ASCS Is Preparing For Loan Requests

A local U.S. Department of agriculture official said he expects a large number of applications for price support loans this year because of low market prices and limited availability of credit.

Ray Butts, director of the Wayne County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office, said his staff is gearing up to process an anticipated 500 to 800 applications for the loans.

The loan price for corn is $1.97 compared with market prices now in the $1.45 to $1.50 range. Farmers applying for a loan need only to certify the amount of grain they have in storage, and loans are usually made immediately.

A waiver from the lender must be obtained if there is a lien against the grain, however.

Butts' office has already made 60 loans this year amounting to about $130,000 on 128,470 bushels of oats. The oats loan rate is $1.02 a bushel.

Loan rates for other crops are: soybeans, $3.41; barley, $1.55; rye, $1.62; wheat, $2.20, and grain sorghum, $3.20 a hundredweight.

Loans are made at six per cent interest and mature in 11 months, although they can be repaid at any time.

If market prices have not reached the loan price at the time the loan matures, farmers can deliver their grain to the Commodity Credit Corporation in repayment.

Loan applications can be made as soon as the grain is in the bin, Butts said. Only dry corn is eligible now, he added, but the state ASCS committee is trying to get authorization to make loans on high moisture corn to farmers who have facilities for proper storage.

The county ASCS director said poor prices, an excellent crop this year, and a shortage of commercial storage space are apparently responsible for an increase in on-farm storage. His office has made 85 loans worth $648,000 this year under a USDA storage structure and drying equipment program.

Oct. 29 Is Deadline For Pork Queen Candidates To File

Misses from four counties who would like to enter as candidates for the Northeast Pork Producers Association queen contest still have time to do so.

The deadline for registration is Oct. 29. Candidates can register by calling Mrs. Lussler of Hubbard at 632-4635 or Mrs. Larry Daum of Emerson at 695-2166.

To be eligible, candidates must be single, between the ages of 16 and 19 as of January 1, 1978, and be the daughter of a pork producer living in Dakota, Dixon, Thurston, or Wayne County.

The queen contest will be conducted the afternoon of Nov. 6. The Northeast Pork Producers annual awards banquet is scheduled for that date on the Wayne State College campus.

UW Drive Nears Halfway Mark

The Wayne United Way climbed to 43 per cent of goal Friday. Campaign chairman George Phelps said after a report meeting.

He cited "outstanding jobs being done" by Tom Ortmeier and Roger Madden in their respective business divisions and by Bob Sutherland, who heads the Wayne State College campaign.

Phelps said the 43 per cent figure represents gifts or pledges already turned in by campaigners. Other workers no doubt have money in hand, but unreported, he added.

From all indications, progress toward the $14,000 goal looks encouraging, apparently ahead of last year's pace which, Phelps said.

Another report meeting is scheduled next Friday from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. at Jeff's Cafe.

WSC Professor Receives Award From Governor

Wayne State College biochemistry professor Russell Rasmussen recently received the Ring Around the Good Life Award from Gov. J.J. Exon, recognizing his leadership of the Northern Nebraska Emergency Medical Services Council.

Dr. Rasmussen became a member of the Northern Nebraska Health Planning Council board of directors in 1974 and was elected president of the organization in July 1975.

In 1976 the group became the Emergency Medical Services Council and Dr. Rasmussen remained as president until July, and remains a member of the executive committee.

Media Specialist Chosen Local Teacher of the Year

Mrs. Beverly Merriman has been selected by her fellow Wayne teachers as their candidate for the 1977-78 Nebraska Teacher of the Year Award.

Power Line Hearing Is Tonight

The last of three hearings scheduled by the Nebraska Public Power District on a plan to construct a power line from the Raun, Iowa, sub-station to the Hoskins sub-station is scheduled for tonight (Monday), beginning at 7:30 in the Winside city auditorium.

NPPD said the meeting is scheduled to receive ideas and suggestions from interested citizens on the proposed routing of a 345,000-volt transmission line.

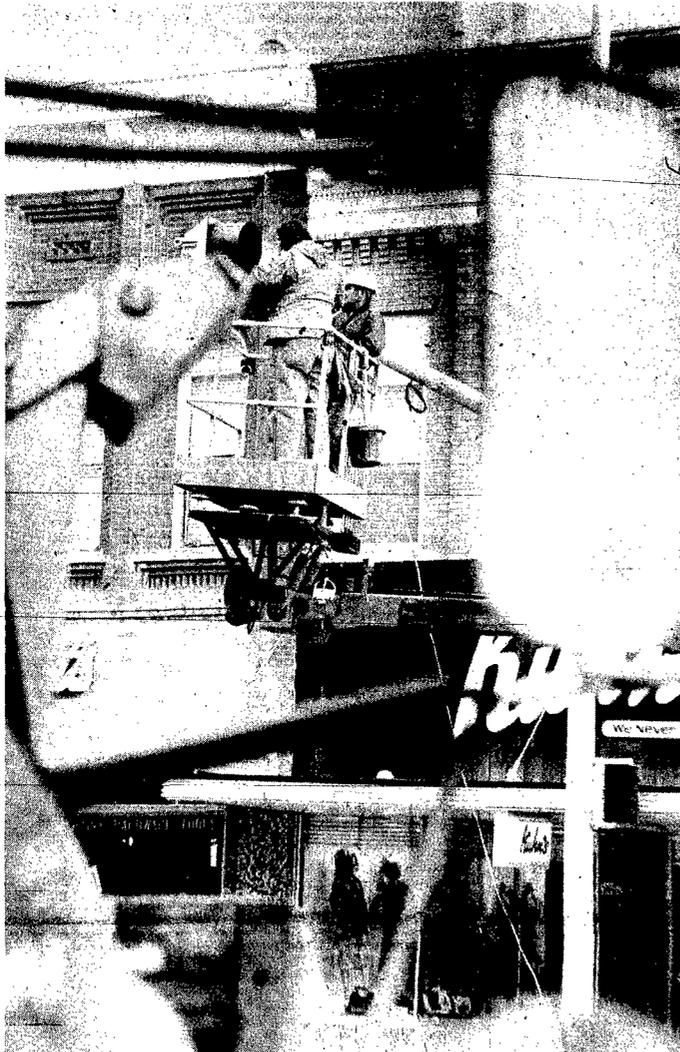

A map published in an advertisement in Thursday's Wayne Herald shows the general area under consideration for the line. Counties involved are Stanton, Wayne, Thurston, and Dakota.

