Hapless Pittsburg Becomes Wayne's 3rd Loop Victim

IT WAS the offense which put the points on the board Saturday, thanks to the endless pursuit and game-breaking plays by the defense. The Wildcats time and time again stopped Pittsburg State for no yards, finally yielding just over 20 yards for the day. It was plays like the above when the defense swarmed over the quarterback and runners to halt the Gorillas for no gain. Making this play are Bill Hughes (91) and another unidentified player. Closing in are Tim Hurley (92), Mike Bormann (90), Dave Carper (86) and Dyane Carlson (65). Below left, runningback Mark Johnson catches a Rick Lade pass during the Wildcats' first scoring march. On the right, Lade consults with coach Del Stoltenberg as the Cats prepare to go in for another score.

Wayne State SID

Homecoming was a happy one for the Wayne State Wildcats for the first time in four years as Del Stoltenberg's team out-gunned hapless Pittsburg State, 30-7, Saturday.

The Wildcats will meet powerful Fort Hays State here Saturday at 1:30. The Tigers are only 3-4 on the season, but sport the top offense in the Central States Conference; nearly 360 yards a game. However, their defense leaves much to be desired, if statistics are any judge.

The offense was enough to propel Hays to a 35-29 victory over Missouri Southern Saturday. The Tigers lead the league in passing offense and have the premier CSIC quarterback in Skip Nurmich who is averaging 162 yards a game through the air.

Against Pittsburg, the Wildcats erupted from a 7-3 first quarter deficit to score 27 points in the second period by taking advantage of several Gorilla mistakes to do so.

The Cats scored their first TD after a Pittsburg punt traveled only 16 yards. Rick Lade scored the touchdown from the five.

On Pittsburg's next series, punter Kevin Shipley got a bad snap and Wayne recovered the ball on the Gorilla 17. Four plays later Lade scored again, this time from the one.

Pittsburg fumbled the ensuing kickoff and the Wildcats recovered once again. Two minutes and four plays later, Jeff Igrum scored his first touchdown of the year on a 14 yard end around run.

Wayne's final touchdown came on a 65 yard march in five short plays that culminated with a 35-yard scoring pass from Lade to Dave Burke.

There was no scoring in the second half, although both teams had opportunities. Pittsburg was stopped on a fourth down at the Wayne 12-yard line; the Cats were halted on the Gorilla 19 after recovering a loose ball.

Bob Barry had his best rushing day of the year, pounding out 128 yards in 25 carries. That yardage pushed him closer to a 1,000-yard target for the season. Barry needs only 303 yards in three games.

Mark Johnson was the leading pass catcher for the Cats, grabbing two for 51 yards.

CSIC Roundup Lopers Romp Over Emporia

Kearney State scored the first two times it had the ball Saturday and rolled to a 31-0 blasting of Emporia State.

The Lopers, who hold down first place in the Central States Conference, took the opening kickoff 67 yards before Jeff Bolin caught a Kevin Roach pass good for nine yards and a touchdown. Following an Emporia fumble, Kearney had another touchdown on the board six plays later when Roach ran around left end three yards for the score.

Twice Emporia was inside Kearney's 30, but couldn't score. The Hornets drove to the Loper 29 early in the second quarter but were stopped. During their first possession of the second half, the Hornets marched to the 13 where they tried an unsuccessful field goal.

Other Kearney tallies came in the second quarter on a one-yard plunge by Gregg Baker to See LOPERS, page 5

Coleridge JVs Nip Wildcats

A breakaway pass and a one-yard scoring plunge in the second quarter Monday gave Coleridge a 6-0 decision over Winside reserves.
 The Wildcats, who ended the season with an 0-3 record, several times were within scoring range. In the third quarter, Sam Colvin's Winside team was six inches from paydirt with two downs to go when the Bulldogs pushed them back. Twice Winside was inside Coleridge's 20 when penalties and a strong defensive game held the Cats.
 Leading rusher for Winside was Dirk Jaeger with 66 yards. Bill Gotberg led the defense with 10 takedowns.

AFTER ALL the publicity via television and the print media about Bill Martin's fiery temper, could you ever imagine the manager of the World Series winner New York Yankees as a pleasant guy?

