WSC Theater Students Are New York Bound

"The King and I", starring Yule Brunner, will be one of several plays viewed by participants in the Fourth Annual Wayne State College New York Theater Seminar scheduled for Dec. 27 to Jan. 5.

The seminar of six days and seven nights is offered through the WSC Division of Humanities and offers two college credit hours in communication arts or English at graduate or undergraduate levels. Registration, including a $50 deposit, is required before Nov. 15. A total cost of about $250 includes transportation, hotel, three plays and two hours tuition.

The purpose of the trip will be to expand the participant's knowledge and appreciation of theater and arts. New York is one of the theater capitals of the world and a learning center for those interested in drama and the arts. Group discussions of the plays will help students evaluate their experiences.

Highlights of the trip will include viewing Broadway and off-Broadway plays, operas, symphoonies, art museums, ballets, Radio City Music Hall, Rockefeller Center, the Empire State Building, Madison Square Garden and other areas of interest.

Psychologist Is 4-H Speaker

Wes Wingett, counseling psychologist for the Northern Nebraska Comprehensive Mental Health Center at Norfolk is scheduled to be the guest speaker tonight (Monday) at the annual Wayne County 4-H leaders banquet.

Born and raised on a farm near Walthill, Wingett was a 4-H member in Thurston County and was a member of the land judging team there which won a state title and went on to compete in a national meet.

A Wayne State College graduate, Wingett received advanced degrees from the University of Wyoming. He taught school in Thurston, Allen, Atkinson, Bradshaw and Plainview, and has been a consultant for various public agencies.

Marvin Hansen, vice president of the county 4-H council will be master of ceremonies for the dinner, which will begin a 7:30 p.m. in the Birch Room of the WSC student union.

John Anderson, leader of the Southside Dairy Club, will deliver the invocation.

Two 4-H members will deliver speeches during the meeting.

"Why, Think Metric?" will be the topic of Blaine Johs, a member of the Wayne Peppy Pals, and of the Wayne County Ambassadors 4-H clubs.

Judy Bauermeister, a member of the Southside Dairy, Modern Wisses, and Ambassadors 4-H clubs, will deliver her talk "Good Ol' Dairy."

County Agent Don Spitz will introduce special guests and present leadership pins.

Wingett's speech topic will be "The Challenge of Today's Youth."

Consultant Provides Alternatives

Children can be motivated to proper themselves through courses of study, but educators must determine curriculum and content, according to Mrs. Florence Schmerler.

A consultant to the Wayne-Carroll school system since it began developing Project Success in 1972, Mrs. Schmerler Thursday conducted training sessions for teachers, demonstrating how to adapt methods of individualized teaching to the normal classroom.

A staff member at the State University of Minnesota and the College of St. Thomas, both in Minneapolis, Mrs. Schmerler by arrangement spends one day a week on the college campuses and devotes the rest of the time to working as a consultant in schools throughout the nation.

No stranger to the classroom, Mrs. Schmerler has been a secondary school science, social studies, and math teacher. She holds a masters degree in special education and another in reading and curriculum. She is currently conducting research for a dissertation which will complete requirements for a doctorate in learning and cognition.

A noted authority on learning, Mrs. Schmerler has developed a reading program now in use, and a language arts program which she developed will be published in 1978.

Her first visit to Wayne in 1972 came as a pleasant surprise, the consultant recalled.

On the way from the Sioux

City airport in a rented car "I wondered what I was doing here," she said, but found a community educationally sound, with educational commitments and expectations.

She said that at the time, it was the only school system of all of those she worked with in the nation that was making an attempt to give regular classroom teachers — mainstream educators — the tools they need to teach the full gamut of students.

Congress in February passed a law requiring that children with learning handicaps be identified and served until 21 years old, that they be educated by the least restrictive alternatives, and that every school develop an CONSULTANT Florence Schmerler used individualized teaching methods to help students learn to read. She demonstrated some of those methods Thursday during a teacher training session at the West Elementary School.