NPPD at the meeting will provide information available on the construction in addition to receiving information from the public.

City administrator Fred Brink said the cost for the new lights is $30,000 with the state and city dividing the cost, 50-50. Brink pointed out that because the lights are owned by the state, they will be synchronized only by the state.

The subarea includes 21 counties in Northeast and North Central Nebraska. Representatives will be elected from each of the 21 counties during the Wednesday meeting, according to Steve Urosevich of Neligh, temporary chairman of the subarea task force.

Once established, Urosevich said, the subarea committee will be responsible for advising the 30-member GNHSA governing board on matters regarding health services and facilities in northern Nebraska.

"The purpose of establishing subarea committees," he said, "is to glean more local input on health matters."

Urosevich emphasized the importance of public interest. See HEALTH, page 12

WSC Enrollment Shows Increase

Enrollment as of Thursday at Wayne State College is up over last year's December total. Figures show 2,365 currently enrolled compared to 2,280 in Dec. 1976, for an increase of 85 students.

WSC registrar Virginia Wright said continuing registration for extension courses could cause an increase of about another 150 students by December.

"There are many extension classes that have not started yet," she said. "These classes start at different times during the semester so final figures are not available yet."

A breakdown of the Thursday figures show the largest number (805) of students are in their freshman year, followed by 438 sophomores; 362 juniors; 382 seniors; 331 graduate students and 47 not classified.

Entering freshman enrollment is up 23 students with 555 entering. See ENROLLMENT, page 12

Allen Play Practice Is Underway

Play practice is underway at Allen High School for the junior class presentation of "Grandad Goes Wild."

The three-act comedy will appear in the high school auditorium on Tuesday, Nov. 22, at 7 p.m. under the direction of students Lila Anderson, Tammy Burnham and Gary Karberg.

The play centers on 12 people who are forced to spend one night in a house which usually accommodates only two persons. Grandad, played by Dale Kellogg, creates the predicament when he invites a hobo by the name of Hooley to stay with the family. The problem of 12 people in the house unfolds when visitors are in the home when a police officer informs the family that all hoboes in the neighborhood have been quarantined because of an outbreak of illness.

Other students and the characters they play: Mari Clough is Mrs. Laura Morton, Theresa Jones is Angie, Susie Erwin is Betty Shaddock, Dale Keith is Kip Shaddock, Kevin Kraemer is Jack Norwood, Bill Chase is Hostious Xenophon Hooley, Bart Gotch is Grogen, Lori Malcolm is Jane Woods, Colleen Johnson is Mrs. Victoria Harrington, Darcy Harder is Delta Harrington, Pam Brownell is Miss Drusilla Dobbins and Chuck Gwin is Extra.

Connie Roberts is the junior class director.

Downtown Project Nearly Finished

The Wayne city council is tentatively scheduled to make a final inspection tour of the downtown improvement project beginning at 10 a.m. Tuesday, city administrator Fred Brink said Friday.

Brink, city street commissioner Vern Schulz, an engineer from Bruce Gilmore and Leonard Gill, president of Gill Construction, looked the project over Friday, Brink said, noting various deficiencies which should be corrected by Tuesday.

Longer Library Hours Announced

Mrs. Kathleen Tooker, Wayne Public Librarian, has announced new, longer hours which are now in effect at the library.

Cardiovascular Disease State's Biggest Killer

Forty-three Wayne County residents died in 1976 as a result of cardiovascular disease, according to a Nebraska Heart Association report.

Cardiovascular disease was responsible for 34 deaths in Dixon County during the year. In contrast, cancer claimed 19 lives in Wayne county, and 17 in Dixon County.

A Heart Association spokesman said its aim in releasing the figures is to make the public "more aware of the disruptive and destructive nature of these diseases."

Cardiovascular disease accounted for 7,389, or slightly over half, of the 14,536 deaths recorded. Cancer claimed 2,638 lives, or just over 18 per cent.

The three major categories of cardiovascular disease are heart, cerebrovascular, and arteriosclerosis. The breakdown of cardiovascular deaths in Wayne is: heart, 21; cerebrovascular, 5; arteriosclerosis, 2. For the balance of Wayne county: heart, 11; cerebrovascular, 4; arteriosclerosis, 1.

In Dixon County, heart, 23; cerebrovascular, 11; arteriosclerosis, none.

OBSERVATIONS

Tough choice looms

A Department of Roads proposal to widen Highway 35 to a four-lane street through Wayne has again become a focus of public attention, and for good reason.

The basic question involved is one of local control vs. federal dictates. In other words, do the people of Wayne decide what is best regarding an issue which will affect them, or is the decision left up to Washington bureaucrats?

As explained by DOR officials a year ago, when the city council was asked to support the proposal, the situation is this: Unless the state meets federal standards, which required the four-lane road, the state will not receive federal money (still yours and mine) for the project. If the state doesn't receive federal money for the project, it will not participate in any effort to help improve the road.

The city council a year ago voted in favor of giving its blessing to the project. (John Vakoc cast the lone dissenting vote at the time.)

The vote was defended in this column at that time, on the basis that the road eventually will have to be improved, and the council was thinking of the good of the community as a whole in voting the way it did.

