House Damaged in Fire

The second home fire at Allen in a week broke out Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper.

Allen volunteer firemen were called at about 10:30 a.m. when someone noticed smoke coming from the roof area.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper were home at the time and were able to get most of their furniture and some other possessions out of the house. Their daughters, Patty, six, and Punky, four, were at Sunday school at the time.

Loss of contents had not yet been determined Tuesday. The fire, which apparently began in the chimney in the home's attic, severely damaged the south side of the home including the two little girls' bedrooms. The house, owned by Ella Cooper of Wakefield, was insured. The contents were not covered by insurance.

The family is staying at the home of Mrs. Cooper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cooper of Allen.

The home and contents of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wood of Allen were destroyed in a Nov. 21 fire. The couple and their five children were not home at the time of the blaze. They are now renting a home in Allen. Response was reported as excellent for the Woods family Saturday afternoon, sponsored by the Allen Ministerial Association.

Kids Invited to Party

The children in grades kindergarten through six in the Wayne-Carroll public schools are in for a treat Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Wayne City Auditorium.

The youngsters are invited to the annual Christmas party sponsored by the Wayne State College Kappa Delta Gamma Sorority and Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

As part of the festivities, the fraternity and sorority members will dress in Christmas outfits, including everything from elves to snowmen. Santa will also be on hand for the event.

Students in the Wayne-Carroll schools have been drawing pictures on the meaning of Christmas and the three best drawings from each grade (K-6) will receive prizes.

Participants will also be able to play carnival-type games, ranging from "Pin-The-Tail on the Reindeer" to "Shoot a Basket Through Santa's Nose." A free lunch of hot dogs, potato chips and soft drinks will also be served.

Bond Sales Lag

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds in Wayne County during the first 10 months of 1977 totaled $139,876 for 58 percent of the year's sales goal, according to county chairman Henry Ley.

October sales amounted to $8,341, Ley said.

October sales in Dixon County totaled $7,721. Total for the year so far, according to county chairman Donald Kuhl of Wakefield, is $157,956, or 57.7 percent of the 1977 goal.

Statewide sales during the ten-month period totaled $50,032,100 for a gain of nearly $1 million over the same period last year, according to John F. O'Neill of Lincoln, chairman of the state savings bonds committee.

With a state sales goal of $67.9 million for the year, 74 percent was reached at the end of October.

Professor Chairs Music Educators State Committee

Wayne State College music professor Dr. Cornell Runestad was recently elected chairman of college and university affairs for the Nebraska Music Educators Association at the group's annual meeting in Lincoln.

The association is made up of Nebraska elementary, junior and senior high music teachers and members of college music departments. As chairman of college and university affairs for the group, Runestad will act as a liaison between college and high school music teachers, promoting interaction and cooperation between the two.

Dr. Runestad came to WSC in 1970 and has instructed WSC choral groups, including the Madrigal Singers. His groups have appeared throughout Nebraska and surrounding states.

Runestad said he is looking forward to serving the two-year term and he hopes to promote cooperation between college and public school music teachers.

"I am anxious to bring college music teachers to pursue common goals of the group," he said.

Student Selected for Senate Trip

A 16-year-old Winside High sophomore is one of two Nebraska students selected to represent the state at the William Randolph Hearst Foundation's 16th annual United States Senate Youth Program being held in Washington, D.C., from Jan. 28 to Feb. 4.

Along with 100 other elected high school student body officers, two from each state and the District of Columbia, Corrine George and Scott Lehr from Papillion High School will take a week-long closeup look into federal government operations, particularly the U.S. Senate.

Each delegate will also be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship to study American government and related subjects. The scholarship and program are made possible through grants from the Hearst Foundation.

While in Washington, the students will spend a day with their respective senators, attend briefings with at least nine senators, leading cabinet members and at the Departments of Defense and State.

Payments Due Now

Personal property taxes for the first half of 1977 not paid by today (Thursday) become delinquent and will begin accruing a penalty, according to Wayne County treasurer Leon Meyer.

WSC Student and Family Victims in Omaha Shooting

By JIM STRAYER

Tim and Deb Joos of 1300 Meadow Lane in Wayne, along with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Joos of Omaha and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Joos, visiting from Michigan, were just ordering before-dinner drinks in an Omaha restaurant Saturday night, when their evening was cut short by a shotgun blast.

Deb, and Tim's mother, Gloria Joos, and his sister-in-law, Laurie Joos, were among the 25 persons injured when a lone gunman fired six rounds from a shotgun in Club 89 in Omaha Saturday night.

They had arrived only minutes before the tragedy began. Their reservations were for 7:30 and Dave Joos had checked his watch as the six arrived. Time: 7:32 p.m.

According to Sunday's Omaha World-Herald, the shooting began at 7:36.

"We had just been seated and were ordering cocktails," Deb said. "Only three of us had ordered and I was trying to decide what to have to drink when I heard a noise. I thought it was the beginning of the show. Then a guy came walking in and I saw him standing there, pointing a gun. He was a neat dresser."

"Deb and I were talking about what she should order, when I heard a loud boom," Tim recalled. The Wayne State College industrial management student said he thought the explosion was a firecracker, part of the stage show featuring WOW radio disc jockey Dave Wingert who was to present a puppet show.

"I heard another boom and then saw a man on the floor. He was the one who was killed, I think," Tim said. "I just sat there and stared while he shot two times at the other side of the room. Then I felt pellets hit my back and I hit the floor. The others (at his table) were already down. By the time I was on the floor, it was over."

The pellets which struck Tim failed to penetrate the skin. He said they were probably ricochets, or possible had passed through the back of the chair in which he was sitting before striking him.

'I felt pellets hit my back . . . By the time I was on the floor, it was all over.'

His father and brother were not hit, but the three women in the party were not as fortunate. Tim's mother, Mrs. Gloria Joos, was struck by five pellets, three in the face, one in the shoulder, and one in the chest.

His sister-in-law, Laurie Joos, was struck in the forehead by a single pellet. The wound appeared serious at first, Tim said. The pellet struck a vein but it flattened out without doing any serious damage. Tim's mother and sister-in-law were treated and released Saturday night.

Deb was kept overnight and at first was listed in serious condition because doctors thought a pellet had pierced her lung. The pellet had lodged in her chest District chairman Merle Von Minden of Allen said students in grades 9-12 are eligible for the competition.

Three trophies will be awarded and the winner will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond from the Nebraska Department of the American Legion and a $25 bond from District 3.

The district winner will be eligible to compete in the state contest Feb. 28.

Von Minden said interested students should contact their school speech teacher or local American Legion post for rules, or they can write to: Merle Von Minden, Allen, Neb. 68710.

The public is invited to attend the competition, Von Minden said. There will be no admission charge.

Her most unusual dramatic role might have been in Tuesday's production "You Can't Take It With You" presented by the Winside school's fine arts department.

Drive Started for Mat Coach

Jim McDougal moved to Nebraska from Kansas to take a job at Wayne State College. Up to one week ago, everything was going fine for Jim, his wife and two children.

sewer improvement district in the Roosevelt Park area. The new underground storm sewer to be built will replace an open drainage ditch long considered a health and safety hazard by council members. The ditch will eventually be filled in.

A second ordinance, No. 886 in the municipal code book, orders construction of the project and authorizes advertising for bids. Estimated cost is $300,000.

The council set up a board of equalization to approve assessments to property owners for a couple of armor coat paving projects previously completed, one on S. Douglas Street and one in Roosevelt Park. Individual assessments are based on the amount of property with frontage on the streets paved, but the assessment was approved at 91 cents a front foot. No opposition was expressed toward the rate of assessment. Property owners can pay off their assessment over a 10-year period.