Housing Survey Underway

The fifth annual survey of housing in the United States is underway in the Wayne area.

The survey is conducted by the Bureau of the Census for the Department of Housing and Urban Development in response to the need for frequent and up-to-date information on the nation's housing inventory, considered a prime indicator of the nation's economic well-being.

Previously, information on the housing inventory came only from the decennial census of housing, irregular sample surveys, and one-time special studies.

With regular annual surveys it is possible to compare from year to year the number and types of housing, changes in the total housing stock resulting from losses and new construction, the frequency of mechanical and utility breakdowns and other indicators of the physical condition of residential structures, characteristics of the neighborhood in which the units are located, as well as the characteristics of the occupants including those who move in and out over the years.

Census Bureau representatives began interviewing households the last part of October and will continue for about three months. Each household in the sample will be mailed an introductory letter.

Joint HUD-Census reports on the results of the survey are expected to be issued in the spring of 1979. Statistics will be tabulated for the U.S., for each See HOUSING, page 6

Fire Claims Auto

An auto belonging to Marilyn Gehler of Wayne was a total loss as a result of fire Friday night.

Wayne firemen answered the call at the parking lot of Bill's C.W. at about 8:20 p.m. Fire chief Dick Korn Saturday said the fire apparently started in the engine compartment, but the cause had not yet been determined.

Mental Retardation Seminar Scheduled

Students interested in careers in the field of mental retardation are invited to attend a career's Day, Wednesday at Wayne State College.

Sponsored by the Nebraska Youth Association for Retarded Citizens, the workshop will begin with registration at 9 a.m. The organization will be explained in a session from 10:15 to 10:50.

From 11 to 11:30, students may attend one of four workshops including: working with the mentally retarded adult, working with the mentally retarded pre-schooler, and home bound programs. The same sessions will be repeated from 11:30 until noon.

Trends in special education will be the topic from 1:45 p.m. Sessions from 1:50 until 2:20, which will be repeated from 2:25 until 2:55, are speech therapy, school psychology, audiology, and working in the public school system.

WSC Is Host For McGovern On SALT Talks

South Dakota Sen. George McGovern will speak on "Perspectives on American Security" at 8 p.m., Thursday in Rice Auditorium at Wayne State College.

McGovern will reflect on a recent trip to Geneva as a senate adviser on Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT). He will also comment on arms control processes.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Pre-Schoolers, College Students Learn in Child Development Lab

Clowns, firemen, princesses and rabbits all showed their true colors on Halloween at Wayne State College, especially the pre-school children in the Child Development Lab.

A class of 13 pre-school children, ages 3-4, and 16 junior and senior college students, meets two afternoons each week at WSC to share learning games and experiences.

The tots participate in group learning activities while college students observe and learn first hand about child behavior. The students prepare for the lab sessions by studying child motor development, physical development and emotional development in regular class sessions.

Margaret Hansen, instructor of the class, said both the children and the students benefit through lab interaction.

"We try to do things that mothers many times cannot take the time to do," she said. "It gives the children the opportunity to be with others their own age and acquaint them with new things."

The lab room is scaled to fit the children's needs. Tables, desks, games, art supplies and even the bathroom are made to accommodate the little people.

Daily activities include listening to stories, playing with blocks, puzzles and rhythm games, finger painting and, to everyone's enjoyment, an afternoon snack.

AFS Student Likes Life on Nebraska Farm

The weather, community life, holidays and school can all seem pretty confusing to someone visiting the United States from another country. Wayne High's foreign exchange student says, however, he's doing just fine.

Fernando Sias Paula Brito, who is the 12th foreign exchange student to study at Wayne High under the auspices of the American Field Service (AFS), made the transition from Portugal to the United States in August.

The handsome 18-year-old youth is making his home during the 1977-78 school year with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rubeck and family of rural Carroll. Fernando brought some gifts from his country. Sitting in the Rubeck home is a rooster, handmade and painted in Portugal.