Strange as it may seem that's exactly the way Billy was when he was in the service back in the middle 1950's, according to Wayne High baseball coach Mike Mallette, who played under Martin while stationed in the Army at Ft. Carlson, Colo.

"He always was a kind of fireball, but he always was congenial off the field," Mallette reflected about Martin as a manager. Mike, who played second base, said you wouldn't expect Martin to be a major league manager while in the service. "He was just as common as everyone, except when he was on the field. Martin was a very fierce competitor when the game started."

Martin was at Ft. Carson to finish his second tour of duty when he managed the Army team to 19 wins against only one loss.

LET'S get things straight: Danny Ahlvers, not Brad Emry, made the come-from-behind tackle on Emerson-Hubbard's Russ Fuchser and stopped the Pirate speedster who broke around end from his 16 for a 72-yard gallop. Ahlvers' speed plus his intensity in playing the game to win are just several good reasons why coach Stew Cline nominated the senior for the Second Guessers' Athlete of the Week award.

READY FOR basketball? City recreation manager Hank Overin says that men's league will be getting under way next month with an additional division. Besides the A and B leagues there will be a C league for those guys 30 years and older.

The A league normally is for those players 19 to 24 who have the ability to play run-and-gun basketball; B league is for 25 to 30.

AFTER picking three out of five games correctly last week, Dave and Ray decided they are going to end the season on a winning note. They're going with Winside over Osmond, 13-12, and Walthill past Allen, 20-6.

Last week they missed on Wayne and Wakefield, picking the Blue Devils to beat Emerson-Hubbard and Wakefield to loose to Hartington.

Overall record: 18-12-1.

GOING into the last week of prep grid action, Wayne, Winside and Allen are still listed among the top teams in their playoff districts despite losses Friday.

This week's Nebraska prep district playoff standings compiled by the Nebraska School Activities Association shows that Wayne has slipped from second to third in Class B district 4 with a 4-3-1 record. Heading that division is Wednesday's opponent Pierce, undefeated after eight games.

Winside holds down the No. two spot in Class C-2 district 3 with a 5-0 record. The Wildcats trail 7-0-1 Orchard. Class D Allen is third in district 2 at 4-4 while Coleridge is first at 7-1.

CONGRATULATIONS to Wayne runner Dave Hamm who placed 13th among 94 Saturday in the state Class B cross country meet at Kearney. The junior ran the 2.5 mile course in 14:08 to give coach Harold Maciejewski promise of better things to come the following year.

PEG PINKELMAN KELLY FREVERT SYDNEY MOSLEY

Blue Devils Dump South Sioux

All-tournament spikers Kelly Frevert and Peg Pinkelman powered Wayne High to a two-set victory over Class A South Sioux City Tuesday night to wrap up season volleyball play for the Blue Devils.

Frevert drove across 13 points and Pinkelman, along with Lori Johnson, played one of their best net games to fire Wayne to its 12th win in 15 games, said coach Mavis Dalton.

"The girls really looked good," the coach said, adding that "they looked like they're ready for districts."

Wayne, which won third place in the eight-team West Husker Conference tournament, goes into district play at Norfolk next Thursday night.

Both Frevert and Pinkelman and teammate Sydney Mosley earned all-tournament honors at the conference meet in Emerson last week after Wayne overcame an opening night loss to Wisner-Pilger and stormed back to beat Columbus Lakerview for third place.

"We finally proved to ourselves that we can come back. Up until that time we couldn't," Dalton pointed out.

The three-set win over Lakeview didn't take shape until after the first set where Wayne dropped a 16-14 decision. Behind the play of Lisa Nuss with 23 points, including 11 aces, the Devils came back with 15-2 and 15-9 wins.

Against Wisner, Wayne opened up with a strong 15-3 showing, but couldn't put its game together. "The first game came so easily we were still in shock," Dalton noted about Wayne's 15-9 and 15-7 losses. See BLUE DEVILS, page 16

Speedster Selected Top Player

Barry Nears Magic 1,000-yard Mark

Coach Del Stollenberg named Bob Barry and Dave Carper the offensive and defensive players of the week for their performance in Wayne State's 30-7 homecoming victory over Kansas State Pittsburg Saturday.