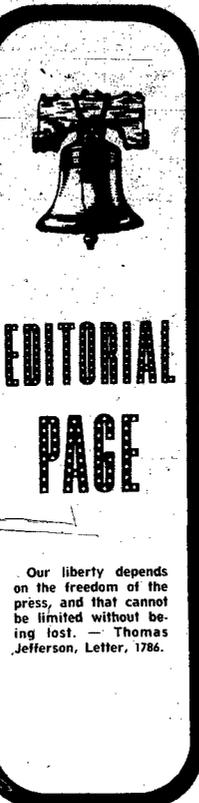

It appears likely, however, that the community as a whole, not just Seventh Street property owners, are opposed to the plan. The council has refused to rescind its endorsement, but will ask the state to consider alternatives. A couple of them look good.

One is a bypass route, outlined previously in the city comprehensive plan. According to some council members, the state has previously said the idea is not feasible, and that may well be the case, but little is known about just how hard a look the state looked at the idea. It deserves serious consideration and might prove the best answer in the long run. Gazing into our own crystal ball, we think it not unlikely that a few years down the road some bureaucratic genius might well decide that the bypass idea is the way to go for all towns. It would be a shame to have that happen after a four-lane road is built right up to the doorstep of many Wayne homes.

Another idea which appears, perhaps more immediately feasible, is that of designating two Wayne streets as Highway 35, carrying one-way traffic in opposite directions. Such a plan would negate the need for widening a street, and might prove less expensive because property would not have to be acquired and preparation costs likely would be less.

At any rate, it seems desirable that every possible alternative be given consideration before construction crews move in. If the state persists with the plan, however, the people of Wayne will have to decide if federal dollars are worth the change in the community, or if it is better to keep the town the way we want it, and foot the bill for improving Seventh Street. It isn't fair, since the dollars come from the people, but it is a choice local taxpayers might have to face. — Jim Strayer.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

STRAYEr Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

During National Newspaper Week, Bob Bartlett and LaVon Beckman were pondering the possible results if they were to switch jobs sometime.

Imagine the Headlines, for example, if society editor LaVon took over the sports desk: 'Wildcat Offense and Defense Wed for Winning Combination,' or 'Wakefield-Allen Gridiron Engagement Announced.'

Making Bob society editor might have some interesting results too. I envision headlines like 'Mixed Doubles on Tap for June; Three Couples Announce Wedding Plans,' 'Goal Line Defense Falls; Confirmed Bachelor Engaged,' or maybe 'Couple Completes 25th Successful Season; Silver Anniversary is Sunday.'

Guess maybe I'll just keep them where they're at.

What A Week

It's been one of those weeks. A story reported that a shower by Mrs. Barbara DeWald for the Tom Dorcy family was the fifth such event she had sponsored. Actually, it was the first. And if you thought the identification of Wayne State College homecoming queen candidates was mixed up, you were right. The negative for the picture was reversed.

Worth Seeing

For those of you who weren't fortunate enough to see 'Symbolic Americana' at the Wayne High School lecture hall, I recommend it highly. It was a tough story to write, because it is hard, impossible really, to describe the total impact of the presentation, but it is one of the finest presentations I've seen.

Simple Solar Energy

Farmers in Cedar County, working in cooperation with the Center for Rural Affairs in Walthill, are experimenting with ways to cut energy costs.

According to the Center's New Land Review fall edition, the project is meeting with some success. Rick Pinkelman last year built a solar window box, a small solar collector built from scrap and costing about $10. He didn't have to use his furnace until the mercury dipped below 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

Now he is working on an even more ambitious project—converting the roof of his swine farrowing barn into a solar collector. He will paint the corrugated tin roof black and cover it with translucent greenhouse fiberglass. Collected heat will be stored in washed rock from a local gravel pit, laid in the hay loft. An anticipated 40 per cent efficiency rate, Pinkelman hopes to heat the entire farrowing barn with solar energy, saving about 1,000 gallons of propane used to heat it last year.

Ways and Means

In the House of Representatives, Charley Thone says, where there's a will, there may not be a Ways and Means.

Rep. Thone was referring to the failure, so far, of the House Ways and Means Committee, to consider legislation for education tax credits. The House on Sept. 28 voted 311 to 167 for approval of a fiscal 1978 budget resolution amendment favoring some tax credits for post secondary education costs. The relief would begin with a credit of $250 a year per student on the federal income tax of individuals or couples paying for education costs at college or technical schools. The credit, hopefully, later would be increased to $500 per year.

Attempts to bring the legislation out of the Ways and Means Committee, which must approve all tax bills, have been stymied so far, but Thone said a majority of the committee will be favorable if supporters of the resolution can secure a couple of more votes from committee members.

Organizations need rejuvenation

Like people and plants, organizations have a life cycle. They have a green and supple youth, a time of flourishing strength, and a gnarled old age.

But organizations differ from people and plants in that their cycle isn't even approximately predictable. An organization may go from youth to old age in two or three decades, or it may last for centuries. More important, it may go through a period of stagnation and then revive. In short, decline is not inevitable.

The first requirement for the organization must have an effective program for the recruitment and development of talent. People are the ultimate source of renewal. The organization must have the kind of recruitment policy that will bring in a steady flow of able and highly motivated individuals. And it cannot afford to let those individuals go to seed, or get sidetracked or boxed in.

The second rule for the organization capable of continuous renewal is that it must be a hospitable environment for the individual. Individuals who have been made to feel like cogs in the machine will behave like dogs in the machine. They will not produce ideas for change. On the contrary, they will resist such ideas when produced by others.

The third rule is that the organization must have built in provisions for self-criticism. It must have an atmosphere in which uncomfortable questions can be asked—in which anyone can speak up.

The fourth rule is fluidity of internal structure. Most organizations have a structure that was designed to solve problems that no longer exist.

The fifth rule is that the organization must have an adequate system of internal communication. The enormous potentialities of the human brain are in part explainable in terms of possibilities for combination and recombination. And such recombination is facilitated by easy communication, impeded by poor communication.

The sixth rule: The organization must have some means of combating the process by which men become prisoners of their procedures. The rule book grows fatter as the ideas grow fewer.