The Rubecks farm six miles west and a half north of Wayne. One son, Dustin, is a junior at Wayne High. Blane, 24, lives in Lincoln with his wife, the former Brenda Gaunt. Another son, Barry, 21, and his wife, the former Kay Pierson, make their home in Omaha.

Fernando comes from Lisboa, Portugal, a city of about one and a half million persons. He asked to be placed with a rural family when he applied as an exchange student. His biggest thrill he says so far, as a rural resident, is learning to drive a tractor.

Fernando, like all foreign exchange students studying in the United States, isn't permitted to drive a car. He says that one of his biggest surprises when coming to this country was the number of teenagers who do drive. "Here," says Fernando, "everyone drives a car." In Portugal, he adds, most boys don't drive until they are 20 or 21 years of age. They travel mainly by bus.

Fernando, who does well in handling the English language after studying it for three years, says, however, that English is still his toughest subject at Wayne High School.

He is enrolled as a senior and, in addition to English, is busy studying algebra, physics, American problems, typing and biology. Fernando says he feels he is doing well in school. He will receive his first report card along with other Wayne High students on Wednesday.

In his home country, the youth attended a school with an enrollment of about 4,000 students, almost 10 times as large as the enrollment at Wayne High. "There," he says, "nobody knew

Youth Killed In Collision

A collision on a county road northwest of Wayne Friday night left one youth dead and two hospitalized.

Randy K. Bethune, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bethune of Carroll, was killed when his car collided at the crest of a hill with a car driven by Keith Clausen, 17, of Carroll, according to the Wayne County sheriff's department.

Kevin Davis, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Davis of Carroll, was a passenger in the Bethune auto. He was listed in stable condition Saturday morning in Providence Medical Center in Wayne. He suffered a bruised left arm and a cut lip.

Clausen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Clausen of Carroll, was taken to PMC and then transferred to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Sioux City. He was in satisfactory condition Saturday morning, a hospital spokesman said.

Both vehicles were total losses as a result of the accident, which occurred seven and three-quarters miles west and two miles north of Wayne at about 6:40 p.m.

Funeral services for Bethune at press time Saturday were pending at Hiscox-Schumacher Funeral Home.

Pop Concert Will Feature School Staff

Faculty members and administrators will take to the stage Tuesday night as part of Allen High's "Pop Goes the Eagles" music concert at the high school auditorium.

A faculty band and barber shop quartet will highlight the fund-raising program, which also will include performances by junior high and high school bands and choirs.

Music director Lois Mendlik said the 8 p.m. concert will feature the sixth grade band, seventh and eighth grade swing choir, senior high band, senior high choir, jazz band and swing choir.

Council to Act on Zoning Request

The Wayne city council Tuesday night is expected to act on a controversial zoning issue.

Ordinance 871, scheduled for hearing at 8:15 p.m., would change from A-1 to R-2 zoning of about four acres of property owned by Anna Swinney of Wayne. The new residential zoning would allow construction of a 24-unit apartment complex proposed by Fairbury realtor George Newton.

The property is located between the Knolls and Oak Ridge subdivisions and property owners in the two residential neighborhoods have expressed their opposition, saying they would prefer instead that the land be zoned R-1, which would permit only single family homes or duplexes. A public hearing on a proposed project to install an enclosed storm sewer in the Roosevelt Park is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Property owners who could be assessed for part of the cost of the project will have an opportunity to voice their objections.

City clerk Bruce Mordhorst said the council will probably consider an ordinance creating a storm sewer improvement district at the next council meeting.

Other agenda items include a discussion of enforcing prohibitions against obstructing sidewalks, administration of the Senior Citizens Center, and a sanitary sewer interceptor line.

Columbus Federal Begins New Office Construction

Columbus Federal Savings and Loan Association broke ground Friday, on a new facility located at Seventh and Lincoln Streets in Wayne.

