Brink: One-Six Year Project Can Boost East Side

If the Wayne city council adopts the one-and-six year improvement program as it now stands, the east section of the city is sure to get a shot in the arm when it comes to growth, both industrial and housing.

Among the top priority projects for 1978 are a paved road from Highway 35 north to Providence Medical Center and new storm sewer along East Seventh.

Those two projects alone aren't enough to open up a horizon of housing and industrial starts, said city administrator Fred Brink, but they are keys to helping the east end of the city develop into an attractive site.

Brink, in an interview Friday, said that the council will not act upon the proposed projects, designed from 1978 to 1983 until the council meets on Tuesday, Jan. 10.

The administrator emphasized, that any part of the proposed programs can be changed before the fiscal year, but as it stands now six major projects are in line for work next year.

Besides the two mentioned, another project includes paving, curb and gutter of Grainland Road from Maple to Blaine. The estimated $37,000 road work will be able to be completed this year because the county will share part of the costs, Brink said.

Also planned are: a storm sewer from the railroad right-of-way south to Logan Creek; off street parking behind the city hall on Third and Pearl Streets; and concrete, paving, curb and gutter of 200 feet of south

Windom Street to the railroad right-of-way.

The updated one-and-six year improvement program is submitted to the State Department of Roads as part of the department's requirement in order to secure state and federal funds, Brink explained. "There's nothing really binding, but we just have to give some thought to future years," he said.

About expansion east of town, Brink went on to say that the area likely will see a 20-acre housing development next year that will make way for about 50 new homes.

In addition, he said, the new sewer interceptor line which hopefully will be finalized in the near future, will make the city more attractive for industry.

Other projects tentatively on tap for the future: 1979 — Widening of Pearl Street from Fifth to Seventh; improving the intersection on Pearl, and concrete paving of Fairgrounds Ave and South Nebraska Street to South Windom.

Only one project thus far is planned for 1980 and 1981. In 1980, the council will give some thoughts to the widening of Logan Street from Fourth to Seventh Street, and the following year discuss improving Seventh Street.

Brink emphasized that work on Seventh Street could range from just filling in chuck holes to widening the city street which links Highway 35 running east and west. He pointed out that there are no concrete plans at this time on exactly what work will be done on Seventh.

The final two years of the program, 1982-83, call for maintenance only.

Johnson, Hansen Get ASC Posts

Alden Johnson of Wakefield and Norris Hansen of Winside were re-elected chairman and vice chairman respectively Thursday of the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation and Service committee for Wayne County.

The two will serve a three-year term along with newly-elected board member Erwin Morris of Carroll. Morris replaces Ralph Olson, also of Carroll.

Elected as alternates to the county committee were Henry Arp and Dean Owens, both of Carroll.

Wayne, Dixon Eligible for Aid

Wayne and Dixon Counties are two of 24 Nebraska counties which are eligible for loans from the Small Business Administration for damages sustained during last summer's hail, wind and rain storms.

The U.S. Agriculture Department declared the counties disaster areas and Wednesday the SBA followed suit by making available low-interest loans to repair physical damage to homes and small businesses, and economic damage to businesses.

According to Rep. Virginia Smith, the Agriculture Department's disaster declaration supplied help only to farmers, while the SBA action will extend assistance to homeowners and small business operators.

Information on loans may be obtained from the SBA office in Omaha.

Helping the Project to Grow

'If That Crazy Concorde Crashes into Bowen Hall, I'll Just...'

Editor's note: The following article was written by a Wayne State student who takes a humorous look at the distant possibility of England's supersonic transport, the Concorde, landing at Wayne's municipal airport.

By JIM KOUELKA

The Concorde SST landing at Wayne Municipal Airport? As absurd as it may sound, there has been word around the campus of Wayne State College, and this Northeast Nebraska community of 5,380 of such a possibility.

With the SST's recent debut in New York City causing such a clamor, there has been speculation among students as to the effect the jet would have on the placid Wayne vicinity.

"If that crazy 'SST' crashes into Bowen Hall, then the 300 foot escape rope my mother macramed isn't worth a darn."

The SST has also been criticized because of its huge size and massive wing span. With the airport so near to the city itself, a nearby pizzeria could easily be clipped off in one swipe, making "orders to go" a frightening reality.