The seventh rule: The Organization capable of continuous renewal will have found some means of combating the vested interests that grow up in every human institution. Every change threatens someone's privileges, someone's authority, someone's status. What wise managers try to do is to get across the idea that in the long run everyone's overriding vested interest is in the continuing vitality of the organization itself. If that fails, everyone loses. But it's a hard message to get across.

The eighth rule is that the organization capable of continuous renewal is interested in what it is going to become and not what it has been. The need to look to the future is the reason so many corporations today have research and development programs. But the research program, which is a way of looking forward, cannot thrive if the rest of the organization has the habit of looking backward.

The ninth rule is obvious but difficult: An organization runs on motivation, on conviction, on morale. People have to believe that it really makes a difference whether they do well or badly. They have to care. They have to believe that their efforts as individuals will mean something for the whole organization, and will be recognized by the whole organization.

Americans have always been exceptionally gifted at organizational innovation. In fact, some observers say that this is the true American inventiveness. We could do even better if we put our minds to it. — John Gardner, Common Cause

Traffic signs are expensive, but save lives

They can be red, green, blue, brown or a combination of colors. They can be squares, rectangles, diamonds or other shapes. However, no matter what colors or shapes they are, traffic signs and signals all have one thing in common — they inform. And if their messages are heeded, they may protect motorists from injury or death.

In 1976, it was estimated there were 3.4 million traffic signs and 125,000 traffic signals on the nation's 3.8 million miles of roads. Many of these signs are the new international signs which have become more common in the United States during the past few years.

Because it was found that a driver can read, understand and react to a symbol sign faster than to a word message, the new signs rely on colors, shapes and symbols to relay their messages. Since all of the international signs are basically the same throughout the world, travelers now find it much easier to drive in foreign countries.

The shapes of these signs tell drivers what type of message is being relayed. Diamond-shaped signs warn drivers about hazards or unusual conditions; octagons mean stop; equilateral triangles mean yield; and pennants say "no passing"; horizontal rectangles give directional information; circles at railroad crossings warn of trains; and pentagons or the "schoolhouse" shaped signs tell drivers that a school is near.

The colors of signs also relay information to drivers. Green indicates directional information; red means stop or no; orange means construction work; and brown indicates public recreation and scenic guidance information. The color yellow is used for warning signs; blue means services; and white gives regulatory information such as speed limits.

The international signs also use symbols and pictures to quickly make their meanings clear to drivers. For example, a bicycle on a yellow, diamond-shaped sign means bike crossing.

In addition to the use of international signs to make driving easier and safer, other steps have also been taken. In 1973, Congress passed the Highway Safety Act. Under this act, states and localities throughout the country could spend a total of $175 million during a three-year period to improve their pavement marking and delineation.

In 1976, the Highway Safety Act was extended by Congress for two more years. An additional $100 million was appropriated to be used to further improve America's pavement markings.

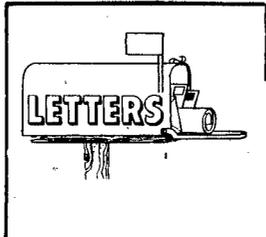

Since more people are killed each year on rural two-lane roads than on all the other highways combined, traffic safety experts said such roads should have reflectorized center and edge lines. These markings would tell drivers where on the roadways, they should be driving.

Other pavement markings as no passing zone markings, are also important to safe driving. Under the current regulations, a "sign restriction" exists when drivers cannot see further than 1,100 feet ahead of them in lanes in which they are traveling. Specially-equipped cars are driven over the highways; and no passing zone markings are painted, where necessary, to alert drivers to their limited vision distance.

All of these traffic safety measures, signs and markings, are expensive. For example, the State of Washington estimates its taxpayers spend $175,000 annually to replace vandalized traffic signs.

However, the investment across the country seems worth it. Besides saving thousands of lives every year, and millions of dollars in property, signs and markings also reduce travel time, save fuel, cut pollution, decrease frustration and lower auto operating costs. — Nebraska Highway Safety Program.

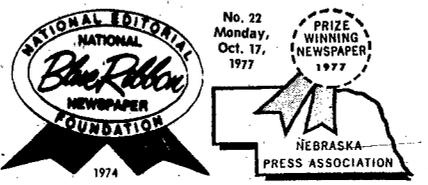

Writer likes Brick streets

Dear Editor: Thank you, Wayne city council, for not asphaltting Main Street north past Seventh Street.

I appreciate the character the bricks give my "side of the tracks." Also, I always did believe the bricks granted an especially unique quality to the city. My fingers are crossed hoping my thanks remain permanent. — Jeanie Meyer.

Out of Old Nebraska

Thousands of dedicated teachers have again returned to the classroom for another year of service. Typical of these teachers who taught under primitive conditions in early Nebraska classrooms was Mary Gerrard Goodwill. When she retired in 1956 after 48 years in Sandhills classrooms, she had experienced fires, blizzards, and flooded creeks as well as recalcitrant students. A copy of her unpublished manuscript describing her experiences is at the Nebraska State Historical Society.

A Kinkaid, she homesteaded in her sparsely settled Rock County with her husband and three and a half year old daughter in August, 1906. Her home was a 14x24-foot sod house, and she slept with her back to the black dirt wall and spent her first night there weeping. Her daughter lived with 'home folk' that first winter, while Mary began her Sandhills teaching career near her home in a district which had not had a teacher the previous years. Excerpts from her manuscript 'Yesterdays of the Hills,' follow:

'This district was the richest in Rock County and one of the oldest, but it was also the most remote from town or railroad. The county superintendent had sent out five girls (teachers) that fall from the county seat at Bassett, but each became faint-hearted, and turned back.

The district contained two quarrelsome factions. Each wanted the school house located in its own midst. One faction would steal the school house from the other. The small affair could easily be hoisted to the running gears of a wagon and hauled around at will. It had been moved one Saturday about midnight while the other faction was attending a dance...but for the coming two years it was to remain stationary.