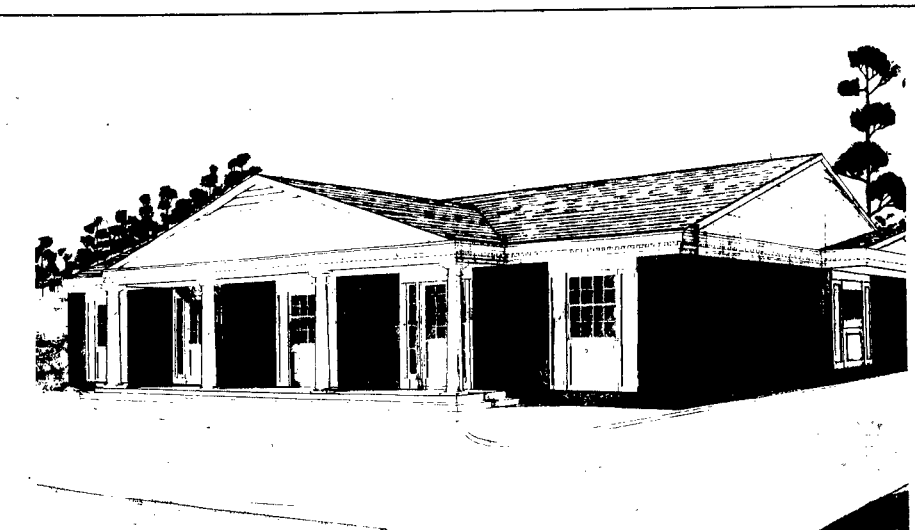

W.M. Ferguson, President of Columbus Federal Savings, said he is especially pleased with the warm welcome the firm has received from the people in Wayne and in the Wayne trade territory since the company opened its doors for business in November 1976.

Ferguson said the new building will be an attractive addition to Wayne with its colonial design blending into the residential area surrounding the site. The building will have more than 4,000 square feet of finished area, including a community room. In addition, there will be available for lease two offices which will provide space for expansion as Columbus Federal grows with the community.

Columbus Federal will attempt to save as many trees as possible, Ferguson said, noting, however, the city has tagged two or three trees for removal because of disease.

The new office will have a staff of three: branch manager Roger Madden and tellers Carol Creighton and Kay Strayer. Madden said he is looking forward to a formal opening and hopes that it will be some time in the early Spring.

"You fried my eggs for 730 TMU's — and the federal gov'mint spent $46,000 to tell you it takes 838!"

STRAY'er Thoughts

By Jim Strayer

I'm afraid I'm going to be on a diet again soon, what with all the banquets going on locally, and Kay and I celebrating our anniversary last week.

She has a clever way of letting me know when it's time to take off a few pounds. She says 'Eat anything you like. Here's a list of things you're going to like.'

Easy to Remember

Speaking of our anniversary—I'm more fortunate than many husbands in that I don't have any trouble remembering the date. It's the day before Halloween.

We actually had planned to get married on Oct. 31, because that day worked out best according to the schedule set up for me at the time, courtesy of Uncle Sam, but we had to move the date up one day, because Kay said she would be busy on the last day of October.

Never did find out what she did, but I always thought it was kind of odd that she left the house the night after we got married, with a broom in her hand.

I probably just blew it. Bet I go home and find all of the locks on the doors changed.

Misplace Emphasis

Didja ever wonder about some of the inconsistencies in American government? For instance, how come the Internal Revenue Service is so fussy about how we spend our money, but none of the other federal departments are fussy about how they spend our money?

Speaking of the IRS, did you hear about the plan to end the income tax? The theory is that filling out tax forms causes anxiety, hypertension, and ulcers, and is therefore hazardous to our health. In keeping with their zeal to protect us from anything and everything which could possibly do us harm, the Food and Drug Administration should issue a ban against paying income tax.

Good News

I'm always happy to see some good news mixed in with the bad, and the Nebraska Department of Education has announced some good news. Average scores of the American College Test, taken this year by 15,000 Nebraskans, are up, ending a four-year trend of decline.

