'Farmer Will Make or Break Strike'

The nationwide agricultural strike now in progress hinges on one thing, John Hansen of Newman Grove told a group of about 30 persons Friday night at the Wayne city auditorium.

CHARLES BARNES

Iowa Man Is Editor Of Herald

Charles "Chuck" Barnes of Audubon, Ia., has been named editor of The Wayne Herald, according to Al Cramer, Wayne Herald publisher and president.

Barnes will take over today (Thursday), replacing Jim Strayer who resigned three weeks ago to take a public relations post at Platte College in Columbus.

Barnes, 47, has more than 20 years of experience in the community journalism field. He has been active in all aspects of community journalism and has earned several personal credits on both state and national levels.

The Kansas native most recently served as assistant to the publisher of the Adams County Free Press, located in Corning, Ia., home of the National Farmers Organization.

Prior to that, he published an award-winning weekly newspaper at Audubon, Ia. The paper was recognized for general excellence by the Iowa Press Association. In addition, Barnes has received personal honors for photography, column writing and editorials.

Barnes is a veteran, serving as public information officer under Maj. Gen. Lucas Spragg and President of the United States Dwight D. Eisenhower. He was graduated from Kansas State University, receiving a bachelor of science degree in technical journalism.

The new editor has been active in community affairs, civic groups and church leadership. He has participated in an ex officio position with the Iowa Development Commission in publicizing the award-winning Sell See Iowa promotions.

Barnes is married and he and his wife, Helen, have three children: David, a junior at Iowa State University; Brenda, a freshman at Iowa State University; and Bradley, a freshman in the Audubon Community High School.

His family will join him this spring.

Eight 4-H'ers Picked to Go To Washington

Eight Wayne County 4-H'ers have been selected to attend the 4-H Citizenship Short Course at Washington, D.C. in June.

They are Anita Sandahl, Susan Rethwisch, Gloria Splittgerber, Kurt Wittler, Dianne Puls, Sandra Bull and Penny Roberts.

In addition to attending the week long course, they will tour the Northeast United States and southern part of Canada. Each 4-H'er also will receive a partial scholarship from the Wayne County 4-H Council.

Other 4-H'ers from Thurston, Cedar, Dixon and Dakota Counties also will be making the trip.

who is going to make the strike work or fail, and he has no one to blame but himself if he doesn't go through with the strike to better himself and the future of farming; the speaker said.

Hansen, along with two other strike supporters, outlined a bleak future for farming unless farmers do something now to change their course. He warned of a possible depression if the plight of the farmer does not improve. "As the farmer goes, so goes the economy," he stressed.

The purpose of the strike, he continued, is to make Congress, the President and American consumers aware of the needs of farmers to stay in business. The buying power of the farmer has slipped, resulting in the farmer investing more and getting back little in return, Hansen noted.

To offset this imbalance, farmers in the strike movement are asking the Federal government to create and enforce a law which would give farmers 100 percent parity for their agricultural products.

Hansen cited parity tables dating back to 1910, showing that farmers today are receiving only 65 percent parity for their products. That compares to about 58 to 64 percent parity farmers received during the depression, he pointed out. "Our buying power is shot," said Duane Eggers of Tilden, one of three panelists who spoke in behalf of the strike.

In 1977, farmers invested over $700 billion, Eggers went on, but the return income was only $10 to $11 billion. Four more years of this type of expenditures and incomes, and no one will be in business, he said.

"Farmers have been producing for less than their incomes for a long time," Hansen said, and now it's time to do something about it.

To make the strike work, farmers should buy as little as possible, avoid expenditures and sell as little as they can, the panelists pointed out. The group added that the American Agriculture strike is not an organized body of farmers who have to pay dues and elect officers. Rather, it is a group of farmers who can make it work if they stick together and talk with fellow farmers to encourage the strike, Hansen said.

Minor Damage

A fire about 7 p.m. Sunday at the Leonard Jacobsen farm about a mile south of Concord did minor damage to a hog house.

The fire, believed to have started from an overheated lamp, charred several boards before Concord volunteer firemen extinguished the blaze, said fire chief Bud Hanson. The hogs were saved.

Friday night's meeting in Wayne was the first time farmers in this area got a first-hand look at what the strike is about and how it will or will not work.

Talks Saturday

A 345,000 volt power line proposed to run through parts of Wayne, Dakota, Thurston and Stanton Counties will be the topic of discussion Saturday at the Wallhill American Legion Hall.

A three-man panel composed of a construction manager for NPPD, an attorney representing some of the affected landowners and a Minnesota farmer who is involved in fighting construction of a power line near his home will open the public meeting beginning at 4 p.m.

This is the first non-NPPD sponsored meeting on the power line, and is aimed at answering questions affecting landowners who object to the line.

THIRTEEN year old Shorty, a brown and white haired dachshund, rests comfortably at home after the long ordeal early Dec. 19 when he saved the life of his master, Mrs. Virginia McCain. Shorty discovered that gas fumes from an oil heater were escaping into the air and quickly alerted Mrs. McCain of the danger.

"If farmers believe in themselves, it will work," Hansen reiterated.

Brink: City Is Financially Sound, Solid

The City of Wayne has the distinction of being one of the top cities in the state to have a government that is financially stable and sound, said city administrator Fred Brink.

At the weekly Wayne Kiwanis Club meeting Tuesday, Brink pointed out that credit for the city's well being goes to former city clerk-treasurer and the town's first administrator, Dan Sherry, and the present treasurer, Bruce Mordhorst. The administrator went on to say that it is due to their wise management and investment that the city is in as good a shape financially as it is.

Looking over some of the city's accomplishments, Brink pointed out that the controversial contract with Nebraska Public Power District has been a wise move by the mayor and city council.