Reports from an undisclosed source say a political group opposed to the SST landings. BTSSTFLABHAW, (Ban The Supersonic Transport From Landing Around Bowen Hall And Wayne State), is planning an activist rally for next week.

When an official for BTSSTFLABHAW was asked for comment, he replied, "When you have a group with a name that long, who needs to make a statement?"

Others are also concerned with the SST landings, although for different reasons. A group of middle-aged elementary education commuters from Norfolk support the SST. They think Bowen Hall should be torn down to make more parking available, and the bricks could be used for flower pots around campus.

A group of safety education students is interested in digging a hole and sinking Bowen Hall, making the ninth story on ground level, out of the path of the plane.

And one girl thought she'd probably buy the record because it had a good beat and was easy to dance to. (She obviously misunderstood the issue at hand.)

As much of the SST landing at Wayne is mere conjecture, many questions can't be answered. And one wonders, whether the SST, or this article, for that matter, should have ever been created.

Gradually Starting to Take Shape

FRAMED through a cement building block, workmen at the site of the new building for Columbus Savings and Loan work on installing several of the roof frames. The project started several weeks ago at the building's site on Seventh and Lincoln Streets. The new business building is one of two now under construction in the city. Along Main Street between Fifth and Sixth Streets, work already is underway to build Wittig's new food center which also will include Griess' Rexall pharmacy.

Red Cloud Man Is Hired By Chamber, Industries

A 26-year-old native of Red Cloud will take over on Jan. 1 as executive vice president of Wayne Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Industries.

He is Gary Van Meter, who currently is in public relations working for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha Insurance Companies.

Representatives from both the Chamber and Wayne Industries made the official announcement Saturday, ending a four-month long search for a Chamber replacement.

Meter will take over for Chamber manager Howard Witt, who stepped down from that post at the end of September. Since then, the Chamber has been operated by the staff and members of the Chamber's board of directors.

Members of the Chamber and Wayne Industries decided to jointly seek a qualified person to manage both operations, and therefore share the $15,500 salary to be paid to Van Meter.

Following his graduation from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1973, Van Meter began working with the Omaha insurance firm where he advanced to regional supervisor for the midwest. In addition to being in charge of group products, Van Meter also directed group seminars for incoming salesmen.

Van Meter is single.

Study: State Households Receiving More Tax Help

More than one-third of Nebraska's households are receiving some tax supported income supplement, according to findings of the 1977 Nebraska Annual Social Indicators Survey (NASIS).

Information on income sources obtained from a representative sample of Nebraska households found that the major income assistance for Nebraskans came through Social Security.

It was also discovered that one-person households were the most likely to receive income supplements, followed by households comprised of a woman with dependent children and then those of several relatives living together.

Dr. Alan Booth, professor and chairman of the Department of Sociology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, analyzed the NASIS findings in a report entitled "Tax Supported Income Supplements and Nebraska's Poor."

"Many of the tax dollars Nebraskans pay to the federal government come back in payments for public assistance in the form of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Supplemental Security Income, Social Security, railroad retirement, veterans' benefits, unemployment insurance or workman's compensation.

"However, a substantial number of households receiving these benefits still have very low incomes, and despite the extensive coverage of these programs there is a segment of Nebraska households (six per cent, 31,278) which do not receive supplements although they have incomes below the poverty level," Booth noted.

Booth reported that the approximately 35 per cent of Nebraska households receiving a public income supplement get it from these sources: Social Security, 21 per cent; veteran's benefits, six per cent; unemployment of workman's compensation, five per cent; Supplemental Security Income, three per cent; Aid to Families with Dependent Children, one per cent.

Herald Invites Kids to Enter Coloring Contest

Area youngsters who like to color will again this year have an opportunity to display their artistic talent by entering The Wayne Herald's annual coloring contest.

All area children, up to and including eighth graders, are invited to look in the Thursday issue of The Wayne Herald this week and enter the contest simply by picking a holiday greeting advertisement from the paper, coloring it, and sending or bringing it to The Wayne Herald office by noon on Tuesday, Dec. 27.

Contestants should include an entry blank along with their entries. The entry blank will be printed on a full-page advertisement in Thursday's paper which will explain this year's coloring contest. Winners will be announced the following issue of the paper.

There will be two divisions in the contest: Division I for youngsters in kindergarten through third grade, and Division II for youngsters in fourth through eighth grade. An $8 first prize, $5 second prize and $3 third prize will be offered in each division.