'School opened Monday just preceding Thanksgiving Day. There were 23 pupils. A topay stove stood in the middle of the room around which were fastened a dozen double desks and seats. A few square feet of blackboard, a small desk for the teacher, and a hand bell completed the equipment. Nearly all the children came horseback, sometimes two or three on one horse. Some rode with saddles, some without. On one side hung their dinner pails tied in a flour sack, on the other side...a few ears of corn for the horse.

'The children wore dark, heavy flannel scarfs on their heads; homemade mittens were on their hands; their clothes were warm and serviceable... (for) utility rather than beauty and comfort... In that little school, I taught a future banker his first lessons in fractions; in the same class was another who became an automobile dealer. The two boys made no trouble in school, but on the way to and from home they were continually fighting over trapping and trespassing. If one brought a skunk or a muskrat to school which he found in his traps that morning, the other one accused him of stealing. I had to keep the prized animal under lock and key in the coal box until school was out....

'I walked three miles night and morning to and from school over the trackless snow-covered meadows. ...I arose...in the morning, built a fire in the small kitchen stove, chopped the ice in the water pail, and made myself a cup of black coffee before starting out. I shaved out a piece of bread in the oven and ate that with a small slice of side meat. There was no butter...My noon lunch was prepared the night before when the bread was not frozen...Lastly a bottle of water was filled from the icy pail. There was no well at the school house, so every one carried his own supply. In case of families, a jug was strapped to the horse.

'When I left in the mornings, the stars were shining; a fire must be built early in the school house to have it warm for the children when they came. Before I left in the evening I swept, prepared the kindling, and brought in the coal hauled forty miles from Bassett for the winter's supply. I would arrive home at night just as the sun was sinking below the horizon. ...I seldom encountered any one along the road to and from school; often in the distance a horsebacker was seen followed by a pack of hounds, in pursuit of a coyote....

Pfeiffer's 22-Yard Field Goal Lifts Cats Closer to Title

Battling a driving rain and the clock, Winside drove 53 yards and with one second left Mitch Pfeiffer booted a 22-yard field goal to give the Wildcats a 11-8 West Lewis and Clark victory over Wakefield Friday night.

Pfeiffer, who set up Winside's go ahead score in the final ticking seconds on a 33-yard catch from quarterback Paul Roberts, booted the ball cleanly through the uprights for Winside's fifth victory in seven games.

The win, however, is more important than the No. five, it keeps the Cats in the running for the West division title with a 4-0 record against conference teams. The next two ball games will decide the championship hopes for the Cats. Friday night they play Coleridge and the following week wrap up the season against Osmond.

"The weather didn't help us out too much but we played well. We just couldn't score, (in the second half)," said a happy assistant coach Sam Colvin.

Everything just fell into place, Colvin went on about the two breaks late in the game which turned the tide in favor of Winside.

A pass interference penalty against Wakefield on third down

Wakefield took two of the three matches against visiting Winside Thursday night in West Lewis and Clark Conference play.

Wakefield won the varsity match with 15-6 and 15-2 scores to hand Winside its eighth loss against four starts and its fifth defeat in conference action.

For coach Ernie Kovar's Trojans, the win was the fourth in conference play against a loss and kept Wakefield in second place in the standings.

Robin Mills and Lisa Paul scored nine and eight points for Wakefield. Karen Johnson and Gloria Hansen had nine and five spikes. In sets, Kathy Schwarten had nine and Mills had eight.

The win pushed Wakefield's record to 5-4 on the season. The reserves also topped the Wildcats of coach Kathy O'Connor, 15-5 and 15-13 for Winside's fifth loss in nine starts.

Winside's C team pulled out 11-5 and 11-7 wins for a 7-2 record.

put the Cats on Wakefield's 30 yard line. On the next play, Pfeiffer caught the 33-yard bomb which put Winside into field goal range.

Another factor not brought out in the final statistics was the time-out call by Trojan boss John Torczon with :12 left in the game.

"I'll accept the blame for the loss if there is any," Torczon explained. "Because, with 12 seconds left and Winside was out of time out, I took a time out to set our defense. I wanted to make sure we were in the correct defense because with field conditions and rain like that, the things that could happen to the ball are almost infinite."

Torczon went on to say that "We were playing for the conference championship, in my opinion. When you're playing for a stake that high, you don't play for a tie."

Both coaches credited each other's defense with an excellent job of stopping the offenses.

"On this particular night, Winside outplayed us. They were physically stronger than we were. I wish them all the luck in the world," Torczon noted.

An exchange of interceptions in the second quarter put a breath of new life into Wakefield.

Defensive halfback Brian Foote stopped Wakefield's drive with Winside's first aerial theft of the night, returning the ball 14 yards to Winside's 45.

But on second down and 11, Wakefield got its chance for a pass interception when Jeff Simpson hauled in a Paul Roberts' aerial and raced 31 yards to the Cats' 22.

Quarterback Tedd Swigart faded back on second and 10 when he handed off to scat-back Blaine Nelson on the draw. Nelson went around left end to escape one tackle and zipped into the endzone for an 8-6 ball game. With 8:37 remaining in the half, Nelson crossed the goal line for the two-point conversion and an eight-all halftime score.

Three members of Wayne's Track Club placed at the Columbus Days 500-meter run in Columbus, Oct. 8.

Kurt Lancaster led the trio with a third place finish overall and second in his age division with a time of 15:50. Behind Lancaster in seventh place overall and fourth in this age group was Don Rinehard in a time of 16:18. Finishing 44th overall and 10th in his age bracket was Dr. Marv Beamer in 19:51.

A total of 130 runners participated.

Wayne Man Joins Admissions Staff

Mike Ginn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ginn of Wayne, has been employed by the Nebraska Wesleyan University admissions staff.

Ginn, a 1976 Nebraska Wesleyan graduate, will visit schools in northern Nebraska and Colorado and Wyoming.

A Wayne High School graduate, Ginn was an outstanding high school football and baseball player. He continued his athletic career at NWU and received his baccalaureate degree in physical education.

Wayne High spikers will carry a 10-2 record into Tuesday night's second round of the West Husker volleyball tournament at Emerson-Hubbard.