The city leases its power plant facility to NPPD for about $300,000 a year, which is a big savings for the city compared to the cost of buying diesel fuel and operating the plant itself.

Brink, who has been administrator since October of 1973, said the city in return buys power from NPPD, but at a cost that is less than 80 percent of that total bill. Brink added that the estimated $400,000 cost for electricity from NPPD is an added savings for the consumer since the present cost of power on the east coast is 70 to 80 mills compared to 20 for Wayne residents.

The new trash compactor that will be in operation in the near future is another step which will save the city money, Brink pointed out. With the exception of $344 in permit fees, the city-owned landfill is supported by $2400 from taxpayers — and each year that amount increases.

Brink feels that the new compactor will eliminate the need to spend over $30,000 to buy land to relocate a new landfill.

Brink praised the city's street See BRINK, page 12

BETTER LATE than never is the best way to describe young Scott Frederickson's entry into the world. The new son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Frederickson of Carroll was due early last month, but ended up as the first baby of the New Year at Providence Medical Center. As a result of his late arrival, he won for himself and his family a bundle of prizes from Wayne merchants who sponsored the annual first baby of the New Year contest.

Carroll Baby Showers Family with Surprises

Little Scott Frederickson won't know until later in his life just what a surprise he brought for himself and his family by missing his expected December birth date.

The seven-pound, nine and a half ounce addition to the Jerry Frederickson family of Carroll was born at 7:42 p.m. Monday to become the first baby born in 1978 at Wayne's Providence Medical Center. And for the late comer and his family, Wayne merchants will shower the Frederickson family with gifts for being the first baby of the new year.

Young Scott will receive a baby book from Wayne Book Store, five silver dollars from Kugler Electric, shoes from Wayne Shoe Co., a toy puppy from Sherry Bros., $15 savings accounts both from State National and First National Banks.

About 2 p.m. Monday, Scott made it known it was time, and five hours later joined the Frederickson family.

"I thought we had a tax deduction," Mrs. Frederickson laughed. "Instead we have a New Year's baby."

Thone Tosses Hat Into Race for State Governor

Nebraska's congressman from the First District, Charles Thone, announced Wednesday that he will seek the Republican nomination for Nebraska governor.

Thone, who has served six years in the U.S. House of Representatives, is one of three Republican candidates seeking the governor's seat being vacated by Democrat J.J. Exon at the end of this year's term.

During a whistle-stop tour of nine Nebraska cities, Thone said that he will use his farm-oriented background to help restore Nebraska's agricultural economy.

High on the list of Thone's improvement package is further development of the state's gasohol program he introduced into the House for Federal support. Thone's amendment assures Federal guarantees for a good part of the private financing of four pilot plants to produce alcohol from farm products to use in gasohol.

The 54-year-old politician from Cedar County spent 11 years in a private law practice in Lincoln before he served on the staff of two Nebraska U.S. Senators. He also has served as assistant Nebraska Attorney General and deputy Secretary of State.

Thone, who is the only Nebraska member of the House Agriculture Committee, said in his first stop at Omaha that he intends to hold special meetings in each of Nebraska's 93 counties each year if he is elected governor. "These visits will be for the governor to listen — not to talk," Thone said.

Other Republicans who have declared their intention to be candidates for governor are Bob Phares of North Platte, Stan Juleff of Kimball and Vance Rogers of Lincoln.

Just Like the Rest Of the Country, Tax Load Is Increasing In Wayne County

For residents of Wayne County, is the cost of local government higher or lower than it is for people in other areas? What is their tax load, per capita, for the operation of their state and local governments?

As in every other section of the country, with the outlays for public services increasing year by year, the tax burden has been growing heavier.

The demand is for more police protection, better schools, improved health facilities, additional roads and highways, more welfare and a host of other needs and wants. All of which cost money.

The result has been, according to a national study by the Commerce Clearing House, an authority on taxes, that the cost of running state and local governments in the United States rose by an average of $67 per capita in the past fiscal year, reaching a new high of $731. As recently as 1970 it was only $427.

In Wayne County, on the basis of its figures and dates from local sources, such taxes come to approximately $680 in the year.

Elsewhere in the State of Nebraska, the average was $658, which was $81 more than in the year before. The tax load in the West North Central States as a whole was $668.

Unusually large welfare costs, special housing problems and other local conditions are the reasons for the high rates. See JUST, page 12

Vertical bands of Cluny lace trimmed the bishop sleeves and wide cuffs, and a band of matching lace formed an apron effect on the skirt front. Two wide bands of Cluny laced edged the hemline of the gown and the chapel-length train. Her double-tiered fingertip veil, edged in Cluny lace, was attached to a modified Camelot cap trimmed with matching lace and accented with seed pearls.

The bride carried a cascade of miniature burgundy carnations, pink bridal roses and white stephanotis accented with baby's breath, ivory princess roses and ivory bridal streamers.

The bride's attendants wore floor-length gowns of ruby velvet, fashioned with a square neckline accented by a wide band of ivory Cluny lace and a narrow satin ribbon tie. The slit cap sleeves were edged with matching lace. The empire waistline was trimmed with an ivory belt and satin streamers. Each carried an ivory muff.

Blue Devils Regain Confidence with 56-55 Overtime Win

By BOB BARTLETT
Bill Sharpe had good reason to be a little tired Friday afternoon following Wayne High's 56-55 thrilling overtime win over Genoa.

It was the first time in eight games this season that the Blue Devils had to go into overtime to prove that their lack of height won't stop them from winning a contest.

Even more important, members of Wayne's 4-4 club showed to fans and themselves that they have the confidence to be a winner despite the loss of team leader Vic Sharpe who is out for the rest of the season.