Contestants may use paint, crayons, pencils, glitter or other media to enhance their choice of holiday greeting ad. Judging will be based on originality, neatness, accuracy and appearance of the entries. Youngsters can have their parents help them select which advertisement to color, but youths must do all of the coloring themselves.

WISNER GOT a first-hand taste of what it was like Friday night to play catch-up ball against Wayne High's fast-breaking offense. Coach Bill Sharpe's team jumped to six-point leads in the first half, then blew the game open in the last two periods with 15-point leads before recording their second win against three losses. Leading one of the Devils early breaks is John Keating (22), left, who gets help from teammates Brad Emry (40) and Tom Ginn (44). On the right, Dean Carroll drives around a Gator defender as he penetrates the middle.

Those Fast-Breakin' Devils Dump Wisner for Second Win

By BOB BARTLETT
There were some good points and bad points in Wayne's 67-63 victory over a tall Wisner-Pilger club Friday night.
For the first time in five games, Wayne hit a high of 43 per cent of its shots from the field, canning 22 of 51 attempts. On the minus side, the locals turned over the ball the most they have thus far — 28.
Add it all up, though, the win was a big plus in the Blue Devils' comeback after three opening losses.
The Devils, now 2-3 took con-rol of the game and made the visiting Wisner quint play the style of game the locals can handle. Wayne ran with the ball and forced Wisner to run as a result of a harassing man-to-man full court press. And Wayne's collapsing zone defense forced the taller Gators to go outside for the basket — something no coach of a big team ever thinks of doing to win a ball game.

"We had to make them run and use our press," a happy coach Bill Sharpe pointed out. "Otherwise, Wisner with its height would be a power club — too much for our shorter people to cope with."
Wayne boxed up the middle so tight that a feather wouldn't fit through — including Wisner's lanky club which desperately tried to crack through.

The Devils were able to break away from a 35-31 halftime lead with a fast break after they established confidence in themselves, Sharpe said.
Vic Sharpe, who glided past Wisner defenders, sank most of his game-high 20 points up the middle. With 5:24 left in the third period he put his club in front 43-55 on a driving two-pointer and later sank another shot for the home team's biggest lead of the night, 49-35.
Wayne's second leading point-maker of the night, Brad Emry, got the bulk of his 16 points in the first half, swishing the nets for 12 points.
Wisner got its points from Jeff Heinhold with 22 points and Tim Harder with 10. However, Lynn Spilman's other point producer, Jeff Beckman, was held to only four points.

After a slow start early in the game, the Devils began to show fans by halftime that Wayne is a much-improved ball club, both offensively and especially defensively.
Wayne contained Wisner's big men, 6-5 Phil McQuire and 6-4 Jeff Heinhold, preventing them for the most part from scoring easy inside shots. The Gators went to the outside several times to sink 15-footers, but that kind of shooting didn't hold up all night.
Wayne first took the lead, 3-2, on John Keating's free throws — one area the Devils profited from in the first two stanzas.
Keating went to the line late in the first period for an 11-7 Devil lead before the home team finished with 17-11 output at the end of the first period.

Wisner caught fire in the second period behind the shooting of Heinhold who sank an inside layup with 4:19 left in the first half for a 23-all score.
Sharpe and Emry put together back-to-back baskets to put their club in front again, 27-23. Emry, who was fouled while driving in for the score, cashed in on a free throw for a 29-23 cushion.

But Heinhold, who played more aggressively later in the first half, hit another basket with 2:19 left to again tie the game at 29 apiece.

A basket by Emry and a pair of two pointers by Sharpe once again had Wayne in front with a six point lead, 35-29. Just as the buzzer went off, however, Heinhold hit a turnaround jumper for a 35-31 Wayne lead.
Wayne scored seven of its 17 points in the first half from the line, but relied more heavily on its fielders in the second period to stay in front.

Times Switched
The starting times have been changed for the Wayne-Laurel eighth and ninth grade basketball games at the Blue Devils auditorium.
The freshmen will play at 4:30 and the eighth grade will start at 5:30, said coach Duane Blomenkamp. An earlier schedule had the times switched.

Lyons Gets Coble's Vote As Top Club

Wakefield basketball coach Joe Coble casted his vote Friday for the top club in Northeast Nebraska.
The top recipient in his log has to be a tall, young and scrappy Lyons club which plastered Coble's Trojans, 93-53, to rack up the most points scored against a Wakefield clan under the head man.

