that are already serious: Rising prices and growing dependence on foreign supplies.

The unreasonable extent of H.R. 39 prompted an Administration counterproposal, presented to Congress in mid-September by Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus. This plan would withdraw 92 million acres from use, rather than 146 million. Its effect on mineral development would be proportionally smaller, although 92 million acres is still a lot of acres.

A third proposal has been developed by Sen. Ted Stevens (R-Alaska) and the State's governor, Jay Hammond. It is by far the most sensible of the three.

Under the Stevens plan, 25 million acres would be placed in protected categories. A new designation would be created for another 37 million acres. Natural resources on these lands could be developed, but only under the joint supervision of the federal government and a special Alaska Land Classification Commission. These authorities would insure that no permanent environmental damage results from mining or other extractive activity.

I am not prepared to endorse any of this legislation without reservation. But I certainly favor the principle embodied in the Stevens bill: It is possible to safeguard the environment adequately without denying ourselves needed resources.

Once the drilling rig is removed, an oil or gas well is practically invisible. Wilderness is not "destroyed" by the presence of these activities, when they are carried on with a proper concern for the environment, and it is certainly within the power of the government to guarantee that.

To insist that wilderness be preserved unchanged forever, regardless of our other needs, is an elitist attitude best suited to those who can afford to vacation in Alaska, and who don't have to worry much about the size of their heating bill.

— Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Follow These Family Poison Prevention Tips

Did you know that this year more than a half-million children will be victims of accidental poisoning? You can help protect your family and your home by following these precautionary steps:

- Most importantly, keep household products and medicines out of your children's reach, preferably in a locked cabinet. Whenever possible, replace dangerous chemicals with products such as Drain Power, the drain opener that works with pressure instead of hazardous lyes and acids.
- In addition, look for safety packaging when buying household substances and medicines, keep all medicines and chemicals in their original containers (rather than in cups or soft-drink bottles) and keep food separate from household products.
- Finally, clean out your cabinets and closets periodically and throw out old medicine and household chemicals.

Poison prevention starts with you. For a free Poison Prevention Checklist to post in your home, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Drain Power, Dept. A, P. O. Box 641, PDR Station, Lincoln, NE 68502.

Parent supports sex education

Dear Editor:

After attending the meeting at the city auditorium Saturday night, I came away almost ill. Not because of the movie, it was because of the terrible, narrow-minded opinions of Mrs. (what's-her-name) from Texas. If we start blaming sex education for all the ills of our society (and this in essence is what she is doing) we are all as sick as she is.

According to her, ignorance is bliss. She said if we don't inform our children of the facts, they aren't likely to get into trouble; we don't keep our children busy enough if we keep our children so busy working, they won't have time to think about sex.

My God, parents, will you get your heads out of the sand and look around you. Our children are bright, beautiful, and aware. They are our hopes for the future. They deserve to be informed. They demand to be informed. They are constantly stimulated. Our books, movies, and TV spell sex constantly. Our boys and girls are encouraged to dress seductively. Of course the boys come on like gangbusters. Neither of them are able to handle their sexual urges, which by the way are a natural part of growing up.

We are sexual from the moment of birth. Children should be taught about sex in the school system from the first grade on through college. If should be taught in stages according to their age levels — according to how much they understand and comprehend at each level of development.

Of course the ideal answer would be to teach it in the home, but how many of us, as parents, are able to sit down and have an honest, informative discussion with our children. Many of us don't know the answer, even if we were able to talk to our children, so it wouldn't hurt for parents to be better informed also, yes, sex education for adults isn't a bad idea either.

You know the school's function as far as teaching sex is concerned almost has to be left against the law to teach the religious and moral aspects of sexual behavior. That should be the responsibility of our family and churches.

As far as the movie was concerned, you know it was shown only to senior girls. If the children don't have this information by the time they are seniors in high school, it's too late anyhow. It was presented on the kids peer level. The production wasn't that good, but it certainly wasn't shocking. The main argument I have with the movie is that after giving the information on abortion they should have gone on and given some more alternatives to abortion such as adoption. Mrs. Moore and the girls assured me that this was done in the classroom.