Barry, a 6-3, 195 pound sophomore from Battle Creek, gained 128 yards in 25 carries for the Wildcats. Barry now has a total of 697 yards rushing on the season, averaging 99.6 yards per game and 4.2 yards per carry.

Coach Stollenberg said Barry has developed into a fine ball carrier for the Wildcats. "Bob has improved in every game this year," Stollenberg said. "We look for continued improvement out of him and we look for fine things for Bob in the future."

Carper, a 6-3 215 pound senior defensive end from Scribner, added to the defensive effort with seven tackles and five assists. Carper also contributed to the victory with a quarter-back sack.

Stollenberg said Carper has contributed greatly to the strong defense of Wayne State. "The Biggest thing about Dave is that he has been steady," he said. "For the defense to do well our defensive ends have to play well and he has been doing really well."

Prep Picks

The following is a list of this week's area prep football games. Winners are selected by sports writer Bob Bartlett and printed in boldface.
 Allen at Walthill, 23-6; Winside at Osmond, 21-10.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience..."
 Patrick Henry

Whether it be a job of work, the everyday ability to get along with our fellow man, or the pursuit of countless individual goals, experience is the light that dispels the shadowy uncertainties.

Experience is more than the mere time spent in doing; it is the learning and the storing of knowledge. Experience is improvement that builds a confident proficiency. Then it becomes the lamp that lights the way to still greater accomplishment.

We want to help you when you need us. We have the training and the experience to serve people of all faiths appropriately, with dignity and good taste as the Wiltse Mortuaries have done since 1909.

Laurel, Ne

LOWELL SAUNDERS

Dixon, Ne

Both $25 Winners!

These two Football Prognosticators pulled a double win on us this week! Lowell and Don each hit on 18 of 20 picks, so the Tie-Breaker was used — but, they each picked Wayne State over Pittsburg State and, of course each was 19 points off. (Don picked WS 16 to 12 and Lowell had WS 21-17, actual Score 30-7).

Barb Colvin of Winside was second with 17 of 20. Jim Paige and Marvin Brummond of Wayne and LaVerte Miller of Hoskins each picked 16 of 20. Carol Stroh, Mark Larson, Kevin Cuvelier of Wayne were correct on 15 of 20 and nine others followed with 14 of 20. The scores were once again quite good so we hope "you" are the Winner Next Week — OUR FINAL CONTEST THIS YEAR — due today at 5 p.m.

A series of broadcast seminars entitled a "Conference On New Facts About Broadcasting" will be held at Wayne State College Nov. 19 and 20 for college students in Nebraska and bordering states.

Mail registration for the conference is open through Oct. 31 at $8 per student and $12 after that date. Students from North and South Dakota, Missouri, Kansas, Minnesota, Colorado and Nebraska are expected to attend.

William Hagerman, faculty adviser for the conference, said the seminars will bring students interested in broadcasting together to exchange ideas on the broadcasting field.

Social Security Manager: Retirement Plan Important

Today's workers should be aware of the role Social Security retirement benefits will play in their financial planning for retirement, Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk stated today.

Men and women now working in jobs or self-employment covered by Social Security benefits are intended to be only a partial replacement of pre-retirement earnings, Branch continued.

For example, Social Security retirement benefits will replace about 44 per cent of the pre-retirement earnings of a 65 year old worker who has had median earnings amounted to just under $9,000 in 1976. If this worker has a 65 year old wife, then their combined retirement benefits will amount to about two-thirds of pre-retirement earnings, Branch added.

The replacement rate for higher paid workers in somewhat less, while the replacement rate for lower paid workers is higher than that for workers with median earnings.

To assure sufficient income to maintain a person's pre-retirement standard of living, the worker should plan well in advance of retirement to supplement his Social Security benefits.

This can be done through savings, investments, insurance and other income protection plans, Branch said. And, income from these other sources will have no effect on benefit payments. Only income from work affects benefit payments and then only if the worker's earnings exceed the annual earnings exempt amount, $3,000 for 1977.

Today's workers should also be aware that Social Security provides much more than retirement benefits. There is survivor and disability protection for the worker and his or her family during the working years. About 30 per cent of a person's Social Security tax dollars goes to pay for this kind of protection. There is also Medicare for people 65 and over as well as for certain younger disabled people and for insured people and their dependents who suffer kidney failure.