"They just killed us under the boards," Coble confessed, adding that his team's defense is obvious — "our people just aren't getting the job done."
The main reason why Wakefield had trouble stopping Lyons was 6-6 junior forward Jeff Hayes who pumped in 21 points in the first half and 19 in the second for a game-high 40 points.

Teammates Jim Gustafson and Jim French added to the cause. Gustafson, a 6-1 forward, poured in 26 points while French, a 6-1 guard, contributed 10.

Wildkittens Hit Western

Wayne State gals made their 1977 Central States Conference debut a good one, Thursday, defeating Missouri Western, 70-59.
The Wildkittens, in winning the league title last season, were forced to beat the Lady Griffins in order to secure the title.
Chuck Brewer's Kittens, now 5-2, led handily all the way in this game. The score was 33-23 at halftime and soon played the majority of the second half.
Connie Kunzmann once again was the Kittens' team leader, scoring 32 points to raise her season's average to near 23 points a game. Kunzmann also pulled down 20 rebounds, making this her best game of the season.

Lori Langel broke out of her scoring slump by scoring 15 points in the second half. Langel finished the game with 17. Julie Brinkman kept on her steady track with 10 points and six assists.
The Wildkittens shot 42 per cent from the field for the game.
Wayne was scheduled to host South Dakota State University Saturday, then travel to Chadron to play in the Chadron State Invitational Tournament Dec. 28-30.

State Residents Will Receive Tax Forms in January

State tax commissioner William Peters announced that the 1977 Nebraska individual income tax return, Form 1040N, is being printed, and Nebraska residents will receive their income tax booklets the first week of January.

There are three significant changes on the 1977 Return:

First, due to the change in the federal tax tables, it will now be necessary for most Nebraska taxpayers to use the Nebraska Add Back Tables to determine their Nebraska income tax. The Nebraska add back tables are designed to add back federal tax credits to the basis for computation of the tax. The Nebraska individual income tax is based upon federal income tax liability before allowance of any tax credits.

Secondly, two additional categories for food sales tax credit have been added by the Legislature. Children living with an individual for whom the individual receives Aid to Families with Dependent Children (ADC) may be claimed for food sales tax credit. Children living with an individual who are claimed as federal exemptions on a non-resident's 1977 federal income tax return may also be claimed for food sales tax credit. These persons are entitled to the full $20 food sales tax credit.

The last change is the tax rate which is 18 percent of the federal individual income tax liability before allowance of any tax credit.

Peters said that taxpayer assistance is available at the State Office Building in Lincoln, or at regional offices in Scottsbluff, North Platte, Grand Island, Norfolk and Omaha.

A taxpayer assistance office is open on Monday and Friday, only in Columbus. In addition to these locations, the Nebraska Department of Revenue will provide taxpayer assistance at the IRS taxpayer assistance offices in Lincoln and Omaha. Taxpayer assistance is available within the State of Nebraska by using the toll free number 800-742-7474.

WS Student Among Top College Brass

When Roger Kuhlmann graduated from the Onawa, Ia., High School in 1973, he never thought he would soon be serving as a band administrator for the Nebraska state college.

Kuhlmann, 23, is the Wayne State College student board representative to the Nebraska State Colleges Board of Trustees. He represents the Wayne State students on all matters discussed at the monthly Board of Trustee meetings.

The board is made up of 11 members, appointed by the Governor, including four non-voting student representatives from each of the state colleges. They are nominated by the four student senates and final selection, based on those nominations, is made by the Governor.

The board meets about 12 times each year, holding at least one meeting on each campus. The remaining meetings are usually held in Lincoln, the home of the Board's central office. Kuhlmann attends all board meetings, except during summer months when he works.

Kuhlmann said even though student members do not vote at board meetings, their comments are important in board decisions.

"They (the board members) have to believe that we are there for the same interests as they are," Kuhlmann said. "For the benefit of the colleges, the community and the state of Nebraska, not our own self-interests."

Kuhlmann said he was interested in the position because he saw the chance to help the students of Wayne.

"Basically, I was encouraged to try for the position by a couple of student senators," he said. "I was not sure at the time what all was involved in the job, but I saw it as a chance to help my peers and a chance to understand the state colleges better."