Our daughters should be taught exactly how their bodies function — to have enough respect for themselves as women so they will be able to handle sexual situations as the arise.

Our boys and girls must have the straight answers before they can handle their physical and moral destinies. Believe me, they are going to find answers, and if we don't supply the right ones, they might discover all the wrong ones.

I'm not running for any social or political office, and these are my personal opinions so I don't care if you print my name. I am curious to know how many feel this way — because I think the other side should have their say also.

Thank you very much. — Marie Hagemann.

WSC President's Scholarship Given To Local Student

Nancy Backstrom, a senior at Wayne State College, isn't worrying as much about money this year as she has in the past. Nancy received one of 68 presidential scholarships awarded to academically qualified students at WSC.

Dr. Lyle Seymour, WSC president, said the presidential scholarship program was initiated (in April 1977) to "give quality students who do not qualify for financial aid a chance to pursue a career through a college education."

"The 68 students who received scholarships needed some financial help in order to come to school," Seymour said. "We have been happy to be able to provide the funds needed."

Students are recommended for the scholarship by college faculty or school teachers, based on academic abilities. Seymour said this allows students who need money, but not qualified for federally funded financial aid programs, a chance to attend classes.

Seymour said in many cases the money provided makes the difference between the student attending or not attending. "The students should be allowed to attend college," he said. "Some may need only a small amount of money in order to attend, but we feel they should be able to attend."

About 75 individuals, organizations, alumni and friends of the college have contributed since the program began, making it a success. "It has been a very successful program," Seymour said. "We really express our appreciation, and I am sure the students do also, to those who have supported this program."

Rough Draft Expected Soon On Zoning Code

The Wayne county joint planning commission is nearly finished writing zoning regulations and state planning consultant Dave Wright will return to the next meeting with a rough draft of the code, county clerk Norris Weible said.

The planning commission will review the draft at the next meeting, Weible said. The commission will be required to approve a draft of the zoning code, conduct a public hearing on the proposed regulations, and then review the code again before approving a final draft which will be submitted to the county commissioners.

The commissioners must also schedule a public hearing before they can act on any planning commission proposal. The commissioners can approve all, part, or none of the regulations recommended by the planning commission.

Wayne Peppy Pals

The regular meeting of the Wayne Peppy Pals 4-H Club was held in the Lance Corbit home Sept. 14 at 7 p.m.

Roll call was answered by six members naming their worst or funniest mistake during their 4-H membership.

The members involved in the rocketry project launched their rockets. Leader Mrs. Baier was awarded a 4-H charm.

The next meeting will be Oct. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Hilbert-Johns home. Anyone wishing to join may contact Mrs. John at 375-3369.

Leslie Livewires

The Leslie Livewires 4-H Club met Sept. 19 with Joel Greve in the John Greve, Jr., home with 12 members.

Parliamentary procedure was discussed and the record books were reviewed.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Greve.

Hayley Greve, news reporter.

Gingham Gals

The Gingham Gals 4-H Club met Saturday in the Merle Ring home with 11 members and five mothers, and eight visitors present.

The meeting was brought to order by Anita Sandahl, president. Roll call was called by secretary Terri Melena and was answered with a "Favorite Project of the Past Year." Correspondence was read by Mrs. Neil Sandahl. The club discussed having a Halloween party and what to do with money earned by singing.

Shelley Emry was named "4-H'er of the Year," and a gift of thanks was given to Carolyn Vukoc.

New officers elected were Terri Melena, president, Diane Lindsay, vice president, Karla Ote, secretary, Brenda Wessel, treasurer, and Karen Sandahl, news reporter.

Projects for the coming year were reviewed and lunch was served by the Sandahls.

The next meeting will be a Halloween party Oct. 30 in the Merle Ring barn.

Heavy Corn Borer Infestation Reported

Results of field surveys of European corn borer damage are prompting University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension entomologists to stay with their recommendation to corn producers — harvest heavily infested fields as quickly as possible to prevent ear dropage.