Scores on Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT) have been increasing for the past four years in Nebraska, and it will be interesting to see if the higher ACT scores this year are the beginning of a similar trend.

Views aired on zoning issue

Dear Editor: With regard to the editorial on the Swinney property rezoning appearing in the last issue of The Wayne Herald, I would like to respond and take Exception to a number of points:

— The fact that an apartment house is already located three blocks east of the Swinney property and that a slaughterhouse is located about a block east of the property is not a factor in property values in the Oak Ridge and Knolls subdivision.

The Moeller apartments are too far away to make any difference and the slaughterhouse is apparently quite well run since there is never any offensive odor or noise coming from the structure.

Mr. Strayer apparently agrees with the petition group in that the traffic will be a problem because of the apartment. The problem will exist on both Third Street and Oak Drive, two streets which already have a significant traffic flow.

— On the matter of consistency and the growth of the city, the petition group has stated that apartments of the type proposed for the Swinney property are necessary to provide adequate, reasonably priced housing for a growing city. However, the current comprehensive plan calls for R-1 zoning in that area. The comprehensive plan cannot be taken lightly because literally thousands of man hours have been spent by the planning commission over the years to develop this plan with the assistance of a professional planner. Two of the functions of zoning are to plan the growth of a city and to protect existing property owners.

— The petition group does not feel that the possible mobile park development on the Swinney property is a real issue. There are currently about 20 vacant mobile home lots in the city, therefore no demand or need for additional space appears to exist. Additionally, it does not appear to be economically feasible to construct a park on the land area available on the Swinney property.

— We can understand why Mr. Newton would want to build an apartment in a nice neighborhood next to homes, schools parks and hospitals. However, the existing homeowners have a strong desire to have the growth of the area continue as R-1 as they assumed it would when they bought their home.

This group urges the city council to be responsive to the desires of the residents in the two subdivisions and consider especially the past actions of other Wayne city councils on R-2 rezoning requests in this area. We urge the city council to deny the request of Mrs. Swinney to rezone the land to R-2 and, if any action is to be taken at all, to rezone the land to R-1. — John M. Struve, spokesman for the petition group.

Out of Old

Nebraska

In the late 1930's one of the research workers at the Nebraska State Historical Society discovered this literary gem in the Hooker County Tribune (Mullen), Sept. 13, 1934, with a notation that this 'melodious bland verse was found recently in the family Bible at the Hugh Elliot home northeast of Theford, and was then thought to be half a century old. It bore the initials R. W. L.'

Reprinted in Nebraska History in 1938. 'A Ballad on Nebraska Fuel' may be sung to the tune of 'How Dear to This Heart Are the Scenes of My Childhood.' Although written in a humorous vein, the ballad presents an accurate history of hardships faced by the early settlers:

A Ballad on Nebraska Fuel

'How dear to the eyes in the land of Nebraska, where coal can't be bought and wood isn't found; where ozone is fresh as it is in Alaska, are the big piles of cow chips that lie on the ground—the fire-kindling cow chips, the hash-cooking cow chips, the corn-saving cow chips that's scattered around.—

'How ardent we seize it, with eyes that are glowing, and say to ourselves that it looks very well; and then when we're waiting and punching and blowing, how rich are the fumes that arise to the smell! The needful old cow chips, the odorous cow chips, the hash-cooking cow chips so rich to the smell.

'When we think of old woodland with hills that are 'yaller, where folks must be taught to toddle around, we turn with disgust from its 'agery' parlor right back where both climate and cow chips are found—the soggy old cow chips, the rich-scented cow chips, the hash-cooking cow chips that out here are found.

'When crops are a failure and stock is a-dyin', and corn for our fuel cannot then be found; when, hauling our water, we're freezing and crying, how welcome the cow chips that out here are found—the genuine cow chips, the bonafide cow chips, the pure-blooded cow chips that out here are found.