A controversial project to bury electric service lines in the Providence Medical Center area is again off the list of city projects.

The project has been voted on a number of times, the last a defeated motion to rescind approval. Councilman Vern Russell broached the subject again Tuesday, protesting claims submitted for engineering fees submitted for work he said was done during a period when the project did not have council approval. He said city administrator Fred Brink should have ordered planning halted after the project was defeated.

Electrical engineer Norman Armstrong said the project had been divided into two phases. See COUNCIL, page 12

Students Celebrate Thanksgiving

Students at St. Mary's Catholic School in Wayne celebrated a special Thanksgiving Eucharist Nov. 23.

Each youngster brought an item of food which was to be part of their family meal on Thanksgiving Day. The Rev. Thomas McDermott said prayer, followed with group singing.

giving liturgy included spontaneous petitions and litany of thanksgiving from the children. Purpose of the Mass was to emphasize the things children have to be thankful for and to strengthen their awareness of themselves as one family.

Cats Plaster Talented Peru

Wayne State's Wildcats recorded their second victory in as many starts Tuesday night by downing Peru State 102-89 at Wayne. The Wildcats showed excellent team balance as seven players scored in double figures. Dale Meyer, Lennie Adams and Gary Billings were the highs with 15 points each.

For the Bobcats, it was basically a two man show with Danny Shouse and Ron Mercer teaming up for 47 points. Shouse had 38 and Mercer 27.

The lead changed hands 14 times in the first half as the Bobcats quickness matched the Wildcats hot shooting. Wayne went ahead to stay on a pair of free throws by Joe Peitzmeier with 2:42 left in the first half at 40-39.

Billings single-handedly pushed the lead from three to nine points with about five minutes gone in the second half on a short jumper sandwiched between a couple of layups.

Still, the men from Peru cut the margin to 65-63 with 10:52 to go on a layup by Rickey Cooper. Wayne got the momentum back, however, as reserve Lew Sykes put in a basket and Mark Olsen added a 20-foot jumper after a steal to boost the lead back to seven with nine minutes left.

Peru came within three points on three different occasions in the last four minutes of the game, the last on a Shouse two-pointer with 2:19 left.

Layups by Billings and Olsen broke the Bobcats backs and Peitzmeier added the last six points to provide the games final margin.

The Wildcats meet Benedictine College in the first round of the Northwest Missouri State Tournament at 6 p.m. Friday.

The other pairing features Northwest Missouri State against Missouri Baptist.

The Wayne State Wildcats are also in that tourney, meeting Tarkio at 1 p.m. Friday. Northwest Missouri State meets Benedictine in the other first round game.

Wayne coach Chuck Brewer will be facing the Tarkio club for the second time this season, having beaten the Owls 66-59 in the opening game of the season at Wayne. Brewer feels the crowd turnout was a major factor in the game and commends the support given to his team.

CSIS Roundup Kearney Win 1st Over Mavericks In Seven Years

Kearney State won their first game at UN-Omaha since 1970 Saturday night by dumping the Mavs 81-71 in the season opener for both teams.

A balanced team attack featured the Kearney attack as coach Jerry Hueser used 10 men in the game and nine scored. Randy Cipriano, Lincoln Southeast junior guard, led the Antelopes with 17. Close behind were Tom Ritzdorf, Howell's senior forward with 16, and Aurora senior guard Dave Hahn with 14.

Omaha led most of the first half and held a 37-36 edge at intermission. Kearney led for about 19 minutes of the second half, but trailed 53-52 with 10 minutes left in the game. The final 10-point margin was the largest for the visiting Staters. Omaha had a seven-point bulge midway in the first half before Kearney went ahead 34-31 late in the first half.

Randy Cipriano led the first half charge, collecting 10 points early. Ritzdorf had eight, and Tim Higgins six to lead the Antelopes. Ritzdorf and Mohanna played 38 and 33 minutes respectively to lead the play by the Antelopes.

Hueser was pleased with the game, but thought the defense could have been better. "We still stood around too much, and at times did not attack with the intensity that I had hoped we would," he said. "I was pleased with the play of the starters and the men who went in — it appears we have pretty good team depth this year."

Eight Schools Invade Rice for WS Tourney

Eight Northeast Nebraska high school wrestling squads will compete in the Wayne State Invitational Wrestling Tournament which begins in Wayne State's Rice Auditorium Saturday at 11 a.m.

The tournament will feature an odd twist with a father and son coaching against each other. Marvin Humpal is the wrestling coach at Butte, while son Randy is in his rookie season as coach of the Winside grapplers. The younger Humpal graduated from Wayne State last spring where he also wrestled.

Other teams in the tournament field are Creighton, Hartington, Norfolk Catholic, Osmond, Pender and Wakefield.

A college match between Wayne State and Midland will begin at 6:30 and the finals of the high school tourney will follow at 7:30.

Admission is $1.50 for adults for each session or $2.50 for the entire day. Student prices are $1 per session or $1.50 all day.

Coble: We Have to Erase Last Year and Start Over

The problems starting at Joe Coble as he prepares his Wakefield cagers for the 1977-78 season are two fold.

First, he has to erase the memories of last year's disaster season which saw the Trojans win only four games in 19 outings. The second is the heights his team will be giving up when it meets such rugged powers as Laurel, Pender and Lyons.

Coble's club isn't without the big man, however. Among the four returning lettermen is 6-6 senior, Val Johnson who brings See COBLE, page 5

Koenig's Matmen Show Promise for Good Year

Last season Wayne High grappling coach Don Koenig said it would be two years before his Blue Devils would mature into what he calls a strong club.

Well, one year has passed and it looks as if Koenig's forecast is starting to come true.

Koenig returns 11 lettermen including two state contenders from last year's club. "With the amount of juniors and sophomores out, I can't help but think ahead," Koenig pointed out. In the meantime, he thinks the present team won't be great but it will be respectable.

Wayne got off to a slow start last year but came on real good towards the end of the season when senior Kirk Echtenkamp and junior Terry Hamilton finished fifth in their weight classes at state.

With that experience behind them, the coach feels that his two state grapplers plus the rest of the veterans will have enough experience to guide the Devils to a .500 mark in dual meets and high placings in tournaments. Echtenkamp, who started out at 119 last year, will move up to 126 for a short time. Last year's 105-pound Hamilton will move up a notch to 112.

Bolstering what the coach believes will be the strength of the club — his middle weights — will be senior letterman Kelly Hansen (138), junior letterman Ward Wacker (145), Don Straight (155), and Dusty Rubbeck (167).

Other returning lettermen are Larry Hank (98), Rick Lutt (105), David Schock (119), Rick Johnson (126) and Danny Mitchell (185-heavyweight).

Wayne's roster:

Seniors — Kirk Echtenkamp, Kelly Hansen (both lettermen), Scott Havener; Juniors — Larry Hank, Terry Hamilton, Rick Lutt, Dusty Rubbeck, David Schock, Don Straight, Ward Wacker (all lettermen), Duane Kay; Sophomores — Danny Mitchell, Rick Johnson (both lettermen), David Doeschler, Scott Kudrna, Rob Lage, Alton Schuett; Freshmen — John Anderson, Chip Carr, Tom Fleeer, Bret Frevert, John Kluge, Ross Powers, Mike Ruwe, Mick Schock, Aaron Schuett, Nick Sieler.