Credit for the well-earned victory has to go to a bunch of gutsy underclassmen who overturned a 14-point second period deficit with a blizzzing scoring spree to take a one-point lead at the half, 29-28.

Genoa took a 13-9 first quarter lead, and with less than a minute gone in the second stanza scored 10 unanswered points for a 23-9 cushion.

Wayne then started to turn the game around when sophomore Randy Dunklau canned a 15-footer from the right side for a 23-11 Blue Devil deficit. From that point the picture changed for the locals, especially when Genoa lost the services of its big threat in the middle, 6-5 junior Randy Coleman who sprained his ankle.

With 1:50 left in the half, junior Tom Ginn brought his club within four points on a basket and a one-and-one conversion before Dunklau hit from the outside to narrow the gap to 27-25.

Ginn, who led teammates with 19 points, sank two more free throws with a minute left to tie the game. Junior Dave Ham then put Wayne ahead with one of four buckets in the afternoon contest.

The second half proved to be even more exciting as both teams battled back and forth. At one point early in the third quarter Wayne built an eight point margin, 36-28, on Ginn's basket.

Genoa (3-6) pulled within 42-39 going into the fourth quarter where 5-11 junior Tom Czaplak hit six points for a 48-46 Wayne lead. Jay Hagerbauer put Genoa in the lead for the first time since the start of the game when he made both free throws for a 52-50 score.

Wayne sophomore Jeff Zeiss, who sparked the Devils with six points in the fourth quarter and four in overtime, knotted the score with seconds left. Just before the buzzer, he stole the ball and lofted the ball from mid-court before the end of regulation time.

In the three-minute overtime, Zeiss swished the nets with a pair of 20-footers and Wayne held on with 1:38 left. Wayne 53, Valley 46.

Wayne broke away from a 22-all halftime score to top Valley for the Devils' first win of the tournament and Wayne's third season victory in seven starts.

Junior Al Nissen rallied the Devils with all 12 of his points in the second half as Wayne effectively employed its fast-break game for a five-point lead going into the fourth quarter.

Wildkittens Are Second At Chadron icy cold shooting in the second half doomed Wayne State Wildkittens to second place at the Chadron State Invitational Tournament.

Wayne lost to the University of Colorado, 56-47, in the title game of the tourney Friday night after leading 31-18 at halftime. The Wildkittens were seriously hampered by the loss of star center Connie Kunzmann with a knee injury the night before, but guard Julie Brinkman picked up the slack in the champion hill, scoring 17 points. She was so impressive, in fact, that she was named the Most Valuable Player of the Tournament.

Kunzmann was injured after five minutes of Wayne's semifinal game against Kearney State Thursday night. Brinkman scored 23 points to lead the Kittens and Lori Langel added 15 points in the 70-60 win over the Lopers.

In the tournament opener, Wayne blitzed Dickinson State (N.D.), 81-52, as Kunzmann, then at peak form, canned 28 points. Brinkman and Lori Erwin added 14 points each.

THREE VALLEY players close on Wayne's Dennis Carroll (15) as he tries to drive in for the two-pointer in the second game for the Blue Devils in the Wayne State tournament. Looking on is John Keating (23).

Wayne Gals Take Third in Tourney

Showing a lot of movement and using an effective first-half press, Wayne High girls moved back into the win column Friday afternoon by capturing third place in the high school girls division of the Wayne State Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Paced by three players in double figures, Wayne opened up with a 31-14 halftime lead over Bennington and coasted to a 63-50 decision for the locals' third win in five starts.

"We started moving the ball around for the good shots and that made the difference," said a happy coach Curt Frye who saw his girls' the day before look rather slow in their 52-30 loss to eventual division champ O'Neill.

Senior Sydney Mostey led the trio with 13 points followed by Lesa Barclay and Peg Pinkelman close behind with 12 apiece.

Wayne used a man-to-man halfcourt press to bother coach Gene Balkwin's girls, forcing them to give up the ball on turnovers. The Blue Devils capitalized early in the game to take a 13-7 lead going into the second quarter. Wayne continued its momentum with 18 points in the second period.

A total of 10 Wayne players saw action — one area that made coach Frye happy. Wayne girls, however, didn't see too much action at the free throw line. Bennington committed only four personnels compared to 16 for Wayne.

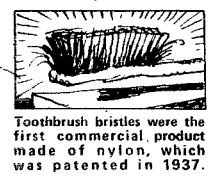

At the line, the Badgers made 17 of 20 tries while Wayne converted only one of six.

Against undefeated O'Neill, Wayne committed 26 turnovers and was able to make only 26 percent of its shots from the field.

"We just didn't move. I guess we weren't ready to play," Frye commented.

O'Neill, which finished the tournament with a 7-0 record, had no trouble hitting the rim, making 41 percent.

Mostey, who was named to the all-tournament team, accounted for nearly half of Wayne's offense in the loss to O'Neill Thursday. She scored 14 points. See WAYNE, page 5

Wildcats Snap Slump With Pair of Wins

Wayne State snapped a four-game losing streak and at the same time won its ninth Wayne State Holiday Tournament title by edging highly regarded Phillips University, 60-57, in the finals of the tourney Friday night. The Wildcats moved into the finals with a 91-81 win over Dana.

Coach Jim Seward's Wildcats, winning their first WSC Holiday title since 1975, hit on only 30 percent of their shots from the field and were held to their lowest point total of the season by a grueling Phillips zone defense.

Reserve forward Lew Sykes led the Wayne State offensive effort with 14 points. Joe Curl added 12, Lennie Adams, 11, and Dale Meyer, 10.