'In this glorious country with water below us; where ozone, in short, takes the top off the ground; where hail storms benumb us and blizzards o'ercome us, are the soul-cheering cow chips that drop on the ground—the time-honored cow chips, the homesteader's cow chips, the fume-giving cow chips that drop on the ground.'

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Manns Wed at Plainview

The Crawford Valley Methodist Church in Plainview was the setting for the Oct. 29 ceremony uniting in marriage Sue Ann Elwood and Andrew Harold Mann, both of Norfolk.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Elwood of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. Mann of Winside.

The church was decorated with pink and blue carnations. The Rev. Ronald Couch of Plainview officiated at the double ring ceremony. Darci, Dawn and Darla Janke, all of Winside, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Song," accompanied by Mrs. Phil Westrom of Plainview.

The bride appeared at her father's side in a white knit gown with an attached chapel-length train. The oval designed bodice was covered with net and adorned with Venice lace and pearls. Matching lace and pearls were featured on the stand-up collar and bishop sleeves. Her veil was attached to a semi-Camelot cap of Venice lace and pearls, and she carried blue and pink carnations with white miniature roses.

Honor attendants for the couple were Nancy Elwood, sister of the bride, and Larry Janssen, both of Norfolk.

The maid of honor wore a blue floor-length gown of interwoven knit and lace styled with long sleeves, a high bodice and belt. She wore flowers in her hair and carried pink and blue carnations.

The bridegroom wore a white tuxedo and his attendant wore a light blue tuxedo.

Guests were ushered into the church by Dan Elwood of Plainview, brother of the bride, and Dean Janke Jr. of Winside. Flower girl was Lachelle Elwood of Plainview and ring bearer was Kent Thompson of Newman Grove. Candles were lighted by the ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Elwood wore a floor-length dress of blue double knit with a voile jacket trimmed in lace. Mrs. Mann selected a blue A-lined double knit, also in floor length, trimmed in lace.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the church basement following the ceremony. Guests who were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Aron Hansen of Plainview and the bridegroom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thompson of Newman Grove, were registered by Nikki Bonge and Terry Elwood of Plainview, brother of the bridegroom.

Gifts were arranged by Kandi Thompson, Mrs. Bob Anderson and Sandy Boggis.

Mrs. John Ahrens of Norfolk and Mrs. Marvin Elwood Jr. of Plainview cut and served the wedding cake. The bridegroom's cake was served by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Dean Janke of Winside.

Waitresses were Jana Elwood and Shelly Elwood, both of Plainview, and Darci Janke, Dawn Janke and Darla Janke, all of Winside.

The couple are making their first home at the West Haven Trailer Court in Norfolk, where both are employed at Sherwood Medical Industries, Inc. The bridegroom is a supervisor there.

Lakeview Ousts Blue Devils in 2

Columbus Lakeview, which bowed to Wayne in the West Husker tournament, made up for that defeat Thursday night when the Vikings stormed to a two-set win over Wayne to knock the Blue Devils out of district action.

Playing at Norfolk High auditorium, the Vikings stymied Wayne's offensive plays for a 15-5 first-set win and came back with a 15-7 decision to advance to the finals of Class B play.

"We didn't play as a team and just didn't keep the offense going," said dejected coach Mavis Dalton after her Devils finished the season with a respectable 13-4 record.

Both teams fussed around the lead in the early going of the first set. Wayne was down 1-0, but came back to tie several times, including a 5-5 deadlock. From there, however, Lakeview inched away with the lead on soft tips over the net for the win.

The Vikings used the same tactics in the second set after Wayne had battled to a 7-7 score.

Lisa Nuss led Wayne scorers with five points while Kelly Frevert had four. Frevert led in spikes and sets with eight each. Also recording eight sets was Lesa Barclay.

A fired-up Blue Devils squad Wednesday night defeated Harrington Cedar Catholic in three sets, 15-3, 10-15 and 15-3. Barclay dished up 15 points, Lori Johnson had 14 spikes and Frevert made 19 sets.