Assistant coach — Stew Cline. Student managers — Ann Jenness, Kelly Frevert.

Schedule:
December — 3 at Blair Invitational, 5 Randolph, 15 South Sioux City, 17 at Pender Invitational.
January — 5 Wisner-Pilger, 10 Neligh, 13 Albion, 19 at Tekamah-Herman, 26 at Wakefield, 28 at Albion Invitational, See KOENIG, page 5

Bears' Face Tough Slate In Class C

The word is out. Laurel's schedule will be tougher this year — and so will be coach Joel Parks' team.

The Bears will face pre-season Class C favorite Norfolk Catholic along with powerhouses Madison and Walthill. But Parks will have his guns loaded for the hunt with the tallest team he's fielded at Laurel since he took over as head coach in 1972.

The front line will have two players at 6-5 and 6-6 with hefty scoring marks to boot. Senior Bob Dahlquist is the taller of the two with an 11-point average. Mike Martin, also a senior, carries about a 10-point average. And both have the rebounding talent to mold what the coach thinks will be an improved ball club.

Also returning from a 17-6 season are junior lettermen Don Dalton, Steve Anderson and Ron Gadeken.

Those five plus Dale White, Phil Wiedenfeld, Randy Bloom and Russ Gade will be called on a lot this season to fill the one void Parks has on his team — depth.

The coach pointed out that this year's schedule will provide plenty of competition for his club, including a home opener with Norfolk Catholic. If there is a break for Parks' team, it's the fact that the first two home games are at home.

Laurel's roster:
Seniors — Bob Dahlquist, Mike Martin (both lettermen), Randy Bloom, Phil Wiedenfeld;

Assistant coach — Bob Weisenberg.

Student manager — Benji Galvin.

Laurel's schedule:
December — 2 Norfolk Catholic, 9 Hartington Cedar Catholic, 13 at Wayne, 16 Emerson-Hubbard, 20 at Pender, 26-27 at Randolph Holiday Tournament.

January — 3 at Coleridge Invitational, 14 Neligh, 20 at Creighton, 21 at Wakefield, 24 Randolph, 27 at Hartington High, 28 Osmond.

February — 3 at Bloomfield, 10 at Madison, 17 at Walthill.

Open Season
Tonight at Rice
Things are a little up in the air for the Wayne State wrestling squad at the present time, even though a match against Augustana is scheduled for tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in Wayne. Interim coach Doug Radtke was placed at the helm of the Wayne wrestlers after Jim McDougal was injured in an auto accident near Wayne. Radtke says the regular coach will probably be sidelined until the first of the year.
The major problem is not in the quality of the squad. There are a good number of fine wrestlers back from last year's 10-14 team, but differences in coaching philosophies may be a problem. "It's possible that McDougal may have a problem adjusting the team back to his type of coaching situation," said Radtke.
Radtke, who served as defensive backfield coach on the Wildcat football team this fall, is qualified as a wrestling coach, having headed the sport at Indianola (Ia.) High School for five years.

"Right now, I'm sorting things out. Hopefully, between the two coaching philosophies (McDougal's and Radtke's), we'll be able to come up with a broader view of the program."

Augustana is one of the powerhouses in the nation when it comes to wrestling, so the loss of last year's star Dwight Lienemann with an injury will certainly hurt the Cats. Lienemann was 33-5 last season including two wins and two losses at the NAIA tournament at Cheney, Wash.

The return of another national qualifier is quite welcome. Kirk Hanson, a 29-9 finisher last season, is back for his senior year. The Wildcats have always had several outstanding individuals on the squad, but overall team strength is still questionable this season.

Backstop

Bob Bartlett

SEVERAL weeks ago we had a story about the all-conference football selections in the Lewis and Clark loop, which included players from Allen, Wakefield and Winside.

Unfortunately, not all the information was available at that time about three players from Wakefield who made the West division dream team. Now that the info is at hand, here it is.

Three-year letterman Craig Nelson, who was picked by the Omaha World-Herald on its Class C all-state team, rated high praise from coach John Torczon. Nelson led tacklers with 21 solos — including 13 tackles for losses totaling 99 yards — 41 assists, and two fumble recoveries. "Craig had good mobility which resulted in a lot of tackles for a defensive end," Torczon pointed out. Nelson's credentials: 6-4, 215.

Offensive guard Chuck Sherer was all-conference last year when his team played in the West Husker loop. The 5-8, 155 pound senior is "responsible for our successful trap plays. He was a team leader, co-captain and he was the most consistent and fundamentally sound offensive lineman we've had in a long time," the coach said.

"The best breakaway threat we've had in quite a long time" is how Torczon described junior Doug Starzl as one of the top offensive Trojan backs. He carried the ball 61 times for 499 yards and four touchdowns.

GUESS I can push aside those glorious thoughts of beating the backstop in picking winners in prep football and concentrate on basketball.

Both Ray Murray and Dave Diederker vowed at the end of the grid season that they would beat me in picking basketball. Now they have their chance.

First off, tonight (Thursday) Winside is at Allen. They go with Winside: I'll take Allen. Friday night they're going with Blair over Wayne. Laurel over Norfolk Catholic, Wakefield past Winside and Coleridge over Allen. Only one change for me — Wayne to beat Blair.

Dave and Ray are going to sidestep picking girls basketball, so I'll have to try it alone. I'll go with Wayne at home against Madison and Wakefield over Osmond in tonight's preview. Other prep winners (in boldface): Saturday — Crofton at Laurel; Monday — Stanton at Winside, Ponca at Wakefield; Tuesday — Laurel at Allen.

ON FILE: Hoskins race driver Gerald Bruggeman picked up a pair of awards at a recent racing banquet in Sioux Falls. "Boog" received a trophy for fopping the high point standing while driving his modified car at the South Dakota track and also the award for Mechanic of the Year.

Devils Will Be Short, But Have Quickness

Wayne High fans will see a change in their basketball team when the Blue Devils take to the court Friday night at home against Blair.

Coach Bill Sharpe's crew will be running with the ball — more so than it has in the past. The change, however, isn't something the coach wants, but has to do out of necessity.

Unlike past years, the Devils won't have the big man in the middle to battle opponents on the boards. In fact, Wayne won't have too much height in its starting five.

The tallest player on the team is 6-2 junior Jay Davie, who will be seeking his first monogram as a varsity player. Next in line is junior letterman Al Nissen at 6-1 1/2. Followed by a couple of players six foot or better.

Sharpe hopes to offset that lack of height with experience and quickness — two ingredients he's relying on to make his club a running unit.

"We have to be a running club to beat the other guys," the coach pointed out, adding that on defense he will have to have at least four of his players crashing the boards for the caroms.

Although Sharpe, isn't putting with him a 14 point average and 11 rebounds a game. The coach figures to couple Johnson with another senior returnee, Brad Jones, for a strong one-two offensive punch. Both players are two-year starters and expected to carry the load on the floor as well as provide the leadership.

offensively this year," Coble pointed out. In addition, Wakefield has better shooters down the line, the coach went on.

Incoming players from last year's 9-1 freshmen team will get their chance to show how well they perform on varsity, the coach noted. "There are three to four players who are in contention for jobs," Coble said. "Even if they don't start some will be called on early in the season."

Two other returning lettermen are junior Todd Swigart and sophomore Scott Hallstrom. Not returning to the scene are 6-5 Craig Nelson, who opted this year for wrestling, and Jeff Simpson.