The locals will face the winner of the Madison-Wisner-Pilger game in what could be a revenge match for Wayne if the Blue Devils happen to land Wisner.

Not too long ago Wisner handed coach Mavis Dalton's

Winside jumped in front with a 71-yard drive in 13 plays. On their second possession of the game, the Cats went up the middle on Paul's quarterback sneaks and Mitch Pfeiffer's hardfuss running, then went end-around via Eddie Morris' quick feet.

With 1:19 left in the first quarter, Morris bulled in from the three yard line for the score. Morris also scored, the two-point play on a fake extra point attempt by Pfeiffer to put his team on the scoreboard, 8-0. Wakefield (3-4) failed to take advantage of a gusty 25 mile per hour north wind in the first quarter. The Trojans elected to bathe it out on the ground against the Cats' rugged defense, but gained very little in the effort.

Going against the wind, Wakefield was forced to throw in the second quarter in an effort to get back into the ball game. The Trojans moved the ball against Winside in the air, and with the aid of a 15-yard personal foul against the Cats, Torczon's Trojans moved the ball deep into Winside territory. But on fourth down and two feet for the first down at Winside's 29, Wakefield again failed to penetrate the Cats' front wall.

Morris and Pfeiffer were the leading rushers for the night. Morris had 89 yards in 23 carries and Pfeiffer had 88 yards in 21 totes. For Wakefield, Nelson ran 49 yards.

Norfolk Sophs Top JVs, 14-6

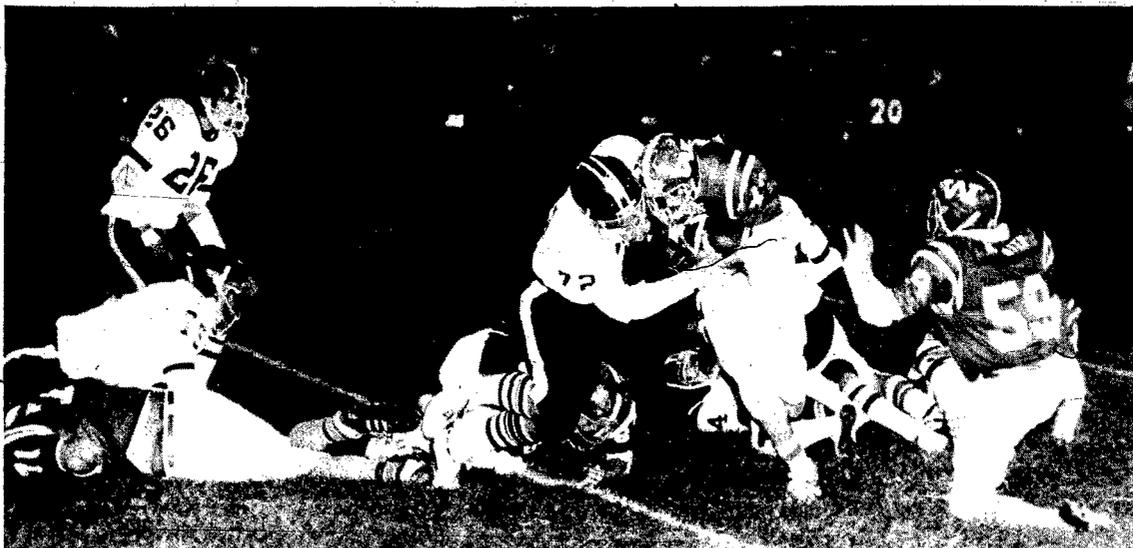

"Our players put out a good effort but they let down a couple of plays," explained coach Ron Carnes of his reserves' 14-6 loss Monday to Norfolk sophomores.

The invaders scored on the first play of the game — a 60-yard scamper — and pounced on a Wayne fumble at the Blue Devils' 20 late in the third quarter and took it in on the next play.

Wayne put its points on the scoreboard in the second quarter when Stuart Nissen went two yards to cap a 55-yard scoring drive. Helping to keep that drive alive was Rick Johnson with an 18-yard blast.

Doug Hummel led Wayne defenders with 15 takeaways while Johnson and Tim Thomas had 11 each.

Today (Monday) the 1-2 reserves host South Sioux City at 4 p.m.

WAKEFIELD'S Craig Nelson (72) and Winside's Eddie Morris (75) collided head to head in Friday night action as the Wildcats leading rusher is stopped for no gain in first-half action. Morris ended up the night with 89 yards on 23 carries to lead all rushers as Winside pulled out an 11-8 West Lewis and Clark Conference win and keep on top of the division with a 4-0 slate. Also in the action are, from left, Verdel Ekberg (75), Doug Starzl (26) and Bruce Smith (59).

Big Game Hunter Or not, You Still Need that Stamp

Some Nebraska big-game hunters apparently still do not understand requirements for the new Habitat Stamp, judging by reports of conservation officers covering the firearm antelope season.

The officers report checking many hunters who seemed unaware that they were required to have the stamp, others who thought that a separate stamp was needed for their small game permit and the big game license. They were mistaken in both cases.

Carl Gettmann, chief of the Game and Parks Commission's Law Enforcement Division, noted that "any Nebraska resident over 16 or any nonresident regardless of age who hunts or traps in Nebraska must have the $7.50 Habitat Stamp with him in the field. However, that one stamp, when signed and attached to any permit, applies to all their hunting and trapping permits."

"Someone who hunts small game and has a stamp on that permit does not need to buy another for his archery or firearm deer, antelope or turkey permits. But, if he hunts only deer, for example, he must buy a habitat stamp for that permit, sign the stamp, attach it to the back of the deer permit. The best way to keep all this straight is to remember that, if you need a hunting permit, you also need a habitat stamp. But, if you are carrying one signed and attached to another type of Nebraska permit, you do not need another," Gettmann said.

This is the first year that the $7.50 Habitat Stamp is required of Nebraska's hunters and trappers. Proceeds from its sale go into a special Game and Parks Commission Habitat Fund, much of which is distributed to Nebraska farmers and ranchers through natural resources districts for habitat improvement on private land.