Kuhlmann, a senior chemistry and education major, has been active on the college cross-country and track teams, the Lettermen's club, Circle-K and dorm council. He has also served as a resident assistant, assistant dorm director and is currently a student senator.

He said that although his responsibility as a board member is to try to represent the Wayne students as a majority, student ideas and responses are sometimes difficult to foresee. He cited the recent tuition increase by the Board of Trustees.

"I really thought I would get a big response to that," he said. "But there wasn't even a rumble."

Though Roger has many student concerns to present to the Board, he said a major concern has been the issue of whether or not to allow alcohol on state college campuses.

"A lot of time and work has been put into circulating opinion polls at the college and each time, of the three or four issues listed, the alcohol policy is always first," he said.

Roger said he thinks his experience in working with students and as a student board member will help after graduation next May.

"Some of the students coming to Wayne are just out of high school," he said. "They are the type of people I will be working with when I graduate. The board experience gives me the chance to work with administrators and if you are going to work in education you have to work with administrators. I guess you could say I am getting experience working with both ends of the spectrum, students and administrators."

Students Go Shopping for Paints 'Let's See, to Make Blue I Need a Few Berries.'

The beginning art class students at Wayne State College have been doing a lot of grocery shopping lately, but the organic food they buy is not always eaten.

The classes have been using an ancient method of making their own paints for art works. The class has boiled everything from frozen blueberries to fire root used by early American Indians to make their paints.

The process involved boiling organic materials in water, making a mush, straining the mixture until it is a fine liquid and adding phenol to preserve the organic paints.

"One student forgot to add the phenol," WS art instructor Dick Lesh said. "She had a cat that would go up and smell her painting; she couldn't keep the cat away from it because it smelled the organic paints. The phenol prevents it from spoiling just as regular food needs preserving."

Lesh said the process provides the student artists beautiful colors not obtainable commercially. "Each one is different," he said. "Each has a different color quality that you just cannot buy anywhere."

The college class has used many different materials in the paint making process. Lesh said they have used such things as soy sauce, tea, coffee, frozen berries, walnuts and just about anything they could get their hands on.

"You can even use things like ketchup," Lesh said. "There are a lot of organic things that people usually do not think of in the context of art supplies."

The students experiment with the different dyes, checking the colors before using them for paintings.

The class has used several methods of applying the paints. In addition to the regular brush methods, they have used straws to make unusual splattered patterns; plastic wrap to make different shades in the paintings and rubber cement coatings to protect certain areas from surrounding paint.

"You just rub the rubber cement on a colored area," Lesh said. "Then you put on a second coat, wait for it to dry and rub it off and the area is protected from being colored again."

Lesh said the students "get a kick out of the class" and learn from experimenting with the old methods.

"These things open up a fantastic different area in art rather than just the conventional water color class using brushes and regular paint," Lesh said. "We use these methods just to show students that they do not have to be stuck with regular tools."

Study

ient households reported supplemental income from two or more sources, with the most reported as three.

"Analysis of the households receiving Social Security shows that they tend to be more concentrated in rural areas where a significant portion of Nebraska's elderly reside," Booth said. "Households receiving other types of benefits seem to be more often in urban areas. Those receiving multiple help are not concentrated in any particular part of the state."

In respect to adequacy of the programs, the NASIS found that in 17 per cent of the households receiving income supplement from one source and in 28 per cent having two or more sources, income remained below poverty level. Among those with two sources the median annual household income was only $6,400, or about $560 per person. Booth said that households receiving each type of income supplement were compared with those that did not in order to estimate the effect of these payments on financial security. It was found that households receiving Social Security, Aid for Families with Dependent Children and Supplemental Security Income payments were much less well off than those not receiving these supplements.

One-third of the households receiving income from Social Security and Aid for Families with Dependent Children and more than one-fifth of those in receipt of Supplemental Security Income had incomes below the poverty guidelines. Only ten per cent of the households not receiving income from these sources had incomes so low. "These differences are reflected in per capita median income figures," Booth said. "The per capita median income of households receiving Social Security was only 67 per cent of that not using this supplement. In the case of Aid for Families with Dependent Children, the per capita income was only one third of those not receiving that supplement. The comparable figure for Supplemental Security Income was 75 per cent." Booth concluded that despite the numerous income supplement programs available, many people, especially the elderly, are still below poverty level.