Although Coble lost one eager to wrestling, he made up for the loss when former grappler Doug Starzl traded his togs for a basketball jersey. The junior has the good speed to help make Wakefield a much quicker ball club, Coble said.

The Trojans will get a taste of what it's like to play in the Lewis and Clark Conference for the first time when they open a season play Friday night at home against Winside. "I've never seen Wausa, Wynot or Osmond play so I'm not going to pick a conference favorite," Coble said.

Otherwise, the head man sees Pender and Laurel as the top two ball clubs on the Trojans' 17-game schedule.

the emphasis on defense at this point of the season, he added that when Wayne does play defense it likely will go man-to-man. "We're going to try to press as much as possible," he added.

The coach figures that his club will be able to handle a team which has one big man, but Wayne could be in trouble with a club that has three tall players.

Seniors — John Keating, Dean Carroll, Vic Sharpe (all lettermen); Fernando Brito; Juniors — Tom Ginn, Brad Emry, Al Nissen (all lettermen), Dennis Carroll, Dave Hamm, Dave Zeiss (5-5). As far as the conference schedule, Sharpe isn't worried about playing West Husker teams until tournament time in late January and early February.

However, the coach has his eye on Madison to repeat as West Husker champ. "Madison is unbelievably tough. Unless there are breakdowns no one will take it away from them," Sharpe noted.

Outside of Madison, other West Husker toughies are Emerson-Hubbard, Wisner-Pilger and Columbus Lakeview. "Kick out Madison and it's a toss up between three or four clubs for the title — including Wayne," he concluded.

Wayne will see some big changes in its regular playing schedule. The Devils have substituted Creighton and Tekamah until teams like West Point High, Elkhorn, Walthill and Lyons. Sharpe said he's in favor of changes, but is a little apprehensive about the addition of more Class C clubs.

"There are a lot more Class C teams that are tougher than heck up here (Northeast Nebraska). I'd rather have more B schools because it's sometimes hard to get a team up for a class C school," he said.

Another Reason To Be Thankful

Choral Concert Set for Dec. 11

The Annual Wayne State College Choral Christmas Concert will be held Dec. 11 at 3 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre. Both the 73-member WSC Choir and the 16-member WSC Madrigal Singers will perform holiday songs at the concert. Wayne State students Claudia Mallat Devorak, a senior music major from Laurel and Kevin Johnson, a junior music major from North Bend, will be featured soloists at the concert. The college choir will also be performing at the First Presbyterian and St. Paul's Lutheran Churches in Wayne Sunday morning, Dec. 11. All performances are open free to the public.

Carhart: Downtown Improvement Will Take Time

It may be a year or two before more steps can be taken to enhance the look of Wayne's business district, said Bob Carhart, but the wait may well be worth it.

Carhart, who spoke to members of Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday, pointed out that part of his job as one of five members of Wayne's Downtown Improvement Committee is to present new ideas to city businessmen about improving the business district.

There are several proposals in mind, he said, but it will take a little time to get a majority of merchants and businessmen to approve ideas. Already completed is the installation of new sidewalks along a five-block stretch of Main Street. Next step is financing the purchase of 41 trees for sidewalk planters. Carhart, who reviewed the committee's project with another committeeman Roger Nelson at Monday's meeting, said the tree project would cost about $1,230 and hopefully, would be paid for through contributions from service groups, businesses and individuals.

Other plans on the drawing table are buying waste receptacles, furnishing public off-street parking, building rest rooms and fixing up closed alleyways in the business district.

Each step will take time to organize and present to the businessmen for approval, Carhart said. Of course, the major problem is financing, he added.

Carhart said the committee which includes Dale Gutshall, Jack March and Wayne Wessel, is hoping Wayne merchants would take the initiative to buy receptacles already viewed by members. The 30-inch by 30-inch containers would cost between $100-$200 each. Plans are to have three containers per block.

On the subject of public parking, Carhart said the improvement district could be used as a vehicle to securing private property that later would be secured for parking.

As a group, the committee would "keep its eyes on property," but it wouldn't be able to buy it. Carhart proposed that a group such as Wayne Industries would purchase the property and hold it until the committee could get enough businessmen together to buy it.

"There are a lot of things to do. The questions are how much and how fast," he said.

Social Security Business Can Be Handled by Phone

Most people can conduct almost all of their Social Security business over the telephone, thus avoiding a possible long wait in the office. Dale Branch, Social Security district manager in Norfolk said today.

Almost anything from applying for benefits to reporting lost or stolen check can be done over the phone. Branch listed the following services that can be taken care of by phone:

- Apply for Social Security of supplemental security income (SSI) payments.
- Apply for Medicare.
- Change of name or address for social security records.
- Report change in marital status.
- Report that person has stopped or started work or to report other events that may affect checks.
- Report lost or missing social security or Medicare card.
- Get help with filling out Medicare claims form.
- Arrange for direct deposit of monthly checks.
- Request a statement of earnings.
- Find out if a particular health care facility takes part in Medicare.
- Get help in requesting review of the decision made on a claim.

Individuals can also call to get information or publications about social security, Medicare, or SSI.

Branch gave these tips on getting the best service from Social Security.

- Don't call during the first week of a month. This is the time checks are issued and social security offices are especially busy and a person may have trouble getting a call through.
- Unless a person's business is urgent, Branch suggested that or she wait until the middle of the month to call. The later in the month the call is made, the better the chance of making an immediate connection.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped, but many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept 5145, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, 60646.

Getting Ready

SIXTY-SIX first grade youngsters from West Elementary School were dressed up either as Indian or pilgrims Tuesday of last week, before they got together in the school's auditorium to celebrate their own Thanksgiving Day. For the occasion, the youngsters made butter and corn bread for the feast. Prior to the meal, "Pilgrims" Kelly Fleming, top left, and Doug Larsen worked on their hats in Mrs. Judy Koenig's class. Meanwhile, 10 youngsters from Mrs. Donna Mallette's class formed a circle to sing Indian songs. Also participating in the fun were boys and girls from Mrs. Sue Larsen's classroom.

Emphasis Wanted on Foreign Languages

Though about 90 percent of the world population speaks a language other than English, the United States is the only major country that does not promote the learning of a second language. According to Wayne State College language instructor Maria Grovas, "Wherever you go in the world you will find people who speak more than one language, but not in the United States," she said. Grovas said the low emphasis on languages is ironic, considering the United States is becoming increasingly dependent on foreign trade. The U.S. had a foreign trade deficit of more than $9 billion in 1977 alone as Americans increase trade with foreign countries. "I try to stress that my students should be aware of the importance of Spanish in the future," she said, "because we are trading more and more with foreign countries and Americans must be trained to communicate with these countries." Grovas said many opportunities exist for people with foreign language skills, including business opportunities in Nebraska. A 1977 survey of businesses in Nebraska, a state with a two percent Spanish-speaking population (about 75,000), by the Nebraska State Department of Education showed that 34 percent of all surveyed would hire employees with foreign language skills. Another 51 percent would hire those with foreign language skills if they were available. The study indicated that 42 percent of the surveyed industries would be interested in employing those with Spanish speaking abilities; 29 percent French; 16 percent German and 13 percent Japanese. The largest number of those jobs (32 percent) would be for conversational abilities, 30 percent would be needed for composition abilities; 25 percent translation and 23 percent technical. In summary, 59 percent of those surveyed indicated a foreign language would be a definite career advantage in their employee's business careers. Dr. Kurt Kraetschmer, WSC German and French instructor, said the overall neglect in the foreign language field has hurt Americans in total knowledge of the world. "If today's students study a language, they will be competent and knowledgeable in history and economics as well," he said. "I think students benefit greatly in their other course work when they study a language." Kraetschmer said the market has been good for foreign language graduates. Wayne State placed 100 percent of all 1977 German and French graduates. Kraetschmer said a good way to learn a language is to travel in a foreign country, studying different languages and different cultures. He said WSC has had good success countering the trend of neglect in the foreign language field through programs such as college-offered summer tours of up to 45 days in Europe during summer months;

a new German television class and through individual attention to student needs. "We can pay attention to each student," he said. "They sometimes just do not have the opportunity to talk to professors in larger schools. The individual attention is important to a foreign language student. We want to keep students interested in languages," Kraetschmer added.