Dr. David Keith said Sept. 27 that a heavy infestation is present and damaging the state's corn crop, although levels of the insect are not as high as anticipated, based on actual cornstalk counts. The fall survey includes examination of five fields in five counties in each of the five major corn-producing crop districts — northeast, east, southeast, central and southern areas of the state. Because only five borers are counted by the surveyors, the counts are somewhat misleading, Keith said, because the total damage caused in a year when many borers are diseased is not reflected.

Nearly half of the borers are diseased in some fields in the east and southeast districts, an ailment caused by a white fungus or mold called Beauveria bassiana. The disease, probably favored by high humidity and borers crowding together, kills the insect — but usually not until the borer is well developed and already has substantially damaged the corn plant, Keith explained.

"Even with the disease afflicting the borers, their numbers have increased," the insect specialist emphasized.

The largest increases were in the northeast, southeast and south districts which averaged 3, 4.5, and 3 per plant, respectively. The east and central districts had 3 and 2.5 borers per plant, both about the same levels as last year. Within the survey area, individual fields were found with 8-13 borers per plant.

"Ear dropage at this point is still fairly light, but will increase the longer heavily infested fields remain unharvested, thus it is urgent to get these fields out as quickly as possible, even if it means harvesting at higher moisture," Keith advised.

Many causes are behind this year's borer problems, he said. First of all, the very early spring of 1977 gave borers a head start, permitting them to produce a partial third generation late this summer and fall. This late developing generation is usually light and most of these young borers will fail to make it through the winter. About 15 per cent of the population had not yet reached the last developmental stage as of Sept. 24. However, the remaining 85 per cent is mature and ready to pass the winter.

"A heavy first generation in June and July resulted in tremendous numbers of moths laying eggs for a huge second generation in July and August. A few of the second generation worms developed into moths which laid eggs for the partial third batch in August and September. The very moist and cooler conditions we had during July and August really triggered the problem, since they are ideal for moth, egg and larval (worm) survival," Keith analyzed.

The borer pattern this summer caused some difficulties in control, Keith said.

Borer moths laid a few eggs each day over a long period this summer. Eggs hatched and small borers remained outside the plants for about 10 days, then bored inside where they are protected from chemical treatments. At any one time there were not many borers present that could be reached with chemicals for borer control have short residuals, Keith stated.

"This would necessitate multiple treatments at about seven to eight dollars per acre per treatment. Faced with a potential $1.50 per bushel corn price, most Nebraska corn farmers were reluctant to invest further in the crop," he pointed out.

Overwintering borer populations will be heavy, but disease, weather, predators and tillage practices before planting next spring will probably reduce the numbers by 90 per cent or better," Keith predicted. However, enough will still be present to pose a threat to the 1978 crop, he concluded.

SSI Recipients Should Report Marital Status

People getting monthly supplemental security income payments should report promptly to Social Security if they get married or divorced, if they start living apart, or if they were living apart and start living together again.

The amount of the SSI payment people get can change if they marry, and the amount a wife or husband can get can change depending on whether they're living together or apart, according to Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

Payment amounts may also be affected by annulment or by the death of a wife or husband.

"Prompt reports of changes help social security get the right SSI payments to the right people on time," Branch said. "But failure to report changes may result in an overpayment that will have to be paid back."

Changes can be reported by calling or writing any social security office. A written report should include the name of the person affected, the correct social security claim number under which payments are made, the change being reported, the date the change occurred, and the signature and address of the person making the report.

People getting SSI payments should also report changes in income, resources, living arrangements, and other circumstances that might affect their payments, according to Branch.

Fall Brings Wildlife Road Kill

The two periods of October-November and April-May bring the greatest potential for wildlife being killed on Nebraska highways, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln wildlife specialist reported this week.

Dr. Ron Case, associate professor of wildlife biology in the UN-L Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, has been keeping records for eight years on 19 groups of animals that have been killed on the Interstate 80 system across Nebraska.

In addition to identifying two seasons when wildlife mortality is greatest from collisions with motor vehicles, the other conclusion of the study is that speed of the vehicle is "an extremely critical item," Case said.

The two peaks in road-killed wildlife occur in spring and fall because of the life cycle of the animals involved, Case explained. The spring peak occurs because animals are seeking mates; the October peak coincides with the break-up or dispersal of many animal family groups.