Looking back on the season, coach Mavis Dalton said "It was a fun season mainly because the girls were so coachable and fun to be with."

Bears Capture Class C District Title Behind Serving, Spiking of Team

"Our girls have too much pride and hustle... that's what did it, said a happy coach Dwight Iversen after his Laurel team dumped No. one seed Emerson Hubbard during the finals of the Class C district tournament Thursday night at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

The Bears, who were seeded second, whipped Emerson 15-9 in the first set, but had to fight in a nip-and-tuck battle in the second set to stage a 15-13 decision for the club's 12th win in 18 games. Saturday night at 7:30 Laurel was scheduled to play Bloomfield at Randolph High for a berth in the state tournament.

Senior team leader Cheryl Abla, who has led Laurel in scoring throughout the season, racked up 10 points Thursday night. Abla's serving early in the first game helped the Bears to a 7-2 cushion before Laurel rolled to its first win. Cindy Schaefer and Elaine Guern took over the scoring and net play in the second set when Emerson began to key on Abla and stop her spiking game.

"We were just kind of tight. We couldn't get the ball to Cheryl in the second set, and that was what Emerson wanted," the coach reflected. "But Laurel's other starting players — Susan Stark, Deanna Manz and Jan Cooper — also helped to turn the last set into a Laurel victory with their fine floor play, Iversen noted.

The loss for Wakefield ended the team's longest win streak — eight matches.

"Not only this game but all year long these kids have worked as hard as any I have had," Kovar noted about his girls who finished the season with a 9-5 record.

The coach went on to point out that Wakefield once held a 1-4 record at the start of the season, but regrouped into a winner with eight straight wins.

Senior Robin Mills led Wakefield with 12 points Wednesday night while Gloria Hansen and Heidi Carlson had eight each. Karen Johansen topped spikers with 19 and Mills had 15 sets.

Some psychologists say that you'll live longer if you worry less. They've found that people far away from the pressures of modern civilization often live to be very-senior citizens.

A league will play each week on Monday nights, the B league on Tuesday nights and the C league on Wednesday nights at the city auditorium.

No one will be restricted to a certain league if he is capable of playing in a different group, Overin pointed out.

All persons who live outside of the city and would like to play in the recreation league may do so by paying the $10 fee. The league, however, isn't open to college students unless they work off campus in Wayne or graduated from Wayne High School.

For more information, call Overin at 375-2584.

Lesla Barclay (15). The Blue Devils lost their bid to advance to the finals when Lakeview came up with 15-5 and 15-8 wins.

City Recreation Men's Basketball Starts Nov. 21

Men's recreation basketball for local and area players ages 19 and older will be getting underway the week of Nov. 21, said recreation manager Hank Overin.

This year's competition will be divided into three age groups for those players who want to play the fast brand of basketball, or the slow-down version, Overin noted.

The A league, which is generally the run and gun style, is open to men ages 19 and older; the B league is open to those 25 to 30, and the C league will be for 30 and older.

A league will play each week on Monday nights, the B league on Tuesday nights and the C league on Wednesday nights at the city auditorium.

No one will be restricted to a certain league if he is capable of playing in a different group, Overin pointed out.

All persons who live outside of the city and would like to play in the recreation league may do so by paying the $10 fee. The league, however, isn't open to college students unless they work off campus in Wayne or graduated from Wayne High School.

Beemer Ousts Allen Eagles In Tourney Play

The Allen Eagles were knocked out of the running for the Class D district crown Thursday night by eventual district winner Beemer, 15-4 and 15-11.

The bobcats, who were undefeated going into district play, also lapped Newcastle in finals action Thursday night to advance to regional play.

Although the score didn't reflect the actual play of the game, Allen mentor Gary Troth said his club played Beemer well in both sets. "Beemer is a pretty tough team, but we played them tough. Their spiking was really tremendous in the first game, but our spiking made the score a lot closer in the second," he said.