The largest bell ever cast is the Ozar Kolokol in Moscow, weighing 200 tons. Though it was made in 1733, it has never been rung.

The first necessary to provide electric service to buildings under construction. That work must be done regardless of the fate of the plan to bury service wires, he said.

Brink did call him to say the project had been defeated at one point and the only other engineering done was necessary to integrate the plans for buildings under construction into the electrical system, Armstrong said. Russell said the project carries a cost estimate of $40,000 not including labor, which he said would push actual costs to about $80,000. The line to be buried would provide service to only 13 residents, he pointed out, and the existing overhead lines have not deteriorated. He said the money would be better spent elsewhere in the city. His motion to rescind authorization for the project carried over nextive votes by Carolyn Filter, Darrel Fuelberth and Larry Johnson.

The council approved an ordinance providing for governance of the senior citizens center. The ordinance in effect abolishes the existing advisory board. It provides that the center coordinator will work under the direction of the city administrator.

Opposition to the proposal failed to materialize although Russell said he hopes center members understand that they will no longer be self governing.

A number of people attending the meeting expressed support for the plan, and for coordinator Joceli Bull. Included were Gladys Petersen, an advisory board member and the center's first president; Barbara DeWald, Pastor Doniver Peterson, and the Rev. Ken Edmonds, also an advisory board member.

In other action the council: — Defeated a motion by Mrs. Filter to sound a city siren at noon and 1 p.m.

— Approved the appointment of Pat Gross to the library board, replacing Jim Strayer.

— Agreed that Brink city clerk-treasurer Bruce Mordhorst, and city engineer Bruce Gilmore should meet with financial consultant to discuss methods for financing a sewer interceptor line. It may be necessary to annex property on which the line will be built into the city so general obligation bond financing can be used.

— Discussed possible annexation of property into the city but took no action pending a recommendation by the city planning commission.

— Approved a resolution to sell three securities with a combined par value of $21,000.

— Asked city attorney Kem Swartz to prepare an opinion on the legality of using tax money to provide a $25 gift certificate for each city employee at Christmas, and to provide an annual Christmas dinner get together for the council.

Shooting

had been wounded until after the shooting was over and people began moving about. A doctor who was dining at the club helped many of the wounded, she said.

Police early Sunday morning arrested former mental patient Ulysses L. Cribbs, 23, of Omaha. Judge Theodore Carlson in a hearing Monday told Cribbs no bond would be set because he is charged with first degree murder. Cribbs is also charged with three counts of shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim. The World Herald reported Cribbs showed no emotion during the hearing and did not say a word.

Cribbs' attorney, Ronald Frank of the Douglas County public defenders office, Monday said he would not say whether he will request any type of mental competency hearing.

Cribbs, a Vietnam veteran, had been a mental patient for six years. He is reported to have been drawing a 100 percent disability check for his military service. Tim Joos will graduate from WSC in April. Classes Monday and Tuesday seemed different for him, he said. "After what happened, some things just don't seem as important as they did before."

And although the members of his family apparently won't suffer any lasting disabilities from the wounds, there may well be some long lasting effects. "We're pretty well recovered now," he said. "A lot of it is in our minds. The memories..."

Thought for Today
By Brian McBride
"Let us be of good cheer, however, remembering that the misfortunes hardest to bear are those which never come."
Lowell
We suffer many anxious moments anticipating trouble which never materializes. The sweating out of possible misfortunes is often more tortuous than misfortune itself when it comes, if it indeed it comes at all.
We should reserve our anxiety for misfortunes which have found us; many will prove to be sidetracked short of our doorstep. We can be more effective dealing with actual problems if our time is not wasted fretting over what may never happen.
When a death happens, you will find our experience and friendly counsel to be reliable and comforting.

ETHEL DORING

Both Father, Daughter Are Bucks Winners

Winning consolation prizes in the weekly Birthday Bucks contest seems to be a family thing for father Ernest Siefken and his daughter, Ethel Doring.

Several years ago Siefken won the $25 consolation prize for his birth date being the closest to the winning date, and last Thursday night his daughter followed suit by winning $25.

Mrs. Doring of Wayne was at Jeff's Cafe when the winning date of June 15, 1943 was announced. She was only five days away from winning the $325 jackpot.

Drawing the winning date was Germaine Kaup of Kaup's TV Service.

Tonight (Thursday) another drawing will be held and the winner will be announced in all participating stores at 8:15. As a result of no one winning the grand prize last week, the amount will go up $25 to $350.

Bowen Chosen Alaska Teacher Of the Year

It may take a few more years for Paul Bowen to gather as many honors as his grandfather, former Wayne State professor Oran Bowen, but he has a very good start.

Professor Bowen taught at WSC for over 40 years and has a building (Bowen Hall) named after him. Paul, a resident of Petersburg, Alaska, has also been following a teaching career and was recently selected Alaska "Teacher of the Year" for his efforts in education.

Paul has served as president of the Associated Teachers of Petersburg Organization and also served on the executive board of the National Education Association of Alaska. He gave up a career as petroleum geologist to become a teacher.

Bowen's philosophy on teaching is nearly identical to his grandfather Bowen's, who believed in the abilities of students.

"Young people are our greatest natural resource," Paul said on a resume he submitted for the Alaska teaching honor. "I believe that if I give personal attention to individuals, they will become contributing responsible citizens; first to themselves and then to their community and country. Time and understanding are important to prepare young people to become who they are and why they are."

Bowen has taught in Petersburg for 15 years and has developed the first geology and survey classes in the school. He has served as a city councilman for three years, is active in the Democratic Party and has worked as chairman of the planning and zoning commission in Petersburg. He has also served on the Alaska State Environmental Quality Board.

His father, Paul B. Bowen, was a 1925 graduate of WSC and later graduated from the UNL School of Law.

Neligh senator wants study on control of gambling

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — It won't be long before Nebraska's lawmakers convene their 1978 meeting, and one of the items at least some of them believe should be studied is the control of gambling.

During a recent meeting of the Judiciary Committee, there was testimony that loopholes in the Nebraska Constitution preclude the effective control of games of chance.

The constitution prohibits the legislature from authorizing gambling, although exceptions are made for pari-mutual wagering and lotteries, raffles and bingo games conducted for community improvement or charitable purposes.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said it appears that under present gambling laws, slot machines are legal. He cited an attorney general's opinion to back his statement that punchboards, so-called "pickle" chances and slot machines utilized for charitable purposes are within the law.

A study of the opinion, however, showed that wasn't necessarily true. It says there is no way of determining how the State Supreme Court would rule on the question.

At the same time, the opinion recommended legislative action to clear up the slot machine issue.

DeCamp proposed replacement of the gambling statute written into the criminal code. Under his plan, three categories of illegal gambling would be established.

Wagering $1,000 or more would be a felony while betting between $200 and $1,000 would be a misdemeanor. Wagering less than $200 will also be a misdemeanor but would have a lighter penalty.

Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, chairman of the committee, said the problem is the constitution because it forces the unicameral to write laws forbidding gambling for one organization while allowing it for charitable groups.

DeCamp said the committee is going to have to reach a decision on what it considers appropriate penalties for various gambling violations and then follow through with a bill in the 1978 session.

Help for Veterinary School

The Old West Regional Commission has offered another $313,000 to proceed with a project aimed at opening a regional veterinary of medicine school.

The commission represents Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana, and Wyoming.

Members of the organization, a joint federal-state group made up of the five governors and a federal co-chairman, voted 4-0 recently to appropriate the funds for a school at Lincoln.

The money would be utilized to develop firm plans for legislation that would get the school established. Those plans will be ready for the various legislatures in January 1979, according to Gene Ingold, director of programs for the commission.

Currently, students of veterinary medicine must go outside the region for their training.

Ingold said the veterinary school has been in the planning stages for three years. He said students would attend their home state universities the first year, the next three at the Nebraska school, and part of the fourth year at their original university.

Some Nebraska lawmakers have taken a wary view of the proposed regional school. Those legislators have claimed there is no apparent shortage of veterinarians, and they have questioned the cost of setting up and staffing the school.

Budget Hearings Begin

True to his word, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly has gotten the Legislature's Budget Committee off to an early start in its work on the budget. Lawmakers will be asked to approve next year.

Right off the bat, the committee was advised that requests from the state agencies for general fund money are for 16 percent more than was budgeted for this year.

The agencies have asked for nearly $577 million, compared with slightly more than $485 million they were allocated this year.

Fifteen governmental departments asked for $531 million while other agencies proposed they be given $45.8 million.

Warner said recently he expects that whatever appropriations bills come out of his committee, they will be able to be accommodated by revenues from the new — and lower — tax rates that will go into effect Jan. 1.

The State Board of Equalization had reduced the state sales tax from 3.5 to 3 percent and the state income tax from 18 to 16 percent, beginning next year.

Warner indicated at the first pre-session meeting of his committee that it could easily agree on spending requests over which it has no control because the expenditures are fixed by statute. Those kinds of appropriations account for about one-half of the general fund budget, he noted.

Warner also suggested tentative agreement could be given to some of the budgets calling for increases and to some of the state agency budgets. He recommended that the committee also make decisions on priorities.

The State Department of Education's request include an extra $20 million in state aid because the budget was prepared before enough signatures were collected to put the $20 million question on the ballot in the 1978 general election.

The University of Nebraska, which always gets the biggest allocation from the general fund, is in with a request for $114.3 million, up more than $13 million from what it received this year.

Ward Opened

A 22-bed ward at the Lincoln Regional Center has been opened to help provide facilities for State Penitentiary inmates in need of psychiatric care.

Announcement of the arrangement was made during a meeting of a special committee studying comprehensive health care at State Corrections Department institutions.

The Legislature this year appropriated $227,122 in the corrections budget for improving medical services at the various facilities under the department's supervision.

Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook, chairman of the committee, said his visits to the penitentiary and the reformatories indicated to him conditions have worsened through the years. He added he did not see how new facilities, some of which are being constructed, could cause a "180-degree turn for the better."

That comment was made before he learned about the 22-bed ward for prisoners at the regional center.

Among the subjects discussed by the committee was the possibility of having the University of Nebraska and Creighton, medical schools establish residencies in psychiatry at the penal complex to help relieve the acute shortage of psychiatrists. Dr. Kenneth Reighter, medical director of the complex, said he has on psychiatrists to serve a population of 1,350 — many, many more than Federal Bureau of Prisons standards allows.

Reighter said he cannot get a psychiatrist to stay long enough to set up a program because of lack of sufficient funding and the conditions he has to work under.

He said he would like to have three psychiatrists.

It was agreed by those at the meeting that the penitentiary is far short of staff or space for taking care of inmates with severe psychiatric problems.

It was suggested that a sound psychiatric and psychological assessment of convicts should be made when they come to the penal institutions so a better determination could be made of the type of treatment they should receive.

That won't happen, unless a proper staff of professionals, administrators and employees is hired, according to Dan Griepentrog, planning administrator for the Corrections Department.

Lots to be thankful for

Wayne

Dear Editor: This season of Thanksgiving and Christmas is a beautiful time of the year. It is a special time for us to look in retrospect to the ways God has blessed us as an individual, as a family, as a nation.

At times some may feel they have nothing for which to be thankful. Our family has just seen our mother released from 4 1/2 years of physical suffering. Many times during this time, we have asked ourselves, "Why must this be?"

During this time, mother was confined to the Wakefield Hospital and the Wayne Care Centre. As weeks and months passed we became increasingly aware of the blessings that were ours in the care given. The doctors, nurses, and aides have provided 24-hour care unselfishly. At times their service was not always pleasant to perform.

Christ speaking in the Sermon on the Mount said, "Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy." Surely those staffing our hospitals and care centers can claim this verse. We praise God and thank him for the untiring care and compassion shown mother by the nurses and staff at the hospital and the Wayne Care Centre. — Merle and Donna Ring.

Nov. 27, 1952: Clearing skies Wednesday brought an end to a two-day storm highlighted by Tuesday's blizzard that isolated Wayne and surrounding towns. Gale-like winds drifted the four-inch snow and blocked all roads leading to Wayne. . . Installation services were held Sunday afternoon for Rev. Roy Beckmann, new pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Carroll, who with his wife and daughter arrived last Monday from Genoa, Colo. . . David Ratzlaff, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ratzlaff, Wayne, has been named one of the finalists in the Pillsbury fourth grand national baking contest. He will go to Waldorf, Astoria, N.Y., Dec. 8 to compete in the final bake-off.

Leshner lashes Humphrey-Hawkins bill

One of the endlessly fascinating variations of the legislative game is to take a bill that is symbolically important, but bad, remove the stuffing, and pass the shell. Thus, the symbol is preserved, the harm that might be done is minimized, and those groups that supported the original bill can devote themselves to putting the stuffing back a piece at a time through future legislation.

The revised Humphrey-Hawkins bill is a perfect illustration of this process. The original Humphrey-Hawkins bill would have frightened even GOSPLAN, the agency responsible for mismanaging the entire Russian economy. It contemplated central economic planning, wage-price controls, an impossible-to-meet level of percent unemployment, and public service jobs for all who need one, at rates of pay above that available in private industry.

Those goals sound public-spirited enough. But no one knows how to attain them, and the price of trying would probably be the destruction of our economy. There are certain grim trade-offs that we haven't learned how to avoid. Among them:

— Lowering unemployment below its "normal" level (now believed to be about 5.5 percent) tends to increase inflation, because wages are big up by employers competing for scarce labor.

— Expensive new government programs, such as public service jobs, either increase inflation or raise taxes. And tax increases tend to cause unemployment, because less money is left in private hands to create new jobs.

— Attempts to fight inflation by wage-price controls tend to cause shortages. Eventually shortages cause unemployment and blackmarkets.

All of this — and more — was the promise of the original Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

But now there is a new Humphrey-Hawkins bill. It is guaranteed to be milder than any other leading brand, get teeth whiter than white, leave no dulling soot film, and go 30 percent farther on a gallon of gas.

Its unemployment target is four percent, rather than three percent. Its timetable for reaching that level is five years, rather than 18 months. It disavows economic planning and directs the president to draw up an economic plan; it orders him to increase employment and lower inflation simultaneously, but doesn't say how; it favors removing obstacles to capital formation, but does not remove any.