Phillips held the game's largest lead at 39-33 with just 14 minutes to play, but the Cats put on a spirited rally, tying the score twice inside the last five minutes, the last time on a bucket by Curl.

Adams then hit two outside shots to give the Cats a four-point lead before a pair of free throws by Meyer with 18 seconds left wrapped up the victory for Wayne.

Chris Beaudin led Phillips with 14 points. The Haymakers advanced to the finals by virtue of an 87-69 win over Marycrest College of Davenport, Ia.

Phillips led Marycrest by only 2-40 at halftime, but broke the game open with a 12-0 burst in the second half, putting the contest out of reach. Rick Graham led the Haymakers with 22 points.

Wayne survived seven first half ties against Dana to take a 53-46 halftime lead, then nursed the lead throughout the second half. Dana came within 67-63 on a basket by Serr but baskets by Wayne's Meyer, Joe Peitzmeier and Adam's free throws pushed Wayne's lead to 10.

Meyer led the Wildcats, now 5-4 on the year, with 21 points. Peitzmeier added 15 and Olsen 14. Mike Johnson led the Vikings with 16 points.

Marycrest salvaged third place in the tourney, downing Dana, 72-66. Scott Ruden broke a 60-60 tie with a basket with four minutes left and Anderson added two free throws to sew up the win. Rod Lee paced the winners with 17 points. Gustafson led Dana with 20.

January is Anniversary Of Late Poet Laureate

The 97th birthday anniversary of John G. Neihardt, Nebraska's Poet Laureate for 52 years, will be observed on Jan. 8.

Neihardt, who was well-known by his Sioux name, Flaming Rainbow, died in 1972 when he was nearing his 93rd birthday.

As a salute to Nebraska's late Poet Laureate, the Missouri University Press has published the second volume of Dr. Neihardt's autobiography, "Patterns and Coincidences." It is a sequel to "All is but a Beginning — Youth Remembered," published in 1972.

The poet died before the completion of the second volume. His daughter, Hilda Petri, added the final chapter. The books are due at the Neihardt Center in Bancroft by Jan. 8.

Another anniversary salute to the poet is the "Black Elk Speaks" production to be performed at seven Nebraska cities this month. The play will be staged in the Rice Auditorium at Wayne State College on Jan. 18. Neihardt claimed Bancroft as his real home, residing there from 1900-1921. The Neihardt Center in Bancroft was built in memory of the poet as a preservation of western heritage and Indian culture. The Center fosters understanding of the eventful period of American history beginning with the fur trading period of 1822.

The outdoor Sioux Prayer Garden symbolizes the religion of the Plains Indians with the same concept carried in the indoor Memorial Room of the Center.

Schools and libraries in Nebraska have been encouraged to promote the reading of Neihardt's books during his birthday anniversary.

Dixon Residents Trained in CPR

Twenty-seven residents of Dixon County were trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) techniques last month at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station, near Concord.

Purpose of CPR classes is to train persons to help keep heart attack victims alive until an ambulance arrives to provide professional life saving techniques.

CPR classes at the Northeast Station were taught during three three-hour sessions conducted the evenings of Dec. 21, 22 and 23, and the afternoons and evenings of Dec. 28, 29 and 30.

Certified instructors for the sessions were Anita Eckert of Dixon, who is a student at Kearney State College, Marilyn White of Dixon, and Art Barker of Wakefield.

Testing for the 27 Dixon County residents who received their certification was stringent. In addition to a written test, students were required to demonstrate proper CPR techniques on dolls in four practical exams under time limits. Situations simulated by the four practical exams included a witnessed cardiac arrest, an unwitnessed cardiac arrest, infant cardiac arrest, and cardiac arrest with obstructed airway.

Persons who were certified in the CPR basic life classes at the Northeast Station, and their towns, are:

Dixon — Mrs. David Abts, Mrs. Earl Eckert, Mrs. Larry Lubberstedt, Harold George, Marie George, Alice George, Sandi George, Vern George, Anna Borg.

Concord — Victor Carlson, Mrs. Irvin Haisch.

Laurel — Denise Magnuson, Colleen Qualls, Mrs. Dale Holcomb, Cynthia Strawn, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Young, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kvois, Howard Deltelsen, Mrs. Jim Urwiler, Tim and Tom Urwiler, Mr. and Mrs. David Carstensen.

Allen — Mrs. Merle Von Minden.

Emerson — Rita Donner.

Courses were arranged by Anna Marie Kreifels, area home extension agent at the Northeast Station.

December Vows Exchanged

Making their home at Norfolk, Va., are Lt. (j.g.) and Mrs. Kim Frederick Kline, who were married Dec. 17 in evening rites at Grace Lutheran Church, Wayne.

Mrs. Kline, nee Dobra Sue Mrsny, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mrsny of Wayne. She had worked independently at Pat's Beauty Salon in Wayne since last April. The bridegroom, who is the son of Anne Kline of Wakefield and Merwyn Kline of Omaha, is stationed in Virginia with the U.S. Navy.

Airman Todd Surber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Surber of Wayne, has been selected for technical training at Sheppard AFB, Tex., in the Air Force aircraft maintenance field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., and studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Surber is a 1973 graduate of Maurice-Orange City High School in Orange City, Ia. His wife, Judy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McClain of Wayne.

Events May Change Amounts of SSI Payments

Persons receiving supplemental security income (SSI) payments because they are 65 or older, blind, or disabled have important responsibilities in connection with those payments, said Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk.

They, or someone on their behalf, should report to social security any event that could affect those payments, Branch said. These events could affect a person's SSI payment in several ways. The payments could be increased, reduced, restarted if they were stopped, or stopped.

By promptly reporting these events, Branch continued, the person could avoid any possible overpayments, which might have to be repaid, causing a great deal of hardship.