Lisa Wood led Allen with four points, and Lisa Erwin and Sue Erwin were the leading spikers. Allen finishes the year with a 7.5 record.

knows what I do all the time." Fernando just shook his head in amazement when Wayne High guidance counselor Curt Frye told him he knew how he and several other boys celebrated Halloween.

Fernando says America is pretty much what he expected. He says Americans are very "civilized" and friendly. The exchange student said he tasted Mexican food, including pizza, for the first time with the Rubecks. He didn't like it at first, but now has acquired a taste for it.

This winter, Fernando may find his biggest surprise yet is Nebraska's weather. Although Portugal goes have a winter season, Fernando says 40 degrees is about the coldest it gets there.

Fernando was captain of a basketball club in Portugal and plans to participate in the sport at Wayne High. He also enjoys swimming and underwater fishing, camping and reading, and has challenged his American brother Dusty to several games of chess.

Fernando has one brother, Eduardo, 17. His father, Francisco, is involved in ship maintenance and his mother, Maria, is a saleswoman. After a tour of the U.S. next summer, Fernando will return to Portugal. When he gets home he says he would like to study agronomy in college.

The youth says he will have to take an examination along with thousands of other Portuguese students seeking to qualify for college. Only a limited number of students are able to attend college, he says.

Portuguese citizens lived under the thumb of a fascist government until a revolution about four years ago saw a democratic government come into power. "Portugal," he says, "including its school system, is still in a state of confusion."

individualized education program.

The Wayne-Carroll system was six years ahead of the nation in that respect, Mrs. Schmerler said. Not only did the school administration plan for the least restrictive educational alternatives, but also provided for the necessary training for teachers, identifying goals and making them accountable for reaching those goals.

During her first years as a consultant to the Wayne-Carroll schools, Mrs. Schmerler focused on reading and language arts programs. She has also worked in content areas in the high schools and is now doing work in curriculum.

In working with content, she explained, it is important to identify what is basic and important for students to learn in a given area. After completing identification, the goal is to determine effective alternative ways to get the essential information to students who are having difficulties.

Individualized teaching focuses on finding the strengths and weaknesses of each student, then developing a method which will enable the student to develop competency in weak areas. While students receive individualized help, it is also important that they learn to propel themselves through learning activities, Mrs. Schmerler said.

Children often become dependent on the teacher, she explained, noting it is important to break the chain of constant feedback from the teacher so students will feel comfortable in carrying out learning activities once they have developed competency in a particular area.

Individualized teaching requires more planning than what Mrs. Schmerler describes as "lock-step" teaching, with identical teaching methods used for all students, but once planning is completed, individualized instruction techniques are readily adaptable to the mainstream classroom.

She emphasized, however, that it is the responsibility of the school system, not the student, to determine what is studied.

American public education is in a cycle marked by an erosion of authority, Mrs. Schmerler said. In working with schools throughout the nation, she began to notice the change when parents started acting as advocates for their children in matters such as grooming and dress. Those items in themselves are not important, she said, but they symbolize a change in attitude centered on the rights of students, which in many cases has led to extensive student self-determination of curriculum.

In some areas where she works, Mrs. Schmerler said, particularly in metropolitan schools, teachers spend most of their time dealing with behavioral problems teachers become so occupied in dealing the behavioral problems they don't have time to educate students.

The Midwest was the last region of the country to be touched by the change, and the effects in many instances haven't been nearly as strong as in other areas.

Wayne schools have largely avoided similar pitfalls she said, and the community has maintained its commitment to education.

Teachers from the Wayne school system and other district, as well as parents, attended the training session Thursday in which Mrs. Schmerler provided individualized instruction to students in a third grade reading class.

Mrs. Schmerler as a consultant to the Wayne schools, acts as a resource teacher, available to any staff member to help modify curriculum to better serve the needs of children with learning disabilities.

She currently works with high school biology teacher Leigh Mueller on organization of instruction and materials, and in designing alternatives to approaching the curriculum. She is also working with the Middle School science program, reviewing alternative learning methods to determine if they are the proper ones.