Hamm's Third Place Qualifies for State

It's just as his coach predicted: Dave Hamm is going to state.

The 155-pound Wayne High junior Thursday ran a 13:25 two and a half mile jaunt at the Class B district meet in O'Neill to place third and win himself a ticket to the state cross country meet.

Hamm, who had been tabbed by coach Harold Maciejewski as a strong contender to go to the state meet, found himself in a battle for first place with meet winner Todd Peterson of Wisner.

Peterson nudged out Hamm by three seconds with a time of 13:20. Hamm also was nipped at the line for second place by one second.

Hamm led Wayne to a fourth-place showing among the nine teams in the field. Making up Wayne's foursome were Jeff Backstrom, 20th in 14:47; Rick Luft, 26th in 14:58; and Kurt Powers, 42nd in 16:29. The top three teams and top six individuals qualify for state meet Friday at Kearney.

Wayne Spikers Serve Up Win Over Pierce

Wayne High spikers will carry a 10-2 record into Tuesday night's second round of the West Husker volleyball tournament at Emerson-Hubbard.

The locals will face the winner of the Madison-Wisner-Pilger game in what could be a revenge match for Wayne if the Blue Devils happen to land Wisner.

Not too long ago Wisner handed coach Mavis Dalton's gals their second loss, spoiling what might have been a tie with Columbus Lakeview for top seed in the six-team tourney. Wayne is seeded second.

The Devils gained their 10th win Thursday night with 15-8 and 15-5 wins over host Pierce. Lisa Nuss and Lori Johnson scored 13 and 12 points respectively, dishing up quite a few aces, the coach remarked. Sydney Mosley was tops in the spiking charts with three aces and four tips.

LaVonna Sharpe again led the JV in scoring as the locals posted their ninth undefeated win, 15-11, 10-15 and 15-9.

A four-game losing streak came to an end for Wayne freshmen as the frosh, behind Tamie Thomas' 17 points, downed Pierce in three sets, 13-15, 15-10 and 16-14. Wayne's record is 5-4.

Both Wayne and Lakeview drew byes in the first round of the Husker meet tonight (Monday). Wayne plays at 8 o'clock Tuesday.

Guessers' Choices

Bulldogs Blank Eagles, 38-0, In Water Bowl

Explosive Coleridge subdued upset-minded Allen Friday night with a 38-0 blanking in a driving rain.

The Bulldogs, who are a half-game out of first in the West division of the Lewis and Clark Conference, hosted rival Allen in an intra-sectional battle.

The winners intercepted a Tod Ellis pass on the second play for the Eagles and took it in for a 7-0 first-quarter lead. Later in that same frame, Coleridge scored again and held on to a 14-0 halftime command. The bulldogs added two touchdowns each in the last two quarters for its sixth win against a lone defeat.

"The weather beat us more than Coleridge did," said Allen mentor Cliff Jorgensen. Playing in what Jorgensen labeled as the water bowl, the Eagles (4-3) failed to get their passing game in the air, throwing three straight interceptions. Allen finished the game with no completions in seven attempts.

Brent Chase led Allen rushers with 45 of the team's 57 offensive yards. Defensively, Lin Smith totaled 16 takedowns and assists.

Band Polishing Performance

The Wayne High School Marching Band will be polishing its performance this week in preparation for the Sixth Annual Wisner-Pilger Band Festival scheduled for Saturday.

Wayne-band director Ron Dalton said competition is always tough at the marching band contest in Wisner, and with a record 26 entries from Nebraska and Iowa, this year could be the toughest yet.

The Blue Devil musicians will be shooting for their third superior rating in four outings at Wisner. They will be competing against seven other bands in Class B. Scheduled performance time for Wayne is 3 p.m., but Dalton cautioned the contest often runs ahead of schedule and said the Wayne musicians could begin their performance possibly as early as 2:30.

A week later, Oct. 29, the band will compete in the 29th Annual Pershing Marching Band Festival in Lincoln. A total of 68 bands are expected, including 16 in Class B.

Dalton said Class B performances will begin at 5 p.m. Wayne will be the 13th band to perform and while it is difficult to predict times, he said the Blue Devils will probably perform around 6:30 or 7.

The Wayne High marching Band has won superior ratings consecutively for the past five years in the Pershing contest and will be striving to add another top rating to the string.

Dalton encouraged as many people as possible to attend both of the contests. "The more home town people who attend, the more relaxed the kids are, and the better they perform," he said.

Blue Devils Put Chips on Line at Emerson

By BOB BARTLETT

Wayne High puts its conference title hopes and a possible bid to the state playoffs on the line Friday night when the 4-2-1 Blue Devils travel to Emerson, Hubbard.

The game is a must win for coach Stew Cline and his group if Wayne wants the West Husker title outright, and a needed victory if the Blue Devils are to have a shot at undefeated Pierce for the Class B-4 playoff berth.

"We're not looking past this Friday night," Cline emphatically pointed out about his team's trip to Emerson. "The kids are aware of how good Emerson is and how extremely important this game is."

Perhaps Wayne might have been looking ahead against Columbus Lakeview Friday night when the Devils got by 21-13 for their fourth division win against no losses.

Quarterback Tom Ginn's quarterback sneak for the touchdown early in the fourth quarter put the locals in front by the final margin. Ginn, who scored twice on quarterback sneaks, relied on the hard running of his backs, Kelly Hansen and Roger Daniels, to get the team into good field position.

The only exception was during the last TD drive where Wayne recovered a fumbled Lakeview punt at the 20 and six plays later scored.

Hansen had one of his best nights with 159 yards. Meanwhile, Daniels galloped for 101. Gusty winds put the clamps on Wayne's air game as Ginn completely only one of five for 20 yards. The rushing game was a different story as the locals picked up 279 yards.