Branch said these events are easy to report. All a person has to do is pick up a phone and call the social security office. Also, the changes can be reported in writing if that's easier.

The following items should be included in any written report:

— Separating, or living together following a separation.

— Moving into or out of another person's household.

— Admitting to a public institution, skilled nursing facility, intermediate care facility, or nursing home; or, if the person is a patient, when he or she is released.

— Changing income.

— Selling real estate or personal property.

— If the person is disabled, his or her condition improves, or he or she goes to work.

— A person 18-22 stops attending school regularly.

— And someone should report if a person getting SSI payments dies or becomes unable to manage his or her own funds.

— The name of the person about whom the report is made.

— Correct social security claim number under which payment is being made.

— Change being reported.

— Date it occurred.

— Signature and address.

Changes can be reported to the Norfolk social security office, located at 1310 Norfolk Avenue. The telephone number is 371-1595.

— Marrying, divorcing, annulment, or the person's husband

— Planning to leave the U.S. for 30 days or more.

— Marrying, divorcing, annulment, or the person's husband

— Changing in mailing address.

Award Presented Wayne Family

An award for money collected in Wayne during the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon held Labor Day weekend was presented recently to the Allen O'Donnell family of Wayne.

The award was presented by the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Occasionally we are asked, "Can I make my own funeral arrangements in advance, specify the funeral director, some details of the service, and place the funeral funds in a local savings institution?" The answer is yes, such prearrangement is feasible and we welcome your inquiry about it.

department, noting that it is one of the finest in the state. "You will not see another city cleaned as quickly or clearly as Wayne," Brink said of the crew's snow removal job.

On the subject of streets, Brink noted that the state has proposed widening of Seventh Street, but the proposal is "just a document." "It means nothing, just nothing," he added.

Brink figures that if any work is to be done on Seventh Street it will not occur until at least 1982, when construction crews have time to work on the project.

He added that he would like to see Seventh Street resurfaced, but not with the asphalt overlay the state used on Main Street last fall. Within the next three years, Brink went on, Wayne will see a lot of problems with the asphalt.

In many localities, despite higher taxes, the amounts collected were not sufficient to cover necessary operating expenditures with the result that they were forced to find new sources of revenue or go deeper into debt.

CAPITOL NEWS

LINCOLN — The 1978 Legislature is off and running, and the expectation is that the perennial issues — taxation, spending, school aid and water legislation — will again play a prominent part in the senatorial deliberations.

Add the fact that this is an election year, and the ingredients for an interesting session are present.

If all of the incumbents sought re-election, half of the Unicameral members would seek another term in this year's elections. But some of the veteran legislators have already said this will be the last time around the track for them. And some others are wavering.

Even so, legislative debate colored by political overtones can be expected because some of the lawmakers will seek to extend their service and some very probably will shoot for different elective offices.

Several of the oldtimers have said the $400 monthly salary is the primary reason they choose not to be candidates again. These include Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, who says he cannot afford to serve any longer, and speaker Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, who says simply: "Twenty years is long enough." He added no senator, unless he is comfortably rich, can afford to extend his stay in the Unicameral, especially during an inflationary period.

Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook says he'll forego another term because of the financial liability, and Sen. John Savage of Omaha felt about the same way.

Senators who live in Lincoln receive no expenses for the session. Those who live outside the Capitol City are paid for one round-trip annually at the rate of 16 cents a mile.

One senator who had been rumored as a possible Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, governor, Congress or the U.S. Senate, said last week he will try for a second four-year term in the Legislature.

Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus made the announcement during press conferences in his hometown and in his Capitol office. He told reporters he is convinced he can "more effectively work for the best interests of all Nebraska taxpayers in a nonpartisan role."

One of the most vocal conservatives in the Unicameral, Dworak said a stop must be made "to government's insatiable appetite for more and more of their (the people's) hard-earned dollars."

He said he will conduct a non-political, bipartisan poll among 2,000 to 3,000 taxpayers to determine how they feel about several options he will offer to them.

The Columbus legislator said his plan of action centers around one or possibly two amendments to the Nebraska Constitution, which would limit spending and higher taxes. And he said the plan would necessitate another petition drive to place the proposed constitutional change to a vote in next November's election.

Dworak was a leader in the petition campaign that suspended the 1977 state aid to schools law, pending a vote by the people in the 1978 general election.

Taxpayers, according to Dworak, have only two choices left — either take the initiative and assert themselves by relegating government to its proper role of "servant" or allow government to become a bigger and bigger "bully."

May Be Candidate

A North Platte livestock producer and auctioneer has expressed keen interest in becoming a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

He is Jim Baldrige, who described himself as "an agriculturist, who understands both the problems of agriculture and the potential of agriculture." If elected, Baldrige said, "I would hope to represent the people who produce agricultural goods and the people who consume food."

His candidacy would mark his entrance into elective politics, although he has assisted in the campaigns of Sen. Carl Curtis and Rep. Virginia Smith.

Baldrige indicated he would not shy from a show down with Gov. J. James Exon for the senatorial seat. Exon is expected to have no difficulty in getting his Democratic nomination.

Even though the governor claims to represent agriculture, "I doubt his qualifications to do so," said Baldrige, who added the Senate needs someone in it who earns his living from agriculture.

While attempting to explain how he would serve, the North Platte man said he would like to represent the state in Washington like Mrs. Smith represents the Third Congressional District. He said the congresswoman has time to talk with everyone and to represent everyone.

Gasohol Study Assigned

A Manhattan, Kan. company has contracted to make the much talked about gasohol economic feasibility study.

Development Planning and Research Associates, Inc., was selected from 16 applicants for the job and was directed to complete its work and issue a final report before next July 1.