Hagerman said he thinks the conference should be educational for all those interested in broadcasting.

"We hope to create a better understanding between schools to allow students to benefit from the experience of others in operating student media,"

Welsh rabbit began as a fancy phrase for melted cheese on crackers since the Welsh of the period were too poor to have rabbit or any other game at their tables.

New Alfalfa Variety Promising

Perfection may never be reached in a single alfalfa variety, but plant breeders are making steady improvement in upgrading the many attributes of the legume, such as potential yield, insect and disease resistance and winter hardiness.

A newly released variety, Baker, has been developed by the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station and U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service (ARS). It was tested and released jointly with the Kansas and South Dakota Experiment Stations.

According to Dr. William R. Kehr, ARS agronomist and professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Baker was named after a pioneer alfalfa grower, S.P. Baker, who farmed near Curtis about 100 years ago.

Baker is a winter hardy variety adapted to the north central part of the United States. The anticipated usage of Baker is for short- and long-term hay production and in rotational pastures.

also showed eight per cent better than the standard; and in experiments at the NU Field Laboratory near Mead, one experiment showed a 10 per cent yield advantage and another showed a three per cent advantage over the standard varieties.

At Scottsbluff, Baker showed a five per cent yield advantage over the standard varieties; and at the Northeast Station near Concord, Baker showed a two per cent advantage in individual tests.

Some diseases are not damaging to alfalfa each year, and some are problems only in limited geographic areas. Baker's susceptibility to Phytophthora root rot can be a problem on poorly drained soils; Kehr noted, where high rainfall or heavy irrigation creates a problem. Baker includes germplasm from eight varieties, two related species of alfalfa and three foreign plant introductions.

"The parents were selected from 1960-1966, and in 1970, Baker was first produced experimentally," Kehr said.

Survey Reports on 'Good Life'

Who are the Nebraskans who believe they are living "The Good Life?"

The 1977 Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey discovered recently that Nebraskans express greater satisfaction with their lives, their communities and their neighborhoods than Americans generally.

But how widespread is this level of satisfaction and what are the factors that affect it one way or the other?

In the second of a series of reports by the Bureau of Sociological Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, professor David Johnson notes that there is a strong relationship between total household income and the level of happiness reported by NASIS respondents.

Johnson reported that half of those with annual incomes over $25,000 are "very happy," while only slightly more than one-third of the people in households earning less than $7,500 a year reported themselves "very happy."

Least satisfaction occurs in Nebraska's intermediate size cities (10,000 to 50,000), and in Omaha and in the rural non-farm areas of urban counties.

Income and education again are strongly related to satisfaction, with the better educated and higher income Nebraskans more likely to rate their community highly. Older Nebraskans and women were also more satisfied with their communities.

When asked about the convenience of the place in which they lived, the results by community size are very different than the response to community satisfaction, Johnson notes.

The per cent rating their neighborhood location as very convenient is highest in the large communities of Lincoln and Omaha and in the intermediate sized cities. Only 22 per cent of those in rural farm counties classed their residence as convenient.

When neighbors and neighborhoods are focused upon, the greatest satisfaction is found among those in rural areas and small towns. Seventy-four per cent of those living on farms in rural counties said their neighbors are "very good." Rural and small town residents are also more likely to say they "like their neighborhood very much" than people who live in the large communities.

The lowest neighbor rating was in Omaha.

While better educated Nebraskans are more likely to be satisfied with their community and view their neighborhoods as convenient, they are less likely to rate their neighbors highly, Johnson noted.

Stallings: Habitat Program Is Improving Wildlife in Nebraska

Last January, hunting and fishing license fees increased and a Habitat Stamp was required for all hunting and trapping.

The intent of these increases was to improve or preserve wildlife habitat. With the end of 1977 rapidly approaching, had the Game and Parks Commission done anything to justify the increases?

According to Clayton Stallings, Northeast Nebraska land management supervisor, the answer is a resounding "yes." Although all permits have not yet been purchased, the moneys so far available have shown results.