The Mayor stated that according to published notice, it was now time to consider objections and the adjustment and equalizing of the assessments for the construction of improvements and work incidental thereto in Improvement District No. 77 and Street Improvement No. 77. The Mayor asked the City Clerk if any written objections had been filed with him.

The City Clerk reported that no written objections had been filed in his office relative to said Improvement District No. 77 or Street Improvement No. 77.

The following property owners appeared before the Council and made verbal objections:

The Clerk reported that the Abstractor made an error on the front footage of the property owned by Edward and Amelia Rathman. Instead of 140 feet of frontage, the Rathmans have only 85 feet. The Clerk noted that their assessment should be lowered from $127.40 to $77.35.

After having fully considered the objections and the adjustment and equalizing of assessment, the following resolution was presented and read by the Clerk:

RESOLUTION
BE IT RESOLVED by the Mayor and Council of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, that after full consideration of the objections and the adjustment and the accompanying plats showing the assessments proposed to be made for the cost of constructing improvements in Improvement District No. 77 and Street Improvement No. 77-1 filed in the office of the City Clerk on the 25th day of October, 1977, the filing of which notice has been published as required by law, and of the objections to the assessments shown in said schedule as follows:

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the said schedules of assessments and the accompanying plats, be and the same are hereby approved as herein corrected; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the said schedules of assessments and the accompanying plats, be and the same are hereby assessed and levied as a special tax against and upon each of the lots, parts of lots, and parcels of land liable to assessment for the cost of said improvements, and the owner or owners thereof located in said Improvement District No. 77 and Street Improvement No. 77-1, as shown in said plats and schedules, and the respective sums expressed in figures set opposite to each of the special benefits conferred upon the property, said assessments being levied

GUARDIANS OF THE PLAINS

Windbreaks catch snow which means more moisture next growing season.

It has been an exceptionally good year for growing crops in most areas of the NRD. This takes memories and talk of the "dust bowl days" of the 1930's far from the mind, but there is a growing fear that this may again become a reality. Windbreaks are the guardians of the plains, preventing this from happening.

Many windbreaks planted during the dust bowl days are now being removed. A recent survey of four counties of the NRD (and Antelope County) showed that between 1955 and 1976, 39 percent of the forested acres, in plots larger than one acre, were removed. This doesn't include the many windbreaks smaller than one acre that have been removed.

BENEFITS OF WINDBREAKS

1. Windbreaks reduce wind erosion of top soil, a major source of air pollution in rural areas and a drain on soil fertility.
2. Field windbreaks are snow catches that increase the soil moisture available to the next years' crop.
3. Field windbreaks can reduce the moisture lost from the growing crop caused by the wind.
4. Windbreaks can provide important livestock protection.
5. Windbreaks can save up to 28 percent on home heating and cooling bills. They can also provide wood for heating.
6. Windbreaks provide much needed wildlife habitat and add beauty to the landscape.

DESIGN

Modern windbreaks with five rows of a mixture of hardwoods and conifers are as effective at reducing wind velocity as old windbreaks with 12 rows of hardwoods. This leaves more land for production, and windbreak plantings can be designed to fit almost any situation — field, farmyard or livestock.

RENOVATION

It isn't necessary to remove mature windbreaks when the trees begin dying. In most cases these belts will have young trees coming up in the understory. Systematic removal of the older trees, while promoting the growth of the young ones will result in a windbreak that will last forever.

ESTABLISHING A WINDBREAK

Rural landowners are encouraged to contact their County Soil Conservation Service to help design a windbreak and select the best species adapted to your soil and moisture conditions. At that time, the trees can be ordered and planting and weed control can be scheduled.

Trees available under the Clarke-McNary program are now on sale. Stock may be purchased in lots of 100 per species through your County Agent or Soil Conservation Service. Get your orders in early as some species run-out fast. A broad range of trees and shrubs are available this year to design a planting suited to your needs.

Clark-McNary trees and shrubs this year cost $14.50 per 100 mailed to your home. The Lower Elkhorn NRD will plant these trees on request at a cost of 9c per tree, plus 7c per tree for spraying with herbicide. The minimum charge is $40.

Cost-sharing is available in many counties, to rural landowners both for planting new windbreaks and the restoration of mature ones. Contact your County ASCS Office to see if cost-sharing is available in your area.