The $53,395 for the study will be provided by the U.S. Department of Energy and the Old West Regional Commission.

During recent months, there has been considerable debate about the economic and feasibility of gasohol — a blend of 10 percent grain alcohol and 90 percent unleaded gasoline.

Among the issues covered in the study will be examinations of the specific price levels of both gasoline and agricultural products that would make the blended fuel economically practical; various plant sizes and locations; costs of distribution and marketing, and various incentives for gasohol production.

It was at Governor Exon's insistence that the study was authorized several months ago by the Nebraska Agricultural Products Industrial Utilization Committee, more commonly known as the Gasohol Committee.

There was sharp disagreement among the members about the need for the detailed analysis that the governor requested.

Short of Funds

It was announced recently the state is $8 million short in reimbursement money for counties, cities, school districts and other local taxing districts. But those subdivisions will almost certainly benefit from an increase in reimbursements for the 62.5 percent exemption on most personal property.

The state has estimated the exemptions would cost about $53 million for this fiscal year, but State Tax Commissioner William Peters said a number of factors, including more aggressive action by assessors, has moved the cost to more than $61 million.

Peters and Gov. Exon said they have little choice under the law except to add the additional funds to the current budget in a deficiency appropriations measure during this legislative session.

More Probation Officers

A special committee studying the state's correctional improvement program has recommended the hiring of more probation officers to handle specialized cases.

The committee, which had been asked to review community-based correctional programs, proposed a three-year plan to the Unicameral Appropriations Committee.

Acting Legislative clerk Patrick O'Donnell, the study committee's staff assistant, noted the suggestion to hire the additional officers is an "expensive proposition." But he said if they are not hired, "we're talking about keeping about 160 people at the penitentiary at a significant cost to the state."

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, chairman of the committee, said if the state cannot hire as many as 16 new officers, one for each probation district, it should employ as many as possible and the state probation officer should be allowed to locate them in areas where they could do the most good.

State Lawmakers Face Hot Issues During New Year

'Fast food' industry forcing drastic changes

By M.M. Van Kirk Director of Information Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation Continued growth of the nation's "fast food" industry is bound to force some drastic changes in production patterns and decisions by U.S. livestock producers, particularly in the cattle industry.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's economic research service has estimated that the number of meals being eaten away from home by the average family ranges from one-third to 4-in-10 and that by 1980 this percentage may be up to as much as one-half or more. Whatever the figures actually may be, the average American knows that there has been a phenomenal shift in eating habits and it is being felt by all segments of the food industry.

The fast food chains have done a terrific job of merchandising their products and their efforts have been augmented by social and economic changes. More and more housewives are holding jobs outside the home and after a busy day at work they have neither the time nor energy to prepare an "old fashioned" family dinner. The number of after-school and evening activities for younger members of the family has created more of an "eat and run" atmosphere in many homes on many nights of the week.

The "fast food" merchandisers have recognized that opportunities exist in the breakfast pattern and are pushing that sector too with innovations. After all, breakfast "on the run" is better than no breakfast at all. Perhaps after all, people are eating out more and enjoying it less.

Inflation has pushed up the cost of dining out with the family at the better restaurants which serve full course meals and provide special services to a point that large families can enjoy them only on special occasions. Once again the alternative is the fast food restaurant.

The phenomenon is showing up in the potential sales and profits of the supermarkets. It reduces the sales of quality steaks and roasts at the meat counter in particular but of all meat items generally. And the "speed meal" carries over into home planning too with emphasis on hamburger.

One of the most startling revelations by a fast food chain executive speaking recently here in Nebraska to livestock feeders was that most of his firm's astronomical purchases of hamburger meat is domestic cow meat from dairy farms. He pointed out that as their needs increase, his firm and other firms, will have to look to feedlot cattle as a source of supply and will prefer to do so rather than going to the imported beef market.

This lends weight to the admonition of beef industry spokesmen and leading producers who have been advising producers to identify their market and gear their production toward it. If the nation wants the bulk of its beef in the form of hamburger, then tailor production methods toward that market. There is no point in losing this market to Australian and South American beef producers who market their lean, grass-fed three, four and five-year-old cattle to fill this nation's hamburger meat demands.

The "fast food" change probably is involved in the increased worry of nutritionists concerning the U.S. diet and admonitions for increased use of vegetables and fruits and more balanced diets. Certainly the "eat and run" habits of a large segment of the population is not conducive to the concept of a well-planned meal served to all members of the family seated around a table in the home as once prevailed.

Food producers must recognize the changes and learn to cope with them.

OBSERVATIONS

You have the final say

By now most owners of real estate in town or in the country are starting to recover from the shock of their new valuations which have almost doubled from last year.

The blame for the sizeable increase doesn't fall on the county assessor's office, however, but at the state level where the reappraisal was required by law.

Most would have to agree that the state-wide reappraisals are necessary for several reasons. Mainly, to keep our tax base in line with property values, so you can get a better price for a farm or home.

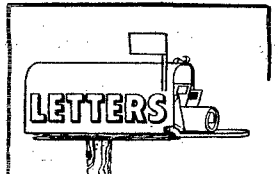

The question of equality across county lines no longer will pose a problem. For instance, suppose Wayne County had conducted reappraisal but Dixon County did not. It would be grossly unfair for residents of Wayne County school districts on the border to be taxed on a revalued rate, while Dixon County residents in the same district would be taxed at a much lower valuation.

With the new appraisal, it would seem that equality and state value-assessment value ration situations have been settled, at least for a couple of years.

Most property owners, however don't look upon the reappraisals as an argument settled, but rather a hike in taxes. Look again.