Vehicle speed has "a dramatic effect" on wildlife road-kills. Case continued. In 1974, the first full year of the mandatory 55 m.p.h. speed limit on the Interstate, wildlife road-kills decreased 33 per cent. While some of the decrease might have been due to fewer numbers of wildlife, a large percentage of the decrease must be attributed to slower-moving traffic, he said.

Harvest Loss Is a Danger For Soybeans

Losses during harvest can constitute the single greatest problem with soybean production, and the average combine operator may have losses of 10 to 12 per cent, according to University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural engineers.

In general, an expert combine operator can hold machine losses to three per cent of the yield or less, and a good operator to five per cent of the yield, they say.

The key is to identify where harvest losses are occurring, and then take measures to eliminate or minimize losses, the engineers state. They add that the procedure of measuring and identifying field losses can be accomplished in 15 minutes or less — well worth the time.

The heaviest losses, those caused by wind, rain or other environmental factors — need to be identified so they are not charged against the machine. More than 80 per cent of the machine losses — those that occur because of improper combine adjustment and operation — are gathering unit or header losses.

More information is contained in NebGuide G77-375, available at county extension offices.

Raccoons, opossums, coyotes, skunks and muskrats suffer high mortality rates in October," the UN-L specialist said.

Rabbits and deer increase from summer lows in October but reach their fall peak in November.

Be aware of the possibility of encountering wildlife and be alert when driving are the two main pieces of advice from Case to motorists. Young animals have not yet developed a sense of danger along roads, he said, and many animals get confused when a vehicle approaches and may dart directly into its path.

"Collisions frequently can be avoided by slower speeds and increased awareness of animals' presence. Lessening these accidents will not only reduce waste of the wildlife resource but also cut costs of vehicle repairs and possibly human injuries," Case concluded.

Babies get their molars between a year and a year and a half. These cause more discomfort than any other teeth.

they may recover from the effects of the aerosol.

Indian Meal Moth

I've had several reports of problems with Indian-meal moth in stored grain. These insects cause a crust over webbing over the surface of stored grain. If the insect is present use 3 per cent pyrethrin plus three per cent piperonyl butoxide on the surface of the grain. Apply in one to two gallons of water per 1,000 square feet of grain surface.

If Indian-meal moths haven't been a problem you can use one-half pint of 57 per cent premium grade malathion emulsifiable concentrate in one to two gallons of water per 1,000 square feet of grain surface area.

Indian-meal moths have built up a resistance to malathion, but it's still useful in preventing an infestation, but it's not too effective in eliminating a heavy population of the insects.

A lot of grain is going to be stored in this area this year. And it's important that you protect your grain from insects. We have a Nebguide "Insect Control in Stored Grain" that covers the subject in detail.

CARROLL NEWS / Mrs. Ed Fork 585-4827

English Guests Visiting in Area

Mr. and Mrs. John Rees went to Fremont Friday evening to meet Mr. and Mrs. Len Hobie of North Wales, England, who came to visit relatives in the area.

Hobbies visited Saturday in the Clarence Morris home. Joining them for supper were Mrs. Bob Williams of Omaha, Mrs. Verna Rees and Mrs. Evelyn Hamley, both of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. John Rees and Mrs. Faye Hurlbert.

The Hooles and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morris were guests Saturday afternoon in the Charles Hall home, Randolph.

The John Reeses entertained at dinner Sunday for the Hooles. Other guests were the C.L. Wilcoxes and Randy of Lincoln, the Gay Wilcox family of Wisner, Mrs. Bob Williams and Tim Rees of Omaha, the Clarence Morris and Pat, and Mrs. Faye Hurlbert.

Mrs. Hooles is a cousin of Clarence Morris, John Rees, Mrs. C.L. Wilcox and Mrs. Charles Hall.

Hooles left Sunday afternoon to visit relatives in Stanton, Ia.

Musical Program
The Adult Fellowship met Sunday evening at the Zion Congregational Church with 16 members and guests Mrs. Mary Anderson of West Point and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jenkins of Norfolk.

Keith Owens conducted the meeting and Mrs. Enos Williams read the secretary's report.