At best, it won't solve the unemployment problem. At worst, it might push inflation into the 10-20 percent range and require tax increased of at least $500 per family. The outcome would depend on two factors: How seriously the president tries to achieve his goal of four percent unemployment, and by what means, and how successful its proponents are at putting the stuffing back in.

Our unemployment problem is aggravated by three factors. The first is the unprecedented surge of women into the workforce, the second is a very high rate of joblessness among black teenagers, and the third is a series of welfare programs that reduce incentives to be productively employed. Underlying these superficial factors is a bewildering array of government tax and regulatory policies that inhibit capital formation and investment, the ultimate source of all new jobs.

Given a little enlightened help — or even the absence of government interference — the private economy will generate jobs for all who are capable of filling them. Seven million new jobs have been created in the last two-and-a-half years alone.

For those who are not capable or not willing, the answer is job training and welfare reform. It would also help if we didn't increase the minimum wage to levels that price the unskilled out of the market.

As the Washington Post puts it, "The remedy for unemployment is the slow, tedious process of lifting the pace of economic growth. That's doing it the hard way, but there isn't any other way." — Richard Leshner, U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Thoughts on the farm strike

American Agriculture of Nebraska is urging farmers to join the planned nation-wide farm strike on Dec. 14.

According to a news release distributed by the Nebraska chapter of the American Agriculture organization, a farm rally is planned for Dec. 10 at the Nebraska Sports Complex in Lincoln, beginning at 1 p.m.

The rally will be preceded by a parade of farm vehicles and horsemen in downtown Lincoln which will begin at 11 a.m., eventually heading down 17th Street and on to the complex.

According to the release, "American farmers and ranchers are interested in producing food and fiber for the people of our country. However, the family farm can no longer continue to produce food for our people due to the depressed prices our government has set for the next four years."

The farm strike has spread to about two dozen states with members demanding 100 percent parity for their products and vowing to halt production, cease purchases of equipment, and boycott business and organizations which do not support the strike.

The farm strike is a heck of a good idea, which probably won't work because too many people think it is a heck of a good idea which probably won't work.

A seeming contradiction, perhaps, but there are several good reasons for the opinion.

The idea of organizing farmers to force acquiescence to their demands isn't a new one. It seems simple enough on the surface. After all, if labor unions can get their way by refusing to make cars, farmers should be able to get their way by refusing to grow food. After all, you can drive last year's model a little longer, but you have to eat, right?

Well, yes, but there are a couple of fundamental differences which make it difficult for agriculture to duplicate labor's efforts at organizing.

The first is geography. Labor, when organizing, enjoys the benefit of concentration, with workers employed at central locations, and living largely in metropolitan areas.

Farmers, in contrast, are self-employed, each doing his own thing on farms spread across the broad expanse of rural America. That alone makes it hard to get an effort at effective organization off the ground.

Still, farmers have organized to some extent for cooperative buying and selling, so why hasn't anyone ever been able to put together an organization in which farmers use labor tactics like the strike to eliminate the situation where others sell prices for agricultural products with the farmer pretty much taking what is offered?

Economics make it difficult for the farmer to employ the methods which have proved effective for labor. The union member who goes on strike will suffer loss of personal income during the time he is out on strike, but usually has little or no capital invested in the industry which employs him.

The farmer is self-employed, usually with a tremendous investment in the land, equipment and other tools of production necessary to make a living. When a farmer goes on strike, he loses not only the money needed to support his family, but the money needed to meet farm debt obligations.

Also, a laborer who goes out on strike can generally expect to go back to work whenever the negotiations are settled. A farmer who "supports" the strike and doesn't plant stands to lose a full year's production.

Still, despite those difficulties, an effective coalition of farmers may eventually arise. It seems unlikely a political solution will ever be found to relieve the hard pressed family farm. Regardless of how hard they work, congressional delegates from farm states are outnumbered.

Efforts are being made to educate the urban consumer about the farmer's plight, but it is a case of too little, too late. (The recently defeated beef referendum seems to indicate farmers place little confidence in the ability of such efforts to provide any solution to their problems.)

A farm strike will probably be effective only when enough farmers think they have more to lose by not striking than by striking. Only the farmer can answer that question, but with the talk of commodity prices being less than the cost of production, perhaps the time is now. At any rate, we wish the farmer well in reaching a decision. — Jim Strayer.

Farm-urban understanding is needed

A great gulf of ignorance exists between the rural and urban segments of this nation and unfortunately that gulf includes people who head the various branches of government.

Evidence of this are the conflicting rules and regulations which have streamed in recent years from agencies of the federal government. Arbitrarily, government agencies like the Food and Drug Administration restrict and ban chemicals and drugs that have been used beneficially in agricultural production for a quarter of a century with no apparent concern as to the effect which such action will have on the nation's food supplies or the added costs which will result both to producers and consumers.

Purpose of the annual Farm-City Week observance is to create better understanding both ways between farm people and urban dwellers. The lack of understanding is much less in farm states like Nebraska, Iowa and others in the great American "breadbasket." Urban dwellers in such states may know little about agriculture but most are close enough to it to appreciate that their economic well-being is directly affected by how well our predominantly farm-oriented economy is doing.

The problem is to reach the vast numbers of people in the metropolitan and industrial sections of the nation who have rarely traveled beyond their areas and have never actually been on a farm. A recent traveler came back to Nebraska from an extensive tour of eastern United States with its small farms and industrial complexes and shook his head, "Those people have no concept of the vast food productive capacity of the Midwest."

An overwhelming majority of the U.S. Congress is controlled by representatives from such areas. It is the reason that members of the Nebraska delegation — Curtis, Zorinsky, Thone, Smith and Cavanaugh — are so frequently on the losing side in matters of social, labor, environmental and tax legislation which are rammed through Congress by the urban majorities. Those who complain that the recently-passed 1977 Farm Act is inadequate need to recognize that only yeoman work on the part of farm state representatives made it come out as well as it did.

The Clean Water Act passed by the Congress several years ago sets an unrealistic goal of "zero pollution" by the year 1985. Even in the most primitive state, there was soil and water pollution from natural causes. The Missouri River was the "big flood" when only the raincoats roamed its banks. Even the most conscientious farmer-conservationist cannot guarantee that rains of the dimensions which visited parts of Nebraska this summer will not carry sediments and manure from his croplands and feedlots into the creeks and rivers.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland is a farmer and knows the realities of farm life firsthand. But he has no control over what the heads of other departments of government may be supporting and promoting which may have direct and indirect consequences for farmers and ranchers. The embargoes placed on the export of farm commodities several years ago by the previous administration were crippling to U.S. agriculture. They resulted from political pressure applied by labor unions and consumer groups demanding a cheap food program. Some of those same advocates now talk piously about "saving the family farm."

Electricity Use On Farms Rising

Farm use of electricity has increased 135 percent, but electric bills have nearly tripled since 1959, according to a USDA survey.

In 1959, electrical consumption on farms ranged from 265 kilowatt-hours per month in Louisiana to 2,500 kilowatt hours in California, with an average of 58 KWH per month nationally. This year, the range is from 780 KWH monthly in West Virginia to 4,700 KWH monthly in California, with the national average 1,311 KWH monthly per farm.

In 1959, monthly electricity bills ranged from $6.40 per farm in Tennessee to $32 in California and averaged $12.56 nationally. This year, monthly electric bills range from $25.50 in Tennessee to $197 in California, with a national average of $48.10 per farm.