The values of land have little to do with the amount of money you pay in taxes. What really is important is the mill levy. Taxpayers have a voice when it comes to increasing or decreasing the amounts they pay by making known their feeling this summer when local taxing bodies adopt their budgets.

And while they are at it, it wouldn't hurt taxpayers to keep a close eye on their school, county and city boards also. The mill levy for these groups this year should be only about half of what it is currently, taking into consideration the inflation spiral that will make next year's necessary budgets a little higher. — Bob Bartlett.

Is this the way to treat a customer?

Dear Editor:

This past week I was very disappointed with one of the Wayne businessmen. I wanted to exchange a toy that my son received for Christmas. He already had the same toy. The toy had not been removed from the original box. When I walked in the store I saw a very large sign, "No toys returned without receipt." I did not have a receipt because it was a gift from someone else.

I first talked to a clerk who had only worked there a short time. I looked for someone else that may have worked there longer, but there wasn't anyone. I then spoke to the manager. The manager said he needed a receipt. Then that the toy I had in my hand was not purchased in his store. I left.

I called the person who gave my son the gift. It was bought there along with 2 more exactly like it and she knew the exact price. This was confirmed by another who had received one of the toys. Hers still had the price on it on a Gambles price sticker. I called the manager. He still refused to believe it was his stores product and very rudely hung up on me.

Is this the way he treats all his customers? — Mrs. Ron Hammer.

Lack of testimony hurt senator's bill

Dear Editor:

Last year I sponsored a bill which dealt with utility disconnection procedures. One of the provisions in the bill called for "proper notification" which would either be certified mail or a personal visit by the utility before a person's services could be shut off. Unfortunately, last year the bill was killed — one of the reasons was due to not enough testimony by individuals who had this happen to them.

Within the last several months stories and letters appearing in numerous newspapers, as well as personal testimony, has indicated this type of legislation is desperately needed. I am asking anyone who has knowledge of such information to call my office in Lincoln at (402) 471-2327, my home in Omaha at (402) 493-2174 or write me as soon as possible at the State Capitol Building in Lincoln, Room 1120. — Neil Simon, state senator.

Billy Carter: A different breed

By Richard Leshar President of the United States Chamber of Commerce

Every so often somebody gets rich quick with what appears to be a minimum of effort, because of a flash of inspiration, a rare talent, or a quirk of fate. It is always interesting to watch the public reaction to such occurrences.

Some people empathize with the fortunate one, and wish him (or her) well. These people figure that as long as neither force nor misrepresentation is employed, a free person in a free country has a right to make whatever the market willingly pays.

Others react with resentment and envy, but the envy is invariably secreted under a mantle of "social consciousness."

The get-rich quick types are ordinarily entertainers, sports stars, inventors, or authors with movie rights. But the most prominent example of the breed today fits none of these categories and is proving difficult for pundits to get a philosophical handle on. He's the President's brother, Billy Carter.

Billy was a successful businessman before his elevation to first family status. He is credited with turning the Carter peanut warehouse into a $5-million-a-year operation, and his famous gasoline (and beer) station seems to be doing quite well, too. But during the campaign, he discovered that his country bumpkin act is highly marketable. And now he is marketing it for all it's worth. It's annual worth is between $200,000 (Billy's version) and $600,000 (press reports). Brother Jimmy says he'd like to have Billy over to the White House more often, but can't afford his fee ($5,000 or so an appearance).

Billy evidently feels that since his reputation as an entertainer has been manufactured for him by others — including elements of the news media which now criticize him for "profiteering on the Presidency" — it would be a waste not to take advantage of it.

And in truth, he cannot be accused of consistent philistinism. He has spent his own money in an effort to prevent his beloved hometown, Plains, from becoming "the biggest junk shop in the United States," thus joining some practical experience in urban renewal and land use planning. He twice ran for mayor for the same reason. And on the occasion of his second loss, he issued one of the most refreshingly brief explanations for a political defeat on record: "I lost because I drink beer on Sundays and because I'm a Carter."

He has an excellent understanding of the relationship between federal policy and unemployment. Last May, when he was still running the peanut warehouse and processing plant, he told Nation's Business magazine that meeting the requirements of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration forced him to replace an old plant employing 35 people with a new one employing 15. And "every time the minimum wage goes up, we have to lay off a few more people," he noted. "I'd rather give these people jobs, but I have to look at costs."

Abuse of the unemployment compensation system plays a part, too. "When unemployment was at the highest," he recalls, "I needed a man to run a peanut drying machine. It would have paid $250 to $300 a week. I couldn't hire a single person. They would rather draw $80 in unemployment benefits every week and pick up food stamps."

As a small businessman, he learned firsthand the frustrations of trying to cope with unrealistic and ill-trained bureaucrats at all levels of government. In addition to OSHA, he has had problems with the Department of Agriculture, the Environmental Protection Agency, the IRS, and state authorities.

The experience has taught him a lot. He has learned that the cost to a business (and consequently, to society) of much government paperwork is greater than the benefits the government provides in exchange. He has accurately diagnosed a significant contributing factor to the welfare problem: "The trouble with the welfare program is that the more people they have on the payroll the more they hire, and the more they hire the more the director gets."

Above all, he still keeps in mind an important lesson that his brother seems to have forgotten since the election campaign: More people are against big government than any other one thing.

FACTS & FIGURES

According to experts at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, America's Gross National Product is likely to rise 4.5 percent from 1977 to 1978.

Professors Lawrence R. Klein, F. Gerard Adams and Richard M. Young, who form Wharton Economic Forecasting Associates (WEFA), also say we can expect a tax cut of approximately $20 billion in July of 1978.

WEFA expects total housing starts to exceed 1.97 million units in 1977, and to reach close to 2 million units in 1978.