"Music" was the theme for the evening program. Mrs. G.E. Jones read an article about music. She also read several articles about prominent hymn writers.

The group discussed presenting a one-act play in the future. G.E. Jones showed slides and told about their trip to Europe. Slides taken throughout the Western United States were also presented.

Following the program, the Rev. Gail Axen led in prayer. Mr. and Mrs. Dean Owens served lunch. The next meeting will be Nov. 6. Mrs. Etta Fisher and Mrs. Esther Batten will present the Bible study lesson. Serving will be Mr. and Mrs. Enos Williams.

Forks returned to Carroll last Thursday evening.

Visit Parents
The Warren Cooks of Carroll, Tex. came Friday evening to visit his parents, the Arthur Cooks, and with other area relatives.

Joining them for dinner Sunday in the Arthur Cook home were the Archie Underwood family of Wayne and Rodney and Gordon Cook.

Warren Cooks left Sunday to go to Milford, Ia. to visit the Gordon Jorgensons, and returned to Texas on Tuesday.

Dedication Service
A clock and two coffee servers given in memory of Martin Paulsen by his family were dedicated during worship services Sunday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Carroll. The Rev. G.W. Gottberg conducted the special service.

It was announced that the annual Mission Festival will be held this Sunday, beginning with worship at 10:30 a.m., followed with a congregational cooperative dinner. Special music will be provided by the Sunday school with Jerry Junck accompanying on his guitar.

First Birthday
The Ervin Wittlers and the Murray Leicys, Duane and Will, were guests Sunday afternoon in the Harold Wittler home to honor Benji's first birthday.

The Harold Wittlers and Benji were guests in the Elmer Janssen home in Humphrey Thursday evening to honor Benji.

Move to Randolph
The Charles Halls moved from their farm to Randolph Sept. 27 to a home which they purchased. Mrs. Hall had lived on the farm near Carroll for 77 years.

The Harold Wittlers and Benji moved Sept. 28 from Norfolk to the Hall farm which they purchased.

Tami Schlus is 2
Tami Schlus was honored for her second birthday Sunday evening. Supper guests in the Randy Schlus home were Mr. and Mrs. Mervle Schlus and Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Schlus and Lance, all of O'Neill, the Chuck Stahns, Chris and Ann, of Norfolk, the Gerald, Bontas and Bill Bonta, all of Plainview, the Scott Decks of Hoskins, and the Erwin Morris and Eddie and the Ray Jucks and Danny, all of Carroll.

Are You Looking For A New Bread Recipe?

Try One Of These!

Lemon Nut Bread

3/4 cup Margarine
 1 1/4 cups Sugar
 3 Eggs
 2 1/2 cups Flour
 2 teaspoons Baking Powder
 1 teaspoon Salt
 1/2 cup Milk
 One-third cup Lemon Juice
 2 teaspoons grated Lemon Rind
 3/4 cup chopped Pecans

Cream margarine and sugar until light and fluffy; blend in eggs. Add combined dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with milk and juice, mixing well after each addition. Stir in rind and nuts. Pour into greased and floured 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 1 hour and 20 minutes. Cool 5 minutes; remove from pan.

Bran Rolls

1 package Active Dry Yeast
 1/2 cup warm Water (110 to 115 degrees)
 1/2 cup boiling Water
 1/2 cup Shortening
 One-third cup Sugar
 1/2 cup Whole Bran
 3/4 teaspoon Salt
 1 Egg
 3 cups sifted all-purpose Flour

Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir to dissolve.

Pour boiling water over shortening in mixing bowl; stir in sugar, bran and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Beat egg with rotary beater and add to bran mixture. Stir in yeast and mix well.

Stir in flour, 1/2 cup at a time. Cover and let rise in warm place until almost doubled, about 2 1/2 hours. Punch down. Drop dough from spoon into greased muffin-pan cups, filling cups half full. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 15 minutes. Makes 2 dozen rolls.

Buttermilk Muffins

1 3/4 cups sifted all-purpose Flour
 2 tablespoons Sugar
 1 teaspoon Baking Powder
 1/4 teaspoon Baking Soda
 3/4 teaspoon Salt
 1 Egg, well beaten
 3/4 cup Buttermilk or Soured Milk
 One-third cup melted Shortening or Salad Oil

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt into mixing bowl. Make a hollow in the center.