Household spiders are one of the most common pests in Nebraska. Most of the spiders found in this state are quite harmless. Only a few spiders are considered dangerous, and will not bite unless disturbed or irritated.

BLACK WIDOW

The black widow spider is fairly common in the southern part of Nebraska. The bite of the black widow usually is not fatal and about 95 percent of persons bitten will recover from the bite in two to five days.

The male spider is a rather small, inconspicuous creature and does not bite. The female is a vicious biter and derives her name from her habit of killing and eating the male after mating.

Female black widows are glossy black, about one half inch long across the body (about one and one half inches including legs). On the underside of the abdomen she has a bright red hourglass shaped figure.

As with other spiders, she goes about her business of capturing insects in her web unless disturbed by man. If the web is touched, she will immediately come out and bite the source of the disturbance. She is particularly irritable when she is guarding an egg case or when young spiders are hatching.

Black widow spider webs are

Survey Shows High Potential For Corn Borers

A survey by University of Nebraska Northeast Station specialists shows a high potential for European corn borer damage to corn during the 1978 cropping season, based on an anticipated high overwintering population of borers.

More than 90 percent of all plants in fields surveyed were infested with second brood larva, with some fields averaging almost eight borers per plant. Overall, Northeast Nebraska sustained a 94 percent infestation rate with 3.2 borers per plant going into the winter.

found in protected places, both outdoors and indoors. Hollow stumps, wood piles, electrical conduit boxes are common habitats. Indoors, look for them behind stacks of wood or boxes, and in crawl spaces and basements.

BROWN RECLUSE

The brown recluse spider is sometimes found in southern Nebraska. These spiders are rather small, light brown, about one-half inch long and have a darker brown fiddle-shaped marking on the top, near the head. Although harmless looking, these spiders can produce a very painful wound.

The area immediately surrounding the bite reddens, or indurates, and then gradually darkens as the flesh dies. The flesh often needs to be removed by surgery. Treatment is effective and fatalities are few.

Spiders are not difficult to control. Simply spray around door frames and window ledges where spiders enter from the outside and around the base plates and between joists where spiders build webs.

Governor: Use Grain As Bargaining Tool

The use of plentiful U.S. grain to barter in the world market, especially for oil: a firm federal policy to help assure that prices received by farmers do not slip below the cost of production and an exit by the U.S. State Department from the arena of establishing national farm and food policy.

These were the main ingredients of a prescription offered by Nebraska Governor J. James Exon to cure the current ills of American agriculture. Exon spoke at the annual Farm-City Week Breakfast Nov. 22, sponsored by Lincoln area Kiwanis Clubs. Farmers, ranchers and agribusinessmen were guests at the fete, including the Paul Grabowski family of Beatrice, the newly-named Lincoln Journal and Star Honor Farm Family.

Exon said the present and previous administrations have been "shortsighted" on agricultural policy. Citing the recent proposal to cut down on the number of U.S. agricultural attaches around the world, the governor said in his view "every time our government tries to do something it penalizes agriculture."

Exon was critical of many observers who he said continue to urge "getting government out of agriculture." Emphasizing that he does not favor the government "telling people what to do," the state's chief executive said the state's chief executive said government intervention, but not control is needed because of the worldwide market for farm products.

Reporting on a recent trip to Switzerland with other governors, Exon said the Swiss government supports a price of $11 a bushel for wheat to producers. The (European) Common Market countries he said, subsidize their growers on a scale of $5.50 to $6.50 a bushel.

U.S. growers do not need this high a support price, but they do need an assurance that prices will be high enough to exceed costs of production and provide some return on investment, he said.

"All farmers of America want is a chance, they don't want a handout," he said. Noting that Canadian producers' wheat is sold through a national wheat board, Exon recommended that Canada and the U.S., two of the world's major wheat producers, get together to set a wheat price that is equitable for producers.

Exon referred throughout his talk to farm policies advocated by nationally syndicated columnist and economist Elliott Janeway, and boosted Janeway's thesis that the U.S. should use grain to bargain for oil.

He called for "the intelligent use" of farm products for barter, commenting that the U.S. "traditionally has relied on cash transactions. He said the failure to use U.S. food as a trade tool to build and maintain a favorable balance of trade "would be throwing away a golden opportunity to make the (U.S.) dollar what it once was."

Exon identified in his opinion "one of the real problems today" as that of the U.S. State Department setting agricultural policy. "We must get the State Department off the back of agriculture," he said. The State Department's "cheap food policy" cannot be used as a tool for peace if it penalizes U.S. farmers, he stated.

Scouring what he sees as a tendency for people to "let down" in the face of the knotty, continuing farm income problem, Exon said "things just do not straighten out by themselves." Turning to Beatrice dairyman Grabowski, Exon said dairying is one segment of agriculture that proves what can be done through cooperation between agriculture and government. He said milk marketing plans assure dairy producers of recovering costs of production and some additional returns. A stability has been achieved in the dairy sector, he said, which he considers as a must not only for farmers, but also "for all of us whose future is bound up in agriculture." He said the "extreme ups and downs" of farm prices must be eliminated.

Alfalfa Test Results Revealed

Alfalfa is called the "Queen of Forages" and Nebraska is a leader in alfalfa production, so it is important to evaluate new alfalfa varieties, said Russell Moomaw, agronomist at the Northeast Station near Concord. Alfalfa yield trials are conducted annually in several geographic areas of Nebraska. The number of alfalfa varieties on the market makes it impossible to test all varieties in all years, observes Moomaw. However, careful study of result from the Nebraska alfalfa variety performance tests should identify some alfalfa varieties with good potential for Nebraska producers.

variety performance is to compare a given variety with the yield of check or control varieties. Using this measure of performance, we can identify some alfalfa varieties which yielded very well in 1977. These varieties were Americana 7519, Apollo, Atlas, Baker, C.W9, Discovery, Fame, F-350, Gladiator, Klondike, Olympic, Pacer, Pioneer 530, Valor, Vanguard, Wilstar 951, and WL 318.

NebGuide G77-357 is available at County Extension Offices.

Baker is a new alfalfa variety released by the Nebraska Experiment Station. Baker is a winter hardy variety with long herd averages 455 pounds of butterfat, with silver bars awarded for each subsequent five years that the herd averages 460 pounds of butterfat or more.

Lawrence Sprouls, another Wayne farmer, received a gold award for his herd which averaged 648 pounds of butterfat last year. Gold awards were present for herds with single-year butterfat averages of 570 to 707 pounds.

Silver awards (520 to 569 pounds) were presented to Ronald Kittle of Winside and Jack Langemeier of Wayne. Kittle's herd averaged 544 pounds and Langemeier's herd averaged 535 pounds.

Kittle's herd is Gurnsey; the others mentioned are Holstein.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Joycelyn Smith

CHILDREN NEED TOYS

Toys are the tools of a child's play. A child learns to investigate, discover, explore, experiment, and create with toys.

Children use toys to learn about their world by imitating things they see around them. As a child tries new ideas, he gathers more new ideas. He learns new enjoyments; his motor skills increase; and he finds new ways to express his feelings.

Toys bring children together and develop their social skills by having ups and downs in sharing.

Play should provide a variety of activities for children. Toys chosen wisely will help satisfy children's desire to develop abilities, increase motor skills, gather and use information and ideas, express their feelings and develop their communication skills.

Playing also helps children make and strengthen social relationships, to understand their world, develop hobbies and gain an appreciation of their surroundings.

Most of all, children learn to have fun with toys.