Wharton School professors predict that total civilian employment will grow about 2.4 percent from the end of 1977 to the end of 1978. The unemployment rate is expected to decline to 6.5 percent by the end of 1978 and the average private compensation man-hour is expected to increase 8.4 percent.

Forester: Pivot Corners Perfect for Trees

By DAVE ANDERSON
Lower Elkhorn NRD Forester

In the past, the installation of the pivot system often required farmers to remove valuable trees. Now the corners left by center pivot systems can offer excellent areas for tree plantings.

There are many benefits as a result of planting trees in pivot corners. For instance, trees can offer livestock protection during winter grazing months, and at the same time, reduce the loss of irrigation water by blocking gusty winds.

By slowing down winds, corner trees also will reduce the amount of topsoil lost.

Two other major reasons to plant trees are: Serving as snow catchers to provide additional moisture to next year's crop; and providing food and cover for wildlife while beautifying the countryside.

The design of the planting depends upon its primary use. It can be adapted to fit most situations, including allowing for a corner system. Trees planted in all corners and along field edges provide the most protection to the field. For winter livestock protection, they must block the north and west winds.

A variety of trees and shrubs can be used, depending upon the amount of land available. If the entire corner can be planted, taller broadleaves and pines can be used, along with cedar and shrubs. With a corner system, there will probably be room for only the cedar and possibly shrubs.

Trees and planting costs average about $95 per acre for good protection. If the work is contracted, cost-sharing is available in most counties through the ASCS office.

Trees can be purchased from the Clarke-McNary program, and can be ordered through your county agent or the Soil Conservation Service. Your Natural Resources District can plant the trees and then spray them for weed control for you.

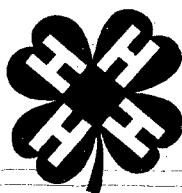

If you wish to plant next spring, begin planning now, and get your trees ordered. Your County Soil Conservation Service is available to help you plan and design the planting.

Feeders 'Stag' Set for Monday

Northwest Feeders Association will hold a membership meeting Monday night at the Black Knight in Wayne.

Paul Johnston, executive secretary of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association will speak on the merger and activities of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Social hour will begin at 6:45. All members who have paid their dues on or before the meeting will receive a free meal. Door prizes will be drawn.

Gingham Gals

The Gingham Gals 4-H Club met in the home of Shelly Emry Monday with 13 members and six mothers present.

The meeting was called to order by president Terri Melena. Roll call was called and the minutes of the past meeting were read by secretary Karla Ohe.

Club leader Mrs. Neil Sandahl reported on her trip to the 4-H Regional Leader Forum at the Iowa 4-H Camping Center near Madrid, Ia., and Anita Sandahl reported on a district 4-H meeting she attended in Norfolk.

Mrs. Sandahl reminded the girls that they have the opportunity to model garments they've made at the Wayne Women's Club Arts and Crafts show Feb. 4.

The public speaking contest was discussed and each girl was assigned a date to give her speech to the club. A team demonstration was given by Shelly Emry and Anita Sandahl on how to make peppermint cookies. The meeting was adjourned and lunch was served by the hostess.

Karen Sandahl, news reporter.

ASCS Proposed '78 Loan Rates

Farmers have until Jan. 20 to comment on commodity loan rates and target prices for 1978 crops proposed by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

New farm legislation specifies minimum loan and purchase rates for 1978 crops of $2 per bushel for corn and $2.35 per bushel for wheat, with loan rates for other feed grains set relative to corn, and the soybean loan rate set relative to competing commodities. These minimum levels may be adjusted downward to $1.80 per bushel for corn and $2.12 per bushel for wheat depending on the level of market prices.

The ASCS has established 1978 crop target prices of $3 per bushel for wheat ($3.05 if the crop is 1.8 billion bushels or less) and $2.10 per bushel for corn. Otherwise, target prices for other feed grains such as sorghum, barley and oats might be computed by relying on their traditional feeding value relative to corn, or by using cost production figures.

These two methods would produce target prices in the following range: sorghum, $2-$2.22, and barley, $1.71 to $2.26.

The Department of Agriculture also is considering the scale price policy for selling Commodity Credit Corporation acquired inventory. New legislation specifies that whenever a farmer-held reserve program is in effect, CCC cannot sell any of its inventory of wheat and feed grains (except for certain limited exemptions) at less than 150 percent of the current national average loan level for the applicable commodity. In the case of soybeans, the legal minimum CCC sales price is 105 percent of the current national average loan rate.

Under the loan and purchase programs, farmers put their commodity up as collateral for nonrecourse loans. When the loan matures, the farmer has the option of either repaying the loan (plus interest), forfeiting the commodity to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) in which case the loan will be considered paid in full, or entering into an extended loan program, if offered. Farmers may also sign purchase agreements that require CCC to buy the farmers' commodities at a fixed purchase level, identical to the loan rate. Comments should be addressed to the acting director, Production Adjustment Division, USDA ASCS, 3620 S. P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Pseudorabies Is Subject of ETV

A report on pseudorabies, a disease that affects hogs, will be examined on the Nebraska Educational Television Network's weekly agriculture series AGRI-SCOPE, airing tonight (Thursday) at 7:30.

The program will be repeated Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Probably one of the most devastating of hog diseases, according to officials, pseudorabies has recently become more prevalent, especially affecting younger pigs. AGRI-SCOPE will look at the history of pseudorabies, its symptoms and measures that can be taken to prevent herd infection.

Included in the report is an examination of the pros and cons of a federally licensed vaccine on the market that is being used to combat pseudorabies.

AGRI-SCOPE will also look at marketing problems facing cattle producers.