Combine egg, milk and slightly cooled shortening. Add all at once to hollow in dry ingredients. Stir with spoon just enough to moisten dry ingredients (batter will not be smooth).

Fill greased muffin-pan cups or paper bake cups two thirds full.

Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 25 minutes, or until done. Makes about 12 muffins.

Almond Streusel Coffee Bread

1 package Active Dry Yeast
 1/2 cup warm Water (110 to 115 degrees)
 1 3/4 to 2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose Flour
 1 Egg
 3 tablespoons Sugar
 1/2 teaspoon Salt
 2 tablespoons soft Butter
 Streusel Topping (recipe follows)

Sprinkle yeast over warm water; stir to dissolve.

Add 1 cup flour, egg, sugar, salt and butter. Beat with spoon until smooth.

Add enough remaining flour, a little at a time, first with spoon and then with hands, to make dough that leaves the sides of bowl.

Turn out onto lightly floured board. Grease fingers lightly and knead until smooth. Round up and place in greased bowl; turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, 45 minutes to 1 hour. (Dent remains when finger is pressed deep into side of dough.)

Meanwhile prepare topping.

Punch down dough. Press evenly into greased 9" square pan. Sprinkle evenly with Streusel Topping, then with fingers make dents all over the top, pressing to the bottom of the pan to distribute topping evenly.

Cover pan and let rise until doubled, about 45 minutes.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 35 minutes, or until browned. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Makes 1 (9" square) coffee bread.

Streusel Topping

1/2 cup Sugar
 1/2 cup Flour
 2 teaspoons grated Lemon Peel
 1/2 teaspoon Vanilla
 One-third cup melted Butter
 One-third cup ground unblanched Almonds

Blend together all the ingredients well, using fork. Sprinkle over dough as directed.

Herb Batten Bread

2 3/4 cups all-purpose Flour
 1 1/2 cups Wheat Chex Cereal crushed to 1/2 cup
 2 tablespoons Sugar
 2 teaspoons Salt
 1/2 teaspoon Ground Thyme
 1/4 teaspoon Ground Marjoram
 1/4 teaspoon Ground Oregano
 2 packages Active Dry Yeast
 1 1/4 cups Milk
 1/2 cup Water
 3 tablespoons Butter or Margarine

In large mixer bowl, combine 1 1/4 cups flour, crushed cereal, sugar, salt, spices and undissolved yeast. Combine milk, water and butter in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until very warm (120-130 degrees). (Butter does not need to melt.) Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer. Scrape bowl occasionally. Add 3/4 cup flour. Beat 2 minutes at high speed. Scrape bowl occasionally. Mix in remaining flour. Cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, 30-45 minutes. Stir batter down. Beat vigorously about 1/2 minute or until batter is reduced to almost its original size. Turn into a greased deep 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake at 375 degrees about 45 minutes or until done. (Top will sound hollow when lightly tapped.) Remove from casserole. Cool. Makes 1 loaf.

Quick Brown Bread

3 1/2 cups Whole Wheat Flour
 1 teaspoon Baking Powder
 1 teaspoon Salt
 1/4 teaspoon Baking Soda
 1 tablespoon Vinegar
 1/2 cup Milk

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F

In large mixer bowl, combine dry ingredients. Combine vinegar and milk; let stand 5 minutes. Add to flour mixture. Blend at Speed 1 until moistened. Increase to Speed 2 and beat for 3 minutes. Grease and flour 9" round pan (oven proof) or cookie sheet. Spoon dough onto baking container. Flour hands and shape into flat 7" circle. With a sharp knife dipped in flour, cut a deep cross from side to side in the top of dough.

Bake for 40-45 minutes or until bread sounds hollow when tapped. Cool before slicing. Yield: 1 7" round loaf.