Public hunting lands throughout the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (NRD) are now available through the fund. In fact, Stallings said, all NRD's in the northeast have signed up for the cooperative program.

Stallings said that approximately one third of Habitat Fund money is committed for the Game Commission — NRD cooperative program. That program is a cost-share effort with the Commission paying 75 per cent and the NRD, 25 per cent. Landowners receive a maximum of $25 per acre per year for establishing permanent wildlife habitat. Other practices are paid on a sliding scale below that maximum. In addition, landowners may opt for a $2.50 per acre per year to permit public hunting access.

Stalling said that 29 tracts of land are already available for public hunting this fall. Land acres total 848. Access will be foot traffic only.

Hunters desiring locations of the plots should contact Game and Parks Commission, NRD, or Soil Conservation Service office, Stalling went on.

Other goals of the program include acquisition of new wildlife lands, and improvement of existing public lands — including lands belonging to agencies other than the Commission.

Several tracts of land in Northeast Nebraska are under consideration for acquisition and one is only awaiting final approval before being announced.

Among the most notable of the public land-improvement programs in the roadside management plan, biologists have discovered in this that 25 per cent of pheasant nesting occurs in roadside ditches. By planting a mix of legumes and grasses, and by limiting mowing, the numbers of pheasants produced in the ditches can be greatly increased.

Some four of 20 counties in Northeast Nebraska have agreed to participate in the program, adding some 445 of pheasant nesting cover. More counties are expected to participate during the spring seeding program.

Cut Glass Program Given At Questers

Confusable Collectables Questers Club met in the home of Mrs. Jim Hein Oct. 17 with 11 members and a guest, Mrs. Gary Vopalensky. Dorothy Brandstetter became a new member of the club.

Mrs. Francis Johnson presented the program on cut glass.

President Mrs. Charles Maier conducted a short business meeting. Instead of their regular December meeting, club members are planning to meet on Nov. 28 at the Wayne county Historical Museum to help members of the Historical Society decorate a Christmas tree.

Next regular meeting of Questers is planned for Nov. 21 at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Fred Giltersleeve. The program will be given by Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

She was not injured.

Police are looking for a male subject who escaped arrest early Sunday morning in connection with broken windows at Karel's Furniture store and Wayne Veterinary Clinic. Officer Robert McLean attempted to make the arrest in an alley between First and Second when the subject hit McLean and escaped.

Despite Problems, State's Senior Citizens Satisfied

Even though they have more problems, lower income and more physical limitations, non-institutionalized Nebraskans over 65 are more satisfied with their lives than younger respondents according to the Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey conducted by the Bureau of Sociological Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. According to Dr. Alan Booth, professor and chairperson of sociology at UN-L, older Nebraskans are not unique in this paradoxical situation which finds them with more problems but greater satisfaction with their lives. "A national study in 1976 found much the same thing," he said. Booth speculates that the reason for this satisfaction is that many of the elderly respondents reach young adulthood during the economically depressed 1930s. "Their standard of living is much higher now than when they were in their 20s, an important reference point in life." Difference in childhood training regarding "complaining" about conditions could be another factor, he noted. While they do have physical limitations, Nebraska's non-institutionalized elderly enjoy reasonably good health. According to the survey, they were not more likely to have had an accident, an injury nor to have been hospitalized than respondents 18 to 64. They had a better feeling about their mental health than younger respondents did about theirs. Although more of them live alone, the elderly indicated they enjoyed a rich social life. They reported visiting as many friends and relatives as those 18 to 64 and they belonged to nearly as many voluntary associations. "While the elderly in Nebraska are no more likely to be a victim of crime, they are more fearful for their personal safety than younger persons," Booth noted. "They are more likely to rate their neighborhoods as not as safe as they used to be." As for financial resources, elderly median household income is only about $6,000, compared to $15,000 in households of those 18-64. One favorable factor in the financial picture is that the elderly typically own their own home, but even so many fall below the federal poverty guideline standards. Booth estimates, based on UN-L Bureau of Business Research population estimates, that about 35,800 Nebraskans over 65 may have below poverty-level incomes. Overall satisfactions with their lives was higher among older citizens who lived in larger communities. The greatest difference between the over 65 and younger respondents was in Omaha, where 54 per cent of the older citizens were "very happy" compared to only 36 per cent of the younger. In Lincoln the percentages were 54 and 48 and in smaller communities 45