Lakeview took the lead in the first quarter, 7-0. Wayne came back on a 60-yard drive with Ginn bulging in from one yard out. Helping keep that drive alive was a 50-yard scamper by Hansen.

Wayne took possession of the lead with a 40-yard march in the third quarter, capped by Daniels four-yard run to paydirt. Al Nissen was three for three in the PAT department.

"I don't think we were really ready to play a team that has only two wins," Cline noted about Lakeview. "I can't help but think that the kids were looking ahead."

Driver Injured

MARC LAWRENCE of Wayne was taken to Providence Medical Center following a one-car accident shortly after midnight Saturday morning. According to the Wayne police department, Lawrence was west bound on Highway 35 in Wayne, passing another car, when he lost control of his auto. The vehicle plunged down an embankment on the south side of the road, apparently spinning around half way when it struck the bottom of the incline. The rear of the car struck a utility pole shown here about 300 feet east of Oak Drive. A Providence Medical Center spokesman Saturday morning said Lawrence had suffered a scalp laceration, and was in good condition with no other injuries.

Dams or "Road Structures" To Replace Rural Bridges?

"WHAT ARE ROAD STRUCTURES"

A "road structure" is usually a multipurpose project, as it can provide:

1. a roadway across the top of the dam.
2. flood control by slowly releasing runoff from intense storms,
3. erosion control by stabilization of the stream grade,
4. improved downstream water quality by trapping sediment,
5. a potential site for recreation,
6. wildlife habitat areas, including the reservoir itself and planting sites upstream, downstream and adjacent to the reservoir.
7. a possible source of water for irrigation or other farm needs.

Bridge replacement presently costs about $1000 per foot of length.

County, city or village governments are becoming more aware of the bridge problems and are considering replacing bridges along public roadways with compacted earthfill dams, called "road structures."

Road structures will cost 1/4 to 1/2 the cost of new bridges.

The multipurpose road structure has prove to be a most economical alternative to bridge replacement. Properly built, it can help modernize our rural transportation network and offers other valuable benefits to both rural and urban Nebraskans taxpayers.

Before — Bridge already moved once and on a curve, in Wayne County near Winside.

After — New Road Structure at cost of $7,800 (bridge cost would have been $28,000) was a joint project of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District and Wayne County. Engineering work done by SCS.

All citizens are encouraged to request their County Commissioner and/or Supervisor to build road structures where ever possible.

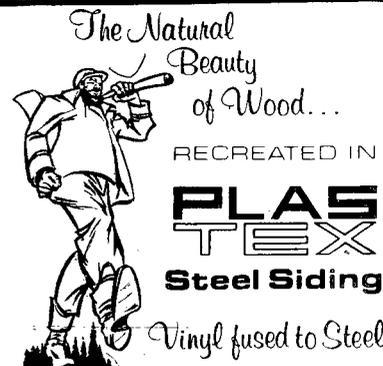

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources

District has cooperated with counties in Northeast Nebraska in constructing 31 road structures in the last four years. The NRD's 1-4 year plan indicates our additional potential for 120 plus road structure sites.

Class Learns By Doing

Trend Toward Smaller Families May be Reversing in Nebraska

There may be a reversal in the decade-long trend toward smaller families coming up in Nebraska, according to a University of Bureau of Sociological Research report titled "Fertility in Nebraska: Current Trends and Prospects."

The report is the third in a series developed from data gathered by the 1977 Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey.

Lynn White, assistant professor of sociology and director of the Bureau, said that Nebraska women follow the national pattern closely in terms of child bearing expectations, except for women in the 20-21 age bracket who indicated a higher child bearing expectation than women from 22-30, who have been going through their prime childbearing years during a period of low fertility and low fertility ideals.

According to the study, the average number of children which women in the 20-21 age group expect to bear is 2.66, while the average for the 22-24 age group is 2.42 and for the 25-29 category the expectation is 2.46.

Women in the 18-19 age group, however, have smaller child bearing expectations than any other category, averaging 2.21 children per family, although they, like women in the 20-21 category, have higher ideal family size preferences than their older counterparts.

Dr. White said the high expected family size among 20-21 year olds is not duplicated in national surveys and so it may reflect something unique about Nebraska or the Great Plains.

"On the other hand," Dr. White said, "it is just possible that this figure is a function of the small number of women on which this average is based. The same finding might not appear if a larger group of 20 and 21 year olds were interviewed. She said the findings will be examined further in the Bureau's 1978 study, in which a different sample of the age group will be interviewed.

Future study will also be required to determine whether or not the substantially higher ideals in regard to family size expressed by women in the 18-21 age groups will translate into a re-direction of the decade long fertility decline, Dr. White said.

"The uncertainty of the trend among young people will bear careful monitoring in future surveys for signs of an upturn in fertility," Dr. White said.

Other findings in the survey of fertility in Nebraska:

—The fertility of Nebraska women exceeds that of the nation. Nebraska women 18-34 average one-third of a child more than the national average in 1977 and expect a complete family that is again one-third larger than the national expectation.

—Although there is a strong difference nationally in fertility by resident, there is no significant difference between rural and urban women in Nebraska in terms of expected completed family size.

—In general, the longer women attend school, the fewer children they expect. The difference is one child less on the average between women with some college education and those who haven't graduated from high school, and one-third child less on the average between those with some college education and women who graduated from high school.

—Catholic women in Nebraska expect to have larger families than non-Catholics. The average of one-half child more per family is compatible with results of national surveys, and reflects, primarily, the desire of Catholics for larger families rather than an inability of Catholics to control their fertility on account of religious injunctions.

Age at first marriage is one of the most important factors. On the average, women who marry after age 25 expect half a child less in their lifetime than do women married earlier than 18.

Women have slightly larger family ideals than men (2.8 versus 2.7).

There is little difference between white and black Nebraskans in terms of ideal family size (2.7 and 2.8 respectively).

will be identified and marked for public viewing. New varieties will also be tested for adaptability to the area.

The public is invited to the presentation, which will be followed by a tree-planting ceremony, sponsored by the Wayne State Foundation.