Golden Pumpkin Bread

1 cup Milk
 1 cup canned Pumpkin
 1/4 cup Shortening
 1/4 cup Sugar
 2 teaspoons Salt
 1 teaspoon Cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon Ginger
 1/2 teaspoon Cardamom
 2 packages Active Dry Yeast
 1/2 cup warm Water (110 to 115 degrees)
 6 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose Flour
 2 Eggs

Scald milk; stir in pumpkin, shortening, sugar, salt and spices. Cool to lukewarm.

Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir to dissolve.

Add 3 cups flour, milk mixture and eggs to yeast. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping the bowl occasionally. Or beat by hand until batter is smooth.

Mix in enough remaining flour, a little at a time, first with spoon and then with hands, to make a dough that leaves the sides of the bowl.

Turn onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, 8 to 10 minutes. Place in lightly greased bowl and turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Punch down. Turn onto board, divide in half and round up to make 2 balls. Shape in loaves and place in 2 greased 9x5x3" loaf pans. Brush tops of loaves with melted butter. Cover and let rise until almost doubled, about 50 minutes.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 35 minutes or until bread tests done. Makes 2 loaves.

Library Open New Hours

The Winside Library Board met Saturday afternoon with four members attending the meeting.

It was announced that several boxes of books were donated to the library by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bleich.

As a result of a telephone survey, new library hours will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and from 7 to 9 p.m. each Wednesday. Plans are for the new library hours to be in effect year round except on holidays and during inclement weather.

Large print books which have been received from the Norfolk library for use during October are "Why Didn't They Ask Evans," by Agatha Christie; "Slater's Book," by James Wyckoff; "The Doorbell Rings," by Rex Stout; "A Catbush of Diamonds," by Margaret Lane, and "A Place Called Paradise."

Library board will meet again on Nov. 5.

Crowd Sees Slides
 Several Winside area residents attended a meeting at the Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday evening to see films and listen to the Rev. Paul Reimers speak of his trip to the Holy Land.

Pastor Reimers, a former minister at Trinity Lutheran, was among a group who took a three-week tour of the Holy Land in July. Pastor Reimers now serves a church in Osceola.

Several items from the Holy Land were displayed Sunday evening.

Lunch was served by Lutheran Churchwomen.

$25 Prize Goes

To Wayne Woman

Last week's winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks contest won the $25 consolation award for having her birthday closest to the winning date.

She is Pat Dolata of Wayne who missed winning the $750 grand prize last Thursday night while shopping at Bill's C.W. Mrs. Dolata was born on Dec. 21, 1945, missing the winning date of Feb. 14, 1946.

The winning birth date is drawn by a participating Wayne merchant and announced at 8:15 p.m. Drawing last week's winning date was Roger Nelson of Swan-McLean Clothing.

To be a winner, a shopper must be present in a participating store when the date is announced. Again tonight (Thursday), some lucky person will have a chance to win either prize.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS in downtown Wayne are undergoing some face lifting as a part of the downtown improvement project. One such business is Wayne Shoe Co. where workers from Otte Construction are putting up a brick front. One worker, Roger Maxon, seems to have his eyes "glued" to his work as he pours in the bonding cement between the layers. Next to the shoe store, Swan-McLean Clothing is having its front remodeled also by Otte Construction.

Here They Come...

A LITTLE bit of history was buried Tuesday as a construction crew from Sioux City started pouring hot asphalt over the brick Main Street. The project started at the intersection of Seventh and Main Streets and was scheduled to be finished on South Main late Wednesday. There were a number of by-standers watching the work, often commenting on what they thought about covering the old bricks, but none of them wanted their comments recorded for the newspaper.

BUSINESS NOTES

Robert Carhart of Wayne, president of Carhart Lumber Co., has been elected to a three-year term on the board of directors of the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry.
Carhart's term will begin Oct. 14 at NACI's 65th annual meeting at the New Tower Hotel Courts in Omaha. NACI is a statewide association of 1,000 business and industrial firms, local chambers of commerce and state trade organizations.

LeRoy Barber of Barner's Lawn Service in Wayne has returned from a two-day sales meeting conducted by the Scott-Hourigan Co. at York.

During this meeting, dealers from the entire state heard from factory representatives of various manufacturers.
The dealers had the opportunity to see the new products for 1978 and also were able to try their hand at these new products in a field demonstration.