Newcomer Gives Christmas Tips

The Wayne Newcomers Club met in the home of Mrs. Tim Boyle Oct. 18 for a salad bar luncheon. Nancy Brown demonstrated how to make Christmas decorations from scraps. Members were reminded to take their homemade candy to the Wayne Community Hospital Auxiliary's annual fall bazaar on Nov. 5 at the city auditorium. The club is planning to meet at the Wayne Greenhouse next month for a demonstration on making Thanksgiving and Christmas arrangements. Date for the meeting will be announced.

Area Representatives at March of Dimes Meeting

Mrs. Loren Carr of Allen, chairman of the Dixon County March of Dimes campaign, recently returned from a two-day March of Dimes regional meeting in Chicago, Ill. Several hundred volunteers from a four-state area gathered there to discuss ways to expand programs and inform the public about ways the March of Dimes helps fight birth defects. Other area persons attending the meeting with Mrs. Carr were Mrs. Garry Schroeder of Wakefield, Dixon County co-chairman, and Cheryl Koch of Concord, Nebraska State FHA (Future Homemakers of America) March of Dimes representative. "Protecting the unborn and the newborn from birth defects is the aim of the March of Dimes," said Mrs. Carr, adding that efforts by the voluntary health agency are targeted toward the day when all children can be born free from the threat of physical and mental handicaps. "Volunteers play a key role in achieving this goal," the Dixon County chairman added. "In addition to planning and carrying out health education and community services, volunteers also help raise funds for these services." Mrs. Carr said March of Dimes supports medical service programs that improve the quality of infant health care. Funds also go toward the research of birth defect prevention and genetic counseling.

BUSINESS NOTES

Legislative Hearings Set

The Unicameral's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee has scheduled hearings on two resolutions, chairman Donald Dworak announced.

Legislative Resolution 19 would provide for raising the drinking age to 21. The resolution is a result of LB 369, which was postponed by the committee in the last session. Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island, who introduced LR 19 and LB 369, said lowering the drinking age in 1972 was a social disaster in Nebraska and he would like to see the legal drinking age returned to 21.

Four hearings have been scheduled to receive public testimony on the resolution. The schedule is: Oct. 31, 10 a.m., Sarpy County courthouse, Papillion; Nov. 1, 2 p.m., Equitable Savings and Loan Auditorium, South Sioux City; Nov. 2, 2 p.m., Columbus City Library auditorium; Nov. 3, 7 p.m., Lexington firehall.

Hearing dates for the subject are: Oct. 31, 2 p.m., Omaha Civic Center; Nov. 1, 10 a.m., Equitable Savings and Loan auditorium, South Sioux City; Nov. 2, 2 p.m., Columbus City Library auditorium; Nov. 3, 7 p.m., Lexington firehall.

The committee has also scheduled hearings on LR 23. The resolution is a result of LB 370, introduced this year by Sen. Neil Simon of Omaha, to provide a uniform utility shut-off procedure and disconnection policy. Simon said he introduced LB 370 after an elderly man in Ohio froze to death when his electricity was shut off for failure to pay an $18 utility bill. Simon contends passage of LB 370 would prevent similar incidents from occurring in Nebraska.

One of the songs most frequently sung in English is "Happy Birthday To You" (originally titled, "Good Morning to All") by Mildred and Patty Hill of New York. Interestingly, "Happy Birthday" was even sung in space by the Apollo IX astronauts on March 8, 1969.

need for additional new programs or elements of programs in water resources management.

Hall said current activities in the four basic areas include:

- Efforts by the Conservation and Survey Division to "expand and enhance" its efforts in obtaining and publishing additional basic information on the amount and distribution of the state's waters.
- Analysis of existing water resources management policy and legislation, as well as the formulation of new policy and legislative alternatives by members of the agricultural economics department.
- Development of new and improved application of existing technologies for water management by the agricultural engineers and others. Such efforts include studies on the possible application of artificial recharge as a water management tool, mathematical models describing ground and surface water systems and effectiveness of improved irrigation scheduling.
- Mathematical models and other tools developed by agricultural economists to help predict probable local and regional economic effects of various water management alternatives.

New staff members yet to be added to the NWRC and agricultural engineering and agronomy departments will examine problems concerning water conservation, efficient water use and disseminating water management technology to the public, Hall said.

He said the $1 million in funds supplied to the program to date as an Area of Excellence already has resulted in 16 new staff positions, of which 13 have been filled.

"Staff members associated directly with this program in the past year have brought to the University more than $250,000 in research funds from outside sources," Hall said. "These same persons have helped other staff in obtaining an additional $750,000 in outside funding for research and Extension efforts in water resources."

But he said the state's water battle is far from won, even though Nebraska has "enormous" amounts of water, which include about two billion acre-feet stored in underground aquifers. 86 million acre-feet received annually as precipitation and a million acre-feet of streamflow that enters the state each year, primarily from Wyoming and Colorado.

"This is a tremendous amount of water — certainly more than enough to meet the state's burgeoning water demands," Hall said. "Despite this enormous supply, however, the state does have serious water problems."

Critical issues yet to be solved include maintaining drinking water quality, protecting surface water quality through sedimentation and erosion controls and disposing of and treating municipal, industrial and agricultural wastes, he said. Also remaining are such basic questions as how much usable water Nebraska has, how much can and should be used and where it should be used, Hall said.

"He's really hurt!"

Injury awards of $100,000 and more in auto or sports accidents are becoming more frequent. Both auto liability and personal liability insurance should be increased to meet the greater risk of high damage awards.

FOOD POISONINGS

The recent concern over possible dangers in eating commercially prepared precooked roast beef has highlighted the relatively high incidence of salmonellae food intoxications in the United States.

The USDA recently took action requiring all meat processors who commercially prepare precooked roast beef to cook such products to an internal temperature of 145 degrees F.

(63 degrees C.). The agency cited a "significant public health hazard" due to salmonellae food-borne illnesses as the reason for the ruling. The problem appears to be primarily in the East, however, all consumers should be wary of the food handling and preparation practices of any firm from which they purchase meat or dairy products.

Salmonellae, which is common in the U.S., is a food-borne infection which most commonly affects protein foods such as beef, poultry and dairy products. It can result from unsanitary food handling or undercooking problem foods. Generally, illness occurs anywhere from eight to 72 hours after eating the contaminated food and is characterized by an abrupt onset of diarrhea, nausea, abdominal pain, chills, fever and vomiting. The illness is more common than botulism, but people normally don't die from it.

Cooking foods above 140 degrees f. will kill the salmonellae organism, however, infection also can result from unclean equipment or from people who previously handled salmonellae contaminated raw food.

One of the most common causes of the intoxication occurs from cross contamination. This happens when the same cutting board or utensils are used to handle foods that will be eaten uncooked, such as salads, and for raw poultry or beef.

Consumers can help ward off any danger of the intoxication by making certain they use sanitary food handling practices. They also should cook raw meats and poultry to temperatures above 140 degrees. A good rule of thumb to follow is "keep hot foods hot (above 140 degrees F.) and cold foods cold (below 40 degrees F.). Leftovers should be refrigerated promptly after meals to prevent bacteria growth.

The USDA is suggesting that consumers who buy precooked roast beef from delicatessens or supermarkets reheat the meat to 145 degrees before eating. Consumers should be confident about where they buy such products, and if they're really concerned, to avoid any precooked rare roast beef.

Ration Checkup Now Available

Area dairy farmers can take their feeding programs in for a free "check up" anytime from now until November 10, announced district dairy specialist Don Kubik. This service is being offered by local county Extension services, the University of Nebraska's Department of Animal Science, with the assistance of the Dairy Herd Improvement Associations in Northeast Nebraska.

To receive a free dairy ration check up, each interested dairyman must supply specific information about his present feeding program to a DHIA supervisor or to the county extension office, Kubik said.

This information will then be plugged into the AGNET computer dairy ration program and the computer will show if a ration is properly balanced, or whether some weakness exists. If any corrections are needed, the computer will adjust the dairyman's ration so that it will fully meet the nutritional needs of his milking cows.

Kubik, said a ration check up is a good way for top efficiency. County Extension offices in
